NOT A CANDIDATE

Max Kaye told the Examiner this morning there was no truth in the rumor that he was likely to be a candidate for alderman. "I certainly believe that citizens should be prepared to do their duty, but we can't all serve with the city council."

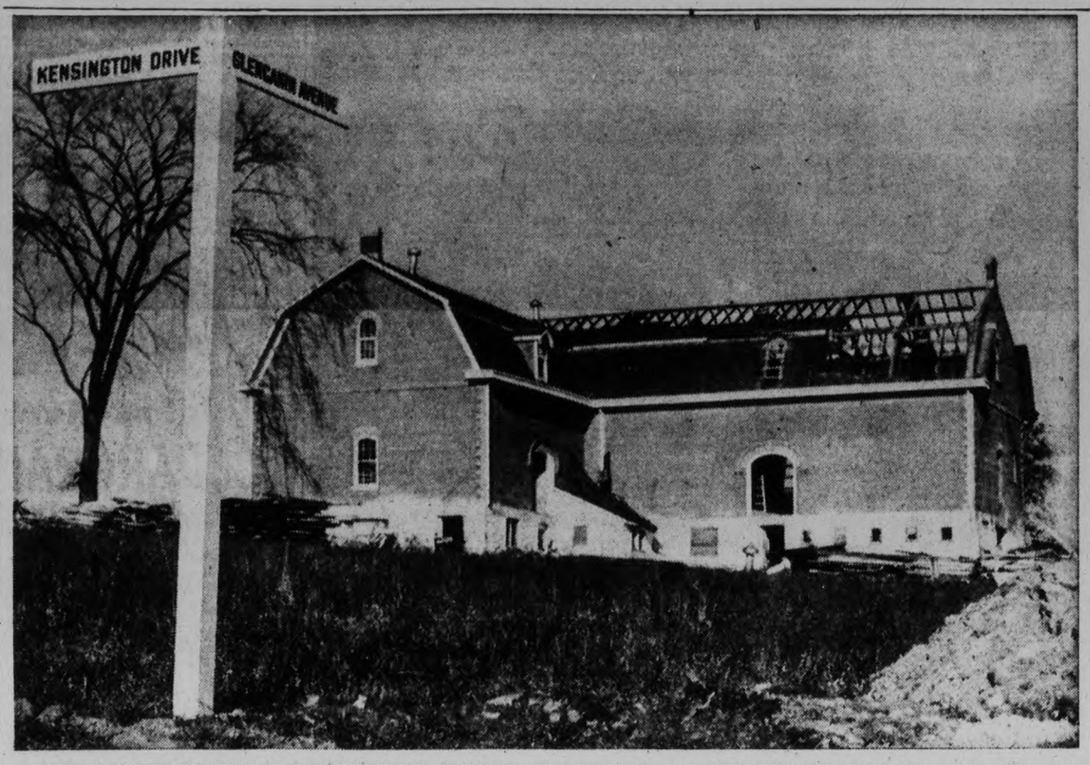
PUPPET SHOW

A puppet performance of "Babes in the Woods" will be presented in the boys and girls room of the public library Wednesday afternoon in connection with Young Canada Book Week. There will be two performances, beginning at 4.00 p.m. and 5.00 p.m.

WORK HALTED

Work on the Gannon Narrows causeway has been halted temporarily by soft roads. The heavy diesel-driven trucks used by the contractors have become mired frequently during the last two weeks. Work will resume when the freeze-up comes. Then roads will be hard enough to support the 17-ton vehicles.

WON FOUR TIMES



Kerrycroft Connemara Rogue, a nine-month-old kerry blue terrier owned by Mrs. Edith Macdougall, R.R. 8, Peterborough, was a four-time winner at the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto, on Friday. In its class the puppy was judged the best Canadian bred dog, the reserve winner dog, the best Canadian bred kerry dog and the best Canadian bred puppy.

WON AT ROYAL

Shady Valley Starky, a Beagle Hound owned by Mrs. W. Thompson Brown of Peterborough, won second and third placings in both the open and Canadian bred classes at the Royal Winter Fair dog show. It was an all breed championship with some 500 dogs completing. The dog, which appeared for the second time in the show ring, was handled by Miss Eileen Wilson.

NORTH HASTINGS MAPPED

The Department of Mines geological field party in north Hastings county completely mapped the townships of Monteagle and Carlow and started work on Dungannon and Mayo, during the past summer. The industrial deposits of nepheline synite, corundum, feldspar, graphite, marble and mica supposed to lie in this area are of particular interest in the industrial mining field. Dungannon township, especially, has produced several occurrences of uranium.

BUILDINGS GOING UP AND DOWN—While bulldozers, power shovels and carpenters busily start new homes in the Westmount Gardens sub-division near the Civic hospital, other workers begin tearing down the old barn on the former Hugh Stewart farm. Only several hundred feet away from one of the city's newest intersections, Kensington Drive and Glencairn Ave., workers gradually take the roof (above photo) off the barn, one of the few solid brick barns in the Peterborough district.

New Evidence Produced By Crown

Come As Surprise In Trial Of Rustling Charge

Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw, QC, produced a couple of surprise witnesses today as the trial of Charles Harrington, 53, of Ennismore began at the general sessions of the peace. Judge John de N. Kennedy is presiding.

The grand jury at 10.15 a.m. brought in a "true bill" against Harrington who is charged with stealing a heifer calf from his neighbor, John Sullivan of Ennismore. The petit jury was picked and the trial got underway shortly after 11 p.m.

The first surprise witness produced by Crown Attorney Bradshaw was Harvey Finley of Smith township. Finley said that he and his 14-year-old nephew, Kenneth Orgill, were out partridge hunting when the calf was shot in a field, half a mile from Harrington's home.

Finley, who testified under the protection of the Ontario and Canada Evidence Acts, said he had not shot the heifer calf. And he didn't know whether it was Harrington or Orgill that did it.

He recalled hearing Harrington say, earlier on the day of Oct. 18, 1953, "that there was a beef down there he'd like to have sometime." Finley didn't recall the accused may saying where this "beef" was or who owned it.

"I don't know whether he shot the calf . . . or whether he was shooting at chickens or anybody," said Finley. "I was behind them . . . I never get in front of anybody with a gun if I can help it."

SAW IT SHOT

Later Finley said he was separated from the other two in a section of bush when the heifer was shot. He did see the calf standing in an open field; after the shot it fell. He swore that he saw Harrington walk up to the mortally-wounded animal, cut its throat with a knife, and drag it to the fringe of some nearby woods.

Harrington skinned the heifer by himself and cleaned it; then he carried it back to his home, half-a-mile away, Finley said.

Cross-examined by Trevor Clarke defence counsel, Finley said he was was on a weekend visit at Harrington's place. The shooting of the calf occurred late Sunday afternoon and he and his wife and his nephew returned to their home Monday morning.

He conceded they had drunk "a couple of bottles of beer" before they started out. Later they got a case of beer from somewhere "up the lake".

"It would be fair to say that nobody was feeling any pain"? queried Mr. Clarke.

"Nobody was tight that I know of", the witness replied.

The heifer calf was in a cleared field with other cattle when the trio approached them through a bush. Because he was separated from the other two for a couple of minutes he couldn't see who fired the shot.

"If you saw Mr. Orgill (Finley's nephew who lives with him) shoot the calf you wouldn't be too anxious to give evidence in court against him, would you"? said Mr. Clarke.

"I don't remember who did the shooting," said Finley.

Watch Theft Case

Forty student nurses from Civic hospital went to the county courtroom to watch the trial of Charles Harrington, 48, of Ennismore township, charged with rustling a calf from a neighbor. The student nurses saw the grand jury, under their foreman, Morton Golumbia of Weller St., bring in a true bill against Harrington. Then they saw the selection of the jury and the beginning of the trial. Judge Kennedy has asked for groups to come and see the administration of justice and Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw, QC, arranged for the nurses to come and see a criminal trial.

Expect Delegates To Vote For Fred Young

Although no specific instructions have been issued by the local CCF association, it is expected five Peterborough delegates to the Ontario convention in Toronto next weekend will cast their votes for Fred Young as leader of the provincial party.

Only other announced candidate besides Mr. Young, political action representative of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL), is Andrew Brewin, Toronto Lawyer, who is also expected to contest the party leadership, left vacant by the resignation of E. B. Joliffe.

The local association as a whole has endorsed Mr. Young in a resolution. Peterborough's five delegates, Howard Miles, William Whibbs, Donald Rosenburgh, Irvin Yeo and Mrs. Yeo, joined in making the resolution unanimous, and it is expected they will vote the same next weekend.

Mr. Young has visited here on several occasions to address union meetings and attended two CCF party gatherings to speak prior to the federal election.

Born in Long Reach, N.B., he was at one time principle of a public school in Woodstock, N.B. He holds a master of arts degree from the University of Toronto and was a United Church minister for six years.

Mr. Brewin, too, has a connection with the district. His father, the Rev. F. H. Brewin, an Anglican minister, has owned a cottage on the Burleigh channel in Stony lake many years. Mr. Brewin often spends holidays at the lake.

City To Appeal Assessment

City council will appeal Douro's assessment of property on the east side of the river opposite the filtration plant, which was bought for the Utilities Commission.

City Solicitor Huycke informed the finance committee Monday night that the township's court of revision had disallowed the city's application for exemption of taxation on this property.

"We lost our case before the court of revision," Mr. Huycke said, "but I think we should bring an appeal before the county Judge."

Recollection is that the strip was bought from Mrs. P. Edwards by the city council for the Utilities Commission mainly to be held vacant because this land is opposite the intake of the waterworks, and new housing along that Douro shore would be detrimental to the city's water system.

Bylaw Valid Court Finds, Owner Fined

Open Hours Test Case Brings Conviction Against Z. Levine

Upholding the validity of city bylaw 2864, Magistrate R. I. Moore Monday convicted Zimel Levine, operator of the Muriel Specialty Shoppe, on a charge of staying open at night.

Charges were laid against several stores, alleging that they stayed open the evening of Sept. 11 contrary to a city bylaw. The charge against Levine was the first of the group to be heard. He was fined $20 and $20 costs.

In giving his decision, Magistrate Moore said he found the bylaw valid in that the petition for its legislation was signed by the required number of merchants of the type affecting the Levine store, and the city council had acted within the prescribed time limit.

The cadi also defined Muriel's as a ladies' wear store as distinguished from any definition such as a specialty shop which might give it immunity under the bylaw. "The heading on the sales slips deprived the accused of any distinction . . ."

Actions against the other ladies' wear stores were adjourned for three weeks at the request of defence counsel W. B. Gordon.

Service Station Site Approved

Supertest Petroleum Co. is buying the Michael Curtin property at the southwest corner of Monaghan Road and Frank St. for a service station.

The company's request to the city council for permission to build, received the approval of its finance committee Monday night. The corner lot is 100 feet on Frank St. and 96 feet on Monaghan Road. Two buildings on the lot are the house in which Mr. Curtin lives and his barber shop. The area is zoned for commercial purposes.

The recommendation that the application of Supertest for permission to build was moved by Aldermen Angelsey and Beggs.

Mr. Curtin has lived on that corner probably 40 years. To the north of Frank St. the Canadian General Electric Co. is levelling off the lower area of the former Waddell place for a parking space for employee cars.

Big maple trees at the northwest corner have been felled, and now across the way Supertest Co. has an option to buy the Curtin property and further alter the appearance of that corner.

Otonabee St. Renamed, Part Of Lansdowne St.

The name Otonabee St. is to be changed to Lansdowne St. east on a new map of the city which City Engineer Chalmers is preparing.

This proposal by the finance committee Monday night corrects a recent inadvertent omission from a list of other streets which are being renamed to prevent confusion in the delivery of mail and other business.

Sentiment of some of the residents east of the river preferred the retention of Otonabee St., but the city planning board recommended some time ago the official switch to Lansdowne St.

Lansdowne St. has been acquiring length in both directions, keeping pace with the growth of the city both west and east. Otonabee St. indicated separate entity, east of the river, although it is actually an extension of Lansdowne, and both of them are indicated on the highway map as No. 7-A and No. 7.

Publishing of advertisements announcing the proposed erasure of Otonabee St. will have to be made separately, from the list of others, City Solicitor Huycke told the committee Monday night. Instead of waiting until next year for action, the committee decided to get Lansdowne St. east on the new map at once.

That was Mayor Waddell's motion, seconded by Ald. H. T. Rehill. It also accepted the suggestion of Ald. A. B. Burrows that some change should be made in the similarly named streets, Thomas and St. Thomas, that were often a cause of confusion in business details.

Thomas is west of Park St., and between King and Bolivar streets. St. Thomas St. leads from Charlotte to Gilmour St.

Public Apathy, Threat To Our Existence—Judge

Continued public apathy toward the way our public affairs are run may result in the extinction of our race. Judge John de N. Kennedy repeated this warning when he addressed the grand jury at the general sessions of the peace. He said he had once before spoken to a grand jury on this theme but he felt so strongly about it that he wished to repeat it.

Year by year we have been watching the cold war between the Russians and the democracies; today we find that a large part of the world has been captured by the Russian ideology.

"If we continue to remain apathetic it may mean the extinction of our race," he said.

Civilizations have been wiped out before, and there is no good historical reason to believe ours could not go the same way.

The aims of Russian imperialism have been written in many books—just as Hitler's aims were written in Mein Kampf—but people remain apathetic to the threat to their civilizaion.

Judge Kennedy counselled against a "witch-hunt" and said that by taking an interest in our form of governmnt and the judicial system we would be supporting the bulwarks of our democratic system.

Probably not more than one per cent. of the people of Peterborough have ever taken the trouble to attend a meeting of the Peterborough City Council, the Legislature or the House of Commons. And probably only the same percentage ever entered a court of law to see how justice is administered.

He said again that he would welcome visits of individuals and groups to the county court. And, if given notice of their coming, would try to arrange the program so they could be informed in laymen's language what all the court procedure meant.

After giving the grand jury a brief history of the grand jury system, he instructed them on the part they would have to play in the administration of justice. They had one bill of indictment to consider: a charge of stealing a heifer laid against Charles Harrington of Ennismore Township.

It is the only criminal case that will be tried by a jury, assuming a "true bill" is brought in against Harrington. The grand jury's finding — whether Harrington should stand trial or not — is expected early today.

Four district people were given their Canadian citizenship certificates a short ceremony that followed. They were Mr. and Mrs. Jan Pieter Moes of 307 Pearl Ave a Dutch couple. Robert Desbarbiex of RR 7, formerly a French national; and Jacco Beckerman of 629 Charlotte St., a Russian national.

Four people who petitioned for citizenship were Velta and Albert Rokis, Wei Sien Chow and Aleksander Bloszczynski, all of Peterborough.

Only Six Hours To Pop Question

LONDON (CP)—British newspapers today splashed the story of two young Canadians who took just six hours to make up their minds about marriage.

Nine days ago Penny Austin, 21, of Hamilton, Ont., was selling Remembrance Day poppies in busy Leicester square. Adam Steinbach of Montreal, Trans-Canada Air Lines purser, bought one, saw a movie, came back to buy another and dated Miss Austin. He proposed six hours later.

SHOCKED BY U.K. PRESS

Miss Austin was born in London and emigrated to Canada at an early age.

She has appeared at the London Palladium in two pantomimes, "Cinderella" and "Puss in Boots," and is currently studying singing.

She and her fiance said they were shocked at the "trashy" way the British press handled the story of their romance.

'We just sort of got talking because we found out we were both Canadians," Miss Austin said. "Then Adam asked me to dinner, and proposed as I was seeing him off at the airport."

The wedding will be in about three months, probably in London.

Two Pedestrians Injured By Cars

Two pedestrians, an elderly man and a young girl, were injured in accidents on George St. Monday afternoon and night. Judith Weisberg, six, of 215½ King St., was treated at Civic Hospital for a fractured right leg, while Edward Clark, 65, of 356 Stewart St., was taken to St. Joseph's with multiple bruises.

The six-year-old girl ran out from the north curb of Charlotte St. at George into the side of a car driven east by Albert Clark, 42, of 56 Victoria Ave. She was thrown 12 feet by the impact and rushed to the hospital for treatment.

Leonard Phillips, 35, of 114 Robinson St., was turning left on to Hunter when his car struck Clark. The pedestrian was taken to St. Joseph's hospital for treatment of bruises to his left leg, arm and side.

PC John Conlin investigated both accidents.

Ballet Enchants Audience With Zest, Grace

BY T. J. ALLEN

It's not high brow, it's not low brow. It's just some enchanted evening, right here and now in Peterborough—Monday night and tonight. The National Ballet Company opened its second coast-to-coast tour in this city Monday evening. Never has a Peterborough stage in all the city's history been invested as flowingly with youth and beauty.

To have Peterborough chosen as the spring-board for the tour that takes the National Ballet Company from Halifax to Vancouver is a distinction which the city should chalk up in its annals. The first-night audience discovered that the finest in ballet in Canada could be had right in their own home town. They got for half the price and far more intimately and conveniently what the same company will be offering in Toronto mid-way through the tour. Tonight's performance should be a stand-out.

SENTIMENT AND FLESH

True, St. Peter's stage, as large as there is in town, is inadequate to full ballet. There were two pianos instead of an orchestra. The lighting equipment and decor of the company could be put into only limited use. But the true nature and joy and sentiment and flesh of the ballet surmount the staging limitations, because the dancers are young, lissom, expert, disciplined and devoted.

All is fresh, at the beginning of a new season and the second full one of this national company.

First came 'Les Sylphides', the great Michael Fokine ballet to Chopin's music and the most constantly danced of all. Despite the crowded stage (18 in the corps de ballet for the Nocturne) there was almost no sense of embarrassing crowding. The romanticism of the suite de danses was pervasive.

Next came pas de deux from 'Don Quixote'. How wonderfully mannered, forcefully momentous were Irene Alpine and Judy Gotshalks (both natives of Halifax). Loud applause. Great joy, great dancing.

SENSUOUS, DELICATE

The finest, to this viewer's eye, was Debussy's 'Afternoon of a Faun', with choreography by Celia Franca, artistic director of the company, and formerly Sadler's Wells ballerina (who, by the way, will dance tonight). Nijinsky danced this, and created it. Monday night in Peterborough Grant Strate was the 'Faun. The design and dancers renewed this famous ballet's sensuousness and its delicacy. The performance emotionally showed why 'Figaro' of Paris should have attacked the ballet, after its premiere, on moral grounds, and why Rodin came to its defence on aesthetic ones.

It was charming to see the pas de deux from Act 1 of the "Giselle", the oldest romantic survival in ballet. Lois Smith was the ballerina and David Adams the male dancer. They showed a fine sense of style, evoking its quaint period flavor and its precise grace. The music was not Adolphe Adam's (no great loss) but Burgmuller's.

These duo dances were better suited to the limited stage than ballet with the full corps. The artists had room for entrechats and other leaps.

The final number was Act II from "Coppelia"—the girl with the enamel eyes, music by Delibes. The decor for this was more elaborate than for the other dances. It is a charming dolldance, and funny. Perhaps this viewer was too exhausted from his excitement over the rest of the program to get the full humour of this last number, but it seemed to miss the comic beat, and it had fewer dancing thrills.

REFRESHINGLY YOUTHFUL

A remarkable and refreshing quality of the whole evening was given by the youthfulness of the company and their zest. The girls were lovely in shape, and feminine; the men strong and masculine. This is as it should be for the virility and sense of ballet. The contrast is essential.

Tonight: Swan Lake (II); Lilac Garden; Nutcracker (II). You do not need to know anything about ballet to be bewitched by ballet, as danced by the National Ballet Company.

The Movie Column

Many Actors In Army Show Now Top Stars

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Ten years ago this week a show called "Winged Victory" opened on Broadway. Today no producer could afford to assemble the distinguished alumni of that production.

The producer of "Winged Victory" was the United States Army air forces, and the proceeds went to army relief. The military charity reaped a sizeable profit, since the picture sale to 20th Century-Fox alone amounted to $1,000,000.

The show, the brainchild of Moss Hart, was a melange of music, comedy and sentiment. Perhaps its most notable feature was the cast, few members of which earned more than $80 a month. One of the players, Barry Nelson, was reminiscing about the show.

REMINISCING

Barry, now starring in "My Saturday nights, told about one of the members of the chorus whom he got to know well. This fellow was bitter about army life. Some people take out their troubles in drinking, but he ate. He reached around 300 pounds.

His name: Mario Lanza.

Another young man did a short monologue at the opening of the show and later imitated Carmen Miranda. He was an unknown then, but people now know him as Red Buttons.

LOTS OF OTHERS

Oh, there were lots of others . . . Peter Lind Hayes, then known principally as Grace Hayes' son . . . Edmond O'Brien, Karl Malden, who won an Oscar for "A Streetcart Named Desire" . . . Kevin McCarthy, who got a nomination for "Death of a Salesman" . . . .

Ray Middleton, who hit with Ethel Merman in "Annie Get Your Gun" . . . John Forsythe of films and "Tea House of the August Moon" . . . Eugene Conley of the Met . . . and others like Lon McCallister, Alan Baxter, Dave Rose, Joe Bushkin.

Also in the picture was a girl named Judith Tuvim. She's better known as Judy Holliday now.

PLAYED 6 MONTHS

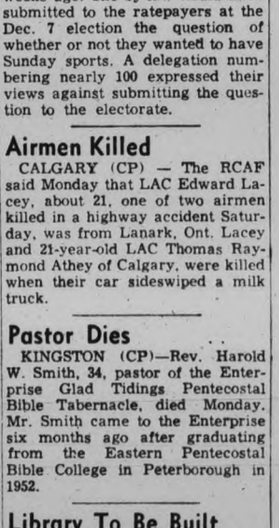
The show played six months in New York, and most of the actors were quartered at a hotel that had been taken over by the air force. A few were allowed to make their own homes, and Nelson admitted that he almost went broke with only his enlisted man's pay coming in.

Most of the cast stayed in tents in Santa Monica during the filming of the picture. A six-months' tour of the country followed. The show was then broken up and many of the cast went overseas capacities.

No Sunday Sport

PETROLIA (CP)—Petrolia town council Monday night rescinded a Sunday sport by-law passed three weeks ago. The by-law would have submitted to the ratepayers at the Dec. 7 election the question of whether or not they wanted to have Sunday sports. A delegation numbering nearly 100 expressed their views against submitting the question to the electorate.

Airmen Killed



CALGARY (CP) — The RCAF said Monday that LAC Edward Lacey, about 21, one of two airmen killed in a highway accident Saturday, was from Lanark, Ont. Lacey and 21-year-old LAC Thomas Raymond Athey of Calgary, were killed when their car sideswiped a milk truck.

Special Debate On Wheat Policy Likely This Week

OTTAWA (CP)—A special debate on the government's wheat-trading policies likely will take place in the Commons later this week.

Prime Minister St. Laurent indicated that arrangements will be made for the debate after opposition parties urged immediate action to find foreign markets for Canada's huge wheat surplus.

Such a debate is not ordinarily possible during discussion of the speech from the throne now being considered by members.

Mr. St. Laurent said Monday that Trade Minister Howe will make a statement to the Commons in a day or two on the wheat surplus problem. It may be desirable, he said, to make special arrangements at that time for full discussion of the matter.

The prime minister said he does not think that members should "deplore" the wheat surplus which has jammed country and terminal elevators. He said Canada this year harvested her second biggest wheat crop in history at a time when foreign storehouses were at bursting capacity.

MARKETS SMALLER

"This has meant that the purchases of new wheat, so far, have not been as large as they were in previous years," Mr. St. Laurent said.

Opposition Leader Drew criticized the government for what he described as its "noticeable silence about the critical situation resulting from the vast accumulation of unsold grain on the farms of the Prairie provinces."

Mr. Drew said the surplus is "not simply the result of three bumper crops."

"It is in a large measure the result of the government's failure to respond to repeated requests in this House and elsewhere to take the initiative in reopening the United Kingdom and sterling markets for grain and other primary products."

UGLEY, England (CP)—In an effort to bring some beauty to Ugley, the women of this small town in Essex are taking lessons in make-up at the municipal centre.

Coldwell 'Disturbed' By U.S. Book-Banning

OTTAWA (CP)—M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, told the Commons Monday he is greatly disturbed by reports that individual freedom of thought and speech is being "crushed" in some sections of the United States.

Mr. Coldwell was referring to a report from Indianapolis stating that a Republican member of Indiana's textbook commission had urged that the story of Robin Hood and all information about the Quaker religion be banned from schools. Mr. Coldwell said the commissioner had urged that such books be banned because they supported Communist propaganda.

Agnes Macphail Gets Poor Treatment: CCF

OTTAWA (CP)—M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, said Monday that Agnes Macphail, former CCF member of Parliament, had not been properly treated by her country.

Miss Macphail was the first woman elected to the House of Commons. She represented the ridings of Grey South East and Grey-Bruce for some 20 years.

Mr. Coldwell said in the Commons that Miss Macphail served the people of Canada well and "has deserved better at the hands of Canada than she has received."

Miss Macphail, he said, will long be remembered as one of the great exponents of penitentiary reform. The reform that had been implemented during the last few years were recommended by Miss Macphail during the time she sat in the Commons.

E. B. Jolliffe, retiring Ontario CCF leader, said in a telephone interview that Miss Macphail, through her long service in Parliament and later in the Ontario legislature, forfeited any claim to the superannuation pension to which she would have been entitled if she had followed her original career of school teaching.

She was a member of Parliament from 1921 to 1940 and sat in the Ontario legislature as CCF member for York East from 1943 to 1945 and from 1948 to 1951. Recently she has been in indifferent health but attended the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto last week.

Mr. Jolliffe said he hopes the pension plan for members of Parliament soon will be amended to include such persons as Miss Macphail who served as a member more than the required 17 sessions but who are not now members.

Early Start In Quebec May Cost Farmers Money

QUEBEC (CP)—Early start in Quebec wood-cutting operations may cost some 15,000 small-scale farmers thousands of dollars this year.

Many farmers supplement their income in the winter by cutting wood, but this year the lumber companies may not need their services.

It isn't that operations, which last year netted wood-cutters about $25,000,000, will be reduced. Experts estimate that 1952-53 production, about 5,950,000 cords of pulp wood and sawn lumber on crown lands alone, will be equalled, if not surpassed.

But some woodlands operators set up lumber camps in July and August when farmers were still harvesting their crops. By September, a month earlier than usual, wood-cutting was off to a quick start, and now there are some 60,000 men in the woods.

"It'll be a hard winter for the farmers," said Samuel Audet, vice-president of the Catholic Farmers' Union, which represents about 15,000 wood-cutters.

"The companies' growing tendency to start cutting operations early created a heavy demand for woodsmen. Many country youths who do not own farms were available to answer the demand for men."

Audet said that the operators found late summer and early fall cutting economical because there is no snow to clear for roads.

"But for farmers, who need additional revenue, it is not so good," he said. "There will not be much work for them this year."

The weather, too, has been favorable to early cutting.

"There hasn't been much rain," a Quebec government woodlands observer said. "That meant almost full-time cutting."

Insurance Has History Dating To Marco Polo

A film showing the history and development of fire insurance was presented to Rotarians at their weekly luncheon, Monday. Douglas Butt, a representative of the Continental Insurance Co., presented the film entitled, "Peace of Mind."

The idea of insurance originated in China and was brought to the western world by Marco Polo. When that adventurer visited China during the 13th century he discovered that boats travelling the Yangtze river gathered at the head of one particular stretch of rapids until a number of boats was present. Each captain then divided his cargo with the others and the flotilla proceeded down river. The project was based on the supposition that most of the boats would pass safely. When the rapids were passed, the boats collected and the various cargoes were resorted and stored in the proper boats. In this way almost everyone lost a little, but no one lost everything.

DEVELOPED IN BRITAIN

Marco Polo returned to Venice with the idea and it was carried out there by the various merchants who invested in ships travelling to the Americas. The practice of underwriting ships reached large proportions when Britain became the world's big naval power. It was after the great fire of London that the idea of fire insurance became reality. Huge insurance companies were formed and their policies were even sold in America. This practise ended with the war of 1812, but by 1839 American insurance companies were in existance. The first one was headed by Benjamin Franklin.

After the Chicago fire, Insurance companies realized that a fire-fighting organization was necessary in any large centre. Similar fires in Boston and New York brought about the development of such fire-fighting units, which were first subsidized by the insurance companies.

Large resources were put away by insurance companies, and for good reason. After the earthquake in San Francisco, Continental Insurance paid the sum of 222 million dollars for the restoration of homes and industry in that city.

The film closed with an example of how insurance may avert a seeming tragedy. A man, his wife and child were suddenlyy burned out, losing everything but the clothes on their backs. Their policy, however, not only included their home and belongings, but made provision for them while their home was being repaired. They were able to stay at the local hotel, expense free, for the time necessary before they could return home.

"SURFACE SOFTENED"
NEW WHITE SWAN says Softer

LISTEN! Make this test!

Hear the difference! Take two sheets of any ordinary tissue. Grasp between thumb and forefinger and rub the two sheets together. Hear that scratchy sound? That means this tissue is far from soft. You can hear its harshness!

Now, listen to New White Swan! Because it's "Surface Softened" what do you hear? Just a mere whisper that seems to say, "so soft, so soft" . . . and proves that New White Swan is so much softer . . . a better buy than ever!

"Surface Softening" is an amazing new process that gives a fluffier, softer outer surface to New White Swan . . . making it so much gentler, more absorbent! Yet it still keeps the firmness and strength you expect of White Swan, Canada's largest-selling tissue.

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Dr. Mary Macfadyen Netter, specialist in women's diseases, has retired from the practice of medicine because she's in an advanced stage of a disease for which no cure has ever been found: antiques fever.

Dr. Netter has the usual symptoms—a giddy, light - headedness when in proximity to anything made in 1853 or earlier, absolute disregard of money when confronted with an item of interesting vintage, shape or condition of disrepair and complete inability to talk, think or concentrate on anything except antiques. She also has a unique symptom: a passion for beat-up French telephones.

The patient is married to a doctor, has five children ranging from college age to Roy Rogers fan, and her present occupation is owner of an antiques shop, "the Gold Dolphin," on New York's Third avenue.

Prior to the second world war, Dr. Netter was practising medicine and raising a family.

Her promising medical career ended the day she and her husband, Dr. Frank Netter, moved from a seven-room apartment into an 18-room town house.

"Until then," recalls Mrs. Netter, "I didn't know anything about furniture. Someone told me the house was French. The apartment had been furnished in early ignorant, a combination of clutter and English. I put it all in the cellar and started to haunt antique shops."

STARTS ANTIQUE BUSINESS

By the time the 18-room house was suitably furnished Mrs. Netter knew an ormulu from a wing-back and was diagnosing furniture ailments as skilfully as she used a stethescope. Then, scarcely five years ago, the Netters purchased a 32-room home in Oyster Bay.

Today antiques cram several floors of the Gold Dolphin building. Mrs. Netter has a staff of eight, a list of customers which sounds like a register of show business and society, and a raft of old-fashioned French telephones.

The vogue in French phones, amazing to anyone who has ever been forced to cope with the French telephone system, also started accidentally.

In May, Mrs. Netter went on her first European buying spree with French —phones high on her shopping list—to supply the demand. She brought back a large collection, from early 20th century pieces to more modern ones—none with dials.

"The French," she reports, "think I am crazy. No one saves French telephones in France." The French phones are selling and renting like crazy, which puzzles Mrs. Netter because they are really good only for incoming calls.

Turner-Avery

COLDSPRING — (ENS) — A pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Avery, Coldsprings, Saturday afternoon when their only daughter, Margaret Elizabeth Avery, Reg. N. became the bride of Robert Earl Turner of Plainville. The Rev. V. M. Gilbert performed the ceremony.

To the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march played by Miss Edith Hoskin, the bride entered the living room on the arm of her father who gave her in marriage. She wore a floor length gown of white nylon net over satin, the bodice and bolero of nylon lace was trimmed with sequins. Her fingertip veil of silk nylon was held in place with a tiara of seed pearls, and she carried a cascade of red roses and stephanotis.

Miss Josephine McDonald of Oshawa, was bridesmaid and wore a gown of blue satin, bolero style, with net overskirt. Her headdress was blue forget-me-nots, and she carried a semi-cascade of pink roses and stephanotis. Little Elaine Baptist, made a charming flower girl in a floor length gown of rose taffeta, with headdress of rose carnations, and she carried a nosegay of rose carnations and stephanotis.

Groomsman was Mr. Morley Turner, of Toronto, brother of the groom.

Before the ceremony Miss Helen Ritchie of Camborne sang, "I'll Walk Beside You" and during the signing of the register she sang, "The Wedding Prayer."

A buffet luncheon was served to the 50 guests by Misses Murdza Ziemelis, of Oshawa, Jaqueline Gibson of Cobourg, and Dorothea and Jean Bowman of Coldsprings, assisted by Mesdames C. Baptist, C. Bowman and J. Gordon.

After the reception the couple left for points east, the bride travelling in a navy dress, grey wool coat and navy accessories. She wore a corsage of pink carnations. They will live on the groom's farm at Plainville.

DOROTHY DIX

Wife Begrudges Husband One Night Out Weekly

DEAR MISS DIX: My husband is a fine, industrious man. He has a day job and also works at night He never fusses about anything, is devoted to his children, helps around the house and gives me everything he can. We've been married 16 years. He's a very quiet man. Well, here's the problem. On Saturday night, instead of coming directly home from work, he stays out three or four hours. He says there's no other woman. Friends have seen him in a neighborhood restaurant just sitting and drinking coffee. I'm so lonely I can't stand it; we never go out together and I worry so much over this Saturday night affair.

W. M.

MODEL HUSBAND

ANSWER: You have a paragon of a husband, lady, and just don't realize it. His only fault is a need for occasional solitude, which you begrudge him. A man who holds two jobs, helps around the house and manages to keep a good disposition with it al surely is entitled to a few hours a week for himself. He couldn't spent the time more harmlessly. Of course, it would be more companionable if he asked you to join him during these hours, but there are folks who absolutely need a little meditating time now and then. Are you, perchance, the talkative type who must keep conversation going constantly? If you are, and your man is by nature quiet, your difficulty might be solved if you let him enjoy his seclusion at home. Don't nag him over his small defection; try to learn tactfully why he wants to be alone. Then, if possible, remedy the situation so that it will include you.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Is it wise for a girl to pretend she doesn't like a boy when she really does? Would this keep him more interested?

Veronica.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Males, life females, are unpredictable creatures on the whole. Some boys might find it amusing to make a conquest of a disinterested girl, but most young men prefer a bit of encouragement. Pretending one thing while you feel another is a form of deceit which is better avoided.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Two years ago, when I was 27, I married a man almost twice my age. Ever since our marriage I've been seeing a man I've known all my life. He's still single, and claims he loves me. We only go to the movies or an occasional dance.

Ethel.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Either stop seeing the other man, or tell your husband how you feel about your friend. Carrying on a sneaky affair, even though it's not too serious yet, is abominable. At least be honest with your husband; he's very good to you.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: A few months ago I had an accident which left me crippled. Before the accident, I was engaged, and the girl feels now that we should go ahead with our marriage plans. I'm not sure I could afford to give her the comforts she should have, and perhaps she could make a better marriage.

S. W.

ANSWER: It's up to the girl to make that decision. With two recent wars behind us, there are many young men who have successfully married in spite of handicaps. If marriage with you is what the lady wants, and you are both sure of your love for each other, call the preacher.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Canadian Apples Are Dessert Standbys

A happy-go-lucky gal who is a friend of mine said that Bob (her good-provider husband) had bought a barrel of Spy apples, and so it was up to her to see that they were used.

She looked at me queerly and said "I came over here to ask you for a few apple ideas but I don't think I need them. I know very well you will say to serve them differently every time, but I want to make lots of apple pies."

It was fine with me, but a week later she was back. She really wanted the apple recipes this time, for she got the apple pies out of her system. I gave her a fistful of apple recipes.

Because she made me apple-conscious I made Apple Yorkshire Pudding. We have two powdered sugar-shakers. One is cut glass, the other is silver. They are the two most superfluous pieces of equipment in our house. When I could use the silver one it is never polished.

So Apple Yorkshire Pudding gave me a chance to drag it out, polish it and use it.

APPLE YORKSHIRE PUDDING

In a bowl beat 2 eggs with rotary beater until light and very thick. Sift flour and measure ½ cup and sift it again with ¼ teaspoon salt. Measure ½ cup whole milk and stir half of it into the flour and stir until smooth then add remainder of the ½ cup of milk. Stir in the beaten eggs until smooth. Fold in 2 large thinly sliced apples. In 8-inch baking dish melt 4 tablespoons butter, in the oven (which should be set at 425 deg. Fahr:) When butter is bubbling pour in the batter and bake 30 minutes. This contains no sweetener so serve with powdered sugar. Old inquisitive Pete tried it with maple syrup and with maple sugar, and liked it all 3 ways. Marianne added a little extra butter. I used a little pouring cream. It makes 6 servings no matter how you dress it up.

STANDARD APPLE CRISP

Slice 8 pared and cored apples into a buttered baking dish. Pour ½ cup hot water over them. Sift flour and measure 1½ cups and add to it ¾ cup white or brown sugar and 1 teaspoon cinnamon. Cut into it ½ cup butter or margarine until fine. Spread flour mixture smoothly over apples and bake at 375 deg. Fahr. for about 45 minutes. This is at its best served warm with pouring cream.

LETTER: . . . Ruth H. asked for . . . Boston Cream. My mother used to make that when I was a child . . . I am giving her recipe in case you want to pass it on . . . Estelle G.

Make a syrup of 4 lbs. white sugar and 4 quarts water by boiling. When cold add 4 oz. tartaric acid, 1½ oz. essence of lemon, 6 egg whites beaten stiffly. Bottle. Use 4 tablespoons Boston Cream to a tumbler of water with about ¼ teaspoon of bicarbonate of soda or enough to make it effervesce.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Thank you Estelle. I hope Ruth H. sees this.

✧ ✧ ✧

QUESTION: . . . I must learn to make good doughnuts . . . my beau thinks that no one can make doughnuts like his Mother's . . . you know "The path to a man's heart . . . "! T. C.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: I hope these help you catch your man.

DOUGHNUTS

(cake-type)

In a bowl beat 4 egg yolks or 2 whole eggs until thick, then beat in 1 cup sugar and 2 tablespoons very soft shortening. Stir in ¾ cup thick buttermilk (or sourmilk). Sift all-purpose flour and measure 3½ cups and sift it again with 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon soda, ½ teaspoon salt and ¼ teaspoon each cinnamon and nutmeg. Stir into egg and sugar mixture. Chill this dough thoroughly—at least 2 hours. Heat fat to depth of 3 or 4 inches in heavy kettle to 390 deg. Fahr. (a cube of bread browns in fat in 40 seconds at this temperature). While fat is heating roll out 1-3 of the dough on floured board to 1-3-inch thickness. Keep remaining dough cold. Slip cut out doughnuts into fat from wide spatula, frying only as many at one time as may be turned readily. As they rise to the surface and show color underneath turn over. Fry about 3 minutes. Lift out on long fork without pricking. drain a second and cool on absorbent paper. If you care to, just before serving, shake doughnuts, one at a time, in paper bag containing icing or granulated sugar. These amounts make 2 dozen 3-inch doughnuts.

Anna Russell To Give Concert

ANNA RUSSELL

Anna Russell, the international concert comedienne from Toronto, who makes her first Peterborough appearance next Monday, began her serious musical training on a scholarship to the Royal College of Music in London, England.

Today Miss Russell uses her exacting training and background of experience in the world of serious music as a basis for spoofing the various facets of the long-haired music world. Her Peterborough program opens the 1952-53 Community Concert series.

ACID SATIRE

No one in the world of music is safe from the acid satire of la Russell—from Brunhilde's meaty bellows to the lacey coloratura. From torch singers a la Piaf to the handkerchief-waving of a Hildegarde, from the serious concert pianist to an improvisor of jazz—they are all found in Anna's repertoire.

On witnessing one of the annual Toronto concerts in famed Massey Hall, the dean of Canadian critics said, "The pity is that the offenders she satirizes will never hear nor see themselves as she reveals them."

So flexible a star is Miss Russell that she has included radio, TV, and straight dramatic roles in legitimate productions as well as concerts in her many-sided career. Her first Broadway revue opened last Labor Day, following eight sold-out New York Town Hall appearances last season. However, following severe reviews, the show failed to stay on Broadway.

Dismiss Charges Against Youths

HAMILTON (CP)—Charges of criminal negligence against Rocco Papalia, 19, Giusseppe Fazzari, 20, and Joseph Fazzari, 22, were dismissed by Magistrate John Robinson this morning.

The charges had been laid in connection with the Saturday morning death of 18-year-old Shirley Telfer, who died after being struck by a train northwest of Hamilton.

A. L. Shaver, QC, appearing for the crown, said that he would offer no evidence.

UNDER WITNES BONDS

Each of the three was placed under a bond of $1,000 to appear as a witness at an inquest into the girl's death which will be held Monday noon in the Greensville town hall.

Dr. W. J. Deadman, city pathologist, announced this morning that the death of Miss Telfer was due to the injuries which she received when struck by the train. Dr. Deadman has almost completed the post-mortem but still has a few tests to make.

High Test Gas Leaks Into Toronto RR Yard

TORONTO (CP) — High octane gasoline leaking from an 8,000-gallon railway tank car today caused police and firemen to cordon off an area of the Canadian National Railways yards at Front and Bathurst streets.

Precautions against a possible fire or explosion were taken after the tank car was derailed early today by a shunting locomotive. Police diverted automobile traffic from the west end area, just north of Lake Ontario and a half mile east of the Canadian National Exhibition grounds.

A police guard was set to prevent pedestrians from throwing matches or cigaret butts from a bridge crossing the railway tracks.

Kitchener Girl Wins Two Festival Awards

GUELPH (CP)—An 11-year-old Kitchener girl who broke her wrist a week before last year's Guelph Kiwanis music festival, was a double winner as the week-long festival got under way Monday.

The girl, Constance Jadeski, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Jadeski, Kitchener, competed against 38 others in the class for piano solo, 11 years and under, and won first place and a gold medal.

Competing then in the Bach piano solo class for pianists 12 years and under, she placed first again. Last year, playing with one wrist in a cast, she was able to bring home a third prize.

Queen Receives Vanier

LONDON (CP) — The Queen today received in audience at Buckingham Palace Maj.-Gen. G. P. Vanier, retiring Canadian ambassador in France, and Mrs. Vanier. General Vanier, whose impending retirement was announced Monday, is in London on a short visit.

Urges Escape Clause In Jap Trade Treaty

TORONTO (CP)—The president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association said today that Canada should insert an "escape clause" in a proposed trade treaty with Japan, allowing her to suspend or change any part of the treaty on 15 dyas notice.

J. D. Ferguson of Rock Island, Que., releasing the contents of a letter to Prime Minister St. Laurent, said some Canadian industries already have been seriously affected by cheap Japanese imports. He said the proposed trade treaty should make no changes in tariffs on items with which Japan has gained a substantial share of the Canadian market.

$1,205 Of Theft Loot Discovered At Hearst

KAPUSKASING, Ont. (CP)—Police said Monday night that $1,205 from an $11,000 robbery has turned up in Hearst, 60 miles west of here.

An unidentified Hearst resident picked up a bundle containing $1,200 in new $5 and $10 bills near the railway station. Another $5 bill was received by a Hearst dairy.

The bills were part of a $11,000 shipment of new bills stolen from the express office here Nov. 7. The money was shipped from Ottawa for the Imperial Bank here, was signed for at the express office but missed shortly afterwards.

New Evidence

NAMES HARRINGTON

Finley's 14-year-old nephew gave a somewhat different version of the shooting. He put the finger directly on Harrington. And he gave hazy testimony about hearing Harrington talk of "revenge" earlier in the day. A calf was mentioned in the same conversation.

"I heard Charlie (i.e. Harrington) say something about a calf," said Orgill. "We were in the kitchen in his house at the time. Then he said he was going to get some revenge on somebody . . . There was a calf down in the field someplace and he was going to get it."

Orgill claimed that he carried the rifle part of the time but Harrington took it long before they came to the cow pasture. When they got to the pasture Harrington shot the heifer, cut its throat, skinned it, and carried it home—piece by piece—all by himself.

When court adjourned at 1 p.m. Mr. Clarke was preparing to cross-examine Orgill.

Boys' Ghost Story Attracts Curious New Yorkers

OGDENSBURG, N. Y. (AP)—Crowds of curious are watching the "Parish house," a 152-year-old mansion now a museum, for a glimpse of a ghostly lady in white.

The lady exists, take the word of three small boys and a reporter who checked their story.

According to the account, the white-robed lady, carrying candles, came down the staircase and headed for the door. The boys ran.

The figure is supposed to be that of America Vespucci, a Florentine noble woman descended from Americus Vespucci, explorer for whom the continent was named.

The boys, admittedly bent on mischief, said they crept onto the porch of the mansion last Monday night and the vision came floating down the stairway. A newspaper man made the same visit Saturday night and said he saw the white-robed figure.

BEAUTY CHANGED MASTERS

Legends mixed with historical fact portray America as a famed beauty who changed masters on a "double or nothing" gamble.

She came to the United States to petition Congress for land she claimed was hers by virtue of Americus' explorations.

America became a glittering figure in Washington society until she was identified as the former mistress of the dauphin, eldest son of King Louis Philippe of France.

Then she became the companion of John van Buren, son of President Martin van Buren.

Van Buren and America came to Ogdensburg one winter day more than 100 years ago while the president's son was sealing a real estate deal with John Parish, a wealthy land owner.

The men fell to gambling. The president's son lost all his money, then all his property. Parish proposed a "double or nothing" wager and wound up with the highest stake of all—America herself.

That's the way the story goes. Ogdensburg women were cool to America and she returned to Paris, where she died in 1868.

Hold Judgment On Jelke Ban

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—The court of Appeals Monday reserved decision on the appeal by a group of newspapers and two wire services challenging the right of a judge to bar the press and public from part of the vice trial of Minot F. Jelke last February.

Judge Francis J. Valente of New York City's general sessions court ordered newspaper men and spectators barred from the courtroom during presentation of the prosecution's case in the trial of the oleo heir on charges of compulsory prostitution and conspiracy.

Valente held that the testimony would offend public morals and decency. His order was upheld by the appellate division in a split decision.

Five New York City newspapers and the United Press and International News Service protested the ban.

Imports Affect Textile Workers

OTTAWA (CP) — Delegates of the Textile Workers' Union of America (CIO-CCL) presented a brief to the cabinet Monday and then heard J. Harold d'Aoust, the union's Canadian director, call for import restrictions on textiles.

Mr. d'Aoust told the nearly 300 delegates that the government could relieve what he called the present depressed state of the textile industry and the resulting unemployment by imposing restrictions on imported textiles.

He charged the government with discrimination against the textile industry. The union realized that Canada needed foreign trade, but it should not be channelled into one industry.

NO CHARITY

"We want work; we don't want charity," he said.

Unemployment in the textile industry had reached 10,000 persons now with thousands more on short time. "We have been hurt and hurt plenty," he said.

The union delegates supported Mr. d'Aoust's call for import restrictions and also passed a resolution protesting the proposed admittance of Japan as a favored nation enjoying "virtually unrestricted and tariff-free trade" with Canada. Canadian mills could not hope to compete with the low Japanese prices.

The "favored-nation" proposals are contained in a trade agreement now being negotiated between Canada and Japan.

Waterloo Twp. Reports No Cases Of Relief

KITCHENER (CP) — Prosperity has apparently come right around the corner in Waterloo township —there are no relief cases.

Frank Heffron, relief officer, told township council Monday night the last case was settled last week. A husband who owed more than $700 for support of his family was picked up in Windsor on an old bench warrant.

The man was returned to the county jail, managed to raise the sum and was freed. In non-support cases, the township must pay relief to the family and collect from the husband.

Orillia Church Burns Mortgage For $13,000

ORILLIA (CP) — A mortgage-burning service to celebrate the freeing of Bethel Baptist church from debt was held Monday night. The mortgage was incurred in 1952 for a $13,000 addition to the church.

Rev. Robert Guthrie conducted the service and special speakers included A. R. Alloway, Oshawa, vice-president of the Fellowship of Evangelical Baptist Churches in Canada.

William Henry Long

Funeral service for the late William Henry Long, 80, of 168 River Road, who died in hospital Friday following a prolonged illness, was held on Monday at the Comstock funeral home.

The Rev. M. W. Heslip of Madoc officiated and pallbearers were: Jim Downing, Cress Billings, Howard Hall, Stan Douglas, Ed Curtis and Edgar Simmons. Burial was at Little Lake cemetery.

Spring Weather Bound For East

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Spring-like weather that set records in Ontario and Manitoba is on its way to the Maritimes, the weatherman said today.

The warm air that gave Winnipeg a record Nov. 16 high of 57 Monday is gradually moving eastward and should brighten eastern skies Wednesday.

Northwestern Ontario showed record high temperatures at the Lakehead, Armstrong and Kenora Monday. Toronto is expected to have a high of 65 today—highest Nov. 17 since 1865.

But Ontario will feel more seasonal cold before long. The weather office reports that a rapidly-moving disturbance from the Pacific ocean crossed the rockies Monday night. Behind follows cool air. It is expected to hit Ontario tonight.

The Prairies had a mixture of cloud, rain and snow in different sections today but British Columbia weather improved. The Maritimes also had— clouds, rain and a little snow today.

Coldest spot in Canada Monday night was Yellowknife, N.W.T., with 17 degrees.

Frost To Officiate At St. Kitts' Hospital

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Premier Frost will officiate Wednesday at the opening of a new high school and the new wing of the St. Catharines General Hospital.

The hospital wing includes a 22-bed psychiatric unit, a pilot scheme for treating mental patients. The 18-room Queen Mary senior public school has been in operation since September and is the first of three such schools planned for the city.

Mutchmor Asks Stand Against Legal Lottery

TORONTO (CP) — Dr. J. R. Mutchmor, secretary of the board of evangelism and social service of the United Church of Canada, asked Toronto Centre presbytery today to take a firm stand against legalized lotteries.

"Those who advocate them, including Mayor Allan Lamport, (of Toronto) must be opposed," he said.

"Legalized lotteries have been tried many times in the past 300 years and always with evil results. The charitable causes for which they are allegedly organized have benefitted only slightly," said Dr. Mutchmor.

Happy To Die, UK Man Hanged For Slaying

LIECESTER, England (Reuters) Joseph Christopher Reynolds, 31, was hanged here today for strangling a 12-year-old girl last May.

His trial had lasted four minutes. He pleaded guilty and said: "I deserve the extreme punishment for my crime. I can only say I am happy to meet my death."

Mrs. A. Stanger Church Worker Dies In Hospital

Well-known for her work in church and women's groups in the city, Mrs. Ada Stanger, 163 Sophia St., died today in her 84th year at St. Joseph's hospital after a short illness.

A member of St. John's Anglican church, Mrs. Stanger took an active part in Sunday school work and women's activities as a member of the Afternoon Branch of the Women's Association, the Women's Church Year and as superintendent of the juniors.

In women's city groups she was a member of the Local Council of Women, a life member of the National Council of Women and a member of the Golden Mile Club.

Apart from her work in these groups, Mrs. Stanger was well-known for the happy manner in which she carried out her duties.

Born in Halifax, she was the daughter of the late Henry Moore and Lucy Kaye; her husband, who predeceased her 18 years ago, was Nelson Stanger. She had lived in Peterborough since 1923 coming to the city from Leeds, England.

Surviving her are a son, James Nelson Stanger and a sister, Mrs. Elsie Wheater, both of Peterborough.

The funeral service will be conducted Thursday at 2 p.m. at the Comstock funeral home by the Ven. Archdeacon W. P. Robertson. Burial will be in Little Lake cemetery.

Guelph Choir Wins In Festival

GUELPH (CP) — St. George's boys' choir of Guelph carried off the Gregory Challenge Shield for the best boys' choir of unchanged voices in competition Monday night marking the opening of the Guelph Kiwanis music festival.

John Dell of Niagara Falls was the winner of the gold medal in the open tenor solo class.

Shirley Pethes, London, who won first in a Bach piano solo competition for those 14 years and under, came back to win the Guelph Rotary Club Challenge Trophy, over the winners of three other classes.

In the open soprano solo class, Elaine Chandler, Hamilton, was the gold medalist, with Mary Jane McMahon, Preston, second and Reita C. Cuthbert, Brampton, third.

REPEATS WIN

Mimi Johnston of Hamilton took home the G. B. Ryan Co. award for her singing in a foreign language. She won the same trophy in a similar event in 1949. Other winners in the class were Marilyn McCready, Hamilton, and Doreen Stewart, Puslinch.

For the ladies' duet competition, Mary Jane McMahon, Preston, and Elaine Gehiere, Hespeler, captured the first award, with Eleanor Schenk and Sylvia Lambert, Georgetown, second, and Donna McMillan of Rockwood and Leanne Darrow of Georgetown third.

In the Bach piano solo section for contestants 12 years and under, Constance Jadeski, Kitchener, was gold medalist.

Belleville Woman Dies After Crash

BELLEVILLE (CP) — One woman was killed and three men suffered undetermined injuries today when a car and an army truck towing a field gun collided three miles west of Picton in heavy fog.

Mrs. Henry Prinzen, 23, of Belleville, a passenger in a car police said was driven by her husband, was killed. Injured were her husband, her brother, John Huizenga and a cousin, A. Prinzen. Police said the accident occurred after the Prinzen vehicle turned out to pass another car.

No one was injured in the army truck, from the Royal Canadian School of Artillery at Picton, 15 miles southeast of here.

All-Canadian Pipeline Gets Timmins Approval

TIMMINS (CP)—A resolution by Port Arthur city council that the east-west gas pipe line be entirely inside Canadian borders was backed by town council Monday night.

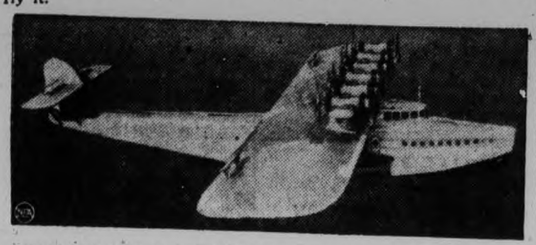
No Room For 2, Says Plumbers Union Head

TORONTO (CP)—Martin P. Durkin, head of the AFL Plumbers and Steamfitters Union and former secretary of labor in the United States, said Monday night that unions now have reached the point where there is no longer room for two organizations in the same field.



In an interview Mr. Durkin, in Toronto to attend a testimonial dinner for John Bruce, a general organizer of the union in Canada, said union rivalry and union raiding today is a costly extravagance, resulting in casualties for the battling unions and weakening both victor and loser.

Mr. Durkin said he is sure that the anti-raiding pacts between the AFL and CIO and their affiliates can lead to a merger of the AFL and CIO.

Aircraft Pioneers Tell Of Many Early Bloopers

BLERIOT'S CHANNEL PLANE: Nobody else could ever fly it.

GERMANY'S DOERNIER DO-X: Like an ornery ten-horse team.

By GEORGE TRAINOR

WASHINGTON— (NEA) —Can pioneers make mistakes?

"No," says Count Gianni Caproni of Italy, "anything a pioneer does is in the direction of progress and cannot be considered an error."

"Yes," say the rest of aviation's star-studded international cast of flight pioneers, assembled in America for the 50th anniversary of powered flight celebration.

And thus was launched one of the most multi-lingual discussions ever heard in cosmopolitan Washington. Germany's Prof. Dr. Willy Messerschmitt, Baron Wahis of Belguim, Mexico's Gen. Juan Azcarate, M. Charles Dollfus of France and Sir Alliott Roe of England were a few of the pioneers who got in their licks concerning aviation's biggest bloopers.

Some of the duds of the past that came in for appraisal by the experts included the Barling bomber of the 1920's which had six Liberty engines and a top speed of 95 miles per hour. It was abandoned when the plane's backers tried to fly it West for an exhibition and found they couldn't get it up over the mountains around Pittsburgh.

The Doernier DO-X, built by the Germans in the early 30's, was also pretty ornery. Pilots who flew it from Germany to America and back in 1931 said flying it was like trying to drive a ten-horse team with one pair of reins.

FATAL ERROR

Heads were uncovered when the Bonney Gull Wing was mentioned. Its inventor felt sure a plane with wings like a sea gull could fly. He killed himself in the craft on an early test flight trying to prove it.

And on they went down the line of technological lemons — early B-17 bombers without tail turrets which made them sitting ducks for attacks from the rear, flying autos which were lousy planes and even worse road cars, all-wooden flying boats and fighters which couldn't withstand the strain of high-speed flying.

On a more personal basis the pioneers chuckled at some of their own errors. General Azcarate told how he invested his money in an aircraft plant in Mexico only to find the country couldn't support an aviation program. "I had to go into motion picture business to get my money back," he added somewhat sadly.

Messerschmitt, the inventor of the German ME-109 of World War II fame, conceded that his biggest mistake came from being an engineer who knew too little about human nature. He feels now that others reaped the advantages from his developments while all he ever got was public censure after Germany's defeat.

In retrospect, Lt. Gen. Baron Theo Wahis, Belgium's one-armed World War I ace, shuddered when he thought of the number of four-hour recon missions he flew in planes with French engines.

"Those engines," said Wahis, "had the most discouraging habit of quitting after an hour or so of flight time over enemy lines."

"That's nothing," said Charles Dollfus, the curator of the French Air Museum. "No one else has ever been ably to fly the plane which my countryman, Bleriot, flew across the English Channel in 1909. It is still in perfect working order but no one has the flying ability to get it off the ground."

Mohawks On Legal Warpath Over Ancient Treaty Rights

OTTAWA (CP)—Flumed Mohawk braves followed a legal warpath Monday and their counsel hinted that peace between Indian and white man may end in a state of war if Canada breaks ancient treaties and abrogates the red men's rights.

Adrian T. Hewitt of Ottawa told the Exchequer Court of Canada that Parliament must not be allowed to cut down rights given to Indians in old treaties.

If it does, then Canada may find herself in a situation similar to that which existed when there was a "state of war" with the Indians in pioneer days.

Mr. Hewitt and chief counsel Gordon F. Henderson, also of Ottawa, sought to have the court rule that the government must honor the Anglo-American Jay Treaty of 1794, giving Canadian Indians the right to bring in personal goods from the U. S. duty-free.

BUYS U.S. GOODS

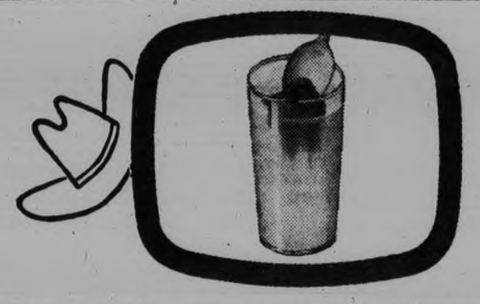
The test case stemmed from revenue department action forcing Indian Louis Francis of St. Regis, Que., to pay $125.66 in custom duties on a washing machine, oil heater and refrigerator he purchased on the American side of the border reservation.

The 31-year-old welder and U. S. naval war veteran not only wanted his money back, but counsel wanted the court to make clear that Canada's 136,000 Indians can do their shopping in the U. S. without fear of customs levies on returning home.

The Jay Treaty, named after George Washington's chief justice, John Jay, makes clear that the duty-free purchasing power was given to Indians, but only on personal goods "not unusual to Indians."

Mr. Henderson brought witness after witness to testify that washing machines, oil heaters and refrigerators have become essential parts of reservation living.

USE MODERN THINGS



"Washing machines are a must," said Kelvin Adams, a Chippewa brave from Sarnia. His own home at Sarnia contains a television set, vacuum cleaner, pop-up toaster, heater, refrigerator, washing machine, portable oven and a couple of radios, he said.

Andrew Paull of North Vancouver, president of the North American Indian Brotherhood, said he has travelled across the country and has found modern household appliances in many of the 2,000 Canadian Indian reservations.

Power Part Of St. Lawrence Project Will Produce 2,200,000 H.P.

Work may start next year on the long-planned St. Lawrence seaway and power project. This story, first of a series, tells what the $700,000,000 job involves. Wednesday: The 2,200-mile seaway route described.

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

Nature dug a 2,200-mile seaway from the heart of Canada to the Atlantic ocean.

Most of the St. Lawrence seaway, the Great Lakes system, or whatever you like to call it, is broad and deep waters, but there are hurdles. Since fur-trading days Canadians have been deepening shallows and building ways around rapids and waterfalls.

What remains to be done to meet present-day needs is commonly known as the St. Lawrence seaway and power project.

The rapids and waterfalls weren't simply a scurvy trick of nature. Their hydro power has been partially harnessed.

PRODUCE MORE POWER

The power part of the St. Lawrence project would produce 2,200,000 more horsepower in the 47-mile International rapids section of the St. Lawrence river, extending from below Prescott, Ont., and Ogdensburg, N.Y., to St. Regis, N.Y., just below Cornwall, Ont. This would be done by Ontario and the state of New York, who would share the power equally.

The seaway part would give a minimum navigation depth of 27 feet through all canals, and would consist mostly of replacing present 14-foot canals with 27-foot canals in the 115 miles from Prescott to Montreal. With some relatively minor dredging the deep seaway already exists over the rest of the route.

For many years it was proposed that Canada and the United States do the seaway together. The United States has failed to come in and now Canada proposes to do it alone, except for work connecting Lakes Superior, Huron and Erie.

Canada, Ontario and New York hope the project can be started next year, although court action on the power project by certain opposing American interests still delays setting of a definite date.

If such a start can be made, completion time probably will be from 1958 to 1960.

ADVANCE WORK

Preliminary surveys and studies of the effects of changes in waterflow have been in progress for some time. Diamond drilling is being done to locate the best foundations for dams and power installations. Relocation of the individuals and communities to be dispossessed by rising water is being studied.

While the power part of the project covers only the international rapids section, other power projects are envisaged as further developments.

Quebec has 2,200,000 horsepower available in the Beauharnois section of the St. Lawrence above Montreal, of which 1,424,000 horsepower is either now developed or being developed. She has a further 1,200,000 horsepower in the Lachine section at Montreal's doorstep. These are separate from the project, but they fit into it.

Costs of the power and navigation project would presumably be financed through bond issues which would be paid off from power revenues and shipping tolls.

ESTIMATES OF COST

When Canada and the United States planned to do the navigation part together under a 1941 agreement, the cost in 1950 prices of the navigation and power job was estimated at $704,000,000. Of this, it was proposed that the United States pay $484,000,000 and Canada $220,000,00.

This division was based on the fact that Canada between 1912 and 1932 built the Welland canal between Lakes Erie and Ontario at a cost of $132,00,000 and that this, at 1950 prices, represented a value of $340,000,000. Also taken into account was $32,000,000 spent by the United States on waters connecting Lakes Erie, Huron and Superior.

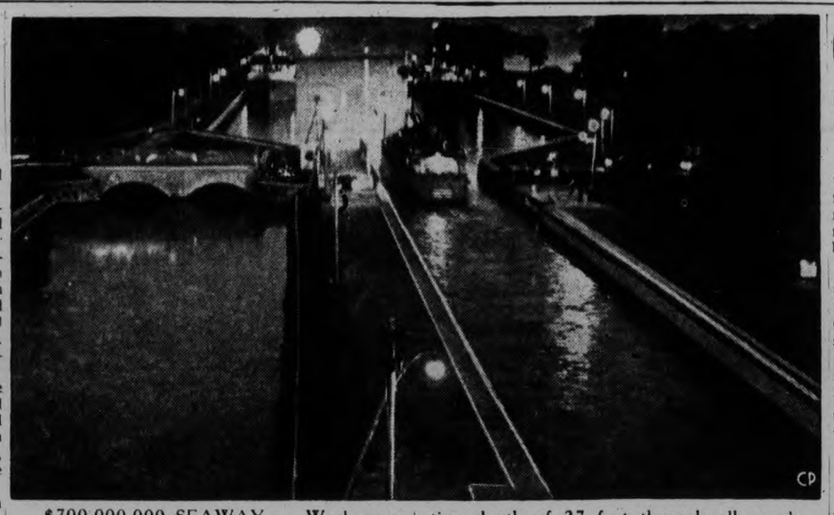
Guy Lindsay, director of the special projects branch of the Canadian department of transport says "Canada's share of the real cost of the waterway will be more than 50 per cent."

In addition to the Welland, Canada has dredged out a 32½-foot channel, which will be deepened to 35 feet, in the 160 miles of winding river from Montreal to Quebec; and also built her extensive system of shallower canals which will be replaced.

THREE-WAY SPLIT

Now that Canada proposes to do alone all navigation work from Lake Erie down, costs would be divided among Canada, Ontario and New York.

This leaves out $88,695,000 contained in the estimates for deepening of channels on the upper lakes. This was to have been United States work and it is still hoped she will carry it out. Already, under the 1941 agreement with Canada, she has built a new $15,000,000 lock at Sault Ste. Marie.



Subtraction of the upper lakes amount would reduce the total in terms of 1950 prices to $615,305,000.

Under the all-Canadian navigation plan, three locks which would have been on the American side of the International rapids will be built on the Canadian side. Latest estimates are that extra cost will be small.

Whatever the total cost, probably more than half will be shared by Ontario and New York for power. A commonly quoted estimate, apparently still based on 1950 estimates, is $200,000,000 each for Ontario and New York, and $250,000,000 for Canada. The federal government has authorized its St. Lawrence seaway authority to borrow up to $300,000,000.

Major items in the 1950 estimate included $474,694,000 for power and navigation in the International rapids, $37,116,000 for navigation in the Soulanges section in Quebec, and $98,229,000 for navigation in the Lachine section.

Estimates of labor required run to an average of 15,000 men over five or six years, with 10,000 employed on the Canadian side.

$700,000,000 SEAWAY — Work may start next year on the long-planned St. Lawrence Seaway and power project. The 2,200-mile seaway, to cost an estimated $700,000,000, would give minimum navigation depth of 27 feet through all canals. This photo by Malak, of Ottawa, shows night traffic on Quebec's Soulanges canal which bypasses the rapids between Lake St. Francis and Lake St. Louis on the St. Lawrence river.

Coal Mines' Condition Serious, Says Board

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's coal industry is in a serious position, the Dominion coal board reported Monday to Parliament.

It added that the inroads of oil and natural gas into the Canadian coal market are likely to cause "further dislocation" of the industry.

However, the board, in its annual report tabled in the Commons by Mines Minister Prudham, said Canada's future energy requirements indicate demand for coal will be stepped up substantially over the present level from about 1965 onwards.

Vitamins For Sheep

SYDNEY, Australia (CP)—Agricultural scientists in Australia report that losses to sheep flocks during dry seasons may be reduced by administering a spray containing vitamin A to sheep and lambing ewes. Under normal conditions green feed is the natural source of this vitamin.

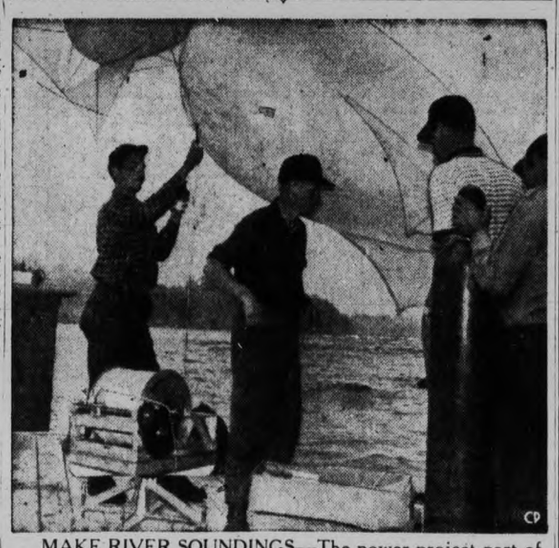
HISTORIC MISSION

The first Jesuit mission on Cape Breton island was established at St. Ann bay early in the 17th century.

CCF Urges Aid For Ailing Towns

OTTAWA (CP)—The CCF's national council has called on the federal government for emergency measures to help residents of communities where industries have been closed down.

The council, in a statement issued after a weekend meeting here said several communities are undergoing "Extreme hardship and suffering."



This was particularly true in Maritime centres where coal mines had closed, and similar situ-Quebec and Ontario communities wholly dependent on textile plants that had closed.

The council proposed:

1. Immediate special assistance to relieve hardship among families in such communities.

2. A special committee to explore the possibility of establishing other industries.

3. If the unemployment problem of a community could not be met otherwise, assistance in resettling displaced people in other communities, as close to their present homes as possible, where alternative employment might be obtained.

MAKE RIVER SOUNDINGS—The power project part of the St. Lawrence Seaway would produce 2,200,000 more horsepower in the 47-mile International Rapids section of the St. Lawrence River below Prescott, Ont. This would be done by Ontario and the State of New York, who would share the power equally. An Ontario hydro survey crew is shown preparing kytoons to take soundings in the rapids section of the seaway. The kytoons float over the spot whree the depth is to be measured and a lead weight, suspended from the kytoon by piano wires, rests on the bottom of the river. Readings permit computation of the water depth.

INLAND WATER ROUTE—When the St. Lawrence Seaway is completed, giant lake freighters will be able to carry ore and grain from the head of the lakes to Montreal without difficulty through enlarged canals with deeper shaft limits. At present grain freighters must trans-ship at Prescott to ply the 14-foot St. Lawrence canal. This Malak photo shows grain pouring into a freighter.

From One Cook to Another

SHORTCUT MEAL-MAKING

This is the era of shortcuts in the kitchen. We have so many helps towards quicker meal-making . . . frozen foods, ready mixes, ready-to-eat cereals, to mention a few. I'd like to add a few of my favorite suggestions. F'rinstance, my quick and easy Carnation Cheese Sauce. What makes this speedy sauce possible, is the fact that Carnation Evaporated Milk is twice as rich as ordinary milk. So you don't need flour and shortening . . . just cheese. And because Carnation is specially heat-refined for easier, better blending with other ingredients, you get the smoothest sauce ever . . . lightning quick.

CARNATION LIGHTNING-QUICK CHEESE SAUCE
(Makes about 2½ cups sauce)

1 large can Carnation Evaporated Milk
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup (4 ozs.) cubed process-type cheese

Combine Carnation and salt in saucepan. Heat until small bubbles appear (about 2 minutes). Add cheese; stir constantly over low heat about 1 minute, until cheese melts.

WITH ALL OUR TIME-SAVING TRICKS we still spend a lot of time in preparing food. So we certainly want our efforts to "pay off" to the fullest. And we can do this by using products like Carnation Evaporated Milk. Women who enjoy reputations as clever cooks, have discovered that Carnation is unequalled for cooking. These experts wouldn't dream of using bottled milk — or any other evaporated milk. Why should you use any less than the best? Get the most out of the time — little or great — that you spend in the kitchen. Use Carnation, the world's leading evaporated milk.

To prevent scorching your double boiler, place jar lid in water-filled lower section. Lid rattles when water is needed.

EVERYBODY USES CANNED SOUPS these days — well, practically everybody. I for one, think the canned soups are wonderful. And I have quite a lot of fun, combining two different kinds for new flavor effects . . . or adding a touch of curry or herbs. But one thing I always do. For the smoothest, richest flavored, creamiest tasting soup, I heat canned soups with an equal amount of undiluted Carnation. You won't believe how good and how nourishing soup can be, until you make it with undiluted Carnation.

CURRIED GREEN PEA SOUP
(Makes 3 or 4 servings)

1 can condensed green pea soup
Equal measure of undiluted Carnation Milk
Dash of curry powder

Heat soup with Carnation, stirring to blend. Add curry powder — serve with croûtons.

Shortest distance between a little meal-making effort and a big, wonderful effect — Carnation Evaporated Milk. Try Carnation undiluted in cream recipes, on cereals and fruits, in coffee — mix Carnation with an equal amount of water for whole milk purposes.

Millions of coffee lovers can't be wrong — and they prefer Carnation to cream in coffee. Undiluted Carnation is heavy enough to whip! So it's just right for coffee . . . gives richer, creamier color and more delicious flavor.

WHITE'S CHARGES DENIED BY CHRYSLER

IT'S STRICTLY FOR THE BIRDS, this swimming in the Otonabee River these fine Indian summer days. The two cygnets in a waterfowl pen at the Filtration Park zoo paddled contentedly today in 44-degree water. If the season cycle conformed to other years these birds would be caged in their winter pens in a heated building, but they, and all zoo folk, are enjoying our banana-belt climate like everyone else. —(Examiner Staff Photo)

Had 90-Day Guarantee On His Car

Declare MP Refused Bring Car In To Get Repairs Done

WINDSOR (CP)— Chrysler Corporation of Canada, Ltd., today denied a statement by George S. White (PC-Hastings-Frontenac) who charged Tuesday the company did not issue a warranty or guarantee on new cars for a given period of time.

Mr. White said a client of his law firm had purchased a "lemon" and Chrysler Corporation declined to replace it.

The company's statement follows:

"Chrysler Corporation of Canada, Limited, in common with other manufacturers, issues a warranty through its dealer, with each vehicle it manufactures and sells.

HAD 90-DAY WARRANTY

"The car purchased by Mr. G. S. White, MP was covered by this warranty during its first 90 days of ownership or 4,000 miles of driving.

"In accordance with the warranty, our dealer or factory representative on repeated occasions offered to make repairs to Mr. White's vehicle. He refused to make the car available and demanded that he be given a new vehicle.

"Press reports intimate that in bringing the matter to the attention of the House of Commons, Mr. White had been acting on behalf of a client. Chrysler Corporation files reveal that the client was Mr. White himself."

Suggest Private Talks Might Help Break Deadlock On Big Power Disarmament Talks

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —The UN political committee called on the big powers today to intensify their efforts toward disarmament and atomic control. It suggested that private talks might help break the deadlock.

These were major provisions of a resolution sponsored by the Big Three Western powers and 11 other countries. The proposal was approved by a vote of 50 to 0 after the 60-nation committee rejected a series of Russian amendments. The Soviet bloc abstained and Burma did not vote.

The main Soviet proposal called on the UN's 12-nation disarmament commission to submit plans by next March 1 for a substantial reduction of armaments and for the prohibition of atomic and hydrogen bombs. This amendment was rejected 36 to 5 with 17 abstaining.

The majority for the 14-power resolution was enough to assure its final approval by the General Assembly.

Madoc MP Blames Firm For Policy

Car Full of Defects No Warranty Charge In Commons

OTTAWA (CP)— George S. White (PC-Hastings-Frontenac) Tuesday in the Commons criticized the Chrysler Corporation of Canada for not replacing a car purchased by a client of his law firm.

Mr. White, a lawyer in Madoc, said the Chrysler Corporation gives no warranty or guarantee of performance for a given period on new cars.

"In fact under the terms of the purchase any such representation or warranty is specifically excluded," he said. "I think that will come as a great surprise to the public. . . ."

Mr. White said a client purchased a car which turned out to be a "lemon." The car had many defects which could not be corrected.

"It would appear that an important company such as Chrysler, having turned out a lemon on a car like this, would at least replace it with a new car in proper shape," he said.

NO WARRANTY

"I hope that all purchasers of Chrysler products will take notice of the fact that this company makes no warranty of any kind and that the poor purchaser must look to the dealer for any remedy which he can get."

Mr. White, speaking in the throne speech debate, urged the government to investigate the price of gasoline, automobiles and electrical appliances in Canada. Canadians, he said, want to know whether these high prices are caused by excessive taxation or excessive profits.

E. C. Row, president of Chrysler, informed of Mr. White's remarks said: "I have no comment to make."

Big Three Plan To Discuss Defence Problems

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today the Big Three meeting in Bermuda next month will be devoted to common problems of defence against Communist aggression in Europe and Asia. He listed the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, Korea and Indo-China among the topics he expects will be discussed at his conference with Prime Minister Churchill and French Premier Laniel. The three nations have many common interests, Eisenhower told a press conference, and if the forthcoming informal conversations can eliminate friction between the governments that is all to the good. The meeting will be held Dec. 4-8.

Eisenhower also said, in answer to a question, he is still hopeful that before too long he can lay before the American people a clear description of their national security problems.

Eisenhower announced some time ago that he was working on a public statement in which he hoped to outline exactly what confronts the U.S. from the standpoint of continental defence and related matters, and what his administration is doing about it.

He said he hopes his administration has demonstrated by its actions that there need be no fear on the part of the American people that government service is weak on its vigilance against Communists.

A reporter cited the statement of former president Truman that the Eisenhower administration had embraced "McCarthyism."

Flushing, the president replied abruptly that he was ready to take the judgment of the assembled reporters on that matter.

The president avoided a direct yes or no answer when asked about reports that Pakistan is interested in United States military aid and might grant air bases in return for it.

So far as Pakistan is concerned the United States must be careful not do anything that would cause distress in neighboring India, he said.

INDIA WORRIED

The Indian government has indicated great concern over reports that the United States might act to strengthen Pakistan.

On domestic conditions, Eisenhower said he does not believe the federal budget can be balanced in the fiscal year beginning next July 1.

He also said the administration probably won't know until next month whether it will have to ask Congress to increase the national debt ceiling of $275,000,000.

No, Not Again!

Bad News Stuns Soldiers On Korean Front Turkey For Thanksgiving

SEOUL (AP)—The United States 8th Army announced with apparent gusto this week that the soldiers in Korea will be "devouring more than 150 tons of turkey" on American Thanksgiving Day next Thursday. But the apparent gusto, it seems, was confined to the quartermaster people. Slowly the dread news spread, from the rear echelons right up to where troops look out on the demilitarized zone. You could hear the wail in tent and bunker: "Oh no, not turkey again —anything, even boiled eel or turnip greens."

What is the story behind this army uprising against the turkey—that revered bird born to Adorn American Thanksgiving tables.

WHY NOT STEAK?

"Why couldn't it have been steak?" asked a captain.

"Chances are we'd have got turkey whether it was Thanksgiving or not," said a private.

That was it. The army suffers from a glut of turkey. How come? A lieutenant-colonel wasn't sure. But he told about the situation late in the war.

The colonel recalled with fine nausea those last harrowing days —two weeks when the front-line soldiers had turkey every other day.

"It was a ration foul-up," he declared, "and it did us a lot more harm than the enemy did."

So the situation is normal—all fowled up. Turkey on the menu twice a week, with hot turkey sandwiches and turkey salad in between.

TOOK TO DRINK

A mess sergeant told me he became so depressed he took to strong drink. He wanted to put up a sign on the mess hall door:

"Caution: Turkey today." His major talked him out of it.

It isn't just the repetition that has the 8th army down on turkey. The cause lies deeper than that—in the deep freeze where the turkey is kept.

"Maybe the turkey just comes too damned far and for too damned long," the colonel said.

"Somewhere out on the ocean it loses all its flavor and arrives on my plate tasting like a roasted plastic pocket comb—with sage dressing."

Show Snyder Used Glasser After Reports

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate investigators introduced evidence today that former treasury secretary John Snyder promoted Harold Glasser in 1946 after FBI reports had linked Glasser with Harry Dexter White in Soviet espionage.

Documents to this effect were put into the record of the Senate internal security sub-committee which heard FBI director J. Edgar Hoover testify Tuesday that he opposed—but bowed to—former president Truman's decision to keep White in the government.

In a brief public session today the Senate internal security subcommittee cited an Aug. 22, 1946, letter Snyder wrote notifying Glasser that he was being appointed director of the treasury department's monetary research division at a salary of $10,000 a year.

Snyder had been invited to be present for today's hearing but sent word he could not arrange to come at this time.

Sub-committee counsel Robert Morris pointed out that Glasser's appointment as director of the monetary research division occurred after two summaries of FBI reports on Soviet espionage had been sent to the treasury department.

SNYDER DEFENDS SELF

In a telegram to Senator William Jenner (Rep. Ind.), the subcommittee chairman, Snyder said, "I want you to point out that the record clearly shows that within approximately 18 months after I became head of the treasury department and its 116,000 employees, to the best of my knowledge, all suspected subversives were separated from the department and none have been found, so I am advised in the department, since I left."

Glasser was a witness before the Senate investigating unit last April 14. He refused then, on the grounds of possible self-incrimination, to say whether he was a Communist or whether he had engaged in espionage activities while working for the government.

Snyder's letter of Aug. 22, 1946, first was placed in the sub-committee's record when Glasser testified last April.

HOOVER TESTIMONY

New political controversy was fanned Tuesday by Hoover's disclosures.

In precedent-breaking testimony, Hoover told the senate internal security sub-committee at a crowded televised hearing Tuesday that he advised against retaining White, who had been named in an FBI report as an espionage suspect.

Hamilton Leads Montreal 25-6 At Half Time

HAMILTON (CP) — Spring-like weather was the setting this afternoon as Hamilton Tiger-Cats and Montreal Alouettes met in the first game of the best-of-three playoffs for the Big Four title and a berth in the Nov. 28 Grey Cup final at Toronto. Temperatures were in the 60s with a warm sun.

Montreal's injury list was more serious than Hamilton's and the betting favored Tiger-Cats to win this one before the clubs finish out the series in Montreal on Sunday and, if necessary, next Wednesday.

On second down Songin appeared trapped but ran 17 yards to the Montreal 53. Fraser kicked to Manastersky at the Montreal 15.

Alouettes had to kick and Brown ran back to the Montreal 41. Kusserow fumbled and Capozzi recovered for Als at their 43.

Webster kicked to Brown at the Hamilton 30. Kusserow swept around end for 13 yards. Bailey fumbled and Hugo recovered for Montreal. Etcheverry was thrown for 11-yard loss, then completed one to Pal for 10 ards. Webster kicked to the Hamilton 26.

TOSSES 18-YARD PASS

Custis tossed an 18-yard pass to Kusserow. Bailey ran to the Hamilton 53 for a first down. A Songin pass bounced out of Logan's hands into those of Wagner and the Montreal player raced to the Als' 43. Webster fumbled and Ragazzo recovered for Hamilton at the Als' 50. Songin missed on two long

Ottawa Plans To Stiffen Canada's Anti-Dumping Law

OTTAWA (CP)—Stiffening of Canada's anti-dumping law against cheap foreign goods competing with Canadian products is in prospect, cabinet ministers Tuesday told a delegation from the textile trade. The change, they indicated, will be directed chiefly at keeping out textiles from abroad that have been undermining the Canadian market and causing unemployment in this country's textile mills.

Government informants said later the legislation now under consideration consists chiefly of a redefinition of the term "fair market value" as applied to imports.

It would have the effect of averaging the dutiable price of a line of goods over a period to eliminate such things as the throwing of low-cost lines into Canada at the end of a style cycle.

However, the five-man group of ministers under Trade Minister Howe made it clear to the textile representatives government will not take action against fair competition with Canadian industry from other countries.

LARGEST DELEGATION

The 200-member delegation from textile-manufacturing communities in Ontario, Quebec, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia was one of the largest ever to meet the government. Its submission was delivered by the Textile Workers Union of America (CIO-CCL), but the group includes industrialists and local civic officials.

The brief accused the government of being "evasive" in foreign policy on textiles—a charge that the ministers denied—and it called for quick action to halt what it described as "critical" unemployment in the Canadian textile industry.

Farmer Changes Guilty Plea

DIGNE, France (Reuters) — Farmer Gaston Dominici today retracted his confession of the murder of British scientist Sir Jack Drummond, his wife and daughter, and protested that he was "completely innocent."

Members of his family here supported the claim of the fiery-tempered old man that severe police pressure had forced him into a false admission of guilt. But Magistrate Marcell Peries, who lodged the murder charge against Dominici Monday, said the police case against the 77-year-old patriarch was so complete that the denials made no difference.

Dominici gave way after 40 hours of police interrogation last week-end and admitted he killed the British tourists as they camped on his farm 15 months ago.

Dominici's son, Gustave, 34, said he had signed a statement accusing his father only after having been kept 36 hours without food and drink under constant questioning.

Dominici's wife, Marie, insisted the old man had not left his house on the night of the murder.

U.S. Decorates Lt.-Col. Carne

LONDON (Reuters) — Lt.-Col. James Carne, VC, commander of the "Glorious Gloucesters" during an epic stand on the Imjin river in Korea today received the American Distinguished Service Cross from the United States ambassador, Winthrop Aldrich.

The DSC is the highest honor the U. S. can confer on the national of a foreign country.

The Gloucestershire Regiment itself has won the highest American collective army honor—the president's Distinguished Unit Citation.

Carne, 47, was captured after commanding the Gloucesters in a hopeless three-day battle against overwhelming Chinese forces in April, 1951.

Smog In London Eases Second Day

LONDON (Reuters)—Fog blanketed much of Western Europe today for the second day running.

But London, still fearful of The Great Fog, which killed up to 12,000 persons in four days last December, breathed easier today.

A heavy smoke-laden pall which blotted out the daylight during most of Tuesday lifted today and visibility increased to 600 yards. The weather men warned, however, that it would be back by nightfall.

Elsewhere in Britain and across Europe as far as Communist Hungary, air and surface travel were snarled by continuing fog.

Order Depends On Coal Board

MONTREAL (CP)—A Canadian National Railways spokesman said today that whether the company will renew an order for coal from the Drummond mine in Westville, N. S., will depend on the Dominion coal board.

Earlier, the railway placed an order of 40,000 tons with the Drummond mine but the Intercolonial Coal Company, operator of the shaft, closed down before delivery because of operating difficulties and scarcity of markets.

The spokesman said the order had been placed in accordance with a request of the Dominion coal board. It would be renewed if the board made a similar request.

It was announced Tuesday night at Westville that Henry Thompson, Pictou county business man, planned to re-open the mine.

The CNR order was reported today to be a major factor in his plans.

Quadruplets Born In Florida

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Quadruplets—one boy and three girls—were born today to Mr. and Mrs. Abla Hijab, graduate students at the University of Florida.

Dr. Raymond S. Camp said at that Alachua General Hospital, where they were delivered, "We hope they will survive. At the moment they are in good condition."

The Hijabs came to Gainesville from Syria to attend the university this fall. Mrs. Hijab is 33. Both are Moslems.

Legislature Session May Open Earlier

TORONTO (CP)—An early opening of the 1954 session of the Ontario legislature, perhaps during the first or second week of February, is being considered.

Premier Frost said Tuesday the government has had many requests for an earlier opening. He said the government will do whatever suits the convenience of most members and, since the province's fiscal year ends March 31, an early opening would have some advantage from a budget viewpoint.

Usually the session lasts six or seven weeks and ends at Easter. In 1954, Easter will be late, falling April 18.

Use Tear Gas Halt Protests

QUITO, Ecuador (AP) — Police used tear gas to break up a series of small demonstrations Tuesday night protesting government action against the Ecuadorian press. At least two demonstrators were arrested.

Rain dispersed another crowd that gathered to voice support for President Velasco Ibarra in his latest wrangle with the newspapers.

The squabble stems from a story, originating in Guayaquil and published by the independent paper El Comercio, speculating on cabinet changes.

The government in reply demanded publication of a communique accusing the independent press of insulting congress, usurping authority and trying to stir up political unrest.

Asks Parliament Opening On TV

OTTAWA (CP) — Frank S. Follwell (L—Hastings South) Tuesday urged in the Commons that the opening of Parliament be broadcast and televised.

He said the CBC's TV program on President Eisenhower's speech to the Commons and Senate last Saturday was an "oustanding job."

He also said he is "gratified" to learn that members of the cabinet have told a delegation from the textile trade that Canada's anti-dumping law against cheap foreign imports will be strengthened.

Mr. Follwell also urged that pensions of $40 a month be granted to blind persons between 21 and 69 without a means test. He said he supports the Canadian National Institute for the Blind's request for this action.

To Renounce Citizenship

American Turned Baronet Finds U.K. Mansion Ruin

KIRKOWAN, Scotland (Reuters) Sir Adrian Dunbar, one-time handy man from Maryland who inherited a Scottish title, stood in the shadow of a derelict, moss-covered mansion and said he will renounce his United States citizenship.

While he paid his first visit to his ancestral estate at nearby Mochrum Park Tuesday he said:

"I am going to renounce my American citizenship because this is my home and this is the land of my origin."

Dunbar was born in Weymouth, England, 60 years ago.

He inherited Mochrum Park with its 40-room mansion, 15 farms and 3,400 acres of land in January when he became the 12th baronet of Dunbar after the death of two previous baronets. He arrived in Scotland about 10 days ago and until Tuesday had been conferring with his lawyers.

Dunbar, who went to the U.S. via Canada, was obviously disappointed when he and his American wife, Emma, drove up to Mochrum mansion, a rumbling ruin. He couldn't get in to see the place. The caretaker, who had the keys, was out.

Dunbar said he and his wife will not live in the manor. In fact, they don't know where they can live on the estate.

"At the moment I just can't find a place to live in," Baronet Dunbar said, "but even so it sure is a thrill to see the place.

"The whole estate needs a good clean-up. So I'll soon have to roll up my sleeves and get busy."

He had no intention of restoring the manor unless someone left him "a couple of million dollars and wages of 80 servants." (The most he'll get out of the estate is an annual income of about $5,600, less tax, in rents from his farms.)

Blasts Still Rock Strasbourg Fort

STRASBOURG, France (Reuters)—A century-old stone fortress slowly pounded itself to a smoking ruin today as fire which broke out Tuesday in 200 tons of ammunition stored there by the French army continued with periodic blasts and new belches of smoke and flame.

Rescue squads stood helpless half a mile away, not knowing how much of the explosives were left still to go off.

Inside the tumbled walls of old Fort Foch were six men trapped by the initial blast. Hope of finding them alive has been almost abandoned, but their families hope they may have escaped the initial explosion and found shelter in an underground dungeon.

Unionism Advocated For Canadian Farmers

ARTHUR (CP)—C. H. Millard, Canadian director of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL), Tuesday night urged farmers to join a union.

Mr. Millard, whose union has upwards of 8,000 miners on strike in northern Ontario and northwestern Quebec, said in an address to the semi-annual meeting of the Ontario Farmers Union that farmers' problems are basically the same as those of labor.

Report Annoys Prime Minister

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent today said he read with "disagreeable surprise" a Washington report referring to a highly-placed Canadian government source in the Harry Dexter White case.

Mr. St. Laurent declined to comment directly.

"I cannot say anything," he said in reply to a question. However, he added, "The matter is a disagreeable surprise."

He also referred to what he termed "a display of partisan politics," but declined further comment.

15 Men Killed

Big Plane Hurtles To Earth During Mass Paratroop Drop

FORT BRAGG, N. C. (AP)—A big C-119 Flying Boxcar hurtled to earth during a mass paratroop drop here Tuesday killing 15 men —five aboard and 10 floating from parachutes in its path.

It probably never will be known which of the men were struck by the falling plane and which had their 'chutes collapse in its wake.

The Boxcar apparently developed engine trouble during a drop of about 1,000 paratroopers of the 82nd Airborne Division. The drop was part of a 32-transport training project.

The pilot, co-pilot and two other air force men rode the plane down along with a paratrooper trapped inside when a shovel attached to his uniform hung at the jump door. Thirty-seven others jumped safely.

The other victims had jumped from companion planes in the flight.

One of the crash survivors, Sgt. C. Hubert Sluss, said two "sticks" of 19 men each were waiting to bail out. Then "the plane hit something that sounded like two automobiles hitting."

Sluss, a "pusher" whose job is to see that the men jump on signal, said the plane "started to weave and equipment was thrown into the aisle. . . . A couple of the boys fell down and we threw them out."

Officers said the plane was flying at about 1,200 feet before starting its dive. The pilot veered sharply to the left, apparently trying to avoid hitting more of the drifting parachutists.

BULLETIN

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent said today an inquiry has been launched to determine whether a "high-placed" Canadian government source ever discussed Harry Dexter White's loyalty with FBI director J. Edgar Hoover.

Quebec Cow Winner At Royal

Beeton Man Sweeps Cheese Judging Takes Title, 5 Honors

TORONTO (CP)— Governor-General Massey presented his cup for the best three-year-old working hunter in Canada Tuesday night at the Royal Winter Fair horse show.

He sat in on the two-and-two jumps, won by Ireland.

Capt. Colm O'Shea of Ireland won the international competition while Maj.-Gen. A. C. Spencer of London, Ont., was recipient of the Governor-General's Trophy when his Redcrest topped 15 other entrants.

Capt. O'Shea rode Kilcarne and Clonsilla over the 16-jump circuit without a fault for first place in the international competitions, while his team mate, Capt. Mike Tubridy, and England's Miss Pat Smythe tied for second with three faults each.

CANADA SECOND

The Irish win lifted them into a last place deadlock with Britain in the international jumps competition aggregate.

United States is in first place with a low-score fault total of 16. Canada is second with 26 while Britain and Ireland each have 49 faults.

Threave Mirthful Miss (Imp), a two-year-old guernsey cow brought $1,050, top price at the guernsey star auctions. There were 36 cattle sold for a total of $16,020.

Alberta, consistently high in crop, seed and cattle competitions at this year's royal, maintained its edge in the National 4-H Club competitions.

Alberta won three firsts and as many thirds in the nine events. Saskatchewan picked up two firsts while Ontario, New Brunswick and British Columbia earned one each.

BIG CHEESE WINNER

T. S. Aicken of Belton virtually swept cheese judging winning the over-all championship and five of the six class honors.

His cheese finished first in white and colored early-year contests and also the Canadian stilton and square shaped. Louis Patience of Lambeth took the only other title with the best September, 1953, cheese.

Mrs. J. W. Kent of Pambrun, Sask., won the Canadian Beekeepers' Council Trophy for the best exhibit of honey.

CHAMPION COW

In the livestock judging, Lone Oak Lace, a cow owned by O. A. Fowler of Kingsbury, Que., won the Canadien grand female championship with Madeleine de la Victoire, owned by Ernest Sylvestre of St. Hyacinthe, Que., the reserve champion.

Sidney C. Oland of Bedford, N. S., took the grand champion female ayrshire award with Glengarry Lou. Dunveen Rixy, owned by Alex Sutherland of Paris was reserve winner.

In the guernsey competition, Hagan Farms' Merry Song owned by Lakewood Farm of Mundelein, Ill., won the female championship and also took the fair's grand championship. Kenver Harp's Ideal Sheila, owned by Jack Fraser of Concord, was reserve champion.

ENDS RETIREMENT

Spring Farm Juliette came out of retirement at the age of 10 to win her third grand championship.

The famous holstein from the farm of J. M. Fraser, Streetsville, carried off the senior female championship, then took the grand championship.

Reserve went to Woodyglen Queen Mazie, owned by Forsgate Farms of Jamesburg, N. J., and bred by Arthur Thomson of Hornby.

Spring Farm Juliette had twice won before at the royal, had taken the reserve once, had been all-Canadian champion six times, reserve all-Canadian twice, and once received honorable mention in this class. This year, too, she and her brother, Spring Farm Fond Hope, were judged the best animals bred by an exhibitor in the holstein show.

The entry of G. E. Nelson of Port Henry was winner in the interprovincial herd class.

Shot At Bank Manager "Missed By Inches"

TORONTO (CP) — A bandit "missed by inches" when he fired at bank manager Alfred Battler after robbing a mid-town Canadian Bank of Commerce branch of $1,600 Tuesday.

The shot went through a wall, missing four customers drinking coffee in an adjoining restaurant. Police said it was "a wonder no one was killed."

The thief, still waving his gun, escaped in a stolen car driven by an accomplice.

1 Killed, 1 Injured In Car Smash-up

CHATHAM (CP)—One man was killed and another was seriously injured today when their cars crashed off the end of a road near here.

William James Rood, 21, of Chatham, died en route to hospital. The other driver, Donald Bridgen, 23, of Chatham, was in fair condition, hospital attendants said.

IN HANDCUFFS AND CHAINS, Mrs. Bonnie Brown Heady, left, and Carl Austin Hall, are led into the courtroom at Kansas City, Mo., where the Greenlease kidnapping trial took place with the U.S. government pressing hard a demand for the death penalty. The government has concluded its case. Arrest of the two self-confessed kidnap-slayers came shortly before discovery of the mutilated body of six-year-old Bobby Greenlease in a shallow, lime-filled grave behind the St. Joseph, Mo., home of Mrs. Heady. Inset is U.S. District Judge Albert L. Reeves, who is presiding over the trial.

Government Finishes Case In Kidnapping

By AL DOPKING

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The government concluded its case today against the kidnap-killers of six-year-old Bobby Greenlease whose mother climaxed testimony by confronting them in federal court with the lie they used to get $600,000 in ransom after the boy's cold-blooded slaying.

The government wrapped up its case quickly on the third day of the trial to determine whether Carl Austin Hall, 34-year-old playboy who turned criminal, and Mrs. Bonnie Brown Heady, 41-year-old divorcee, are to die in the gas chamber.

The closing testimony was largely corroborating evidence already admitted. Several FBI agents testified.

The defence was expected to move swiftly towards conclusion of its case. It has called only six witnesses—five for Hall and one for Mrs. Heady.

MAY REACH JURY TODAY

The case is expected to go to the jury late today.

In an unfaltering voice, Bobby's attractive mother told the jury Tuesday how Hall repeatedly assured her that her only son was alive even though he had been slain soon after his kidnapping from a private Catholic school.

Her multi-millionaire husband, Robert C. Greenlease, sat a few feet from Hall. The 71-year-old automobile dealer watched her closely as she talked. He had been there all day, listening to the government press its case for the death penalty for Hall and Bonnie Brown Heady.

Hall and Mrs. Heady are being tried only for the kidnapping, under the federal Lindbergh law which provides the death penalty. The couple already have pleaded guilty and the jury is solely concerned with determining whether the maximum penalty should be invoked.

Fear Low Water Levels Only In Montreal Harbor

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—A spokesman for Lake Ontario waterfront owners Tuesday charged that the proposed St. Lawrence power project is aimed at maintaining low water levels only in Montreal harbor. Montreal is downstream from the power project site.

The charge was made at a public hearing conducted by the International Joint Commission.

The property owners said that regulation of the power project's water flow is designed to make Lake Ontario a reservoir to guarantee adequate water for the winter's power grind, and to keep the river from getting too high in ports downstream.

PRESENT PLAN

The present plan, known as method 5, specifies that the development "must maintain without impairment the low water levels of Montreal harbor."

The property owners, organized as the Lake Ontario Land Development and Beach Protection Association, contended that the power plan as it now stands approved by the IJC would boost Lake Ontario to damaging levels in winter and spring.

The association claims there has been "millions of dollars of damage" to lakefront properties in both these seasons in the last few years.

NO MAXIMUM LEVEL

Gail A. Hathaway, adviser to the chief of the Army Corps of Engineers, declared that no maximum lake level has been recommended by the IJC. He said "levels of the lake can be so regulated as to benefit shore property," and that "maximums will be lower than in the past."

Representative Kenneth B. Keating (Rep. N. Y.) drew a standing ovation when he declared, "I intend to oppose this plan in every way I can until there is adequate protection for people who put their savings into lake shore properties."

Spy Book On Sale Labelled As Fiction

NEW YORK (CP) — The New York Times carried an advertisement Tuesday for "The Man Who Wouldn't Talk," the story by Quentin Reynolds about the supposed career of George DuPre of Calgary in British army intelligence which DuPre last week admitted to be a hoax.

At the top of the advertisement, the word "fact" was stroked out and the word "fiction" substituted. Below the book's title and author appeared the caption:

"The spy story that proved too good to be true."

Indians Charge Ottawa Trying To Take Rights

OTTAWA (CP) — Counsel for the Mohawks charged today that the federal government has attempted to take away ancient rights of Indians through the "backhand" method of amending Canada's tax laws.

Gordon F. Henderson of Ottawa, winding up his case before the Exchequer Court of Canada, maintained that the Jay Treaty of 1794 not only gives Indians the right to bring in refrigerators and washing machines from the United States, but even motor cars without payment of duty.

The Mohawks are appealing to the court to order the government to return $123.66 in customs duties charged against Indian Louis Francis of St. Regis, Que., and to make clear that all Canadian Indians have the right to bring in personal goods from the U.S. duty free.

TREATY'S STATUS DISPUTED

Government counsel had maintined that the Jay Treaty between Britain and the U.S. could not be enforced by law in Canada since it had not become part of parliamentary statutes, but the document did not require legislative action, said Mr. Henderson.

This document followed the American Revolution and therefore was a treaty of peace which does not require a statute to make individual rights flowing from it enforceable by law, he maintained.

The government's argument was that the tax laws as amended in 1949 provided no exemptions from government levies except by act of Parliament, but this was a "backhand" attempt to abrogate the rights of Indians, Mr. Henderson added.

Dutch Immigrant Killed In Accident

PICTON—A Dutch immigrant, Jean Prinzen, 23, of Scoharie, near Bloomfield, was instantly killed in a car accident near here Tuesday morning.

Passenger in a car driven by her husband, Henry Prinzen, 25, she was pinned in the wreckage of their late model car which collided head on with a huge gun tractor towing a 3.7 medium anti-aircraft gun from the Royal Canadian School of Artillery here.

The accident occurred in a dense fog on No. 14 Highway near Waring's Corner. Police said the Prinzen car was passing another car at the time and met the army vehicle head on. Prinzen was critically injured and two other passengers, brothers of the married couple, Hans Prinzen and John Huezinga, suffered severe injuries. All three men were thrown from the car. Occupants of the army truck were not injured.

Jump In Settlement For Tornado Victims

WOODSTOCK (CP) — Oxford county tornado victims will receive a jump in cash settlements as a result of a federal government grant of $37,462, to be shared between five counties.

The government funds will supplement the $100,000 grant given a few days ago by the Canadian disaster relief fund for the five counties hit by the May 21 Tornado.

It is estimated that the 21 persons of Oxford county who suffered damages will now recover 65 per cent of their losses. Gross damage in the county was estimated at $181,000.

Ex-Paratrooper To Be Hanged For Murder

STRATFORD (CP) — Reuben Henry Norman, 26, insisting that he felt no sense of guilt, was sentenced Tuesday night to be hanged Feb. 16 for murder in the noon-hour shooting on a downtown Stratford street last Feb. 2 of his former girl friend, Jean Marie Satchell, 17.

An Ontario Supreme Court jury deliberated two hours and 45 minutes before returning its verdict.

Evidence was that the shooting came as a climax to a quarrel during which the paratrooper asked the girl why she had decided to give him up and her reply was "because I want to." Police said he fired at least six small-calibre revolver bullets into her body at close range and then set out for the police station, less than a block away.

Norman was found mentally unfit to stand trial last May and sent to a mental hospital at Penetanguishene. Last week a jury decided he was mentally fit for trial and the hearing started Nov. 11.

"It is true I cannot deny the event took place by my hand," Norman said during a six-minute speech after Mr. Justice Wishart Spence asked him if he had anything to say. "I do not know what in my own heart made me do it. I have no sense of guilt."

Mr. Justice Spence said in his address to the jury that it could bring in a verdict of guilty of murder, guilty because of insanity, and, later, at the request of defence counsel, guilty of manslaughter only if it were satisfied there was provocation. The defence had contended there was some provocation in the girl's actions and in her refusal to give a satisfactory reason for breaking off the relationship.

Says Pearson Sabotaged Inquiry Efforts

NEW YORK (CP) — A writer introduced as a "leading authority on communism" attacked Canadian officials Tuesday in a speech to a committee of the Women's National Republican Club.

Victori Lasky, former New York newspaper man and co-author with Ralph de Toledano of "Seeds of Treason," a book dealing with the Alger Hiss case, directed his attack chiefly at External Affairs Minister Pearson, who he claimed has "consistently sabotaged" efforts to disclose Soviet intrigue in Washington and Ottawa.

He said Pearson had thwarted efforts of a U.S. Senate committee to question Igor Gouzenko in its investigation of allegations that Harry Dexter White was a Soviet spy. Lasky said Gouzenko had indicated previously that the Soviet secret police had "a man in the treasury department." White was a former assistant secretary of the treasury.

NORMAN MENTIONED

Lasky said Pearson "has effectively squelched any investigation into alleged Soviet ties of not only his closest aide, but of himself." He referred to the testimony of Professor Karl Wittfogel about Herbert Norman.

(Wittfogel, former Communist and professor at Columbia, claimed in 1951 that Norman, then acting chief of Canada's delegation to the United Nations and now high commissioner to New Zealand, had belonged to a Communist party student group at Cape Cod in 1939. The Canadian external affairs department branded the statement as untrue.

In Ottawa Pearson described as "false to the point of absurdity," Lasky's speech.

"I do not wish to demean myself, or dignify this speech by commenting on it," the minister said in a statement.

"I need only say that in so far as it refers to the department of external affairs or to myself, it is false to the point of absurdity."

The ruddy-faced FBI director said he had never committed his agency to any such arrangement, which he said would have been "inconceivable" for it and "not within my purview." He added that FBI efforts to keep an eye on White were hampered after Truman let White's appointment as U.S. director of the International Monetary Fund go through Feb. 26, 1946.

"At no time was the FBI a party to an agreement to promote Harry Dexter White and at no time did the FBI give its approval to such an arrangement," Hoover declared.

But Hoover confirmed that Truman, as the former president had said, permitted White to transfer from the treasury to the monetary fund post with the idea of continuing surveillance of him. Truman did not contend that the FBI had approved this course.

CANADIAN INVOLVED

In another development Tuesday, Attorney-General Herbert Brownell made public a letter from Hoover to the White House in 1946 which said a "high-placed" Canadian government source told the FBI director White was slated to be moved into a position, the monetary fund post, which would give him "the power to influence to a great degree deliberations on all international financial arrangements."

(In Ottawa Tuesday night, a government official said it would be impossible to run down the report quickly, but said inquiries would be made and possibly a statement issued later.)

Hoover also said two Truman cabinet members involved did not favor keeping White in government service.

Brownell, who preceded Hoover as a witness, said any "reasonable man" would have to conclude that Truman knew White was a spy when he appointed him.

But the attorney-general conceded, under questioning by Senator John L. McClellan (Dem. Ark.) that it was a matter of "judgment." He said he was not impugning Truman's loyalty as the former president had claimed in asserting that Brownell "lied to the American people."

GUILTY OF BLINDNESS

Brownell said, rather, that Truman was guilty of "blindness" and "laxity" toward Communists in government.

In Kansas City, Truman shrugged this off with the comment, "why waste words?"

Truman said he had watched Brownell's testimony on TV but not Hoover's. He added of the FBI director: "I'm sure he told the truth."

Fanny White, 70, a sister of Harry Dexter White, said in Boston that Brownell's charges are "false, all false." She said her brother, who died in 1948 after swearing he was not a spy, "loved this country" and "had no respect for Russia."

See Some Progress In Talks To Plan Korean Conference

PANMUNJOM (AP)—Allied and Communist negotiators today appeared to be making some progress in talks to arrange Korean peace conference already long delayed. The Communists today turned down an American plan for inviting neutral powers to the full-dress talks. But they apparently abandoned demands for a round-table conference at which neutrals — including Russia — would have a full voice.

The Reds suggested instead that neutrals attend the conference as a third party to insure a "harmonious atmosphere"—but with almost no voting power.

Arthur Dean, United States special envoy, said the vaguely-worded Red plan needed clarifying and asked the Reds a series of questions designed to clear up confusion over the role neutrals would play in a peace conference.

EXPECT ANSWERS

The Communists indicated they would answer Dean's questions when the diplomats meet again Thursday.

There were increasing signs that the Communists might not resume interviews with Chinese and Korean war prisoners who have refused to go home.

The Indian command said there will be no interviews Thursday and a spokesman said he has no idea when the explanations will resume.

Annis Given New RCAF Post

OTTAWA (CP)—Appointment of one of Canada's chief exponents of the air concept of war as the No. 2 man in the RCAF's defence command was announced today.

The appointment of chief staff officer, air defence command, goes to Air Commodore Clare L. Annis, 41, of Scarborough, Ont., now attending the Imperial Defence College in Britain. He will succeed Group Capt. J. G. Scott, 40, of Bobcaygeon, Ont., who is to take another appointment as yet unannounced.

Air Commodore Annis was captain of a Liberator bomber which in 1942 made the first attack on a U-boat in North American waters, off the strait of Belle Isle between Labrador and Newfoundland. He later commanded an RCAF bomber station in England and has held various posts since the war.

The air concept of war preaches that the outcome of any future conflict would hinge on what happens in the air.

Corn Harvest Nearly Finished

Harvesting of grain corn is nearly done in both eastern and western Ontario. Hastings county in the weekly report of the Department of Agriculture comments that "serious damage due to raccoons and blackbirds is excessive. Farmers are interested in grain corn, but the two aforementioned problems are serious."

Young pigs in Dufferin are selling at $13 to $14. Fine weather has kept livestock in the fields, including young dairy cattle. "Never has there been so much drainage done as this year" in Grey, and in Renfrew: "Many farmers are already reporting wells dry or nearly dry."

The recent heavy fall of snow left the ground in good condition for plowing.

Halton: "For the first time in some years farm workers are calling at this office look for farm employment."

Middlesex: "Most beef cattle and young dairy cattle are still on grass. Young pigs are in keen demand." Wheat in Ontario county looks vigorous, and has enough to go through the winter. Some listed purebred cattle in Northumberland county are moving out, but "there is little demand for other fall freshening cows".

Price Groups Mixed In Light Trading

TORONTO (CP) — Price groups were mixed in light early afternoon stock market trading today.

Utilities, liquors, refining oils and textiles were the strong groups that led industrials higher. Papers, steels, foods and manufactures showed more losses than gains.

Golds fell in light trading as junior losses ranged to Campbell Red Lake's 50 cents.

Base metals were higher with gains ranging to Falconbridge's ⅜. Juniors were not as strong and losses outnumbered gains.

Uraniums and New Brunswick base metals slipped fractions in light trading.

Western oils showed more than two losses for every gain with small price changes.

Premier Frost Friend Of Labor

TORONTO (CP)—The Canadian head of an international union Tuesday night praised Premier Frost as a friend of labor.

Sam Finlay, vice-president of the International Brotherhood of Boilermakers (AFL), spoke at a dinner in honor of John Bruce, general organizer of the AFL Plumbers Union, who at 78 has completed 60 years in the trade union movement. Premier Frost attended the dinner.

"As for Leslie Frost," Mr. Finlay said to his audience of 500 AFL trade unionists, "he has played ball with labor to the best of his ability at all times and is still doing so."

Maniac Rides On Top Of Train Engine

CALCUTTA (AP) — A train steamed into an Assam station Monday with a maniac perched atop the engine, waving a razor-sharp home-made sword with which he had lopped off the head of a baby as it lay in the lap of one of the passengers.

Police made a quick capture. The man had held up the train 10 miles from the station, near Margheita, entered a compartment, killed the child, tried to kill another passenger—who managed to elude him—then climbed to the top of the engine, where he defied all efforts to dislodge him.

The crew finally drove the train to the nearest station.

AKO Dominate Force In Junior Football Started As High School Boys' Club

By ROD CURRIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Eight high school boys organized a friendship fraternity here 25 years ago. The fraternity became the cornerstone of a unique service club through which thousands of boys have taken part in organized sport.

The students called their group the Alpha Kai Omega fraternity.

Last Saturday, Windsor AKO, a dominant force in junior football for two years, entered the Dominion final by defeating Verdun Sham-Cats 26-11. Nov. 21 they will play Saskatoon Hilltops in the western city for the Canadian title they won last year from Edmonton.

Since the group was formed it has sponsored teams of teen-age lads who have carried the AKO insignia into junior competition in hockey, baseball, basketball and boxing as well as football.

WIN MANY TITLES

AKO teams have claimed several Canadian junior championships, a number of eastern Canada titles and many district crowns.

Earlier this year the fraternity took over a city playground, renamed it AKO Memorial Park, and erected a $10,000 building equipped with dressing rooms and other facilities.

First president of the fraternity was Norman Hull, assistant executive editor of the Windsor Daily Star. He now is vice-president. He and Jay Love, an office manager, are the only members of the original group still active in the fraternity. Others were killed during the Second World War or have moved from Windsor.

"We were simply high school pals who didn't want to lose contact after graduation," Mr. Hull said. "The service aspect of the club started once we began to expand and took in graduates of other schools."

Later, with a membership of 25 youths, the club formed teams to enter various city leagues.

In the depression years, the fraternity, in addition to sponsoring sports for boys, went into service work. The 40 members packed food baskets for the poor and formed teams to collect funds for charity.

FINE WAR RECORD

When the Second World War started all but four of the members joined the services. The others organized a small club to do war work.

After the war the fraternity reorganized. The members expanded their work, devoting their efforts to community service and work among youth as a living memorial to the six members killed in the war.

Since then more than 2,000 boys between 16 and 19 years of age have worn AKO uniforms. When a boy passes the junior age limit, which is 20 in most sports, the fraternity helps him to find a job and get established.

AKO finances its teams and other service activities through concerts, bingoes, car raffles and similar projects.

Next year the fraternity will join Windsor in celebrating birthday anniversaries. AKO, marking its 25th anniversary, will send all its teams into competition under the name AKO Centennials in honor of Windsor's 100th birthday.

The fraternity also will attempt to bring junior Canadian football and basketball finals here during the year-long centennial celebration.

Green Algae Disappears In October

Green algae, which was not as prevalent this year as in others, had disappeared by the end of October, General - Manager W. Howard Powell said in his monthly report to the Utilities Commission.

The amount of chlorine added to the water, 8.3 pounds for each million gallons, was maintained at sufficient level to leave a residual of .4 parts of each million gallons. Due to low acidity, 2,000 pounds of soda ash were added to the water last month. The water was also treated with 82.6 pounds of alum to each million gallons.

The remainder of the sand and gravel was placed in the new filter beds, which were conditioned by running water through them to waste before putting them into service.

MORE WATER PUMPED

The amount of water pumped during October was 144,125,000 gallons, an increase of 6,235,000 gallons over the same month last year. The maximum rate of pumpage during October was 6,180 gallons a minute and the average was 3,210. During the same month last year the maximum was 5,972 and the average 3,080 gallons a minute.

Apart from the work of the Cornish Construction Co. on the new 12-inch main on Armour Rd., utilities men laid 32 feet of six-inch main on Cordach Crescent, to complete this extension, 111 feet of six-inch main on Hilliard St., south from Anson St., 148 feet of six-inch main on Anson St., east from Hilliard St., to eliminate a dead end, and 1,509 feet of eight-inch main on Otonabee St., east from Armour Rd.

During October, 57 new water services were laid and seven were relaid.

1,272 M.P.H. Record By Rocket Plane

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A world speed record of 1,272 miles an hour was established Oct. 14 in a Douglas Skyrocket by Scott Crossfield, pilot for the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics, the Los Angeles Times says today.

The former mark was 1,238 miles an hour, set Aug. 15, 1951, in the same plane.

Marvin Miles, Times aviation editor, says the NACA has verified the new mark.

The rocket plane was dropped from the belly of a B-29 Superfortress bomber at about 33,000 feet. It was under power only for about three minutes before being nosed down toward a "dead stick" landing in 17 minutes.

Cobourg Council To Pass Plumbing Inspection Bylaw

COBOURG (ENS)—Town council Tuesday night agreed to passgae of the plumbing inspection bylaw as required by provincial legislation.

Pending passage of the bylaw, council is to be furnished with copies of the regulations, with prices for inspections, by W. D. Cameron, newly - appointed plumbing inspector of the counties' health unit.

Mr. Cameron told council the bylaw was mandatory. If the town did not pass it, the inspection would be done anyway and the town would have to pay for the inspection.

The bylaw, it was explained, merely give the town the right to collect fees and turn them over to the health unit. The regulations cover installation of toilets or anything entering soil pipe, sinks, baths and so on. Inspection must be done before changes are made or new units installed. Failure to comply with the regulations will be penalized. Fees range upwards from a minimum of three dollars.

Mayor John D. Burnet asked Mr. Cameron if the procedure was for the town to collect these charges and give them to the health unit and Mr. Cameron replied that it was. Councillor Otto Curtis thought the charges were too high in the first place and there was the work of collecting them. It didn't seem to be worth it, he said, and asked what would happen if the town refused to collect.

WOULD SEND BILL

"Then we will send you a bill every month," replied Mr. Cameron.

"Then it is mandatory?" asked Councillor Curtis.

"Yes, it is mandatory," was the reply.

Asked if he was charging the new housing unit near the ordnance depot, Mr. Cameron said he would have to wait until the bylaw was passed but he had notified the housing officials that they would be charged for the inspections.

Council granted the TB association $25 for their Christmas seal campaign.

Sidbrook Development Co. wrote that Abbott boulevard and Lakeshore drive were completed to town specifications and they awaited formal taking over by the town. Council passed a resolution to take them over.

A letter from a local group of ladies interested in municipal affairs asked for a meeting in the town hall between nomination and election day. Council decided on the Monday before election day.

TO MAKE SURVEY

In reply to a request that the department of highways look into the dangers of the intersection of University and Division streets, the latter street being Highway 45, a letter from the motor vehicles branch pointed out that a survey would be made. This busy corner is next to a school.

J. W. Stewart of the CPR wrote to point out that the level crossing at D'Arcy street was "fair" as far as visibility is concerned but he would look into it further and correct the situation if needed.

"It is not 'fair' but 'bad'," commented Councillor Jeff Rolph.

Motorists using that road to get to the ordnance depot say that, driving north, a ridge of land along the CPR tracks makes it impossible to see a train approaching until a motorist is almost on the tracks.

The President's Limitations

Emerging from the affable courtesies exchanged in Ottawa during the American Presidential visit last weekend is a less favourable realism. It is the reality of the President's position as chief executive. This position is in some ways more limited than that of a Prime Minister, who has legislative as well as executive power. The American Administration is not responsible to Congress, nor Congress to it, in the way that the Canadian Cabinet is both part and parcel of Parliament. President Eisenhower did not speak directly of these things; he did by implication on two subjects; the St. Lawrence Seaway and the problem of tariffs.

* * *

President Eisenhower said that the St. Lawrence seaway project was "inevitable". He noted with satisfaction that New York State had accepted the license to co-operate with Ontario on the power phase. Yet he also said that he hoped Congress would approve American participation at its next session. Why, at this late date, is Congress being reintroduced into the matter? Canada will build the navigable seaway alone. It has proceeded on that assumptio. for the last eighteen months. Is the American legislature bringing pressure to bear on the American Administration to delay the Canadian project?

* * *

The second disturbing reference in President Eisenhower's speech was to tariffs. He began well—from a Canadian point of view—by saying that "the free world must come to recognize that trade barriers, although intended to protect their country's economy, often, in fact, shackle its prosperity." The members of both Houses of Parliament loudly applauded. Then President Eisenhower said that haste must be made slowly. The economies of Canada and the States cannot risk sudden dislocation, unemployment and distress "by hasty decisions to accomplish suddenly what inevitably will come in an orderly economic evolution."

* * *

This sounds honest and prudent. It is, but the place and timing of it held overtones which cause Canada anxiety. A new joint Canadian-U.S. board of cabinet officers is being set up for economic co-ordination and planning, but can this and the President's remark be distracting attention from what actually is happening? Instead of allowing "orderly economic evolution" to take a course towards freeing trade, the American Congress, and special interests lobbying it and the Administration, is constructing more trade barriers, putting embargoes on Canadian goods, and following a protectionist tangent generally. And if Congress so decides, the President and his officers can do little, even if they believe that 'trade barriers . . . often shackle prosperity'.

* * *

There is, regrettably, a growing feeling both within the States and outside it, that President Eisenhower is being prevented from leading the crusade which his election called on him to do—because Congress and the multiplicity of political, regional and other special pressures are forcing him off the track. Powerful interests have shackled every President since Wilson on the question of the St. Lawrence Seaway. All favoured it but none got Congressional approval. Powerful agricultural and industrial groups have forced the erection of more trade barriers than in any other time since President Hoover. So the undertones of Mr. Eisenhower's address were disappointing to Canadians who had ears cocked for them.

Hoarse From Proclaiming

A proclamation is what it says: proclaiming by herald or crier or other strong-voiced means the truth or existence of an event of importance to the state or part of it in which the announcement is made. Royal births are proclaimed to Kingdom and Commonwealth. Days of national thanksgiving are proclaimed to the nation. A period of civic observance—such as a civic holiday—is proclaimed to the municipality. These proclamations are made because they affect the whole community and are officially as well as personally important to it. Peanut Day is not in this category, nor is National Canary Week. Yet time after time the Mayor and Council are importuned to proclaim something or other which is either propaganda or of interest only to a segment of the population. Our mayors are becoming hoarse from proclaiming, even if they do it by the proxy of print.

Mayor Waddell has hinted that the sound of proclamation should be limited. It loses its virtue and force if proclamations follow one another like form letters into a waste paper basket. When the Mayor makes a proclamation, all citizens should be aroused by sound of the cry. But if he is required to do it forty times a year for forty different causes, no matter how worthy, the formal action loses its meaning. How can limits be set, other than through the discretion of the Council who, being kindly people, are reluctant to reject a request which costs no money? The Council might find this suggestion helpful: proclaim nothing which does not arise from the regular, proper business of the Council, or from some other elected or appointed governing body in the country. Proclaim only what is essential to the honour, pride or duty of the citizens.

Gas

Gas, the volatile, combustible, usable kind, is much before the Canadian public now. Are we in Ontario to get it from Alberta or Tennessee, and which group of gas lords is going to have the privilege of providing it, for profit, of course?

We have already said a few things about this quite important matter and propose to let it stay in the air for the moment, and to turn to other gas-conscious countries. In England, where gas is in great use for heat and light, most of it is manufactured from coal (in contrast with the U.S. where only seven per cent. of the gas used in homes and industry is made from coal). People in the U.K. are looking around for natural gas and other sources of power than coal, imported oil and costly hydro. They look at the U.S. where a quarter of the country's fuel needs are met by natural gas. Then they look around their own country.

In the States as in Canada, the big underground reserves of gas are geologically associated with the oil-bearing areas. Despite concentrated and persistent efforts of the Anglo-Iranian oil company (through a U.K. subsidiary) to find oil in Scotland, the Midlands and the Isle of Wight, there has been limited success. What then, are the chances of finding natural gas deposits?

It is not expected that great areas may be unearthed, but there must be many pockets of natural gas, so the British Gas Council reasons. Hence a search is being made, to last for five years and a million pounds. There is some urgency because in ten years time the supply of British coal suitable for making gas may be limited.

To Improve The Handling Of Garbage

It is apparent from our news accounts on Friday that the Sanitation Committee of the city Council and its sanitation superintendent have given considerable thought to problems connected with garbage collection and disposal, and have moreover arrived at some decisions which will improve the situation. This could not be said for the Sanitation Committee last year. Changes are contemplated in the bylaw and a proposal has been made to replace all the open trucks with modern closed ones, especially designed to handle garbage. As a result the litter down town should be decreased; back lanes in the commercial section should not present the unwholesome appearance they now have, and garbage collection trucks should no longer leave noisome trails behind them.

For these improvements both money and the full co-operation of citizens will be required. If the sanitation department and its employees are exemplary in this, we do not doubt that householders and occupiers of commercial premises will rally to the cause. The weight of civic opinion should be enough to force compliance with the new regulations on careless or indifferent people. The cost of the new trucks will be large but we are reassured by statements that they will do the work better in less time, and save man-hours. The superintendent believes that the savings in wages will more than pay for the new equipment in five years. On the whole, it seems that garbage—and the citizens—are to get a new deal.

The New House

The new House of Commons has more women in it than ever before, four of them. Three were newly-elected last August; Mrs. Ellen Fairclough was re-elected. Another oddity in the new House is that the Conservatives can show only one member who has had Federal cabinet experience. He is the Hon. Earle Rowe, who was minister without portfolio in the cabinet of the late Viscount Bennett. Mr. Rowe is now senior Opposition member next to Mr. Drew, since the death of Mr. Gordon Graydon.

The Senate also has matters of note on its reassembly. Twelve new senators have been introduced—a sizable number. They include three women. Thus the Senate, too, has more women than ever before—five all told. Flattering as it may have been to the female members of both Houses, we hope it is not a complete indication of their usefulness in them that the only reports on the ladies' presence was about the costumes they wore.

SOVIET SURVEY

May The Best Man Win

By EDWARD CRANKSHAW

NO ONE did more for the West in showing the way to the stand up to Moscow, and the way to put the whole Russian problem into perspective, than the courageous, untiring Mayor of besieged Berlin, Ernest Reuter. He died, calamitously, just five weeks ago; but had he lived, he would have seen in the Western reaction to Moscow's reply to the invitation hold a Foreign Ministers' meeting at Lugano the signs of a new spirit which would have pleased him greatly.

✧ ✧ ✧

FOR the really important and striking thing is that in effect there has been no reaction at all. At last the West seems to be reaching the state in which, like Reuter in Berlin for so many years, it can move calmly on with its own plans, treating the Kremlin neither submissively nor with blustering provocation, treating the Communist menace like one more unfortunate fact of life. If the Russians will not join in a meeting about Germany—the United States Secretary of State, John Foster Dulles, said in effect—then we shall have to have a meeting without them. It sounds very simple; but we have taken a long time to reach that point, and there will doubtless be backsliding and further periods of waiting on the Kremlin's initiative, and then of reacting in anger or fear. But at least it is the beginning.

✧ ✧ ✧

I HAVE CHOSEN Mr. Dulles as the hero of this hour because he is a very important man in a very strong nation which likes things to be cut and dried—which likes either war or peace, either crusading fury or quietude. But the world is not a cut and dried place. We are in for a long period of neither war nor peace.

✧ ✧ ✧

IT IS PERHAPS easier for the British, long used to living in a higly vulnerable position, and fresh from their mistakes over Hitler, than it is for the Americans, to go quietly ahead in a difficult world, surmounting what can be surmounted, avolding what cannot be surmounted and spending a great deal of money, as a sort of insurance premium on arms which everyone hopes will never be used.

✧ ✧ ✧

NOBODY who remembers the nineteen-thirties will ever forget the shameful way in which the statesmen, and the people of England and France—and of the United States—hung on every word of Hitler's; and how, instead of getting on with their own business, they simply waited to see what he was going to do next. It demoralised the whole generation. And since the war there has been too much of this mood in the Western attitude towards Russia. It has lost us a great deal. And one of Ernst Reuter's favourite jibes was directed at those people who hung on every word in "Pravda," the Russian newspaper, and allowed themselves to be hypnotised by Stalin.

✧ ✧ ✧

REUTER was less fair in attacking those who saw hidden meanings in obscure Soviet utterances. Certainly it is shameful to be intimidated by the veiled threats of foreign statesmen who are known to have no use for us. But it is not shameful to try to discover what in fact they are saying—provided we do not pay too much attention to it when we find out. And in order to understand what the Kremlin is saying, a cryptographic approach is all too necessary, for the simple reason that the Russians are incapable of explaining themselves straight-forwardly.

✧ ✧ ✧

THIS DRIVES them to use a sort of totemistic code of significant or symbolic actions—like a tramp's chalk signs—to which no one possesses the key. This is true of all Russian Governments, whether or not they are Communist.

✧ ✧ ✧

IN THE PAST FEW days there have been a number of such chalk signs. There has been the Lugano refusal itself, with its strangely explicit emphasis on non-co-operation; Marshal Voroshilov's speech on the thirty-sixth anniversary of the Revolution, with its comparative brevity, its lack of bluster, its cold re-statement of the non-cooperation thesis of the Lugano refusal, and its strong emphasis on internal betterment; There were the peculiarities of the Red Square demonstration next day, in which the military side was drastically curtailed to make way for a vast demonstration of civilian workers marching towards a better life; and, finally there was Mr. Molotov's get-together with the British French and United States Ambassadors the next evening.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE IMPORTANT thing about these signs when they are viewed collectively, and seen against the background of the new three-year plan to raise the Soviet standard of living, is that they indicate that the new Western attitude, already projected by Sir Winston Churchill, and confirmed by Mr. Dulles on Monday, is not only respectable and admirable, but also correct.

✧ ✧ ✧

THERE WAS a tendency among the innocent to think that perhaps Mr. Molotov's drinking party with the envoys of the West meant a sudden thawing—in spite of all that has just been happening. Actually the little scene in Spiridonovka Palace was symbolic of something quite different.

✧ ✧ ✧

IT IS wrong to say it meant nothing. It meant that having defined his position—standing on the defensive without compromise for a definite period, and getting on with the business at home—Mr. Molotov was saying: "Very well, we understand each other. All will be well provided we respect one another's existing position. You get on with the European Defence Community and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization—if you can. We shall get on with harrying you through industrial and colonial unrest—if we can. It's no good pretending we trust each other. We don't. We shall keep our powder dry; we have no doubt you will do the same. But at least we can relax the paralysing tension, which is costing us as much as it costs you. And later on we can think again. Meanwhile, may the best man win."

The virtue of this attitude lies in its freedom from hysteria. With Mr. Dulles we could do worse than make it our own. Ernst Reuter of Berlin had no doubt who the best man would prove to be. Have we?

Mr. St. Laurent's Problem

(VICTORIA TIMES)

IN negotiating a trade treaty with Japan the St. Laurent Government obviously faces one of the hardest decisions in its history. The pressure groups opposed to any competitive imports, and epecially to low-priced Japanese imports, are now in full cry. They will find substantial support in Parliament and perhaps within the Cabinet itself. Only with high political courage can Mr. St. Laurent make good his promise—first uttered in Victoria a year ago—to open trade on a substantial and profitable basis with Japan.

The arguments for Mr. St. Laurent's policy, on the highest political, military and economic grounds, are unanswerable

As he says, if an over-crowded and desperate Japan cannot earn a living by trade with free world it will turn to the Communist world. If it does so the democratic nations' whole plan of defense in eastern Asia will be undermined, perhaps fatally.

Apart from those considerations of strategy, trade with Japan will greatly benefit the economy of Canada and especially the economy of British Columbia. Last year Canada sold to Japan about $100 millions worth of goods and bought back only about $12 millions in Japanese goods. Such a one-sided bargain, Mr. St. Laurent rightly believes, cannot continue long, simply because Japan cannot find Canadian dolars to purchase Canadian goods if it cannot sell its own here. One way or another, Japan must enter our market on a larger scale if we are to retain our present important Japanese market.

In fact, the present Japanese market is only a small fraction of the market we could secure there if we bought more Japanese goods. Our prairie farmers can sell large quantities of grain to Japan, our B.C. timber, pulp and paper industries can sell similar quantites of their products and many other industries will find new markets if Japan is allowed to trade with us on a reasonable basis.

It is said that some Japanese products will replace Canadian-made products in our market under Mr. St. Laurent's policy. This no doubt is true. At the same time, however, in other industries, Japanese purchases will create new jobs and more prosperity for Canadians. If we were to follow the logic of Mr. St. Laurent's critics to its conclusion and keep all competitive foreign goods out of our market, lest they disturb some local industry, soon we should have very little foreign trade at all and our great exporting industries, especially those of British Columbia, would collapse. . . . .

The test of Mr. St. Laurent in the case of Japanese trade will be his ability to find a compromise which will benefit our exporting industries through new markets and our consumers through lower-priced goods, with a minimum of damage to some of our protected and high-priced manufacturing industries. The Prime Minister has seldom tackled a more difficult task.

Venice Preserved

By JOHN CAIRNCROSS

The Grand Canal of Venice is the longest, and in the opinion of many the most beautiful, avenues in the world. Along its five miles it is flanked by artistic treasures. At its south-western end, the Byzantine cathedral of San Marco looks across the water to the Renaissance church of Santa Maria Della Salute. Farther up are many places of varying styles and antiquity, which, nevertheless, form a waterfront of great harmony.

Compared with them, the Rialto bridge, half way up the canal's S-shaped course, is a newcomer. It was built as late as 1588. If, as some critics believe, Shakespeare's famous play, "The Merchant of Venice," was written as early as 1594, his reference to the Rialto would be one of those current bits of news with which the Elibabethans liked to season their plays.

The only other bridge is at the main station, where the trains come in across the causeway from the mainland. Otherwise, the crossing must be made by water. Passengers who are romantically inclined will take the traditional gondola; others cross by the "Vaporetto," or steamer.

It is these vaporetti which, by the swirling wake they provoke, have aggravated Venice's chief problem: the decay of its palaces. For there is hardly one of those magnificent buildings that is not slowly succumbing to rot. Experts say that there is no immediate danger of collapse, but that unless steps are taken fairly soon, there will be disaster in about fifty years' time.

Up to the present there does not seem to have been any concerted attempt to cope with the threat. Some of the palaces have been taken over and put into good condition by rich foreigners, and a good deal is, of course, done by historically-minded Venetians. But the chief contribution to the enormous expenditure involved will have to come from elsewhere. Since Venice attracts hundreds of thousands of visitors each year, the State and the Town Council may put up some funds. But the only scheme likely to provide a way out is one which its suporters hardly-dare whisper.

At the present the palaces give directly on to the canal. Now it is proposed to narrow the width of the canal by building a six-foot pavement on each side, and so making it possible to open up shop fronts where practically none now exist.

However daring the scheme may sound to older Venetians, it is not so very revolutionary. Venice became great by its maritime trade, and at the height of its prosperity, in the sixteenth century, the Grand Canal was the main artery of the city's trade. Its palaces were, in large part, warehouses for the storage and display of the riches streaming in from every corner of the earth. When the main trade currents ebbed away from Venice to the West, the palaces lost their real function. The high street of business became an artistic museum. The new proposal would give it back some of its original usefulness and vitality. And it might prevent the loss to Italy and to the world of their "marvellous absurdity" which enchanted Byron, Musset, Wawnes and scores of other artists.

Meanwhile, wonders are being done to preserve the oldest buildings of the town. Visitors to San Marco, the cathedral of Venice, will remember the scaffolding which always hides some part of the building. The work goes on and is likely to continue indefinitely. Cement is injected at high pressure into the crumbling pillars, after the delicate covering of carving or mosaic has been removed piece by piece. Rotting wooden cupolas are dismantled and replaced by a new structure which matches, down to the slightest irregularity, the old dome. In the same way, the outer covering of lead, which was falling in, has been taken down; a new lead casing inserted; and the old integument replaced.

Unfortunately, not all historic buildings are so well care for. The villas of Venetia (the province of which Venice is capital) are in many cases falling into decay or being used as stables and farmhouses. In some cases it has been possible to save the gay eighteenth century frescoes and take them to a Venice museum. In others the villas have been rescued by foreign enthusiasts. The most famous instance is a villa that was used as a barn until a Nordic visitor fell in love with it bought it, and, with an old guide in one hand and a sponge in the other, went round rubbing off the dirt that had covered the gods and goddesses of Renaissance wall paintings.

Public opinion has been slow in awakening to the danger of losing part of Italy's artistic heritage. An exhibition concerned with those villas has been touring the larger cities, and has probably been responsible for certain tax concessions granted to villa owners by the Government. But there is still a long way to go.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And Jacob went on his way and the angels of God met him . . .

And Jacob said, O God of my father Abraham, and God of my Father Isaac, the Lord which saidst unto me, Return unto thy country, and to thy kindred, and I will deal well with thee:

I am not worthy of the least of all the mercies, and of all the truth, which thou hast shewed unto my servant . . .

Deliver me, I pray thee, from the hand of my brother, from the hand of Esau; for I fear him, lest he will come and smite me, and the mother with the children . . .

And Jacob was left alone; and there wrestled a man with him unto the breaking of the day.

And when he saw that he prevailed not against him, he touched the hollow of Jacob's thigh; and the hollow of Jacob's thigh was out of joint, as he wrestled with him.

And he said Let me go for the day breaketh. And he said, I will not let thee go, except thou bless me.

And he said unto him, what is thy name? And he said Jacob.

And he said, Thy name shall be called no more Jacob, but Israel: for as a prince hast thou power with God and with men, and has prevailed.

And Jacob asked him, and said, Tell me, I pray thee, they name. Wherefore is it that thou dost ask after my name? And he blessed him there.

And Jacob called the name of the place Peniel: for I have seen God face to face, and my life is preserved. (Gen. 32:1, 9, 10, 11, 24-30.)

INTRICATE CANAL SYSTEM—The heavy line running from east of Kingston, through the Great Lakes to Port Arthur and Fort William on the map indicates the route of the 2,000 mile, $700,000,000 St. Lawrence Seaway and power project. Enlarged canals and locks will permit ships of heavier tonnage than now is possible to bypass the more precipitous waters. New power houses will harness the seaway for electrical energy for both Ontario and New York State.

Lakehead Canal System Complicated Business

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

What is involved in the St. Lawrence seaway and power project, which proposes to give Canada's 2,200-mile water route from the Lakehead to the Atalntic a minimum depth of 27 feet?

At Fort William and Port Arthur on Lake Superior, we are—on an average over the year—602.2 feet above sea level. Between there and the coast, we must bring our ship down from that height.

We can't take our ship to sea as nature takes the waters, over rapids and waterfalls.

We have built canals around the more precipitous places. We enter a canal lock; we close gates behind us to prevent water from getting in at the upper end; and we let water out at the lower end until we are down to the level of the next lock of body of water. Coming up, we reverse the process.

MILES OF CANALS

In the 1,200 miles from the Lakehead to Montreal we go through 26 locks in 64.6 miles of canals. Coming up, we go through four more locks in a further 11.5 miles of canals.

From Fort William and Port Arthur we cross the northern bight of Lake Superior, 258 miles. We enter St. Mary's river, whose 63 miles will drop us 23 feet into Lake Huron—most of it in a single lock at Sault Ste. Marie, in the world's busiest canal system.

St. Mary's channels allow us 25 feet of water downbound and 21 feet upbound. We hope the United States, which has done most of the modern channel improvement there, will deepen it to 27 feet to conform with what Canada plans farther along.

THROUGH LAKE HURON

From St. Mary's we sail 219 miles through Lake Huron. Then, without canals, we drop eight feet into Lake Erie through the St. Clair river, 39 miles; lake St. Clair, 18 miles; and Detroit river, 32 miles—passing on our way the cities of Sarnia, Windsor and Detroit.

These connecting waters also have minimum depths of 25 feet downbound and 21 feet upbound, and again we hope the United States will deepen them to 27 feet.

We go 219 miles through Lake Erie, past rich western Ontario and Cleveland and the throbbing American industrial area to the south, until we come to the most spectacular obstacle of all—Niagara Falls and the rapids and gorges of Niagara river.

This obstacle has been overcome. The Welland canal, opened by Canada in 1932, takes us around it and drops us 326 feet, through eight locks and 27.6 miles of canal, into Lake Ontario.

The Welland cost $132,000,000 and in it Canada looked forward to a deep seaway to the ocean. Its smallest lock is 859 feet long, 80 feet wide and 30 feet on the sills. This compares with ruling dimensions of 240 feet length and 45 feet width in the 14-foot canals downstream. It requires only dredging to deepen its present 25 feet.

From the Welland we travel 155 miles through Lake Ontario, past Hamilton and Toronto to Kingston and 68 miles through the Thousand Islands.

That takes us to Prescott, Ont., and Ogdensburg, N.Y., and the start of the International rapids section of the St. Lawrence river.

Now we have arrived at the real job of the St. Lawrence seaway and power project. The 115 miles between here and Montreal are the bottleneck which, to date, has sealed off big ocean ships from the lakes, and big lake ships from Montreal.

TRANSHIPMENT

This has meant, as only one instance, that western grain can't go to market without transshipment on the lakes. It means, in the years just ahead, a throttling hand on the amount of Labrador iron ore which can reach mid-continent markets.

With the present 14-foot canals we can send through ships of some 2,500 tons deadweight capacity. With the 27-foot canals we will be able to send through ships of 25,000 to 30,000 tons capacity.

The St. Lawrence waterway is open about eight months each year, from mid-April to mid-December.

LONG SAULT RAPIDS—The freighter Charles R. Huntray plies one of the canals west of Cornwall, Ont., in the present inland water route which is to be enlarged when the St. Lawrence Seaway is built. From Port Arthur and Fort William at the lakehead to Montreal at the other end of the proposed seaway route there is a drop of 602.2 feet which must be navigated through an intricate system of locks and canals.—(CP from National Film Board).

Fergus Pilot Lands Jet After Mid-Air Crash

LONDON (Reuters) — RCAF headquarters today identified the pilot who safely landed a Sabre jet fighter at Liverpool Sunday after a mid-air collision as FO. Jack Nicholls of Fergus, Ont.

Nicholls, serving with the 3rd Fighter Wing, Zweibrucken, Germany, was ferrying the Sabre, one of eight going from Germany to Liverpool's Speke airport for overhaul and repair, when the accident occurred.

His plane suffered slight damage to its right wing and rudder when it dived out of a cloud at 4,500 feet and hit a light civilian plane. Nicholls was uninjured.

Wants Fines In Installments

MONTREAL (CP)—Payment of fines in installments and wider use of probation would cut down the number of criminals in Canada, J. Alex Edmison, assistant principal of Queen's University and prominent penologist, said Tuesday.

Addressing a Rotary Club luncheon, Mr. Edmison said in Canada it is possible for two men to be fined $25 or spend 30 days in jail.

"For the one with money it would be a lark. A trip to jail for the other would mark him as a jailbird.

"The dollar sign should not determine whether or not a person goes to jail."

Adult probation was virtually unknown in many Canadian provinces. In 1950 only 3,630 Canadians were on probation, compared with about 34,000 in England and Wales.

Mr. Edmison said records show 75 per cent of prisoners granted probation never appear in police court again.

Need More Facilities To Process Tomatoes

ESSEX (CP)—Members of the Essex County Tomato Growers' Association said processors must provide facilities for the handling or larger amounts of tomatoes during shorter period if they wish to encourage greater tomato production.

Some 200 county farmers attended the meeting Monday night.

Spokesmen said the quota basis of accepting tomatoes from growers caused farmers to lose some of their crops during harvest season because processing plants could not accept them as fast as they ripen.

TEA GROWERS

Nearly 500,000 laborers are employed in the tea-producing gardens at Assam in India.

OTTAWA (CP) — External Affairs Minister Pearson will leave here Thursday night to fill two speaking engagements. The minister will address the Canadian Club at Niagara Falls, Ont., Friday night. He will be in New York during the weekend and will be one of three speakers at the English - speaking Union there Monday night.

Maroons Dump Niagara 6-1 For Cataracts 12th Loss

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The vivid descriptions about the dangerous Cataracts of Niagara Falls are all washed up.

The Cataracts are not dangerous and the other seven teams in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series are proving it.

The Cataracts could hardly be compared to the swirling rapids when they were trounced 6-1 by Chatham Maroons in Niagara Falls Tuesday night. Their 12th loss in 14 games was a stepping stone to first place for Chatham.

Windsor Bulldogs kept up their undefeated record on home ice by trouncing Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen 5-1. The Bulldogs moved into a two-way, second-place tie with the Dutchmen by their seventh home victory.

INDIAN WIN

Saulte Ste. Marie (Mich.) Indians edged the Lumber Kings 2-1 in Pembroke to move into solid possession of fourth place in the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A group.

Jim Connolly, Joe Carveth, Al Plouffe, Doug French, Bill Cupulo and Billy Lee scored for the Maroons. Ted Fauteux scored for Niagara Falls.

Doug Towers and Gord Haidy notched two goals each for the Bulldogs to displace Kitchener from first place in the standings. Lyle Wiseman fired the other. George Scholes scored for the Dutchmen.

Laurie Peterson fired both goals for the Indians. Emile Dagenais replied for the Lumber Kings.

Sarnia is at Stratford in the OHA group and the Indians meet the Wolves in Sudbury in the NOHA.

Rollie Miles Of Eskimos Sets Record For Yards In One Game

REGINA (CP)—A record of 169 yards rushing in one game by Edmonton Eskimos' all-star scatback Rollie Miles was disclosed in official statistics for this season's 16-game regular schedule in the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

The little Negro's rushing total surpassed the 163 yards gained by Winnipeg fullback Lorne Benson in Blue Bombers' 43-5 romp over Saskatchewan Roughriders in the league semi-finals this year, and the 161 yards netted by Edmonton fullback Mike King in a 1951 regular season game.

The record came in a losing effort Oct. 19, when Eskimos were shaded 20-19 by Roughriders. In that game the little speedster, a third-year import, scored two touchdowns, his fourth and fifth within three nights. For one of them, he ran 91 yards.

RECORD UNHERALDED

The fact that Miles had broken King's record went unnoticed at the time.

About one-quarter of the 116 player and team records on the WFU books were shattered this year. Herbie Johnson, first-year import halfback with Saskatchewan, led the way with five new marks.

He set a pass-receiving percentage record of 88 by catching 29 of 33 passes thrown him. This eclipsed the 78.9 average set last year by Blue Bomber half Tom Casey.

BREAKS RECORDS

Johnson's 151 yards in runbacks of punts in a single game set a record along with a 109-yard run, the longest ever. His 72 runbacks of punts, totalling 634 yards, broke two more marks.

Edmonton halfback Billy Vessels from Oklahoma set the 1953 rushing pace with 926 yards or an average of 7.1 yards a carry.

Jack Jacobs of Winnipeg and Rider coach-quarter Frankie Filchock both completed 58 per cent of their passes, an all-time record. The Oklahoma Indian also set two records in passes thrown and completed for a single game, with 40 throws and 38 completions, both coming at different times.

Oldtimers Play OHA Team Here On Nov. 26

Oldtime hockeyists will strut their stuff once more at Civic Arena one week from this Thursday night on the PMHA booster night to aid minor hockey here. They will play the present OHA junior Petes' team at eight on Nov. 26, and will hold a full scale workout next Monday evening at six. All players listed are asked to attend and bring their skates.

The list includes: Red Creighton, Bun Kingdon, Honey Tompkins, Art Heal, Bob Thorpe, Ross Nicholls, Ned and Dootch Vitarelli, Eddie Foley, Jim Ellis, Bert McLeod, Johnny Godfrey, Jack Gardner, Don Coughlin, Mel Anthony, Mucker Legros, Bob McCabe, Pat Calladine, Les Burton, Drake and Jack Jopling, Joe Blewett, Doug Mortimer, Archie Weir and Dit Clapper. Several former NHL stars are expected to be on hand to referee.

BROOMBALL PLAY

In between periods there will be a broomball game between the local firemen and police, arranged for by PMHA president Dick Ouimet.

The PMHA has a meeting at 8:30 Monday night for executive, managers and coaches, an important session.

On booster night, a prize of a complete ensemble (valued at $250) for a lady or a man will be put up by Ed Riley as a door draw prize, no tickets for this being sold except at the gate. The minor puck executive promises plenty of fun and action for this big booster affair with finances going to aid minor hockey here.

Varsity Certain Of Victory

TORONTO (CP) — University of Toronto Blues, boasting an impressive defensive record, looked with confidence today to their sudden-death game in Toronto Saturday against University of Western Ontario Mustangs for the senior intercollegiate football crown.

Blues supporters ticked off these striking points about the team's 1953 performance:

Opposing teams haven't scored a forward-pass touchdown against the Blues all season; the single point Queen's scored against Varsity last Saturday was the only score against the team in its last four games; Western, defending college champions, scored only a single point in two invasions of Toronto this year.

The two teams have clashed three times this season. In Toronto the Blues won a pre-season exhibition 11-1 and took a scheduled game 12-0. In London, Western came from behind for a 13-10 verdict.

The Blues escaped without serious injury in their final scheduled game at Kingston Saturday. The minor hurts were suffered by end Ted Kennedy who lost two teeth, half Phil Muntz who acquired a charley horse and Steven Oneschuk who aggravated a shoulder injury.

21 Assists Boost Attersley To Lead

TORONTO (CP)—Helping others put Bob Attersley where he is today—at the top of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A scoring race.

Official figures show the Guelph Biltmore player with 14 goals and 21 assists for a total of 35 points. His nearest rival, Brian Cullen of St. Catharines TeePees, has 18 goals with 15 assists for a 33-point total.

The leaders:

Attersley, Guelph	14	21	35

BROWNS FADE

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The name St. Louis Browns passed into history officially Tuesday—stockholders of the organization changed the formal name to Baltimore Baseball Club Inc., informally the Orioles.

It was the last step in the American League franchise transfer.

Only 12 stockholders appeared at the meeting and voted "unanimously and most agreeably" to changes proposed, said Clyde Morris, Baltimore lawyer and secretary of the Orioles.

BOMBERS WEST CHAMPIONS — Winnipeg halfback Len Meltzer crosses the Edmonton Eskimo goal line for a touchdown in the Blue Bombers' 30-24 victory over Edmonton in the final of a best- of three series for the championship of the Western Interprovincial Football Union. Meltzer caught a short pass from Winnipeg's famed Indian Jack Jacobs for the score, in the game at Edmonton. Guard Ted Tully, a Vancouver product, tries to bring down Meltzer.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

A few follow-up football notes from Montreal sheets on the Orfuns-Flyers playoff last Saturday: "Jack James, skipper of Fort William Redskins, was on hand Saturday to scout the Eastern final. James was thoroughly impressed with the powerful Lakeshore wingline and equally aware of the brilliant aerial defence thrown up by Bill Davies' Flyers as they beat Peterborough. Orfuns made more first downs than Lakeshores but when they moved within scoring range they were halted by a fighting, charging line. 'Those Flyers certainly fight out there,' James said. "I am impressed with their strength but not worried about the outcome. My boys beat a St. Boniface team which looked much better in pre-game predictions."

* * * * * *

Of last Saturday's tilt, one scribe remarked: "The game was lacking in spectacular play. Rather it was a good, sound football game with neither team taking too many chances. Peterborough's husky backs found themselves running into a solid wall with the scene of payoff territory calling them on. Bill Huntley, a stocky pile-driving back, Bus Jensen and Roy Armstrong were top ball-carriers for Orfuns, going best around end. Gord Beatty, Frank Fitzgerald and Floyd Ouellette were line standouts. Bill Trim's crashing tactics were a thorn in the Lakeshore side all day and he blocked a kick. But Flyers fought hardest when they had to, and no one knows that better than the Orfuns."

Old Feud Fired Anew

Following a couple of serious injuries to Boston players in Toronto last NHL meeting of these clubs, the fiery Conny Smythe took time out to tell the Bruins' coach that it served Boston right—or words to that effect—for trying to play it rough. Patrick promptly retorted that Leafs would find Bruins plenty rough next time they played in Boston. The old feud building up again betwixt these two clubs. As long as we can remember seeing NHL games there has been little love lost between Bruins and Leafs—and many local fans swing to Boston on account of that lengthy and starry career there of Dit Clapper (whom Leafs respected highly) and more lately Red Sullivan. But some still remember when Ace Bailey was put out of hockey in Boston by Eddie Shore many years ago. It's quite a feud.

There's hockey on tap tonight and tomorrow e'en in Civic Arena ere the OHA senior "B" fray Friday. This e'en it's Lindsay Muskies vs. Lakefield Indians in an intermediate "A" lakeshore number which should be plenty interesting. On the morrow, the PMHA-ers resume action, with these games, first one at six: Bantam Shamrocks vs. Police, midget Shamrocks vs. Aces, Norwood juves vs. Oddfellows, Norwood midgets vs. Police, and Aces vs. the juvenile Police crew. The Monday game is Aces vs. Bell bantams. An OMHA clinic for refs, coaches and managers at Lindsay arena on November 25.

Those Oldsters on Ice

A booster night is planned for the PMHA on November 26 with a draw prize, broomball game betwixt firemen and police, as well as a puck exhibition between OHA junior Petes and local oldtime players. List is in elsewhere, though a few former aces may have been missed inadvertently. These oldsters are asked to turn out Monday eve for a practise at six, bringing their skates. Several former NHL-ers are being invited in for the night to act as referees. Sounds like a large evening, proceeds of which go to aid minor hockey in Peterborough. Meantime the PMHA executive, managers and coaches meet at 8:30 tonight in the King George Hotel.

Cleveland Barons, where Don Ashbee plays, is second in the AHL standing now to Buffalo, with Hershey (with Red Sullivan aboard) also tied for that second slot. Lewicki of Pittsburg and three Buffalo puckists, Slowinski, Marshall and Stewart, lead scorers with 24 points. McCormack of Buffalo has 22, while Sullivan and Ferguson of Hershey are next with 20. The redhead keeps right up there around the top, having seven goals and 13 points to date in 16 frays, though he's served 20 minutes in penalties. Nip O'Hearn is still in goal on loan from Syracuse to Springfield. The MVP trophy for last year recently was presented to Ed Olson of Barons, only USA-born player ever to win this AHL cup and lead the loop in scoring.

Bucceroni Hoping To Take On Marciano

LOS ANGELES (CP)—Don Bucceroni, who hopes to land a title match with heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano, is heavily picked to use veteran Freddy Beshore for a punching bag when they meet here tonight.

Bucceroni, 26, probably will weigh about 195.

Bucceroni's best known victims this year were Tommy Harrison and Jimmy Slade.

Beshore, after a long layoff, came back to defeat Abel Fernandez, gain a draw and lose a decision to Harry (Kid) Matthews. He weighs about 190.

BIG STADIUNM

The cricket ground at Melbourne, Australia, has accommodated capacity crowds of 90,000.

Flyers Meet Ft. William For Title Game

MONTREAL (CP)—Lake Shore Flyers, with a fast-charging line and a good backfield, meet Fort William Redskins here Saturday in the first officially sanctioned east - west intermediate football final.

Previous sectional matches have been arranged by the clubs themselves. Early this year, at its meeting in Edmonton, the Canadian Rugby Union gave its blessing to an annual final for the Percy Robinson Memorial Trophy.

The Redskins are expected to arrive Friday and will be able to practise in the afternoon. St. Aloysius Orfuns, like Flyers members of the Quebec Rugby Football Union, have offered their east-end field for use by the Fort William club.

LOCAL BOYS

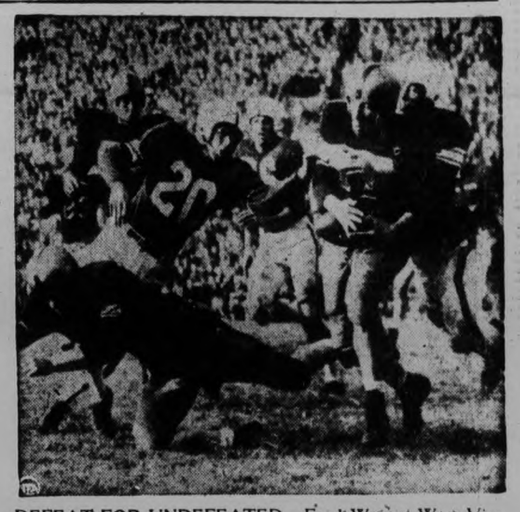
Coach Bill Davies' eastern team is an aggregation made up largely of players from the suburban area bordering Lake St. Louis. Davies played with Montreal Big Four teams before the war and was a winner of the Jeff Russel Trophy, an annual award to the most valuable, popular and sportsmanlike player in the Big Four.

Sparkplug of the Flyers is Wilf O'Hagan, 27, a running halfback who came back after a foot injury and was outstanding in the ORFU playoffs and in the eastern final last saturday against Peterborough Orfuns, whom Flyers e-feated 11-0.

DOUBLE THREATS

Joe Stracina, 23, formerly with Saskatchewan Rough Riders, does the kicking for Flyers. He's a fullback. One of the fleet backfielders is Sandy Spence, Montreal track star. George Bossy, an end, played with McGill two seasons ago. He was a member of Canada's paddling team at the Olympic games in Helsinki last summer.

At quarterback is Ron Lamb, a local boy who has shown exceptionally well in the last few games. Ron Farrington, who wears glasses is also a quarterback. He has done most of the passing but has been used recently as a defensive half.



The CRU has set 24 as the number of players to be dressed by each team but both coaches are reported agreeable to using their full squads of about 30. Davies goes in for wholesale changes, more on the platoon system for offensive and defensive play.

Remember When—

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Winnipeg Blue Bombers beat Calgary Bronks 28-7 to win the western football title 14 years ago today, taking the two-game total-point round 35-20 after losing the first game 13-7. Winnipeg went on to win the Canadian title by edging Ottawa 8-7 in the Grey Cup final.

DEFEAT FOR UNDEFEATED—Fred Wyant, West Virginia quarterback, takes 10 yards for a first down at Morgantown, W. Va., in the third quarter of the game with South Carolina, whose Gene Kopac halts the advance. Unbeaten West Virginia lost to South Carolina, 20-14.

Free-For-All Livens Tee Pees Game

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The good thing about the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series is the insurance the nine teams offer their fans.

If the spectators don't see a hockey game, they're bound to see at least a good fight.

Tuesday night in St. Catharines they saw both—a game in which St. Catharines TeePees shutout Toronto St. Michael's College Majors 2-0 and a free-for-all in the third period.

In the loop's other game Barrie Flyers dropped the Citadelles 6-5 in Quebec.

JUST WAITING

TeePees and St. Michael's proved that players in the OHA Junior loop will fight at the drop of a stick. Ches Warchol of the TeePees evaded a bodycheck in the third period but by so doing fell back over Less Duff of the Irish. Duff resented it and that touched it off. Before the differences were settled four majors and two misconducts were assessed to members of both teams.

Nels Bullock and Brian Cullen scored for St. Catharines to increase its first-place standings to three points over the second-plaee Galt Black Hawks.

Nipper Nash, Don Cherry, Ed McQueen, Dan McNeil, Cleland Mortson and Arnold Smith tallied for the Flyers. Clermont Doyan fired three for the last-place Citadelles. Ray Cyr and Mike Ratchford were the other Quebec marksmen.

Galt plays the Tigers in Hamilton and St. Mitchael's meets the Biltmores in Guelph tonight.

Rangers Hoping For Crowd Support

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Frank Boucher, New York Ranger Coach, will probably be counting noses in the Madison Square Garden crowd tonight. Boucher pulled a few switches to inject some color into his fading Broadway Blues and the move paid off with some of largest National Hockey League crowds of the season. But tonight, after a two-game loss to Detroit Red Wings last weekend, the Rangers face the cellar-dwelling Chicago Black Hawks.

Saturday night, the Rangers-Red Wings game drew 17,782 fans, the largest crowd of the season. The Rangers lost 3-2. In Detroit Sunday they lost again 4-1. New York is in fifth place with 11 points, six points behind Boston Bruins.

HAWKS IMPROVING

Sid Abel's Black Hawks fared much better. They defeated the leading Montreal Canadiens 3-2 in Montreal Saturday and fought to a 2-2 deadlock with the Habs in Chicago Sunday. The win and tie pulled them closer to the Rangers and a victory tonight would move Rangers.

Abel is unveiling new player tonight, defenceman Fred Hucul from the Calgary farm club. Friday night in Boston he adds 18-year-old Fred Saskamoose, a full-blooded Cree Indian from Moose Jaw Juniors of the Western Junior Hockey League.

Boucher is counting on his new defenceman Ivan (The Terrible) Irwin to spark his club into the higher echelons of the NHL. Irwin was brought in from Vancouver Canucks of the Western Hockey League to replace Allan Stanley.

Two games are scheduled Thursday night. Toronto Maple Leafs meet Montreal and Boston is at Detroit.

Jean Beliveau Skates, Ankle Seems Normal

MONTREAL (CP) — Jean Beliveau, Montreal rookie centre, skated Tuesday for the first time since he suffered a broken ankle bone Oct. 23 in a game at Chicago.

When he will return to action is problematical—likely a week or more. Beliveau skated for 50 minutes without any ill effects to the ankle.

Rumor Alston Dodger Pilot

NEW YORK (CP)—Walter Alston, who pilots the Brooklyn Dodger Montreal triple-A farm club in the International League, was touted today by the Daily Mirror as the new Dodger manager—but the club has nothing to say about the appointment.

Alston managed Montreal to the International League title last season and the little world series championship over Kansas City of the American Association. The Brooklyn job has been open since Chuck Dressen, who piloted the club to the National League pennant but lost to New York Yankees in the world series, left last month after failing to get a contract for more than one year.

The Mirror said it got its information "from a source close to the Ebbets Field inner headquarters."

But none of the official Dodger sources would say anything about the rumor.

MICKEY MANTLE, New York Yankee outfielder on crutches after a knee operation, tests the shoulder pads of younger brother Roy (12) just before Commerce high school's football team recently defeated Grove 18-13. Roy and his twin Ray (14), are stars on the undefeated Commerce eleven.

Ti-Cats' Pass Defence Must Be Good

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton Tiger-Cats' pass defence, which has been good some games and bad in others, will have to be at its sharpest for the Big Four playoffs opening here today.

It will have to contend with the passing attack of Montreal Alouettes directed by Sam (The Rifle) Etcheverry, who, when he is havin a good day, can pass a team dizzy.

The Als' main weapon is the right arm of the former University of Denver quarterback. Whether the Tiger-Cats can throttle his aerial blows will depend largely on the defensive play of Dick Brown, Lou Kusserow, Vito Ragazzo and Ralph Toohy, aided by a line who know they must hurry Etcheverry on his throws or smear him before he can get them away.

BEST BACKFIELD

On the record of its number of interceptions, the Hamilton defensive backfield is the best in the league but in some games it has looked weak and the lapses have caused dire effects.

That was the case in the last meeting of the regular schedule between the Tiger-Cats and Als in Montreal. The pass defence collapsed in the final quarter and Montreal went on to win 31-18. game of the best-of-three series Tiger-Cats beat the Als by the same score. Alouettes beat them 17-0 in Montreal Sept. 11 and Tiger-Cats won the next battle 20-15 in Hamilton.

Cam Fraser, who'll be missing along with linebacker Quincy Armstrong from the Tiger-Cats line-up today because of injuries, won that game for Hamilton when he kicked a Montreal punt behind the Al's line and rushed down to fall on it for a touchdown while the Montreal kicker, Tex Coulter, waited to pick it up as the final seconds ticked off. Until that happened the Als were in front 15-14.

HOME-FIELD WINS

The games that the Tiger-Cats and Als have won against each other have been on their home fields. If that is any edge Hamilton will have it but the second game of the best-of-three stries will be played in Montreal Sunday, and the third, if necessary, also there next Wednesday.

The Als, who placed five men on the Big Four all-star offensive team against only one for Hamilton, also weakened through injuries. Coulter, one of the two players who made both the offensive and defensive all-star lineups, is definitely out along with guard Ray Cicia and end Jim Millar. In addition, halfback Tommy Manastersky is a doubtful starter.

Tackle Vince Mazza of Hamilton, who shared the laurels with Coulter of being the only players picked on both the offensive and defensive all-star teams, will be one of the key players in coach Carl Voyles' strategy.

He'll likely be switched to end where he was used earlier in the season against Ottawa.

RACING RECORDS FALL

NEW YORK (AP)—Horse racing at United States thoroughbred tracks broke all records this year, an unofficial Associated Press survey of attendance, betting and revenue of the 25 racing states disclosed today. Wagering went over the $2,000,000,000-mark for the first time.

The season now drawing to a close was even better than the 1952 year, in itself a record season.

With estimates from several states where racing is still going on, the survey shows wagering is up 7.21 per cent over 1952, with attendance up 4.59 per cent, and an increase in revenue to the states of 14.29 per cent.

Incomplete and unofficial figures that wagering totalled $2,068,052,889, compared with $1,928,925,499 in 1952. Attendance this year was 28,329,182 compared with 27,086,748 last year.

RECORD TAXES

The tracks will turn over in revenue to the states and municipalities a record of $136,069,370, compared with the old mark—$119,061,276 in 1952.

New York, perennial leader in betting, showed a decline in both wagering and attendance, but the state revenue based on estimates after Jamaica closed Saturday is up some $5,000,000, due to higher taxes.

This season total betting in New York was $374,441,814, compared with $382,092,519 in 1952. Attendance dropped from 4,543,577 to 4,498,324.

BUDGE WINS ROUND

LONDON (AP) — Veteran Don Budge gave L. Radovanic of of Yugoslavia a 6-1, 6-0, beating Tuesday in the first round of the international indoor professional lawn tennis championships.

The great American star of the 1930's handled the Yugoslavia pro easily and once again got his big serve zipping early and had no trouble handling Radovanic's lobs and drop shots.

First-seeded Pancho Gonzales of Los Angeles, opened second round singles competition with a 6-4, 6-4, victory over Hans Nusslein of Germany.

✦ ✦ ✦

FINNEY BACK TO MINORS

Calgary (CP) — Coach Frank Currie said Tuesday that forward Sid Finney, up with the parent Chicago Black Hawks for the last two weeks, will be returned to Calgary Stampeders of the Western Hockey League.

Finney is being returned as a replacement for Stampeder forward Fred Hucul, who has left to join the Hawks.

SIGN HEAVIES

EDMONTON (CP) — Boxing promoter Jack Berry announced Tuesday night he has signed Bernie Reynolds, 26, of Jersey City, N.J., and Earl Walls of Toronto, Canadian champion, for a heavyweight bout here Dec. 4.

MITCHELL HAPPY

WITCHITA, Kan. (AP) — Jack Mitchell, University of Wichita football coach, said Tuesday night he had declined an offer to coach Calgary Stampeders.

"It was a fine offer, it's a great country up there and their football seems a sound venture. But I am happy with my work here and at this time I am not interested in transferring to professional football," he said.

David Minty Wins Final In YMCA Swim

Ten YMCA swimmers showed improvement in their times as they began a series of 100 yards free style events in preparation for the Annual Christmas Swimming Gala of the Hamilton Aquatic Club, December 12.

Against 24 swimmers, David Minty won by a touch over his younger brother, Leonard and Wayne Atchison who placed second and third respectively. On the last length of the pool the Minty brothers and Atchison swam neck and neck with David pulling ahead in the last yard. Lorne Hale was fourth and Donald Ebbs also swam in the final after winning his heat.

Beside the swimmers in the final event, five lads, Ken Stickle, Bill Bonney, David Wilson, Bill Oliphant and David Ross all showed improvement at the 100 yard event.

Curling News

By HERB MARTIN

The Galt Curling Club recently celebrated its 116th birthday. About two years ago a couple of rinks from Galt played here in one of the open bonspiels.

We understand that there is room for only two more rinks for Saturday afternoon's bonspiel. Contact Vic Brown or R. Collins.

Up to date we have heard nothing about the Tankard or District Cup rinks.

Have you noticed that so far this season—in both the ladies' and men's sections—there have been very few one-sided scores?

OTTAWA (CP)—The Ottawa Citizen said Tuesday that appointment of Jean Desy, 60, former head of the CBC international service, as Canadian ambassador to France is expected to be announced soon.

Mr. Desy, a former Canadian ambassador to Italy and Brazil, would succeed Maj.-Gen. George Vanier, 65, whose retirement was announced Monday.

2 London Papers Defend Queen Going To Races

LONDON (Reuters)—Two mass-circulation London papers today came to Queen Elizabeth's defence in a current controvery with British Methodists on whether or not she should go to the races.

The Daily Mirror and its rival Daily Sketch joined forces to attack a Methodist minister, Rev. Donald Soper, for telling the Queen that she should stay away from the tracks.

Mr. Soper, president of the British Methodist conference, told a Manchester audience Monday that the Queen would be wiser if she kept away from "what is erroneously called 'the sport of kings' but which is largely 'the house of racketeers.'"

The Mirror told its 4,000,000 readers that Mr. Soper should explain himself to the stewards of the Jockey Club whose job it is 'to empty racketeers out of the sport."

CHURCH HAS PROBLEM TOO

"There are shady characters everywhere—even in church congregations," said The Mirror. "But nobody says the Queen must keep away from church to show disapproval."

Herbert Gunn, editor of The Daily Sketch, said in a front-page article:

"They are at it again. The croakers, the moaners, the killjoys, the pestiferous busybodies: Telling the Queen what to do; telling her what not to do."

The Sketch recalled that Mr. Soper had written in the Socialist Daily Herald that, "When my wife and I go on vacation we always put our swimsuits under our Sunday best and hope for a short sermon."

Editor Gunn concluded that the Queen has done nothing that the vast majority of her subjects would not wish her to do.

Claim Another First

LONDON (Reuters) — Russia claimed another "first" today—this time the rifle. Moscow Radio said Russian artillery has always been superior to that of other powers, and Russia was the first country to have guns with rifled barrels.

THE WAR MEMOIRS OF WINSTON CHURCHILL

THE FINAL ADVANCE

President Roosevelt died at a moment when political and military prizes of the highest consequence hung in the balance. Hitler's Western front had collapsed; Eisenhower was across the Rhine and driving deep into Germany and Central Europe against an enemy who in places resisted fiercely but was quite unable to stem the rush of our triumphant armies; there seemed nothing to stop the Western Allies from taking Berlin. The Russians were only thirty-five miles from the city, on the east, but they were not yet ready to attack. Between them and Berlin lay the Oder. The Germans were entrenched before the river, and hard fighting was to take place before the Red Army could force a crossing and begin their advance. Vienna was another matter. Our chance of forestalling the Russians in this ancient capital by a thrust from Italy had been cast away eight months before when Alexander's forces had been stripped for the sake of an unnecessary landing in the South of France.

Stalin had told Eisenhower that his main blow would be made in "approximately the second half of May," but he was able to advance a whole month earlier. Perhaps the swift approach of the Western armies to the Elbe had something to do with it.

The Russians, in great strength on the Oder, thirty-five miles from the capital (Berlin), started their attack on April 16 on a a 200-mile front, and surrounded Berlin on April 25. On the same day spearheads of the United States First Army from Leipzig met the Russians near Torgau, on the Elbe. Germany was cut in two, and the Ninth and First (U.S.) Armies remained halted facing the Russians on the Elbe and the Mulde. The German Army was disintegrating before our eyes. Over a million prisoners were taken in the first three weeks of April, but Eisenhower believed that fanatical Nazis would attempt to establish themselves in the mountains of Bavaria and Western Austria, and he swung the Third U. S. Army southwards. Its right thrust down the Danube, reached Linz on May 5, and later met the Russians coming up from Vienna. Its left penetrated into Czechoslovakia as far as Budejovice, Pilsen, and Karlsbad. There was no agreement to debar him from occupying Prague if it were militarily feasible.

I accordingly approached the President.

Prime Minister to President Truman
30 Apr. 45

There can be little doubt that the liberation of Prague and as much as possible of the territory of Western Czechoslovakia by your forces might make the whole difference to the post-war situation in Czechoslovakia, and might well influence that in near-by countries. On the other hand, if the Western Allies play no significant part in Czechoslovakian liberation that country will go the way of Yugoslavia.

Of course, such a move by Eisenhower must not interfere with his main operations against the Germans, but I think the highly important political consideration mentioned above should be brought to his attention.

On May 1 President Truman told me that General Eisenhower's immediate plan of operations in Czechoslovakia was as follows:

The Soviet Staff now contemplates operations into the Vitava valley. My intention, as soon ascurrent operations permit, is to proceed and destroy any remaining organised German forces.

If a move into Czechoslovakia is then desirable, and if conditions here permit, our logical initial move would be on Pilsen and Karlsbad. I shall not attempt any move which I deem militarily unwise.

The President added, "This meets with my approval." This seemed decisive. Nevertheless I returned to the question a week later.

Prime Minister to General Eisenhower
7 May 45

I am hoping that your plan does not inhibit you to advance to Prague if you have the troops and do not meet the Russians earlier. I thought you did not mean to tie yourself down if you had the troops and the country was empty.

Don't bother to reply by wire, but tell me when we next have a talk.

Eisenhower's plan was however to halt his advance generally on the west bank of the Elbe and along the 1937 boundary of Czechoslovakia. If the situation warranted he would cross it to the general line Karlsbad-Pilsen-Budejovice. The Russians agreed to this and the movement was made. But on May 4 the Russians reacted strongly to a fresh proposal to continue the advance of the Third U.S. Army to the river Vitava, which flows through Prague. This would not have suited them at all. So Eisenhower "halted while the Red Army cleared and east and west banks of the Moldau river and occupied Prague." The city fell on May 9, two days after the general surrender was signed at Rheims.

At this point a retrospect is necessary. The occupation of Germany by the principal Allies had long been studied. In the summer of 1943 a Cabinet Committee which I had set under Mr. Atlee, in agreement with the Chiefs of Staff, recommended that the whole country should be occupied if Germany was to be effectively disarmed, and that our forces should be disposed in three main zones of roughly equal size, the British in the north-west, the American in the south and south-west, and the Russians in an eastern zone. Berlin should be a separate joint zone, occupied by each of the three major Allies. These recommendations were approved and forwarded to the European Advisory Council, which then consisted of M. Gousev, the Soviet Ambassador, Mr. Winant, the American Ambassador, and Sir William Strang of the Foreign Office.

At this time the subject seemed to be purely theoretical. The proposals of the European Advisory Council were not thought sufficiently pressing or practical to be brought before the War Cabinet. Like many praiseworthy efforts to make plans for the future, they lay upon the shelves while the war crashed on. In those days a common opinion about Russia was that she would not continue the war once she had regained her frontiers, and that when the time came the Western Allies might well have to try to persuade her not to relax her efforts. The question of the Russian zone of occupation in Germany therefore did not bulk in our thoughts or in Anglo-American discussions, nor was it raised by any of the leaders at Teheran.

When we met in Cairo in November, 1943, the United States Chiefs of Staff brought it forward, but not on account of any Russian request. The Russian zone of Germany remained an academic conception, if anything too good to be true. I was however told that President Roosevelt wished the British and American zones to be reversed. He wanted the lines of communication of any American force in Germany to rest directly on the sea and not to run through France. This issue involved a lot of detailed technival argument and had a bearing at many points upon the plans for Overlord. No decision was reached at Cairo, but later a considerable correspondence began betwen the President and myself. The British Staffs thought the original plan the better, and also saw many inconveniences and complications in making the change. I had the impression that their American colleagues rather shared their view. At the Quebec Conference in September, 1944, we reached a firm agreement between us.

The President, evidently convinced by the military view, had a large map unfolded on his knees. One afternoon most of the Combined Chiefs of Staff being present he agreed verbally with me that the existing arrangement should stand subject to the United States armies having a near-by direct outlet to the sea across the British zone. Bremen and its subsidiary Bremerhaven seemed to meet the American needs, and their control over this zone was adopted. This decision is illustrated on the accompanying map. We all felt it was too early as yet to provide for a French zone in Germany, and no one so much as mentioned Russia.

At Yalta in February 1945 the Quebec Plan was accepted without further consideration as the working basis for the inconclusive discussions about the future eastern frontier of Germany. This was reserved for the Peace Treaty. The Soviet armies were at this very moment swarming over the pre-war frontiers, and we wished them all success. We proposed an agreement about the zones of occupation in Austria. Stalin, after some persuasion, agreed to my strong appeal that the French should be allotted part of the American and British zones and given a seat on the Allied Control Commission. It was well understood by everyone that the agreed occupational zones must not hamper the operational movements of the armies. Berlin, Prague, and Vienna could be taken by whoever got there first.

The two months that had passed since then had seen tremendous changes cutting to the very roots of thought. Hitler's Germany was doomed and he himself about to perish. The Russians were fighting in Berlin. Vienna and most of Austria was in their hands. The whole relationship of Russia with the Western Allies was in flux. Every question about the future was unsettled between us. The agrements and understandings of Yalta, such as they were, had already been broken or brushed aside by the triumphant Kremlin. New perils, perhaps as terrible as those we had surmounted, loomed and glared upon the torn and harassed world.

My concern at these ominous developments was apparent even before the President's death. He himself, as we have seen, was also anxious and disturbed. His anger at Molotov's accusations over the Berne affair has been recorded. In spite of the victorious advance of Eisenhower's armies, President Truman found himself faced in the last half of April with a formidable crisis. I had for some time past tried my utmost to impress the United States Government with the vast changes which were taking place both in the military and political spheres. Our Western armies would soon be carried well beyond the boundaries of our occupation zones, as both the Western and Eastern Allied fronts approached one another, penning the Germans betwen them.

I became convinced that before we halted, or still more withdrew, our troops we ought to seek a meeting with Stalin face to face and make sure that an agreement was reached about the whole front. It would indeed be a disaster if we kept all our agreements in strict good faith while the Soviets laid their hands upon all they could get without the slightest regard for the obligations into which they had entered.

As early as April 5 I had sent a serious warning to Roosevelt.

. . . There is very little doubt in my mind that the Soviet leaders, whoever they may be, are surprised and disconcerted at the rapid advance of the Allied armies in the West and the almost total defeat of the enemy on our front, especially as they say they are themselves in no position to deliver a decisive attack before the middle of May. All this makes it the more important that we should join hands with the Russian armies as far to the east as possible, and, if circumstances allow, enter Berlin.

I may remind you that we proposed and thought we had arranged six weeks ago provisional zones of occupation in Austria, but that since Yalta the Russians have sent no confirmation of these zones. Now that they are on the eve of taking Vienna and very likely will occupy the whole of Austria it may well be prudent for us to hold as much as possible in the north.

We must always be anxious lest the brutality of the Russian messages does not foreshadow some deep change of policy for which they are preparing. On the whole I incline to think it is no more than their natural expression when vexed or jealous. For that very reason I deem it of the highest importance that a firm and blunt stand should be made at this juncture by our two countries in order that the air may be cleared and they realise that there is a point beyond which we will not tolerate insult. I believe this is the best chance of saving the future. If they are ever convinced that we are afraid of them and can be bullied into submission, then indeed should I despair of our future relations with them and much else.

General Eisenhower had proposed that while the armies in the west and the east should advance irrespective of demarcation lines, in any area where the armies had made contact either side should be free to suggest that the other should withdraw behind the boundaries of their occupation zone. Discretion to request and to order such withdrawals would rest with Army Group commanders. Subject to the dictates of operational necessity, the retirement would then take place. I considered that this proposal was premature and that it exceeded the immediate military needs. I therefore sent the Chiefs of Staff the following minute for their guidance in discussing General Eisenhower's proposal with their American counterparts.

Prime Minister to General Ismay, for C.O.S. Committee
7 April 45

When the forces arrive in contact, and after the preliminary salutations have been exchanged, they should rest opposite each other in those positions, except insofar as actual neighbouring military operations require concerted action. Thus, if we crossed the Elbe and advanced to Berlin, or on a line between Berlin and the Baltic, which is all well within the Russian zone, we should not give this up as a military matter. It is a matter of State to be considered between the three Governments, and in relation to what the Russians do in the south, where they will soon have occupied not only Vienna but all Austria. There cannot be such a hurry about our withdrawing from a place we have gained that the few days necessary for consulting the Governments in Washington and London cannot be found.

I attach great importance to this, and could not agree to proposals of this kind (being decided) on a Staff level. They must be referred to the President and me. * * *

I am very glad to see the delaying action proposed in our Chiefs of Staff message. It is entirely in accordance with my thought. Action was taken accordingly.

✧ ✧ ✧

I addressed myself to the new President on April 18. Mr. Truman was of course only newly aware at second hand of all the complications that faced us, and had to lean heavily on his advisers. The purely military view reseived an emphasis beyond its proper proportion.

Prime Minister to President Truman
18 April, '45

Your armies soon, and presently ours, may come into contact with the Soviet forces. The Supreme Commander should be given instructions by the Combined Chiefs of Staff as soon as possible how to act.

2. I am qquite prepared to adhere to the occupational zones, but I do not wish our Allied troops or your American troops to be hustled back at any point by some crude assertion of a local Russian general. This must be provided against by an agreement between Governments so as to give Eisenhower a fair chance to settle on the spot in his own admirable way.

3. The occupational zones were decided rather hastily at Quebec in September 1944, when it was not foreseen that General Eisenhower's armies would make such a mighty inroad into Germany. The zones cannot be altered except by agreement with the Russians. But the moment V. E. Day has occurred we should try to set up the Allied Control Commission in Berlin and should insist upon a fair distribution of the food produced in Germany between all parts of Germany. As it stands at present the Russian occupational zone has the smallest proportion of people and grows by far the largest proportion of food, the Americans have a not very satisfactory proportion of food to conquered population, and we poor British are to take over all the ruined Ruhr and large manufacturing districts, which are, like ourselves, in normal times large importers of food. I suggest that this tiresome question should be settled in Berlin by the Allied Control Commission before we move from the tactical positions we have at present achieved. The Russian idea of taking these immense food supplies out of the food-producing areas of Germany to feed themselves is very natural, but I contend that the feeling of the German population must be treated as a whole and that the available supplies must be divided pro rata between the occupational zones.

Mr. Eden was in Washington, and fully agred with the views I telegraphed to him.

Prime Minister to Mr. Eden (Washington)
19 April 45

It is thought most important that Montgomery should take Lubeck as soon as possible, and he has an additional American Army Corps to strengthen his movements if he requires it. Our arrival at Lubeck before our Russian friends from Stettin would save a lot of argument later on. There is no reason why the Russians should occupy Denmark, which is a country to be liberated and to have its sovereignty restored. Our position at Lubeck, if we get it, would be decisive in this matter.

Thereafter, but partly concurrent, it is thought well to push on to Linz to meet the Russians there, and also by an American encircling movement to gain the region south of Stuttgart. In this region are the main German installations connected with their atomic research, and we had better get hold of these in the interests of the special secrecy attaching to this topic.

Mr. Truman's reply however, carried us little further. He proposed that the Allied troops should retire to their agreed zones in Germany and Austria as soon as the military situation allowed and sought my opinion on a draft telegram to Stalin to this effect.

To this I answered:

Prime Minister to President Truman
24 April 45

I thank you for your answer to my telegram. I agree with the preamble, but later paragraphs simply allow the Russians to order us back to the occupational zones at any point they might decide, and not necessarily with regard to the position of the fronts as a whole. It is your troops who would suffer most by this being pushed back about a hundred and twenty miles in the centre and yielding up to the unchecked Russian advance an enormous territory. And this while all questions of our spheres in Vienna or arrangements for triple occupation of Berlin remain unsettled.

The Russians had not been long in Vienna before we got a foretaste of what would happen in a zone of their occupation. They announced that a Provisional Austrian Government had been formed, and they refused to let our missions fly in. All this made me fear that they were deliberately exploiting their arrival to "organise" the country before we got there. On April 30 I accordingly telegraphed to Mr. Truman.

"It has been our understanding that the treatment of Austria, as of Germany, is a matter of common concern to the four Powers who are to occupy and control those countries. We regard it as essential that British, American and French representatives should be allowed to proceed at once to Vienna in order to report on conditions there before any final settlement is reached in the European Advisory Commission on matters affecting the occupation and control of the country, and especially of Vienna itself. We hope you will issue the necessary instructions to Marshal Tolbukhin, in order that the Allied missions may fly in at once from Italy."

On May 3 President Truman replied that he was himself sending a protest to the Soviet Government. This protest reminded the Russians of Stalin's suggestion that American, British and French representatives should go to Vienna at once and settle the zones of occupation. Plans had been made for their journey and now the Soviet Government were saying that their arrival would be "undesirable" until after the zones had been agreed by the European Advisory Commission.

Four Plotted To Blow Up Gov't Building

EDINBURGH (Reuters) — Four young Scots plotted to blow up a government building in Edinburgh last June but armed police guards chased them away, chief detective Edward Ferrier testified today.

He told the Edinburgh high court the four Scots—accused of conspiring to set up a republican regime—tried to dynamite St. Andrew's House a few days before the Queen was due to visit it on a Coronation tour. St. Andrew's houses several Scottish government ministries.

Ferrier said armed police, tipped off about the plot, surrounded the building and gave chase to the defendants' car when it was seen in the neighborhood. The four men, rounded up in the following few days, claimed the alleged explosives plot was a pure "hoax" on an Edinburgh police informer.

SAYS PLOT GENUINE

But Ferrier, head of the investigations, said he was convinced the plot was genuine. He said police treated the activities of the secret group, calling itself the Scottish Republican Army, with "utmost gravity."

He testified in the second day of the trial. The four men, also accused of collecting arms and ammunition for their activities, are Raymond Forbes, 23, Owen Gillan, 27, Robert Watt, 22, and Malcolm MacAlister, 24.

Chiang, Aide Have Dispute

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP)—One of Chiang Kai-shek's top policy-makers today was reported unofficially to have resigned his government post as the result of a policy dispute with Chiang.

Former foreign minister Wang Shih Chief was reported to have quit as Chiang's secretary-general, a position carrying immense influence and prestige. There was no word as to the nature of his dispute with Chiang.

Drive Rebels Away From Small Island

HANOI, Indo-China (AP) — Franco-Viet Namese troops killed 69 Vietminh troops in driving several companies of rebels from a small island in the Red river about 25 miles northwest of Hanoi.

The French army spokesman announcing this tonight said that the Vietminh had used this island as a base for transferring war material received from Red China for the troops inside the French defence bastion of the Red river delta.

The Franco-Viet Namese troops seized a large quantity of arms and ammunition.

Say Woman Pushed Off Train By Thief

KITZINGEN, Germany (AP)—Simone de Ridder, 51-year-old Belgian skating instructor and mother of an Olympic champion, died today of injuries suffered when she was thrown from a moving train.

Police sought a tall, thin man who was believed to have pushed Mrs. de Ridder from an international train before dawn Tuesday after robbing her.

The Kitzingen station master told police that as the train rolled through the yards early Tuesday he saw a woman clinging to a window ledge while a man tried to pry her grip loose.

Her daughter, Micheline Lannoy, was a winner in the 1948 Olympic pairs skating competition.

Farouk To Be Tried By Revolutionaries

CAIRO (AP)—A judge of Egypt's revolutionary court says the tribunal will try ex-king Farouk in absentia. The former monarch, ousted in a 1952 army-backed coup, is living in exile in Italy.

The justice, Hassan Ibrahim, did not specify what charges might be placed against Farouk, but President Mohammed Naguib's regime has accused the former king of graft and abuse of power.

Reports here have said Italy would not permit Farouk's extradition to Egypt because of his status as a political exile.

Hair Turns Blue

LONDON (Reuters)—A model whose hair turned blue after treatment at a London beauty parlor was awarded £100 damages Tuesday. It was stated that Mary Margaret Ogilivie went to the salon to let the proprietor, who was going abroad to demonstrate new tints, experiment on her, in return for a fee. The irate model claimed a bleach applied to her hair before a rinse was used turned part of her hair navy blue and caused painful blisters.

Abbey Threatened

LONDON (Reuters) — Westminster Abbey was saved from serious damage recently when a parapet under repair threatened to collapse outward onto the roof of the minument room, surveyor S. E. Dykes Bower said Tuesday. Instead, the parapet, high up at the roof by the south transept, leaned inwards and could be shored up temporarily with timber.

Canadian Auto Executive Blasts Horsepower Rat Race

Top Canadian automotive executive D. C. Gaskin Tuesday night blasted rival manufacturers for what he called "a horespower rat race."

Speaking to the Peterborough Sales and Advertising Club, the president of Studebaker Corporation of Canada, Ltd., said it was "about time the auto industry took a good look at itself."

Although not specifically naming Chrysler Corporation of Canada, Ltd., Mr. Gaskin fired guns at the company which recently advertised 235 horsepower cars, and manufacturers of other cars, presumably Cadillac and Lincoln, who will come out "in the near future" with even higher powered engines.

IN 10 YEARS WHAT?

The speaker described an imaginary incident in 10 or 12 years when the car will still contain 200 or more horsepower under the hood but will no longer have the necessities such as good steering, brakes and tires to control it.

"A young buck" would take his girl friend home in a hurry late some night and the next day's paper would have a story about four people being killed in an accident.

"Thank God," he said, "my company is not in this horsepower rat race."

"They (rival car manufacturers) should give serious consideration to those who are going to drive their cars in 10 years. Our industry," he warned, "should be and is being criticized for what is going to happen 10 years from now."

Describing the motor vehicle industry in Canada earlier, Mr. Gaskin said it was second only to the pulp and paper industry. The 3,000,000 cars and commercial vehicles on the road represent a total investment by owners of $4,500,000,000.

VITAL INDUSTRY

He called the industry "a vital economic factor" and said 238,000 are directly or indirectly employed by it and their salaries total $376,000,000 annually.

"Stop the motor vehicle industry and you create a very grave unemployment situation."

Mr. Gaskin was featured speaker on the anual Sales and Ad Club manufacturers night. Following his address, members and guests were invited for a tour of Quaker Oats Co.

Wheat Supplies Still Growing

OTTAWA (CP)—Though world markets are loaded with grain, Canada now finds she has more wheat to sell than originally anticipated.

In a final survey of this year's grain harvest, the bureau of statistics Tuesday boosted its mid-September wheat estimate by almost 20,000,000 bushels to 613,965,000, second highest in history.

The harvest, coming on top of last year's record 688,000,000-bushel crop, may tax western storage capacity, already strained by bountiful grain crops.

And it throws other government estimates out of kilter. Government grain authorities, in making surveys of available wheat supplies, have been basing their figuring on the mid-September estimate of 594,268,000 bushels.

Thus the government previously estimated that Canada's wheat carryover from 1952 and its 1953 harvest brought total supplies to 957,000,000, up from 905,100,000 a year ago. Actually they were 977,000,000.

Able To Settle 90% Of Claims

SARNIA (CP)—Lambton county will be able to make settlement on about 90 per cent of tornado relief claims, county clerk John Huey said today.

Mr. Huey said the county had figured earlier that it would be able to settle only about 75 per cent of the claims with funds collected through subscription and municipal and provincial grants.

However, the percentage rate was increased by the announcement a few days ago of a $100,000 grant from the Canadian disaster relief fund to be shared between five counties affected, and today's announcement that the federal government will supplement this grant with an additional $37,462.

Mr. Huey said it had been decided that Lambton county's share of the $100,000 Canadian relief grant would be $4,200.

Sentenced To Die PoW Makes Escape

SEOUL (AP)—A South Korean war prisoner who escaped Monday from a compound in the neutral zone said today that he narrowly escaped execution by pro-Communist PoWs.

Cpl. Pak Ki Do said he was tried and sentenced to death by a 45-man Communist collaboration committee in a compound holding more than 300 South Koreans reported to have chosen communism.

Pak said his trial was arranged after Red leaders discovered his secret plan to return to South Korea.

The 23-year-old soldier said he escaped from the compound before the death sentence could be carried out.

New Jail Sentence For Black Abbess

ATHENS (Reuters) — Greece's "black abbess," Mother Mariam Soulakiotis, 70, today received another four-year jail sentence on charges of running an extortion racket in a "concentration camp" convent. She had already been given a 10-year sentence.

A medical statement read to the court said 177 men and women died under hard labor, fasts and penance in her convent at Keratea run by the old Calendarists sect.

The abbess, a leader of the sect, was sentenced in February to 10 years on similar charges of embezzlement and ill treatment. The court today decided the new punishment will be concurrent with the previous sentence.

At her last trial in February, the abbess was accused of building up an immense personal fortune by making converts, taking them to the convent, and there extorting land and money from them with severe medieval penances and promises of salvation.

The sect was outlawed two years ago.

First Wiring Underground Reported To PUC

The electric department of the utilities commission has begun the first installation of underground wiring in a residential area of the city.

The project was started on Shirley and Bellaire streets last month, General-Manager W. Howard Powell stated in his report to the commission.

Also last month, new overhead distribution lines were built to serve housing under construction on Argyle St. and Cordach crescent and in the Queen Elizabeth subdivision. Rebuilding was done on Aylmer St., from Sherbrooke St. to London St. and on Sherbrooke St., from Aylmer St. to Park St.

Work also progressed on the Bellevue St. sub-station. The steel structure to support the 44,000-volt line, switches, lighting arrestors and fuses has been erected and three 600-KVA transformers moved onto the slab previously placed for that purpose.

The peak load for October increased 3.96 per cent from 24,529 kilowatts to 25,500 kilowatts and the kilowatt hour consumption 7.2 per cent.. from 10,541,600 to 11,301,600 kilowatt hours over the same month in 1952. Similarly there was an increase this year in the load factor from 55.5 per cent to 59.7 per cent for the same month.

There were 70 new three-wire, five two-wire and four new power services added during October, with 10 services changed from two to three-wire. There were 59 new water heaters connected and 161 electric meters government tested.

MARAUDING BEAR played havoc with the bee hives near Bobcaygeon owned by H. G. Burke of Omemee. Although the bear did considerable damage and ripped down his reward sign, Mr. Burke admitted a certain admiration for the bear who evaded a group of hunters. Mr. Burke drew this sketch of the bear in the middle of the act.

PoW Slain

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — James Collins, 23, who was released recently after 33 months as a prisoner of the Communists in Korea, was shot dead Tuesday by a gunman in a Philadelphia bar. Police said the gunman walked up to Collins, said "You're the one I'm looking for," shot him and fled. They were unable to provide a motive.

Law-Breaking Bear, Scatters Bee Hives Tears Down Warning Sign, Escapes Hunters

It's a known fact that bears and honey like to get together, but it seems that there is one bruin at least, who not only is mad for the bee juice, but also has an active distaste for anything representing law and order.

The apiary of H. G. Burke, Omemee, was visited by this nasty bear recently; the hives were wrecked, combs of honey demolished, and debris scattered all about the yard. This was natural enough, but further evidence proved that the bear was a hardened law breaker.

$25 REWARD

A sign which had been nailed to a tree in the yard, and read to the effect that $25 would be offered to anyone leading to the capture of any marauder found stealing or destroying property in the yard, had been torn down. Deep claw marks were found in the sign.

Brer bear was obviously a literate chap.

A hunting party was formed and a trap was set. Bears could not resist meat, it was said, so some meat was purchased and spread about the apairy. Then the hunters began the long vigil.

AFTER HONEY

The bear came, but not because of the meat. He started into the honey again, and was gorging himself happily when the hunters flashed on their car lights. They started firing, but hte bear, full of that natural energy food, took off into the nearby bush without delay.

Before morning he was back to the yard and finished his tasty meal.

The Burke apiary has since moved to a new location.

Their bodies were recovered Tuesday.

Girl Describes Beating Given Child

KITCHENER (CP) — Patricia Naylor, 14, of Kitchener, said Tuesday that in August, 1952, she saw Mrs. William Paepcke pick up her small daughter, Glenis Paepcke, by one wrist and beat her with her free hand.

Testifying at the trial of Mr. and Mrs. Paepcke on an assault charge arising from the death of the three-year-old child last January, the girl said the August incident occurred on an occasion when she was visiting the Paepckes.

"I said, 'If you keep on, some day you are going to kill Glenis.' Mrs. Paepcke said, 'you can't prove anything' and got very mad."

As a result, Mrs. Paepcke told her to "get out," she said.

EVIDENCE ALLOWED

Judge D. S. Charlton ruled the testimony admissible, over defence objections. He also admitted as evidence a statement Inspector Alex MacLeod of the provincial police said Paepcke gave to police.

The statement, read to the jury, quoted Paepcke as saying the child had been in the habit of going into tantrums. He had found ordinary beatings with an open hand unsatisfactory and had used his belt. He said he arrived home the day of the child's death and found her apparently unconscious.

The parents were acquitted last February of charges of murder and manslaughter.

Wants State Of Emergency Declared In N.S. Pending Coal Investigation

OTTAWA (CP)—A former Cape Breton coal miner Tuesday night suggested that the government declare a state of emergency in Nova Scotia pending an investigation of the province's coal industry.

Clarie Gillis (CCF—Cape Breton South) said in the Commons that Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation has "sabotaged" eastern Canada's steel and coal industry and should be investigated.

He urged an extension of unemployment insurance benefits for more than 4,000 unemployed miners, and said 600 more men were being laid off at Dosco's steel plant at Sydney, N. S.

"This is a dire emergency," Mr. Gillis said during the throne speech debate.

Dosco was "no longer interested" in mining coal except to supply the Sydney steel plant. There was "a gradual, deliberate breakdown of the industry by the company itself."

U.S. CONTROL

The corporation had come under control of United States financiers and had set up a subsidiary to buy American coal for sale in Quebec and Ontario. Its advertisements asked consumers in Ontario and Quebec to buy Kentucky coal. Prince Edward Island was unable to buy Cape Breton coal.

Mr. Gillis said the government had "failed" to protect the public. It paid Dosco $4,000,000 a year in subventions and had loaned the company $7,500,000 without enforcing the terms of the loan.

A Dosco geologist had predicted in 1943 that Nova Scotia had enough coal reserves to last 180 years, but Dosco now was closing mines without consultation and "throwing men in the street."

The government should use the terms of its Emergency Powers Act to declare a state of emergency in Nova Scotia.

LACK RESPONSIBILITY

About 75,000 persons, one-sxith of the province's population, depended on Dosco for a livelihood. The company had no social responsibility and was laying off steel workers although steel was being imported from the U. S.

Unemployed miners had no other industries to go to. The government should show as much consideration for Nova Scotia miners as it showed for immigrants from Europe.

U. S. capital was gaining sufficient control of Canadian companies to scrap them and then sell U. S. products in Canada, Mr. Gillis said.

The U. S. was taking over Canada economically and "most of us haven't the sense to see it." Economic control led to political control and Canada some day might wake up to find "an American military dictatorship rapped around our neck."

WHEAT PLAN

Outlining his party's plan on wheat surplus, John Blackmore (PC—Lethbridge) called for government loans at two-per-cent interest initial payment of at least 75 cents a bushel on farm-stored wheat; payment for farm storage comparable to grain elevator rates and loans of dollars to overseas wheat customers.

The plan should also cover oats, barley, rye and flaxseed if surpluses threatened farm prosperity.

ON LEGAL WARPATH—Plumed Mokawks of the Iroquois tribe descend on Ottawa to appeal a ruling that forced Indian Louis Francis (dark suit, centre) to pay $123.66 in custom duties on personal goods imported from the United States side of the border reservation. Solicitors John McDonald (left) of Ottawa and Adrian Hewitt of Ottawa, claims Canadian Indians are exempt from such duties under the Anglo-American Jay treaty of 1794.

Declare Co-operatives Bloodstream Of Maritimes

By STEWART MACLEOD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

HALIFAX (CP) — Co-operatives and credit unions, working hand in hand, have often been termed the bloodstream of the Maritimes.

Co-operatives were first tested in the Maritimes in the early 20s when the Nova Scotia fishing industry hit a financial low. When the $25,000,000 industry slumped to $9,000,000 in two years, a royal commission was set up to investigate. The result was formation of a fishermens' co-operative.

Appointed to head the new group was Msgr. M. M. Coady, a Roman Catholic priest at St. Francis ish, N. S. He organized the United Maritime Fishermen, first fishermens' co-operative in Canada.

The idea spread rapidly. St. FX established an extension department to spread the idea of co-operatives. The fishermen, organized for the first time, took on a new outlook. They built a lobster factory in Cape Breton and soon the industry was back on its feet.

Farmers in the Prince Edward Island village of Morrel, then mired in the depression, turned to the co-operative for the first time. A co-op store was opened in the village, the only place farmers could get credit. The first year it did $10,000 worth of business and within four years this had increased to $108,000.

The new system was proven and co-ops stepped into the realm of business. The extension department by this time had doubled its staff and soon co-op stores mushroomed in Nova Scotia. Once stores were established, study groups were formed and wholesale organizations instituted. The credit union followed, giving credit to the producer, middle-man and purchaser.

Today, under co-op plans, houses are built, industries established and loans provided. The co-ops are the backbone of many other lines of production including fishing, farming, merchandising and lumbering.

Fine Weather Slows Up Winter Sales

Merchants Wait For Inevitable Cold To Liven Business

"It is like a leak in the roof—nobody does anything about it until the rain starts".

One of the local merchants summed up the general condition of poor sales due to fine weather in this manner. Shoe stores, dry good establishments and hardwares seem to be the hardest hit by the unusual weather. Sales of winter stock are down to the minimum.

The wintry weekend that hit Peterborough during the middle of the deer hunt caused unexpectedly high sales, but it is the general opinion that it didn't last long enough. Sales of winter coats, footwear and insulation material skyrocketed with the first snow, but fizzled once more with the return of warm weather.

RESIGNED

The merchants are resigned to the situation, but not too pessimistically. Sooner or later the cold weather will come, and they have the materials that are necessary to combat it.

"Yes, the weather has caused a slump just now, but things will change one of these days—they have to have the winter stuff sooner or later.

Plea Changed To Guilty Shooting Calf

Two surprise witnesses produced Tuesday by Crown Attorney John A Bradshaw, QC, caused an accused man to switch his plea from "not guilty" to "guilty" without the trial going any further.

This unexpected turn came in the early afternoon—part way through a case that was expected to last for a day and a half. Charles Harrington, 53, of Ennismore, charged with shooting a heifer calf on a neighbor's farm and then stealing it, changed his plea to guilty after his two companions during the shooting went into the witness box and gave their evidence.

REMANDED FOR SENTENCE

Judge John De N. Kennedy, presiding at the general sessions of the peace, remanded Harrington for sentence to Thursday, 4 p.m.

It was alleged that Harrington went out on the afternoon of Oct. 18, 1953, with a .22 calibre rifle and shot a three-month-old heifer calf in a field half a mile away from his home.After bleeding the animal, owned by John Sullivan of Ennismore, he skinned and gutted it, cut it up into sections and carried it home.

The two surprise witnesses both claimed they were out with Harrington, ostensibly partridge hunting, on the Sunday afternoon when the heifer was shot

Harvey Finley of Smith township, one of Harrington's two alleged companions, said he had been staying the weekend at the accused man's Ennismore home. Before the hunting trip on Sunday he heard Harrington say that "there was a beef down there he'd like to have sometime".

Finley swore that he didn't know whose "beef Harrington was referring to, nor where it was.

He said that the heifer, standing in an open field, was shot by one of his two companions—either Harrington or his 14-year-old nephew, Kenneth Orgill. He saw Harrington go out and cut the heifer's throat, drag it back to the edge of a nearby bush by tying wires to the rear legs, and then skin it.

The heifer was then carried back to Harrington's home, slung over his shoulder. A 150-pound weight, Finley estimated.

PARTLY CONTRADICTED

This story was partly contradicted by Orgill. He said that Harrington definitely shot the animal, did the butchering and cleaning, and carried it back—piece by piece—to his home.

The 14-year-old boy partly corroborated his uncle's story that earlier in the day Harrington had mentioned a calf. And he also spoke of "revenge"

"I heard Charlie (i.e. Harrington) say something about a calf... We were in the kitchen of his house at the time. Then he said he was going to get some revenge on somebody . . . "There was a calf down in the field someplace and he was going to get it."

After hearing this evidence—all of it coming as a surprise—Trevor Clarke, defence counsel, conferred with the accused. Harrington changed his plea to guilty and Judge Kennedy directed the jury to bring in that verdict.

ALD. P. J. (PAT) ANGLESEY today announced his intention to seek a fourth term on city council in the December election. He is the seventh to state publicly he intended to seek one of the five aldermanic seats to be contested this year.

P. J. Anglesey Sees Re-election For 4th Term

Ald. P. J. (Pat) Anglesey today announced his intention to seek re-election in December to a fourth term on city council.

He is the seventh person so far to publicly announce his intention to seek one of the five aldermanic seats to become vacant at the end of the year. Only one other sitting alderman whose two-year term expires this year, Ald. S. J. (Syd) Black has stated he would be in the running. Ald. J. A. Dewart has not made a decision and Aldermen H. S. Longhurst and T. D. Miller have said they would wait until the evening of official nominations, November 27, to make up their minds.

The five other candidates who intend to run are George W. Carphin, Fred T. Tuggey, Jack C. Smith, William Triggs and Glenn Price.

ELECTED IN 1946

Ald. Anglesey first entered municipal politics in December, 1946, when he was re-elected in two subsequent elections.

He was chairman of the manufacturers committee in 1947 when the groundwork was laid for the establishment of the industrial commission, which was set up the following year and replaced by a full-time industrial commissioner two years ago.

He was subsequently chairman of the welfare and parks committees and this year is chairman of the the board of works, which has undertaken to lay a new trunk sewer from Erskine Ave. to the Westmount subdivision to serve the western part of the city. It is intended eventually to extend it to the land assembly area to the north.

Ald. Anglesey was born in Peterborough in 1914 and has lived here all his life. He was educated at Sacred Heart Separate school and St. Peter's High School.

Following graduation, he was employed by the Western Clock Co. for six years and later was with the Prudential Insurance Co. for the same length of time.

In 1946 he purchased the J. J. Duffus-Cavanagh funeral business and in May, 1952, bought the residence of the late Dr. F. P. McNulty on Hunter St. as a funeral home. In July, 1952, he established the first public telephone-answering service in Peterborough.

VON BOARD PRESIDENT

He is president of the board of directors of the Victorian Order of Nurses, a member of the Sales and Advertising Club and of the Kawartha Golf and Country club and a Past Grand Knight of the Knights of Columbus.

Ald. Anglesey is married to the former Mary McFadden of Peterborough. They have four children, Gerald 10, Catherine 8, John 6, and Patrick 2.

Charge Cost Water Mains To Property

Legal Advice Asked By Utilities On New Installations

The utilities commission will seek legal advice on a proposal by Dr. G. R. Langley to charge the cost of installing water mains against all adjacent property owners, whether they use the service or not.

Dr. Langley said his proposal was intended to levy a charge against land speculators who included the value of water services in the selling price of vacant lots.

PAY OVER 15 YEARS

Policy would be to install water mains when requested by two-thirds of adjacent owners. Then a charge, according to frontage, would be levied against all the owners at the rate of 11 per cent for 15 years.

General-Mahager W. Howard Powell said he didn't think the commission could create a debt without the owner's consent unless the mains were laid under the Local Improvement Act. Commissioner Dick Raine advised obtaining legal advice before acting on the proposal.

REQUESTS FOR MAINS

Dr. Langley's suggestion was made as the commission took the following action on requests for new water mains:

Approved extension of water mains from time to time, as required by new houses in the Westmount subdivision on the north side of Weller St., north of Civic Hospital.

The revenue-producing frontage in the subdivision will be 14,252 feet. Estimated annual revenue from these extensions will be made up as follows: frontage charge—$2,907.40; water service charge—$1,434.42; water consumption charge—$3,510; total annual revenue—$7,851.82.

REQUEST DEFERRED

Deferred until 1954 a request to extend the water main on River road south from the Locks bridge to the south city limits, where there are 12 prospective water consumers, of whom seven have signed applications for city water.

To lay the water main would require 730 feet of six-inch main and 12 water services at an estimated cost of $4,375.

The total revenue-producing frontage on the main is 1,350 feet, with 17 consumers. This would provide an annual revenue of $275 from frontage, $104 from water services and $255 from water rates, a total annual revenue of $634. Existing construction will provide a revenue of $158 from frontage, $64.40 from services and $180 from water rates, a total annual revenue of $405.

EXTENSION COST $7,000

However, to supply water to this main would require the extension of the eight-inch water main on Lansdown St. westerly for 1,100 feet to the River road at an estimated cost of $7,000. At present there is no revenue on this stretch of road but in the spring it is expected a large motel will be constructed in the area, justifying the extension, in the opinion of the general-manager, who recommended deferment of construction until next year in view of the non-revenue-producing stretch of water main required.

Approved, subject to agreement of North Monaghan township council, construction of a new water main on Goodfellow road for 907 feet south from St. Mary's Street.

The water main, which extends between St. Mary's and Lansdowne streets, lies outside the city's western limits. The applicants for this main have been referred to the township council with instructions that any main to be built on this street must be financed completely by the township council.

There would be an estimated 12 service on the main, costing a total of $4,600. The commission would spend no money and collect water rates from 12 outside consumers at 50 per cent more than normal city rates. The estimated total annual revenue would be $270.

Filtration Addition To Exceed $300,000

Total cost of the extension of the city's filtration plant is not expected to exceed $300,000.

General-Manager W. Howard Powell reported to the utilities commission Tuesday that the contractor, W. H. Mortlock had received $179,271.69 as final payment, making total cost to date $295,352.07. PUC employees would paint the building during the winter and sod the surrounding area in the spring, to make the final total.

The following break-down of costs was given: total material and labor on work orders to October 31, $100,580.38; amount yet to be paid for equipment approximates, $15,500; total paid to W. H. Mortlock to October 31 (final), $179,271.69.

GE EXECUTIVE DIES

James Johnston Ashworth, 85, former general manager of the Canadian General Electric Company, died Tuesday. He joined the Edison Electric Company in 1888 and stayed with Edison when it merged with Canadian General Electric in 1892 and became general manager of the company in 1921. He retired in 1940.

BELLEVUE ST. SUB-STATION is being erected next to the Queen Elizabeth sub-division by the Peterborough Utilities Commission. The three 600-KVA transformers, steel structure to support the 44,000 volt line, switches, and fuses will soon be hooked up and put in operation. The peak load of power in Peterborough has increased 3.6 per cent during October over the same period last year.

Salaried CGE Workers Get $3.50-$5 Weekly Increases

Salaried CGE workers in the Peterborough and Toronto-Davenport works have ratified the terms of a two-year collective bargaining agreement that gives them total salary increases ranging from $3.50 a week to $5. The contract, effective April 2, 1953, to April 2, 1955, will be signed sometime next week by Local 599, IUE (CIO-CCL), representing 550 Peterborough office and salaried workers; and Local 567, representing 225 Toronto-Davenport workers.

INCORPORATE C-O-L BONUS

The present C-O-L bonus, amounting to $4 a week, has been incorporated into the basic wage. And the agreement has a re-opener clause, covering wages, hours and overtime, effective 60 days before April 2, the one-year anniversary date.

Union officials said that the "opener" includes the right of full conciliation services in the event of a dispute, and the right to strike if these services are unsuccessful in getting a settlement.

The agreement so far as salaries are concerned, grants a six per cent general increase (minimum $3.50 a week), plus salary adjustments in the various labor grades.

There are 13 labor grades with the total increases (general increase for each, plus salary adjustment) ranging from $3.50 to $5. Here they are:

Grade 1—$4.80 a week increase
Grade 2— 5.00 a week increase
Grade 3— 5.00 a week increase
Grade 4 to 9 - 3.50 a wk. increase
Grade 10— 4.00 a week increase
Grade 11— 4.50 a week increase
Grade 12— 5.00 a week increase
Grade 13— 5.00 a week increase

The union was trying to reduce the work week from 40 to 37½ hours with no loss of take home pay, but they were unable to negotiate this and the week remains at 40 hours.

$5.00 OVER MINIMUM

Males hired in an occupational classification, where the minimum of the rate range is $67 or less, will get at least $5 over the minimum rate after six months.

Females and boys will receive a boost of at least $3.50 above the minimum rate of their occupational classification after six months.

Employees upgraded into a higher occupational classification will immediately get an increase of at least $2 a week.

Other provisions in the agreement, as outlined by the union:

1. Retroactive pay of $75 to all on the payroll April 2, 1953, as long as the employee has not had more than two weeks of unpaid absences. If he has had these absences, he will get pro-rated backpay.
2. Three weeks vacation after 15 years; formerly it was three after 20 years.
3. New sick and health plan.
4. Higher minimum rates in all labor grades.
5. New dues deduction, weekly instead of monthly.
6. Improvements in seniority and grievance procedure.
7. A six per cent increase to power house attendants.
8. Employees whose regular jobs required them to work more than 40 hours will be reduced to 40 hours but will get the same take-home pay.
9. Settlement of specific inequities.

The company's new pension plan will be started, but on a voluntary basis.

Negotiating for Local 599 were President Eric May, Gloria Lang, Ken Soutter, Morris Nibett, A. Feely and A. Mutton. There was also representation on the joint committee from Local 567. Joe Wirtz, IUE's Canadian co-ordinator, assisted in negotiations.

Admits Theft Put On Probation

Judge John de N. Kennedy today gave Charles Viner, 21, of 180½ Simcoe St., a year's suspended sentence after the youthful Korean veteran had pleaded guilty to a charge of stealing a quarter of beef from Canada Packers.

A companion in what Defence Counsel Ralph Standish described as a "prank" pleaded guilty to theft of the meat in magistrate's court and was given suspended sentence of two years.

The meat was hung on a hook on the George St. loading platform of Canada Packers, about 1:30 a.m., Oct. 23. From there it was taken by the two youths and abandoned a short distance away.

Judge Kennedy, presiding at the general sessions of the peace, described the theft as "a very stupid thing to do."

Boy Falls Off Truck Critically Hurt Has Fractured Skull

Twelve-year-old Reggie Turcotte, RR 3, Peterborough, is today lying critically injured in St. Joseph's Hospital with a fractured skull and concussion after falling from a moving truck late Tuesday afternoon. He is believed to have lost his balance while riding on the back of Donald Wilson's stake-body truck, along with some other schoolchildren.

Chatting with a couple of children in the cab of the truck, Mr. Wilson didn't notice that he had driven by the Turcotte family's laneway, two miles west of the city limits on the extension of the Jackson Park road.

Reggie Turcotte

"I'm not going to walk back" said Reggie. "I'm going to jump off."

"Don't," warned his 14-year-old sister Josephine.

However, Reggie lurched to the back of the truck, as though he was going to do what he said. An unexpected bump on the rough, gravel road was enough to pitch him off the vhicle which had no tail-gate. And he struck his head in the tumble to the road.

TO CLINIC

His father, John Turcotte, took him to the General Medical Clinic where he was given medical attention by Dr. Bob Young. The boy's injuries, said Dr. Young, included a fractured skull, concussion, and possibly some injury to the brain.

Later he was removed to St. Joseph's Hospital.

Reggie is a Grade VI pupil at St. Anne's school. Along with a number of other schoolchildren, who have the long walk back to their homes after classes, he was picked up by Mr. Wilson and given a ride.

"No matter what happens, I wouldn't want anybody to think we attach any blame to Mr. Wilson," said Reggie's father today.

OPP Constable James G. Healey investigated.

Believe Polio Under Control

EDMONTON (CP) — A special polio committee of the civic-operated Royal Alexandra Hospital feels it now is in control of the situation.

Committee members at a meeting Tuesday night were optimistic about the situation, particularly in view of indications that the recent surge of cases is at an end.

Alberta has had a record 80 polio deaths this year and recently there has been an upsurge in cases at Edmonton. With the coming of cooler weather, the incidence normally declines.

The committee reported a 50-per-cent decline in the mortality rate of lung cases since the committee was organized and there have been no polio deaths in the last 10 days.

Will Gather Information On Canada

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (CP) — Dr. Donald W. Gilbert, director of the University of Rochester's Canadian studies program, expects to visit Canada shortly to confer with educationists, industrialists and government officials to obtain material for the project.

Dr. Gilbert, who resigned as vice-president of the university and director of its office of development to undertake his present work, says he plans to visit Montreal, Ottawa and Quebec "within the next few weeks."

The plan to make the university a centre for information on all aspects of Canada and its people was announced Nov. 12 by Dr. Cornelis W. De Kiewiet, university president.

BETTER UNDERSTANDING

Dr. De Kiewiet said the program is expected to lead to the creation of an institute of Canadian affairs at the university. He said the object of the program is to help develop better knowledge and understanding of Canada throughout the United States, and greater comprehension of some of the problems of international relations.

The project also aims at an annual university conference on Canadian affairs, bringing together in Rochester experts of various aspects of Canadian Life.

Ottawa Gov't To Contribute $137,462 As Tornado Relief

OTTAWA — (CP) — Citizenship Minister Harris announced Tuesday that the government will contribute $137,462 toward disaster relief in western Ontario counties struck by tornadoes last May.

The federal grant brings to $649,849 the amoung of money earmarked for relief.

The money will be distributed in the counties of Lambton, Middlesex, Perth and Huron and will cover losses to farm buildings and dwellings.

Mr. Harris said the federal government was matching a provincial grant of $137,462.

His statement:

"The government has been giving consideration to the question of assisting those who suffered loss by reason of the tornadoes, which caused considerable damage in western Ontario May 21 and May 24, 1953.

"The counties of Lambton, Middlesex, Oxford, Perth and Huron set up county relief committees to which donations were made by individuals and municipal corporations.

ASSURES GRANT

"The provincial government has assured a grant being one-half the amount which came into the hands of the county relief committees, from these two sources. Donations totalled $210,425 and the municipal grants $64,500 which means that the provincial grant would amount to $137,462. The Canadian Disaster Relief Fund announced last week that it would contribute $100,000 to the relief funds and this is to announce that this government will contribute the sum of $137,462 for the benefit of those who suffered loss to dwellings and farm buildings, being a like amount to that contributed by the Province of Ontario.

"Details of the method of payment will be worked out with the Canadian Disaster Relief Fund and the county committees."

Mission Band Meets At Springville

SPRINGVILLE (ENS) — The home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Northey and family on Highway 28 was the scene on Saturday of the November meeting of Springville Mission Band.

Twenty-two boys and girls were present. Keith Johnston gave the peace report and Nelson Northey the temperance report.

The Senior Group of the Band made seventeen booklets of used Christmas card pictures to give to the children of New Canadians in Halifax.

Mrs. Clifford Johnston, Mission Band leader, told the story of the Study Book chapter on Africa.

Mrs. Cecil Neals took charge of the younger members of the band and told them Bible stories.

Plans were made for a Temperance Night Friday evening at Springville church when Miss Mackie, field secretary of the W.C.T.U. will be guest speaker and the Mission Band will provide a program.

Lunch was served by Linda Northey, Neal Cathcart and Nelson Northey.

Legislature Committee Disgusted With Room

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario legislature's select committee on reform institutions looked into the police court waiting room here Tuesday and found it like "the Black Hole of Calcutta."

The seven committee members saw 107 accused persons crowded together in part of the city hall basement, awaiting trial. Committee chairman W. J. Stewart said:

"We were told that it was frequently so congested there that if a person fainted or collapsed, it would be impossible for him to drop to the floor."

Farquhar Oliver, Liberal house leader said: "The Black Hole of Calcutta would have nothing on it."

Urges Ottawa Buy Wheat To Aid Hungry

OTTAWA (CP)—The Rev. D. McIvor (L—Fort William) urged the government Tuesday to use $100,000,000 of its defence appropriation to buy wheat for underdeveloped countries. This would be one way to use some of Canada's surplus wheat to feed hungry peoples, he said in the Commons.

OTTAWA (CP)—Justice Minister Garson indicated Tuesday the government has decided to appoint a commission to study capital punishment. He said announcement of appointment of a commission would be postponed until the new Criminal Code came up for second reading in the House.

OTTAWA (CP)—Trade Minister Howe said in the Commons western grain growers will receive an estimated $1,104,000,000 in the 1953 calendar year for wheat, oats and barley. It was the "highest income ever enjoyed by them."

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent said Tuesday in the Commons that the government has received no "non-confidential information" on the coming Bermuda conference among prime Minister Churchill, President Eisenhower and Premier Laniel of France.

"There are, of course, dispatches which are marked secret," he added. These would be kept secret until permission was given to issue them.

OTTAWA (CP) — Veterans Minister Lapointe said Tuesday the government has no intention of placing limitations on casual earnings by the 40,000 recipients of war veterans' allowances. Recipients are allowed to claim the earnings as exemptions from permissible income.

He said a clearer definition of casual earnings in construction has been sent to district authorities of the veterans department. The matter was being looked into and he would report on it later to the House.

Reds Lose Ground In Europe: Times

LONDON (Reuters)—The Times, in the first of four articles on communism in Western Europe, said Tuesday that "on balance the Communists have lost ground in Europe since the end of the Second World War."

The article, published with a table showing Communist voting trends in West Europe since the war, says Communist support "is nearly everywhere strongest in industrial towns and in those places where workers are apt to have a rough and hard life, such as the large ports, or poor agricultural areas, or the bleak north of Scandinavia."

It says the party's influence has declined in areas where the standard of living is comparatively high and "where social democracy has established itself as the main workers' party."

Seek Guidance On Portrait Of W. G. Morrow

Preliminaries of arranging for an oil painting of the late W. G. Morrow, to be hung at the city hall, are proceeding circumspectly.

As Ald. Harold Rehill said Monday night: "I'm not very arty," and the majority of the members placed themselves in that diffident category. Ald. A. B. Burrows and Ald. H. S. Longhurst get some rating as exceptions. At least they were appointed a special committee to obtain information about available artists and an estimate of cost of the proposed work.

Their first report was carefully discussed, and it was finally decided in a motion by Aldermen J. A. Dewart and Rehill that this committee be empowered to "add to their numbers."

CALL IN CITIZENS

That move signifies calling in the informed guidance of a few citizens who have knowledge of portraitures in oils. There have been interviews with Oscar Schleinger of Lakefield and Egbert Oudendag of Hamilton.

Ald. Burrows said "there is so much variance of opinion that I can offer little to guide you. I'd like to see a committee who have experience of portrait painting."

It was reported that Mr. Schleinger would provide a sketch at a cost of $25 if it was not accepted. His charge for head and shoulders, 28 by 24 inches would be $800 if he is engaged.

Apparently both men are disinclined to competitive bdiding. Mr. Oudendag made no charge for a sketch, and prices scaled to size of portrait up to $340 for a picture 36 in. by 40 in.

MUNIFICENT BEQUEST

Ald. Syd Black said he had a brother who is an artist, and from his own limited knowledge he felt that it might be false economy to quibble about a few hundred dollars in cost of a portrait of the man whose munificent bequest made the building of the city hall possible.

"I don't think there is any one in our group better qualified to express an opinion than Ald. Burrows," said Ald. Rehill.

Ald. Burrows explained that the painting was to be made from a photograph of Mr. Morrow, and for that reason he thought "$800 is out of line."

The committee of two members may now call in persons here whom they consider as likely to help them in advising the council.

Eskimos Unhappy As Sun Shines Brightly

CHURCHILL, Man. (CP) — The sun is shining on the north and the army and the Eskimos aren't happy about it.

This Hudson Bay region 600 miles north of Winnipeg is where clothing and equipment are tested under Arctic condition but the military can't prove much in temperatures averaging 40 above.

The Eskimos are running short of meat and, lazing in the sun, the caribou are in no hurry to migrate south to their winter feeding grounds. Hunting seals through holes in the ice is impossible when the ice hasn't yet formed on Hudson bay.

An inch of snow has fallen during the last two weeks but it has melted into pools of muddy water.

Native hunters predict the mild spell will continue until Christmas.

Dulles Urges PoWs Freed By January 22

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles declared Tuesday that all anti-Communist prisoners of war held by the neutral nations' repatriation commission in Korea should be given their freedom and civilian status on Jan. 22.

Indian Prime Minister Nehru had recently suggested that the question of release of the PoWs should be considered anew by both sides in the Korean controversy if the proposed political conference does not take place.

Dulles made clear in a statement that the United States rejects this Nehru suggestion and feels that provisions of the Korean armistice agreement covering PoWs must be carried out to the letter.

Request $29,000 For Converting City's Gas Plant

The utilities commission will request city council to issue debentures for $29,000 to cover the cost of converting the gas generating plant from the present mechanical system to a completely automatic system.

General-Manager W. Howard Powell, wso submitted the request to the commission Tuesday, said the new system would require the services of only one employee. At the present time, two employees are required in the warm months and three during the winter.

The commission proposes to construct a new building in the vicinity of the present propane storage tanks and bottle filling building which will take the place of the three existing buildings. The new equipment will be designed so that it can be placed in operation and carry the city load while the old gas plant equipment is moved into the new building.

PLACING STEAM BOILER

The steam-heating boiler will be relocated in a small building adjacent to the new gas-making plant.

The Gas Machinery Co. of Hamilton have designed a plant to generate 125,000 cubic feet an hour of propane air gas with a calorific value of 710 British thermal units. The equipment for this plant will cost $22,000. The building in which the plant is to be housed will cost $4,000. Installation of equipment by PUC staff is estimated to cost $3,000.

From experience in other gas plants, it is estimated that under normal growth conditions the capacity of the new plant will be sufficient for 10 years. Should natural gas be brought to Peterborough, the plant will be of sufficient capacity to maintain emergency gas services, Mr. Powell reported.

Missionary Work Described To YPU

SPRINGVILLE (ENS) — "Missionary Work in Newfoundland and the Navy" was the topic Howard Johnston chose for the Sunday evening program of the Springville Young People's Union.

The meeting was held at the home of the Misses Mary and Catharine Waterman.

Jack Sargent, Gerald Cook and Mary Waterman asssited the program convener in developing the topic. Then the union divided into two discussion groups with Catharine Waterman and Betty McIndoo as secretaries, each reporting for her group.

The worship service was in charge of Douglas Ball with Lila Seymour reading the scripture lesson, Hazel McIntosh leading in prayer and Douglas Ball giving the thoughts for meditation.

The Rev. A. E. Larke led in a song service and lunch was served by Mrs. W. Waterman and daughters and the lunch committee.

Bryce Larke, president, conducted the business part of the meeting.

School Enrolment Higher Despite Strike

TIMMINS (CP) — School enrolment is higher than last year in this northern Ontario gold-mining town despite a strike called by the United Steelworkers of America (CIO) at eight of the district's 11 mines.

Mrs. Florence Springham, secretary of the public school board, said Tuesday enrolment stands at 2,566, compared with 2,256 in 1952. She said this shows few families have left on account of the strike.

She said part of the increase can be attributed to the fact new kindergartens have been opened. About 60 new pupils could be considered part of a normal increase.

First Women Named To Divorce Committee

OTTAWA (CP) — The Senate Tuesday night set a precedent by naming the first women to its divorce committee.

Senators Muriel McQueen Fergusson (L—New Brunswick) and Nancy Hodges (L—British Columbia) were named to the committee which hears evidence of divorce petitions from residents of Quebec and Newfoundland, the only provinces without divorce courts.

The 17-member divorce committee begins work Monday on about 300 petitions for divorce.

Memorial Service Held At Warkworth

WARKWORTH (ENS) — The Canadian Legion memorial service was held on Sunday.

The parade moved off from the Legion hall under the command of Jack Mallory. The color party, Alan Buchanan and Gerald Greenly led the parade, followed by the Warkworth community band and Legion members to St. Andrew's Presbyterian church.

The Rev. T. E. Kennedy, pastor of the church, was in charge of the service and the church choir sang an anthem with Miss Lois Fowler at the organ.

After the service the parade marched to the cenotaph. William Johnston, president of the Legion, was in charge. The band played O Canada and followed with a Remembrance Day hymn.

The Last Post, sounded by George Potter, was followed by a two-minute silence and Reveille. Memorial wreaths were placed while the band played "O Valiant Hearts."

George Nelson placed the wreath for Percy township, Gordon Hutchinson for the Canadian Legion and Harry Vansicklin for the province. The names of the fallen veterans of both wars were read by William Johnston.

Charges Gov't Using Paternalism

OTTAWA (CP) — John Diefenbaker (PC—Prince Albert) Tuesday charged the government with "paternalism" in denying Canadian Pacific Airlines' request for a cross-country air cargo licence.

The cabinet's refusal blocked opportunities for development in the northern sections of the Prairie provinces which the CPA route would have served, he said during the throne speech debate in the Commons.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the government had decided the CPA might lose money in sharing the east-west business of the government-owned Trans - Canada Air Lines, and might then have to ask for higher air cargo rates.

This was a doctrine "that is the negation of enterprise, risk and development," he said.

"Is the future welfare of Canada to be considered a patrimony of the prime minister and his cabinet?"

Mr. Diefenbaker said a "paternalistic government" had denied the CPA request despite the support of 30 Chambers of Commerce in communities affected by the proposed route.

The country would have to decide how far it should go "along the road to state enterprise" and whether the government should be allowed to tell a company "there's a danger you'll lose money."

That spirit would not help the development of northern Canada, whose advance had been "bridled" by the cabinet's decision on the CPA application.

The Movie Column

Shelley Winters Throwback To Old Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—It's time to check up on the wondrous world of Shelley Winters.

The unpredictable blonde is a throwback to another Hollywood era. There was a time when the temperamental leading lady was considered par for the course. But movie actors on the whole have become more normal.

Shelley is always up in arms about something. Recently she had a much-publicized running feud with a casino when she was appearing in Las Vegas. She claims the place provoked her into blowing her top so the publicity could be reaped.

Even so, the fracas appears to have done her no harm. She said that upon her return she had more job offers than she could handle.

CAN BE DIFFICULT

"Yes, I can be," she replied. "I get along fine until people do things to prevent me from doing my best possible work. Then I blow up."

Difficult or not, Shelley has a voracious appetite for work, which is even more pronounced since her retirement to bear a child. Since then she has made three pictures, played the club date and made a TV film. She soon starts a film for her home lot, Universal-International.

On Dec. 23, she flies with baby Vittoria to Rome, where they will join her husband, Vittorio Gassman. Shelley will make a picture with him. At the same time, she plans to make a movie with Vittorio de Sica.

Take a rest after that? Not our girl. She may do a stage version of "The Rose Tattoo" in London.

NOT NOW, DEAR

Despite the gossips, she remarked that her marriage to Gassman is in dandy shape, the only distance between them being geographic. Recently the pair spent an idyllic few days in Canada, where she was on location. When he returned to Hollywood briefly, he read reports she was divorcing him. He quickly phoned her.

"Are you divorcing me?" he asked.

"Maybe later, dear," she replied. "Not now."

Inquest Ordered Into 2 Fire Deaths

PORT ROWAN (CP) — An inquest has been ordered into the deaths of a man and a woman whose burned bodies were found in the ruins of their frame shack near here after a Remembrance Day fire. No date has been set for the hearing.

The announcement came after a four-day investigation by Provincial police.

Police said they found no evidence to support a theory of murder and suicide in the deaths of John Illes, about 58, and Nellie M. Lockrey, 55, also known as Lily Rogers. An autopsy revealed no indication of foul play.

Churchill's Memoirs

The Commission had been unable to agree, partly through lack of information. The only way was to study the problem on the spot and Soviet unwillingness to let us do so was holding up the Commission's work. Mr. Truman concluded his message by asking the Soviet Government to let the Allied representatives fly to Vienna at once.

These representations were quite ineffectual.

Meanwhile the advance of the Allied armies continued with increasing momentum. All three "fronts," Western, Eastern and Southern, once thousands of miles apart, at last came together, crushing the life out of the German armies.

The end was near.

THANK YOU?—"What is all this about, anyway?" say Mrs. G. C. Brooks, left, honorary treasurer of the Women's Voluntary Services (Montreal) and Miss Jean Bovey, president, as they study a letter written in Korean characters received at the WVS office in the metropolis. An interpreter later informed them it was a letter from Dr. Joy, of the Isolation Hospital, Seoul, Korea, thanking the WVS for their gifts of blankets, bandages and toys for the hospital.

Four City Men Returning From Germany

The second contingent of the 27th Canadian Infantry Brigade to return from overseas service will disembark from the SS Columbia at Wolfe's Cove near Quebec Wednesday morning. The draft, comprising about 800 officers and men who have spent a year in Germany, consists mainly of members of the Canadian Rifle Battalion. Two special trains will carry personnel to Quebec, Ontario and points west.

Issuing this information today, Army Headquarters supplied the following list of local personnel returning:

Rfn. B. A. Scott, 186 Prince St., Peterborough; Rfn. M. E. Taylor, 127 Sophia St., Peterborough; Rfn. D. G. Shepherd, 1220 Clonsilla Ave., Peterborough; Rfn. J. C. Burrows and Rfn. R. H. Galt Sells Debentures At $1.40 Above Par

GALT (CP)—City council Monday night accepted a tender of $101.40 from a group of Toronto investment dealers for a $234,000 debenture issue.

Thirteen tenders were received and none offered less than $100. A bid of $101.40 means the investment group will pay Galt $101.40 for every $100 face value of the debentures.

Nine Lost At Sea

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (Reuters) Nine of the 17 members of the crew of the 184-ton Icelandic herring ship Edda lost their lives when the vessel capsized and sank in heavy seas in Grundare, Jordur bay, west Iceland, it was reported Tuesday. Gales have swept the island for the last two days.

Polio Patients Out

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Several polio patients were removed from Victoria Hospital Tuesday but three new cases were admitted along with one suspected polio victim. Total in the isolation ward was 10, of which only one was listed as seriously ill. The suspected polio is a 35-year-old man from St. Thomas.

Dr. G. R. Langley Critical Of Plans For Substation

Dr. G. R. Langley renewed his criticism Tuesday of plans for a new electrical substation on Bellevue St.

Dr. Langley told the other members of the utilities commission he doubted that specifications submitted by General-Manager W. Howard Powell would give the city satisfactory service at minimum cost.

Mr. Powell told the commission that, in accordance with their decision at a previous meeting, he had asked for tenders from CGE, Westinghouse and English Electric. Plans called for a metal-clad rather than an open-type unit but Dr. Langley said this was not the basis of his criticism.

"I offered to co-operate with the management in saving the commission thousands of dollars," he said. "I've spent my life designing these substations and I fail to understand why management have failed to take advantage of my offer.

DUBIOUS OF PLANS

"These plans may be prefectly all right," he admitted. "But I'm highly dubious. I couldn't understand the diagram submitted by the PUC staff."

"We always go to the CGE and ask them if a diagram will work," Mr. Powell said. "There would be no point in submitting a diagram with technical symbols to the commission. They wouldn't understand it."

"If I can't understand a simplified diagram, how would you expect a layman to understand it?" Dr. Langley asked. "I've made it clear to you that my plan doesn't agree with yours."

"Your plan wasn't like any other in the province," Mr. Powell said. "Ours has been approved by Ontario hydro and CGE engineers. All these installations should be integrated."

"What do you mean by integrated?" Dr. Langley asked. "It's costing Ontario hydro $4 millions to change that type of thinking now. For years it was said we should use 25-cycle power because that's what we had to begin with."

CONSIDER ESTIMATES

Chairman Fred Hills suggested that the commission could go over the figures of the estimates.

"I don't think it's fair to offer figures to companies if there's going to be any alteration in them," Dr. Langley replied.

Commissioner Dick Raine also tried to make a point but Dr. Langley continued addressing the general-manager.

"ou are quite determined not to accept possibly valuable advice from any of the commissioners," he told Mr. Powell, "and the point has now been reached where it is essential to take it."

"That means you won't listen to what I have to say," said Mr. Raine, winding up the discussion.

Bringing Up Baby

Hints Collected by Mrs. Dan Gerber (Mother of 5)

In the so-called good old days rigid rules were put above reasonableness. Parents were taught and told the importance of routine, especially where feeding schedules were concerned. Certainly children do thrive on a certain amount of routine (and so do mum and dad). But modern parents avoid letting schedules become more important than baby's real needs. Flexibility, coupled with orderly planning is probably the best-two proposition for all concerned.

Oven Dinner As Special-Purpose Menu

OVEN DINNER

Baked Fish Fillets
Epicure's Broiled Tomatoes
Baked Squash
November Cole Slow
Apple Pie Cheese

When I make the mistake of asking my family in a loud voice what they would like for dinner, from one direction I hear "Roast Chicken," from another "Roast Beef and Yorkshire Pudding."

Now how is a dietician going to vary her menus with two one-track minds like that? Keep quiet—thats' how, and slip off and do the marketing and buy something different.

When I asked the fishman for the very freshest fish he had on hand he loftily said "Madam all our fish is fresh." I tried another tack: What did he have that he could fillet for me? "I can fillet anything."

This boastful master of the indefinite had me floundering so I asked him to fillet a flounder. No flounder.

He had whitefish at 50 cents per lb.; pike at 40 cents; pickerel fillets at 60 cents and white fillets (fresh cod) at 40 cents. I bought the pike— a 1-lb. creature who seemed to be staring at me suspiciously. It was lovely and fresh and I had plenty for three.

MAKED FISH FILLETS

Oil a baking dish. Your large glass pie plate is good for a small amount. Place fish fillets, skin side down on dish. Sprinkle well with salt. Strew all over with finely sifted breadcrumbs. This must make a complete coating. Now drizzle or sprinkle over the crumbs oil or melted fat or butter —about 2 tablespoons. Place in very hot oven of 500 deg. Fahr. Do not add water. Bake quickly until well-browned, allowing about 10 minutes per inch thickness of fish. For a large thick fish heat should be reduced during the last few minutes.

If you like lots of flavor it is a good idea to spread the fish with 1 tablespoon grated onion, before you sprinkle it with crumbs.

EPICURE'S BROILED TOMATOES

These are ideal with fish, but wonderful to look at on a steak platter and make a good steak accompaniment too.

Mix together 4 ounces white cream cheese, 2 ounces blue cheese, 1 tablespoon each cream and chopped parsley, ¼ teaspoon each grated onion and Worsestershire sauce, salt,and ⅛ teaspoon monosodium glutemate (Accent). Mix this until it is smooth. Cut large peeled tomatoes in halves crosswise. Spread cut sides liberally with the cheese mix. Sprinkle with fine dry breadcrumbs and paprika. Broil or bake slowly until crumbs are brown and tomatoes piping hot.

Pepper squashes may be baked whole, or cut in halves, seed section scooped out, and baked cut side down on buttered baking dish. Before serving, sprinkle with salt, pepper, nutmeg and dot generously with butter.

NOVEMBER COLE SLAW

Shred Savoy cabbage as fine as possible with long very sharp knife. To 4 cups of it add ½ of a green pepper finely shredded, ½ cup finely chopped parsley, and ½ cup finely cut celery. Moisten with mayonnaise or French dressing. Remember to conserve salad vitamins it should be cut the last hour before serving time, and dressing should be added at once.

Lolcama-Buttar

PLAINVILLE (ENS) — Plainville United Church was scene of a pretty wedding Saturday afternoon, when Doris Marguerite, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Buttar of Plainville, became the bride of Mr. Lewis Lolcama of Hamilton, son of Mr. Fred Lolcama of Woodstock.

The Rev. M. C. Fisher of Brooklyn, a former pastor, officiated at the ceremony. The church was beautifully decorated with white and pink chrysanthemums, ferns and lighted candles.

Traditional wedding music was played by Mr. Warren Buttar, a cousin of the bride. Misses Marian and Margaret McKinley sang "The Lord's Prayer," before the ceremony and "Because" during the signing of the register.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of rose point chantilly lace over acetate satin. The neckline was embroidered with irridescent sequins and seed pearls. The full skirt fell into a train of lace with a net panel. The finger-tip veil of net was caught by a crown. She carried a bouquet of pink delight roses.

Mrs. Maurice Buttar, the bride's sister-in-law, was matron of honor. She wore a gown of French Blue feather headdress. Bridesmaids were Miss Irene Vanslyck and Mrs. Ivan Thackeray. They wore similar gowns and headdresses in tea rose and mint green shades. Little Margaret Buttar, cousin of the bride, was flower girl, dressed in pale blue net over satin with a floral headdress. All the attendants carried clusters of snow ball chrysanthemums.

The groom was attended by his brother-in-law, Mr. Allan Pollock of Norwich. Ushers were Allen Watson and Jack Buttar, a brother of the bride.

A reception was held in the Sunday school room where the bride's mother received the guests in a gown of Lido blue lace with net inserts. Her accessories were navy and she wore a corsage of pink roses. She was assisted by the groom's sister who wore teal grey gabardine with light blue accessories and corsage of yellow roses.

Guests from a distance were from Woodstock, Norwich, Hamilton, Toronto, Kingston, Orillia, Camborne, Cold Springs and Bewdley.

For travelling the bride chose a grey wool dress with aqua accessories, muskrat coat and a corsage of pink carnations. Their wedding trip is to the United States. On their return they will live in Hamilton.

Surveys Missions Home and Foreign

At Trinity Church WMS meeting Tuesday afternoon an excellent survey of the nature of Christion fellowship in the United Church foreign and home fields was presented by Mrs. H. Kearns, in the role of "Mrs. Fact Finder." Assistant Mrs. W. T. Fanjoy and group members Mrs. S. Constable, Mrs. E. Whiteley and Mrs. H. T. Rehill helped her develop the theme by reading carefully prepared questions and answers revealing the practical application of earlier evangelism. By example they described the work camp and caravan services in Canadian provinces, as well as overseas.

The business session was chaired by president Mrs. B. McFadden and included a favorable treasurer's report from Mrs. G. N. Moncrief, and an interesting article from Mrs. A. Legon on the recent district Temperance Federation conclave in Omemee. Members' attention was directed to a recent article describing the work on the Canadian prairies of Mrs. Hannah.

A donation toward the Christmas party for the Mission Band was approved. Members' support of the WA tea and bazaar at the church November 27th and the Nativity Play by the Little Theatre Group under sponsorship of the Mr. and Mrs. Club in the Trinity Hall on December 8, 9 and 10, was asked.

Refreshments were served at close of business.

MaGill-Bradley

The wedding took place Saturday at St. Paul's rectory, Bethany, of Shirley Norene, daughter of Mrs. Walter Bradley to William Reginald MaGill, son of Mr. Clayton MaGill and the late Mrs. MaGill of Janetville. The Rev. T. S. Gault officiated.

The bride wore a white strapless gown in waltz length with overskirt of nylon net and matching jacket. Her headdress was a tiny starched lace halo and she carried a bouquet of pink Sweetheart roses.

She was attended by her sister, Mrs. Robert Baker, of Capreol, wearing a pale mauve net waltz length gown with white headdress and matching elbow length gloves. She carried a bouquet of yellow carnations.

The reception was held at the home of Mrs. Bradley, who received, wearing a navy nylon gown and corsage of deep red roses.

Leaving for a motor trip to points west, the bride wore a maroon dress and accessories and top coat in charcoal grey with a corsage of white carnations.

As For Women On Film Censorship Board

TORONTO (CP)—The Provincial Council of Women of Ontario said Tuesday some motion pictures advertised as "adult entertainment" tend to corrupt the morals of youth and defile the sanctity of marriage.

In a brief presepted to Premier Frost, the council also said motion picture advertising has become offensive in some cases. It asked that censors use greater discretion.

The council proposed that two women be added to the Ontario film censorship board. It said women members would provide a "restraining influence."

DOROTHY DIX

Wife Spreads Stories About Best Friend Pursuing Her Husband

DEAR MISS DIX: My sister-in-law has an idea that her husband is being pursued by one of her best friends. However, instead of approaching either the husband or friend, she is spreading gossip about the affair through the neighborhood. She has absolutely no proof that an affair exists. It seems to me she's letter her imagination run away with her. Do you agree that she should stop discussing the matter before outsiders, especially when the subject is largely a matter of conjecture? F. R.

PRIDE, DISCRETION LACKING

ANSWER: Your sister-in-law lacks pride as well as discretion. Most women would prefer to keep domestic skeltons well closeted, as they should. Outsiders are seldom interested in family troubles of this type, except as something to gloat over—and, naturally, pass on to the first receptive ear.

If your sister-in-law's suspicions are groundless, and the other woman happens to hear the gossip (as she most certainly will), a slander suit may soon be hanging over your brother's family. Ruined reputations come expensive, too.

Can you do anything to stop this flow of slander? If so, you'd better take steps before the thing gathers so much momentum that it can't be stopped.

For a moment, let's consider the possibility that there actually is something more to the story than a jealous assumption. Even in that case, your sister-in-law should be more prudent. Many a mild flirtation, that normally would have died, has been skyrocketed to pydotechnic intensity through the focusing of too much attention. So, no matter how you look at it, your gossip-spreading relative will lose more through her loose tongue than through a loose woman.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: My husband is angry with me because I don't want to live with his parents. We are so happy here in our own apartment. Both of us have good jobs. His parents don't really need us, they just want company. Am I unreasonable?

Priscilla

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Since you have established your own home, and are maintaining it with out difficulty, it would be foolish to pack up and move in with someone else. Marriage is primarily the establishment of a new home and family; effecting a compromise by sharing the home where there's no real necessity to do so would be very unwise.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I wrote to you before but you did not answer my letter. My problem is that I've dated a boy who is married. I didn't know he was married until after our first date. Now I love him too much to give him up. He and his wife don't love each other. Is it all right for me to go out with him? E. M. D.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Your name and address on a stamped envelope would have brought you a personal answer. However, if you read this column, or practically anything else, you certainly have learned by this time that nothing is so futile (to say the least) as dating a married man. It's sheer tommyrot to claim that after one date you can't give him up. You're being dangled on a string, my girl, and you'd better drop off before it's much too late.

Hopes No Liberal To Oppose Mrs. Graydon

OTTAWA (CP)—The Rev. D. McIvor (L—Fort William) said Tuesday he hopes no Liberal will oppose Mrs. Gordon Graydon if she is nominated as Progressive Conservative candidate in Peel.

Mrs. Graydon has been asked by some supporters to run in Peel to fill the vacancy created by the death of her husband. She has not indicated whether she will accept the nomination.

Mr. McIvor said in the Commons that if Mrs. Graydon should accept the nomination "I would be greatly disappointed if a Liberal were nominated to oppose her. I hope we will have enough sense not to do it."

6—In Memoriam

LOUCKS—In loving memory of William John Loucks, who died suddenly November 18th, 1949.
They say time heals all sorrows,
And helps us to forget,
But time so far has only proved
How much we miss you yet.
God gave us strength to fight it,
And courage to bear the blow
But what it meant to lose you
No one will ever know.
—Always remembered by mother and father.

LOUCKS—In loving memory of a dear husband and father, William Jack Loucks, who passed away four years ago, Nov. 18, 1949.
Time speeds on, four years have passed.
Since death its gloom, its shadows cast,
Within our home, where all seemed bright,
And took from us a shining light.
We miss that light, and ever will
His vacant place there's none can fill,
Down here we mourn, but not in vain,
For up in heaven we will meet again.
—Always remembered by his wife Kitty and family, Rickey, Mickey and Roxy.

LOUCKS—In loving memory of William John Loucks, who passed away suddenly November 18, 1949.
Beside your grave I often stand,
With heart both crushed and sore.
But in the gloom the sweet words come,
Not lost but gone before.
God knows how much I miss him,
He counts the tears I shed.
And whispers "he only sleeps,
Your loved one is not dead.'
So we'll be brave dear brother
And pray to God each day.
And when He calls us home to you,
Your smile will guide the way.
—Sadly missed by sister Margaret.

Please accept our heartfull Thanks. Sisters and brothers.

Charge Reduced Driver Fined For Impairment

Evidence of a 14-year-old boy helped convict John Allan, 35, RR 9, Peterborough, today on a reduced charge of driving while intoxicated. The accused was charged after an accident on Wolsley St. October 30, convicted of impaired driving today, and fined $75 and $14 costs by Magistrate W. R. Philp.

Ross Brown, 14, of Wellington St., was one of three youthful witnesses to see Allan's car smash into a culvert on Wolsley St., west of the Chemong Rd., about eight o'clock the night of October 30.

With the accused in his car was his young daughter who, although not injured, attracted the aid of the boys by crying. Brown testified he smelled alcohol on the defendant's breath at the time.

After describing the scene, Sergeant Reg. McMillan described the accused as speaking thickly, smelling strongly of alcohol and being unsteady on his feet.

Detective Dennis Traynor who aided the sergeant, also described the accused as being in "a drunken condition."

Two defence witnesses, Claude Tierney of New Romaine St., and Earl Allen of Fairburne St., testified on the accused's behalf.

CONDITION NORMAL

Teirney said the accused had visited for half-an-hour a short time prior to the accident and had consumed three pints of beer at his hous. Allan had left there in a "normal" condition, the witness maintained.

The defendant had made another visit prior to the accident at the home of Earl Allen and appeared normal there, too.

Taking the stand, the accused said the car had veered over across the road and hit the culvert when he was trying to catch his daughter as she fell off the seat. He maintained he was "quite sober" at the time and attributed intoxication signs to shock he had sustained in the crash.

After hearing the evidence, Magistrate Philip reduced the original charge of drunk driving to impaired driving and levied the fine.

Elect FWI Head

TORONTO (CP)—Mrs. Gordon MacPhatter of Owen Sound Tuesday was elected president of the Federated Women's Institute of Ontario at the organization's board sessions.

Other officers include: Mrs. Lorne Guild, Rockwood, conference and holiday secretary-treasurer, and Mrs. R. D. Hendry, Galt, appointed to the scholarship committee.

County Old People's Home Pleases Visiting Grand Jury

Members of the grand jury at the general sessions of the peace came away pleased with the building and management of the Peterborough Old People's Home. In their report to Judge John de N. Kennedy they asked that Albert McConnell, superintendent of that home ,and Mrs. McConnell, matron, be told that they were "particularly impressed."

Living quarters for the men and women who live at the home were inspected by the grand jury, as well as the kitchen, laundry and barns.

"We were all very favorably impressed with the general condition of the buildings, particularly that there was evidence of many recent improvements," the report said. "The superintendent, whom we understand commenced his duites in April, 1953, has accomplished much in the short time there and he should be commended for his efforts.

CLEAN AND TIDY

"The building was clean and tidy and the barns were in good order. We would particularly comment on some recommendations made in the reports of previous grand juries:

1. "We would strongly recommend that all stairways be covered with rubber treads. They appeared highly polished and someone could slip easily. Two of the residents are blind and this further points up the urgency of removing this hazard.

2. "Some of the steps leading from the entrance hall are still loose and should be repaired.

3. "We noticed several metal hangers for hose. They had rather pointed edges which might be a hazard for a blind person. We would recommened that these points be covered.

4. "We noticed that the plaster was broken in several places This should be repaired before further deterioration.

5. "We would recommend that paper or individual towels be used instead of the roller type towel.

COUNTY JAIL

"We were courteously received by Governor Stanley Johnston and Mrs. Johnston and his staff and were conducted through the entire premises. We arrived at mealtime and noticed that the inmates were partaking of a warm meal.

"While the kitchen equipment was not modern except for the refrigerator, it appeared adequate to provide hot food.

"The quarters were clean and orderly. One inmate suggested more up-to-date reading matter.

"We would again recommend that the board walks on either side of the passageway that leads to the jail from the court house be repaired or replaced.

COURT HOUSE

"We were conducted through the court house by Sgt. Andre Dalton. The premises appeared clean and orderly. The following comments were noted for consideration:

1. "The washroom facilities outside the county council chambers are out of order.

2. "The walls of the jurors' room were in need of washing.

3. "Coat hanging facilities were lacking in the petit jury.

4. " The plaster on the ceiling of the registrar's and sheriff's offices was in need of repairs.

"We were particularly impressed with the management of the Peterborough County Old People's Home and would respectfully suggest that Superintendent McConnell be informed."

The two-page report was signed by the foreman, Morton Golumbia, of 687 Weller St. Other members of the grand jury were Mrs. Clara Buckley, Douro township; Raymond E. Collett, 642 Frank St.; O. William Hurrle, 476 Bolivar St.; Mrs. Edith Metcalf, Asphodel township; Percy Manley, Otonabee township; Howard MacDonald, Otonabee; John Starke, Asphodel; Lawrence Twomey, Ennismore township; Mrs. Jennie Walker, 512 Parnell St.;; Ernest C. Brand, 728 George St.; Charles Huffman, 615 Charlotte St.; and Hugh G. Curry, 801 Frank Street.

Cultural Group Advocates Study Of Duties

QUEBEC (CP) — A prominent French-speaking cultural group today said the provinces must first consider their obligations before protesting about encroachments of the federal government in provincial fields.

In an 18-page brief prepared for delivery before the Quebec royal commission on constitutional problems, Le Conseil de la Vie Francaise, which has branches in many parts of Canada and the United States, agreed the provinces especially must "hold control of their social, economic and educational institutions."

PROVINCES MUST DO PART

But, they should not neglect their own obligations. The provinces "should hasten to fulfill the duties imposed on them by the Canadian constitution as the need arises."

The Conseil said: "The best way to secure a right still is to fulfil the corresponding duties."

The Conseil, a group composed mainly of professional men, scholars and teachers, said it is "not a believer in the inviolability of the Canadian constitution," but the British North America Act should rarely be amended and then only for grave reasons.

Before trying to amend individual parts of the act, agreement should be reached to enable Canada to make modifications without approval of the Westminster parliament, the group says.

The constitution should not be amended unless a way was found to produce unanimity among the provinces and the central government.

The group said the Canadian Supreme Court should be the court of last appeal "on the condition" it is "constituted in such a way that it is independent of the various governments."

34 Arrested As Ringleaders

TRIESTE (AP)—A police source said today that 34 persons have been arrested as ringleaders of the rioting which took six lives here Nov. 5 and 6.

He said police action is not aimed at those who only took part in the riots, but at persons believed to have helped organize them.

British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden has blamed "irresponsible Italian elements" for sparking the riots.

Reds In France, Italy Menace To Europe

LONDON (Reuters)—The Times says today in the second of four articles it is publishing on communism in Europe that "the concentration of Communist strength in France and Italy is a continuing menace to free Europe."

"If they can hold the support of a quarter of the peoples now, it is feared that anything might happen if, for instance, a depression were to sweep the world," the paper says.

Plane With Three Crashes In Bush

BLIND RIVER, Ont. (CP)—A light plane with three persons aboard crashed in dense bush 20 miles northwest of here Tuesday. The three suffered minor cuts and bruises.

In hospital in good condition here today were George Smith, 28, pilot of the plane, Tom Nelson, 69, and Bill Hammerstrone, 41, both prospectors from Haileybury.

A search plane landed on a lake near the crash scene and picked up the injured men.

Lay Sewer Pipe On Borden St. Before Open

Peter Mohan & Sons, Toronto contractors, were today laying a line of sewer pipe along Borden Ave., a street that has not yet been opened.

With a burst of speed in ideal weather they began their contract with the city Monday, putting in 250 feet of pipe by 4 p.m. on Monaghan Road northerly from Braidwood Ave. to the Borden turn.

On the map, Borden Ave. extends from Managhan Road to Erskine Ave. This west side sewer will turn north on Erskine Ave. to Lansdowne St., then jogs westerly to Western Ave.

The Mohan contract carries up Western to the end of Chamberlain St., present end of a stretch of sewer that has been in use for some time.

JOB PROMISED

This is the job city council promised Westbrook Realty Company of Toronto in their project of converting the Hugh Stewart farm into a residential area.

Board of Works has been for some time engaged on the northern section of this sewer, —from Clonsilla Ave. across Sherbroke St. and so on up to Weller St. The previous contract of Mohan & Sons with the city was several years ago when they laid the Cameron St. sewer, westerly from the foot of Park St. They have done other drainage work in the area south of the Exhibition grounds.

Borden Ave. stems from Monaghan Rd., just below Edison Ave. It will reach along the siding, that carries into the Nashua Paper Co. plant, crossing under the C. N. R. Millbrook line, and continuing across the fields to Erskine Ave. It is south of May's School and the new Simpson-Sears site. Borden also skirts a poplar swamp, across the C. P. R. from the Peterborough Canoe Co. works, the last scrap of nature left in that new crowded section of the city.

MANY CHANGES

Monaghan Road is bustling with changes these days, following the completion of the paving job earlier in the autumn.

Charles Huffman Ltd. have the contract for the building of Grace United Church on the property at Howden Ave. which was the gift of the late G. N. Gordon. The Mohan job is significant of the last stage of development of the entire area marked by Erskine, Lansdowne, Monaghan Road, and the Crawford Grove Road. A few years ago it was a big broad space of the township.

Bulldozing has altered overnight the familiar vacant appearance of the field at the southwest corner of Lansdowne St. and Monaghan Rd. Huge mounds of top soil have been pushed back from the foot of the field to the Lansdowne St. front. Their peaks are higher than most of the houses being built today. This skimming of the top is preparatory to the Carroll Construction Company's job of putting in the foundation of the Peterborough unit of the new Simpsons-Sears chain of stores.

Frankel Brothers of Toronto are raising the steel of the big addition to Outboard Marine and Manufacturing for which Eastwood Construction has the contrace. Finally there is the transformation of the former Waddell residential front into parking area for employees of the Canadian General Electric Co. The new aspect of that stretch along Monaghan Rd. changes from day to day under the treatment of scooping and grading machines. A minor detail of what is happening to that increasingly heavy street is the report of Supertest Petroleum purchase of the Curtin corner property at Frank St. for a service station.

IGNORE BARRIERS

Mohan foremen said they were continually bothered Monday by motorists, including truckmen, who ignored the safety barriers that were erected for the short time in which they were occupied in the block of sewer work. Traffic which had all the speed of tremendous importance moved over on to the lawn of Nashua Paper Co., or at least over the border of it.

Recognition of the traffic barricades was observed mainly by the bus service. Its Monaghan Rd. south bus was today temporarily turning east along Edison Ave., making the circuit by way of Park and Braidwood.

Older Children Less Wanted In Foster Homes

The need for foster homes for children with particular problems is urgent, it was reported to the Children's Aid Socieety at monthly meeting, Tuesday. Although there are homes on the waiting list, particularly for younger children, the older children are less wanted.

"We feel it is valuable to have homes ready for these children rather than having to spend considerable time looking for them after the children come to us. Sometimes it is difficult for the applicants during this waiting period," Miss R. Young superintendent reported.

Two children taken into the care of the society were placed for adoption during the past month and three children who had been wards of the society for several years are now being looked after by their parents. This makes a total of 15 children returned to their parents during the last three months.

Plans were discussed for the Children's Home Christmas party to be held on December 16.

TCA Freight Charges Cut By As Much As 50 Per Cent

OTTAWA (CP) — The air trans port board has approved a reduction in government-owned Trans-Canada Air Lines' air freight charges across Canada, it was learned Tuesday.

The new rates, cutting present tolls by as much as 50 per cent in some cases, will become effective Jan. 1.

The board's approval of the rate cut application of TCA, filed early this year, follows closely on the cabinet's decision not to grant an air freight franchise to Canadian Pacific Airlines between Montreal and Vancouver.

The TCA rates approved by the board, an informant said, will be roughly the same for air freight as Canadian Pacific had mentioned in its application as prospective rates.

The tolls generally would be between 25 and 30 cents a ton-mile—that is, for a ton of cargo flown a mile—as compared with the current figure of between 35 and 37 cents a ton-mile.

Three Men Perish In New Outbreaks

NAIROBI, Kenya (Reuters) — Three white men perished in new outbreaks of Mau Mau terrorism during the last 24 hours and a fourth was wounded, police announced today.

The deaths raise to 22 the number of whites killed since Kenya proclaimed a state of emergency against the anti-white cult 13 months ago. Forty others have been wounded.

Two unnamed victims were slashed to death today by knife-wielding tribesmen at a farm at Thika, 25 miles north of here.

The third was police inspector J. F. Rigby, shot through the head Tuesday night as he led a patrol in the Nyeri region.

English Book Sale Lasted 14 Years

LONDON (CP) — A book sale which has lasted 14 years is finally closing.

On Dec. 1, the last books from the collection of the late Sir Leicester Harmsworth will be put up for auction. Since the sale opened in March 1939 the auctioneers, Sotheby's, have taken in £212,902 ($605,125).

Last books to be sold will be those comprising the 18th and final segment of the prized Americana section. Two other book sales in the past lasted almost as long—the Huth sale which extended from 1911 to 1920 and brought £278,498, and the Britweil sale from 1916 to 1927 which took in more than £500,000.

Such book sales extend over many years because of the time necessary for careful catologuing and because auctioneers are wary of flooding the market.

Board Members Learn Problems Of Blind People

The Peterborough city and county advisory board of Canadian Institute for the Blind's annual meeting was preceeded by a dinner in the dining room at Grafton's Store Tuesday night. Of special interest was a most informal and instructive talk given by Louise Cowan, supervisor of the home teaching department at Toronto.

Miss Cowan, who is partially blind herself, demonstrated briefly the difficulties and solutions used by home teachers in initial visits to newly registered blind. With the assistance of Magistrate W. R. Philp, QC, who acted as pupil, she enacted a visit to a blind person's home.

"What is it that you miss most now that you are shut in?" asked Miss Cowan of the magistrate.

"The fact that I can't get out," was the prompt rejoinder.

NATURAL ANSWER

Amid laughter Miss Cowan assured board members that this was a natural answer. Blind people, especially those affected later in life, felt restriction of movement an almost insurmountable imposition. The first task of the teacher was to gain the confidence of the pupils and make them believe this was not the case. In this respect the co-operation of members of the family was important, for it was they who would usually accompany the blind person on his ventures into the outside world.

Next it was important to break down inferiority complexes and instil the knowledge that they could still be useful members of the community, although blind.

With young children affected since birth it was important to build up a real topical knowledge of the outside world. Miss Cowan gave the instance of one six-year-old girl, an inmate of the home for incurable children, who could quote lengthy passages from the bible, but had no knowledge of the Red Riding Hood fairy tale. The teacher had been able to induce the child to attend braille and handiwork classes and meet other children.

It was also necessary to keep pupils enthusiastic about their work and to continually re-assure them of their ability to overcome seemingly insurmountable difficulties.

In his annual report to the board, field secretary W. T. Simmons said that there were 23 blind registered in the county and 67 in the city. There were also 93 prevention cases being treated in the country and city areas. A total of 84 other cases had been investigated. He added that six blind persons were working and earning their own living.

Outlining some of the advantages to the blind, the field secretary told members that travel concessions on buses and trains were available to patients and their escorts. Theatre passes were free and certain types of home appliances, writing materials and watches were subject to discount. Needy blind persons also received supplementary assistance in cash and kind. At Christmas each registered person in the Peterborough district was given a cheque for $3 or the equivalent in the form of a gift.

Peterborough home teacher, Miss C. Dawson, informed members that she had given instruction to 15 pupils in the last year, with emphasis on Braille, typing and handiwork. The teacher, whose work was highly praised by chairman C. J. Ray, said that two successful sales of work had been held. One had yielded $1,055.30 and the other $291.49 Miss Dawson extended her thanks to all those who had given assistance with the sales.

Chairman of the budget committee of the Community Chest J. R. Corkery, told the meeting it had been an eye-opener to find out at first hand just what a great job the institute was doing. Thanks to Miss Cowan he had learnt something more than facts and figures.

"I don't think the public is really appreciative of the wonderful work that is being done by the institute for the blind," he added.

Other speakers were Messrs. J. E. Girven, J. A. McKone, J. E. Gillespie and Dr. E. Cragg.

Five Children Die

GOULD, Ark. (AP)—Five children died near here Tuesday when their small farm home was destroyed by fire. The victims were the children of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Hunt, Negro tenant farmers on a plantation, who were picking cotton at the time of the fire.

No RCMP Musical Ride At Next Year's Show

OTTAWA (CP) — The RCMP plans to keep its musical ride off the horse show circuit next year, a spokesman for the force said Tuesday.

The step is being taken to ensure that all recruits go through the stiff course in horsemanship which still is a part of a Mounty's basic training. Such training is difficult when a score of mounts are on tour.

Revision Court Denies Appeals At Lakefield

LAKEFIELD — (ENS) — The village council sat as a court of revision and gave judgement on 12 cases of appeal of assessment reductions Monday night. Reeve William C. Grant was chairman and all councillors were present. Assisting in their capacity as assessors were Clark Harry T. Hill of Lakefield and County Assessor S. G. Sparling.

Elmer Aldred, the first resident heard, entered two appeals, the first on his property on Nassau St. which had been raised 28 per cent. Mr. Aldred contended that what annoyed him was that the increase in assessment was not uniform, some was raised 10 per cent and some 30 per cent or more.

At Reeve Grant's suggestoin, assessor Mr. Hill explained the method used in arriving at the assessment increase. He said that he had classified certain types of houses as to size, plumbing, air conditioning and other features. The older type home, he explained, had, in many cases, been assessed too low, while the recently built houses took the brunt of the taxation.

Reeve Grant remarked that he felt sure the same manner of assessment used in Metropolitan Toronto would, in the very near future, be used generally as a basis for assessment.

Mr. Aldred's appeal on his first case was dismissed as the assessment of $1,025 seemed reasonable to the court.

He also appealed the assessment of $3,500 on a processing plant owned by him, but this too was denied.

The second case was the appeal of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Burger to lower an assessment of $6,575 on buildings owned by them and operated as a tourist resort. The property consisted of the main house, four cottages, all occupied; four wigwam cabins; three summer apartments in a building formerly used as a barn and a cement block storage house. This case finally became so complicated that after an hour was spent in discussion, it was left over for a special hearing.

CHANGED MINDS

Charles Armstrong, Mrs. Grace Forsythe and Charles A. Quackenbush stated, when they were called, that they had changed their minds and would not appeal.

Thomas C. Hatton asked why his property should have been raised $425. Mr. Hill pointed out that an addition had been added and considerable improvements made, all of which increased the value of the property. Mr. Hatton's feelings on the matter were that it was pointless to improve property and pay extra taxes. His case was also dismissed.

An appeal by Mrs. Ferber, on behalf of her father, Charles T. Herring, that their assessment had risen 38½ per cent resulted in the court reducing assessment by $150.

Glenford Murphy's case for the lowering of a $2,400 assessment was refused. Mr. Murphy felt that Lakefield taxes were far too high and the ratepayers got very little for their money. He pointed out that there was little to encourage young men to build good houses in the village. "One hundred and ninety-seven dollars for a house on a side street in Lakefield, without even a sidewalk to walk on in front of it, seems like an awful pile of money to me, but that's what I have to pay," concluded Mr. Murphy.

Jerome McCarthy appealed an assessment of $1,600 on his house, but as three families were living in it, the court felt that the assessment was quite alright, in view of the income derived from it.

Two cases by Mrs. C. S. Tanner, one for a reduction on a building, owned by her and used by the Bell Telephone Co. as an office, and one on her house for $1,315 were both dismissed.

Court adjourned after sitting over four hours.

Govt' Refuses Loan On Wheat

Grain Situation Not So Gloomy As Has Been Painted

OTTAWA — (CP)—Prairie farmers can expect no government loans on grain stored on farms because of this year's bumper harvest. Trade Minister Howe said in the Commons Wednesday the government feels there is no need for such loans and added that Prairie grain income will reach a record $1,104.-000,000 this year.

Mr. Howe said the grain marketing situation is not so gloomy as some reports have painted it.

Movement of grain from farms into elevators was higher than in "many previous years." Grain was entering export markets "at a pretty fair rate" and the present stocks of farm-stored grain were the best kind of insurance against small crops in the future.

The minister entered the throne speech debate with a detailed statement on the wheat situation—a topic which has cropped up repeatedly in the four-day-old debate.

OTHER VIEWS GIVEN

Two members on the opposition side, Donald Fleming (PC—Toronto Eglinton) and E. G. McCullough (CCF—Moose Mountain-Camrose) gave their views on the issue.

Mr. Fleming suggested Canada ship wheat to Commonwealth countries in Asia to strike an "effective and dramatic" blow against communism and hunger.

Mr. McCullough said loans on farm-stored wheat were needed immediately as an "expediency." He also urged the government to provide permanent storage for 100,000,000 bushels of grains within five years and finance outright grain purchases from farmers to avoid a "fire sale" in the world grain market.

Mr. Howe said he has received Prairie requests for loans on farm-stored grain but had received other representations, "greater in number," opposing such loans.

STEADY HAND NEEDED

The minister, who is in charge of marketing grain, said the situation caused by the resent big stockpiles of wheat needed a "steady hand." But the situation was not more than critical, as stated by

Made Mistake In Advising Japan To Disarm

TOKYO (AP) — United States vice-president Richard Nixon in a bid for a rearmed Japan, said today "the United States made a mistake in 1946" when it ordered destruction of the remnants of Japanese military might.

Nixon's unexpected comment on U.S. policy startled, then pleased some 70 Japanese leaders. There was quick praise from Japanese who long have insisted demilitarization was a costly mistake.

"We misjudged the intentions of Soviet leaders" at the end of the Second World War, Nixon told the influential Japan-America Society.

Since then, "the threat from the Communist nations, with the threat centred in Moscow" had prevented the Free World from living in peace.

BELIEVE IN PEACE

"It is because we want peace and believe in peace that we have rearmed since 1946, and we believe that Japan and other nations should share the same responsibility.

"We felt disarmament was proper in 1946. We looked ahead, hoping against hope that it would be possible to attain a peaceful world.

"Since that time, the Communist threat has gained in power—wars have begun.

"If we want peace, we must be militarily stronger than the Communist nations."

Informed quarters said Nixon's speech apparently inaugurated a new soft line of persuasion in dealing with Japan.

The Japanese strongly resented recent statements by Senator William F. Knowland (Rep. Calif.), U.S. Senate majority leader, and State Secretary, Dulles, which they interpreted to mean Japan must rearm to obtain future aid.

PAPERS PLAY IT UP

Japan's leading newspapers gave banner lines to Nixon's speech.

Asahi carried this headline over the story "U. S. Won't Abandon Japan;" and Mainichi "Japan, Bulwark against Communism."

Foreign office officials viewed Nixon's speech as urging Japan to revise her constitution which bans rearmament.

Army Buddies Held In Slaying

TORONTO—(CP)—Two former army buddies were charged today with the slaying of Mrs. Sadie Davidson, 32, whose battered and slashed body was found Wednesday night—sprawled half-naked on the cellar steps of a downtown cleaning shop. Charged were John Houghton, 26, and John N. Beveridge, 44, both of Toronto. They were remanded to Nov. 26 without bail. Police said Houghton was picked up unconscious near the cleaning shop on Jarvis street. They also found a hacksaw blade and a razor blade stained with blood, three empty whisky bottles and three partly empty. Police said Houghton was living with Mrs. Davidson, a former resident of Dartmouth, N.S. Beveridge roomed with them.

DIES IN BRAWL

Mrs. Davidson apparently died in a drunken brawl, police said. She was beaten to death with a pop bottle and slashed with the razor and hacksaw. Her breasts were slashed. Blood was spattered on the walls of the cellar and the first floor.

A man who went into the store earlier in the evening said he heard Mrs. Davidson and a man arguing about money.

Police said Mrs. Davidson had told friends she was divorced and her three children were living with her mother in Nova Scotia.

Houghton and Beveridge had been friends when they served with the 27th Canadian Brigade in Germany.

INHUMANLY TREATED

Inspector Albert Mace said Mrs. Davidson was "subjected to very inhuman treatment."

On the cellar wall was a bloody palm mark, indicating the woman may have crawled half-way up the cellar steps before she died.

Mrs. Randell Smith, who lives in an apartment over the store, said:

"I didn't hear anything like a struggle but a couple of times I thought I heard somebody pounding on the floor in the store."

She described Mrs. Davidson as "a nice friendly sort of woman," and said, "She seemed awfully devoted to her husband (Houghton) and he seemed just as devoted to her."

HAD MONEY, LIQUOR

A taxi driver said he took Houghton and Beveridge to a liquor store early in the afternoon and then back to the cleaning shop.

"Houghton went in to take Sadie Davidson home," said driver Sidney Webber. "He came out and told his buddy she wasn't ready to go home, so the two of them went into the shop."

A soldier who knew the men told police Beveridge cashed a cheque for $486 on Monday.

Police went to the shop after an anonymous telephone call had been received. The caller did not leave his name, but said he had been stopped outside the store by a man who was leaving, and asked to call police.

Tweed Voters Turn Down Beverage Rooms 2nd Time

TWEED—(CP)—Beverage rooms were turned down Wednesday by voters of this Hastings county centre for the second time in five years. The vote also defeated women's beverage rooms and liquor served in dining rooms. A total of 509 voted in favor of the change and 404 voted against it. A 60-per-cent affirmative vote is necessary to carry such a proposal.

Offering New Trieste Solution

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Western Big Three have forwarded new proposals to Italy and Yugoslavia for a five-power conference to settle the hot dispute over the future of Trieste.

The Yugoslav government, it was learned today, has already replied, expressing readiness to attend such a meeting provided no effort is made to turn the allied zone of Trieste over to Italy before the parley.

Diplomatic officials appear hopeful that Premier Giuseppe Pella's Italian government will reply shortly. Pella's acceptance would insure a conference-table attempt to patch up the bitter Italian-Yugoslav feud over control of the Adriatic port area.

American officials were cheered by a moderate speech given Wednesday by Pella before the Italian chamber of deputies. Pella pledged to seek a settlement of the entire Trieste problem within the framework of Italy's existing pro-Western policy.

The latest American-British-French views on a Trieste conference, informants said, were sent to the Italian and Yugoslav foreign offices last Friday.

DISCOURAGED OVER WIFE

QUEBEC (CP)—Georges Hebert, 46-year-old laborer on trial for murder said in criminal assizes court today he was "discouraged" by his wife's way of life, but that he had postponed placing his four children in a home because he "loved them very much."

Car Overturns, 1 Dead, 4 Hurt

BRAMPTON (CP) — One youth was killed and four other persons were injured Wednesday night when their car went out of control and plunged down an embankment near here.

Stanley Whitefield, 21, of nearby Caledon East was killed when the convertible turned over.

Garry McCann, 19, of Malton, whom police said was the driver of the convertible, suffered minor bruises; Beverley Hannah, 18, of nearby Claude, severe leg cuts; Shirley Thompson, 18, of Tullamore, a possible broken back and chest injuries; and Robert Sullivan, 21, of Brampton, head injuries.

Sullivan said the group had been taking Miss Thompson home when the accident happened.

President Offends Indian Leaders

NEW DELHI (AP)—Indian leaders today were reported offended by President Eisenhower's choice of words at his Washington press conference Wednesday.

Eisenhower said the U. S. would be cautious about doing anything that might cause unrest or "hysteria" among Pakistan's neighbors.

"We do not get hysterical in this country," one Indian official commented. "That is a highly offensive thing for the president of the United States to suggest."

Eisenhower was replying to questions concerning reports that Pakistan would be interested in U. S. military aid and might grant American military bases in return. The reports aroused grave concern in India, at odds with Pakistan over the Himalayan state of Kashmir.

Kansas City Pair To Die December 18

Takes Jury Hour To Reach Decision in Case

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — The kidnap-killers of little Bobby Greenlease were sentenced today to die in the gas chamber December 18 for their crime.

U. S. district judge Albert L. Reeves passed the death sentence on Carl Austin Hall, 34, and Mrs. Bonnie Brown Heady, 41, within 15 minutes after a jury of 12 men recommended that they pay the supreme penalty for their confessed crime.

Judge Reeves asked the two if they had anything to say. Neither did.

Then Judge Reeves said solemnly:

"I accept the recommendations of the jury. It is my duty to accept and adopt the recommendations of the jury."

Since neither had anything to say, Judge Reeves said it would be the judgment and sentence of the court that they be executed in the gas chamber at Jefferson City on Dec. 18.

He read the sentence twice—once for Hall, then in the same words for Mrs. Heady.

It took the jury one hour and seven minutes to give U. S. district judge Albert L. Reeves authority to send the pair to the gas chamber. Judge Reeves had told the jury the two were cold blooded murderers and there were no mitigating circumstances for their crime.

The jury announced Hall's verdict first.

Mrs. Heady, the 41-year-old alcoholic, smiled slightly as the verdict was read.

Carl Austin Hall, 34, did not change expression.

Bobby's multimillionaire father, Robert C. Greenlease, leaned forward on his chair to watch Hall's expression. Greenlease nodded his head also, in apparent approval of the verdict.

Judge Reeves spoke extemporaneously as he told the all-male jury of western Missouri farmers and business men that the issue before them is simple:

Should Carl Austin Hall, 34-year-old playboy who took to crime, and Mrs. Bonnie Brown Heady, his 41-year-old alcoholic mistress, pay the supremeprice for their confessed crime?

The case was turned over to the jury at 10:45 a.m. CST.

Army Radar Crews Report Strange Object Over U.K.

LONDON—(AP)—A huge glowing object described by observers as metallic has been tracked by radar high over England twice this month, the war office disclosed Wednesday night. Official reports of the sightings were made by members of two army radar crews who estimated the height of the object as 60,000 feet. The first report came from Sgt. Harry Waller and three other witnesses who were making a test of a radar set for the 256th heavy anti-aircraft regiment in southeast London Nov. 3.

The report said the object was kept in sight for 40 minutes. Then it moved out of range.

STRONG ECHO ON SCREEN

"There was a strong echo on the screen, so I looked through the telescope and there it was, just like a tennis ball," Waller told reporters. "It was dead white and completely circular. I couldn't see it with the naked eye.

"The sky that day was very clear and blue with only a few high clouds. The object was stationary for about 15 minutes. Then it started moving off.

"It couldn't have been a balloon. To get the kind of signal we got it must have been metallic. It must have been huge, because the signal was three or four times as large as that received from the biggest airliner."

A similar report was made Nov. 3 by FO. T. S. Johnson and FO. C. H. Smythe of the RAF. They were at 20,000 feet in a jet plane, they said, when the object passed far overhead at "tremendous speed."

An air ministry spokesman said every such report is investigated "but we are not prepared to comment on individual reports."

5 PER CENT PUZZLERS

"About 95 per cent are found to be due to natural phenomena," he added. "About the others, the experts can reach no conclusions."

Over London, the object was practically motionless, the war office said, and had an altitude of 61,000 feet. Its slowness excludes a plane and its height, nearly 11½ miles, excludes a helicopter.

The experts say no meteorite or other celestial phenomenon would have shown up in the same way in the radar screen.

Hunter Dies Four Days After Wounded

Alexander Alexander, 46, of Toronto, who was wounded last Saturday in a hunting accident near Apsley, died about 5:00 p.m. Wednesday in St. Joseph's Hospital.

He was one of two Toronto hunters injured by a bullet from the gun of Frank Mattice, also of Toronto. Harvey Sinclair, the other injured man, was reported to be in a satisfactory condition today.

The two men were injured when a single .30-30 calibre rifle bullet was accidentaly fired from Mattice's gun and struck Alexander in the small of the back. It passed through his back and stomach and struck Sinclair in the fleshy part of his right leg.

HUNTING PARTY

The three men, with Alexander's 18-year-old daughter, Jean, formed a party of four who were trying their luck on the last day of the deer hunt. The accident occurred about 1:00 p.m. Saturday on the edge of the Peterborough Crown Game Preserve, nine miles south of Apsley.

Alexander and Sinclair were first out of the parked car. They went around to the trunk, got out the rifles, loaded, and started filing down the trail into the preserve. Mattice next got out of the car and, as he was loading his rifle, it went off.

The bullet from the powerful rifle passed through both men and buried itself in the ground.

Seeks Support For Moscow Visit

PARIS (Reuters)—Sir Winston Churchill is likely to seek American and French support for a lone visit to Moscow and an informal talk with Premier Malenkov, informed diplomatic sources here said today.

The view that the British prime ministers' reported plan will be an outstanding feature of next month's Big Three conference at Bermuda is based on recent exchanges between the French foreign ministry and Rene Massigli, French ambassador in London.

Premier Joseph Laniel is expected to place emphasis on the Indo-China campaign, which is sapping French military and economic strength, when he meets Churchill and President Eisenhower. He may also advocate talks with Russia on all Asiatic problems as the proper way to settle the Indo-China problem and end the costly campaign there.

In London today, an authoritative source said the United States, Britain and France will soon ask Russia again to meet them in a further attempt to conclude a treaty giving Austria independence.

Pass Regency Act

LONDON (Reuters)—The House of Lords tonight passed the regency bill, which will make the Duke of Edinburgh regent instead of Princess Margaret if the Queen dies or becomes incapacitated before Prince Charles is 18.

Denies Cheese Being Sold

STRATFORD — (CP) — Nelson Cowan, president of the Western Ontario Cheese Exchange, denied today that he said a second lot of 10,000,000 pounds of cheese had been sold to Britain at 25 cents a pound.

"We haven't got 10,000,000 pounds of cheese to sell," he said.

Mr. Cowan was quoted Wednesday night as saying the deal was arranged by the Ontario Cheese Producers Association and the Ontario marketing board.

"All I said was that the last consignment of the 10,000,000 pounds of cheese for Britain had been loaded on the boat this week," he commented today. "There is no second sale."

The original sale was announced recently.

Get Sad News Must Pay Taxes

HUGH TOWN, Scilly islands (AP) — The 2,000 residents of the sunswept Scilly islands got the sad news in person today — they have to start paying income tax.

Residents of the islands in the Atlantic at the entrance to the English channel have never paid income taxes. Other Britons have been getting up the tax in increasing amounts since 1799. But the islanders were included in last April's budget and today a tax inspector arrived by mail steamer with official return forms.

May Be Monsters At Bottom Of Sea

MANILA (AP) — There may be monsters at the bottom of the sea, Dr. Anton Bruun of the Zoologisk museum, Copenhagen, told the Pacific Science Congress Wednesday night.

The Danish oceanographer who led the famed Falathea deep-sea expedition in 1950-52 said a five-foot-long eel larva was found.

"Find the parent of that," he said, "and one would have the closest possible equivalent of the legendary under-water serpents."

Ask Guiana Controls Lifted

LONDON (Reuters)—A group of 59 Labor members of Parliament today called on the government to restore the suspended British Guiana constitution.

In a motion presented to the House of Commons, the group also sought annulment of the government order placing more administrative control in the hands of the appointed governor. It is uncertain when the motion will be debated.

The House voted Oct. 22 to reject Labor criticism of the government's policy toward the colony.

The Socialists hold that the governor's emergency powers should have been sufficient to deal with the situation created by the rise of the extreme leftist Peoples Progressive party, and claim that suspension of the constitution was not justified.

RCAF Satisfied With CF-100

OTTAWA (CP)—The RCAF has reaffirmed its faith and confidence in the CF-100 jet fighter, three squadrons of which have been assigned to the air defence of Canada.

More familiarly known as the "Canuck," the all-weather two-seated interceptor was designed in Canada and is being produced in Canadian factories. Following two recent crashes, it was referred to in some quarters as the air force's "problem child."

An RCAF statement Wednesday noted that there have been six "major" CF-100 crashes since the plane's first test flight in January, 1950. Four of these resulted in fatalities to crew members.

Commenting on these crashes, the statement declared:

"No RCAF aircraft is allowed to go into service, or continue in service, if any doubt or question exists as to its performance or safety characteristics. Unfortunately, certain phases of military flying, particularly fighter training, present hazards."

The RCAF said the incidence of CF-100 crashes has not increased its accident rate established over the years with all types of p...

DuPre Retained As Branch Manager

CALGARY (CP)—George DuPre, central figure in what has been called the greatest hoax in journalism, has been retained as branch manager of Commercial Chemicals Ltd., here, a company official said.

A recent story by Quentin Reynolds said DuPre served in France in the Second World War as a British intelligence agent and survived Gestapo torture. The story later was exposed as a hoax—manufactured by DuPre.

Announcement that DuPre will continue as branch manager of the chemical firm was made here by James C. Barr of Vancouver, vice-president of Commercial Chemicals, a subsidiary of Standard Chemical Co. Ltd. of Montreal.

Lumberman, Bear Tangle

Cookhouse Burns To Ground Operator Hurt, Bruin Dead

ROCKY MOUNTAIN HOUSE, Alta. (CP)—These are the bare facts of a meeting in the wilds between a lumber camp operator and a hungry 600-pound black bear.

The short meeting between Del Ackers, owner of the camp, 20 miles west of here, and Mr. Bruin, resulted in flaming loss of the camp cookhouse, possible serious injury to the operator, and death to the bear.

The story began two weeks ago when Ackers and his men moved into the bush to prepare their site for winter operations. The bear was apparently waiting for this visit, especially for the lard, honey and other morsels.

Every morning for two weeks, boards nailed over windows were torn off and huge bear tracks were left on tables and the floor of the cookhouse. These paws carried away a considerable amount of supplies.

In desperation one night Ackers shoved a heavy bench through the window. Next morning he found the bench badly smashed but still blocking the window. Satisfied, he lit the stove.

Then out of the adjoining storeroom strolled the bear. Barred by the bench-fortified window, it had ripped off the storeroom door to gain entry.

As the bear headed for him, Ackers heaved a can of coal oil at it. The cookhouse went up in flames, the well-singed bear waddled off into the bush and Ackers had his clothing burned.

The story ended a week later when the animal returned. This time he was shot dead before he reached any food.

Reds Want Neutrals Only As Observers

PANMUNJOM (AP)—The Communists said today they want neutral countries seated at the Korean peace conference only as observers. United States envoy Arthur Dean said the proposal "could offer a very fruitful basis for further negotiations."

Dean indicated the North Korean and Chinese diplomats have made a "prepared concession" and now appear to be awaiting further instructions.

There were growing indications that a compromise may be reached on the thorny issue of inviting neutrals to the peace conference, biggest issue to be settled at the preliminary peace talks here.

Dean is spokesman for the 16 belligerent United Nations members and South Korea, all of whom have voiced opposition to neutral participation in the peace conference.

Testifies Reds Working In GE

BOSTON (CP)—A man who said he joined the Communist party in 1941 at the request of the Federal Bureau of Investigation testified today that he knows of Communists employed in General Electric plants at Lynn and Fitchburg, Mass.

Appearing before Senator Joseph McCarthy's Senate investigating sub-committee, William H. Teto of Ashby, Mass., said in testimony that this was the first time he had revealed publicly that he had been serving as an undercover agent for the FBI.

Senator McCarthy said he has arranged for police protection of Teto, his wife and his children. Teto, who now operates a small furniture upholstery plant in Fitchburg, is about 55 years old.

Wicks Steps Down

Dewey Claims Victory In Battle With Senator

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Senator Arthur H. Wicks formally stepped down today as acting lieutenant-governor of New York state after a bitter quarrel with Governor Thomas E. Dewey ending in victory claims by both camps.

The Republican row seems certain to scar party unity and delight the Democrats in next year's election campaigns.

Wicks submitted his resignation Wednesday as majority leader and temporary president of the state Senate, through which he held the office of acting lieutenant-governor. The action was announced minutes after adjournment of a special session of the legislature.

Dewey and the state party executive committee had insisted that Wicks, because of visits to labor extortionist Joseph S. Fay in Sing Sing prison, resign his leadership or be ousted at the special session.

Wicks maintained he had heard no word of censure from his fellow senators about his visits to Fay, and claimed complete vindication. He said he resigned because his conflict with Dewey would impair state business.

But Dewey declared he had called for Wicks' resignation because of the Fay visits, and said "the resignation speaks for itself."

The 65-year-old Wicks, a veteran of 27 years in the senate, asked why he resigned, said "One reason is that I'm taking a much-needed vacation," and did not want the responsibilities of the leadership "marring that vacation."

He made it plain that he was not resigning his senate seat. He represents a Hudson river valley district around Kingston, about 80 miles north of New York City.

Senator Walter Mahoney of Buffalo, who once differed with Dewey but since has returned to party regularity, was chosen majority leader to succeed Wicks.

PM Launches Inquiry About White

Doubts Information Given To U.S. But Will Investigate

OTTAWA—(CP) — Prime Minister St. Laurent said Wednesday that he knows nothing about any "high-placed" Canadian intervening eight years ago against the appointment of Harry Dexter White to a post on the International Monetary Fund.

He also implied doubt that there had been any such incident and impatience that if there had been such a communication it was made part of evidence in a public hearing before a congressional committee.

However, the prime minister said in the Commons that his officials are trying to trace the so-called "high-placed" official and he would advise members of the outcome.

The incident followed Tuesday's testimony before the United States Senate sub-committee on internal security. FBI director J. Edgar Hoover and Herbert Brownell, attorney-general, both put in evidence a heretofore secret letter Hoover wrote the White House in February, 1946.

HOOVER LETTER

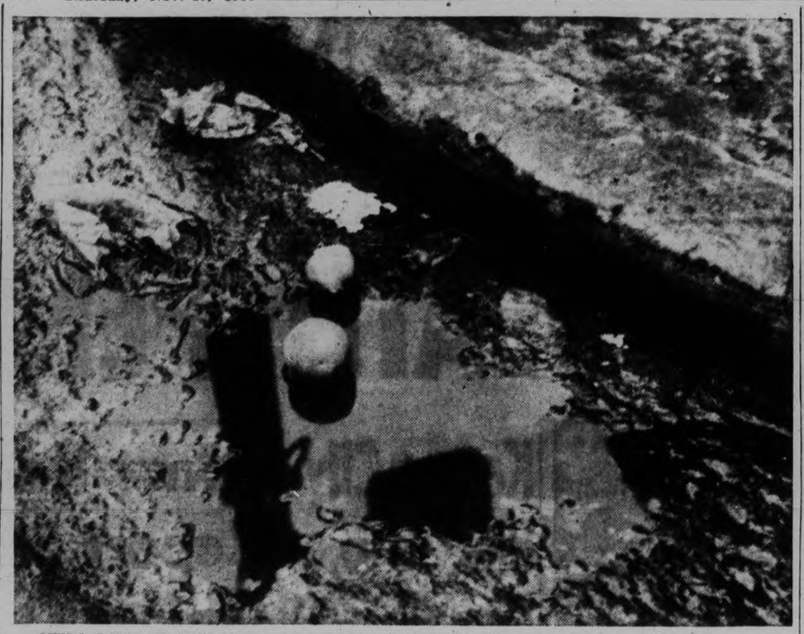
In the letter Mr. Hoover said a "high-placed" Canadian official had advised him against permitting Harry Dexter White to take a post on the board of the International Monetary Fund. White at that time was under investigation by the FBI as a suspected spy for the Soviet espionage ring exposed by Elizabeth Bentley, former Russian spy courier.

John Diefenbaker (PC—Prince Albert) asked the prime minister for a clarifying statement, after referring to the Hoover letter.

"DISAGREEABLE SURPRISE"

"I knew nothing about the existence of such a letter until I saw the report in the newspapers," said Mr. St. Laurent, obviously unhappy about the whole affair which he had earlier told a reporter came to him as "a disagreeable surprise."

"The matter has been discussed with my colleague the secretary of state for external affairs because I must confess I was quite surprised to see brought out in any inquiry before a committee of Congress references to what must have been, if there was anything, confidential information communicated by a Canadian official to a United States official.



"As soon as we saw the report proceedings were immediately instituted to ascertain if there had been any such communication and how and when it had been made.

"So far we have not discovered anything that would enable us to trace any such communication.

"But the inquiries are continuing and if and when we do find anything that would tend to confirm, or to put us in the position to make a positive denial, that information will be communicated to the House."

It is assumed in some quarters here that Mr. Hoover was referring to an expression of opinion conveyed to him by his liaison officer working in Ottawa with the RCMP as having been obtained from an RCMP associate. However, RCMP headquarters would say only that any information must come from the government.

The prime minister's statement implied that he had been unable to get any specific information from the RCMP. This would not be surprising because there have been many changes since the incident which occurred prior to February, 1946.

Raid By Trieste Unemployed

TRIESTE (AP)—Several hundred Trieste unemployed raided the Allied labor office today, smashing files and furniture.

Demonstrating against the firing of workers by the Allied military government, the job-hunters were chased out of the office by civil police.

Then they rushed to the Trieste city hall, chorused "We want work," and staged a sit-down strike which obstructed traffic. A few broke into the building, were arrested and quickly released.

Allied officials said from 300 to 400 workers were involved in the raid on the labor office. They estimated damage at about $150.

A police sergeant said the crowd was Communist-led.

United States and British authorities have dismissed about 1,000 civilian employees since the Anglo-American announcement Oct. 8 that zone A of the Trieste territory would be turned over to Italy while Yugoslavia retains zone B.

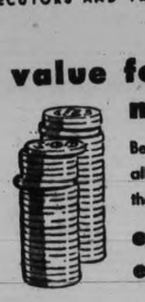
Rescue 7 In Crew After Plane Crash

PEARL HARBOR (AP) — All seven crew members from a United States navy Catalina flying boat which ditched in the Pacific Wednesday have been picked up from a life raft by the transport Daniel I. Sultan, the navy announced today.

Navy officers said three of the men were injured, but none is in serious condition.

The Sultan was heading for Midway island, about 240 miles south of the point where the airmen were rescued, and was expected to arrive some time today.



The flying boat ran out of fuel and crash-landed in the ocean while on a long-distance flight from Alaska to Midway.

CHICAGO (AP)—Wheat and soybeans opened lower in fairly active dealings on the board of trade today.

Spain bought about 3,000,000 bushels of red wheat overnight but it appeared that this buying had been discounted by the market.

Wheat started ⅛-⅝ lower, Dec. $2.00½-⅝, corn ⅛-¼ higher, Dec. $1.50⅜-½, oats ⅝ lower to ¼ higher, Dec. 75⅞-⅞ and soybeans ¼-1¾ lower, Jan. $2.96½-$2.96.

J. N. (NORM) ALEXANDER, director of Sales Management program (Industrial branch) for London Life, will address the Peterborough Life Underwriters' Association, on Friday at 12:15 p.m., Empress hotel. Mr. Alexander is a native of Smiths Falls, where he first entered the insurance business in 1931.

Farm Income To Drop 12% During 1953

OTTAWA (CP)—Farm income in Canada will drop by 12 per cent in 1953, the second consecutive annual decline from the 1951 peak, federal agricultural economists estimate.

In a 106-page report prepared for the annual federal-provincial agricultural conference opening here Monday, the economists made these points:

1. World agricultural prices have softened and this softening will continue into 1954.

2. The flow of cash to Canadian farmers has declined, but so far this has not "seriously" affected consumer spending.

HIGHER LEVELS

3. World food production, for the first time, has returned to levels attained before the Second World War, but the balance is sharply distorted to favor the food exporters and not those in the far east who still require food desperately.

4. Production prospects for 1954 are generally good, but "one or two years of bad weather would set back the world food situation considerably."

The economists estimated that net farm income in Canada will drop by 12 per cent which, on the basis of 1952 figures, would mean a drop of about $228,000,000 to $1,672,000,000 from $1,900,000,00. The peak was $2,200,000,000 in 1951.

Grain exports, including wheat, oats and barley, were lower than last year. But deliveries of grain from farms to elevators were higher than in "many previous years," totalling 207,000,000 bushels between Aug. 1 and Nov. 4. By year's end this figure "will exceed 300,000,000 bushels and could reach 325,000,000."

Mr. Howe said his previous estimate that Prairie grain income would be lower than in 1952 had "erred on the side of pessimism."

Payments for 1953 deliveries of wheat, oats and barley, plus participation payments during the year from 1952 crops, would reach a record $1,$04,000,000. Still to come early next year were "substantial" final participation payments from the wheat board for the 1952 crop.

However, a 12-per-cent drop in total farm income in 1953 was forecast in a report tabled in the Commons Wednesday. The report was prepared for the annual federal-provincial agricultural conference which opens here Monday.

45,000 British Immigrants Are Expected During Year

By RON EVANS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — It looks as though the Canadian immigration office is headed for another record year in the United Kingdom. More Britons than ever before—42,675—were sped on their way to Canada in 1952. Indications are that this year 45,000 will take root there before the end of December.

Each day prospective settlers crowd the bright green waiting room in the department's new offices near Hyde Park. They want to know about housing and health schemes, politics and prices, weather and work.

Answers to general questions are supplied by the three officers always on duty behind the long counter or through the racks of Canadian daily newspapers ranged at one end of the large room. For questions of employment, Britons may see one of the four officials from the department of labor. If the problem is personal, there is a private interview with a department counsellor.

After completing application, the potential emigrant takes an examination, including chest x-ray, by one of four Canadian doctors. Then passage is arranged.

CLEAR 100 HOURLY

Reg Casselman of Toronto, officer in charge of the London office under superintendent L. G. Cumming, says the office staff of 40 is able to clear almost 100 persons an hour during the busy season from spring till late autumn.

The number of emigrants from Britain to Canada has been climbing steadily, except for a brief lapse in 1950, since 1949 when 22,201 crossed the ocean. The following year the figure dropped to 13,400 but in 1951 it was back up to 31,370.

In the first seven months of this year the number of applications handled by the department was greater by 2,000 than over the corresponding period in 1952. Beefs are rare. That goes for the London office and those maintained in Liverpool, Glasgow, Belfast and Dublin, Casselman said.

Emigrants' today have fewer misconceptions concerning Canada and he credits this to a plan adopted in 1951 whereby group meetings for prospective settlers have been arranged by travel agencies throughout Britain. The department supplies films and settlement officers to answer questions on life in Canada. Such meetings have attracted audiences of more than 1,500 and are held as often as nine times a week.

U.S. Navy Plane Adrift In Mexican Gulf

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP)—A crippled navy PBM seaplane, adrift overnight about 42 miles out in the choppy Gulf of Mexico, began taxiing in on one engine this morning after the wind and water calmed.

The plane, with 10 men from the Corpus Christi naval air station aboard, made an emergency landing Wednesday on the water after one engine conked out.

Six men were taken off by a coast guard cutter. Four, including the pilot and co-pilot, stayed aboard for the slow trip home.

Arrest Moroccans

CASABLANCA (Reuters) — Police Wednesday arrested 40 Moroccans said to be planning a demonstration at Maknes, North Morocco, in response to a call for strikes and protest meetings against the exile of the former Sultan Sidi Mohammed. Wednesday was the 26th anniversary of the former sultan's accession to the throne. Until this year it was celebrated as "the festival of the throne," a national holiday.

Killed Husband Who Planned Fourth Home

NEW YORK (AP)—A mother killed her sleeping husband with a nine-pound stone-cutter's hammer early today because he planned to move the family to their fourth home within a month.

Mrs. Dorothy Renner, 43, then attempted to kill herself and 10-year-old son Robert with gas. The boy escaped from his mother's grasp and ran to a neighbor for help.

Police said they found Richard Renner, 43, a real estate salesman, dead beside his bed in the family's attractively furnished four-room apartment on Long Island.

Police pieced together this story: The family came here from California about a month ago and moved into a house in Flushing, Queens. Later they moved to Hollis, Queens.

SURVIVED FIRST BLOW

There was a bitter quarrel between husband and wife Wednesday night after he said he planned to move the family again. He went to sleep later, and the wife got the hammer. The condition of the body indicated the husband survived the first hammer blow and resisted, but was too dazed or weak to save himself.

Police quoted the wife: "I killed my husband. It's all over now. No more moving."

Pope Accuses Communists

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy (AP)—Pope Pius said today that a "new wound has been opened in our heart" by Communist actions against Stefan Cardinal Wyszynski, Roman Catholic primate of Poland.

The pontiff spoke to diplomatic representatives to the Vatican from nearly 50 countries received in special audience at the Pope's summer residence here. They presented their condolences to him for the current Communist persecution of the church and especially that against the Polish primate.

Cardinal Wyszynski was removed forcefully from his Warsaw archepiscopal see two months ago.

Since Warsaw's announcement at that time that the cardinal had been taken to a monstery, no other reports have been issued about him.

One of the diplomats who attended today's solemn audience said the 77-year-old pontiff appeared unusually wan and grief-stricken as he read, in French, his brief message.

Two Actresses Make Up, Drop Fight

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The Joan Crawford - Mercedes McCambridge fight, a sort of Truman-Brownell affair of the glamor league, is off, or is it?

After a fortnight of feudin', fussin' and fightin', the two actresses embraced publicly Wednesday night at a midnight supper party given by Miss Crawford at Romanoff's following the premiere of her latest picture.

Miss McCambridge, wife of the Canadian-born producer, Fletcher Markle, explained: "I sent her a note wishing her all the best tonight and she thanked me and invited me to the supper. I just hope it will stay like this at least until the end of our picture."

Miss Crawford was all smiles.

It was a different story the day before. Here's how it appeared:

In this corner, at 118 pounds, past winner of the Oscar championship ("Mildred Pierce," 1945), the durable movie queen from San Antonio, Tex.—Joan Crawford.

And in the other corner, at 112 pounds, also an Oscar champion ("All the King's Men," 1950), the bantam battler from Joliet, Ill.—Mercedes McCambridge.

HASSLE OVER STORY

The feud apparently began on the Arizona locations for "Johnny Guitar." There was a hassle over a Phoenix newspaper story. Miss Crawford didn't like references to her. She said Miss McCambridge was responsible. Whammo!

The remarks passed between the two on the set left other cast and crew members gasping.

"It's very bewildering," Mercedes told me. "She told me once that she really didn't want me on the picture. She wanted Claire Trevor to play the part. At one point, I went to her dressing room and said that we should make up. She asked me to leave."

"It was one of those silly personality clashes," said Joan, "It was stupid. Now it's all over.

"Everything is rosy now. However, their fellow workers are keeping their fingers crossed."

CALL STRIKE

FLORENCE (AP) — Italy's major labor unions called a general strike today in this tourist centre. The 24-hour walkout was called in protest against the closing of the Pignone steel foundry, one of the city's biggest industries which employs nearly 30,000 persons.

Abandon Hope Young Girl Remains Alive

LA CROSSE, Wis. (AP)—Almost four weeks have passed since the disappearance of pretty young Evelyn Hartley, and with them have gone nearly all hope that the puzzle will be solved.

There is little doubt that Evelyn, 15-year-old daughter of Prof. and Mrs. Richard Hartley, forcibly was abducted the night of Oct. 24 from the Viggo Rasmusen home, where she was baby-sitting. Her coat, glasses and shoes were left behind and there were bloodstains around an open basement window, the lawn and a nearby home in the sparsely-settled section of town.

Her continued absence is interpreted, even by her parents, as having no other possible meaning than that she is dead.

The only clues still are those found in the frantic search the first week after the girl vanished, when police and thousands of volunteers combed the country and poked into the tributaries and sloughs of the Mississippi river.

The best clue is a pair of black tennis shoes, stained with blood, with a sole pattern matching footprints found outside the Rasmusen basement window.

A pair of girl's panties and a pair of men's trousers are the other clues, but they cannot definitely be connected with the case.

Several men have been questioned in the case, but all have been cleared. On weekends a few townsfolk still roam the countryside looking for clues, but all organized searching has been abandoned.

Textile Leaders Protest Jap Imports

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS) — William R. Nicholas, reeve of Campbellford, and Leo (Pete) Wilson, president of the local textile union, attended a conference in Ottawa to discuss the question of Japanese textiles, which are flooding the Canadian market.

Two hundred union representatives, from several provinces met with five cabinet ministers.

The Japanese textile industry, it was claimed, was flooding the Canadian market.

Rebels Mine Train Killing 15 People

RANGOON (Reuters) — Burmese Communist rebels mined the Mandalay-Maymo train Tuesday night, killing 15 persons and injuring at least 23.

The rebels had placed six mines on the track about half way between the two towns. They attacked the train after the explosion, but were driven off by the escort of military police in a battle lasting an hour.

Drama Group Formed At Hall's Glen

HALL'S GLEN — (ENS) — A dramatic group has been formed at Hall's Glen under the name of the Kawartha Players.

Officers elected were: President Ellwood Payne; vice-president, Reg. Williams; director, Charles G. Hall, treasurer, Percy Little, secretary, Mrs. Reginald Williams; publicity, Mrs. William Crowe, Mrs. R. Hamilton, Mrs. J. Morgan. As work progresses other committees will be formed.

A play was read, which will be staged at the children's Christmas concert. A studio performance of three short plays was arranged for January 15. A three-act play is being considered for presentation later in the season.

Arrangements were made for any players who wished to do so to meet Saturday evening and attend the Peterborough drama festival in a group.

Mr. Hull gives a talk on "Stagecraft" at the end of each meeting. An invitation to join the group has been extended to all in the community. A large membership is expteced. The next meeting will be at the Orange Hall, Tuesday, November 24.

Space Available For Industry

Peterborough is going to have a vacant factory building on its hands, one of these days, as an effect of the enterprise of H. B. McGinness Ltd.

The plant is in good condition, with 19,000 sq. ft. of floor space, railway siding, and is said to be in the realty market for immediate sale.

An empty manufacturing building is something of a novelty in industrial realty around Peterborough. It has been said for a long time that "if we had some vacant and available floor space we could get our share of new industries."

The trailers company will have completely deserted in the next two weeks or thereabout the nest in which it fledged. The property will then be unoccupied, inviting the type of industry which civic authorities have been reporting for some years as looking for idle buildings, and moving on in their guest.

H. B. McGinness today verified the facts of their approaching withdrawal from McDonnel St. He selling, but his chief concern has seling, but his chief concern has been about the details of transferring production plant to the new company's new factory on Lansdowne Street.

The Indian elephant, in its wild state, has a life span of about 150 years.

Nomination Day

Nominations for municipal office will be made on November 27th, and the elections take place on Monday, December 7th. Thus the time is getting short for candidates to declare themselves. A contest for the mayoralty seems assured. Already seven persons have announced their intention to run for Council. As usual, new candidates for the Board of Education have been slow in coming forward, although four present members have announced their intention to seek another term. In the annual course, one member of the Utilities Commission retires; he has said he will be a candidate again. So far no other candidate has appeared for this important office.

* * *

It is healthy for civic government that when elections are to be made there be enough candidates to give the citizens a choice, either to confirm the services of a retiring officer or to entrust the responsibilities to a newcomer. Citizens have no choice if mayor, aldermen, Board of Education members or Utilities Commissioners are elected by acclamation. On the other hand, it is the citizens themselves who decide whether or not they are to have an opportunity of voting, because it is they who make the nominations and accept nominations. They have made a negative choice if they do not nominate enough candidates to make balloting possible and if enough good men do not allow themselves to become candidates. A society such as our loses vigour if the instrument of the ballot is weakened by disuse.

* * *

Our point is not that new men should be elected each time, but that an election be made by positive vote and not by negative acquiescence to acclamation. Candidates re-elected to office by public balloting are thus told that their fellow-citizens approve of what they have already done in office and want them to continue their service. Candidates newly-elected have also a positive mandate from their fellow-citizens.

* * *

So we welcome the prospect of an election for the offices of mayor and aldermen, and we urge that there also be enough nominations, and people willing to run, to ensure elections to the Board of Education and the Utilities Commission. Both these bodies administer large public funds, secured through taxation; both have functions important to every household in Peterborough. Persons elected to them should know, through the ballot, that they have the confidence of the people. Acclamation is not the honour it seems; the best honour is to win office by vote.

Our National Ballet

It was a pleasant compliment to Peterborough that the National Ballet Company of Canada chose to begin its autumn tour here. We presume, of course, that it was convenient for the company to do so, but it was another indication that Canadian artists of many kinds like the Peterborough audience and look upon this as 'a good town' for their purposes. It is no bad thing for a city to have the reputation of being hospitable and appreciative toward ballet, music, plays and exhibitions of pictures.

We were glad to have the National Ballet for two days, and we hope that it will return. It came to us without a sponsor, and the fact that it danced for two good, though not filled, houses shows that Peterborough wants and appreciates ballet, and does not needs the spur of a charitable cause to get it to a ballet theatre. It is well-known that a large number of Peterborough people travel to Toronto, and even further abroad, to see ballet performances; they are the nucleus of the local audience, and they were joined on Monday and Tuesday nights by many others who either lack the leisure and means to go to Toronto for this sort of pleasure, or who are not quite sure that they will like ballet when they see it. The National Ballet, quite rightly, is coming to cities like ours to develop its audiences; to be truly national, it must be seen by the nation, and not merely by half a dozen big cities.

What has the National Ballet to show us? It does not appear, at the moment, to have any dancer of undoubted star quality, but it has several dancers whose work is interesting and promises well for the future. It has all the charms of youth, health and enthusiasm, and so far as we are able to judge, it is improving technically all the time. Certainly these charming young people are infinitely more promising than the tired, ill-disciplined dancers whom we have seen in the corps de ballet of companies with distinguished names, distinguished pasts, and no discernible future. In this company of young Canadians there is discipline, enthusiasm, and hope. These are mighty qualifications.

They give us much of the delight and excitement of ballet, but as yet they cannot give us all the magic and romantic charm of ballet. This is partly because they perform in auditoriums which lack the equipment of real theatres; it is partly because they have not yet reached that level of achievement themselves. But they are on the way toward it, and with hard work and luck, they will reach their goal. Meanwhile they give us keen pleasure.

What we say here is in no sense ungrateful, nor do we wish to seem superior and hard to please. But it would be dishonest and unfair to these fine Canadian dancers to praise them as though they were already doing the best of which they are capable. They are a growing and improving company, and five years will do miracles for them. They deserve the encouragement of the whole country, because they are working to give us what is best in one of the arts of entertainment: they deserve our warm thanks, because they have already done so well, and provided us with two fine evenings.

It Is Also The Negative Sex

We observe that the four party leaders recently made speeches of welcome to the newly elected women Members of Parliament, and that all four of them referred to 'the fair sex'. This is gallant, but we wonder if Parliament is the place for such gallantry. It is perfectly permissible, and even desirable, to be gallant in drawing-rooms, for male gallantry invites female coquetry; but in a debating chamber we feel that coquetry would be out of place. The party leaders may talk all they like of 'the fair sex'; there will be two moons in the sky on the day when a female M.P. refers to 'the stronger sex', or 'the wiser and more politically experienced sex'.

In welcoming the ladies to Parliament we observe that Mr. St. Laurent and Mr. Drew suggested that there should be more women in the Commons. We suggest that the gallant gentlemen think twice before they repeat that wish. Our observation has been that the place of women in public life is predominantly a negative one. They put their influence strongly behind movements to stop things, to prohibit things, to limit things and to deplore things. They are great censors, banishers, and suppressors. But we cannot, after some time given to prayerful thought, think of a single occasion upon which a body of women in Canada has done something constructive in the governmental line, on the national, provincial or municipal level.

Please do not misinterpret what we have said. We speak only of government. In charitable work and certain other fields women have been builders. In social life they are far from negative in their attitude. But their notion of government still seems to be cast in the negative mould, and if we have too many of them in Parliament we shall find that they are brakes, rather than accelerators, in the governmental machine. In affairs of state women are play-safers and nay-sayers. It is men who are the visionaries, the magicians who make dreams come true.

Talk To Teachers

Criticism of schools and teaching has recently assumed the proportions of a national pastime, but in telling Montreal teachers what is wrong with their schools B. K. Sandwell of Toronto is not following the crowd. He has long been a critic of the schools; he speaks good sense and we have no hesitation in passing it along. It is good for a society to constantly question its means of perpetuating and advancing itself.

Dr. Sandwell told the conference of Montreal teachers that there is too much concentration on making education today a time of fun, when children are not stepping into a world of fun. The point is not new; we have remarked on it several times in the last six years. This is a difficult age for Canada and it is serious not only because of two world wars and international tensions. New wealth and unprecedented productivity have shaken the foundations of our society in the last fifty years.

Another of Dr. Sandwell's observations was this: self-government in schools is over-rated. "No meeting of students playing at self-government can ever amount to much" and self-government in schools should not be considered as the beginning of instruction in democracy, because democracy is a very serious matter and on a quite different level from student government.

Another morsel the Montreal teachers were given to chew on was this. Instead of trying to raise the status of educators, teachers should be concerned with raising the status of educated people. This may be a novel idea to some teachers, but if they remember that they are to be considered educated people, too, it is not a selfless proposal, though not as selfish a business as the other. If educated people are of value and an asset to the community, and teachers so indoctrinated their pupils, then the status of educated people would rise, and teachers with it.

Americans Firm In Trieste

By DENNIS BLOODWORTH

CALM has now been restored—at least temporarily—both in Trieste and in the Italian cities where only a few days ago bloody clashes were occurring daily between steel-helmeted riot squads and mobs of organized Italian demonstrators At diplomatic level, Western chancelleries are considering Yugoslav proposals for a round-table conference of experts to resolve amicably the conflicting claims over Trieste, which led to so much violence earlier in the month.

Relieved by this relaxation of tension, Western officials and qualified observers this week gladly acknowledged the decisive contribution towards re-establishing order which has been made by the firm attitude of the United States.

THE RIOTS have been rightly attributed to Anglo-American hesitation to implement the decision of October 8 to return Zone A of Trieste to Italy—hesitation which followed Marshal Tito's threat to send Yugoslav troops into the Zone. But officials of the Allied Military Government pointed out to me when Italian irredentism reached its flash-point in the city last week, that since March, 1952, Italian officials, sent by Rome and attached to the Allied Military Government, have already been responsible for the greater part of the city's administrative and economic policies, taxation, and business licences. Two main elements only remain outside their jurisdiction—the British-led Venezia Giulia police force, and the supreme authority vested in the British Zone commander at the head of the Allied Military Government.

Experts agree that the immediate object of the Trieste riots was to force the Allies to replace the Zone commander, General Sir John Winterton, by a United States general, and to have the five-thousand strong police force pass into U.S. hands. Italian irredentists believed that it would then be a simple matter to persuade Washington to relinquish control of the police to the Ministry of the Interior in Rome.

AS EVENTS quickly succeeded one another, irredentist plans to split the Allies to this end became increasingly apparent, and popular hatred of the British and the police knew no bounds. I saw bombs thrown at the Police-Prefecture, individual British soldiers attacked by the mob, British and police vehicles burned and ill-advised assaults made on British establishments

It was all the more astonishing to see unarmed American soldiers go unmolested in the streets; and, when half a company of United States infantry in full battle rig leaped from two and half ton trucks to occupy the beleagured Prefecture, to see menacing crowds greet them with clapping and then disperse.

It was noticeable that where troops took over, the Zone commander wisely sent in U.S. forces first to act as an insulator.

✧ ✧ ✧

RESPONSIBLE British observers now point out that it was the unshaken solidarity of U.S. officials with their British allies which finally convinced those who planned the riots that they could not divide the two, and that further violence was pointless.

The principal blow to Italian hopes came from a strong message sent by the State Department to General Winterton, affirming Washington's faith in him and stressing that the United States stood squarely hind his policy. And I learned from British and U.S. sources that U.S. officials on the spot, beginning with General McFadyen, had done eveything to show the irredentists that the Americans were not to be cajoled or blackmailed.

✧ ✧ ✧

SIGNOR BARTOLI, the Italian Mayor of Trieste, having failed to obtain concessions from General Winterton blandly addressed himself, earlier in October, to General McFadyen, U.S. officers told me, in the hope of provoking disagreement between the Allies. He was politely shown the door. During this period of tension, the Mayor and other municipal officials carefully stressed their friendliness towards American visitors, while obliquely criticising the British at the same time. These ingratiating approaches were always met with frozen looks.

The wisdom of the U.S. reaction became all the more apparent when evidence piled up that the riots in Trieste were carefully organized by the Italian Neo-Fascist Party and its sympathisers.

THE ALLIED Military Government has already revealed that more than three thousand Italian youths in specially-hired buses were turned back at the Zone frontier before the troubles began. In addition, the allegations of Signor Pella, the Italian Prime Minister, that the Trieste police fired on unorganized, unarmed students appeared completely unfounded to eye-witnesses.

British and American correspondents saw the Trieste rioters ably directed by ring-leaders dressed in a uniform of black sweaters and leather jackets, some of them known to be mob-raisers imported from Venice, Padua and Milan. They heard the first shots fired—at the police and by the mob. They knew that the principal city gunsmiths' had been rifled by the demonstrators for weapons. I saw five grenades thrown near the police Prefecture by rioters, and one demonstrator fatally shot in the stomach as he aimed his rifle at the police.

NO POST-MORTEM on the violent events in Trieste, however, can provide a solution for final settlement. The moderate Government in Rome is embarrassed by extremist Italian claims which extend beyond Zone B to Fiume, Pola and even to Zara far into Yugoslav territory. Yugoslavs retort that predominantly Slovene populations live in ports and towns well to the West of the Italian frontier.

In Zone A, where Trieste itself is predominantly Italian, it is only necessary to drive out of town for five minutes, to Longera, to see Yugoslav flags displayed everywhere, and streets and walls painted with slogans reading "Get out Italy—we want Tito."

✧ ✧ ✧

ALL the villages on the Zone A hinterland except Italian Communist Muggia, are overwhelmingly Slav. In Zone B, on the other hand, a string of ports along the Capodistrian coast boosts populations of Italian origin and culture. Furthermore, Trieste is not fed from its own barren limestone hinterland but from fertile fields in Zone B.

U.S. and British experts in Trieste agree that a scrupulously just ethnic carve-up of the area between Italy and Yugoslavia would produce an unworkable territorial division as intricate as a piece of Brussels lace. What is required, they say, is a reasonable and conciliatory attitude on both sides, whereby a practical solution can be found—even if it is a solution which involves sacrifices of population and economic interests on both sides.

The only alternative to this would be the establishment of a Free Territory under a United Nations Governor—which would automatically give Russia veto powers over its administration.

Main hopes, therefore, now centre on a commonsense division of the area; whereby—given ethnic concessions on both sides—the Italians would be granted Zone A, the Yugoslavs Zone B, and special facilities given to the Yugoslavs to use the port of Trieste.

NATIVITY ALTAR-PIECE by Philip Aziz of London, Ontario. This large (eight feet by sixteen feet) work in egg tempera on Gesso panel, executed last year, is in the convent chapel of St. Joseph Mother House in Hamilton. Mr. Aziz, who is not a Roman Catholic, is celebrated for his religious paintings, done chiefly in an individual, richly ornamental Byzantine style. The young painter, who was born in Syria, served in the RCAF during the war and following it studied in Canada and the United States. He is now teaching fine art at the University of Western Ontario and has been commissioned by many churches here and abroad to do altar pieces, stained glass, plaques, portraits and other ecclesiastical work. Mr. Aziz is addressing the Women's Art Association of Peterborough tomorrow afternoon.

SEARCHING THE SCRIPTURES

SIR: In reply to one who signs J. Y., I wish to say in the 1st chapter of John, the 1st of Col. and 8th, 1st of Hebrew: God the Son is the Creator of all things both in heaven and earth, visible and invisible, for it pleases the Father that in Him should all fulness dwell.

Also in Heb. final chapter, the Father calls His Son, God.

In the 1st Gen., the Hebrew word stands for the Trinity and the Spirit of God is mentioned in the 2nd verse; all through this chapter, the Creator, the Son of God is called God. In speaking of man's creation, He said, "Let us make man" signifying the presence of the Trinity, but again God the Son is the Creator.

The Spirit is frequently mentioned in the Old Testament. See Gen 6 and 3 Ex. 36 and 27, Num. 27.18, 1 Sam. 16 and 14, Neh. 9 and 20, Ps. 139 and 7, Hagg. 2 and 5 proof sufficient.

In Mark 7 and 7 read the context—Christ is not referring to His divinity but condemning lip service.

Perhaps I know more of Hebrew and Greek text than you give me credit for. I am a believer in the Holy Bible from cover to cover and am neither adding to nor taking from any part of it; and those who do should heed the warning in 2nd Peter, 2nd chapter: What mankind needs to day is to confess their sins and accept The Son of God's sacrifice on their behalf and take Him at his word, and inherit life eternal. WHAT GREECE OWES TO CHURCHILL

SIR: I have been impressed by the warmth of welcome that the American people have given to the King and Queen of Greece. In the press and on the radio the Greek democracy has been very lavishly praised and it is a matter of real value to all free peoples that Kremlin writ does not run in a place of such strategic importance as the Eastern Mediterranean. That this happy state of affairs exists is not due to any action of America but the prompt and courageous action of one man, Winston Spencer Churchill. Despite the violent protests of the New York "papers" and the disapproval of Washington and even the icy aloofness of Mackenzie King, this man acted and acted strongly by sending British troops. That action has been fully vindicated by events and if people are happy about the free way of life that Greece enjoys it is surely not out of place that we should render honour to whom honour is due and give the "Greatest Man alive today" just a little pat on the back. Greece owes its democracy to Churchill and it is good to think that there is a Churchill Way in Athens.

Maybe if he had his way earlier and not been tied hand and foot by the dullness of Dollar leadership we might have had a Churchill Way in Prague too.

Yours truely,
"GRATEFUL."

PETERBOROUGH'S WATERWAYS

SIR: To a comparative new-comer to Peterborough, the news of the formation of a citizens committee for the development of the Otonabee River and Jackson Park Creek is indeed welcome. On coming to know this city, one is struck by the tremendous natural gift of nature—a creek, a river, a lake—within the boundaries of the city. There are few cities so richly blessed! But does it not seem wasteful that we are not developing, and making full use of these great potentialities? On the surface this may appear to be a costly undertaking—but need it be? Under a competent advisor, I am confident that individual citizens, service clubs, groups of men, boys, and women too, would work with enthusiasm to reach such a rewarding goal. Here's to the success of the newly formed citizens committee!

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

As I live, saith the Lord God, I have no pleasure in the death of the wicked; but that the wicked turn from his way and live: turn ye, turn ye from your evil ways; for why will ye die, O house of Israel? . . . Again, when I say unto the wicked, Thou shalt surely die; if he turn from his sin, and do that which is lawful and right; if the wicked restore the pledge, give again that he had robbed, walk in the statutes of life, without committing iniquity; he shall surely live, he shall not die. (Ezek. 33: 11, 14, 15.)

And, behold, there was a man named Zacchaeus, which was the chief among the publicans, and he was rich. And he sought to see Jesus who he was; and could not for the press, because he was little of stature. And he ran before, and climbed up into a sycamore tree to see him for he was to pass that way.

And when Jesus came to the place, he looked up, and saw him, and said unto him, Zacchaeus, make haste, and come down; for to day I must abide at thy house. And he made haste, and came down, and received him joyfully. And when they saw it, they all murmured, saying, That he was gone to be guest with a man that is a sinner.

And Zacchaeus stood, and said unto the Lord; Behold, Lord, the half of my good I give to the poor; and if I have taken any thing from any man by false accusation, I restore him fourfold. And Jesus said unto him, This day is salvation come to this house, forsomuch as he also is a son of Abraham. For the Son of man is come to seek and to save that which is lost. (Luke 19:2-10.)

An Old Copper Blade

(Port Arthur News-Chronicle)

A copper blade picked up by 12-year-old Brian Turner in the Hawkeye Lake area, some 25 miles north of Port Arthur, may be 1,000 even 2,000 years old, or considerably more.

Apparently it is a product of the same art that produced various other articles of copper that have been found here-abouts at different times. The Pass Lake vicinity has been quite prolific with similar discoveries and a number thereof are to be seen in a store there.

The consensus is that these copper instruments were made by a race of Indians, the Moundbuilders, or some other civilization antedating those now definitely known. Isle Royale with its copper has been mentioned as the main centre of their metallurgy distinguished by the fact that they knew how to temper or harden copper, an art that has been lost and not rediscovered.

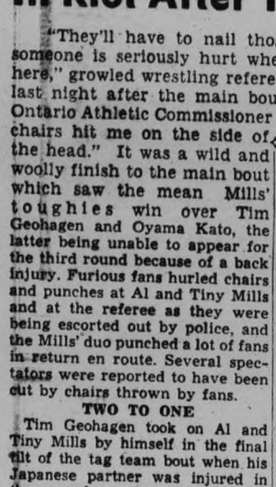
Grapple Fans Throw Chairs At Al And Tiny Mills In Riot After The Main Bout

"They'll have to nail those chairs to the floor before someone is seriously hurt when the Mills' brothers wrestle here," growled wrestling referee Joe Gollob of Hamilton here last night after the main bout; "I'm reporting this to the Ontario Athletic Commissioner for sure. One of those thrown chairs hit me on the side of the head." It was a wild and woolly finish to the main bout which saw the mean Mills' toughies win over Tim Geohagen and Oyama Kato, the latter being unable to appear for the third round because of a back injury. Furious fans hurled chairs and punches at Al and Tiny Mills and at the referee as they were being escorted out by police, and the Mills' duo punched a lot of fans in return en route. Several spectators were reported to have been cut by chairs thrown by fans.

TWO TO ONE

Tim Geohagen took on Al and Tiny Mills by himself in the final tilt of the tag team bout when his Japanese partner was injured in the second round and couldn't return. Tim was holding his own till the pair teamed up on him in their corner. When they had a rope around his neck and were kicking the Irisher into insensibility, Ilio DiPoablo—an Italian grappler who had appeared earlier on the card—jumped in to smarten up a slow referee on the break. The ref took umbrage at the intrusion, halted the bout and awarded the final fall to the Mills' pair. This touched off the riot that followed.

Tiny Mills took the second fall of the bout over Kato with backbreakers into the ring turnbuckles after he and Al in turn had worked on the gritty Jap's back with knees, feet, fists and twists, leaving him helpless. Geohagen in his turn in the ring more than matched the meanies, once tossing Tiny out of the ring and then throwing him back in. But Al and Tiny shot the works when they got Kato in there, with Referee Gollob too slow breaking illegal grips and then not breaking them properly. The fans booed him and the Mills.



WON THE FIRST

Timothy, scaling 233 but very strong, had won the first fall of the go over Tiny Mills, scaling 274, with his Irish "sleeper" neck unconscious hold. He later tried it several times but always outside interference from one of the Mills broke it up. Al at 255 pounds was as nasty as his bigger brother, while Kato (who went 225) was good in the early rounds with his squatting style and quick slashes and other Oriental holds—once applying one to Gollob to the crowd's delight. The referee missed plenty but it was a lively bout all the way, with the Mills lucky to win the doubtful decision and lucky to escape alive.

Ilio DePoablo, a 245-pound newcomer from Italy, won the semifinal in 12 minutes over Indian Reyes Nacho, 251, when he caught him coming off the ropes, hoisted the Indian with a crotch-hold and applied the airplane spin and slam combination for the fall. Each had their supporters and each was rough enough in turn during the lively and hard-hitting scrap. Again Gollob let too much go and nearly got conked at times by the indignant rivals. The heavier Indian looked to have the Italian on the way out with flying tackles off the ropes near the finish when the latter ducked one, which set Nacho up for the airplane spin and fall.

A LIVELY BOUT

Rough Al Costello, 235 pounds, won the prelim in 21 minutes against Herb Larson, 246, with a back-breaker grip. Al was tough and mean from the start, using fists, hair-pulling, biting, etc. But Larson was speedy and showed plenty of mat stuff to make for hot action all the way. Herb caught Costello in the midriff once and drove him right through the ropes, but Al returned and they were tearing into each other hard, as the crowd roared—favoring Herb—when Costello got the winning hold.

Redskins Seek Intermediate Football Crown

FORT WILLIAM (CP) — Fort William Redskins leave today for Montreal in quest of a title that has eluded them for the last four years—the Dominion intermediate football championship.

The Redskins meet Montreal Lake Shore Flyers in a sudden-death game Saturday.

Although the Fort William club has ruled the Lakehead football scene since 1950 it was not until this year that they succeeded in disposing of the Manitoba representatives for the western Canada title.

Their opposition was again the Norwood-St. Boniface Legionaires, the same club that defeated them in the western final last year and went on to win the Dominion title. The Legionaires held an unbeaten string of 25 games extending over the last two seasons before losing to the Redskins 14-12 here 10 days ago.

NO INJURY JINX

In advancing this far Redskins survived an injury jinx that dogged them from the pre-season training camp right up to and including the western final. Despite a long string of casualties they won their first five league starts but finished up in a three-game losing streak.

However, the Redskins recovered at playoff time to defeat Port Arthur in two straight games for the Lakehead title.

Coach Jack (Baldy) James says most of the injured have recovered sufficiently with the exception of lineman Bing Adams who suffered a broken jaw in the western final.

The Redskins will pick up a quarterback in Montreal—Dennis Brophy, star quarter for the University of New Brunswick who played four games with the Redskins this season and was registered with the Canadian Rugby Union which makes him eligible to compete in the final.

Trabert, Seixas Beaten In Semi-Finals

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—American hopes of regaining the Davis Cup dipped today with the defeat of both Tony Trabert and Vic Seixas in the semi-finals of the New South Wales tennis championships.

In what was looked upon as a preview of Davis Cup strength, the Americans went down before two 19-year-old Australians, Lewis Hoad and Ken Rosewall.

Hoad whipped Trabert, the United States champion from Cincinnati, 6-1, 6-2, 5-7, 7-5. Seixas, the Wimbledon champion from Philadelphia, tumoled in straight sets before the agile Rosewall 6-4, 6-2, 6-3.

DEFENSIVE STANDOUTS—Two of the defensive stars in Lakefield's fine 3-2 OHA intermediate victory over Lindsay here last night were goalie Ray Harding (left) and defenceman Dean Wasson, at right. They and their mates had to be good in the keen contest to yank out the decision before 500 fans.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Looking over the new OHA rule book, we find little new stuff regarding playing rules. There are a few concerning players. One says: "A player who has played in not more than three games on or before January 15 in any season and is then released by the club may apply for permission to register and play with another club for which he otherwise qualified by age, except that the transfer must be complete by February 10. A team shall be permitted to register only one such player in any season." Another change concerning replacement of injured goalies says: "The regular goalkeeper shall return to competition as soon as medical evidence indicates that it is in order for him to do so. A replacement shall be allowed to a club in the event of a player lost to his club through death."

Coach Redmond intimated the other night that he may do some shuffling of players in the Petes' lineup for Friday's fray here with Oshawa Truckmen. It'll be the first local appearance of the classy Oshawa outfit which beat Petes in Bowmanville to open the OHA senior "B" schedule. Truckmen top the loop with 10 points, Kingston has six, Petes five and Belleville four, with Orillia trailing, up to last night. So the Petes aren't far off the pace but must show more than they did last start against Kingston here if they expect to beat the Truckers. It promises to be a sizzler. Some familiar faces in the Oshawa lineup, Samolenko, Wilson, Peters, etc.

Red Wasson Goes Good

A puck item from Port Hope where Ned Vitarelli is coach: The work of Red Wasson in all games to date is worthy of comment since the redhead goalie has been a big factor in all Redmen wins. Against his home team from Lakefield he came within one of registering a shutout, the only goal by Lakefield being scored by his brother Dean. Against Bowmanville he was as good as ever and he shone against Cobourg. In Lindsay he was superb. Sixty Coombs of Lindsay revealed that he is attempting to enter the refereeing end of the business and he should make a good referee with his playing experience in senior hockey at Peterborough and with Muskies in the Lakeshore league. So far, the OHA hasn't seen fit to give him an assignment.

PCVS senior coach Bev Goulding was quite indignant yesterday at scribe Clayt Browne of the St. Catherine's paper. Browne ran this item in his column re last Saturday's grid game: "As the story goes, Coach Fred McKenna of the winning Welland team was given the ball after the tilt as a fine memorial of his initial Ontario championship. Then Peterborough reconsidered the gift and took it back. Whether that had anything to do with the later dinner is not said, but the fact remains that Welland did not remain over for the banquet but arrived home around 10 p.m. and staged their own parade and celebration."

* * * * * * *

True Facts of the Case

Bev told us yesterday when advised of the item: "That's not the first time Browne has been wrong in writeups about us, and I wish he'd get his facts straight before publishing such stuff. There was some argument after the game when Welland supporters tore down the goal posts here, though one chap when questioned about it said he was not a student from Welland High School. However, the Welland coach and players did attend our dinner at the Collegiate and were presented with the ball. They received our sincere congratulations on their victory for the COSSA senior "A" championship, and they left about 6:30 after having an enjoyable time with us. The visiting team used a hotel to change from their uniforms, though invited to use facilities at PCVS." So there 'tis, Clayt—and why not set Niagara district folks straight on it

Those rough mat villians, the Mills brothers, touched off another riot among fans at the Brock Arena last night after being awarded the main bout over Tim Geohagen and Oyama Kato. Latter was injured and couldn't finish, and Tim was being throttled when a prelim grabbler got into the ring to help him, and Ref. Joe Gollob gave the decision to Al and Tiny Mills. Chairs and fists flew for 10 minutes as police tried to push Al and Tiny through a furious crowd of fans, some of the latter being punched plenty by the big grabblers. A hot time in the old town. Ilio DiPoabla won the semi-final o'er Reyes Nacho, while the prelim saw Al Costello pin Herb Larson.

Lindsay Boys Take Second OHA Victory

LINDSAY (ENS)—The Lindsay Juniors won their second game in as many starts Tuesday night, nipping the Port Perry Flyers 6-5 in an OHA Junior "B" tussle.

Danny Pearson, Muskie forward for the juniors, was the star of the night as he potted the winnning goal with a minute to go in the game, after Port Perry had made up a three-goal deficit in the third period, scoring the tying goals while the juniors were shorthanded.

Bobby Growden, another newcomer to the Lindsay team, led the winners with two goals and two assists. Other goals went to Truax, Hutton and Graham. For the losing Flyers, Brodie and O'Connor, with two goals apiece, were best while Copeland, who notched their fifth counter, also shone. Referee Doug Calhoun handed out 26 penalties, including two majors. The visitors drew 16 sentences with their rough style of play and were shorthanded when the winning goal was scored by Pearson.

Sarnia Drops 6-2 Game To Stratford

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Offensively, Chatham Maroons are the fifth best team in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series. Defensively, Chatham is also fifth best in the loop. In the standings, the Maroons are first.

Only the last two teams in the league have averages which justify their positions. Sarnia Sailors, who dropped a 6-2 decision to the Indians in Stratford during the league's only game Wednesday night, have scored an average of three goals a game—seventh best in the league. The Sailors are in seventh place. Their goals-against record of 4.18 is also seventh best.

Niagara Falls Cataracts have a 2.22 goals-for average and a 5.5 league in both divisions. The Cataracts are eighth in the standings.

OBERHOLTZER GETS TWO

Stratford, who moved into sole possession of fourth place with its victory, holds the figures of a sixth place club. Don Oberholtzer scored two goals to lead the Indians to their seventh victory in 15 games. They have tied one.

Dinny Flanagan, Mickey Roth, Herve Jejordy and Lou Bendo rounded out the Stratford total. McKennell shared goals for the Sailors.

In the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series Sudbury Wolves shut out Sault Ste. Marie (Mich.) Indians 5-0. Last year's league scoring champion, Gordie Heale scored three goals. Hub Beaudry and George Defelice fired the others.

Hamilton Tigers meet the second-place Dutchmen in the only game of the OHA series tonight. Sault Indians play Sault Ste. Marie (Ont.) Greyhounds and the Wolves clash with the Trappers in North Bay in NOHA action.

Lakefield Finishes Strong To Grab A 3-2 Win Against Lindsay Puckists

Cam Wasson's hustling Lakefield Indians of the intermediate "A" Lakeshore hockey loop, came through with a brilliant 3-2 victory over Lindsay Muskies Wednesday night at Civic Arena, for their second win of the young hockey season. It was a hard-hitting, rugged battle throughout, studded with 14 penalties but essentially clean with no majors and witnessed by some 500 fans. Lakefield came from behind to earn this fine triumph with two sparkling goals in the third period, the first on a great effort by Dean Wasson, Dick McCracken and Ken Floyd inside the enemy blueline, with the latter potting McCracken's fast drive after it bounced off a leg at 4.30, to tie the score. The visitors had held a 2-1 edge for over 18 minutes of play.

FINISHED STRONG

Then the final climactic play came midway in the frame as Ab Caravaggio, Ace Reid and Doug Hunter raced in hard to storm the Pool citadel, and the former sank a fast passout in his opportunist style, to break the deadlock. Play was fairly even throughout with the winners slightly superior territorially, in the final minutes. Ken Floyd, Hunter, Caravaggio, Reid, McCracken, Dean Wasson, Birch, Wilson, Richlark and Cam Wasson were outstanding with Harding sensational in the net, for the winners. Coach Al Burns, Corley, Lewis, Hicks, Kelly, Sinclair, Hennessy, Widdup, Wyatt, Parker and Hicks were best for Muskies with Pool steady in the cage.

Lindsay: Goal, Pool; defence, Burns, Green; centre, Parker; wings, Weddup, Crawford; alts., Hicks, Corley, Lewis, Kelly, Wyatt, Sinclair, Hennessy Davis, O'Connell.

Rangers Clout Black Hawks In 3-1 Display

By WALTER GRAY, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Tho hot dog sales were down in Madison Square Gardens Wednesday night. Only 6,176 fans watched Frank Boucher's fighting New York Rangers defeat the cellar-dwelling Chicago Black Hawks 3-1 in a National Hockey League game. But a lack of spectator interest, a letdown after the recent huge crowds, didn't stop the Broadway Blues from giving their faithful followers their money's worth. The victory was the Rangers' fourth over the Hawks this season and their third win in six starts. They tied one and lost two.

Andy Bathgate, recruited last week from Vancouver Canucks where he led the Western Hockey League scoring, notched his first NHL goal in the first period. Ron Murphy, a former linemate of Bathgate's with Guelph Biltmores of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series and rookie Camille Henry assisted. Murphy with Don (Bones) Raleigh, also assisted on Harry Howell's tie-breaker in the second period. Paul Ronty, with the help of Wally Hergesheimer and Hy Buller, scored the third goal in the final period.

Murray Costello scored Chicago's goal.

GOING STRONG

Tonight, Toronto Maple Leafs, currently the hottest team in the league with a record of eight straight games without a loss, face league leading Montreal Canadiens in Montreal.

Canadiens have lost three, tied one and won one of their last five games. Montreal's high-price rookie, Jean Beliveau and Dickie Moore have been skating this week. Beliveau may be on the line-up again within 10 days but Moore may not be ready for another three weeks.

Detroit Red Wings, tied with the Leafs for runner-up spot, also tries for a first-place tie tonight when they meet the fourth-place Boston Bruins.

In their last five games Red Wings have won two, lost one and tied two. The Bruins have won one, lost two and tied two.

STIFF ARM—Ray Renfro stiff-armed Pittsburgh's Art DeCarlo, but the Steeler brought the Cleveland back down after a 10-yard gain. The Browns, playing in Cleveland's Municipal Stadium, made it seven straight, 34-16.

Order Frontenacs Be Suspended

TORONTO (CP)—W. B. (Baldy) George of Kemptville, president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, said in a telephone interview from Picton that he had ordered the Quebec branch to suspend Quebec Frontenacs if the club continued to play goalkeeper Jacques Marcotte in the Quebec junior league.

"I told the Quebec branch last Friday to suspend the team if the boy plays with Frontenacs," George said. "I haven't had a report since then and I don't know if he has played with that club or not."

Much fuss has been made over the youngster since he signed with Frontenacs this year. He played last season with Quebec Citadelles, then in the Quebec Junior Hockey League and now operating in the junior A division of the Ontario Hockey Association.

Citadelles claimed he was still their property and carried the case to the CAHA which ordered Marcotte back to Citadelles.

The Quebec Amateur Hockey Association notified Frontenacs that the club would be suspended if it continued to play Marcotte and a court case resulted. Nov. 12, a petition for an injunction by Frontenacs to restrain the QAHA from acting in a threatened suspension of the club was refused. The team is attempting an appeal.

Hornets Shade Barons To Take Second Place

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Wednesday was Pittsburgh's night in the American Hockey League.

The Hornets shaded Cleveland 3-2 to move into second place.

In the only other game played Syracuse Warriors downed Hershey Bears 3-2.

At Pittsburgh the Barons came from behind twice to tie the score before Earl Balfour rammed home the winning tally late in the third period.

At Syracuse Mike Narduzzi whipped in his second goal in the last stanza to give the Warriors the game, after both teams had matched scores in the first two periods.

New York Yankees' great outfielder Joe DiMaggio married Dorothy Arnold of the movies 14 years ago today as baseball fans packed the church at San Francisco. DiMaggio had just helped the Yankees win their fourth straight world series title in 1939, over Cincinnati, a record that stood until the Yankees this year beat Brooklyn for their fifth straight.

Hamilton Mauls Alouettes In 37-12 Win In First Of Three Games

HAMILTON—(CP)—A defensive wingline loaded with all-star material took up the "eat-'em-raw" battle cry of Tiger-Cat football fans Wednesday as Hamilton mauled Montreal Alouettes 37-12 in the opening game of the best-of-three Big Four final. It was the worst licking the high-powered Als have taken all year and victory gave hope to Tiger-Cat supporters that this year, after four frustrating seasons of watching the Bengals go out in the playoffs, they might advance to the Nov. 28 Grey Cup final at Toronto. If Tiger-Cats duplicate their performance in the second game at Montreal Sunday, the Als are dead.

With 15,000 fans in the Civic Stadium stands and countless thousands others viewing it via television, Tiger-Cats powered for six converted touchdowns, four of them in the second quarter. And they parlayed six Montreal mistakes into 31 of their points.

Directed by quarter Ed Songin, Tiger-Cats ripped through the Montreal line, skirted the ends and snared passes for 424 yards, 133 rushing and 291 passing.

DEFENSIVE STARS

Tiger-Cats, who had seven men chosen on The Canadian Press Big Four defensive team this year prowled around the Montreal backfield most of the afternoon to toss quarter Sam Etcheverry for losses on attempted pass plays. And the Tiger-Cat line held the Als to a net gain of 19 yards rushing, harried them into errors and miscues that set up the majority of Hamilton scoring plays.

And while the tank brigade did a tremendous job up front, the backs poured through to take three touchdown passes from Songin, one a 100-yard pass-and-run play to rookie Ray Truant.

Lou Kusserow, former Columbia University half, scored three touchdowns. He took two touchdown passes from Songin, tossed a touchdown pass to Ralph Toohy and figured prominently in the other Hamilton major scored by hard-plunging Merle Hapes on a seven-yard smash.

SIX CONVERTS

Tip Logan, formerly of Queen's Golden Gaels and a three-year player with Tiger-Cats, converted all six touchdowns to run his string of conversions to 78. Cam Fraser scored Hamilton's other point with a single in the first quarter.

End Ray Poole, placement-kicking specialist, and end Red O'Quinn caught touchdown passes from Etcheverry for Montreal's only majors. Poole converted both.

Announce Plans For Tickets

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Winnipeg football club has announced plans for distributing its share of Grey Cup tickets.

Under the Canadian Rugby Union set-up, Winnipeg will receive about 3,000 tickets if Blue Bombers advance to the Dominion final Nov. 28. If Bombers lose to Toronto Balmy Beach, they will get 1,000.

Allotments will be restricted, the club said in newspaper advertisements, and "in no case will more than two tickets be allocated to any person."

Tickets will be provided to those going to Toronto for the final, with preference to: 1. Members and season ticket holders; 2. Season ticket holders only.

After requests from those going to Toronto have been filled, any tickets left will be allocated by draw to members and season ticket holders not travelling to Toronto.

Caution Bombers Not To Be Late

SARNIA (CP) — The Canadian Rugby Union Said Wednesday it will caution Winnipeg Blue Bombers not to be late for the Grey Cup classic.

Norm Perry, CRU president, said secretary Harry McBrien of Toronto has been told to advise the Blue Bombers about leaving their departure time for Toronto to the last minute and take the chance of being held up by bad flying weather.

The action came after the Blue Bombers, heavily favored to whip Toronto Balmy Beach in the Grey Cup semi-final game in Winnipeg Saturday, said they planned to fly to Toronto Nov. 27, the day before the game. McBrien is in Winnipeg.

Western clubs usually make the four-hour plane trip east five days or a week before the game.

Irish Upset Biltmores In 7-5 Triumph

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The fightin' Irish have finally showed their fight.

Toronto St. Michael's College Majors, who have been having hot and cold streaks in their Ontario Hockey Association Junior A schedule so far this season, scored five goals in the last period Wednesday to defeat Guelph Biltmores 7-5 in Guelph.

Netminder Dennis Riggin kicked out 31 shots to earn his first shutout of the season as Hamilton Tigers lambasted the second-place Galt Black Hawks 6-0 in Hamilton.

THREE-WAY TIE

The Collegians, who have lost only one of their last seven games, moved into a three-way tie for third place. Marc Reaume and Paul Knox each scored twice for St. Michael's. Other goals went to Dick Duff, Bill Colvin and Jim Logan.

Bob Attersley notched two goals and three assists for Guelph. Ed Shack, Bob Forhan and Ron Howell were the other marksmen for the Biltmores.

The Tigers, who also bought a share of third with their decision, were sparked by Joe Zorica who bagged three goals. Cummy Barton, Val Mitchell and Martin McAlendin scored on each.

The league-leading St. Catharines TeePees play the Biltmores in Guelph Friday, while Galt is at Barrie and Hamilton at Kitchener.

Chilly Weather Bothers Hilltops

SASKATOON (CP) — With the thermometer reading about 25 degrees above zero, Saskatoon Hilltops didn't cherish any thoughts of an outdoor practice Wednesday as they got ready for Saturday's Dominion junior football final against Windsor AKO at Griffiths Stadium here.

But coach Bob Arn said:

"If you think it is too cold out there, just run a little faster" and it was the team's motto as they worked for more than an hour in the chilly weather. The club ran through plays, passed and started setting up a variety of defences based on several scouting reports about the eastern champions.

Halfback Bill Trout is on the sidelines with his back injury and won't hear any medical advice until Friday. He was joined by Ernie Gulka, one of Saturday's stars, suffering an injured groin.

Before the practice ended, starry tackle Ray Syrnyk suffered a charley horse, but heat treatment will probably cure the club captain before game time.

A paying crowd of some 7,200 fans will see Hilltops and Windsor battle for the Canadian championship. It will be a record football crowd here and perhaps the largest ever to witness the national junior final.

Red McDaniel Sets Record At San Mateo

SAN MATEO, Calif. (AP) A wee, canny Scots-Irishman who once rode as a jockey on the Canadian Prairie circuit is the new world champion conditioner of thoroughbreds.

Robert Hyatt (Red) McDaniel set the record Wednesday when Mithra won the ninth race at Bay Meadows.

That gave McDaniel 185 victories for the year, breaking the 184 established by Californian Willie Molter in 1948.

Every win McDaniel adds in 21 more racing days at Bay Meadows and four at Santa Anita before new year's eve will increase his record—just as Bill Shoemaker's every win is boosting his world mark.

Silent Shoe rode one winner Wednesday to up his 1953 total to 445.

Tri-Bells Joining International League

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Nortown Tri-Bells, defending Dominion basketball champions, will be one of five Canadian teams in a new eight-team international triple A league this season.

The league comprises Eldredge club of Tonawanda, N.Y., Bachelor Arms of Williamsville, N.Y., and Al's Embassy Club, Niagara Falls, N.Y., and St. Catharines Queensways, Brantford Y Stags, Niagara Falls, Ont., Jolleys, Hamilton Y and the Tri-Bells.

The teams will play a schedule of home-and-home games, with the four top teams meeting in a playoff to declare a champion. All teams will revert to their regular districts for Ontario Amateur Basketball Association or other playoff commitments.

Arena Commission Reclaims Sarnia Team

SARNIA (CP) — The Sarnia arena commission said Wednesday it has reclaimed the Sarnia Sailors of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A club.

The commission, which turned the club over to Sarnia business man Earl Davis Oct. 26, said Mr. Davis had until Tuesday night to post a bond to guarantee continuing operation. Members quoted Mr. Davis as saying he couldn't post it.

A three-man committee, comprising commission members, will supervise the team.

Trying To Predict Strategy

By AL VICKERY

WINNIPEG (CP)—Everyone is trying to predict coach George Trafton's strategy for Saturday's Grey Cup sudden-death semi-final when his mighty Blue Bombers take on the light but speedy Toronto Balmy Beach.

The "experts" already have declared Bombers a "shoo-in," but they're stumped as to what method Trafton will use to try to eliminate the champions of the Ontario Rugby Football Union.

Most guess that Trafton will send his first-stringers in at the start and try to build up a comfortable margin, then come back in the second half with his Canadian bench.

If that's Trafton's system then some 16,000 fans on hand will get a glimpse of the squad which sidelined Edmonton Eskimos 30-24 in the thrill-packed western final at Edmonton Saturday night.

TRY OUT CANADIANS

Some railbirds insist the Canadians, led by former McGill quarterback Geoff Crain, will get into the game at the opening whistle. If they aren't clicking, then first squad, with either Jack Jacobs or Joe Zaleski at the helm, can be called in.

The "Canadians-first" advocators claim Trafton will not take a chance on his starry imports being injured unless necessary. The other side says a player can be injured just as easily in practice sessions as in regular games.

The coach isn't saying until game time. He's had the whole team working out at full steam since their day off Sunday, with all three quarterbacks getting an equal share at calling the shots.

EMPHASIS ON PASSING

Emphasis Wednesday night was on passing, and the ball-handlers and receivers looked sharp.

After the two-hour drill, the team went back to the field house.

On the bulletin board was a clipping of an eastern sports-writer's column. Underlined was a paragraph which spoke of the Beach's terrific spirit.

After reading the clipping, Neill Armstrong, offensive end and all-star defensive half from the Philadelphia Eagles, remarked:

"You can't take a club like that lightly. I hear they're light but can run all day. You can never tell about these sudden-death affairs."

Mustangs Dominate All-Star Team

By JIM BASTABLE

TORONTO (CP) — The University of Western Ontario Mustangs, who didn't give coach Johnny Metras many playoff hopes before the college football season started, dominate the Intercollegiate Union's all-star team this year.

The 1953 "dream" squad, selected for The Canadian Press by coaches, sports writers and sports broadcasters in the five intercollegiate cities, lists five Mustang players, three more than from any other team. Not bad for a club that had graduation blues.

The Mustangs, who meet University of Toronto for the college championship here Saturday, were almost unanimous choices for the five positions. Varsity, McGill Red-Golden Gaels each took two.

MACS LAND ONE SPOT

The only McMaster University player to hit the mythical team was quarter Joe Kosakowski, a strapping 22-year-old sophomore. Despite his great play, the Marauders failed to win in six games.

The selectors all but overlooked the Western backfield. They chose the Mustangs' big Gino Fracas, who made the team last year, for a halfback spot and went to the line for the other four Western stars.

The team has four repeaters from the 1952 all-star club—Fracas, Western's Jack Wyatt at guard, McGill's Fred Wilmot, a place-kicking specialist, at end, and Steve Oneschuk, Varsity halfback.

THE TEAMS

Flying Wing—Al Haig, Varsity.
Halves—Gino Fracas, Western; Steve Oneschuk, Varsity; Ron Stewart, Queen's.
Quarter—Joe Kosakowski, McMaster.
Centre—Gary Lewis, Queen's.
Guards—Jack Thompson, Western; Jack Wyatt, Western.
Tackles—Ted Roman, Western; Clyde Whitman, McGill.
Ends—Bob Turner, Western; Fred Wilmot, McGill.

VOTING WEIGHTED

The selectors, whose votes were weighted to give equal balloting strength to each city in the union, weren't unanimous on any player but voted the backfield a runaway margin.

Fracas was given 54 points of a possible 60, mainly on his scoring performance. He won the scoring title with six touchdowns and 14 singles for 44 points. Oneschuk and Ron Stewart of Queen's tied for second with 40 points apiece.

Al Haig, a 23-year-old product of Toronto schools and one of the best ball-carriers in the league, got only token opposition from three other players nominated for the flying wing position.

TWO-WAY VOTE

Gary Lewis of Queen's, a first-year medical student from Bellevue, Wash., polled 33 votes for the centre spot. Western's Doug Drew was the only other nominee for the position. He received 27 votes.

Kosakowski got quite a run from quarter Don Getty of Western. Getty polled 20 points—seven fewer than Kosakowski.

Western's Jack Thompson and Jack Wyatt were far ahead for guard positions. Ted Roman of the Mustangs and McGill's Clyde Whitman were shoo-ins for tackles.

Wilmot, a flying wing with McGill last year, was an easy winner for an end position. Western's Bob Turner was threatened only by Don Smith of Varsity.

OPEN FORECAST

TORONTO (CP) — What's the weather outlook for Grey Cup day, Nov. 28?

Fred Turnbull, head weather man at the public weather office at Malton, says it's too early to start guessing about the day of Canada's annual football classic.

But he did the next best thing and dug back into Toronto weather records for Nov. 28 over the last 70 years and came up with this information:

1. Will it rain or snow? That's a 50-50 chance. It rained or snowed 35 times in the last 70 years Nov. 28 so the Canadian Rugby Union tarpaulin may be in for a workout.

2. If it snows, how much? Maybe just a flurry—a tenth of an inch or less; or it could be like 1887 or 1910 when the fall was 4½ inches. By way of an extra warning, Turnbull mentioned that 12 inches fell before the 1950 Grey Cup game, played Nov. 25.

3. How cold will it be? The safest guess is the long-term average, about 38 degrees. But if it's like 1871, look out: It was 13 above. On the other hand, it was a sunny 60 in 1909.

4. Cloudy or bright? The odds, on the 70-year run, are for cloudy by seven to 12. But, by the same law of averages it could be sunny—for five straight years Nov. 28 has been a cloudy day.

What do these past records mean? 'Not a thing," says Turnbull. "On Grey Cup day, anything can happen."

GAY TIME ON SEA TRIP

LONDON (AP)—Gay Time, four-year-old racehorse with a $42,000 price tag who once raced in the colors of the Queen, is taking his first sea trip—12,000 miles to Japan.

Now owned by the Japanese government, Gay Time is due at Yokohama Dec. 28 after a 54-day voyage.

The colt ran in the Queen's colors this year after the national stud, administered by the ministry of agriculture, bought Gay Time for $140,000.

It was planned to retire the colt to stud, but officials decided to race him one more season as a four-year-old. He won one race in five starts and developed a throat injury.

He was sold to the Japanese government at a loss of $98,000.

ARMSTRONG INJURED

TORONTO (CP) — Rightwinger George Armstrong of Toronto Maple Leafs suffered a deep cut over his right ankle during practice Wednesday.

Eight inches were required to close the cut but it was announced that Armstrong will be in tonight's National Hockey League game against the Canadiens in Montreal.

The accident happened during a scrimmage when the rightwinger came in contact with defenceman Jim Morrison. It is not known whose skate caused the injury.

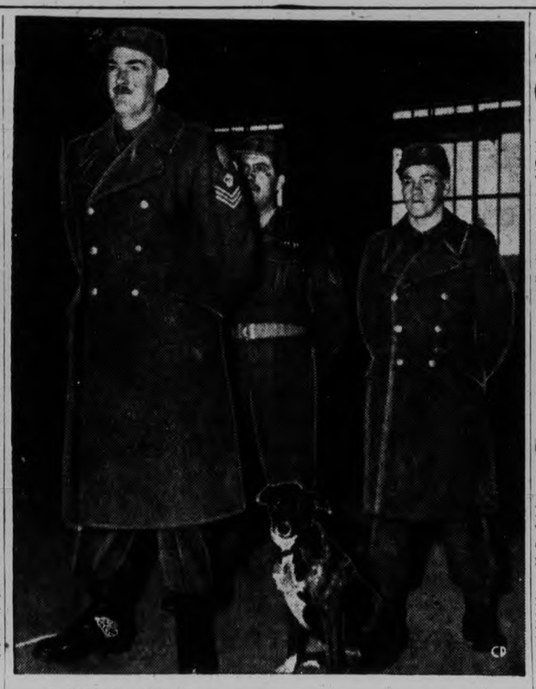
HAWKS SHIFT GAMES



CHICAGO (AP) — Two Chicago Black Hawks' home games—with Detroit Red Wings, Dec. 18, and Boston Bruins, Jan. 21—will be played in Indianapolis, the Hawks' general manager, Bill Tobin said Wednesday.

He said a future game with New York Rangers also may be shifted to Indianapolis.

'We are shifting the games because of a previous agreement with the directors of the Indianapolis arena to help revive hockey interest in that city," said Tobin. "It is our plan to place a minor league franchise in Indianapolis next season."

Aussie Sugar

CANBERRA (CP) — A record Australian production of 1,270,000 tons of raw sugar is forecast for this year. The total last year was about 950,000 tons. The raw sugar industry has grown rapidly in recent years to satisfy the increasing domestic market and some export demand.

The change was made to avoid conflict with the Tam O'Shanter All-American and world's championship matches in Chicago during the week previously scheduled.

Senators Call Temporary Lull In White Case Investigation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators investigating the Harry dexter White case called a temporary lull today, but gave no sign of abandoning their efforts because of President Eisenhower's suggestion that the need for such inquiries may soon be ended.

Senator William E. Jenner (Rep. Ind) said he does not know where or how far the inquiry by the internal security sub-committee he heads will lead. The group's next session is set for Monday.

Jenner told reporters that "for the first time we have been able to show" that FBI reports on suspected individuals "reached the hands of top officials," and it was impossible to say now what developments might follow.

Some Republicans and most Democrats seconded Eisenhower's hope, expressed at his press conference Wednesday, that security firings may so completely solve the problem of alleged Red infiltration of government that the issue will be forgotten by next year's congressional campaign.

Eisenhower said he was not suggesting that current congressional inquiries be called off, however.

The president declined to comment directly on the case of White, who Attorney - General Herbert Brownell says was promoted in 1946 by former president Truman in the face of FBI reports which, Brownell asserted, tagged White as a Soviet spy.

While Jenner's sub - committee planned to go ahead with its hearings, the House of Representatives un-American activities committee showed signs of stepping out of the case.

Representative Kit Clardy (Rep. Mich.) said Wednesday he sees no need now for a sub-committee to take testimony from governor James F. Byrnes of South Carolina, who was Truman's secretary of state at the time of White's promotion. Clardy had been named to head the sub-committee.

Try To Ease Worries Of Property Owners

HAMILTON (CP)—Members of the International Joint Commission Wednesday tried to set at rest fears of Lake Ontario property owners that their lands may be flooded by the projected St. Lawrence seaway and power plan.

Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, Canadian chairman, told 17 spokesmen for waterfront interests that the IJC is working "to get the very best system of regulation for shore owners as well as others who might be affected by Lake Ontario levels."

R. B. McWhorter, United States commissioner, asked the apprehensive property owners to "be patient and realize that the commission is trying to provide conditions that will be beneficial to you."

Spokesmen for lake-front property owners and municipalities asked that the lake level be kept down to at least 247 feet above sea level. IJC engineers said controls for th power project are trols for the power project are the 249.3-foot mark recorded last year.

HEARINGS ADJOURNED

The commission, studying fluctuation of lake levels with particular reference to the power project, adjourned after hearing representations from property interests on the western side of Lake Ontario. No date was set for further hearings.

Gen. McNaughton described the international Lake Ontario board of engineers established by the commission to study lake levels. He said he felt that as a result of the studies the excess flow of water through the power works could be carried off "without hurting anyone."

Most of the witnesses expressed fears that the power project would artificially bottle up Lake Ontario water with recurrence of the heavy damage recorded in 1952.

Gen. McNaughton told them, however, that until the proposed St. Lawrence works were in place the only protection for property owners against high lake levels would be the protection afforded by nature.

GUT DAM REMOVED

Gen. McNaughton referred to the Canadian Gut Dam in the St. Lawrence which was blamed by New York property owners for causing heavy flood damage a year ago. He said that in Rochester, N. Y., there had been a statement that the Canadian government had not completely removed the dam last January.

"On the recommendation of this commission, in the form of an order, the government of Canada removed the dam early this year," he said. "It was completely taken out as ordered."

Practically all of the witnesses, representing interests from Toronto to the Niagara peninsula, told of heavy erosion and past damage by high water.

EROSION TOLL HIGH

George Otter, Saltfleet township fruit grower, said that since 1940 about 45 feet of land had been lost to the lake. C. N. Bonham, on behalf of the Grimsby-Saltfleet Lake Shore Erosion Protection Association, asked a guarantee of future security from high water.

"Many still fear that there are interests which might do things to artificially raise and hold the level beyond the point where shore owners could live," he said.

Charles Wright of the East Lincoln lake shore erosion committee said that more than 1,000 acres of land had been lost to the lake in his area since erection of the Gut Dam more than a half century ago.

But since the dam's destruction there had been no evidence of extensive erosion.

Miss V. C. Onslow of Niagara township said landowners had been accused of attempting to block the seaway and power project. This was not true, all the landowners wanted was compensation for water damage.

BRUSSELS (CP)—The first Belgian television station, equipped with the latest British instruments, opened here with the first dual standard system ever operated. The station can switch from the 625-line picture to the 819-line an inch system, accommodating receivers accustomed either to the existing Dutch or French systems.

BROWNELL SWORN IN BY JENNER—This was the scene in the crowded caucus room of the Senate Office Building at Washington as chairman William Jenner (right), of the Senate Internal sub-committee, swore in Attorney-General Herbert Brownell as a witness in the Harry Dexter White case. Ostrich Demand Grows Greater CAPE TOWN (AP) — South Africa's ostrich farmers are breeding chicks as fast as they can to bring the number of the long-necked birds back into line with world demands.

It is not the need for luxurious ostrich plumes—the height of feminine fashion 50 years ago—that is bringing ostriches back into popularity. The birds are grown mainly for three things—leather, body feathers and bilton. The last-named article is a dried meat South Africans like.

In the years after ostriches were domesticiated in 1870, the tail feathers earned farmers something like £50,000,000 (more than $200,000,000 at the time).

When the lush plumes lost favor, South African farmers cut down their flocks drastically. Now the flocks are down to about 30,000 birds, compared with 750,000 in the days before 1914.

FBI Has Refused To Identify Canadian

WASHINGTON (CP)—The Federal Bureau of Investigation today refused to identify a highly-placed" Canadian source mentioned in testimony Tuesday before the U. S. senate's internal security sub-committee on the Harry Dexter White case.

A letter from FBI director J. Edgar Hoover to former president Truman, tabled at the hearing, quoted the "highly-placed" Canadian as informing the FBI of White's possible nomination as president of the international bank or executive director of the international monetary fund.

In Ottawa, an RCMP source said today there would be no comment or statement on the matter.

Socks Altered By Teen Agers To Provide Children's Dolls

By RICHARD KLEINER

NEW YORK (NEA) — Twenty housand pairs of plain white en's socks are going to be among e most welcome Christmas gifts is year. They're going to needy ildren in parts of the U.S. and verseas.

If you can't quite figure how a eedy child will welcome a man's cks, you haven't seen what merican youngsters can do with man's sock. They literally doll em up—a few cuts, a little cotn stuffing, some clever needle ork, a rubber face on top and ddenly, a doll-sized doll.

This is the third year that the ave the Children Federation and magazine have sponsored their hristmas Doll Contest, and this ear, American teen-agers will proice 40,000 dolls for needy kids, rning a dull Christmas into a doll hristmas.

Through the co-operation of 47 epartment stores throughout the .S., teen-agers buy a doll kit for 5 cents. Inside is a man's sock, a ubber face, a sheet of directions nd an entry tag. The top of the ock—the ribbed part—is cut off become the arms, the toe of the ock becomes the head and the oll sits down on what was once e sock's heel. Confusing, but it orks.

The doll-maker then tries to deise an ingenious costume, to fit ne of the three categories for rizes—either a baby doll, a fashn doll or a character doll. egional contests are held, and e 150 regional winners are sent New York for final judging. his year, the United Nations nternational Children's Emergency Fund is co-operating in ne contest, and the judging will e done at UNICEF headquarters.

Doree Greene, who looks barely ast her teens herself, runs the ontest and daily unpacks carons of stuffed socks at her office. nd she is daily amazed by what sock can turn into, when stuffed ith a little cotton and a lot of nagination.

For instance, one shelf was oaded with "character dolls." here were, from left to right, a ermaid, Peter Pan, Uncle Sam, oel (a doll dolled up like a hristmas tree), an organ grinder omplete with organ and monkey, spaceman with helmet, Queen lizabeth II in her inaugural own, a cowboy with a water pisol in his holser, a nun, and a kier with skis and even long ed underwear.

The judges automatically reject nything that looks store-bought, o all these are home-made from the sock out. For hair, most of the contestants use yarn, but there were some with real hair and others with feathers and thread and fur and anything else that looks hair-like.

• • •

Despite the fact that they all start with the same little rubber face, the resultant dolls all seem different. Some of the girls stuff them a little fuller than others, producing fat dolls. Some add freckles or mustaches and some change the original blue of the eyes to brown.

And the costumes are all varied, and all shows hours of loving labor. The organ grinder had corduroy pants. Queen Elizabeth II (don't tell anybody) wore a girdle. Some have earrings. Some have homemade leather shoes. They wear gingham, denim, silk, lace, felt, lame, tulle, ribbon, chiffon.

After the contest, all the dolls will be sent to little girls who are, currently, doll-less. Most will go to France, Italy, Greece, Finland, Lebanon, Western Germany, Austria and Korea and parts of rural U.S. They'll all get where they're going by Christmas.

Quebec Law Aimed At Communism

QUEBEC (CP) — The Quebec government has tabled draft legislation outlawing as bargaining agent any employer or employee organization tolerating one or more Communist officers.

The measure was one of 24 tabled Wednesday as the second session of Quebec's 24th legislature opened.

The government also proposed a statutory speed limit of 60 miles an hour on Quebec highways and life cancellation of driving permits for persons convicted three times of driving while under suspension.

The proposed amendment to the Labor Relations Act concerning Communists says:

"An association which tolerates among its organizers or officers, one or more persons adhering to the Communist doctrine or a Communist party or movement cannot . . . be regarded as a bona fide association. . . ."

MAY BE REFUSED

A provision stipulates that certification may be refused or revoked by the labor relations board.

In another labor measure, a bill proposes that any union calling a strike in public services will automatically lose the right to represent its members.

A revision of the four-year margarine ban would do away with the current system of encouraging any person to lodge complaints against violators.

Prosecution would be in the hands of police and persons appointed by the minister of agriculture. The latter would share in the payment of fines.

Afghanistan, covering 250,000 square miles, has a population of about 10,000,000.

Says Sex Offenders Shouldn't Be Freed

TORONTO (CP) — It is "nonsense" to let sex offenders with records walk freely on the streets when they have had little or no curative treatment, A. R. Virgin, director of reform institutions said Wednesday.

Speaking to the legislature's reforms institutions committee, Mr. Virgin also deplored the lack of psychiatrists at reformatories.

"I don't wonder we are short of psychiatrists when the Wayne county jail guards at Detroit are getting more salary than our psychiatrists and psychologists," said W. J. Stewart, committee chairman.

Reserve Judgment In Libel Appeal

REGINA (CP) — Saskatchewan Court of Appeals Wednesday reserved judgment on an appeal by the Saskatchewan College of Physicians and Surgeons to have a $7,000 award for libel set aside.

The college is appealing an award to Dr. David H. Arnott of London, Ont. He was granted $7,000 damages last spring from the college after the organization published a critical review of the Koch treatment of cancer of which Dr. Arnott is Canadian manufacturer.

The treatment involves injection of a chemical compound.

Victims of Hunt

TRURO, N.S. (CP)—Police are investigating the shooting of two horses belonging to John Fulton of Otter Brook. The horses, found dead in the pasture, were believed victims of "deer hunters."

DISCUSSING THE DROUGHT—Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Benson (right), examines a handful of hay as he talks over the drought situation with Roy Chinn on his farm at Shelbyville, Mo. Chinn's farm was one of the last stops made by Benson on his 5,000-mile tour of the drought-stricken areas.

Whale Hunters Charted Much Of World's Waters

WASHINGTON— Yankee whalemen in strong wooden sailing ships rank among the great practical geographers of all times.

They charted more than 400 islands of the South Seas. They disproved the fact of the Northwest Passage. A large measure of polar discovery stands to their credit.

The first chart of the Gulf Stream was made by Capt. Timothy Folger of Nantucket, acting at the request of his relative, Benjamin Franklin.

EARLY IN ANTARCTIC

Russian explorers pressing into "unknown" waters of the Antarctic were amazed to find the sloop Hero of Stonington, Connecticut, Capt. Nathaniel Brown Palmer commanding, already on the scene, calmly sealing and whaling.

Between the Revolution and the Civil War, Yankee blubber hunters were at home in all parts of the Pacific. Capt. Paul Worth of Nantucket, commanding the Beaver, in 1791 made the first whaling voyage into the Pacific.

By 1840 there were 675 American whalers in Pacific waters, with 15,000 Yankee crewmen aboard. Hunting whales and seals, they also traded when they could in turtle shells, sandalwood, guano, edible birds' nests and the sea slug, beche-de-mer, an Oriental table delicacy.

Practical men concerned only with making their livings, whalemen often didn't bother to announce important discoveries. Years later, historians reading matter-of-fact log books brought them to light.

Cat. Edmund Gardner of the Balaena, New Bedford, first described Wake Island in detail. Magellan discovered the Marianas in 1521, but Yankee whale fishers were the first westerners to whom Guam, Tinian and Saipan were as familiar as their own home towns. Two Nantucket skippers—Joseph Allen, Maro, and Frederick Coffin, Syren—were the "Japan Whale Grounds" pioneers.

In the Bonins after 1830 was a whalemen's store run by Nathaniel Savory of Essex County, Massachusetts. Six years before he set up his business, Capt. James J. Coffin, Nantucket skipper of the British whaler Transit, had provided the opportunity by discovering the Bonins.

Another Captain Coffin of Nantucket—Joshua, the Ganges—first raised Gardner Island in the Phoenix Group. David Whippy, a Nantucket whaleman who sailed away from home in 1818 in the Francis, liked Mabau, a Fijian village, so well that he stayed in the Fijis, married a native princess and became a chief.

Discovery of petroleum, killing demand for whale oil as lamp fuel, sent whaling into a decline after the Civil War. Voyages of incidental discovery slowed to a trickle, then stopped. Today not a single whaler wears the American flag on the high seas.

Man-Made Fibres Get Wider Use

By GAILE DUGAS
(NEA Woman's Editor)

NEW YORK — The role of man-made fibres in feminine wardrobes has become so important as to be virtually indispensable. Pleating that's in to stay. Fleeces that wash in a flash, need no pressing. Knitted garments that won't loose their shape ever.

When you're shopping for fashions in man-made fibres, watch for those little labels that tell you how to take care of the fabric. Even man-made fibres differ ni the care and handling they should have.

Generally, the smooth, flat fabrics (rayon, broadcloth, for example) wash well while the dress-weight crepes should be dry-cleaned. Knitted garments should be laid flat to dry and the rayons and acetates should be pressed with a warm, not hot, iron.

If the clothes are not labelled when you buy them, get the necessary information from the store about the type of fabric used in the garment. This will enable you to give it the proper care.

Typical of this season's handsome man-made fibres is this daytime dress (right). In acetate and wool, it has coachman bodice with gently-pegged skirt.

Stately white ball gown (left) is in rayon faille fabric with glitter encrusted bodice. Full, flowing skirt has a total of twenty panels.

Coldsprings AYPA Host To Colborne

COLDSPRINGS (ENS) — A three act comedy play "His Name was Aunt Nellie," was presented by the Trinity church, Colbourg AYPA in the Coldsprings hall on Tuesday night.

The Rev. V. M. Gilbert was chairman, and introduced Dick Symonds, who introduced the cast as follows: Dr. John Best, Grace Harvey, Patricia Cooke, Dick Symonds, Carol Connors, Audrey Harvey, Cecil Burleigh, Mrs. Noel Roseblade, Duncan McGlennon and Noel Roseblade.

During the intermission George and Fred Baker sang duets accompanied by Dick Symonds.

Members of the Coldsprings Y PU served lunch to the cast following the play.

Cautious Type

DUNEDIN, N.Z. (CP) — The year's biggest sweepstakes prize in Australia and New Zealand is the $150,000 first prize on the Melbourne Cup draw. When a Dunedin carpenter, C. Vercoe, was notified he had won this year he said: "I can buy new tires for my bicycle now."

Committed For Trial

KITCHENER (CP) — Alvin (Speedy) Groh, of Kitchener, a professional hockey player of 20 years ago, Wednesday was committed for trial by higher court on charges of breaking, entering and theft. The charge followed the theft of $135 from a local restaurant.

Rebuilding Job

CANTERBURY, England (CP)— The smallest public house in the country is being modernized in line with Canterbury's 20-year development plan. Landlord Eddie O'Connor serves drinks in the historic bar, 18 by 14 feet, while walls of the new building go up outside.

WINS AT FAIR—Shirley Thomas, 18-year-old Ottawa equestrian, shown with her Revlon's White Sable, has won the international individual riding competition for Canada at the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair, Toronto. She took the honor over riders of British, Irish and United States teams. Miss Thomas is the first woman to represent Canada in international equestrian jumping competition.

Veterinarians urge... variety

for your dog

Nourishing, yet economical food is what every dog owner wants for his dog. Veterinary authorities agree that variety also is necessary to keep dogs happy, healthy and eating well. You get both these requirements when you feed the famous Master Dog Foods because they are a family of high quality foods formulated by experts in canine nutrition.

A diet based on Master Horse Meat and Gravy is ideal for your dog, and most dogs love it. High in food value, Master Horse Meat and Gravy contains only the best cuts of meat; no "by-products", no cereals. Here's a daily diet one leading expert recommends:

The Main Meal
—should be composed of 25% Master Horse Meat and Gravy and 75% K-9 Meal or Master Kibble, or a 50-50 mixture of Master Canned Dog Food and K-9 Meal.

The Secondary Meal
—give your dog Master Kennel Kibble mixed with a lesser amount of Master Canned Dog Food at bedtime.

The "treat"
—for those little titbits all dogs enjoy, keep Master Shapes or Mixed O-B's handy.

Women Discuss Civic Affairs

COBOURG — (ENS) — For the past two or three years, the women of the town have been taking a comparatively keen interest in the municipal elections. The Business and Professional Women's Club, while not entering directly into the election campaign by sponsoring a slate, has given a token blessing to women planning to run for municipal office.

Recently a group of ladies met at the home of Mrs. C. Gaiger to form an association of women interested in electing women to public office. Mrs. Lenah Fisher was chairman of the meeting and Miss Grace McEntee was secretary. Mrs. Lilian Richards, member of the town council, spoke on her experiences of the past year as councillor. Mrs. Kathleen Spooner, for the past 13 years a member of the public school board, discussed her work as school trustee.

A temporary slate of officers were appointed, to act until a general meeting in the new year, and the officers are Mrs. Eva McCurdy, president; Mrs. Lenah Fisher, vice-president and Miss Grace McEntee, secretary-treasurer.

Stolen In Cobourg Found In Pawn Shop

COBOURG (ENS)—Stolen over the weekend from a tool shed, a mason's level and surveyor's tripod were recovered at Toronto in a pawn shop. The identity of the man who pawned the stolen articles is not known, beyond the name on the pawn ticket, and it is believed to be fictitious.

Addition To Hospital

COBOURG (ENS)—Although not confirmed locally, it is rumoured that the Ontario Department of Health plans to erect an addition to the present Ontario Hospital, using a lot to the immediate west. Just when the work will start is not known and there has not been an official announcement yet from Queen's Park.

Verdict Awaited In Border Traffic Dispute

LONDON (CP) — The judicial committee of the Privy Council Wednesday reserved judgment on an appeal involving control of trans-border traffic on Canadian highways. The verdict probably will be announced in two or three months.

Decision to reserve judgment was made on the ninth day of a hearing at which seven Canadian provinces were represented. Eleven Queen's Counsels appeared before the law lords to argue this issue:

"What are the powers of the provinces under the provisions of the British North America Act to legislate with regard to the use of the highways as part of an interprovincial bus service?"

TWO-PART APPEAL

The appeal was brought from a judgment of the Supreme Court of Canada in October, 1951. It arose from the granting in 1949 to Mackenzie Coach Lines of a licence permitting it to operate buses from Boston through the province of New Brunswick to Halifax and Glace Bay, N.S.

The Supreme Court made this ruling:

1. New Brunswick held the power to restrict operations of the bus line within its boundaries.
2. The province was not entitled to control the company's movements across international or provincial borders.

Ontario, Alberta and Prince Edward Island appealed the second part of the ruling. The bus company and the two major Canadian railways appealed the first.

The federal government intervened in support of the latter appeal and Nova Scotia asked that both appeals be thrown out.

Want Provincial Government To Control Natural Resources

QUEBEC (CP) — Natural resources "must be the exclusive responsibility of the provincial government," the Forestry Engineers Association of Quebec said Wednesday though there is an entire field in which "frank collaboration would be desirable" between federal and provincial governments:

In a brief prepared for delivery before a royal commission on constitutional problems, the association said: "There exists, with regard to natural resources . . . a competetive federal-provincial field."

EIGHT-POINT PROGRAM

To ensure enough money is being turned back into development and protection of these resources, the association suggested the following fields in which federal and provincial governments could co-operate:

1. Aerial map-making—the federal government could make available men and equipment for aerial study of resources, particularly forest reserves.
2. More widespread combined survey network.
3. Protection—in times of danger to forests through major fires, insect invasions or disease, the national defence department "could be of great help" by calling on its aerial forces.
4. Weather forecasting—the federal government could act as a clearing house for weather reports to provide an over-all Canadian weather picture.
5. Research—"The provincial government has, in its service, the framework of a technical organization which it could develop in co-operation with the scientific services of the federal government."
6. Canalization and dredging of rivers.
7. Trade—the federal and provincial administration could co-operate in merchandising of forest products.
8. Conservation propaganda—the federal government should "contribute more to education of the public in the necessity of conserving our natural resources in the national interest."

Bernice Cuffe Heads Warsaw Homemakers

WARSAW (ENS) — The first meeting of the homemakers of Warsaw was held in the institute rooms. Five members were present, and each received pamphlets on the project of "The Supper Club."

The following officers were elected: president, Bernice Cuffe; vice-president, Marie Drain; secretary, Barbara Davis; treasurer, Eleanor Tedford; press reporter, Yvonne Tedford.

The leaders, Donna Payne and Barbara Cuffe demonstrated making tea biscuits and cream of pea soup which were served as a lunch.

Canadian Girls Dislike Publicity Given Soldiers

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SOEST, Germany (CP) — Notes off a frayed khaki cuff:

The Canadian army has met and passed the first big test at its new headquarters in Germany. How do you pronounce Soest? The answer, says commanding officer Brig. W. A. B. Anderson, is S-O-A-S-T—rhymes with toast.

The 38-year-old career soldier from Montreal and Ottawa said "considerable research" went into solving this weighty question.

Ordinarily the "oe" combination would call for a kind of guttural grunt, difficult to render phonetically, but Soest as a place name is a special case.

BAD PUBLICITY

Canada's military forces in Germany apparently have their own version of the "dear John" story. When sweethearts in Canada want to break off romances with soldiers overseas, they don't break the news in a letter—they just stop writing.

Rifleman Stan Wickens of Aldershot, Ont., and William Smith of Hamilton passed along this information while munching bratwurst, German version of a hot dog. They said it hadn't happened to them, but they knew "several" fellows whose girls had stopped writing after publication in Canada of articles criticizing the Canadian 27th Brigade.

A dental officer said one of his men was upset because his girl in Canada had broken off their engagement, presumably because of the adverse articles.

OLD SWITCH

History plays strange tricks. Ten years ago Silesia - born Herbert Froemert was squadron leader in Goering's Luftwaffe. His technical officer was a man named Eriuk Breucker.

Now Froemert is head waiter at the Canadian barracks near Werl. The bartender is—Eriuk Breucker.

Froemert says he thinks Canadians will get along better in the new bases near Soest, Werl and Hemer than they did in Hannover. "The people here are richer than those around Hannover," said Froemert, "and I think many of them understand that the Canadians are here not as occupying troops but as NATO forces."

JUST LIKE HOME

When everything is complete the new Canadian bases should be ideal. By next summer there will be married quarters, schools run by Canadian teachers, general stores for shopping, soda fountains in seven of the 11 canteens, reading rooms, clubs and cinemas.

A number of Canadians who have been serving in Germany have married German girls.

Driver John Muise of Yarmouth, N.S., in the Royal Canadian Army Service Corps, married a Hannover girl last summer. His wife's father was killed fighting for the Germans in the Second World War.

Canada Sticks To Viewpoint

OTTAWA (CP) — External Affairs Minister Pearson said Wednesday that Canada is sticking to its view that prisoners-of-war still held by the neutral repatriation commission at Jan. 22 should be released if no Korean political conference is held.

CCF Leader M. J. Coldwell had asked in the Commons whether Canada had been consulted by the United States before State Secretary Dulles this week said prisoners still not repatriated 120 days after being turned over to the repatriation commission should be released. This period expires Jan. 22.

Mr. Pearson said Canada was not consulted immediately before Mr. Dulles' statement but there had been frequent exchanges of views on the matter.

Mother Gets Custody Of Small Daughter

TORONTO (CP)—Custody of a 2½-year-old girl and the right to bring her up in the United Church faith was given Wednesday to the girl's mother, Mrs. John Macdonald.

Mrs. Macdonald was also given $200 monthly alimony plus $60 a month for maintenance of the child.

Mrs. Macdonald said previously that she is a United Church member and that her husband had the child baptized into the Roman Catholic faith after agreeing that the girl should follow the mother's faith.

Rush Election Before Wheat Crop Known

OTTAWA (CP) — Donald Fleming, (PC—Toronto Eglinton) said Wednesday the government called a summer election so it would not be embarrassed by the bumper wheat crop this fall.

Speaking in the throne speech debate, he said the government had chosen about as inconvenient a time as possible for the election. It wanted the vote before the bumper Prairie crop had its pressing effect on the wheat market.

He said the government's legislative program was "thin and puny" as outlined in the throne speech. There was no mention of a national health plan though Liberal candidates during the election campaign had predicted such a scheme would be introduced at this session of Parliament.

The throne speech contained no mention of the "infamous" Emergency Powers Act, which expires May 31, 1954. If the government had made up its mind to renew the act, it should have the courage to tell the house.

Refuses To Discuss Emergency Powers

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent declined to tell the Commons Wednesday if the government has decided to ask for extension of its emergency powers.

The Emergency Powers Act, giving the cabinet virtually unlimited powers over the economy, is based on the tense international situation and particularly the Korean war. Its latest yearly renewal normally would expire next May 31.

Gas Produced Increases 12%

The gas department of the utilities commission used 48,611 gallons of propane in making gas last month, an increase of 12 per cent over the amount used in October, 1952, General Manager W. Howard Powell reported on Tuesday.

The amount of propane bottled last month was 28,800 gallons, an increase of 14.8 per cent over the same month last year. There were 6,853,000 cubic feet of gas made, an increase of 1.93 per cent.

During October, two new gas services were laid, one relaid, two repaired and eight choked services cleared. Fifteen new gas space-heating installations were passed as such and 60 gas meters were government inspected and verified by the department of trade and commerce.

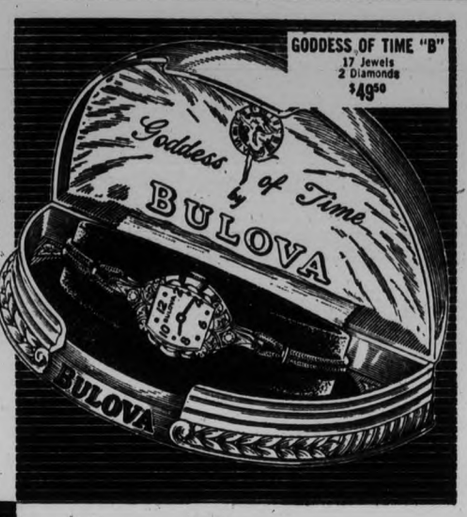
He came to Ottawa in 1932 as curate to the Ver. Rev. E. F. Salmon, then dean of Otawa and rector of Christ Church Cathedral. Mr. Clark became rector of the cathedral himself in March, 1939, and in January, 1945, was installed as dean.



Roebuck Chairman Of Divorce Committee

OTTAWA (CP)—Senator A. W. Roebuck (L—Ontario) Wednesday was elected chairman of the Senate divorce committee, succeeding Senator W. M. Aseltine (PC—Saskatchewan).

Senator Aseltine, chairman of the committee for the last 10 years, is understood to have declined to act against as chairman because of his duties as acting Opposition leader in the Senate.

U.S. Holds Key To Trade–Gordon

DETROIT (CP)—President Donald Gordon of Canadian National Railways said Wednesday night the United States holds the key to international trade.

In an address to the Detroit Bankers Club, Mr. Gordon said Canada and the United States should have a common concept about the principles of trade.

"Obviously, however, it is the United States which is in the dominant position to take the lead in laying down such principles. The influence of the United States on the economic relations of the free world cannot be over-emphasized. In a major sense only a liberalization of United States commercial policy can create the atmosphere which will make an expansion of world trade possible."

LIBRARY RENOVATION

Tentative plans presented by Toronto architect, A. E. Vine, were approved by the library board at a special meeting held Wednesday night. The plans include the completion of the cellar, floor and lighting improvements, and the replacement of shelves and filing equipment with portable and adjustable equipment.

CAR, BUS COLLIDE

Minor damage was done to the rear of a Toronto man's car when he was bumped by a city bus Wednesday afternoon. John E. Haid, eastbound on Charlotte St., stopped at Water St., and his car was hit on the rear bumper by a city bus driven by Everett Parnell, 220 Woodbine Ave. PC Harold Andrew investigated.

CONDITION FAIR

Condition of Reggie Turcotte, 12, hurt Tuesday when he fell from a moving truck, is reported today "just fair" by St. Joseph's Hospital officials. The boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Turcotte, RR 3, Peterborough, was riding home on the truck and fell when he tried to dismount from the moving vehicle.

INJURES BACK

Repairing a machine at the Peterborough Lumber Co., 41-year-old Hans Roemer, 512 Dixon St., wrenched his back when he fell backwards over the electric motor used to drive the machine. Roemer was pulling on a pipe wrench when it slipped and he fell. He was taken to Civic Hospital. A native of Germany, Mr. Roemer has been in Canada just two years.

CIVIL CASE CONTINUES

The civil action, a motor vehicle accident case, between Ross Irwin, who lives near Lakefield, and G. A. and Cecil Cameron, of White lake, is expected to finish today at the general sessions of the peace. Irwin is asking damages of $1,079 as a result of a collision in September, 1951, in Dummer township, between his car and a truck driven by Cecil Cameron. It is the only jury case in three civil actions to be tried at the sessions.

DON'T BURN LEAVES

Householders are still burning leaves without first getting the permission of the fire department. Firemen will roll up to the premises in a truck and put the blaze out unless this permission is first given. Because housewives have their washing out on Mondays that day is out so far as bonfires are concerned. But on other days permission will be given if the householder phones 5713—not 5711, that's the emergency alarm number.

Keene School To Get New Addition

Four New Rooms For Otonabee To Cost $80,000

A four-room addition, costing $80,000, is to be put on the Keene school in Otonabee township.

The decision to put on the classrooms was reached Tuesday night after a joint meeting of the Otonabee council and the Otonabee school area board.

When completed it will relieve the school accommodation problem in the township. Pupils will come from Hiawatha and they will be moved from the Lang village hall where overflow classes are now being held.

Eventually, pupils from Villiers will be taught there, as well.

The council also approved the spending of $500 to paint and renovate the inside of the Keene village hall, which is now dingy and dirty. Before the job is finished, however, it is expected that the bill will come to $800.

Fire Burns Woodshed

Fire burned one corner of a shed at 518 Weller St. on Tuesday afternoon after spreading from a pile of burning leaves.

City firemen stopped the blaze before it did serious damage. Among the shed's contents were three drums of fuel oil.

Fred Pepe who lives at 519 Elm St. is credited with preventing what could have been a big fire. His yard runs back to back with the yard owned by Mrs. Hazeldean Anderson, where the blaze started. He noticed the smoke, investigated, and turned in the fire alarm when he saw the wooden shed at the rear of the house was going up in flames.

Some leaves had been left burning in a corner of the yard, near the shed, and the fire spread to the wooden building. Mrs. Anderson was away at the time.

Earlier the firemen went to 880 High St., the home of G. Drummond, where the curtains on a window, a man's sports coat and a boy's suit were burned. A little girl lighting a coal oil lamp started the fire.

Dawson Paul, a maintenance foreman with Timber Structures, crossed the street from the plant and put out the fire in the Drummond home with an extinguisher.

US Engineers Crossing Border Says Dobbin

KITCHENER (CP) — United States engineers are coming to Canada for jobs, Ross Dobbin of Peterborough, president of the Engineering Institute of Canada, said Wednesday night.

He told the institute's branch here that engineers no longer have to go to the U.S. for good jobs.

Feats were being accomplished by Canadian engineers that had not been attempted elsewhere in the world.

Mr. Dobbin said:

"There is a good market in Canada for engineers, as there is for all citizens. The next age is definitely Canada's."

Early Migration

"It's still nice weather, you shouldn't knock off for the winter so early," said Magistrate Philp as he heard John King, no fixed address, plead guilty to a vagrancy charge. King admitted he was after winter lodgings, and the court obliged with three months definite and one indeterminate in reformatory.

Safety Council Formed To Save Lives

Twenty-five people vitally interested in the safety and welfare of all types of road users in Peterborough gathered at a luncheon meeting in the Empress Hotel Wednesday and formed the city's first safety council.

The organization will be concerned primarily with the education and safety of motorists, pedestrians and especially children in downtown and school areas and also on highway approaches to the city.

Secretary-treasurer of the Peterborough Automobile Club James M. Fraser, who convened the meeting, said that everyone was all too familiar with the increasing accident toll.

However ,this council would also be concerned with what was going to happen in 10—20 years when the city population had increased materially and cars became more powerful and plentiful.

ASSIST COMMITTEE

"Our purpose as a safety council will be to educate and to bring other interested groups into one channel of control", continued the speaker, who mentioned that the safety council intended to assist the city council's traffic committee and not replace it.

Discussing the possibility of legislative measures to assist road safety, Mr. Fraser said there was no government, be it federal, provincial or municipal, that was not susceptible to pressure from public opinion. With this force behind the council the provincial government might be induced to pass some helpful legislation.

"The whole point of any democratic system is that eventually the individual must present his opinion through some organized group. It will be our job to supply such a medium".

In this respect Mr. Fraser was referring to stricter laws governing the mechanical condition of vehicles and the physical condition of drivers.

Const. Don Mackay cited Leaside as a town successfully operating a safety council. The council there made a detailed study of traffic problems and hazards with the assistance of police reports.

USUALLY GOT ACTION

Recommendations were forwarded to the town council which usually took the required action. Another important feature of the work was the screening and arranging of safety campaigns.

Mayor Hugh Waddell was asked whether the city council would add its blessing to the safety council. He was not prepared to answer this, but personally considered that the city council would welcome any solid organization intent on assisting with road and safety problems.

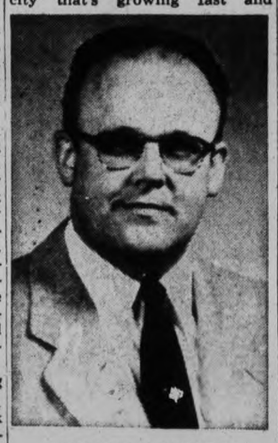
In the meantime the newly-formed council will meet again and arrange to elect a working committee which will probably draw its members from city hall, police and business administrative departments.

Those present at the meeting were.—

Mayor Hugh Waddell, city clerk E. A. Outram, city engineer Edward Chalmers and Ald. S. J. Black, John Madden, R. G. Hamilton and Harry Cherney of the Chamber of Commerce, James Fraser, John Lewis and Jim Lillico of the Automobile Club, Chief John Thompson and Constable Don MacKay of the city police, Chief William Sorrie and Captain Kennedy of the fire department, Mrs. Paige Rowell of the Board of Education, Mrs. Frank Gray of the Home and School Council Clarence Corbett representing industrial accident prevention, W. S. Mason and R. M. Hardie of the Peterborough branch Canadian Manufacturers Association, Don Laurie of CHEX, Robert Carley of OML, W. H. Toal of the separate school board and Don Kingdom representing the Belleville chamber of commerce and Norman Hughes and Jack Mark.

KENNER COLLEGIATE'S first commencement exercises were held Wednesday night in the school gym. Since there were only Grades 9 and 10 in the school last year, there were only intermediate (Grade 10 to Grade 11) certificates presented along with a large number of scholarships and prizes. Top students in last year's classes were(left to right, above), David Donaldson, Eastwood Scholarship (mathematics and science), Tim Thompson, Norman E. Elliott prize for Grade 9 general proficiency, and Margaret Robertson, Norman E. Elliott prize for Grade 10 general proficiency. (Examiner Staff Photo)

Stanley McBride Eighth Candidate For City Council



Stanley A. McBride of 166 Edinburgh St. today announced that he would be a candidate for city council. There are now eight candidates for five aldermanic seats.

Mr. McBride, aged 34, is best known in Peterborough and district as a top athlete, excelling in swimming and weight lifting. He is now a garage operator, co-proprietor of the McBride and Anderson Garage.

Though he now lives on Edinburgh St. his business and other personal ties link him with the south end. And that's one of his reasons for running for council.

SOUTH END GROWING

"I think there's a lot that can be done for the south end," he asid today. It's a section of the city that's growing fast and there's certainly a need for improved public services down there. I'm particularly concerned about fire protection and better transportation facilities."

Although this is the first time that Mr. McBride has been a candidate for public office he has been active in a number of civic groups and projects.

He is a commissioner on the Civic Arena board, and he was one of the original committee members; a member of Peterborough Lodge 111, IOF; a member of the Ancient and Mystic Order of Samaritans; a director of the Peterborough Golf and Country Club; a director of the Garage Operator's Association; a member of the YMCA's physical board; a director of the Peterborough Football Club executive; secretary of the Midland Golf League; and he was one of the organizers of the Westclox Veteran's Association and the first financial secretary. He served a brief period in the Canadian Army during the Second World War.

A bubbling sense of humor has made "Big Stan" one of the most popular men in Peterborough. He has often entertained as a minstrel and an emcee, but he is best known for his athletic ability.

He played almost every sport but he has been outstanding as a weightlifter and he still holds the free style swimming record in Peterborough and district. His athletic prowess is another reason for him seeking election.

COULD CONTRIBUTE

"I've given a lot of thought to this," he told the Examiner today, "and I think I could make a definite contribution to civic affairs. Possibly my experience on the arena committee might help to iron out some of the difficulties that will be met in building our long-awaited Memorial Centre."

Mr. McBride was born in Peterborough and educated at Confederation school and PCVS. He is married to the former Berta Brackenridge and has three children, all of public school age. He is a member of George Street United church.

86 Students At Kenner Are Awarded Certificates

In the first ceremony of its kind to be held at Kenner Collegiate, 86 students were presented with their intermediate certificates. Superintendent of Schools K. S. Wightman made the presentations to the pupils and in a short address offered his congratulations and best wishes for success in the future.

He also presented special prizes to David Donaldson who was awarded the Eastwood Scholarship for highest standing in mathematics and science. The N. E. Elliott prizes for general proficiency went to Margaret Robertson (Grade X) and Tim Thompson (Grade IX). For the highest standing in English in grade IX Tim Thompson was awarded a cash prize donated by the school paper.

Guest speaker was chairman of the Education Board, S. R. Adamson who congratulated the successful students. He reminded them that they must not only accumulate facts and figures, but that the knowledge of how to deal with people with whom they lived was also an important part of their education. With everyday society becoming more and more complex it was necessary to put oneself in other people's shoes and try and visualize how they would react to one's decisions and actions.

KNOW YOURSELF

It was first important to have knowledge of oneself—to assess one's ability and limitations. Secondly it was necessary to develop a knowledge of other people so that one might have success in forecasting and understanding another's reactions and so respond sympathetically to reasonable aims and desires affected by a person's ideas and actions.

"This is most important if you expect to advance in leadership in the field of endeavour," continued Mr. Adamson. "Also plan not only for what you want done, but rather design your plans to include what others expect and rightfully hope for."

The speaker defined this quality as a combination of a good salesman and a good samaritan.

Mrs. A. Malby of the Kenner Home and School Association extended congratulations. She mentioned that it was gratifying to note the large number of parents who were in attendance.

The speakers were introduced by Principal Dr. E. P. Ray. He said he felt justifiably proud of the standards set by these first pupils of Kenner Collegiate. The achievement had been the fruits of effort, commendable on the part of both the students and teachers.

RECEIVE CERTIFICATES

Worker Struck By Diesel Train

STIRLING (ENS)—A 62-year-old railway worker, W. L. Storms, of 77 Grier St., Belleville, suffered multiple skull fractures when he was struck by a diesel engine on the CNR bridge at nearby Cannifton and thrown more than 17 feet to the river bed about 7:30 a.m. today.

He was taken to Belleville General Hospital and later rushed to Toronto by ambulance for treatment by a brain specialist.

He was crossing the bridge on his way to work in the CNR freight yards when struck by the engine.

Police Seize Rifle, Shotgun

A rifle and a 12-gauge shotgun were confiscated by city police from two 14-year-olds in Jackson Park Wednesday afternoon.

A telephone complaint had been received at the police station, and PCs Eldon McDonald and James Armstrong went to the park, where they found the two boys with the guns dismantled.

The lads told the officers they hadn't been shooting. Eight shells were confiscated with the shotgun, and 27 with the .22 rifle.

Man Jailed 30 Days For Dangerous Driving

WHITBY (CP)—Vincent Russell, 33, of nearby Rouge Hills was sentenced to 30 days in jail and fined $100 today for dangerous driving after an accident in which a woman in his truck was killed.

Russell, father of eight children, was convicted in the accident in which his truck collided with a car Feb. 27 near this Oshawa district town. Mrs. Rodney Rogerson, 63, was killed.

A charge of manslaughter originally laid against Russell was reduced.

Industry's Share Of Taxes Increased; Householder To Pay Smaller Proportion

Assessment On Most Houses To Be Higher But Home Owners' Tax Bills Will Be Less If City Expenses Keep Level

(By PHIL CALDER, Examiner City Hall Reporter)

If you own a house in Peterborough, it's more than likely the taxes on it will be lower next year than you have been paying this year. This may come as a surprise to those property-owners who received their assessment notices today because a lot of them will probably find that their assessments have been increased. Even for them, however, their taxes will probably be lower in 1954, provided the city spends about the same amount of money next year as it has spent during 1953.

(The city's assessment department began delivering the first of 28,000 notices to property owners today, containing the results of a re-assessment of the entire city, as ordered by city council last year. This is the first of a series of articles explaining the methods used and how taxpayers may judge the fairness of their own assessments.)

The explanation of this seeming paradox lies in the fact that a complete re-assessment of the entire city has been completed this year. The expressed aim of this project was two-fold: to bring all assessments up to the level of normal values and to assess all properties on an equally fair basis.

Although the fact that the total assessment has been raised considerably may seem like the most spectacular result, the most important consequence for the taxpayer is that industrial and, to a lesser extent, commercial assessments form a bigger proportion of that new total than of the old one.

Assessment Commissioner J. E. Davis reported today, on the basis of preliminary calculations, that the new total of assessments on taxable property was $59,562,390, of which 27.23 per cent is on industrial property, 22.69 on commercial property and 50.08 on residential property.

Last year's total, on which this year's taxes were levied, was $42,397,902, of which 21.88 per cent was on industrial property, 20.72 on commercial property and 56.91 on residential property. Included also was .49 per cent on miscellaneous properties, such as farms, clubs and halls, which have not been placed in a separate category in this year's total so far.

The figures of last year's assessment represent the grand total of assessments on taxable property after the court of revision had been held. This year's figures are, of course, subject to adjustment by the court of revision. Also, with 28,000 assessment notices to be made up, there is the chance of minor clerical errors to be corrected before the roll is finally turned over to the city clerk.

But Mr. Davis estimated that, allowing for adjustments such as these, the figures were correct to within one or one and a half per cent.

SMALLER SHARE

Now, the share of the city's taxes each property owner is required to pay is determined by his share of the total assessment. Because the amount of industrial and commercial assessment has been increaed more than the residential assessment, the homeowners' share of taxes next year is going to be smaller than it was this year.

This will not hold true for all home-owners of course. In fact, some will have a lower assessment than previously. Nor will it apply to some of the newer industrial property. But the majority of older industrial plants in the city had been assessed at less up-to-date values than most of the houses. This accounts for the general change in the ratio of assessments.

One counter-balancing effect of the new assessment, although probably a small one, is an expected

7 Plays Compete For Place In Drama Festival

Seven of the eight plays entered in the Peterborough and District Drama Festival are competing for a place in the finals of the Eastern Ontario Drama Festival being held in Brockville early February. St. John's Parish players have entered "Mr. Sampson" for adjudication only, not for competition.

For the first time in its four-year history the Peterborough Festival is competitive as well as non-competitive, and play groups entering had their choice. In former years the adjudicator did not rank the entrants and choose winners; his function was to criticize. Now that the Peterborough Drama Festival has affiliated with the Eastern Ontario Drama League, it is acting as an eliminations festival of one-act plays preliminary to the finals. Adjudicator Arnold Edinborough will choose from Thursday, Friday and Saturday's plays winners who will be entitled to perform at Brockville.

Professor Edinborough will give a public adjudication at the end of each evening's performances, but will withhold his final grading until Saturday evening.

The Peterborough Festival begins its three-night run tomorrow evening at the Queen Mary auditorium. In the past one of the most popular features of the festivals has been the comments and criticism of the adjudicator. Professor Edinborough of Queen's University adjudicated the very first festival. His easy, incisive criticism and his witty comments made him a star performer of the festival.

Tonight's three plays are "Mr. Sampson," St. John's Parish Players, directed by Archdeacon Robertson; "The Purple Door Knob," All Saints' Drama Club, directed by W. A. Brown; and "The Flattering Word," by Knox Theatre Group, directed by Peter McCombe.

"I Love Lucy" Still Tops As TV Show

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "I love Lucy" keeps on rolling along.

The Lucille Ball-Desi Arnaz television show stays on its merry course, despite Red headlines, critics' knocks and conflicting audience ratings. Some of the latter show "Lucy" still holding the No. 1 spot it has enjoyed for the last year or two. Other surveys claim "Dragnet" has overtaken the Monday night domestic show.

The "Lucy" troupe isn't worried, says Jess Oppenheimer, sharp-eyed producer and head writer of the program.

"Ratings are nice, but they don't mean everything," he explained. "The important thing is audience acceptance, and I think we've got that. There was something wrong in the big lead we had over other shows last season. The situation wasn't good for TV. The other shows had to improve or something had to happen."

ANY AFFECT?

I asked if he thought the show had been affected by the sensational headlines about Lucille Ball's having registered as a Communist voter 17 years ago.

"No, I don't think it has had any effect," he remarked. "We were worried about it at the time, but now we can't notice any reaction. The number of crank letters we receive are infinitesimal compared to how many we get commending Lucille."

There have been some critical raps about the sameness of some of the "Lucy" plots. What about it?

"We realize, too, that we can't go on doing the same things," Oppenheimer commented. "Perhaps we have had too many shows about Lucy wanting to get into show business or about the fights with their neighbors."

This shows how aware TV producers are of public relation. Jack Webb told me that he altered the monotoned dialogue on "Dragnet" after fan mail and critical barbs attacked it. Likewise, Milton Berle switched his whole format when sagging ratings told him something new had to be added. Now he's back among the winners.

Increased Crops On Prairies Mean Less Taken From Fund

By WILF CHISLETT

REGINA (CP)—Farmer contributions to the Prairie Farm Assistance Act fund set up 14 years ago to ease the burden of crop failures in Western Canada have amounted to less than half the total claims.

Figures released by the PFAA office here show the federal government contributed $73,495,000 of the $143,327,000 paid by the fund in 14 years of operation. The rest was paid by farmers from a levy of one per cent on all sales of grain in the Prairie provinces.

The act is intended to aid farmers in areas where crop yields are low. Payments generally are made on the average yield in townships after the municipality has applied for help.

MORE THAN HALF

Saskatchewan farmers, who produce about two-thirds of Canada's wheat, have contributed more than half of all collections.

Saskatchewan grain growers paid $38,509,000 and received payments totalling $103,840,000. Manitoba contributions totalled $11,208,000 and payments $3,394,000. Alberta farmers paid $20,104,000 into the fund and received $35,828,000.

Up to March 31, 1953, awards totalled 670,957. Of these, 1,862 were made in Manitoba, 451,553 in Saskatchewan, 188,889 in Alberta and 1,862 in the Peace River district of British Columbia.

Total payments from the fund in British Columbia were $264,000 but contributions were lumped in the total for Alberta.

Peak was set up to ease the relief burden on municipal and provincial governments in years crops were poor. It followed a series of dry years and crop failures.

Awards have varied from none in 1942 to $22,050,000 in 1949. In every year, Saskatchewan has led Manitoba and Alberta both in the number of farmers receiving aid and in total value of awards.

The number of claims in recent years have been shrinking due to high crops. In 1951, the last year for which complete statistics are available, there were 25,000 claims with $5,000,000 in assistance paid. Farmers paid nearly $9,000,000 into the fund.

About $5,400,000 was collected and $1,400,000 paid out in the 1952-53 crop year. Similar collections and payments are expected for 1953-54.

Ontario CCF Party Meets To Choose New Leader

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario CCF meets in Toronto Friday and Saturday to name a successor to E. B. Jolliffe as provincial leader. At least three candidates will seek the post, which carries an annual salary of $6,000.

Mr. Jolliffe, 44, who resigned last Aug. 15 to devote his time to his Toronto law practice, was first elected in 1942 and was re-elected at annual conventions ever since. He is the only official Ontario leader the party has had, although it first began contesting Ontario elections in 1934.

The three men who have announced they will be candidates are: F. Andrew Brewin of Toronto, whose maternal grandfather was Liberal premier of New Brunswick and a member of the Laurier cabinet; Donald C. MacDonald of Ottawa, national organizer and treasurer of the CCF; and Fred Young of Toronto, political action representative of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL), who supports the CCF.

VETERAN WORKER

Of the three announced candidates, Mr. Brewin has had the longest connection with the party in Ontario. A 46-year-old lawyer, he unsuccessfully contested one provincial and three Dominion elections, starting in 1943. He was chairman of the provincial election committee in 1943 and Ontario president from 1946 to 1948.

Mr. MacDonald, 39, has been a full-time CCF worker since 1946. A native of British Columbia, he worked on the Montreal Gazette Royal Canadian Navy in the Second World War.

His CCF activity began at Ottawa where he was president of the Ottawa and District CCF council before taking on his national post. He was defeated in his only election bid as a candidate in Kootenay East in the Aug. 10 federal election.

Mr. Young, 46, is former United Church minister. He was a public school principal and teacher at Woodstock, N.B., and was general secretary of the Halifax YMCA during the war.

He was active in the CCF at its beginning in Toronto. For a time he was the party's director of organization in the Maritimes and served eight years on the national council. He unsuccessfully contested Toronto Davenport riding in the Aug. 10 election.

About 300 delegates are expected at the convention, which opens Friday night with leadership nominations and a speech by M. J. Coldwell, national leader.

Defence Argues Mechanical Fault Caused Accident

Decision on a charge of careless driving against John Murphy, 19, 289½ George street by Magistrate W. R. Philp in court Wednesday. Mr. Philp will deliver his decision in one week.

The charge arose from an accident June 2 at the intersection of Park and Lansdowne streets in which Frank Hughes of Wallace Drive received fatal injuries. His wife Verna received injuries which at present made it impossible for her to appear in court.

In order to obtain Mrs. Hughes' evidence the court visited her residence on Wallace Drive and heard her describe how her husband's vehicle struck Murphy's car.

First crown witness, PC Edward Patterson, told the court he arrived at the accident scene approximately 8:15 the night of June 2. He found one car, that belonging to Hughes, at the northwest corner of the intersection facing southwest. The accused's car, a 1937 model, sustained extensive damage to its right side and PC Patterson found the right hydraulic brake line broken.

After the constable's evidence the court moved to Mrs. Hughes' residence.

HAD GREEN LIGHT

Mrs. Hughes said her husband had been driving west on Lansdowne St. and was approaching Park St. at approximately 25 miles per hour. Mrs. Hughes noticed the traffic control lights were green for her husband's vehicle and said the next thing she saw was the other car just before the crash. She did not regain consciousness for some time after the accident.

Returning to the court Magistrate Philp heard evidence of Edgar Roberts who had been driving south on Park a short distance away from the accident scene when the crash occurred. He said he saw a car facing north stopped for the red light at Lansdowne St.

While he was watching a second car swung out from behind it and drove on to Lansdowne.

At this point Hughes' car reached the scene and the accident followed. Alex Thompson was driving east on Lansdowne at the time and also described the accident.

Final crown witness, George Moncrief, automotive dealer service manager said he examined the Murphy vehicle following the crash. According to the witness the sixteen year old vehicle ordinarily equipped with mechanical brakes, was instead outfitted with hyraulic brakes. Because the hydraulic brake line was fractured these could not operate. Additionally, the car was not equipped with an emergency brake.

Moncrief would not say however ever, whether the accident could have caused the hydraulic brake failure.

OWN EVIDENCE

Murphy, the youthful driver of the old model car, was the only defence witness. In arriving at the corner of Park and Lansdowne, he had stopped several times just prior to the accident. Reaching the intersection however,, he applied his brakes and found that they were not operating. He veered around the car stopped immediately in front of him for the red light, attempted to gear down, and drove into the intersection.

As soon as he saw Hughes' car approaching from the east he "gave it all the gas it would take" but could not avoid an accident.

Murphy told the court that, as an apprentice mechanic, he had installed his car's hydraulic brakes ten days prior to the accident.

He had not bothered with the emergency, however, because he didn't feel it was necessary.

Summing up the defence case, W. B. Gordon, defence counsel, contended the accident was due to a mechanical failure beyond the control of the driver.

As for the emergency brake, he submitted the accident could not have been avoided even if the accused's car had been properly equipped.

Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw, QC, agreed the modern emergency brake is ineffective as such.

In reserving his decision, the magistrate requested defence Counsel Gordon to submit case law on his contention regarding brakes.

Canada Now Nation Of Dental Cripples

ORILLIA (CP)—An advocate of fluoridation said Wednesday night that Canada is becoming a nation of "dental cripples."

Dr. Wesley Dunn, head of the Ontario fluoridation committee told a public meeting that dentists are unable to keep up with growing tooth decay among children. He advocated fluoridation of Orillia's water supply as the best decay preventive.

Dr. John Reid of the Simcoe county health unit said that fluoridation is opposed only by the type of person who used to oppose vaccination for small-pox and other medial innovations. Fluoridation of Orillia's water would cost about $1.50 a day, he said.

Red Activities In '30s Told

DETROIT (AP)—Communist activities in the American automobile industry during the 1930s were unfolded Wednesday in the conspiracy trial of six Michigan Communist party leaders.

Under questioning by government and defence counsel William O'Dell Nowell, 49-year-old ex-Communist, told of his work in the Ford Motor Co. department of the party.

Nowell, now a government employee, was a Communist from 1929 to 1936. He said he served the Reds as director of the commission on Negro problems, director of educational propaganda, and director of the Detroit workers school.

After his break with the party, he said he helped Homer Martin, first president of the United Auto Workers Union (CIO) to drive Reds from the union.

Thankoffering $31 At Mission Circle

MILLBROOK (ENS)—The Golden Links Mission Circle of St. Andrew's United church met at the home of Miss Jean Burnham.

The worship service was conducted by Mrs. James McMaster with Mrs. George Sedgewick giving the scripture reading and the Rev. Margaret Butler offering prayer.

Miss Edith Clarke agreed to carry on as CGIT leader until another leader could be found. She is to be assisted by Miss Jessie Lunn.

Mrs. M. E. Hobbs, president, reported there had been a donation to the circle from Mrs. Mary Weatherup, a life member, who was no longer able to attend the meetings.

Mrs. David Lunn gave a brief report of the Presbyterian WMS thankoffering.

A letter was read by Mrs. Hobbs from Miss Jean Stewart, for many years the circle's special missionary for prayer. Since her return from China she had been a port worker in Halifax until recently. Now she is working among the Japanese in Hamilton.

A number of thank you notes from members who had been ill or bereaved and from Miss Betty Lunn, recording secretary, who had been made a life member, were read by the corresponding secretary.

Mrs. David Lunn was in charge of the study book which dealt with the 13 countries of Latin America. At Mrs. Lunn's request, Miss Jean Burnham gave a map talk on those countries. Answering questions in connection with the study book were Mrs. Cecil Hubbeard, Mrs. G. Sedgewick, Mrs. Clifford Northey, Miss E. Hetherington, Mrs. Ernest Powell, Mrs. T. Wideman, Mrs. B. E. Ingham, Mrs. Hobbs, Mrs. Alex Gilbert, Miss Edith Clarke, Miss Marjorie Skitch and Mrs. Butler.

The temperance report was given by Miss Burnham. Supper hostesses were Mrs. Clifford Northey, Mrs. James McMaster and Mrs. David Lunn.

This was the autumn thankoffering meeting. Offerings amounted to more than $31.

THERE IS NONE BETTER!

There is no "overnight cure" for irregularity

But there is a simple, natural answer to the common problem of irregularity due to lack of bulk

There are men and women (perhaps you're one of them) who won't let "nature take its course". THEY TRY TO SUBSTITUTE UNNATURAL "FORCING ACTION" FOR THE NATURAL REGULARITY WHICH SENSIBLE DAILY HABITS AND SUFFICIENT BULK IN THE DIET COULD PROBABLY MAINTAIN.

Many fall into the habit of using laxatives in a way laxative makers never intended. They take "big doses" willy-nilly without even reading the directions on the label.

Naturally, such overdosing—with products intended only for overnight relief of a temporary stoppage—exerts upon the delicate digestive system an unnatural strain.

There's nothing wrong, of course, with taking laxatives occasionally. If you feel you have to take a laxative, just be sure you take it wisely—in an accurate, recommended dose.

BUT THERE IS A WAY TO AVOID TAKING DRUG-TYPE LAXATIVES AND TO PLACE YOUR DEPENDENCE ON NATURE, IF LACK OF BULK IN THE DIET IS YOUR TROUBLE.

• • •

In many natural foods—such as certain vegetables, fruits, and grains—nature grows abundant natural bulk which normally and naturally aids the rhythmic process of elimination.

In no other natural food is natural bulk so ideally found as in the outer layers of the whole wheat kernel, known generally as bran.

Bran is nature's "laxative food instead of a medicine". When properly processed and shredded, whole wheat bran yields smooth natural bulk that the digestive system can handle in a natural way.

• • •

The Kellogg Company has made whole wheat bran into a delicious breakfast cereal—Kellogg's All-Bran.

KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN PERFORMS NATURALLY WHAT DRUG-TYPE LAXATIVES DO CHEMICALLY. IT HELPS CLEAR THE INTESTINES OF WASTE IN A NATURAL WAY. IT PROVIDES SOFT NATURAL BULK FOR EASY NATURAL ACTION.

There is no stomach upset, no churning, no after-effect except the feeling of satisfaction and fulfillment that comes with natural, normal elimination.

• • •

To obtain lasting relief, of course, Kellogg's All-Bran must be eaten regularly. You can have it for breakfast every morning secure in the knowledge that it isn't habit-forming.

More than one million servings of Kellogg's All-Bran are consumed each day. This popularity of itself is proof that this natural laxative cereal lives up to what we say about it.

But even better proof comes from thousands of satisfied All-Bran users. They write of their own free will to tell us what natural relief they receive from eating Kellogg's All-Bran daily and drinking plenty of water.

EAT KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN EVERY MORNING FOR BREAKFAST FOR 10 DAYS. THEN, IF YOU'RE NOT COMPLETELY SATISFIED, SEND THE EMPTY CARTON TO THE KELLOGG COMPANY, LONDON, ONTARIO—AND GET DOUBLE YOUR MONEY BACK.

Remember—Kellogg's All-Bran has helped millions. Why not you?

Sparing Rod Filling Jails

TORONTO (CP) — Sparing the rod only fills the jails, chairman W. J. Stewart of the Ontario legislature's committee on reform institutions said Wednesday.

He took issue with A. R. Virgin, director of the reforms department, on the merits of corporal punishment.

Mr. Virgin took the position that spanking or strapping does not cure the wrongdoer. He maintained that an across-the-table discussion attitude is more effective with children verging on the delinquent.

Mr. Stewart contended there should be a return to the era when erring children were taken to the woodshed and soundly spanked. Members of the committee agreed with him.

Reassure Owners Prevention Stressed

HAMILTON (CP)—Member of the international joint commission Wednesday assured worried property owners along Lake Ontario's shore they are trying to take every step to prevent property damage due to high lake levels resulting from the proposed St. Lawrence seaway and power project.

The commission heard representations from 17 spokesmen for municipal and property - owning groups who told of past damage due to high water levels and asked guarantees that the lake be allowed to rise no higher than its present 246 feet above sea level.

Township Votes Dry

WEST LORNE (CP) — Aldborough township decided Wednesday to stay dry along with West Lorne by a decisive margin. There were 652 votes against women's beverage rooms and 403 ayes. Dining room licences were turned down by a margin of 661 to 383. About two-thirds of the 1,600 eligible voters went to the polls. West Lorne voters defeated liquor proposals this spring.

Doesn't Approve $1,000 Charge

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Federal government procedure asking $1,000 from any municipality wanting to show an 11-vehicle civil defence display now touring Canada came under fire Wednesday by Maj. W. F. A. Preston, London civil defence director.

Maj. Preston said London was not given choice as to whether or not it wished to have the display here.

The mobile convoy, showing civil preparedness, has already visited Montreal, Regina, Calgary, Vancouver, Edmonton, Saskatoon and Winnipeg.

Maj. Preston said it would go to Windsor to see the display next Tuesday and Wednesday. Windsor is the only Ontario city scheduled to have it.

"I take a dim view of the whole thing," said Maj. Preston. "We're all paying the shot for civil defence. I can't see why municipalities should have to pay $1,000 to have something which would be of great benefit to their organizations."

Sten Gun Shooting Decision Reserved

WOODSTOCK (CP) — Judgment on a charge of shooting a loaded sten gun with intent to do grievous bodily harm to George McBurney, of Embro, against Henry Elliott, 24, of Lucknow, was reserved by Magistrate R. G. Groom Wednesday.

Elliott was charged after 14 sten gun slugs were blasted through the McBurney farm house door Sept. 26 following two attempted breakins at Embro.

Previously Elliott pleaded guilty to a series of 17 breakins in western Ontario and was sentenced to three years.

Elliott pleaded not guilty to the shooting charge.

No New Request To See Gouzenko

OTTAWA (CP)—An external affairs department spokesman said Wednesday no new request has been received from the United States for an interview with Igor Gouzenko, the Russian cipher clerk who exposed Red espionage in Canada in 1945.

The Canadian government recently gave a cool reception to a U.S. state department request that Gouzenko talk with representatives of congressional committees investigating subversive activities.

Wednesday at Washington, chairman William Jenner of the Senate internal security sub-committee said he was awaiting an answer to a second request.

Senator Jenner last week asked State Secretary Dulles to make the new representations to the Canadian government, but the external affairs spokesman said nothing has yet been transmitted here from Washington.

Judgment Reserved In Damages Case

LONDON (CP)—Judgment was reserved by Mr. Justice W. P. Potter in a case in the Exchequer Court of Canada here Wednesday in which Clarence Walkor, St. Thomas, is seeking damages from the federal government.

The claim stems from collision of an army truck driven by RCAF Cpl. J. J. Steinke, with a car driven by Walker in St. Thomas Nov. 12, 1951.

The crown admitted Walker was in no way to blame but assumed grounds that Cpl. Steinke was not driving the truck under authorization.

2. Sift together into bowl. 1 CUP GRANULATED SUGAR, 2½ CUPS SIFTED CAKE FLOUR, ¾ TEASPOON SODA, 1 TEASPOON BAKING POWDER, 1 TEASPOON SALT, ½ TEASPOON GINGER, ½ TEASPOON NUTMEG, ½ TEASPOON CINNAMON, ¼ TEASPOON CLOVES. Add ½ CUP BROWN SUGAR, and ¾ CUP SOUR MILK. (To make the 1¼ cups of sour milk required in the recipe, place 4 teaspoons vinegar in measuring cup. Fill to 1 cup mark with sweet milk. Then combine with ¼ cup more sweet milk.) Beat only 2 minutes on medium speed of electric mixer, or by hand, using 150 strokes per minute. (Quick-Mix Jewel cuts beating time in half!) Keep batter scraped from sides and bottom of bowl with rubber scraper.
3. Add ½ CUP more SOUR MILK, 3 EGGS, and ½ TEASPOON MAPLE FLAVOURING. Beat for 2 more minutes. That's all. Just three easy steps and your Jewel Quick-Mix cake is done! Pour equal amounts of batter into 2 nine inch cake pans lined with two layers of wax paper. Bake at 375°F., for 30 minutes.

Frosting

1. Cream ½ CUP QUICK-MIX JEWEL, ¾ TEASPOON SALT, and ½ TEASPOON MAPLE FLAVOURING until soft and fluffy. Add alternately 3½ CUPS SIFTED ICING SUGAR and ¼ CUP DOUBLE-STRENGTH HOT COFFEE. Beat until smooth and creamy.
2. Divide frosting into two bowls. To one add ¼ CUP SIFTED COCOA and 1 TABLESPOON DOUBLE-STRENGTH COFFEE. Beat until smooth.
3. Fill cake layers with one half of cocoa filling. Frost sides with remaining cocoa filling. Frost top of cake with half the maple frosting. Sprinkle with finely chopped nuts. Using a cake decorator, make a fluted edging to top and bottom of cake with the rest of the mocha frosting.

Stand back and admire.

Sausage Rolls

Perfect for a supper party, these Sausage Rolls can be served with a hot vegetable casserole, and a tossed green salad on the side. Finish up with ice cream or cheese and crackers, and coffee.

1. Place ONE POUND OF SWIFT'S BROOKFIELD SAUSAGES in skillet. Add ½ CUP WATER. Simmer for 5 minutes. Pour off any remaining water.
2. Using a pastry blender, fork, two knives or finger tips, cut ⅔ CUP JEWEL SHORTENING into 2 CUPS SIFTED FLOUR and 1 TEASPOON SALT, until mixture is the consistency of coarse cornmeal. Jewel blends easily, and makes flakier, more tender pastry.
3. Blending with a fork, gradually sprinkle enough water over the flour mixture until dry spots disappear.
Shape into a ball with waxed paper. Divide dough in half.
4. Turn half quantity of dough onto lightly floured board. Knead twice to blend thoroughly. Roll out lightly into an 8" x 10" rectangle. With spatula divide into 8 smaller rectangles.
5. Brush cooked sausage with PREPARED MUSTARD. Roll up sausage in pastry strips. Place edge side down, ½ inch apart, in shallow baking pan. Repeat until sausages and remainder of dough are used up.
6. Bake about 15 minutes at 450°F. Yields 16 rolls.

Tea Biscuits for 6 or 60

Having a group of ladies to tea? Serve them these delicious hot biscuits made with the Jewel Biscuit Mix. Prepare the mix ahead; then whip up whatever quantity of biscuits you need at a moment's notice. This mix yields about 9 cups, and because it's made with Jewel, it keeps without refrigeration. I've tested Jewel against all other shortenings in hundreds of different recipes and every time the Jewel-baked biscuits not only looked better but tasted better than those made with any other shortening. Save time and money with this Jewel Biscuit Mix!

Jewel Biscuit Mix

Sift together 8 CUPS FLOUR, 4 TABLESPOONS BAKING POWDER and 4 TEASPOONS SALT.
With pastry knives, fork or finger tips cut in 1 CUP JEWEL SHORTENING, until mixture is the consistency of cornmeal. See how much better-blending Jewel is! Store in covered container. It is now ready to use for biscuits for 6 or 60.

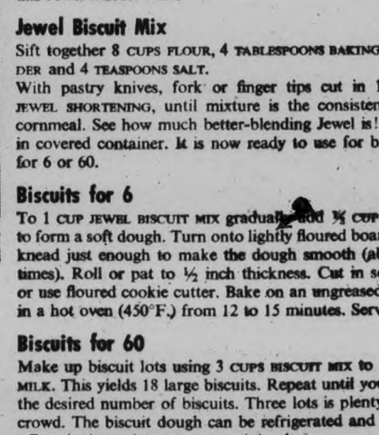
Biscuits for 6

To 1 CUP JEWEL BISCUIT MIX gradually add ⅓ CUP MILK, to form a soft dough. Turn onto lightly floured board and knead just enough to make the dough smooth (about 6 times). Roll or pat to ½ inch thickness. Cut in squares or use floured cookie cutter. Bake on an ungreased sheet in a hot oven (450°F.) from 12 to 15 minutes. Serve hot.

Biscuits for 60

Make up biscuit lots using 3 CUPS BISCUIT MIX to 1 CUP MILK. This yields 18 large biscuits. Repeat until you have the desired number of biscuits. Three lots is plenty for a crowd. The biscuit dough can be refrigerated and baked off at the last minute to serve piping hot.

HOSTESS HINTS



1. Have a Pepperpot Party. Let each of your female guests bring her favourite dish. The fare will be delicious because all the girls will want to show off their cooking.
2. Entertain the easy way with Swift's Premium Table-Ready Meats. Arrange them on a tempting platter and serve supper buffet style.
3. If you want to be rested for your party, prepare as much of it as you can the day before. Keep last minute cooking down to a minimum.

Sound Of Speed Looms Biggest Problem Facing Airfields, Plane And Engine Makers

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
(NEA Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Conquering the alarming problems of the sound of speed has suddenly taken the place of licking the speed of sound as aviation's major challenge.

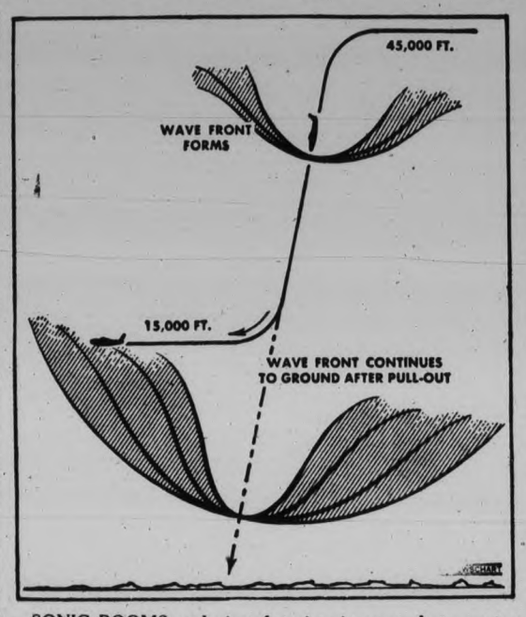
"Aircraft noise," says Civil Aeronautics Administrator F. B. Lee, "today has become one of the industry's most crucial problems."

Another CAA official says flatly that it's the most serious threat to U.S. public support of aviation that has ever existed.

The mysterious "supersonic boom," a blast phenomena which hits the ground like the sound of an exploding cannon when a plane dives through the sonic barrier, is the latest and most serious aspect of the problem.

The danger of the "boom" was dramatized at the recent first public showing of the F-100, the new Air Force supersonic fighter. Just flying over, the plane smashed all of the thick plate glass in a CAA control building and cracked heavy beams.

WOULD ABATE NOISE



Untold millions are hurriedly being spent by the industry, CAA, the Air Force and the National Advisory Committee on Aeronautics, top U.S. air research agency, to do something about noise abatement. Meantime troubles are mounting:

Petitions with close to 200,000 names on them are being circulated to demand closing of La Guardia Field in New York and Los Angeles International Airport. Signers are protesting the noise. Most fields in the U. S. which handle four-engine planes are having similar trouble.

Thousands of small claims have been lodged against the Air Force for broken windows, dishes knocked off shelves, chimneys cracked and plaster knocked down. The problem is especially acute near jet fields and Strategic Air Command bases which have big bombers. Settlements are made locally and there are no total figures in the Pentagon. The sum is large, the Air Force admits.

Studies by Air Force doctors show increasing evidence of fatigue, dizziness, nervous strain, nausea and other physical ailments from long periods of close exposure to the scream of jet engines.

Several suits filed by cities against airlines for making a noise nuisance, which will be ruled on soon, could paralyze commercial flying.

SONIC BOOMS and aircraft noises in general are posing an expensive problem to airfields, to aircraft and engine manufacturers. Jets, such as the fast and noisy F-100 (top photo) shatter windows and crack wooden beams by merely flying over a building. Sketch (below) shows the formation and growth of a sonic boom.

Even though large jet engine plants bring great wealth to a community, there's growing resentment to the noise of engine testing. Moves are periodically being made to get the plants shifted. This would cost a fortune.

Efforts to combat these developments range from expensive research projects to elaborate public relations programs.

Piasecki Helicopter Co., near Philadelphia, has its test pilots make a personal visit to the homes of persons complaining of noise. At some of its bases the Strategic Air Command does the same thing.

CAA has gone as far as safety will permit in forcing airliners to use runaways with approaches over the least populated areas, to climb steeply after take-off and to have minimum warm-up time on the ground.

GE SPENDS MILLIONS

The General Electric jet engine plant near Cincinnati has spent millions trying to soundproof engine test cells. Special cars equipped with sound-measuring equipment tour the community to make sure noise doesn't exceed a certain standard. It publishes a community paper to try to explain the noise problem and soothe nearby residents. There's no testing at night. All other jet engine makers have similar programs going.

Aircraft industry experts are holding numerous symposiums all over the country to exchange information on noise abatement progress.

The Air Force is spending more than $1 million studying medical aspects of noise, plus other huge sums trying to find effective muffler systems for jets. NACA also has a major research program under way for the same purpose.

The Air Force has also had to start building and leasing brand new fields in isolated areas for testing new planes. It has issued rigid regulations for pilots who might fly faster than sound, prohibiting them from trying it anywhere near population centers for fear of the effect of the supersonic boom.

Unfortunately all of this effort

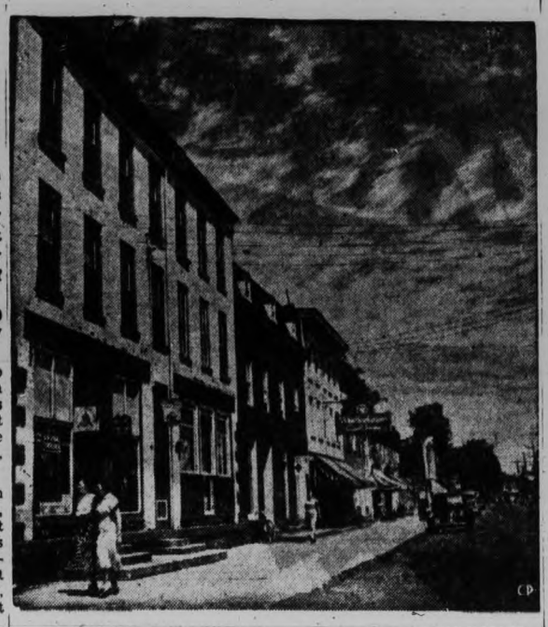
Develop 2,200,000 H.P. Change River Into Lake

The big job in building the deep St. Lawrence Seaway will be in the International Rapids area above Cornwall, Ont. This story one of a series describes the engineering plans for this multi-million dollar power and canal project. Tomorrow: What the seaway means to Canada.



By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

Ontario and New York state plan to turn the International Rapids section of the St. Lawrence river into a lake, in one of the most dramatic events ever to occur within sight-seeing distance of mass populations.

They plan to develop 2,200,000 horsepower of electrical energy which they will share equally.

It is part of a project which also includes Canada's plan to make a deep seaway from the Great Lakes to the Atlantic by replacing 14-foot canals with 27-foot canals in the 115 miles between Prescott, Ont., and Montreal.

The International Rapids section runs 47 miles from Chimney Point, N.Y., four miles below Prescott and Ogdensburg, N.Y., to St. Regis N.Y., below Cornwall, Ont. Its turbulent waters drop the river 92 feet through the Galop, Rapide Plat, Farran Point and Long Sault Rapids.

TOWN TO DISAPPEAR — The town of Iroquois, in eastern Ontario is one of the communities which will disappear beneath the swirling waters of a new 35-mile lake to be created as part of the St. Lawrence Seaway and power project. People will leave the doomed shoreline in a district west of Cornwall, Ont., and everything moveable taken away. Trees will be cleared from the countryside as the huge program gets under way. This is a Malak photo.

CREATES NEW POWER—Ontario and New York State plan to turn the International Rapids section of the St. Lawrence river into a lake, in a dramatic plan to develop 2,200,000 horsepower of electrical energy which they will share equally. Map shows a closeup of the area where lake will be located. Part of the $700,000,000 St. Lawrence Seaway and power project, a dam will be built at the eastern end of the proposed lake from the upstream end of American-owned Barnhart Island to the American mainland. A powerhouse will be built a short distance farther east, near Cornwall, Ont., from Barnhart Island to the Canadian shore. It will be split at the international boundary into two equal-sized structures.

PRESENT PLANS

Plans are not final, and opposing American interests have instituted court action in an effort to hold up the project, but what is proposed is about as follows:

Some nine miles below Chimney Point, a dam will be built from Iroquois Point on the Canadian side to above Point Rockaway, N.Y. It will have a 2,780-foot concrete section and an over-all length of 3,600 feet; will rise 118 feet above foundations; and have 40 gate openings, each 50 feet wide.

It will regulate the flow of water out of Lake Ontario and cause some increase in the water level some five miles back. It will pour Great Lakes water into a narrow lake some 35 miles long and four miles wide.

At the eastern end of the proposed lake, another dam will be built at the foot of the Long Sault Rapids, from the upstream end of American-owned Barnhart Island, to the American mainland. It will have a 2,890-foot concrete section and an over-all length of 7,340 feet; will rise 145 feet above foundations and have 30 spillways, each 50 feet wide.

BIG POWERHOUSE

A short distance farther east at the downstream end of Barnhart Island and about 3½ miles above Cornwall, a powerhouse will be built from the island to the Canadian shore. It will be 3,500 feet long, 183 feet wide, 145 feet above foundations, and will be split at the international boundary into two equal-sized structures. Each half will produce 1,100,000 horsepower from a head of water averaging 84 feet.

The structures will have a 50-foot sluiceway between them and 75-foot sluiceways at each shore end to clear winter ice.

This dam and powerhouse and the dam at Iroquois 35 miles upstream, along with some shore dikes, will contain the lake.

Temporary coffer dams will be built and temporary channels cut to divert the river flow sufficiently to give "dry" working conditions at the dam and power installations.

NO INTERFERENCE

These things must not interfere with present local power installations, such as that at Messena, N.Y., at least until the new power is ready to replace them, or with operation of the existing 14-foot canals, until the new ones are built.

The work will give us much of the drama usually reserved for frontier works like Labrador iron ore and Kitimat aluminum—with something of its own added. Camps will be erected, construction roads built, railway sidings put in.

People will have to leave doomed shorelines, saying good-bye to old homes and scenes. Behind them, their communities of up to 1,000 population will be torn down and everything movable taken away. Trees will be cleared from the countryside.

At last, the scene will be set for our lake. About three years after construction starts, the waters will build up rapidly.

RAPIDS TO VANISH

The Long Sault Rapids, which now fling themselves through a 42-foot, two-mile descent, will fade into silence.

Islands will disappear or become smaller.

The water will inundate some 16½ square miles on the mainland, about equal to the area of Hamilton.

Near Iroquois dam, the 1,000 people of the town of Iroquois will be in new homes elsewhere and Iroquois will be engulfed.

A few miles down from Iroquois, the town of Morrisburg, population 1,800, will watch its former main street go under and turn to do business on a new thoroughfare. The sites of the smaller communities of East Williamsburg, Aultsville, Farran Point, Dickensen Landing, Wales, Moulinette and Mille Roche will disappear.

3,000 AFFECTED

More than 3,000 persons, 2,000 homes and businesses, 50 farms, 300 summer cottages, 30 miles of railway and 45 miles of main highway will have been relocated.

All this is on the Canadian side which has most of the affected settled land. On the American side, too, the water will creep up the shorelines and touch the town of Waddington.

The new lake will provide not only water for power but a seaway for ships. We will enter it near Iroquois through one lock with a small drop. We will leave it near the Barnhart powerhouse, and drop more than 80 feet in two locks. These three locks, with 27-foot depth, will take the place of the 11 present 14-foot locks.

AT HALFWAY MARK

Our 80-foot drop has placed us just upstream from Cornwall, near the entrance to Lake St. Francis, an expansion of the St. Lawrence river about half-way on the 2,200-mile trip from the Lakehead to the Atlantic. We have descended from the 602.2-foot elevation on Lake Superior to 153 feet above sea level.

From Cornwall we pass through Lake St. Francis, with a gentle drop of one foot in 26 miles, then through 18 miles and five locks of Soulanges Canal on the north side of the St. Lawrence river, dropping 83 feet into Lake St. Louis, another expansion of the river.

When our project is finished, however, we shall probably go through Quebec's vast new Beauharnois power canal on the south side of the river, built with navigation needs in mind, and drop into Lake St. Louis through two new locks.

We pass through Lake St. Louis, some 15 miles, to Lachine and drop 46 feet through five locks into Montreal harbor. We probably shall have two locks there under the project.

HARBOR DEVELOPMENT

Several schemes have been suggested for the Lachine and Montreal harbor developments, depending somewhat upon whether Quebec undertakes to harness the 1,200,000 horsepower available in the Lachine Rapids.

Among the proposals for Montreal and vicinity are:

A power dam below Victoria Bridge for the prospective Lachine Rapids power; long dikes on either side of the harbor to protect property from flooding; creation of a harbor pool from below Victoria Bridge to Longue Pointe, by construction of a dam near Ste. Therese Island. The pool would mean that the entrance to Montreal from downstream end and upstream would be by lock.

Further schemes envisage reclamation of flooded land on the south side of the river between St. Lambert and Boucherville; expansion of harbor facilities on the south side of the river; and opening of a new industrial area between Montreal and Varennes.

Leaving Montreal there is for 160 miles a 32.5-foot channel through the winding river to Quebec. It is planned to deepen the channel to 35 feet.

This stretch and the deeper river beyond drop us another 23 feet until we enter and pass through the Gulf of St. Lawrence and head out into the Atlantic.

Classroom Of Tomorrow Attractive Spot

By JOHN F. MAYHEW

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—It's a beautiful room, full of eye-pleasing color. One wall is cocoa-colored tile, two have a natural birch plywood finish. Gaily-decorated green drapes blend with light blond furniture. The floor is mottled green rubber tile.

Sounds like a well-appointed living room but it's actually a fifth-grade clas room, the "classroom of tomorrow", conceived, designed and built by University of Michigan scientists to replace the traditional schoolroom.

The new classroom, still only a laboratory specimen, is equipped with television set, movie projector, blackboards that reverse to become drawing easels and vitrolite panels on which students can paint.

Dr. Robert A. Boyd, who heads the university's daylighting laboratory and directed the research that went into the new classroom, relies on the magic of lighting.

"Traditional school lighting, directed chiefly at the floor, made it necessary to use only those materials with a high degree of reflectivity," he explains. "That gave a sort of hospital character to our school rooms. I'd estimate about 75 per cent of schools don't meet the minimum light recommendations of the Illumination Engineering Society."

Through use of special glass blocks developed here, it now is possible to double the I.E.S. minimum light figure, opening the way for use of practically all color combiations.

Two types of glass block were used. There is a five-foot panel of blocks in the outside wall and a four-foot panel in the ceiling extending the length of the 29-foot room.

The wall block diffuses most of the light upward into the room instead of down. The ceiling block, with light-reflecting prisms, is the real key. Through it the best of available daylight is transmitted into the room. Glare and heat is rejected.

This so-called toplighting catches a high percentage of the low-angled winter sun.

On overcast days a photoelectric cell turns on a battery of flouresecent lights and automatically turns them off when the proper degree of light returns.

Prairie Dog Almost Extinct Once Roamed Continent

DOG TOWN, Sask. (CP) — Although this place has 20,000 inhabitants, it can't be found under city, town or village listings in the Canadian Almanac. In fact, it's the only community of its kind in North America.

Dog Town, 155 miles southwest of Regina, is a giant community of prairie dogs—a small burrowing animal not much larger than a groundhog. Once they roamed the continent by the millions. Now they are almost extinct.

Surrounded by desert, they live in the peaceful seclusion of Saskatchewan's dust bowl. Where nothing grows but grass and wild flowers, the prairie dog finds his living.

Albert Swantson and Fred Lahrman, field workers with the Saskatchewan provincial museum, recently visited Dog Town to investigate "living conditions" and bring back specimens.

"When you visit the community, you can't help being impressed by how these creatures live," said Mr. Swanston.

"We saw 500 prairie dogs in one colony where there were 200 burrows. On top of one mound six dogs were perched."

RAPIDLY DYING OUT

At one time the dogs numbered 400,000,000 in an area of 250,000 square miles. Dog Town, the sole remaining community, is about 25 square miles.

When a prairie dog meets another he stops to talk, kiss and then pass on his way. He rubs down his neighbor's fur and shares his food.

The prairie dog's only protection is his burrow. This barking mound builder feeds on nearly every form of vegetation growing on the prairie but has been known to eat locust and mice. He spends his day gathering food and storing it away for winter.

Cooking Course Planned For Husbands In Norway

By ELIZABETH KITSON

OSLO (Reuters) — Armed with egg-beaters and cook books, a group of middle-aged Norwegian men are busily learning the culinary arts at one of the first experimental cooking courses for husbands to be started in Norway.

Every Thursday evening, they hurry from their place of work to a municipal domestic science school in an Oslo suburb.

They set about preparing a three-course dinner under the instructions of the domestic science teacher, Mrs. Havin—whose husband is one of the pupils.

When the class is over and the dinner is cooked, pupils and teacher sit down together to eat it.

The class was started as an experiment by Mrs. Havin, encouraged by her husband, a psychologist. Mr. Havin's problem is that although he eats like a horse and is at the same time lazy by nature, he remains as thin as a rake.

"I wanted to find out how it was prepared, all this food which disappears so completely," he said. "It is an interesting study, something like the theory of the constancy of energy."

But most pupils are married men, who have decided that their wives deserve a day off every so often.

On the first evening, nothing more ambitious than vegetable soup and pancakes was attempted, but by the fifth lesson the male cooks were at home with Irish stew, fruit salad, and lemon and almond cakes.

The male pupils now say women are too bound by tradition, and they are already claiming they will be able to produce more exciting dishes—and produce them more cheaply than their wives.

THE WAR MEMOIRS OF WINSTON CHURCHILL

ALEXANDER'S VICTORY IN ITALY — THE GERMAN SURRENDER

Gleaming success marked the end of our campaigns in the Mediterranean. In December (1944) Alexander had succeeded Wilson as Supreme Commander, while Mark Clark took command of the Fifteenth Army Group. After their strenuous efforts of the autumn our armies in Italy needed a long pause to reorganise and restore their offensive power.

The German High Command might have had little to fear had it not been for the dominance of our Air Forces, the fact that we had the initiative and could strike where we pleased, and their own ill-chosen defensive position, with the board Po at their backs. They would have done better to yield Northern Italy and withdraw to the strong defences of the Adige, where they could have held us with much smaller forces and sent troops to help their over-matched armies elsewhere, or have made a firm southern face for the National Redoubt in the Tyrol mountains, which Hitler may have had in mind as his "last ditch."

But defeat south of the Po spelt disaster.

✧ ✧ ✧

We crossed the Po on a broad front at the heels of the enemy. All the permanent bridges had been destroyed by our Air Forces, and the ferries and temporary crossings were attacked with such effect that the enemy were thrown into confusion. The remnants who struggled across, leaving all their heavy equipment behind, were unable to reorganise on the far bank. The Allied armies pursued them to the Adige. Italian Partisans had long harassed the enemy in the mountains and their back areas. On April 25 the signal was given for a general rising, and they made widespread attacks. In many cities and towns, notably Milan and Venice, they seized control.

✧ ✧ ✧

Meanwhile the March negotiations for an armistice had probably come to Himmler's ears. Certainly he sent for General Wolff, the principal envoy and a high SS official in Italy, and questioned him closely. There was then a pause before the force of facts overcame German hesitancies, but on April 24 Wolff reappeared in Switzerland with full powers from Vietinghoff. I hastened to tell the Russians.

Two plenipotentiaries were brought to Alexander's headquarters, and on April 29, they signed the instrument of unconditional surrender in the presence of high British, American, and Russian officers.

I duly informed Moscow.

On May 2 nearly a million Germans surrendered as prisoners of war, and the war in Italy ended.

✧ ✧ ✧

For Mussolini also the end had come. Like Hitler he seems to have kept his illusions until almost the last moment. Late in March he paid a final visit to his German partner, and returned to his headquarters on Lake Garda buoyed up with the thought of the secret weapons which could still lead to victory. But the rapid Allied advance from the Apennines made these hopes vain. There was hectic talk of a last stand in the mountainous areas on the Italo-Swiss frontier. But there was no will to fight left in the Italian Socialist Republic.

On April 25 Mussolini decided to disband the remnants of his armed forces and to ask the Cardinal Archbishop of Milan to arrange a meeting with the underground Military Committee of the Italian National Liberation Movement. That afternoon talks took place in the Archbishop's palace, but with a last furious gesture of independence Mussolini walked out. In the evening, followed by a convoy of thirty vehicles containing most of the surviving leaders of Italian Fascism, he drove to the prefecture at Como. He had no coherent plan, and as discussion became useless it was each man for himself. Accompanied by a handful of supporters and by his mistress, Clara Petacci, he attached himself to a small German convoy heading towards the Swiss frontier. The commander of the column was not anxious for trouble with Italian Partisans. The Duce was persuaded to put on a German great-coat and helmet. But the little party was stopped by Partisan patrols: Mussolini was recognized and taken into custody. Othe members, including Signorina Petacci, were also arrested. On Communist instructions the Duce and his mistress were taken out in a car next day and shot. Their bodies, together with others, were sent to Milan and strung up on meat-hooks in a petrol station on the Piazza San Loreto, where a group of Italian Partisans had lately been shot in public.

✧ ✧ ✧

Such was the fate of the Italian dictator.

A photograph of the final scene was sent to me, and I was profoundly shocked.

Prime Minister to Field-Marshal Alexander (Italy)

10 May 45

I have seen your photograph.

The man who murdered Mussolini made a confession, published in the Daily Express, gloating over the treacherous and cowardly method of his action. In particular he said he shot Mussolini's mistress. Was she on the list of war criminals? Had he any authority from anybody to shoot this woman? It seems to me the cleansing hand of British military power should make inquiries on these points.

But at least the world was spared an Italian Nuremberg.

Thus ended our twenty months' campaign in Italy. Our losses had been grievous, but those of the enemy, even before the final surrender, far heavier. The principal task of our armies had been to draw off and contain the greatest number of Germans. This had been admirably fulfilled. Except for a short period in the summer of 1944, the enemy had always outnumbered us. At the time of their crisis in August of that year no fewer than fifty-five German divisions were deployed along the Mediterranean fronts. Nor was this all. Our forces rounded off their task by devouring the larger army they had been ordered to "contain". There have been few campaigns with a finer culmination.

By the middle of April it was clear that Hitler's Germany would soon be utterly destroyed. The invading armies drove onwards in their might and the space between them narrowed daily. Hitler had pondered where to make his last stand. As late as April 20 he still thought of leaving Berlin for the "Southern Redoubt" in the Bavarian Alps. That day he held a meeting of the principal Nazi leaders. As the German double-front East and West was in imminent danger of being cut in twain by the spearpoint thrust of the Allies, he agreed to set up two separate commands. Admiral Doenitz was to take charge in the North both of the military and civil authorities, with the particular task of bringing back to German soil nearly two million refugees from the East. In the South General Kesselring was to command the remaining German armies. These arrangements were to take effect if Berlin fell.

Two days later on April 22, Hitler made his final and supreme decision to stay in Berlin to the end. The capital was soon completely encircled by the Russians and the Fuehrer had last all power to control events. It remained for him to organize his own death amid the ruins of the city. He announced to the Nazi leaders who remained with him that he would die in Berlin. Goering and Himmler had both left after the Conference of the 20th, without thoughts of peace negotiations in their minds. Goering, who had gone south, assumed that Hitler had in fact abdicated by his resolve to stay in Berlin, and asked for confirmation that he should act formally as the successor to the Fuehrer. The reply was his instant dismissal from all his offices.

The last scenes at Hitler's headquarters have been described elsewhere in much detail. Of the personalities of the Third Reich only Goebbels and Bormann remained with him to the end. The Russian armies were now fighting in the streets of Berlin. In the early hours of April 29 Hitler made his will. The following day opened with the normal routine of work in the air-raid shelter under the Chancellery. In the course of the day news arrived of Mussolini's end. The timing was grimly appropriate. Hitler lunched quietly with his suite, and at the end of the meal shook hands with those present and retired to his private room. At half-past three a shot was heard, and members of his personal staff entered the room to find him lying on the sofa with a revolver by his side. He had shot himself through the mouth. Eva Braun, whom he had married secretly during these last days, lay beside him. She had taken poison. The bodies were burnt in the courtyard, and Hitler's funeral pyre, with the din of the Russian guns growing ever louder, made a lurid end to the Third Reich.

✧ ✧ ✧

The leaders who were left held a final conference. Last-minute attempts were made to negotiate with the Russians, but Zhukov demanded unconditional surrender. Bormann tried to break through the Russian lines, and disappeared without trace. Goebbels poisoned his six children and then ordered an S.S. guard to shoot his wife and himself. The remaining staff of Hitler's headquarters fell into Russian hands.

That evening a telegram reached Admiral Doenitz at his headquarters in Holstein:

In place of the former Reich-Marshal Goering the Fuehrer appoints you, Herr Grand Admiral, as his successor. Written authority is on its way. You will immediately take all such measures as the situation requires.

Bormann

Chaos descended. Doenitz had been in touch with Himmler, who, he assumed, would be nominated as Hitler's successor if Berlin fell, and now supreme responsibility was suddenly thrust upon him without warning and he faced the task of organising the surrender.

✧ ✧ ✧

Himmler had for some months been urged to make personal contact with the Western Allies on his own initiative in the hope of negotiating a separate surrender. A General Schellenberg of the SS had proposed to him as an intermediary Count Bernadotte, the head of the Swedish Red Cross, who had occasion from time to time to visit Berlin. There had been secret meetings between Bernadotte and Himmler in February, and again in April, when Bernadotte visited the German capital. But the Nazi leader felt too deeply committed in his loyalty to Hitler to make any move. The Fuehrer's announcement on April 22 of the last stand in Berlin led him to act.

In the early hours of April 25 a telegram arrived in London from Sir Victor Mallet, British Minister to Sweden. He reported that at 11 p.m. on April 24 he and his American colleague, Mr. Herschel Johnson, had been asked to call upon the Swedish Minister for Foreign Affairs, Mr. Boheman. The purpose of the interview was to meet Count Bernadótte, who had an urgent mission. Bernadotte told them that Himmler was on the Eastern Front, and had asked to meet him urgently in North Germany. Bernadotte suggested Lubeck, and they had met the previous evening. Himmler, though tired and admitting Germany was finished, was still calm and coherent. He said that Hitler was so desperately ill that he might be dead already, and in any case would be so within the next few days. Himmler stated that while the Fuehrer was still active he would not have been able to do what he now proposed, but as Hitler was finished he could act with full authority. He then asked if the Swedish Government would arrange for him to meet General Eisenhower and capitulate on the whole Western Front.

Bernadotte said there was no need for this as he could simply order his troops to surrender, and in any case he would not forward the request unless Norway and Denmark were included in the capitulation. If this were done there might be some point in a meeting, because special arrangements might be necessary as to how and to whom the Germans there were to lay down their arms. Himmler thereupon said he was prepared to order the German forces in Denmark and Norway to surrender to either British, American, or Swedish troops. When asked what he proposed to do if the Western Allies refused his offer, Himmler replied that he would take command of the Eastern Front and die in battle. Himmler said he hoped that the Western Allies rather than the Russians would be the first to enter Mecklenburg, in order to save the civilian population.

Both Ministers remarked that Himmler's refusal to surrender on the Eastern Front looked like a last attempt to make trouble between the Western Allies and Russia.

I received this news on the morning of April 25 and immediately summoned the War Cabinet. Our reactions are shown in the message which I despatched to President Truman:

Ysu will no doubt have received some hours ago the report from Stockholm by your Ambassador on the Bernadotte-Himmler talks. I called the War Cabinet together at once, and they approved the immediately following telegram, which we are sending to Marshal Stalin and repeating through the usual channels to you. We hope you will find it possible to telegraph to Marshal Stalin and to us in the same sense. As Himmler is evidently speaking for the German State, as much as anybody can, the reply that should be sent him through the Swedish Government is in principle a matter for the Triple Powers, since no one of us can enter into separate negotiations. This fact, however, in no way abrogates General Eisenhower's or Field-Marshal Alexander's authority to accept local surrenders as they occur.

Count Bernadotte went back to Germany to convey our demand to Himmler. No more was heard of the Nazi leader till May 22, when he was arrested by a British control post at Bremervorde. He was disguised and was not recognized; but his papers made the sentries suspicious and he was taken to a camp near Second Army Headquarters. He then told the commandant who he was. He was put under armed guard, stripped and searched for poison, by a doctor. During the final stage of the examination he bit open a phial of cyanide, which he had apparently hidden in his mouth for some hours. He died almost instantly, just after eleven o'clock at night on Wednesday, May 23.

✧ ✧ ✧

In the north-west the drama closed less sensationally. On May 2 news arrived of the surrender in Italy. On the same day our troops reach Lubeck, on the Baltic, making contact with the Russians and cutting off all the Germans in Denmark and Norway. On the 3rd we entered Hamburg without opposition and the garrison surrendered unconditionolly. A German delegation came to Montgomery's headquarters on Luneburg Heath. It was headed by Admiral Friedeburg, Doenitz's emissary, who sought a surrender agreement to include German forces in North-West Germany, Holland, the Islands, Schleswig-Holstein, and Denmark.

In the course of a telegram to Mr. Eden at San Francisco, dated May 5, I told him:

In the north Eisenhower threw in an American corps with great dexterity to help Montgomery in his advance on Lubeck. He got there with twelve hours to spare. * * * We are sending in a moderate holding force to Copenhagen by air, and the rest of Denmark is being rapidly occupied from henceforward by our fast moving armoured columns. I think therefore, having regard to the joyous feeling of the Danes and the abject submission and would-be partisanship of the surrendered Huns, we shall head our Soviet friends off at this point too. . .

In three successive days 2,500,000 Germans have surrendered to our British commanders. This is quite a satisfactory incident in our military history. Ike has been splendid throughout. We must vie with him in sportsmanship.

Friedeburg went on to Eisenhower's headquarters at Rheims, where he was joined by General Jodl on May 6. They played for time to allow as many soldiers and refugees as possible to disentangle themselves from the Russians and come over to the Western Allies, and they tried to surrender the Western Front separately. Eisenhower imposed a time-limit and insisted on a general capitulation. Jodl reported to Doenitz: "General Eisenhower insists that we sign today. If not, the Allied fronts will be closed to persons seeking to surrender individually. I see no alternative; chaos or signature. I ask you to confirm to me immediately by wireless that I have full powers to sign capitulation."

The instrument of total, unconditional surrender was signed by General Bedell Smith and General Jodl, with French and Russian officers as witnesses, at 2:41 a.m. on May 7. Thereby all hostilities ceaser at midnight on May 8. The formal ratification by the German High Command took place in Berlin, under Russian arrangements, in the early hours of May 9. Air Chief Marshal Tedder signed on behalf of Eisenhower, Marshal Zhukov for the Russians, and Field-Marshal Keitel for Germany.

The final destruction of the German Army has been related; it remains to describe the end of Hitler's other fighting forces. During the previous autumn the German Air Force, by a remarkable feat of organisation, but at the cost of its long-range bomber output, had greatly increased the numbers of its fighter aircraft. Our strategic bombing had thrown it on to the defensive and 70 per cent of its fighters had to be used for home defence. Although greater in numbers their effectiveness was less, largely owing to fuel shortage caused by our attacks on oil installations, which it became their principal duty to prevent. German high-performance jet fighters perturbed us for a time, but special raids on their centres of production and their airfields averted the threat.

I felt the time had come to reconsider our policy of bombing industrial areas. Victory was close and we had to think ahead. "If we come into control of an entirely ruined land," I wrote, on April 1, "there will be a great shortage of accommodation for ourselves and our Allies. We must see to it that our attacks do not do more harm to ourselves than they do to the enemy's immediate war effort."

In judging the contribution to victory of strategic air-power it should be remembered that this was the first war in which it was fully used. We had to learn from hard-won experience. Success depends on sound deductions from a mass of intelligence, often specialised and highly technical, on every aspect of the enemy's national life, and much of this information has to be gathered in peace-time. We certainly underestimated the strong latent reserve in Germany's industry and the great resources she had gained from Occupied Europe. Thanks to well-organised relief measures, strict police action, and innate discipline, the German people endured more than we had thought possible. But although the results of the early years fell short of our aims we forced on the enemy an elaborate, ever-growing but finally insufficient air defence system which absorbed a large proportion of their total war effort. Before the end we and the United States had developed striking forces so powerful that they played a major part in the economic collapse of Germany. Great efforts were made by the sister-nations of the Commonwealth, especially Canada, in the Empire Training Scheme, which turned out 200,000 men for air crews, and in 1945 nearly half the operational pilots of British Bomber Command were men from overseas.

The final Russian attack, which began on April 16, provoked the Luftwaffe to a last dying effort, but in a few days the great Berlin airfields, with many intact aircraft, were in Soviet hands, and, like the German army, the Air Force was split in two. Disruption and disintegration spread fast. It had no more power to recover and fell to pieces. Part of its headquarters escaped south from Berlin, and for a few days tried to operate from a lunatic asylum near Munich. Thence it scattered into Austria. In a remote mountain village of the Tyrol nearly a hundred of the more senior officers, including Goering himself, were taken prisoners by the Americans. Retribution had come at last.

The immense scale of events on land and in the air has tended to obscure the no less impressive victory at sea. The whole Anglo-American campaign in Europe depended upon the movement of convoys across the Atlantic and we may here carry the story of the U-boats to its conclusion. Despite appalling losses to themselves they continued to attack but with diminishing success and the flow of shipping continued unchecked. The Schnorkel-fitted boats now in service, breathing through a tube while charging their batteries submerged, were but an introduction to the new pattern of U-boat warfare which Doenitz had planned. The first of these were already under trial. Real success for Germany depended on their early arrival on service in large numbers. Their high submerged speed threatened us with new problems, and would indeed, as Doenitz predicted, have revolutionized U-boat warfare. His plans failed mainly because the special material needed to construct these vessels became very scarce and their design had constantly to be changed.

When Doenitz ordered the U-boats to surrender no fewer than forty-nine were still at sea. Over a hundred more gave themselves up in harbour, and about two hundred and twenty were scuttled or destroyed by their crews. Such was the persistence of Germany's effort and the fortitude of the U-boat service.

The unconditional surrender of our enemies was the signal for the greatest outburst of joy in the history of mankind. The second World War had indeed been fought to the bitter end in Europe. The vanquished as well as the victors felt inexpressible relief. But for us in Britain and the British Empire, who had alone been in the struggle from the first day to the last and staked our existence on the result, there was a meaning beyond what even our most powerful and most valiant Allies could feel. Weary and worn, impoverished but undaunted and now triumphant, we had a moment that was sublime. We gave thanks to God for the noblest of all His blessings, the sense that we had done our duty.

When in these tumultuous days of rejoicing I was asked to speak to the nation I had borne the chief responsibility in our Island for almost exactly five years. Yet it may well be there were few whose hearts were more heavily burdened with anxiety than mine. After reviewing the varied tale of our fortunes I struck a sombre note which may be recorded here.

"I wish," I said, "I could tell you tonight that all our toils and troubles were over. Then indeed I could end my five years' service happily, and if you thought that you had had enough of me and that I ought to be put out to grass I would take it with the best of grace. But, on the contrary, I must warn you, as I did when I began this five years' task—and no one knew then that it would last so long—that there is still a lot to do, and that you must be prepared for further efforts of mind and body and further sacrifices to great causes if you are not to fall back into the rut of inertia, the confusion of aim, and the craven fear of being great.

"On the continent of Europe we have yet to make sure that the simple and honorable purposes for which we entered the war are not brushed aside or overlooked in the months following our success, and that the words 'freedom,' 'democracy,' and 'liberation' are not distorted from their true meaning as we have understood them. There would be little use in punishing the Hitlerites for their crimes if law and justice did not rule, and if totalitarian or police Governments were to take the place of German invaders. We seek nothing for ourselves. But we must make sure that those causes which we fought for find recognition at the peace table in facts as well as words, and above all we must labor to ensure that the World Organization which the United Nations are creating at San Francisco does not become an idle name, does not become a shield for the strong and a mockery for the weak. It is the victors who must search their hearts in their glowing hours, and be worthy by their nobility of the immense forces that they wield."

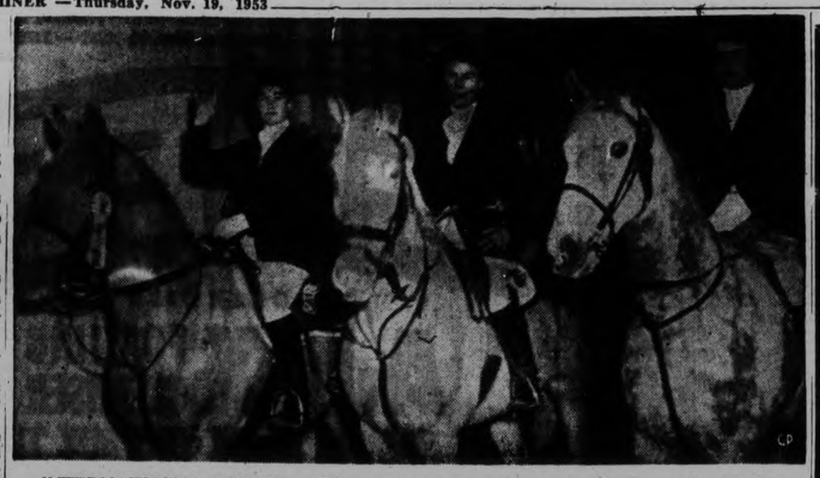
Canada Land Of Opportunities



CINCINNATI (CP) — Young Americans were urged Wednesday night to get their "covered wagons rolling again and come north" to cash in on big opportunities in Canada.

F. J. Lyle, director of Ontario's trade and industry branch, said in an address to the Cincinnati Council on World Affairs:

Canada presents greater opportunities for American investments, American industries and ambitious young Americans than any other country in the world.

"Canada's rate of growth since the war, measured by the accepted yardsticks of population, gross national production and capital investment has been greater than that of the United States. Canada's potential for the future is unlimited.

The United States had already invested vast amounts of money in Canadian development and had established hundreds of manufacturing plants.

Hands out to slip into some of the prettiest gloves in many a season, ranging from elaborately trimmed woolknits to evening leathers. White or palest pink or palest blue glace kid is used for a 12-button glove with pointed top and big half circles of tiny rhinestones and pearls above the wrist and up the arm.

Entirely new coats offer a nice change in sartorial pace. A black and white mohair and wool mixture makes a handsome coat done on narrowed lines, with collarless neckline, miniature back belt and easy sleeves finished with the narrowest of cuffs. The fabric is very deep-textured.

Lavish hats for after-dark doings are here from Paris. Dior does a cocktail cap in black silk velvet embroidered all over in heavy white braid and crowned with tiny branches and twigs of mobile rhinestones.

A boon to the college and career girl wardrobe is printed corduroy which offers something new and different at a sensible price. Black and white paisley printed corduroy does up into tapered pants and a sleeveless vest that offers all sorts of possibilities.

Long wanted is the dressy after-dark costume suit, but with a blouse or top that is detachable, allowing for variations through substitutions. Black broadcloth is used for one such suit, with the decollete blouse and asymmetric jacket collar, both of satin, and both removable. The jacket collar is flat, one side longer than the other, and is sequin embroidered. Satin is pale pink or pale blue.

That darling of the campus, the coat of alpaca pile—furry, comfy and warm—is better than ever this season, by virtue of finer styling. Done in black, grey or beige is a good full-length model with soft roll collar, yoke back and huge turn-back cuffs. Really dressiest in black!

A social hour was enjoyed with Mrs. William Renwick and Mrs. Stuart Graham as hostesses.

NOT HARD AT ALL—You can splurge on a fur collar or belt, add other accessories to your wardrobe and still keep a strict budget intact. Simply make some accessories yourself. You might try making a hat, bag and scarf set. With velveteen, you will find that the work will go easily. And, of course, the material is very practical. The girl here is making a pixie hat, underarm bag and ascot. She is styling the hat and bag with pointed tucking for a quaint touch. With the tucking attachment of her sewing machine, she cuts out the pattern. The set requires only a yard and a half of cotton-backed velveteen. Now (right), ready to step out in her new outfit, she adjusts hat at foyer mirror.

Staples gave a short paper on "Conservation of Foods and Food Values" also "Tenderizing of Meats."

Mrs. Challice gave a reading which outlined the origin of the poppy as a flower for Remembrance Day. A contest presented by Mrs. Braithwaite was won by Mrs. Armitage. The prize was a delicious box of homemade candy. A dainty lunch was served by Mrs. Braithwaite's group and a social time spent.

Do Your Own Trimming

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

Accessories are more important than ever this year. The simple, flowing lines of the new ensembles take beautifully to lavish touches. And never have leather, fur, velvet and angora vied so for the affections of the smartly groomed.

If you have no need for budgeting, you can freely indulge the current accesory whim. But even on a strict budget, you can add a few of these style notes to your wardrobe. And you don't have to settle for second best.

For the fur pieces, you might use some bits held over from discarded clothes. If you have none, hunt down a small item among the best furs. It may disturb your budget slightly, but you can make it up easily by making other accesories.

Another economical approach would be to substitute velveteen for velvet. It can be sewed on a machine and can be machine-washed.

Our suggestion is that you make a hat, bag and scarf ensemble in velveteen. A whimsical pixie hat in a gay color should add spice to any winter wardrobe.

You can make the three-piece set with just a yard and a half of cotton-backed velveteen, so you'll save several dollars. To prove it, add the cost of the expensive accessory you plan to buy to the usual price of your hats, bags and scarves. It's a lot higher than the sum of the fur and velveteen prices, isn't it?

For a quaint touch, we suggest that you style your ensemble with pointed tucking. This trim was used on quilts in great grandmother's time.

Use the tucking on both the hat and bag. The secret of success in this undertaking is to make the tucks before cutting the fabric. With this foreknowledge, and using the tucking attachment of your sewing machine, you will find the work amazingly easy.

In fact, when you have completed you own set, you might think of whipping up a couple for Christmas gifts. The mark of distinction lent by the tucking and the practical features of velveteen make the set a thoughtful gift.

Trinity Circle Deal With Attitude Toward Jews

Miss Marion Oddie and her group arranged the buffet supper enjoyed by members of Trinity Supper Circle prior to the meeting Monday evening in the ladies' parlor of Trinity United Church. President Miss Helen Thompson was chairman for business.

The 1954 slate of officers was approved as presented by chairman of the nominating committee, Mrs. K. Lee. The officers are: President, Mrs. S. Thomas; vice-president, Miss Marion Oddie; secretary, Mrs. Kenneth Lee; treasurer, Mrs. John Owen; literature and supply secretary, Miss Georgina MacMorran; group leaders, Misses Joan Lynch and Joan Walden.

The Christmas meeting will be held on December 21st, with supper in Trinity Hall. Members drew names for exchanging Christmas gifts. However, the gifts this year, either toys or small personal articles, will be in turn forwarded to port workers at Halifax for presentation to immigrants' children on their arrival in Canada. The secretary was instructed to write Miss Anne Coppethorne of Angola, the circle's missionary for prayer, to ask what type of bale articles she would find most useful, in order that the group may use this as one of their projects for the coming year.

Devotional leader was Miss Oddie, with prayer led by Mrs. John Owen and scripture read by Mrs. P. Brierly. The program dealt with the attitude of the Christians toward the Jews, and was introduced by a skit between a Christian missionary, taken by Mrs. Lee, and a Jewish metal salesman, taken by Miss Viola Moncrief.

Highlights of Jewish history were presented by Miss Joan Walden, showing that since the beginning of time the Jewish people have been persecuted by the Christians for no good reason. Jewish religious ceremonies were described by Miss Joan Lynch, with Miss Edith Nisbett describing Jewish burials. An interesting discussion period followed, during which it was decided that the attitude of Christians toward Jews is not a Christian attitude and that it leaves much to be desired.

Parents Visit With Teachers Before PCVS Tea

There may have been quite a few PCVS students started to school this morning with some words of advice on their studies from their mothers.

Wednesday afternoon the Home and School Association of the Collegiate held "open house" and this meant that all the parents might come and see the entire school for themselves, and might also go to their children's teachers and talk over with them the subjects being taken, and how they might be studied at home.

A surprisingly large number of parents did just this, some of them pausing for lengthy chats with the teachers. This procedure is proving to be also a great help to the teacher, and is to be hoped it will continue.

Student guides conducted the visitors through the school, and to the teachers' rooms which they desired to visit. They were under the leadership of Ronald Gell.

Afternoon tea was being served in the gymnasium where there were also tables of home baking and home-made candy for sale.

Mrs. Carlyle Ferguson convened the tea. The table was decorated for her by Mrs. R. Hutton and Mrs. Wm. Gordon and they used a white cloth and centred it with a bouquet of deep red carnations, flanked with silver candelabra holding white candles. They had handsome silver tea urns at each end for the pourers who were all wives of staff teachers, Mrs. H. J. Moebus, Mrs. David Brown, Mrs. A. J. Weames and Mrs. A. Shearer.

Mrs. H. J Long was the tea room hostess and her assistants were Mrs R. R. Faryon, Mrs. G. Simpson, Mrs. N. Gell, Mrs. A. Purdon, Mrs. H. Baptie, Mrs. W. J. Hardill, Mrs G. Batley, Mrs. R. Greenly, Mrs. H. Tudhope, Mrs. R. Morgan, Mrs. J. A. Stringer, Mrs. E. Collins, Mrs J Goldie, Mrs. J. Wood, Mrs. Lateau, Mrs. S. Darling, Mrs. N. Crowe, Mrs. R. Brown, Mrs. H. Dinsdale, Mrs J. Hornal and Mrs. W. J. Gordon.

Social conveners of the Association, Mrs. J. Goodson and Mrs. J. Law, were in charge of keeping the table supplied, and their assistants were Mrs. F. Dobson, Mrs. H. Pulleyblank, Mrs. W. Gaskin, Mrs. J. Lynch, Mrs. G. Rowbottom, Mrs. L. Raper, Mrs. J. Morley, Mrs. E MacDonald, Mrs J. Fawsett, Mrs. E. Woodhouse, Mrs. A. Glen, Mrs. E. McNabb, Mrs. W. H. Powell and Mrs J. Morton.

The candy table was convened by Mrs. J. Morrow and she was assisted by Mrs. Price Morris and Mrs. T. Pritchard. The bake table was convened by Mrs. O. J. Hayward and her assistants were Mrs. H. Hutchinson, Mrs. Clare Boorman, Mrs. Chas. Law, Mrs. T. Naish, Mrs. J. Jobe, Mrs. H. Tranter, Mrs. V. Skitch and Mrs. E. A. Outram

Mrs. P. A. Martyn, president of the PCVS Home and School Association, was assisted in receiving the tea guests by Mrs. C. S. Browne, wife of the principal. Finance convener Mrs. W. R. Young and Mrs. Wm. Sorrie were at the door.

Crowd Attends Guild Tea At St. George's

A large number of south-enders took advantage of the tea and bazaar at St. George's Anglican Church Wednesday afternoon for an excuse to get out on such a fine day.

Their presence was most gratifying to the members of the Afternoon Guild of the church who have this event each fall to make money for their work. President Mrs. F. Dorrell was the general convener and Mrs. W. Firth was in charge of tickets.

The newly formed Girl Guide Company had a table, selling plants and candy. Leader Mrs. H. Johnston was in charge with Guides Sharon Ferguson, Pamela Stevens, Norma Branson, Beverly and Carolyn Wilson assisting, and other Guides came after school.

The goods available on the "club cards" and for sale was displayed, with Mrs. J. Gaskell Sr. in charge of the towels and Mrs. A. Howarth the fancy goods. Mrs. C. Robingson had the aprons and knitted goods.

Mrs. S. H. Perks and Miss Geraldine Perks had charge of the "Country store" which offered a variety of grocery items. At the home baking table Mrs. W. Packenham and Mrs. J. Gaskell Jr. were handling sales.

Quartette tables, prettily laid, were set up for accommodation of guests in the tea room and they were served by Mrs. R. Stroud, Mrs. J. Drynan, Mrs. W. Dawson, Mrs. M. Holden and Mrs. W. Warren. Each guest received a small plate of sandwiches and cakes with their tea, all of which was prepared by Mrs. S. Robertson, assisted by Mrs. S. Parkes and Mrs. P. McDonald, Mrs. J. Morris and Mrs. W. McWilliams.

Mrs. Emily Cooke, an honorary member of the Guild and Mrs. H. J. Scuse, the rector's wife, received at the door.

SACRED HEART SCHOOL

The Parent-Teacher Association of the Sacred Heart Separate School met Tuesday Evening. Monsignor P. P. Butler, rector of the parish, opened with prayer. President Fred Whaley presided for business.

The door prize was won by Sister Anna Rita and the attedance prize by grade 7.

Mrs. Leo Collins reported on membership, showing 135 members. The president urged as many as possible to attend the nominations meeting, and a letter from the Study Group on Civic Affairs invited a represetation to the candidates' meeting on December 1st.

Minutes of the Diocesan P-TA meeting held at Coboconk recently were read.

A donation of $25. to the School for Retarded Children was unanimously approved. Monsignor Butler offered proceeds from the December draw of tickets to the P-TA, adding to it a Santa Claus booster, and it was decided to use the money to purchase a movie projector. Although the projector will belong mainly to the P-TA, other parish organizations will be able to use it on request.

Monsignor introduced the Rev. Father Hart, a guest at the meeting, and also the guest speaker, the Rev. Frank Miheilic.

Father "Frank's" topic was "Religion in the home". He remarked "It is surprising how many children start school life without any knowledge of God or religion." He went on to comment that up to this time his teachers have been his parents, and they should have seen that he was cared for spiritually as well as physically.

Everyone in the audience was impressed by the sincerity and the good diction used by this young priest who has been in Canada only two years. He also told them of hardships inflicted on him and his countrymen of Yugoslavia by the communists.

The closing statement by Father Frank, "Tell me what you read and I'll tell you what you are" was followed by a well deserved ovation. Mrs. D. Flynn then thanked him on behalf of the members.

A short film titled "Appreciation of parents" was then shown by Sister Dorothy.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. J. Johnston and committee.

Lady Senator Written 2550 Columns

VICTORIA (CP)—British Columbia's newly-appointed senator, Mrs. Nancy Hodges, has written her 2,550th and final column—"for the time being at least"—for the Victoria Daily Times.

The former speaker of the British Columbia legislature started a column "One Woman's Day" Oct. 5, 1943, and prior to that had a long and distinguished career as a newspaper woman.

"After being so long in the provincial sphere of public affairs," she wrote, "to find oneself suddenly elevated to the national scene. . . causes one a lot of heart-searching. It inspires a feeling of humility. . . and is a challenge. I only hope I shall be able to rise to that challenge and that I shall not let either the women or the men of British Columbia down.

"You will notice that I mention the women first, for it is to them that I chiefly owe this opportunity to broaden my scope of public service. Ever since I first entered political life in 1941, the women have consistently and loyally supported and encouraged me. And that even goes for the last election despite my defeat.

". . . Thank you and au revoir."

Girl Learns Good Behavior Doesn't Spoil Popularity

DEAR MISS DIX: I'm a high-school junior. Because of my strict bringing-up, I am rather different from most of the girls in school—they call me old-fashioned. According to my parents' theories, a young lady doesn't whistle, swear, drink, smoke, wear dungarees on the street or raise her voice. She should, they say, respect her elders, sit and stand with poise, know how to prepare a meal, how to sew, how to keep a house neat and orderly. Of course, there were many times when I thought my folks were being unfair to me, but now I am grateful for their teaching. I am as popular with the boys as any girl in my class, which proves that proper behaviour is no detriment to dating. I wish other girls could learn as much as I have.

LORETTA

A "WELL DONE" FOR PARENTS

ANSWER: Your Mom and Dad certainly are to be commended for the efforts they made in training their daughter. It isn't easy, at today's pace, to teach a daughter the things you have learned. Most young people resent being kept in doors while the rest of the gang is skating or playing games, so Mom finds it easier to shoo daughter from the kitchen rather than discuss why she should stay there. It's also difficult to impose rules of conduct that the rest of the crowd find completely opposed to their mode of living.

Yet, the uninhibited teenster eventually discovers that she lacks the poise, assurance, and graciousness that are the result of years of careful training. Confidence rarely comes automatically to a girl, but if she has been taught from childhood to do and say the right thing at the right time, to greet people properly, to engage in conversation without awkwardness, she has won a good part of the battle of life. More mothers should take the time to instil these principles of living into their daughters; they are invaluable assets.

Young ladies, as you described them, are by no means rarities. They are, perhaps, not so conspicuous as their less repressed sisters; hence their numbers may not be accorded the appreciation they really deserve. I'm sure, Loretta, your behaviour will serve as inspiration to other youngsters striving to improve their manners and attitudes. Do remember, though, to restrain any tendency to snobbishness or superiority. That would entirely defeat your purpose.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I'm a girl of 19 and very much in love with a boy the same age. He's away at college, but we see each other every weekend. We've been going steady for two years and want to postpone marriage until he finishes college. My friends say we are wrong. That we should get married now. They say when two people go together for so long they fall out of love. JULIA

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Who is to support the family if you marry now? Your husband or your friends? It's so easy for people to give gratuitous advice in the guise of "friendly opinion," but the true test of their sincerity lies in the question "what would they do in your position?" Since the responsibility falls on you and you fiance, the decision is up to you. If you truly love each other, your feelings won't change in a year and a half. The better part of discretion is to wait. You are both young enough to bear postponement.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I've been going with Jim for some time. We've made quite a few promises to each other, but I always seem to break mine. Now I want him to promise me something very important and he won't. He says I must give proof that I can live up to a pledge before he makes another one. D. I.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Since you put no value on a promise, why expect anyone else to do so? Even if your friend does accede to your wishes, he has no more obligation than you to keep his promise. Make your own word of honor mean something before exacting assurances from others.

HAIR DO'S AND DONT'S

By Carol Douglas famous beauty consultant

Hair styles, like clothes styles, change with the season. Swinging to one of this season's refreshing new fashions in hairdo's will brighten your whole personality.

DO start with a new home permanent — it makes a new hairdo so easy to set and to keep looking lovely.

And for your next permanent, use Toni Spin Curlers. They're twice as easy, twice as fast — and a permanent investment. Get a complete set including midget Spin Curlers for wispy necklins hair. Only $1.29.

DON'T expect every hair style to suit you perfectly. You can widen a thin face with soft curls at the sides, lower a high forehead with bangs in your hairdo.

DO take care of your hair, whatever style you choose. Brush daily, shampoo weekly. And for the beauty of soft water shampooing—even in hardest water — use Toni Creme Shampoo. It floods your hair with healthful lanolin lather. 4-oz jar, $1.00, 2-oz tube, 65¢.

DO keep your hair gleaming with highlights. Just 20 seconds with Toni Creme Rinse — the new invisible hair dressing—and your hair will be rich and lustrous...easy to comb and set...tamed and tangle-free from one shampoo to the next. 4-oz bottle, only 59¢.

TONI — world leader in hair research — guarantees these products for good hair care.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Making White Fruit Cake For Christmas Season

If you want to know what's going to be cooking in plenty of Canadian kitchens this month take a look at the letters on my desk.

There's an epidemic of Christmas cake—it is spread across the country. I'm infected too. The kitchen floor is what broke out in spots though — red too — but it was from me walking on a cherry.

Last week I gave you a medium-dark fruit cake recipe (November 12). This week I have a recipe for an elegant white fruit cake that you should make now, for if it is stored in a cold place for a month it slices in lovely neat sharp fingers that do not crumble or break.

SUPERIOR WHITE FRUIT CAKE

BATTER—¾ cup each butter and shortening (both should be room temperature), 2 cups white sugar, 1 tablespoon almond extract, 6 egg yolks, ½ cup each milk and pineapple juice, 6 egg whites, 1 teaspoon cream of tartar. Cream the butter and shortening until they are blended and very light, then pour the sugar over them and pour the almond extract over the sugar, let it soak into the sugar a minute, then cream the sugar into the butter until both are thoroughly blended and light and fluffy. Beat the egg yolks in very well. Sift all-purpose flour and measure 4 cups. Hold out ½ cup of this to sprinkle over the fruits and nuts (see below). Add the flour, about ⅓ of it at a time, alternately with the milk and fruit juice, beating well between additions. Beat the egg whites until foamy then sprinkle the cream of tartar over them and beat until the whites will hold their shape but are not stiff.

FRUITS AND NUTS—¾ lb. each blanched almonds and candied cherries (mixed green and red); ½ lb. each candied diced citron peel and very light bleached raisins, 1½ cups well drained diced or crushed canned pineapple. Mix these fruits and nuts together and dredge them with the half cup flour held out for the purpose.

Add the floured fruits to the batter, then fold the beaten egg whites in last.

Grease and line cake tins with 2 layers of heavy brown paper which is buttered too. A 10-inch tube pan will hold this batter or the 1 large and 1 medium-sized tins available for Christmas cakes. Pour batter into prepared tin or tins, pressing it toward sides and smoothing top. Bake at 275 deg. Fahr. This is very slow oven. Have waterpan in oven below cakes, with water in it at all times. Add boiling water to pan as it boils away. Stand pans at centre of oven. Large cake requires 3 hours at least—maybe a little more. Medium cake a little more than 2 hours. Let cakes cool in pans. When you remove them from pans let them cool some more on cake racks. Wrap in wax paper. Do not remove brown paper. Wrap again in heavy towelling. Store in tightly covered tin box or crock until Christmas.

✧ ✧ ✧

LETTER—. . . in your column you have scalloped potatoes . . . may I suggest that it is the adding of the salt that makes the unboiled milk curdle? My method is: Allow the milk to come to a boil (over the potatoes) then sprinkle with salt over the top, and it works down in with the process of boiling. I hope you will find this helps. I know I never have milk curdle when I do it this way. Lillie E. W.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER— Thank you Lillie. If I interpret this method correctly you pour boiled milk over the sliced potatoes and bring them to a boil on top of stove. (Those who bake scalloped potatoes in glass or earthen baking dishes, would have to do this precooking in a metal utensil.) Then they are sprinkled with salt and transferred to oven to bake and become tender. Right? This is what I did and as you say the milk did not curdle.

Film Workshop Aids Leaders

The three-day film workshop held at the public library the first part of this week, was considered a success by librarian William Graff. Although attendance for the three nights totalled only 117, many of the larger industries and associations were represented.

"Leaders and leaders of leaders made up most of the attending body, and they will no doubt carry the knowledge gained to their own organizations."

Monday evening the work shop discussed the proper use of films. Each film is made with a purpose in mind, and, especially in the educational field, these films should not be chosen haphazardly. Every film shown to an organization should have some connection with the interests and ends of that organization.

AUDIO-VISUAL AID

Bruce Adams, director of the Teaching Aids Centre, in Toronto, addressed the group, Tuesday. His subject was audio-visual aids in education. The general aim of this field of education is to diminish the amount of massed reading and replace it with pictures and sound. Especially in child education, this medium of teaching results in greater comprehension in less time. The centre in Toronto is now producing films for this purpose.

Another phase of Mr. Adams' talk was directed toward the use of the tape recorder. One of the most important uses is the playing back of one's own voice. Diction and tone is easily improved in this manner, as the speaker knows exactly what his own voice sounds like. The mistakes are magnified by the recorder and the result is better speech, quickly.

FILM ON SAFETY

The workshop closed Wednesday night with a film on safety and accident prevention in industry, and a discussion on speed reading. It is possible to attain a speed of 1,400 words a minutes with the proper training, whereas the average reading speed is 280 words a minute.

Not only is the speed of reading increased by this training, but the comprehension will jump from the average 50 percent to about 80 percent. An eight week course now being given to the technical staff at the CGE has resulted in a 55 word increase in less than three weeks.

Hunger Strike As Protest

TEHRAN (AP) — Mohammed Mossadegh today threatened a hunger strike to the death as chief prosecutor Hossein Azemodeh asked a court-martial to send the former premier to the gallows.

It was the 73-year-old ex-dictator's second suicide threat since the army court began trying him Nov. 8.

He voiced his threat to quit eating today after Asemodeh threatened to put him in solitary confinement if he continued to complain about his food, living conditions, and alleged attempts on his life.

Mossadegh shouted to the court that his life was in danger in prison, that he had been threatened "for the last two nights," and that the "army will kill me in the prison itself."

"It will be no use your acting after I'm dead," he asserted.

"The army will protect you," Gen. Nasrollah Moghbeli, the chairman of the five-man tribunal, replied.

Sound Of

is falling far behind growing public irritation with aircraft noise. About all the industry can do is try to educate the public to get used to it.

CAN DO LITTLE

Research to date on jet noise piles up more evidence that there is very little that can be done about it. It's called "white noise" —from the term white light—because it embodies a full band of frequencies from highest to lowest pitch.

The noise of a jet engine only accounts for a few pounds of thrust, NACA scientists have discovered. But there's no way to separate it from the pure power. It is a simple equation, they admit: more power equals more noise.

One spokesman for a leading plane maker says frankly:

"Nothing can stop the trend toward more jet aircraft in the air with more power. It's going to produce more noise. And the best idea we have come up with yet as a solution is to distribute free ear plugs and cotton. That's not kidding, either."

Parents and visitors were later given the opportunity to meet teachers and look over the school.

Tribesmen Vote

JUBA, The Sudan (AP)—Tribesmen swarmed out of the Sudan hills Wednesday in leopard skin war dress—but they came to ballot not to battle. The deadly tribal spears and long bows were left behind as the warriors gathered in big bamboo huts to cast their votes in The Sudan's first general election. Voting has been under way since Nov. 2, with various areas taking turns.

Industry's Share

drop in the amount of provincial grants available for secondary schools. If this does happen, it will not take effect until 1955, however.

Two of the grants to academic high schools and voactional schools vary according to the assessment per capita, which is obtained by dividing the total assessment by the total population. The higher the result, the lower the grant.

AVERAGE ATTENDANCE

These two grants are based on the average attendance of resident pupils. With an assessment of between $1,050 and $1,100 per capita, Peterborough is reckoned to be entitled to a grant of $48 for each resident pupil of academic high school and $78 for vocational schools next year.

But it is expected that the increase in the total assessment will raise the assessment per capita above $1,100 and thus entitle the city to lower grants in each of those two cases.

This will affect only a portion of the educational grants available, however, and, in any case, will not take effect until 1955, as the grants are based on the assessment used prior to the current tax year. Thus, while the 1953 assessment will be used in determining the 1954 taxes, the 1952 assessment will be used in determining the 1954 grants.

It was a desire on the part of the provincial government to establish uniform assessment methods throughout the province, in fact, that led to their encouragement of re-assessment so that there might be an equitable basis of apportioning such grants.

CONTROVERSY

Any regular newspaper reader should be well aware that the process of re-assessment has raised storms of controversy in centres as different in size at St. Thomas and the greater Toronto area. While it is perhaps a bit harsh to describe previous assessment methods as "guess-work," as some critics have done, the personal judgment of the local assessor has usually been the most important factor.

After studying the methods advocated by the provincial government as applied to the re-assessment of Peterborough, the writer is convinced that most of the controversy throughout the province has been due to a failure on the part of the public to understand the methods being used and the principles on which they are based.

In the subsequent series of articles on this subject, an attempt will be made to explain how Peterborough has been re-assessed.

William McNott

Funeral services from Nisbett's funeral home were conducted Tuesday by Archdeacon C. W. Balfour for the late William Manson McNott, 332 Burnham St., who died in city hospital Saturday, in his 53rd year, after a lengthy illness.

Pallbearers were Jack, Albert, Kenneth and William Downer, Walter Moore and Percy Sweeting. Flower bearers were Gary McColl, Robert Sweeting, Robert Moore, William Moore, Charles Sweeting and Ireneaus Morgan.

Burial was in Little Lake cemetery.

Mau Maus Get Heavy Bombing

NAIROBI, Kenya (Reuters) — Three British Lincoln bombers dropped 17 500- and 1,000-pound bombs on Mau Mau hideouts in the Aberdare forests Wednesday, it was announced today.

This was the opening phase of experimental heavy bombing operations against hard-core terrorist gangs in the Aberdares and Mount Kenya areas, which a squadron of the RAF will continue in the next few weeks, the squadron's commanding officer said.

The seven Lincolns forming the squadron are carrying out the program "designed to help the army by getting Mau Mau gangs out of the thick forest areas into the reserves and more open country where they can be tracked and pursued more easily," Sqdn. Ldr. Alan E. Newitt said.

Name Chairman Of Authority

OTTAWA (CP)—Reeve Charles McMillan of Chesterville was elected chairman of the South Nation river conservation authority at a meeting here Wednesday.

The authority includes 28 municipalities in the counties of Carleton, Leeds, Grenville, Dundas, Stormont, Glengarry, Prescott and Russell.

Rene Boileau, warden of the United Counties of Prescott and Russell, was elected vice-president. Named to the executive committee were Ferdinand Larose of Plantagenet; Orville Seeley, reeve of Matilda township; Walter Moffatt, reeve of Winchester village, and G. G. Landry, reeve of Clarence township. Alderman Alexander Rogers, former reeve of Gloucester township, continues as secretary-treasurer.

1,000 Firms Use Radioactive Materials

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP) — A United States atomic energy commission spokesman said today that more than 1,000 firms in the U. S. already are using radioactive materials to improve industrial processes.

Dr. George G. Manov, assistant director of the office of industrial development of the AEC, said "practically all the information industry needs" is non-secret.

Among the uses of radioactive cobalt-60, a material he said is used comparatively widely, he he listed detection of flaws in castings and welds, measurement of flow of oil in pipelines, control of oil refining processes and accurate analysis of quantities of impurities in oil refining.

BOAC Orders Five Jets For Atlantic Service

LONDON (Reuters). — British Overseas Airways Corporation has ordered five super-jetliners for a transatlantic fleet that will have the same long-term work capacity as the liner Queen Mary—97,000 passengers a year.

The order, an initial one, was announced today by de Havillands, makers of the Comet jet.

The BOAC jetliners will be the Comet Series III, also ordered by Pan American Airways. The planes will carry 58 passengers at cruising speeds of "better than 500 m. p. h." and over non-stop stages of 2,500 miles.

Oshawa Youth 19 Jailed For 3 Months

OSHAWA (CP) — Vincent Gorman, 19, of Oshawa was sentenced today to three months in jail for dangerous driving in an accident in which Marion Bryan of Oshawa suffered a broken pelvis.

He was also fined $100 or an additional three months for having liquor in a public place. Police said the accident happened Oct. 3 when Gorman was driving four girls home from a dance.

VON Seeks Larger Share Of Community Chest Funds

The Victorian Order of Nurses' board feel that their share of the community chest fund is less than it should be. The VON is continually saving the city money, an example of which was given by Harriett McGeary, head nurse on the VON staff.

The VON lost 11 patients through death in the past ten months. All of these had been receiving free nursing care. The total number of visits made to these patients was about 950, and would ordinarily cost about $2750. If these patients had been cared for in hospitals, the cost, at $10 a day, would have been in the vicinity of $10,000.

"It would be interesting to know if any other members of the community chest could show figures to equal, in strictly monetary value, this service," she said.

Miss McGeary further pointed out, that the figures previously mentioned represented only 11 patients. Many were, and are, receiving free nursing aid, because they cannot afford to pay. But expenses must be met. During the month of October, the VON admitted 50 new patients and made 363 visits.

The board approved the hiring of Mrs. Mary McDougall, a recetn graduate of Civic Hospital, who will replace VON nurse Lenore Mathers. Miss Mathers has received a transfer and will report for duty with the VON in Calgary on December 1.

President, Ald. Pat Anglesey, was given permission of the board to choose a committee of three for the purpose of purchasing a new car for VON service. The present model is considered in too poor a condition for winter driving.

Served 25 Years With Board Of Works

For his long service of 25 years and six months as an employee of the board of works, Archie Ackison of Smith township is to receive a letter of appreciation from the city council.

Mayor Waddell's suggestion was adopted by the finance committee Monday night in receiving a report that Mr. Ackison's pension will amount to $1,245.86. Included in that sum is $170 government annuity, leaving the city's pension at $89.65 a month.

City Clerk Outram recalled that Mr. Ackison had given notice of retirement six months ago. "He was a most faithful and valuable employee," Mr. Outram said.

Accumulated sick leave provided Mr. Ackison with 77 days at home on full pay. That period ends Dec. 1 Next.

New Prevention Idea For Road Accidents

KITCHENER (CP)—Judge John D. Watts of Detroit says accidents can be prevented by removing unsafe drivers from the road—and it won't cost anyone a cent.

He told the North Waterloo Automobile Club Wednesday night that Michigan proposes legislation to give each driver a lifetime licence number. Traffic violations by each driver would be added up and when they reached the allowable total, his licence would be cancelled.

Judge Watts is noted for his "model" traffic court and concern with highway safety.

He said it is unfair to malign all teen-aged drivers because of a few. Young persons were mentally and physically the best drivers and lacked only experience.

Urges Vigilance Against A-War

OTTAWA (CP)—Senator M. B. Jodoin (L'—Quebec), Wednesday appealed for constant vigilance by the United Nations to prevent an atomic war.

Launching the throne speech debate in the Senate, Mrs. Jodoin said the UN should constantly keep watch over manufacture of such "diabolical" instruments as atomic bombs which "bring nothing but a life of nervous tensions and anguish."

Senator Jodoin was the first woman to move the address in reply to the throne speech in Parliament. Senator Muriel McQueen Fergusson (L—New Brunswick) seconded the motion.

Gave $400,000 For Library Begun In Oshawa

In laying the cornerstone of the Oshawa public library Monday, for which he is giving $400,000 covering its construction and complete equipment, Col. R. S. McLaughlin recalled the inspiration of his gift.

"While I do not carry a union card, I have laid this stone the best I could," he said. "This occasion was really brought about by a good citizen of ours, Tom Wilson (a member of the library board and publisher of The Times-Gazette). One day we were talking and lamenting the fact that the bylaw to build a library had failed to carry. Tom said to me, "Mr. Sam, it would be a great idea if you built a library for Oshawa." That was a bit of an order, but I said I would give it some thought. Not long after, I called Mr. Wilson and said "Start the machinery going."

The site was provided by the city of Oshawa. The Times-Gazette reports: "Mr. McLaughlin's voice choked a bit as he affirmed the genuine pleasure it gave him "to leave behind a memento in my beloved home town."

He recalled that he moved to Enniskillen with his parents at the age of four, that he always loved this city, always held it up to the skies and always would." He expressed the hope that the new library "will be a comfortable and pleasant place for every man, woman and child in Oshawa."

The Rotary Club presented him Monday night with a pair of gold cuff links bearing the emblem of Rotary.

The old library was built for a town of 5,500, and it was said on Monday that the city's library accommodation has cost the municipality from then to the present only $15,000 in its physical plant.

Gets $11,790 For Accident

COCHRANE (CP) — Ernest Edward White of South Porcupine Wednesday was awarded $11,790 from the unsatisfied judgment fund for injuries suffered when he was struck by a car last year.

The 59-year-old miner had both legs broken and head injuries. The driver of the car sped from the scene.

In another action, Ronald Godard was awarded $9,364 damages against Konstanti Zaluski. Godard was struck by a car driven by Zaluski Sept. 22, 1952.

10,500 Idle In October

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — District superintendent Leo A. Sweeney of the employment division of the New York state labor department said Wednesday that 10,500 factory workers were idle in this area in mid-October, and a further downward slide in factory employment can be expected in coming months.

"Generally limited layoffs" were being planned or considered in primary metals, machinery, electrical machinery, consumer chemicals and rubber plants.

The October unemployment total was about two per cent of the area's labor force.

Trade Organization Under Fire Of Eden

LONDON (AP)—Foreign Secretary Eden charged Wednesday a controversial British trade organization is part of "an international network of similar committees" set up under Red guidance after the 1952 Moscow economic conference.

Eden made the charge when asked by a Labor member of the House of Commons to back up an earlier statement that the British Council for Promotion of International Trade was a "Communist-front organization mainly concerned with the dissemination of Communist propaganda."

Lord Boyd Orr, noted food scientist and Nobel Peace Prize winner who is chairman of the council, said it was "nonsense" to call the organization a Red front.

The council issued a statement denying it was "concerned with political matters."

Get Second Request For Gouzenko

Don't Expect Gov't To Change Answer To U.S.

OTTAWA (CP) — External affairs officials today were considering a fresh request that Igor Gouzenko be made available for questioning by investigators for a U.S. Senate sub-committee on internal security.

The request, the second of its kind, came through diplomatic channels this morning. Its contents have not been made known but some announcement concerning it and the government's reply may be given the House of Commons later today.

Some days ago a similar request was made in the same manner and the reply was that the Canadian government believed Igor Gouzenko, the former Russian embassy cipher clerk who left his post in 1945 with evidence that exposed a widespread espionage ring in Canada, had nothing further to divulge.

SAME REPLY SEEN

In the Commons Thursday, External Affairs Minister Pearson told a questioner that if a second request was received it probably would receive the same answer unless it contained evidence that Mr. Gouzenko had something further to reveal.

An initial request from the Jenner and McCarthy committees investigating subversive activities in the U.S. recently met with the department's reply there would be no point in a Gouzenko interview since the Russian had given all information he had to Canadian authorities.

John Diefenbaker (PC—Prince Albert) asked Mr. Pearson if there was any probability of a change in mind by Canadian officials.

Mr. Pearson replied:

"If it were made," he said, "I would think that, unless it contained new information or new factors bearing on the case, there would be no reason to change our decision."

While Gouzenko is under guard of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and is a special ward of the Canadian government, there is no barrier to him seeing any person he chooses to see.

It is understood the RCMP have reasons for not wanting Gouzenko in the limelight of an investigating committee. These reasons, it is understood, have nothing to do with evidence he might give.

FOR YEARS OF SERVICE as secretary of the Peterborough Red Cross and Community Fund, T. A. Mackay received a clock from the fund committee Thursday night. The presentation, in recognition of his work, was made by Mayor Hugh Waddell at the annual meeting in the city hall. Mayor Waddell said in making the presentation, "When you think of community chest, you think of T. A. Mackay". Mr. Mackay receives the clock (above) from Mayor Waddell, while Alex Elliott, fund chairman, looks on. (Examiner Staff Photo)

Trying To Get New Car Lawyer Tells House

OTTAWA—(CP)—A member of Parliament has charged a fellow member with trying to get a new car from the Chrysler Corporation of Canada by "a form of legal blackmail".

Don Brown (L-Essex West) used the term Thursday night in the Commons after referring to a speech made Tuesday by George S. White (PC-Hastings Frontenac). He later withdrew the remark at the speaker's request.

Mr. White, a Madoc lawyer, had criticized the Chrysler Corporation in the Commons for not replacing an alleged defective car purchased by a client of his law firm. He described the car as a "lemon" and said the company provides no guarantee on its new cars.

'LEGAL BLACKMAIL'

Mr. Brown said the "client" was Mr. White himself and added:

"I certainly abhor the use of this forum to try to get a new car . . . It is a form of legal blackmail and is certainly to be abhored by the members of this House."

Mr. White was not in the chamber during the speech. Howard Green (PC-Vancouver - Quadra) objected to the phrase "legal blackmail" and Mr. Brown withdrew it at the request of Speaker Rene Beaudoin.

Mr. Beaudoin also stopped Mr. Brown when he attempted to read correspondence between the Chrysler Corporation and Mr. White dealing with complaints about a car purchased by the Hastings Frontenac member.

HAD NO RECORD

Mr. Brown, a lawyer in Windsor, said the corporation had no record of correspondence about complaints by a client of Mr. White.

U.S. To Exchange Some A-Data With U.K., Canada

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States is arranging to exchange information with Canada and Britain on the "effects of atomic weapons on human beings and their environment." The swap of data between the wartime atomic partners will "not involve information as to weapons design and development," the atomic energy commission said in a statement. It noted that AEC chairman Lewis Strauss had referred to this "additional exchange" in an address at Richmond, Va., Thursday night. In that speech, Strauss said the exchange would be "for the purpose of improving our ability to defend ourselves against the effects of atomic weapons."

DOESN'T KNOW

An AEC information spokesman said he had no knowledge as to whether a "definite meeting" had been arranged among representatives of the three nations.

"The exchange could be carried on by mail. I don't know," he said.

In using the term "additional" atomic information, the AEC statement offered no detail on what type of information is exchanged at the present time.

Blizzards, Fog Strike Many Countries

By REUTERS NEWS AGENCY

Gales and snowstorms struck from the Far East to the normally-sunny Mediterranean area today, bringing a death toll of at least nine in Egypt, and inflicting heavy damage.

In Japan a blizzard swept down out of the north to block roads and disrupt communications in many areas of Hokkaido and the main island of Honshu. The Middle East was gripped in the onslaught of abnormally-early winter.

The first November's snow in Syria's history almost isolated Damascus Thursday night and blocked all major roads. Thousands of Arab refugees of the 1948 Holy Land war shivered in their tents.

Heavy snow was reported in the mountain areas of Cyprus for the second night in succession.

Alexandria harbor was closed to shipping when a northwesterly gale lashed Egypt's Mediterranean seaboard and the Nile delta. Traffic through the Suez Canal was delayed.

NINE KILLED

Nine persons were killed and 25 injured when two houses collapsed during the Alexandria storm.

An icy 70 mile-an-hour wind ripped off roofs, toppled trees and paralyzed streetcar and bus services in lower Egypt, traditional land of sunshine

In Europe, shipping in the Loire estuary has been paralyzed for 48 hours. France has had night and morning fog for 15 days and daytime fog for a week.

Fog delayed early flights today from London airports to Paris, Nice, Brussels and Rome. Incoming services were also held up.

Queen, Duke Observe 6th Anniversary

LONDON (Reuters) — It was "happy anniversary" at Buckingham Palace today as the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh observed their sixth wedding anniversary.

Last minute preparations for their departure next Monday to New Zealand and Australia prevented any special celebrations. A party tonight at the palace for members of the government and their wives is more in the nature of a semi-official send-off.

Palace circles admit that preparations for the Royal tour have upset the Royal Family's personal life, and forced them to sandwich in their private treats wherever they can.

Thus a theatre date earlier this week took the place of a night out they might have had on their anniversary. Prince Charles' fifth birthday party had to be postponed because his parents were in the country for a final week-end of relaxation.

Their wedding in Westminster Abbey, Nov. 20, 1947, when Elizabeth was 21 and Phillip 26, was the most glittering event Britain had known since the war. They have been together for all but one anniversary since, though celebrations have always been on a modest scale.

On their first anniversary Elizabeth was still recovering from the birth of Prince Charles six days before. For the second she flew to Malta where the duke was on navy duty, and cut a three-tier cake in the presence of a group of sailors.

The third anniversary was spent apart, with Philip still on naval duty in the Mediterranean, and Elizabeth helping to entertain Queen Juliana of the Netherlands, who was on an official visit to London.

Their fourth anniversary fell the day after they returned from their tour of Canada. Last year, with Princess Margaret and some friends, they went to the theatre.

Armed Forces Get Pay Boost

OTTAWA (CP)—Defence Minister Claxton today announced basic pay boosts for all armed forces personnel, ranging from $5 a month for the lowest rank to $100 a month for the top officer rank. The basic pay boosts, first in two years, become effective Dec. 1. They will cover all of Canada's 165,000 armed forces personnel, including about 60,000 reserve officers and men in the three services. Officials estimated that the increases will amount to about $27,000,000 a year, pushing Canada's armed forces annual pay bill to more than $300,000,000. The increases roughly amount to 10 per cent for other ranks and 8½ per cent for officers.

A man entering the army, navy or air force as ordinary seaman, private or aircraftman second class will have his monthly basic pay increased to $92 from $87.

Pay for a sergeant in the army or air force or petty officer, class II in the navy will be jumped by $15 a month to $144 from $129.

Basic pay for a lieutenant in the army, sub-lieutenant in the navy or flying officer in the air force will rise by $20 a month to $230 from $210.

Pay for an army captain, navy lieutenant or air force flight lieutenant will increase by $35 a month to $290.

A colonel's pay, and RCAF and navy equivalents, will jump by $60 a month to $615; a major-general's pay, and other service equivalents, by $100 a month to $981.

FOLLOW INDUSTRIAL LEVEL

Mr. Claxton said the boosts are in line with a policy of maintaining armed forces rates on a level with those in industrial employment.

"Under the new rates of pay men in the forces will have decidedly better prospects of achieving higher incomes with length of service and development of earning power through trade training or capacity to take on the responsibilities of non-commissioned officer rank," he said in a statement.

While the starting pay for a single man at camp will rise to $92 a month from $87, single personnel who are eligible for subsistence allowance — pay for room and board in cities — will have their monthly pay jumped to $153 from $148.

Guaranteed Annual Wage Major CIO Bargaining Goal

CLEVELAND (AP)—Walter Reuther was elected by acclamation today to his second term as president of the 5,000,000-member CIO. Executive vice-president John V. Riffe, secretary-treasurer J. B. Carey and eight vice-presidents also were assured of re-election without a contest. The elections ended the CIO's five-day convention.

Before the elections, the convention adopted a resolution throwing the CIO's full weight behind a wage for members of affiliated unions.

Either Reuther's United Auto Workers or David J. McDonald's Steel Workers Union is expected to lead he campaign or he guaranteed annual wage—with the odds favoring the auto workers to take the initiative.

A resolution favoring employer payment of a full year's jobless pay for workers becoming unemployed also was to be considered by the 700 delegates today. There was little doubt it would receive quick approval.

MAJOR 1955 AIM

Reuther's own auto workers' union has plugged for the guaranteed wage as a major aim in 1955 when its present long-term contracts with the industry expire. The CIO's other million-member union, the steel workers, will demand the guaranteed wage in 1954 contract negotiations.

"The average worker does not know from week to week when his job will suddenly stop," CIO officers told the convention. "Yet his family still must be fed and clothed and housed.

"By negotiating guaranteed annual wage agreements from wealthy corporations, CIO unions can enable workers to plan ahead with the knowledge they will have steady incomes, thus bringing new security to workers' homes and greater economic stability to the nation."

CAN REDUCE LIABILITY

CIO leaders said employers can reduce their liability for such plans by the amount workers may receive in state unemployment compensation payments.

Management groups have attacked the guaranteed-wage idea, contending it could bankrupt individual employers lacking control over factors needed to maintain year-round production and employment.

One More Day Of Mild Spell

TORONTO (CP)—The unseasonal warm spell moved into its 11th day over much of eastern Canada today.

The weatherman said it will probably end in the Maritimes tomorrow. Southern Ontario and Quebec would get temperatures of 60 or more at least today and Saturday, with plenty of sunshine.

Winter blew into northern Ontario Thursday night. Points north of Kirkland Lake got one to three inches of snow, followed today by rain. At Earlton, 30 miles south of Kirkland Lake, temperatures dropped 30 degrees overnight. The high Thursday was 61 and the high expected today 40.

While residents of Kapuskasing in northern Ontario contended with a blizzard Thursday, maritime centres were chalking up the warmest Nov. 19 on record. It was 66 at Halifax, 58 at Yarmouth and 65 at Halifax. Temperatures are expected to drop about 20 degrees Saturday when cold winds blow down from Labrador.

Temperatures on the Prairies and in British Columbia continued about normal.

Isley Refuses Be Candidate

KITCHENER (CP)—T. H. (Ted) Isley of Breslau, president of the Ontario CCF Association, said today he will not be a candidate for provincial leader of the CCF.

A convention to choose a leader to succeed E. B. Jolliffe opens in Toronto tonight.

Mr. Isley, a former member of the Ontario legislature for Waterloo South, said a Toronto group was anxious to nominate him for the leadership.

GE Suspends Two Workers

BOSTON (AP) — The General Electric Company has suspended two employees who were named as Communists by an undercover agent at a stormy hearing of Senator Joseph McCarthy's Red-hunting committee.

Taken abruptly off the General Electric payroll Thursday night were Robert Goodwin, 38, and Nathaniel Mills, 36, both long-time employees of the GE's River Works plant in Lynn.

They were pointed out as card-carrying Communists by William H. Teto, 53, who said he joined the Communist party in 1941 at the request of the FBI.

Goodwin and Mills nearly precipitated a riot in the hearing room when they fought ejection after refusing to take the stand to deny or affirm the accusation against them.

Safe-Blasters Get £10,000 At Studio

IVER, England (Reuters) — A gang of safe-blasters made a getaway today under cover of early morning fog after snatching £10,000 pay money from J. Arthur Rank's busy Pinewood film studios.

The thieves are believed to have squeezed through a hedge and used the fog as cover for the quarter-mile approach to the studio pay office.

31 Stranded In Blizzard

DENVER, Col. (AP)—Two cross-country buses with a total of 31 passengers were stranded in eastern Colorado today as winds whipped powdery snow into seven and eight-foot drifts.

All passengers ere reported safe. No fresh snow was falling.

A Trailways System bus with 14 persons aboard, Denver-bound from Kansas City, stalled in a ground blizzard west of Joes, Colo., on U. S. Highway 36. A snowplow sent to free the vehicle also became stuck.

The bus was later reported bucking the drifts and had travelled within a quarter mile of Joes, a small town 126 miles east of Denver.

A second Trailways bus with 17 passengers, eastbound from Denver to St. Louis, ran off the highway into a snowbank just west of Joes as the driver attempted to pass a stalled automobile.

A snowplow freed this bus after two hours and the passengers settled down in a Joes cafe to wait for plows to reopen the highway.

Belleville Man Dies In Collision

STIRLING (ENS) — George Holgate, 38, of 15 Greenlawn Ave., Belleville, was killed instantly early today when his car collided with a transport truck, three miles east of Belleville on Highway No. 2.

His wife, Verna, was injured in the crash and is undergoing treatment in Belleville hospital. The Inter-City transport truck driver escaped uninjured.

Provincial police are still investigating.

France Hopes To Get Precise Guarantees

PARIS (Reuters)—Foreign Minister Georges Bidault said today France is trying to obtain "precise guarantees" that British and American troops will remain in Europe after ratification of the European Army plan.

"All I can say today is that negotiations are progressing favorably," Bidault told the National Assembly.

He said the subject will be fully discussed at the Big Three Bermuda talks in which he and Premier Joseph Laniel will participate.

Bank Clerk Jailed Year For Theft

TORONTO (CP) — Bank clerk Andrew Johnston-Cantrell, 24, was sentenced today to a year in reformatory for defrauding the Canadian Bank of Commerce of $14,601.

Police said he used part of the money for a trip to the Coronation.

"He hasn't any money left and no restitution has been made," said crown counsel David Humphrey. "He must be quite a spendthrift."

Victim of Jealous Husband's Wrath

Don Juans Get Warning From Lindsay Courtship

LINDSAY (ENS)—Here's some advice to lovers: If you are intent on courting another man's wife, never let your legs get in the way of his car. He may run over them.

The tale of the eternal triangle had a Gallic flavor of violence as told to Victoria county council Thursday when the question came up of who should pay the hospital bill of the victim of a jealous husband's wrath.

The Don Juan of the story was in his sixties and an inmate of the county home for the aged. Some years ago he had drifted around the county, covering about four different townships in his travels.

In the course of his journeys he began to pay court to a Fenelon Falls widow, who did not appreciate his manifestations of affection, according to County Clerk Frank Weldon.

Shortly afterwards, following complaints by the widow, the reeve of Fenelon township persuaded the man to register in the county home. He went of his own volition and has resided there for the last four years. In the meantime, the widow remarried.

Last summer he was given a week's leave from the institution with the stipulation that he would not visit the widow. Unwisely for him, as it turned out, he failed to heed the provision and resumed his courting.

The incensed husband threatened the man several times and finally gave him a time limit to leave the house. On arriving home one day after the deadline he found the man sitting on the lawn with his legs in the driveway.

According to Fenelon Reeve Wilbert Worsley, the husband had previously threatened to shoot the man but now saw an opportunity to avenge himself in a less orthodox way. He drove his car into the driveway and over the man's legs.

The patient was taken to Ross Memorial Hospital in Lindsay, where he incurred a bill of some $201 in 67 days. As the patient was an indigent, the question arose as to who was responsible for half the amount, since the county guaranteed the other half.

None of the reeves of the four municipalities where he had dwelt temporarily from time to time were willing to accept the burden of payment, although one of them offered 25 per cent of the balance.

The incident was finally officially closed when county council decided to pay the whole amount.

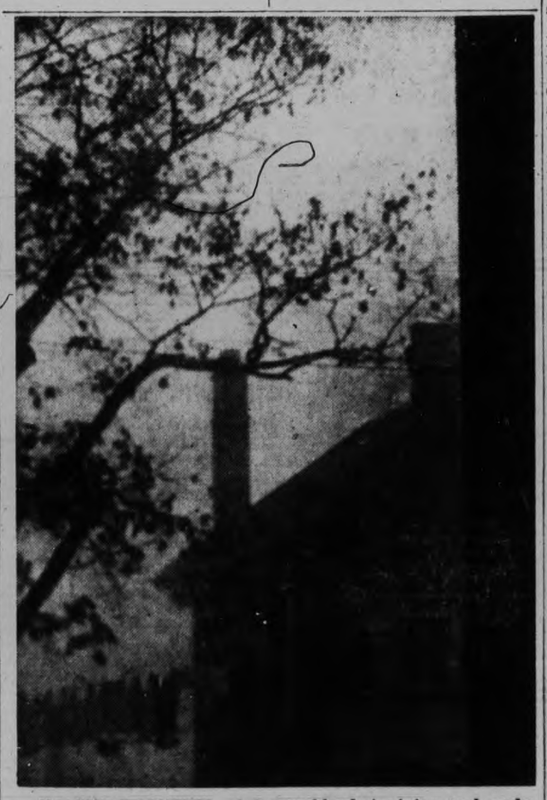
Doctor Contracts Polio Trying To Save Baby

NEW WESTMINSTER, B. C. (CP)—Dr. Frank E. Kinsey, 40-year-old obstetrics and gynecology specialist, is a victim of poliomyelitis, possibly contracted when he tried to save the life of a dying baby.

Twelve days ago he used a glass tube to send his breath down a sick baby's throat. The child died of polio.

Mrs. Kinsey said, after her husband had come down with the disease: "He didn't tell me the baby was a polio case until several days later. I think he didn't want me to worry because of our four children."

Bidault Seems Near Collapse



PARIS (AP) — Foreign Minister Georges Bidault appeared on the verge of collapse when he appeared before the National Assembly today in a foreign policy debate. Bidault was helped from the platform after he had read only a third of his prepared address.

The 54-year-old foreign minister is scheduled to depart for Bermuda in 10 days with Premier Joseph Laniel for the three-power conference. When he got up to speak today he rested both hands on the speaker's stand. He spoke with unusual slowness.

As he went on, the words came more and more slowly. Finally, as deputies noticed that he apparently was in trouble, Socialist Max Lejeune asked for a suspension of the session.

Bidault seemed not to immediately comprehend what had happened. He was aided down the steps and into the office of Premier Laniel.

The foreign minister, who has been under an extreme pressure of work, was reported to have been up all night preparing his address. As one cabinet minister put it, "He has been on the bridge throughout this debate."

NO SMOG MASKS?—A heavy blanket of fog and early morning smoke from city industries covered the city today. Since the latest fad in England, smog masks, recommended for use against pollution of air with a mixture of fog and industrial smoke, haven't reached Peterborough yet, workers were forced to go unmasked through the fog. The sun had a difficult time burning through the mist and at one time, about 8 a.m., was only a white ball, low in the eastern sky. The sun, a ball, is shown between branches (above photo) in the dull fog.— (Examiner Staff Photo)

Government May Act To Halt Strike

LONDON (Reuters)—The government may act within the next few days to prevent a 24-hour shut-down by 2,000,000 workers in Britain's vital engineering and shipyard industries, it was learned today.

The strike, called for Dec. 2, was approved Thursday by leaders of the powerful Confederation of Shipbuilding and Eingineering Unions to back claims for a 15-per-cent pay increase. It would be the biggest industrial stoppage since the general strike of 1926.

A special report will be handed later to Labor Minister Sir Walter Monckton, describing possible effects of a strike on Britain's export and defence industries.

The government is not expected to intervene immediately. Time will be allowed for reaction from the employers, who have rejected the workers' demands, and from individual exectuives of the 39 unions in the confederation. Current average wage in the industry is £10 a week ($28.00 American)

Secretary Used Franking Privilege Of MP

OTTAWA—(CP)—John Blackmore, Social Credit member for Lethbridge, says his secretary used his free mailing privilege without his knowledge to mail three "anti-Communist and not anti-Semitic" documents to the Calgary Herald. The documents were mailed Nov. 5 by Doris A. Moore and received by the Calgary paper Nov. 10, Mr. Blackmore said in an interview Thursday night. "I cannot see that any of these documents can be classified as anti-Semitic," he said.

Miss Moore said Mr. Blackmore gave her authority to use his frank last spring on material that was "relevant to the Parliamentary work of the House of Commons."

She added: "If anti-communism is not relevant to the work of Parliament then we had better close up this whole place of Parliament and go home."

ANNOUNCED INQUIRY

State Secretary Pickersgill earlier had said in the Commons the government is trying to identify the member of Parliament whose franking privilege was used.

Mr. Pickersgill announced the investigation after Edward T. Applewhaite (L-Skeena) asked if the government is investigating an "abuse" of the franking privilege. The use of the frank for this purpose had been questioned in a Calgary Herald editorial, reprinted Wednesday in the Ottawa Journal.

The editorial said that one of the pamphlets mailed was "apparently being distributed in Canada by the proprietors of the most virulent anti-Semitic publication in this country." It did not identify the particular pamphlet.

ASKED FOR ENVELOPE

Mr. Pickersgill said the editor of the Herald had been asked for the letter's envelope to learn which member's frank was used.

"I assume, of course, from the article that it was used improperly," said Mr. Pickersgill.

The Herald said the documents included two pamphlets advertising books critical of U.S. foreign policy under former presidents Truman and Roosevelt and a magazine praising senator Joseph McCarthy, Wisconsin Republican. The editorial said the main object of the books advertised in the pamphlets was apparently to show that both Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Truman were subject to Communist influence in their policies.

Mr. Blackmore said most members of Parliament entrust their secretaries with the use of their frank for mailing unstamped letters to be sent through the mail free of charge. It may be used during sessions and within 10-day periods preceding and following a session.

Mr. Blackmore said that in the spring of 1953, he granted Miss Moore the privilege of using his frank provided it was for material releyent to the work of Parliament. However, Mr. Blackmoore said he was not in Ottawa at the time the documents were mailed.

NOT IN ON IT

"I wasn't in on this at all," Mr. Blackmore said. "I did not discuss the franking of mail with Miss Moore between Aug. 10 and the time I arrived in Ottawa for the session.

"I can see why Miss Moore would conclude that the documents forwarded to the Calgary Herald editor would qualify as being eligible to go out under the frank when considered in relation to the rule which we had followed in the seven years of her service with me."

Mr. Blackmore said the documents mailed to the Herald included the September, 1953, issue of the American Mercury containing a story entitled "The Truth About Joe McCarthy," written by Harold Lord Varney. The two pamphlets advertised While You Slept, by John T. Flynn, published by the Devin Adair Publishing Co., New York City, and The Iron Curtain Over America, by John Beaty.

Mr. Blackmore said: "I cannot see that the franking privilege was abused in mailing this magazine." He added that the two books "are anti-Communist and not anti-Semitic." He said Jewish names are mentioned along with other names but that this "is no sign of anti-semitism."

Strange Object Just Balloon

LONDON (AP) — That "huge, glowing metallic object" reported by a military radar team as hovering menacingly over Britain's coastline, probably was just a weather balloon, the air ministry decided Thursday night.

At any rate there was a metal balloon in the area and at the precise time army radar crews spotted a mysterious object, an air ministry spokesman said.

The war office reported Wednesday night the "metallic intruder" had first been seen by FO. T. S. Jonson from the cockpit of a Vampire night fighter. Then Nov. 3 a military radar team plotted the object on their screens, tracing its movements.

These movements corresponded exactly with the passage of the meteorological balloon released that day, the air ministry said.

Reds Heap Abuse On U.S. Ambassador

PANMUNJOM (AP) —Communist diplomats fired a stream of abuse today at United States ambassador Arthur H. Dean, instead of answering his repeated demands to explain their "fuzzy" plan for neutrals to attend the Korean peace conference.

Dean said the Red "harangue" probably is just a stall until Peiping or Moscow send orders.

Dean said today's sub-committee session on composition and site could be written off "as a kind of zero." Another sub - committee working on a starting date reported no progress. However, both are scheduled to meet again Saturday.

The Communist plan calls for non-belligerent powers to attend the conference without a vote on major issues. They apparently abandoned early demands that some non-belligerents have full participation, a plan exactly opposite the United Nations proposal for a meeting of only those countries which fought in Korea.

Yugoslavia To Elect People's Parliament

BELGRADE (AP) — Yugoslavia elects a new Narodna Skupstina, its "people's Paliament," Sunday. The ballot will be secret, but rigid rules make the election a one-party primary and assure President Tito's administration a whopping vote.

The country-wide balloting will be conducted under the new constitution. It bans anti-government candidates and restricts office-seekers to members of Tito's "Socialist alliance of the working peoples." But it does permit alliance members to contest individual seats.

A voter also can mark out all the candidates to show disapproval.

Official forecasts issued by the Dominion public weather office in Toronto at 9:30 a.m.:

Synopsis:

The end of southern Ontario's Florida-like weather appears to have been delayed at least another day. An intense storm of low pressure centre developing along the boundary of the warm and the cold air masses will force the cold air to follow a much more southerly route approaching southern Ontario from the southwest rather than from the northwest as was previously indicated.

This new development will affect the area in two ways. The cold air will be considerably delayed and, secondly, it will not be so cold due to its sojourn in southerly latitudes.

Regional forecasts valid until midnight Saturday:

Says Gouzenko Request Vexes Canada

WASHINGTON (CP) — The United States Senate internal security sub - committee today awaited a reply from the Canadian government to a second request for permission to interview Igor Gouzenko in their current drive against spy suspects.

Gouzenko, former code clerk at the Soviet embassy in Ottawa, provided Canadian officials in 1945 and 1946 with information about Russian espionage in Canada with contacts in the U.S.

Canada turned down the subcommittee's first request last week for permission to interview Gouzenko, who has lived in secret under Canadian government protection since he testified at the 1946 spy trials.

The new request is "highly embarrassing" to the Canadian government, Homer Bigart, New York Herald Tribune correspondent here, said in a dispatch published today in his paper.

SECURITY BREACHES

Bigart's dispatch said the Canadian government, in turn has made "verbal representations to the United States concerning recent breaches of security by Washington."

Bigart said Canada "was vexed" by the release by the Senate subcommittee this week of confidential information given in 1946 to FBI director J. Edgar Hoover by a high Canadian official who has not been identified.

Bigart's dispatch said "the Canadians are asking under what authority Mr. Brownell declassified confidential information from a Canadian official."

SECOND ANNOYANCE

He added that Canada also had been "annoyed" about published reports in the U. S. about Soviet flights over Canadian territory, regarded as secret by Canada but released by defence headquarters in Washington.

Bigart, calling the White case "an irritant to United States-Canadian relations," said the new request on Gouzenko is embarrassing because "all major parties of the Canadian Parliament have been highly critical of United States congressional investigative methods." And to accede to the request "would amount to a reversal of the Canadian stand" that Gouzenko had told all he knew and that this information had been published in the royal commission report of 1947 on the Canadian spy case.

Oliver Supporting Checkoff Amendment

TORONTO (CP) — Farquhar Oliver, Liberal party leader in the Ontario legislature, said today the Ontario Labor Relations Act should be amended to provide for voluntary checkoff of union dues.

Mr. Oliver said in a statement that his party will try to write the voluntary checkoff into the province's labor laws at the next legislature session.

The Liberals will examine the Labor Relations Act "to determine if changes can be made that will create a greater degree of industrial peace in the province," he said.

The checkoff is the main point of dispute in a months-old strike of some 7,000 gold miners in northern Ontario and Quebec.

The checkoff means employees can have their companies collect union dues out of wages and turn the dues over to the union.

Different Atmosphere In Windsor Hospital

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—A "much more hopeful atmosphere" is evident at East Windsor hospital since its reorganization this year, an Essex county grand jury reported after an inspection of the hospital.

Twelve men and one woman juror reported to Judge Albert J. Gordon in general sessions court that they were impressed by the "beauty, cleanliness, and efficient operation" of the hospital.

"A much more hopeful atmosphere was in evidence over that noticed on previous individual visits on the part of members of the jury," the report said.

Raise Sunken Ship To River Surface

SARNIA (CP)—The bow of the sunken German motorship Wallschiff broke the surface of the St. Clair river today as two ships and a shore winch tugged her toward land.

The ship sank Oct. 2 after collision with another vessel. Raising operations, which started Tuesday, have dragged the ship 120 feet closer to shore and raised her bow 17 feet from the river bed.

Won't Allow Wedding Of 2 Kidnappers

WASHINGTON (AP)—The justice department said today it would not permit a marriage of Carl Austin Hall and Bonnie Brown Heady, who are doomed to die in Missouri for the Bobby Greenlease kidnap-slaying.

The department said it had received no formal request to permit their marriage.

Court officials at Kansas City expressed a desire to marry Hall but that he hasn't shown any such wish. They are to be put to death Dec. 18.

Workers Batter City Hall Door

TRIESTE (AP)—Workers protesting rising unemployment in disputed Trieste battered down the door of the city hall today in defiance of police.

An estimated 800 persons, reported by an Allied police official to be Communist-led, took part in the demonstration, the second such protest in two days.

About 50 of them broke into the locked city hall after manhandling four civil police and battering down a side door with long poles.

BREAK THROUGH CORDON

They remained inside only a few moments before 200 police reinforcements surrounded the building. Those inside broke through the cordon and escaped.

The group had demanded to see Italian Mayor Gianni Bartoli. Earlier the demonstrators had tried and failed to see Allied military government leaders.

Shouting "We want work, we want bread," the workers jeered when told the mayor was not in his office. They began breaking windows of the city hall.

Child's Evidence Commences Abduction Trial

A 10-year-old schoolgirl testified today that Fred Blaby, 23, of 554 Romaine St., had lured her into his car last June 13, took her for a ride and "did something dirty."

Blaby is being tried on two charges: indecent assault and abducting a child. He chose speedy trial before Judge John de N. Kennedy, presiding at the general sessions of the peace, and pleaded not guilty.

The girl told her tale in a faltering voice from the witness box. Once, Judge Kennedy adjourned for a five-minute recess so she could regain her composure.

She said that she had taken a music lesson at the YWCA from 6 to 6:30 p.m., Saturday, June 13. Then she returned to her home by bus and was at the Chamberlain St.-Monaghan Rd. intersection when a man, whom she identified as Blaby, drove up.

He first inquired the way to Park St. and then the way to George St., and finally "he asked me to get in and show him where Park St. was." When they got to Park St. Blaby kept on going and drove out toward the old city dump in North Monaghan township.

"I asked him to take me home (it was after 7 p.m. though still daylight)," she said. "He didn't say anything. I was crying because he wouldn't take me home."

Though vague in her directions she was able to show her father and city detectives the place where Blaby got stuck in the mud. It was on a deserted piece of road, four miles southwest of the city.

The car was still there next day when police arrived.

The girl said that Blaby tried to turn the car around and, though they both worked at it, the vehicle stuck fast in the mud. They were all night together in the car and they walked back to the city on Sunday morning, following the CNR railway tracks.

She had no supper and, in fact, had nothing to eat or drink until late Sunday morning when she got home.

While they were in the car Blaby reached up under her skirt and touched her thigh, she said. Despite an intensive cross-examination by Defence Counsel W. J. Arthur Fair, QC, she insisted that Blaby "did do something dirty."

Mr. Fair suggested that his client was hopelessly intoxicated and had only "patted" the upper part of her right leg as he was instructing her how to step on the gas so they could get out of the mud. Blaby would have taken the girl home but he was prevented from doing so because his car got stuck, continued Mr. Fair.

The case is continuing.

Cataract Purchase Report Denied

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—A group of local business men today termed "premature" a report that they have bought Niagara Falls Cataracts of the Ontario Hockey Association senior league.

A report from Stratford today said the group bought the team from a Kitchener business man and playing-coach Pat Wilson.

The local group said a meeting was held Sunday but "no agreements have been signed and no definite steps taken."

The Stratford report said Wilson had been asked to remain as coach. Arena manager Norm Tustin said he was asked Thursday to coach the team. He will do so tonight when Cataracts meet Sarnia Sailors here.

Council Hears Estimate Of $192,000 For Causeway

LINDSAY (ENS) — Victoria county council finished the last session of 1953 today by adopting in the council the reports of the various committees whose meetings had been carried on during the week.

County property committee recommended no action be taken on the proposed purchase of a county park, but that the matter be referred to the 1954 council. Members had heard an offer to sell land for the purpose by Dr. F. M. Graham, of Fenelon Falls. Sites were mentioned during the discussion, and a committee will inspect them to make recommendations.

The committee on appointments to office named the county representatives for the Omemee High School Board and the Victoria County area High School Board for the next year. They will be C. Whitmore, of Omemee, and Dr. F. M. Graham, of Fenelon Falls.

In the roads-bridges committee, County Engineer Harold Wilford gave his report on two projected bridges—the Kinmount bridge and the Pigeon Lake causeway. Meeting between representatives of Peterborough and Victoria Counties during the past summer and fall, he said, had brought good results in coming closer to a decision to build the bridge.

According to an old agreement, he explained, the Kinmount bridge is paid for equally by Peterborough and Victoria Counties, and both municipalities would be liable for half of the net cost of rebuilding it. Having made a study of the bridge, Mr. Wilford estimated that the new bridge would require a 110-foot steel span on two new concrete abutments, a 24-foot roadway and one sidewalk.

Total cost, he estimated, would be $60,000 of which the Department of Highways of Ontario would pay some $48,000, leaving $12,000 to be split by the two counties. After some discussion in which L. A. Boucher, Department of Highways district engineer, pointed out that one of the two councils would have to budget for the whole amount, the matter was left to the bridge committee for recommendation to the 1954 council.

The Pigeon Lake causeway was also mentioned, since discussions had been held during the last few months on the subject. Mr. Wilford submitted an estimate of $192,000 on this job which would entail the construction of a causeway 5,000 feet long six feet above the water of Pigeon Lake. The department's share of the cost, he said, would be $153,000, leaving the two counties to pay about $19,200 each.

The engineer noted that the federal government would probably bear the cost of any additions it required, such as a swing span, or high level bridge in the middle of the causeway. The matter was also referred to the bridge committee for further action.

A lengthy discussion was conducted on recommendations from the Minister of Highways concerning highway safety programs. A safety committee was set up to study the problem and bring in recommendations at the 1954 sessions.

Favor Stricter Game Control In Closed Twps.

LINDSAY (ENS) — Several resolutions and recommendations from the county fish and game committee were considered by Victoria county council this week. The recommendations concerned the hunting and fishing seasons in the county.

The committe at first asked consideration for a recommendation that the deer hunting season be opened in the southern parts of the county where it is now closed. Reeve Robert Bradt, of Verulam township commented he thought closer supervision by the department of lands and forests of the closed areas was the answer, rather than opening them. He said that the closed townships were becoming a paradise for poachers, since inadequate supervision of the hunting was ruining efforts to propagate deer in the areas. The areas have been closed for two years.

Council agreed that closer supervision would be the answer to the problem, and so moved, adding that closed areas should be advertised.

Another motion regarding the running of dogs on foxes from Nov. 1 to Feb. 28 was also passed. The committee were afraid that hunters running foxes with dogs might go after deer instead of foxes and asked a restriction during the period mentioned. The council recommended that a special license for running foxes during the period mentioned should be introduced.

The county council took no action on four other proposals—that the Victoria County Conservation Club be responsible for making Goose lake, north of Lindsay, a duck sanctuary, that the county make no restrictions on outside hunters coming into area, as recommended by the conservation club, that the hours of fishing be restricted, and that changes in the fishing season be made.

Subsistence allowance and the allowances for married personnel are unchanged.

However, the new pay scales provide monthly increases in trades pay, ranging from $4 in the lowest group to $20 a month for the highest.

The armed forces also get increases for years of service. The only change here is that privates, first class, and other service equivalents, now will get a boost of $10 a month after three years' service but nothing further after six. Under the old rates, they got $3 a month after the first three years and another $3 after six years.

"Service in the forces offers many additional financial advantages. The men are completely outfitted with clothing when they join and receive a clothing allowance of $10 a month after that," the announcement said.

"Every man receives medical and dental care without cost to himself. There is a pension scheme to provide the man and his dependents with retirement income. The government contributes an amount equal to 10 per cent of the man's salary, plus the value of clothing, medical and dental care, and this is over and above the amount covered by the man's contribution.

Paid holidays of 30 days a year are given. Foreign allowances of from $9 to $16 a month are paid to men serving abroad and additional allowances if they are married and accompanied by their dependents.

The company has been willing to repair the car, "but I don't think they should be blackmailed into doing things beyond common sense."

Mr. Brown said dealers for the corporation give warranties backed by the company, for "good workmanship." The company also had a policy of taking defective cars back to their Windsor factory for repairs, even though the warranty period had expired. It had offered to do this for Mr. White's car, but he had refused.

Red Officers Refuse To See 3 Koreans

PANMUNJOM (AP) — Communist officers today refused a face-to-face meeting with three Korean soldiers who last night bolted from a Red troop unit and were given refuge in an American sentry box.

The three said they were South Koreans and had been shanghaied into the Communist army after being captured.

The Reds insisted that the three be returned immediately, but the United Nations command said they would be turned over to Indian custody. If they refuse to go back to the Reds, all presumably will be liberated in South Korea.

An Indian spokesman for the neutral nations repatriation commission said "no single man on the commission can decide this, and it will have to be discussed at the full sitting of the commission tomorrow."

Desy Appointed Ambassador To France

OTTAWA (CP)—A Montrealer who has been a university teacher in Paris is to return to the French capital as Canada's ambassador to France.

The external affairs department today confirmed reports that Jean Desy, 60, career diplomat and former head of the CBC's international service, will become ambassador at the year-end.

Mr. Desy, now in Europe surveying operation of the Canadian government's overseas scholarship and fellowship awards, will succeed Maj.-Gen. George Vanier, whose retirement from the public service was announced recently.

The new ambassador, born in Montreal, was educated there and at the University of Paris. After law practice in Montreal, he returned to Paris to teach at his old university.

He joined the external affairs department in 1925, and since then has held many diplomatic posts.

PREVIOUS APPOINTMENTS

He has been counsellor at the legation in Paris, minister to Belgium, The Netherlands, Brazil and Italy. He also has been ambassador to Brazil and Italy.

Late in 1951, he gave up the ambassadorship to Italy to become director-general of the CBC's international service.

In going to Paris, he will be taking over one of Canada's three top diplomatic posts abroad. The other two are the ambassadorships in London and Washington.

The new minister is married with two children.

Sees New Bridge Open In February

LINDSAY (ENS)—Opening of the new Lindsay street bridge for motor traffic by February 1954 was foreseen by county engineer H. D. Wilford in a report to Victoria county council this week.

According to the engineer work is rapidly nearing completion on the north span of the bridge, and the south span will be taken out by the end of the year, preparatory to pouring the roadway. He estimated that by the end of the year some $40,000 to $50,000 of the bridge appropriation will have been spent.

Silver Cross Mothers Legion Guests

CAMPBELLFORD— (ENS) — Branch 103 of the Canadian Legion held their annual banquet on Wednesday evening in the Legion hall, when the Silver Cross mothers of the town were honored.

Comrade C. C. Massie proposed a toast to the mothers present and Kay Herrold replied.

Mayor Jack Burnett of Cobourg was guest speaker. He was introduced by Mayor Ralph J. Locke of Campbellford. Mr. Burnett served two terms as chairman of the Ontario command of the Canadian Legion, BESL.

LAUDS CUSTOM

He lauded the custom of inviting the silver cross mothers to the banquet each year and praised the members of the branch for the effort they had put forth in renovating their hall. He said it was one of the better Legion buildings in the province.

He told of the district convention at Sudbury, and said he had faith in the efficiency of the officers of the organization. He extended a vote of thanks to the Ladies' Auxiliary of the branch, who prepared and served a fowl dinner. Mrs. Ruth Atkinson, president of the auxiliary replied.

George Fountain of Belleville entertained during dinner and during a social hour following the dinner.

Guests of honor at the banquet included Lt. Col. W. R. Pease, Officer Commanding the Central Ordinance Depot at Cobourg, and Pte. Gordon McInroy, who has returned after serving for the past two years in Germany.

Tenor Quits In Opera Scene Carmen Carries On Alone

CHICAGO (AP) — Done Jose failed to stab Carmen in the New York City Opera Company's opera "Carmen" Thursday night but she "died" as the curtain was lowered.

David Poleri, in the role of Don Jose, walked off the stage as the opera neared the climax in the last scene of the last act. He appeared angry as he threw his hat and cape on the stage floor.

Nearing the stage exit, Poleri told conductor Joseph Rosenstock: "You can finish the opera yourself."

Carmen, played by Gloria Lane, carried through alone in the final death scene and collapsed on the stage floor.

She had the aid of the off-stage tenor voice of Walter Fredericks, who was pressed into emergency service.

There were no curtain calls. The audience appeared perplexed at the unusual ending.

Rosenstock, who also is the company's general director, blamed the incident on Poleri's "nervous tension" resulting from friction with other singers during the second act.

POLERI FIRED

Asked if he planned to discipline Poleri, Rosenstock said: "He has eliminated himself from the community of our company."

Poleri was not immediately available for comment.

Rosenstock also said that soprano Anne McKnight has quit the company and plans to go to Italy. He termed her act "one of the worst cases of breach of contract." A company spokesman said she quit because she feared Chicago music critics.

County Roads Best In Past Three Years Says Committee After Busy Day-Long Tour

Ten members of the Peterborough County road committee spent all day Thursday touring highways and byways from North Monaghan to Anstruther townships.

"County roads and bridges are in better shape than they have been for the past three years," said Willard Waterman, chairman of the county road committee and reeve of North Monaghan.

The two-car party, headed by county engineer Jack Kean with County Warden Ernest Leeson beside him, started from the court house and inspected the city's western boundary, Wallis Dr., and, without getting out of their cars discussed the pros and cons of its west side being taken into the city or remaining within North Monaghan township. They arrived at no conclusions but could forsee strong debating between city and township on the matter.

Next, they drove north through Buckhorn to the eastern approach of the new Gannon's Narrows causeway. Since the contractors had broken down the road from the fill quarry to the narrows, and had moved their equipment elsewhere until the road is firmed by frost, they examined the quarry instead.

It consists of three acres of limestone on the James Hutchison farm, two and one-half miles from the narrows. In April the county bought the land at $400 an acre and already the big hole has yielded several thousand tons of rock fill, having been blasted down to a denth of 35 feet. County Engineer Kean estimated that the job will require 120,000 tons of limestone fill and upon completion of the causeway the land will be given back to the owner.

The Cedar Lake bridge, built in 1948, was the next point of visit. It lies across Eel's Creek in Burleigh township west of Haultain and gives access to a group of cottages on Big Cedar Lake.

Stoney Creek bridge, a recently-completed cement structure with a 16-foot span, was examined in the early afternoon by the committee. It lies seven miles north of Apsley on the Eel's Lake road. The structure is to be turned back to Anstruther township at a cost of $3,500.

Another call was made southbound at Coone's Bridge two miles south of Apsley and 100 yards east of Highway 28. This wooden structure leads to a woodlot, is ancient and needs constant maintenance and has recently been re-floored. The county men call it the "headache bridge."

The portable county gravel crushing plant, now at a pit in Warsaw village, created considerable interest for the party. They consider it one of the best county plants in southern Ontario. It produces about 43,000 tons of crushed road gravel a year at a seasonal rate of 300-400 tons a day. The Douglas cement bridge nearby over the Indian river was visited next; it will require new cement facings in many spots. And a dog-leg in the county road two miles east of Cottesloe was the last point of call for the day. The work of straightening it will be finished this fall if the current weather continues.

The first county roads inspection tour was held on Nov. 12 and the party toured Dummer, Asphodel and Otonabee roads and bridges. They were found to be in good condition and the committee said they were satisfied with expenditures on them during the current year.

Members of the tour on Thursday were County Warden E. J. Leeson, chairman of the county roads commission, reeve of North Monaghan Willard Waterman, county engineer Jack Kean, and reeves Dick Stewart (Otonabee), Roland Tedford (Dummer), Jim Humphries (Asphodel), and James Gifford (Ennismore.)

Also present were chairman of suburban area committee Floyd Curtis, county representative Jerry Mahoney and Department of Highways representative Bert Middleton.

True-Blue Plates

Next year's motor vehicle licence plates are blue and white, as this year, but the colours are reversed — white background and blue lettering. It is a chaste and dignified colour scheme, suggestive of both our sobriety and our patriotism. And the crown on the plate remains.

* * *

More plates will be issued next year than ever before, because there will be more cars on the roads than ever before. This year, for the first time, more than a million passenger vehicles have been registered—by October 1st there were 1,081,770. The grand total, including commercial vehicles, was 1,359,417.

* * *

The yearly increase in the number of cars on the roads shows why the Department of Highways must and should spend more money on maintenance than ever before—as well as on building new roads to take the cars. A total of 1,360,000 cars, trucks, buses and trailers wears and tears highways more than last year's total of 1,205,076 (for the complete year). Next year the wear will be greater because there will be more vehicles than ever before—and, incidentally, vehicles more powerful than ever before. A truck travelling at sixty miles an hour loaded with several tons of goods gives a road a terrific (we use the word carefully) pounding. And cars that can go at ninety miles an hour are harder on the surface than those of other years which reached a maximum of only sixty.

* * *

So the Department of Highways has to spend more money on upkeep as well as extension of roads. But more money comes into the Provincial Treasury because there are more vehicles travelling more miles. The licence fee alone brings in a good fat sum. The gas tax is even fatter. Last year (April, 1952,) to March, 1953) the Department of Highways got $22,250,000 from its motor vehicles branch (registrations, licence plates and the like) and $76,800,000 from the gasoline tax branch. Next year the yield will be even greater.

A Tradition From Westminster

The curious may read in No. 1 Hansard of each new Parliament the underprint of history. Sense the waft of tradition in this interchange. Last week when Parliament met, the Gentleman Usher of the Black Rod delivered a Message to Mr. Speaker:

His Excellency the Governor General desires the immediate attendance of this Honourable House in the Chamber of the Honourable the Senate.

"Accordingly" (in the measured prose of Hansard) "Mr. Speaker, with the House, went up to the Senate Chamber (it is on the same floor level as the House of Commons, but members go 'up' because it is the Upper House) and Mr. Speaker spoke to the following effect:

May it please Your Excellency:

The House of Commons have elected me their Speaker, though I am but little able to fulfill the important duties thus assigned to me.

If, in the performance of those duties, I should at any time fall into error, I pray that the fault may be imputed to me, and not to the Commons, whose servant I am, and who, through me, the better to enable them to discharge their duty to their Queen and Country, humbly claim all their undoubted rights and privileges, especially that they may have freedom of speech in their debates, access to Your Excellency's person to all seasonable times, and that their proceedings may receive from Your Excellency the most favourable construction.

The Honourable the Speaker of the Senate then said:

Mr. Speaker,

I am commanded by His Excellency the Governor General to declare to you that he freely confides in the duty and attachment of the House of Commons to Her Majesty's Person and Government, and not doubting that their proceedings will be conducted with wisdom, temper and prudence, he grants, and upon all occasions will recognize and allow their constitutional privileges.

I am commanded also to assure you, that the Commons shall have ready access to His Excellency upon all seasonable occasions, and that their proceedings, as well as your words and actions, will constantly receive from him the most favourable construction.

And so the Members of the House of Commons through their Speaker respectfuly demanded and secured their freedom to speak undisturbed by agents of the Monarch or anybody else—the traditional immunity of Members of Parliament. And so Parliament got down to the business of hearing the Speech from the Throne, following which, for interminable weeks, members will speak their minds on any topic from ground nuts in Africa to deeds of heroism in their local township.

The formality is rather wonderful to see and hear—and read—in a country whose Parliament is only eighty-six years old. Eighty-six? No—as old as the Mother of Parliaments herself, for it is from Westminster that come these undoubted rights and privileges, from the days of the Bill of Rights, of Cromwell, of Magna Carta. The formal language and the ceremony are not empty; they ensure the very basis of parliamentary democracy—the supremacy of the parliament elected by the people for their own governance.

Gilbert And Sullivan

It is well over sixty years since the last of the Gilbert and Sullivan operas was written, but their popularity continues to be very great, as the appearance of an elaborate film about them shows. We have seen that film, we enjoyed it greatly, and we are happy to recommend it, for it is now showing at the Paramount theatre in this city. We do not make a custom of recommending films in these columns, but we reserve the right to do so when something of unusual merit comes along.

The continuing popularity of the Gilbert and Sullivan operas may be attributed to many things, but there is one which we think important, and which we have not seen mentioned—it is the continuing spirit of W. S. Gilbert, that rigid disciplinarian. Gilbert was a genius of the theatre. He decided what every actor should do in his plays, and he coached them himself. He visited the theatre at regular intervals when a play of his was in progress, and if there was any departure from what he had ordered, he called the offender upon the carpet and asked him what he meant by it.

This would have been harmful if Gilbert had not been a man of striking theatrical acumen. But as it was, he was right to insist upon his own way in everything; the simple fact was that his was was better than anybody else's way. And so strong was the tradition which he founded, and so awesome was his personal authority, that even to this day the Gilbert and Sullivan operas are presented very much along the lines he laid down. Real Savoyards are afraid of vexing his ghost.

The film is perhaps fairer to Sullivan than it is to Gilbert. Sullivan was, as the film shows, a man of sweet, yielding, and rather weak disposition. He was a brilliant musician—a master in his field—but he took the easy course in life. Gilbert was very much his opposite. A martinet, a man of bitter and scathing wit, and a man with an immense sense of responsibility, he was hard on everybody, and hardest of all upon himself. The film portrait of him scarcely suggests this; we must never forget that Gilbert died, at the age of 75, because he overtaxed himself saving a girl from drowning; that was not the action of a man who took life lightly.

There seems to be no reason why the popularity of the G & S operas should ever fade. They have weathered the fifty years after the death of their creators very successfully, and works of art that can do that are durable indeed.

How Much Is Tax Free?

In an editorial which appeared on November 17, we printed a foolish error when we said that the $4,000 yearly indemnity of Members of Parliament is tax-free, as well as the $2,000 expense allowance. This was the result of careless writing, rather than misinformation, for we knew very well what the real situation was. The indemnity is taxable, but the expense allowance is not. Sorry.

NOTES AND COMMENT

Keep an open mind, but be sure that the opening isn't at the bottom. That produces the merely leaky mind.

A German who has fasted for 80 days and 5 hours claims that this makes him champion of something. It would make us the world's champion grouch.

A San Francisco centenarian says of his life: "It has been dull, nothing ever happened to me". This carries out our theory that the longest life is rarely the fullest.

A physicist says that time is eating up space, and anybody who has tried to park on George Street recently knows how right he is.

Two armed burglars were chased from a Toronto grocery store when the proprietor's wife threw jars of pickles at them. It is worth noticing that a show of sturdy resistance often takes the starch out of brave fellows with guns.

We read that a new perfume has been extracted from coffee, and any girl who wants to reproduce the attractive smell of an old-time grocery should stuff a few arrowroot biscuits into her bosom, pour on a few handfuls of the new scent, and set out to cut a swath.

A commission on school-books in Indianapolis suggests that all references to Robin Hood be suppressed, because he was a Red. Just what we have been saying for years. He was a thief, too, not to mention a recidivist, a parole-breaker, and an active supporter of anti-clericalism.

NEW CHINA

Pagodas And Others

By O. M. GREEN

PEKING announces that an Association of Chinese Architects has been founded, for "the raising of the scientific and artistic level of Chinese architecture in the work of developing the country economically and culturally."

Special emphasis is laid on the importance of building for China's industrialisation.

Some admirable buildings were in fact erected by young Nationalist architects in Nanking in the half-dozen years before the Japanese invasion in 1937—externally preserving the traditional Chinese style, internally well adapted for offices or industry, as required.

But of course these were bourgeois (not to say imperialist) buildings, utterly unsuitable for good Communists, whose building programme, it was recently announced, amounts to twenty seven million square metres (not including domestic houses), or more than all the floor space of Peking.

✧ ✧ ✧

ARTISTIC CREATIVENESS, so radiant in Chinese painting, poetry and porcelain, seems to have failed them in architecture (and its first cousin, music.) They have produced majestic and massive buildings. Their feeling for surface decoration is shown in the lovely intricate colouring of internal surfaces. But they have created nothing even remotely comparable with the glories of Greek and Gothic architecture. Yet, like all they do, their buildings are always significant and worthy of study.

Chinese dwelling houses are another illustration of that odd tendency of everything in China to go the opposite way to that of Western custom. For example, men wear gowns, women wear trousers; a man on meeting a friend shakes hands with himself, not with his friend; writing is from right-hand edge of the page downwards, not from the left-hand edge across. Any number of these curious diversities could be given.

✧ ✧ ✧

SO a Chinese town spreads out horizontally in courts of single-storey pavilions, not upwards on several floors. The great Emperor Ch'ien Lung (1736-96 A.D.), when shown some pictures of London, said that the English must be very poorly off in land since they were forced to pile one floor on another.

But the courtyard style well suited Chinese family habits. When a son married he brought his wife to the ancestral home, not to a separate house, and as his children multiplied (as Chinese ancestral worship demanded they must) it was a simple matter to build on another court for them.

All large Chinese houses present blank walls to the street, windows looking inwards to the courts; and the front door is hidden by a small separate wall about four feet out. This was originally to guard the house from the entry of bad spirits, which cannot turn a corner.

✧ ✧ ✧

IN BUILDING a new house, the owner would be particularly careful to lay it out so as not to offend the Fengshui (wind and water spirits) of the locality. And there was always a bunch of brushwood at the top of the scaffolding poles to frighten off evil spirits during the building.

Old writers speak of the fine architecture of the Han dynasty (about 200 B.C. to 200 A.D.). And a standard work in eight volumes "Method of Architecture" prescribing all the correct principles, written in 1103 A.D. is still preserved.

But of the architecture of those days nothing remains. Apart from city walls, palaces, pagodas and bridges, the Chinese have always built in wood. Even those buildings of stone or brick date at the earliest from Ming dynasty (1368-1644 A.D.) There is no old architecture in China, as we reckon age of buildings in Europe, excepting one brick-built pagoda in Honan (northern central China) dating from 523 A.D., and several walls, particularly the wondrous Great Wall, built across the north of China 2,100 years ago by the Emperor Shih Huang Ti to keep out the barbarians. Built of rammed earth faced with brick and granite, it runs from the sea for 1,400 miles over mountains and valleys, twenty feet high, thirteen feet wide at the top, with massive guard towers every one hundred yards.

THE CHINESE are great wall builders. Every city of importance is surrounded by a massive wall—illustration of the fact that, although the Chinese are traditionally peace-loving, their history is perpetually scarred with war.

The walls of Peking are sixteen miles round, those of Nanking twenty-three, and the tops are so broad that in some parts three or four carriages might drive abreast. Over the gates (which owing to the thickness of the wall are more like tunnels than gates) one may find tremendous guard houses. That over the south gate of the Forbidden City in Peking is particularly impressive, at the bottom a heavy base designed to withstand any attack, and above it two storeys of pavilions and guardrooms, the walls beautifully frescoed and painted and surmounted by a heavy roof of yellow tiles.

The Chinese temples are, on the whole, disappointing, besides being deplorably ill-kept. The Temple of Heaven, a round building of three storeys surmounted by a heavy tiled roof, is impressive chiefly because of its association with the yearly sacrifices offered by each Emperor to Heaven and his ancestors and because of the geometric layout of the surrounding groves of trees. There are many lovely stone and marble bridges, in which the Chinese skill in decorative detail has had full play.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE GREATEST and peculiar glory of Chinese architecture is the pagoda. Like much in Chinese art, it owes a great deal to Indian inspiration. The Indian stupa — a Buddist reliquary at the bottom, surmounted by a slender tower, almost a mast, surrounded by metal discs—it is said to be the pagoda's prototype.

Gradually, however, in China the tower became the important thing. The metal discs were replaced (as in the Honan pagoda mentioned above) by string courses, marking the division between floor and floor. These eventually expanded into curving roofs with bells at the corners, and the pagoda was complete, as seen in every picture of Chinese scenery.

Built of brick and frequently faced with glazed tiles—as in the famous Porcelain Tower at Nanking, unhappily destroyed in the T'aiping Rebellion last century—the pagoda was usually octagonal in shape, with five, seven, nine, eleven or thirteen storeys, odd numbers being considered religious and protective in Buddhism.

✧ ✧ ✧

WHY PAGODAS are so popular in China, no one knows. Boerschmann, the German sinologue, suggested that, rising high above the earth, they express the redemptive power of Buddism, in contrast to the intimate association of family life expressed by the horizontal domestic dwelling places.

One can say no more than that this is a nice theory—just as no one can do more than speculate why Chinese roofs curve upwards at the edges, often with lines of small fabulous animals running up the angles at the corners.

What inspiration the new Association of Chinese Architects will be allowed to draw from pagodas remains to be seen.

But from the injunction, at the Association's opening ceremony, of the Vice-President of the Chinese Academy of Science, that the architects "should study the application of Soviet Socialist realism in architecture," one fears the worst.

Corpse Of Sir Roger Casement

(By A Special Correspondent)

A BRITISH Member of Parliament, Mr. Geoffrey Bing, is reported to have accepted a brief on behalf of an Irish committee which is proposing to bring an action, in the Queen's Bench, for a writ of mandamus to compel the British Government to permit the return to Ireland of the remains of Sir Roger Casement.

Casement was executed for high treason in August, 1916, after an attempt to organize armed insurrection in Ireland, and his remains were interned within the precincts of Pentonville gaol, in London. Dr. Herbert O. Mackey, a Dublin physician who is leading the Casement Committee, as it is called, claims that he has been advised that, under the Capital Punishment Act, 1858, the British Government has power to retain the remains only of persons convicted of murder. Since Casement was convicted on a charge of high treason, the Government, it is believed, had no legal right to prevent the removal of his remains.

Sir Roger Casement, a Protestant born in County Antrim, spent most of his life in the British consular service. He received a knighthood for his services in exposing the maltreatment of rubber workers in the Belgian Congo, and later in Peru. Before the 1916 Rising in Ireland, Casement negotiated with Germany for the supply of arms to the Irish Republican Army. He was arrested, more or less red-handed, landing from a ship in County Kerry. He was charged with treason, found guilty and executed in 1916.

Many Irishmen—not only those who are anti-British—resent the fact that a man whose treason to England was caused by loyalty to Ireland should lie in ground reserved for common murderers. Successive British Governments, however, have turned down all representations for the release of Casement's remains.

Exactly why they have refused to make a gesture which would have cost them nothing, and would have given much satisfaction to Ireland, remains a mystery. There may, of course, be some technical difficulty in identifying the actual remains; but it is believed here that, contrary to general practice, the body of Casement was enclosed in a rough coffin before the application of quicklime, and should therefore be in a reasonable state of preservation. The most likely explanation is that the British Home Office feels the return of Casement's bones to their native soil would embarrass the Government of Northern Ireland.

✧ ✧ ✧

MANY PEOPLE who are less concerned about bones would like to see the Home Secretary clear up another and more serious slur on Casement. At the time of his trial, public feeling was turned against him by the exhibition—to selected witnesses—of a diary in which Casement is said to have kept a record of certain personal vices. Ever since then, the diary has remained in the secret files of the Home Office.

It is believed in Ireland (the evidence was collected by Dr. W. J. Maloney in 1936) that this document is almost as blatant a forgery as the celebrated Parnell-Pigott letters: that it was, in fact, a translation made by Casement, and sent to the Foreign Office, of a diary that was in fact kept by one of the leading figures in a scandal among Peruvian rubber workers.

The decision to surrender the remains, which could have been made out of generosity, may now be forced on the Government by a point of law: Mr. Bing is said to think so. There is one remaining difficulty: Casement's executors are dead and their personal representatives are not associated with the Casement Committee.

If the remains are to be delivered up, then presumably the only people entitled to claim them are the executors. And so the court might hold that the committee as at present constituted has no locus standi in the matter.

Ruling On Taxes May Mean Extra $500,000

TORONTO (CP) — A ruling on chain store taxes which may mean a $500,000 increase in Toronto tax revenues was handed down Thursday in Oakville.

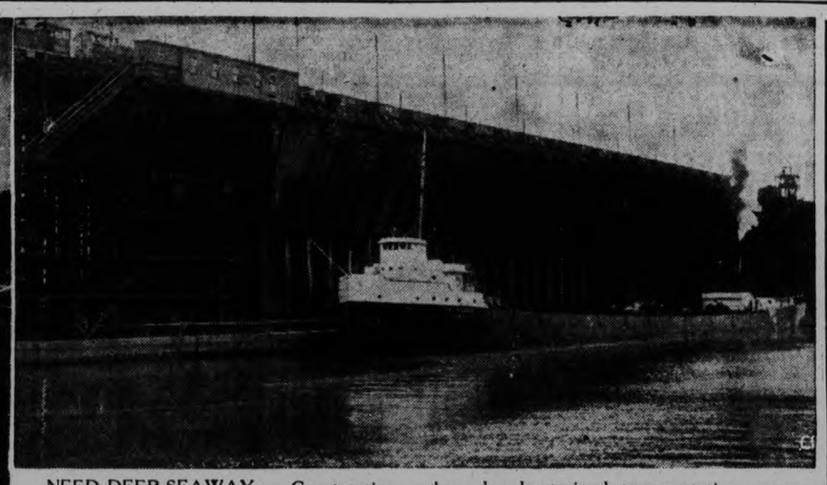
Assessment officials here said the ruling could increase tax revenues in other municipalities.

Judge W. N. Robinson dismissed an appeal of Loblaw Groceterias Company which, if allowed, would have permitted classification of their Oakville premises as a grocery outlet rather than a department store.

This means the store pays about twice the business tax, based on real estate assessment, it would pay as a grocery store. Evidence was the store sold clothing, books and hardware in addition to grocery items.

A. J. B. Gray, Toronto assessment commissioner, said under similar reclassification taxes on about 30 such stores in the Toronto area would jump from about $500,000 to $1,000,000.

Electric Power Tax Suggested As Help



TORONTO (CP) — The president of the Ontario School Business Officials Association Thursday suggested a tax on electric power to help pay education costs.

C. R. Marchant of Weston made the suggestion before a central zone meeting of the Urban and Rural School Trustees Association. "The department of education is only getting the crumbs under the table and not its fair share of provincial revenues."

He said "bottlenecks in education" could be removed if the department had a ready source of revenue such as a tax on public utilities.

DEEPEN SHIPPING ROUTE—A deep seaway is part of the proposed St. Lawrence Seaway and Power project. In its seaway phase it would consist principally of building 27-foot canals in the 115 miles of the river from Prescott to Montreal, replacing the present 14-foot canals and permitting ships of heavier tonnage easy passage from the head of the Great Lakes to Montreal and the Atlantic Ocean. This coal freighter rounds a corner in the Soulanges canal to enter the Montreal harbor. Another river freighter is ready to load a cargo of package freight. The skyline of Montreal is in the background in this photo by Malak of Ottawa.

NEED DEEP SEAWAY — Construction of the seaway is expected to play an important part in Canada's development. The deep seaway, permitting passage of heavy freighters from the lakehead to Montreal, will help Canada keep up with the needs of her already-strained transportation system during the next quarter-century. This freighter is loading iron ore at the Port Arthur dock, taking ore from Steep Rock Iron Mines for delivery to smelters in Ontario and the United States, through the inland water route.

Political Tie Color Discussed

OTTAWA (CP)—The color of political ties was discussed Thursday in the Commons by Erhart Regier (CCF — Burnaby-Coquitlam).

He said he hopes Canada will return to the two-party system, symbolized by the red and blue ties.

The party of progress wore the red tie, the party of consolidation the blue tie.

Though the Liberals had claims to possess the red tie in 1937, the CCF now is the only party wearing them.

In the meantime, the Liberal red ties had faded to a "miserable blur." The color would become blue or vanish completely while the old Progressive Conservative blue ties were turning into "deep purple."

Early Objections Overruled

St. Lawrence Seaway Promises Bigger Economic Helping For Canadians

What does the proposed St. Lawrence seaway mean to Canada? This story, one of a series, describes changes it will make in the country's transportation picture — explaining why some early Canadian objections to the project have died down.

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

If Canada today needs a deep seaway from Atlantic to Lakehead, Canada of the future fairly shouts for it.

According to current estimates, Canada will by 1980 have 25,000,000 people compared with today's 15,000,000, and a production of $65,000,000,000 compared with today's $24,000,000.

If these estimates are borne out she will be scrambling in the next quarter century to keep up with the needs of her already-strained transportation system.

A deep seaway is part of the proposed St. Lawrence seaway and power project. In its power phase, the project would include development of 2,500,000 horsepower of electricity in the 47-mile international rapids section of the St. Lawrence river between Prescott and Cornwall.

DEEPER CANALS

In its seaway phase, it would consist principally of building 27-foot canals in the 115 miles of river from Prescott to Montreal, to replace the present 14-foot canals.

These shallow passages allow only small ships of about 2,500 tons deadweight capacity. The penalty today is transhipment of cargoes from large ships into small ones with consequent increased costs.

In the past, some parts of Canada opposed the seaway with the argument that it would take from one part of the country and give to another; that there was one national pot with just so much in it, and the more one section got out of it, the less another section could get.

Even today objections remain, but the bulk of opinion seems to have swung to the view that the Canadian pot is a growing one which promises bigger helpings for almost everyone.

It is the sort of thinking expressed by Donald Gordon, president of Canadian National Railways, when he said "Whatever tends to open up Canada and help it grow is good for this railroad" —indicating presumably that what the railways may lose to the seaway in one respect they will gain in another.

OPPOSITION WANES

Montreal used to oppose the seaway, fearing it would cut down Montreal as an ocean port. There may still be lingering doubts there but enthusiasm is more evident.

A Montreal engineer told me: "When the seaway comes we shall have to double the facilities of Montreal harbor." And looking farther east he said:

"Maritime ports will handle more Canadian goods than ever."

A deep seaway will bring more ocean ships into the Great Lakes. Increasing numbers of small, modern European freighters are already plying inland, and European shipping companies are planning for opportunities that they believe a seaway will bring.

It is felt, however, that it will be more economic to ship bulk cargoes, such as wheat, to Montreal or farther points by lower-cost lake ships. Additionally, a large proportion of the grain crop is carried as ballast in liners which won't come into the lakes.

CHANGES DOWN RIVER

The difference would be that grain would move farther east before the close of lake navigation and would be stored at ports from Montreal down.

Rimouski, Que., and Louisburg, N.S., are among ports mentioned as possibilities in this connection.

Rimouski, as a port farther up the river, might fit into a pattern whereby ships carrying Labrador iron ore to Lake Erie would proceed, say, to Port Colborne at the eastern end of Lake Erie, or even to Port Arthur or Fort William, to pick up grain.

In any event, say seaway students, the enlarged storage from Montreal eastward would increase the winter railway flow of grain to Canadian Atlantic ports.

In summer, on the other hand, they see products of the Atlantic provinces — including lumber, newsprint and agricultural products—finding low-cost water transportation into central Canada and the United States, with less dependence on overseas markets.

SPURS COMPETITION

In regard to possible injuries from the seaway, a Bank of Nova Scotia survey comments:

"The Cape Breton coal industry will be faced with increased competition from United States coal in its present Quebec market. Similarly, the inland shipyards will be subject to competition from coastal yards and perhaps from overseas yards, though they may get an increased volume of maintenance and repair work.

"The Canallers (smaller ships which now operate in the 14-foot canals) will be up against most unequal competition once large freighters can pass freely up and down the St. Lawrence.

"Generally speaking, however, fears of injury from the seaway have probably been exaggerated.

The United States coal industry, which opposed the Tennessee Valley Authority as it now opposes St. Lawrence power, found that, far from being decreased, consumption of coal was enlarged in the area served by TVA because of the industrial stimulus provided by cheap water-power."

CHEAPER CARGOES?

Seaway economists estimate that five cents a bushel will be saved on the cost of grain shipments to Montreal when the big lakers can go right through; and perhaps another cent through elimination of lake transhipment cost. Further, in the words of G. G. McLeod, department of transport economist:

"Since upbound cargoes promise to outweigh the down—just the opposite of today—competition for downbound grain cargoes should lower rates to give them the greater part of the benefit."

Mr. McLeod says, too, that British Columbia lumber may find the seaway a lower-cost route into central Canada.

Capacity of the present 14-foot canals between Lake Ontario and Montreal is about 10,000,000 tons a year. Estimated capacity of the 27-foot canals would be about 50,000,000 tons and it is proposed to build them so that capacity can be doubled to 100,000,000 tons, and so they can be deepened to 30 feet if desired.

From where will such tonnages come?

As one item, Labrador Iron Ore Company, scheduled to come into production next year, says the seaway would allow it to ship 20,000,000 tons of ore a year instead of the 10,000,000 tons to which it feels present facilities limit it; and the bigger figure is by no means regarded as a ceiling.

As already indicated, a larger movement of grain is another expected item.

Probably the biggest factor, however, is Canada's expected growth. It is this which promises bigger helpings from a bigger pot.

Charges Police Passed Speeches

OTTAWA (CP)—Erhart Regier (CCF — Burnaby-Coquitlam) said Thursday in the Commons that during the summer election campaign candidates in some ridings had to submit texts of their speeches beforehand to the police.

He did not specify the ridings in his Commons speech, but later in an interview said he was referring to constituencies in Quebec, in the neighborhood of Montreal.

Mr. Regier, who was making his maiden speech, is the first Mennonite elected to the Commons. There are some 135,000 Mennonites in Canada.

He said campaign helpers for some candidates also had to obtain police permits before they could distribute election literature.

This was a denial of freedom and the government should take action to see that it did not recur.

Grid Orfuns Considering ORFU Senior "A" In 1954

Peterborough Orfuns are seriously considering stepping up to the ORFU senior "A" category next year provided they are accepted into that grouping. This was pretty well agreed upon, though no vote was taken on the matter, at an executive meeting of the club last night, with President Don Aitken in the chair.

While they are at least $3,000 in debt at present, it was felt that this deficit would be wiped out and the club would be further ahead in 1954 to be playing in a first-rate senior league than in the unsatisfactory setup of the past few seasons. Only Cobourg Ghosts gave Orfuns and their fans real competition the past season in the group race.

"We'd have more expenses in senior company," the president pointed out, "but we'd have far better games—with no defaults—and we should draw much larger crowds." Even at that, it was noted the Orfuns would have come closer to breaking even financially this year but for the bad snowstorm two Saturdays ago when the ORFU intermediate "A" final was played here.

USE SOME IMPORTS

Club officials will consider the matter of applying for entry in the senior setup—where four American imports could be used, or three and Tony Kotowski as a player—and possibly take action in this respect early in the new year. Meantime, they plan to wipe out their deficit.

Besides selling draw tickets, one method decided upon toward balancing the books is for the club to sell Christmas trees this month and next. Already they have a lot of orders and are buying Scotch pine and spruce in the near future. Orders may be placed now with members of the executive who, with the players, will do the necessary work involved. Trees will be set up in certain lots, sold at regular prices and delivered to customers. It was reported that the Orfuns broke even financially on the Montreal trip.

D. Pacey Sets Pace

In Wednesday afternoon bowling at Playfair, D. Pacey had high triple of 674 with singles of 238, 222 and 214, as H. Heckman came next with 604, including 230 and 202 singles. Whizz Bangs led teams with 2487 pinnage and a high game of 918.

Good singles included: G. Blondin 246, E. Ranesbottom 218, O. Downer 217, M. Kennedy 216, D. Herron 208, M. Downer 207 and H. Mesley 203; better triples were: E. Ranesbottom 565, H. Mesley 533, O. Downer 520, M. Kennedy 515, F. Kokesh 508 and P. Jackman 501.

COBA Chooses R. Baker New President

Robert Baker of Peterborough was elected president of the tral Ontario Badminton Association for 1953-54 at the annual meeting held in Cobourg. James Irwin of Cobourg was chosen vice-president. and Robert Gallagher of Bowmanville secretary. There were representatives on hand from Trenton RCAF, Cobourg, Port Hope, Bowmanville, Oshawa and Peterborough.

Trenton RCAF officials felt they could not handle the annual Central Ontario tournament this season, and Peterborough was asked to check into possibilities of holding the competition here. It was decided to collect 25 cents a member from each club, with 10 cents going to the Ontario Association. The meeting did not think the smaller clubs in the district could collect a dollar a person which the Canadian Association asked.

The Peterborough Club will play Oshawa Flying Club this Saturday here at the Market Hall, and will go to Bowmanville next weekend.

The junior division of the local club is quite active again this season, playing on Tuesday and Saturday afternoons.

Alouettes Hope Second Stand Will Be Better

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Alouettes, their backs to the wall in the Big Four football playoffs, make their second stand against Hamilton Tiger-Cats Sunday in the best-of-three league playoff. Hamilton took the opener 37-12.

"Our worst football of the year" is the way coach Doug Walker summed up the Hamilton game.

"We didn't come near the football we are capable of. The injury situation is still serious. It helped wear down the players. I'm looking for a decided improvement Sunday."

QUESTION MARKS

Tex Coulter, Ray Cicia, Jim Miller and Phil Adrien are the question marks for the second game. The first three didn't make the Hamilton trip. Adrien was on the bench due to an arm injury suffered in Toronto Saturday.

Rookie end Tommy Moran made his pro debut at Hamilton but didn't even get his uniform dirty as coach Walker felt the pace too tough to use a freshman.

Tommy Manastersky and Al Dekdebrun played despite Manastersky's injured knee and Dekdebrun's left hand in a cast.

Some curlers curl bare-headed, the odd one wears a christie or a fedora, but the majority wear tams of one color or another, and generally well decorated. They add color, and in many cases are the envy of brother curlers. But that new one that Pete Moore brought home from the Old Country is tops. We can't describe it—you just have to see it for yourself.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

With much fanafare they open the new artificial ice arena in Marmora tonight. At least the artificial ice plant is new in the fine arena there, and folks down that way may well be pardoned for pride in having such a plant in a village rink. There'll be band music official opening ceremony, some speeches, figure skating show and an exhibition puck match between district squads, Dit Clapper being on deck to referee. A great deal of credit goes to all who raised some $30,000 since last spring and donated time and effort, too, to put across this project, a grand thing for the community and indeed the Trent Valley district.

* * * * * * *

Theatre owner Albert Maynes of Marmora sponsored the idea late last winter and spring, donating $1,000 and giving gratis use of his theatre for many fund-raising events. Engineer Jim Keeley of Deloro Smelting Co. cut down on expenses by giving his services. Employees at Deloro and on the Bethlehem Steel job donated from pay cheques. Ditto with firms in the village, the man on the street, Marmora puckists of the TVL, many district contributors, etc. The arena commission toiled like troopers. Others, too, all combining to put the deal over, and tonight there will be the pride of a job well done in this busy village. Our congratulations, Marmora.

About The PMHA-ers

PMHA results of last night are in elsewhere, the minor puckists having now completed two weeks of play in bantam, midget and juve divisions at Civic. They won't see action on the ice next Thursday, since that's "Booster Night" for the young hockeyists. It features a game between the junior Petes of the OHA and Peterborough Oldtimers at eight p.m. Also between periods a broomball tilt betwixt local police and firemen. A door prize given by Ed. Riley, to the value of $250 for a lady or man. The oldsters have a puck drill at six Monday eve, and are asked to bring their skates, if they can still skate!! Should be lots of fun.

* * * * * * *

After a week of idleness, but for practices, the TPT Petes swing back into OHA senior "B" action here tonight, taking on the Oshawa Truckmen at 8.30 in Civic Arena. First showing here this season of the league-leading Truckers, who hold one decision over Eddie Redmond's men. Kingston come here Monday to make it a rather strenuous weekend for the TPT-ers. However, it's quite a scramble so far in this strong circuit, with so-called upsets occurring all over the place. Petes are due to click back into top form and grab a couple of victories again, and it would be thrilling to see 'em do it at the expense of such classy clubs as Truckmen and Goodyears. Tonight's tilt ought to be a pip.

To Step Up Or What?

Off and on through the fall, officials of the Grid Orfuns have toyed with the thought of stepping up next year to senior ORFU ranks, if that group will accept them. Local executive is considering it more seriously now and may make application after the first of the year, once present debts are cleared away. They know the senior proposition is expensive but argue that the intermediate grouping down this way has developed into a bush league affair—only Cobourg and Peterborough coming up with decent teams—and they claim clubs like Sarnia, Beaches and Kitchener coming here would draw huge crowds. Orfuns would have a fine draw on players from Cobourg, Oshawa and Orillia, possibly a few from Toronto, and would be allowed four USA imports. In any case, they're mulling the matter over for a month or two.

* * * * * * *

There's a little matter first, of course, of cleaning up a 1953 deficit of $3,000 or so. But Prexy Dr. Don Aitken and executive feel this can be done ere the end of the year. They would have broken about even on the season but for that terrific snowstorm two Saturdays back when the ORFU final was staged here. The provincial champs of two years would have drawn a dandy crowd then if given fair weather. Anyway, along with a draw, the executive plans to sell a a batch of Christmas trees here this month and next to raise some money in a hurry and get out of the red. Plans are well underway and they're taking orders now. You've really got to explore all the angles in sports now to keep up with that fast dollar, eh?

Mustangs Set Sights On Grid Title

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—The University of Western Ontario Mustangs are setting their sights on their second straight intercollegiate football title and their seventh in nine years, when they face University of Toronto Blues at Varsity Stadium Saturday.

Two straight losses to Toronto and McGill in their last two starts have cast the Mustangs in the role of underdogs for the playoff tilt.

Johnny Metras said he feels the two losses will help "fire up" his Mustangs — something they will need against the powerful Blues.

Bob Masterson's team has defeated Western two out of three games this season. The Blues took an exhibition game early in the campaign 11-1 in Toronto. The two teams split during the regular season with Western winning in London 13-10 and the Blues taking a 12-0 decision in Toronto.

TOP SCORER

The Mustangs will send the league's top scorer into action in Gino Fracas. Steve Oneschuk of the Blues finished in a tie with Ron Stewart of Queen's with 40 points, four less than Fracas.

Western has a long injury list but all players, with the exception of halfback Ralph Simmons, are expected to play Saturday. Simmons, fullback Jacques Belec, guard Jack Thompson and halfback Murray Henderson missed last Saturday's game with McGill.

Belec, Henderson and Thompson have leg injuries but will be set for action. Don Prowse and Bob Turner have broken noses, but will play with face guards, while punter Jocko Thompson has a hip injury and tackle Ted Collins is on the limp.

Montreal Canadiens defeated Boston Bruins 1-0 in the first professional hockey game played at the Boston Garden 25 years ago tonight. IOOF Edges Out Norwood In Close PMHA Juve Fray

In PMHA games at Civic Arena last evening, Oddfellows yanked out a 3-2 victory over Norwood in a keen juvenile joust, Shamrocks nosed the midget Aces by a 3-2 count, and the bantam Aces blanked Optimists 3-0 in exhibition play. Referee Ed Woodcock gave P. Heffernan of midget Aces a match misconduct penalty at 10.15 of the last period, following a minor for elbowing, a misconduct for throwing his stick, with the match following for abusive language. The player will be reported to league officials.

Ruttan put Norwood juves up in the first frame on McMillan's pass, and Patterson made it 2-0 in the second. But IOOF tied it in the middle heat with Hunt scoring one and Kearns getting a goal and an assist. It was won in the third on a tally by Carr from Pagett. The winners drew four of the seven penalties in a neat number.

CLOSE IN FIRST

The midget melee saw it 1-1 in the first, Coombes counting for Shamrocks from Darling and Baker, as Naish scored for Aces from Murphy. Heron got one in the second for the eventual winners, and Darling added one for them next stanza from Pace, as Murphy notched the Aces' last goal. Each side got six penalties in chippy going.

The bantam tussle saw Billingsley and Anthony each score one and aid on one in the first period, while Vilneff notched the last marker in the next chukker. Three penalties apiece were handed out in the clean exhibition match. Teams:

Bantam Optimists: McArthur, Clayton, Randall, G. Heffernan, Birkhof, Trude, Ruttan, Davis, Dunn, Rogow, Morley, Henderson, Downer, Drummond, Daynes.

Crowe Remains Ottawa Coach

OTTAWA (CP)—Clem Crowe remains as coach of Ottawa Rough Riders.

A management committee of the Ottawa football club decided Thursday to keep Crowe on for his fourth year as coach of the team that finished third in the Big Four football union this season.

Club president Jim McCaffrey said Crowe has agreed to a contract "similar" to last year's. There were "a few incidentals to get straightened out," but Crowe was generally "happy" with the agreement. The contract is for one year.

Crowe, 49, came to Ottawa in 1951 after coaching Buffalo Bills and Baltimore Colts. In his first year, he led the Rough Riders to the Grey Cup, defeating Saskatchewan Roughriders for the Canadian championships. The next year, his team finished third.

This year, Crowe's salary was estimated at about $10,000—lowest in the Big Four.

Montreal Subdues Toronto 1-0 Behind Geoffrion

By WALTER, GRAY, Canadian Press Staff Writer

When Montreal Canadiens practically mortgaged their Forum for Jean Beliveau, the gold-plated rookie from Quebec, Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion, then the Habs' glamor kid, was forced into second billing on the pre-season roster. But as the National Hockey League show got rolling Beliveau seemed to develop an allergy to scoring and his usual colorful brand of hockey and finally bowed out temporarily with a fractured ankle.

The 22-year-old Geoffrion burst into the season like a sky rocket and showered the league with fiery performances and game-winning goals.

The native-born Montrealer did it again Thursday night. His goal at 4:31 of the second period gave the leading Canadiens a 1-0 victory over Toronto Maple Leafs and snapped the Leafs' unbeaten string of eight games.

IN THIRD PLACE

The loss sent the Leafs sliding into third place; Detroit Red Wings defeated the fourth-place Boston Bruins 3-2 to move into sole possession of second spot, two points behind Canadiens.

Geoffrion's goal was his eighth of the season and gave him 17 scoring points, the same as Dutch Reibel of the Red Wings. It came on an assist from Elmer Lach.

The shutout was Gerry McNeil's third this season.

Detroit's hometown victory over the Bruins came on a goal by Gord Howe in the last five minutes. The goal, plus an assist on rookie Bill Dineen's second-period marker, sent Howe's scoring stock up to a leading 22 points. Linemate Ted Lindsay, with Metro Prystai, assisted on Howe's goal to give him 19 points. Alex Delvecchio scored the other Wing goal.

GAVE BRUINS LEAD

Fleming Mackell and Ed Sandford gave the Bruins a 2-0 lead before the Wings took over.

Tonight, in the league's only action, the Bruins journey to Chicago where Black Hawk coach Sid Abel unveils his latest find, 19-year-old Fred Sasakamoose, a full-blooded Cree Indian and an honorary Indian chief. Sasakamoose, as a centre with Moose Jaw Canucks this season, was one of the top scorers of the Western Junior Hockey League.

'Foolproof' Loan Plan Proposed For Grain Farmers

OTTAWA (CP) — A "foolproof" plan to make immediate loans to western farmers holding stocks of farm-stored grain was proposed Thursday by D. S. Harkness (PC—Calgary North).

Speaking in the Commons throne speech debate, Mr. Harkness made his proposal after challenging Trade Minister Howe's Wednesday statement that credit is not required by western growers.

A "desperate need" exists in western Canada for advances on farm-stored grain, said Mr. Harkness.

He accused Mr. Howe of being "optimistic in regard to other people's troubles." This optimism would not help the farmer who needed ready cash to pay bills and feed his family this winter. money advanced to farmers by banks could be made a first charge against farm-stored grain on delivery. Elevator agents could send farmers' cheques for grain to the banks until the loans were paid off.

The farm-stored grain, Mr. Harkness said, could be insured against fire by the banks. In addition, farmers could pay half a cent a bushel into a fund on delivery of grain to cover any other losses.

BERLIN (Reuters)—East Berlin border police Thursday fired at a 14-year-old girl, who refused to have her identity card checked. West Berlin police said. The girl ran across the border to the United States sector, unhurt.

Will Testify On Mental State Of Accused

QUEBEC (CP)—Defence testimony was expected today on the mental state of Georges Hebert, 45-year-old cement worker, charged in the ax-slaying of his four children.

Hebert is standing trial for the murder of his nine-year-old son, Rene, whose body was found last April in the family's suburban apartment along with those of his sisters, Lousette, 7, and Nicole, 5, and his brother, Gaetan, 3. The blunt edge of an ax had been used to crush the skulls of all four.

Hebert, whose testimony Thursday left many spectators and jury men in tears, was to be cross-examined again this morning by crown prosecutor Noel Dorion.

It was believed doctors examined Hebert during the night to see if he was physically able to continue his testimony. He sobbed continually during his testimony and appeared near exhaustion.

Hebert testified Thursday his wife, Gemma, 34, who faces trial for neglecting her children, "went out" and "never wanted to come back to the house."

NEEDED MONEY

He said he tried to explain to his children last April 21, only a few hours before they were killed, that he would have to place them in a home because "I had to earn money for them."

"My little girl reached for her little broom and said 'I can keep house, papa', while the others held me and said 'papa, we're staying with you, don't put us in a home.'"

Later he described what he said happened during the night.

"I was discouraged to find I did not have enough money to buy fuel oil," he told the court. "I fell asleep crying. I got up in the middle of the night. I discovered that I had my ax beside my bed and was cutting my throat . . . I realized that my children were all dead and that I was alone in the house. I got up and made the rounds of the beds and I said my beads. . . ."

SPENT DAY ALONE

The next day he spent alone in the house: "I said my beads, I took their little hands and kissed them."

Hebert said that the next day he went to see an undertaker about funeral arrangements. He was arrested shortly after.

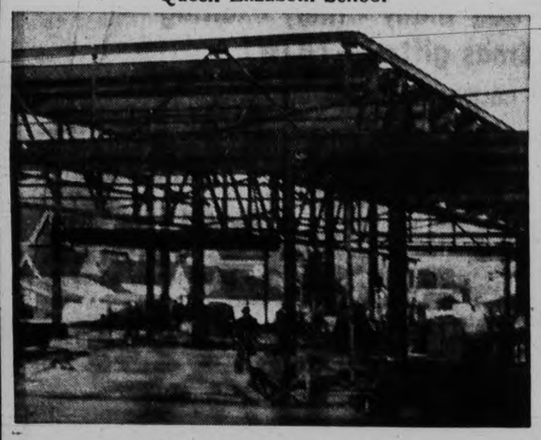
Construction Work Aplenty As Building Boom Hits City



Federal Building

Woolworth Building

Queen Elizabeth School

Outboard Marine Addition

Grace United Church

St. Giles' Church

More contracting construction companies were at work in Peterborough this week than at any other time in the city's century.

Buildings for manufacturing, stores, churches, schools, housing, extension of necessary community facilities in the laying of sewers and making new streets.

All these materializing projects require the expenditure of some millions of dollars and the employment of many construction workers.

The only period comparable in degree of activity in new building was in the fall of 1951. That was the final stage of Max J. Swanston's mayoralty, a year of remarkable expansion and particularly in the completion of undertakings of major importance, especially in the civic household such as — the City Hall, Civic Hospital, Kenner Collegiate Institute, and the enlargement of the sewage disposal plant.

In the total financial investment that year of 1951 may have actually been an all time peak in Peterborough's development. However, that is looking backward, and the interesting fact of continuing development, here in Peterborough, is this year's sustained program of new works and another salient peak in the city's record of development.

SUGGEST CONFIDENCE

They suggest a community spirit and background of confidence and enterprise, faith in things and their tomorrows, and not the intimations and warnings of a "mild recession" which the glooms would enlarge into a depression.

Whatever the economists have to say, and their ranks are divided, as reflected in newspaper columns, especially on the financial pages, new building booms, apart altogether from the residential subdivisions.

It is interesting to run down the names of contractors who could be listed as engaged here this week and generally to indicate the work they were doing:

Outboard Marine and Manufacturing Co., expansive enlargement of factory plant, contractor Eastwood Construction Co. of Peterborough, Romaine St. and Monaghan Road.

McGinness Trailers Ltd., new industrial buildings, Lansdowne St. east, contractor Walter Mortlock of Peterborough.

F. W. Woolworth Co. Ltd., new merchandising building, at Charlotte and George Streets; contractor, Richard and B. A. Ryan Construction Co., Toronto-Montreal.

SIMPSON - SEARS

Simpson-Sears Ltd., new unit of national chain of retail stores on Lansdowne St. west of Monaghan Road, contractor is the Carroll Contracting Co., Toronto.

Grace United Church, Monaghan Road and Howden Ave., contractor Charles Huffman Co. Ltd.

Queen Elizabeth School, at the north end of the city, eight room enlargement, contractor Walter Mortlock of Peterborough.

Post Office and Customs House, Charlotte St., a job that was laid down by the federal government; contractor, M. Sullivan and Son, Arnprior and Kingston.

Zeller's Limited— big addition on Simcoe St. to their store at the corner of George St.; contractor, Bradford - Hoshal Ltd., Toronto, Port Hope.

St. Giles Presbyterian Church, Park St. south, in the vicinity of Confederation School; contractor, Charles Huffman Ltd.

St. Peter's High School, at the rear on Downie St. of the school that faces on Reid St.; contractor, M. Sullivan and Son, Arnprior and Kingston.

Miller Construction Co. is now working on the last units of their series of apartment buildings on Clonsilla Ave.

Peter Mohan & Son, Toronto, laying the new sewer on Monaghan Road, Borden Ave., etc.

Cornish Construction Co., Oshawa, completing the Armour road watermain to McGinnis Trailers Ltd. on Lansdowne St.

GLIMPSE OF INVESTMENT

That is a glimpse of the investment that has been underway this week in Peterborough. The variety of these works extends to the laying of sewers and watermains, apart from the construction of buildings, but they all enter into the diverse and very substantial enlargement of properties, most of which will carry over into 1954 before they come to completion.

This entire pattern tells a story of confidence in the future of Peterborough, and is only a small part of this year's growth of the nation.

Canadian Tax Policies Aimed At Development Of Economy

NEW YORK (CP) — Canadian corporation tax policies are aimed at development of Canada's economy, Finance Minister Douglas Abbott said today.

In an address prepared for delivery before the American Management Association, Mr. Abbott said the government has tried to develop a corporate tax structure "appropriate to our rapidly-expanding economy."

"We must maintain a high level of investment in both manufacturing industry and natural resources," he said. "At the same time, we must gather in revenue sufficent to pay for a high level of defence preparedness and for an expanded social security program.

"Our tax system is part of our policy of achieving this without imposing the unfair burdens of inflation."

Dealing specifically with primary industries, Mr. Abbott said he wanted to stress that "tax abatement devices have played aquite important part as incentives in our natural resources industries."

The finance minister said Canada relies relatively heavily on sales and excise taxes.

"I have been much concerned over high rates of income tax," he said. "We in Canada feel they tend to encourage extravagant expenditure by business and they blunt the incentives of both management and labor.

"Thus, we have emphasized a reasonable balance between taxes on spending and taxes on earning."

Blames Smog Pall For Awful Accent

BIRMINGHAM, England (AP)— A diction expert blames the smog pall which hangs over this industrial city for the "awful" accent of its dwellers.

Frank Jones, author of a book on proper English, explained:

"Birmingham people who opened their mouths to make the correct sounds found themselves gulping in a mouthful of dirty air. So they developed a technique of opening their lips only to the smallest possible slit and then straining the words through in a way which distorts them."

Three Plead Guilty In Counterfeit Case

MONTREAL (CP) — Three men pleaded guilty in sessions court Thursday to charges of attempting to "pass" $850 in counterfeit American $10 bills. RCMP officers and American agents said the money was the last of $300,000 worth of counterfeit money issued in Buffalo eight years ago.

The three, all from Quebec province were remanded for sentence Dec. 9.

Plan New Collegiate

WOODSTOCK (CP) — Board of education decided Thursday night to seek approval of its proposed new $616,000 collegiate. City council will be asked to get approval of the Ontario municipal board and issue necessary debentures.

Court Affirms Two Convictions

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — The Court of Appeals today affirmed the first-degree murder conviction of Maurice O'Dell and Walter Griffen, two Canadians, for the holdup-slaying of a Buffalo jeweler, and sentenced them to die in the electric chair at Sing Sing prison the week of Jan. 4.

O'Dell, 27, and Griffen, 26, both of Hamilton, shot Donald F. Hurd to death in his jewelry store in Buffalo during a robbery last Dec. 9.

The two were convicted at Buffalo April 16.

Griffen testified that O'Dell fired the fatal bullet. Griffen admitted he took part in the robbery, which netted an estimated $37,000 in gems. Some of the loot was recovered.

Dr. J.S. Laughton Joins Staff At Civic Hospital

Dr. John S. Laughton of 327 Charlotte St., has been appointed to the medical staff of Civic Hospital.

The appointment was made on Thursday night at the November meeting of the board of governors, on the recommendation of the medical and surgical advisory committee.

Dr. Laughton, a surgeon, was taken on as a temporary member of the staff more than three weeks ago pending the approval of the board of governors.

TOKEN PAYMENT

The medical and surgical advisory committee have also suggested a token payment by the hospital to the medical staff. Members of the staff give lectures to student nurses as well as other services for which they are not paid.

A letter from the executive of the medical staff was received by the board of governors. The suggestion was "approved in principle" by the governors, with Alderman Douglas Miller and Reeve Dick Stewart unsuccessfully bringing in an amendment to hold the resolution in abeyance until a more thorough study is made of the doctors' services.

As outlined in the letter, the payment would be only token—not an exact reckoning in dollars and cents of the work done by the medical staffers. The money would be spent in the hospital on things that are needed, such as books for the medical library.

MILAN (Reuters)—Police Thur day night found 1,000 pounds of nickel hidden in a car in which a Swiss couple and their two children were travelling towards the Swiss frontier. McGregor Says CPR Missed Airline Chance

SUDBURY (CP) — G. R. McGregor, president of Trans-Canada Air Lines, said Thursday night that the Canadian Pacific Railways was given a chance in 1937 to join with Canadian National Railways as an equal partner in setting up a cross-Canada airline but "turned down the suggestion and has regretted it to this day."

Addressing the annual meeting of the Sudbury and district Chamber of Commerce, he said it is not economically sound at present for two airlines to carry on east-west operations on a national scale —the publicly-owned TCA now has a monopoly—although the time may come when it is feasible.

An application by Canadian Pacific Airlines to fly cross-country cargo planes was recently turned down by the cabinet.

Tax-Rental Agreements Seen Stabilizing Factor For Revenues

REGINA — (CP) — Dominion-provincial taxation agreements have become the major stabilizing factor in Saskatchewan government revenues, vulnerable to the uncertain changes of an agricultural economy.

An analysis of the provincial budget, published by the provincial economic advisory and planning board, says the federal payments "offer a degree of stability not previously present" in provincial revenue.

The analysis was published in two editions of the government periodical, Saskatchewan Economic Review.

OTHER MAJOR REVENUES

The Review says other major revenue sources, liquor sales profits, the province's three-per-cent sales tax and motor vehicle licences, are greatly dependent on personal income which in Saskatchewan fluctuates with agricultural production and prices. Any recession would be reflected immediately by a drop in liquor sales and other revenues.

Only federal payments, granted to provinces for surrendering certain fields of direct taxation, have a definite floor beneath which provincial revenues cannot sink. The tax-rental payments to Saskatchewan last year made 30 per cent of provincial revenue. Estimates for this year amount to $26,034,000, the largest single source of revenue.

MINOR TAXES

The gasoline tax and liquor profits have sunk to the "minor source" classification, the Review says.

The analysis says that an "optimistic" outlook on the economy implies provincial net revenue of about $84,000,000 exclusive of borrowing in 1945-55. This is about $4,000,000 greater than the estimate for 1953-54.

The report, in outlining details of provincial net revenues by major sources in the last 12 years, says provincial revenues were almost tripled to $80,346,000 from $27,313,000.

Sniff Snuff And Sneeze, Growing Habit Among World's Population

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The gold and ivory snuff box is a collector's piece.

Wigged and powdered dandies no longer sniff snuff elegantly from between the thumb and finger, trapping their sneezes in lace handkerchiefs.

But snuff still is big business, and it's growing.

A habit that reached its zenith in the courts of Europe in the 18th century has moved outdoors. And far more snuff is chewed than sniffed these days.

From Canada's wheat fields to cotton plantations of the deep south many a farmhand sniffs or chews instead of smoking.

Sales are booming in the United Kingdom because snuff is cheaper than other tobacco.

Gracie Fields and Winston Churchill have been snuff sniffers.

TV and radio programs promote sale of the stuff in the U.S. tobacco-growing states.

Canadians of Scandinavian origin are the big users in this country.

Here are four stories from Montreal, London, Dallas, Tex., and Charlotte, N.C., with other facts and fancies about a little-known phase of the tobacco industry.

SNUFF HABIT GROWS—The snuff habit reached its zenith in the 18th century courts of Europe but is still big business in Canada and other parts of the world. Gracie Fields and Sir Winston Churchill have been snuff sniffers. When things get rough for Harry J. Brown, supervisor of a communication company's messenger service in Montreal, he reaches for a pinch of snuff.—(CP Photo).

IN CANADA

MONTREAL — Scandinavian-Canadians are the greatest users of snuff in Canada. That partly explains why the big market is the Prairies. Another reason is that men doing dusty work on wheat, in field and elevator, often aren't allowed to smoke and so they chew instead. Tobacco companies also sell a lot of plug tobacco in the West.

Farm workers put a wad of snuff between lower lip and teeth before going on the job. So do many Quebec textile plant workers and men in lumber camps from coast to coast.

Two principal kinds of snuff are sold in Canada: damp for chewing or sniffing, and dry for sniffing only.

The clerk's table in the Quebec legislative assembly has an elaborate snuff box kept filled while the house is in session. No one has ever been seen to use it.

Canada's expert snuff-maker probably is Ubald Beaudoin, present owner of N. Landry et Cie. in Montreal. When he took over the business 25 years ago he got the firm's secret formulae. He would pass these on if he sold out.

ANNUAL OUTPUT

The firm makes 30,000 pounds a year of Canada's annual output of almost 1,000,000 pounds. Its most popular brand is Rose No. 1—a damp snuff. Another is Rose et Feve—rose-scented like the first and containing some ground Tonka bean from South America—which is popular in Quebec City and the lower St. Lawrence region.

Some older members of the Quebec clergy are snuff sniffers. One popular preacher of retreats never delivers a tough sermon without first taking a pinch. An average sniffer uses an ounce in two weeks taking about two pinches an hour.

Some say consumption increases with age, not because of heavier sniffing but because shaking hands scatter more on the floor. One old Quebec cure uses five pounds a month.

The price here is $1.80 a pound plus 13 cents federal and provincial taxation. Dark Ontario tobacco stalks and cigar-filler leaf ribs go into good snuff, apart from essence of rose, Tomka bean and sometimes menthol.

TEXANS BIG USERS

DALLAS, Tex.—Texans, who do everything in a big way, buy about 3,000,000 pounds of snuff a year.

R. H. Stanely of Dallas, whose American Snuff Co. does 96 per cent of the snuff business in the state, finds business everywhere but says it's primarily a farmers' habit. The big market is in the eastern part of Texas where the corn and cotton grow.

Less snuff is used by farmers and ranchers in western Texas because, says Stanley, there are a lot of dust storms there.

"Brother, you've got to have something in your mouth when the dust is blowing. When you use snuff you just run your tongue over it when you want to get the flavor. But tobacco keeps your mouth working and more moist."

His company ran an essay contest once on "Why I Like Snuff" and got three entries from the swankiest neighborhood in Dallas. Stanley checked them personally.

Two entries were from ladies who said certainly they use snuff while directing the servants around their elaborate homes. The third was from a little girl who was just trying to win a prize.

Stanley says 1950 was a big year for the snuff business in Texas. The reason seemed to be that his company sent a lot of samples to oil refineries, where smoking isn't allowed.

FLAVOR LINGERS

"We made big inroads in the tobacco chewers. When you've chewed the flavor out of tobacco all you have left is an old, bitter cud. But as long as you've got one grain of snuff in your mouth you get the flavor."

Negroes are "great contributors" to the snuff business.

Texas snuff is dry, ground finer than flour. The finer it's ground the more easily it packs down. Texans usually put a pinch of it under the lower lip or between the jaw teeth and cheek.

Another popular method is to peel a hackberry twig, chew the end into a brush, dip your snuff and scrub it over your teeth. It has to be a hackberry twig. During the depression farmers sometimes brushed their teeth with hackberry twigs. They make usable brushes.

A little damp snuff is sold in Texas but Texans prefer dry. The dry climate seems to make it hard to keep damp snuff fresh.

Stanley says as far as he knows Texans don't use fancy snuff boxes any more.

"We don't encourage it. They consume a lot more snuff if they don't have to carry it around in fancy little boxes."

COMEBACK IN BRITAIN

LONDON—Snuff is making a comeback in Britain. It is less heavily taxed than other tobaccos and goes farther. A lot of Britons turned to snuff during the war when "no smoking" was the rule in many factories and in the cockpit.

Britons sniff their snuff while Scandinavians and north Americans mostly suck it. They are buying six times more than before the war. About 1,500 tons of snuff is manufactured annually—about one-third of it for home use at 28,000,000 pinches to the ton.

Moderate sniffers don't use much more than an ounce a month. Prices range from 3s. to 12s. an ounce compared with cigarets at 3s 7d. for 20. No one expects snuff to achieve its one-time popularity.

Its reign is generally considered to have extended from 1700 to George IV's dandified era. He died in 1830. Queen Victoria's dislike of all tobacco, the coming of the white linen handkerchief and the growing popularity of cigar and cigaret were responsible for its decline to a point where use of snuff was considered disgusting.

But snuff hung on among the working classes and has been traditionally the favorite of lawyers and printers.

EXPENSIVE GIFTS

George IV, a liberal spender in any case, paid £8,000 for snuff boxes for coronation gifts to ambassadors and the like. The ultra-fashionable Viscount Petersham had a different box for each day of the year.

Today snuff boxes are front-rank collectors' items. This summer, £4,400 was paid for a Berlin gold box set with diamonds. Thousands change hands at auction for much smaller prices.

Modern snuff takers use plainer containers, in keeping with the times. The ritual of snuff is less ornate, too. The 18th-century user would deplore the "vacuum cleaner" technique sometimes used. A train of snuff is sprinkled along the back of wrist and hand and the nose is passed briskly over the top, in the manner of a bloodhound on a fresh trail.

Some snuff users claim its use keeps the cold bugs away. The medical profession has not confirmed this. However, a Birmingham firm reported great success with a snuff-and-penicillin mixture it tried on its employees. The experiment halted development of colds but didn't prevent them.

DOCTOR'S OPINION

One British doctor, writing in the British Medical Journal, has recommended use of snuff to break the smoking habit. The drawback is a dulling of the sense of smell.

When it comes to heavy consumption, Scandinavia dominates Europe. The Swedes in 1950 consumed something like 3,000 tons—a pound for each man, woman and child.

Copenhagen, Denmark's capital, has given its name to a "chewing" type of snuff little known in Britain. A spokesman for a 250-year-old firm here—it sold snuff to Napoleon in exile—says it is common for snuff blends to be named for their point of origin.

His firm handles 18 blends. Not many snuff users blend their own nowadays, but some keep several blends on hand for different times of day and different moods.

POPULAR DOWN SOUTH

CHARLOTTE, N.C.—Down in the South where the golden tobacco grows, you can buy snuff at any grocery store or gasoline station along the highway.

Maybe the reason is the folksy promotion it's been fun getting from hillbilly comedians and Tarzan-type actors in jungle settings, on television and radio shows.

"Just as big a seller as ever, according to records," says one North Carolina distributor, and he hints sales actually are going up. So do spokesmen for several other snuff concerns.

Snuff is cheap in the tobacco country—six cents for a half-ounce can. Most sales are in the rural areas.

Jon Hall, the former movie actor, plugs snuff in "Ramar of the Jungle"—a TV show sponsored on 12 selected stations by the second largest snuff producer in the United States. This summer he replaced Smilin' Eddie Hill's hillbilly show.

BIG PROMOTION JOB

Arthur Smith and His Crackerjacks boosted the TubeRose snuff so thoroughly in 1952-53 that his quintet of mournful artists has been retained another year.

Snuff has its audience, all right. On one program someone mentioned that TubeRose had 3,000 paper fans emblazoned with the TubeRose trade mark—the kind you fan with in hot southern churches. TubeRose put an idle fan company back in business and filled requests for 69,000 fans.

Southerners use nothing but the dry type of snuff, said one manufacturer's agent. The little damp snuff sold is used by "foreigners" from other parts of the United States.

And southerners all tuck their snuff between the lip and teeth, he said. There is no snuff-sniffing hereabouts as there is among the Mennonites and Quakers of New Jersey, Pennsylvania and New York.

Ask Comics Ban

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto board of control Thursday night passed a motion calling for a ban on sale of comic books. It protested the selling of comic books which, it said "glorify brutality, crime, war and sex."

Shoots At Children

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Police Thursday night confiscated a .32-calibre revolver from a watchman at a parking lot after several children complained he shot at them. Police seized three blank cartridges, two of which were spent.

The watchman told police he fired one shot into the ground to scare the children away. He said they were climbing around a truck in the lot.

Trinity Church Seeks $36,000 Sunday Canvass

In an effort to secure the 1954 Trinity United church budget, 120 members of the congregation will canvass church families Sunday afternoon between special morning and evening services.

The men, all chosen from the congregation by the special canvass committee, are expecting to visit about 600 families during the afternoon. A tentative object of $36,000 has been set to cover both local and mission work.

The Rev. G. S. Maxwell, pastor at Trinity, said the church would be looking for increased contributions by its members. Next year's objective is $11,500 over 1952's.

A similar canvass of church families by members of the congregation was held in January and it was termed by Mr. Maxwell as "a success."

It is hoped the canvasses will be conducted every November.

A special attraction at both services will be Glenn Gardiner, Toronto baritone, who will render solo selections. Mr. Gardiner has played lead parts in several CBC productions, and is a regular soloist at Eglinton United church, Toronto.

Mr. Maxwell has chosen special themes for both Sunday services. Subject of his morning address will be "Christian Stewardship."

Drivers' Premium

MANCHESTER, England (CP)—An insurance company here is offering a 15-per-cent rebate on premiums for motorists who neither drink nor smoke. The plan will test the belief that teetotal drivers are involved in fewer accidents than others.

Labor Retains Holborn Seat

LONDON (Reuters) — Labor Thursday retained its London parliamentary seat of Holborn and Saint Pancras South with an increased majority in a by-election.

The result gave Labor candidate Mrs. Lena Jeger 15,784 votes to 13,808 for Conservative Timothy Donovan. The Labor majority of 1,976 compared with a majority of 1,759 in the 1951 general election. Liberal candidate Isaac J. Hyam polled 695 votes.

The by-election was called after the death of Dr. Santo Jeger, Mrs. Jeger's husband.

The standing in the Commons: Conservatives and allies 322; Labor 293; Liberals 6; Irish Labor 1; Nationalists 2; vacant 1; total—625.

HOW TO PULL OUT OF A SKID!

Turn your front wheels in the same direction as the skid.

- Don't turn wheels too far in direction of skid. This may throw rear end into dangerous reverse skid.
- Keep your foot lightly on the accelerator to keep rear wheels rolling, and maintain traction.
- Keep your foot off the brake. Jamming on the brakes locks your wheels so that they act like sled runners.
- When you have car straightened out, pump the brakes gently to bring the car to a stop.

Skid turns into dangerous spin.

Skidding stops and car straightens out.

THE WAR MEMOIRS OF WINSTON CHURCHILL

AN UNEASY INTERLUDE

As the German armies in Italy retreated Tito's forces had pushed rapidly into Italian territory in the north-east. They hoped to seize the lands which they claimed in this area, and in particular to capture Trieste before the Anglo-American troops arrived. Both the Americans and ourselves were not only detemined to prevent any frontiers being settled in this manner before the Peace Treaty, but also intended to secure Trieste, with its splendid port, as the essential supply point for our future zones in Austria. We were clear on these issues, and General Alexander, who had visited Tito at Belgrade in March, was accordingly authorised to take the steps necessary to secure the position.

Alexander telegraphed to Tito informing him of his plans. "They are similar," he said, "to those we discussed at Belgrade  I presume that any of your forces which may be in the area affected by my operations will come under my command, as you suggested during our recent discussions in Belgrade, and that you will now issue orders to that effect."

✧ ✧ ✧

Tito's troops had in fact entered Trieste on April 30 (1945) in the hope not only of securing the city and the surrounding area, but also of obtaining the surrender of the German garrison of seven thousand men with all its equipment. It was not until the afternoon of the following day that the Yugoslav forces made contact with the advance-guard of the 2nd New Zealand Division just west of Monfalcone. On May 2 General Freyberg and his New Zealand troops entered Trieste, took the surrender of the German garrison, and occupied the dock areas.

On May 5 Alexander telegraphed:

> Tito  now finds himself in a much stronger military position than he foresaw when I was in Belgrade, and wants to cash in on it. Then he hoped to step into Trieste when finnally I stepped out. Now he wants to be installed there and only allow me user's right.
>
> We must bear in mind that since our meeting he has been to Moscow. I believe he will hold to our original agreement if he can be assured that when I no longer require Trieste as a base for my forces in Austria he will be allowed to incorporate it in his New Yugoslavia.
>
> The last sentence of Alexander's message made it necessary for me to make our political view clear.

I replied on May 6:

"There is no question of your making any agreement with him about incorporating Istria, or any part of the pre-war Italy, in his 'New Yugoslavia.' The destiny of this part of the world is reserved for the peace table, and you should certainly make him aware of this."

(Author's subsequent italics)

✧ ✧ ✧

A week later, on May 12, after the great events had happened in the Western theatre, there arrived from President Truman a most welcome and strong message. He said he was becoming increasingly concerned at Tito's actions in Venezia Giulia. Tito seemed to have no intention of abandoning the territory or letting this ancient problem await a general post-war settlement. We must decide, said the President, whether to uphold the fundamental principles of territorial settlement by orderly process against force, intimidation or blackmail. We should insist, he urged, on Field-Marshal Alexander obtaining complete and exclusive control of Trieste and Pola, the line of communication through Gorizia and Monfalcone, and of a big enough area to the east to assure proper administration. Mr. Truman said we should be prepared to consider any necessary steps to effect Tito's withdrawal.

He suggested informing Stalin of our plans in accordance with the Yalta agreement and concluded as follows: "If we stand firm on this issue, as we are doing in Poland, we can hope to avoid a host of other similar encroachments."

I need not say how relieved I was to receive this invaluable support from my new companion.

PRIME MINISTER TO PRESIDENT TRUMAN

12 May 45

I agree with every word you say, and will work with all my strength on the line you propose  If the situation is handled firmly before our strength is dispersed Europe may be saved from another blood-bath. Otherwise the whole fruits of our victory may be cast away and none of the purposes of World Organisation to prevent territorial aggression and future wars will be attained.

I trust that a standstill order can be given on the movements of the American armies and Air Forces from Europe (to the Far East), at any rate for a few weeks.  In accordance with your suggestion, I am instructing our ambassador at Belgrade to address Tito on the lines which you have set forth

It seems probable that a somewhat violent internal reaction at Washington followed the new President's bold telegram to me. The argument "Don't let us get tied up in Europe" had always been formidable. It had undoubtedly led to the Second World War through the ruin of the League of Nations by the withdrawal of the United States. It was now to play almost as deadly a part at a moment when the future hung in the balance. There was also at this time the desire to finish off Japan by concentrating all available and suitable forces in the Far East. This was supported by the powerful school which had from the beginning set the Far East before Europe. My suggestion of a "standstill" or a "standfast" order seems to have raised this issue adruptly in the President's circle. At any rate, his replies seemed couched in a somewhat different mood to that expressed in his telegram about Trieste.

On May 14 he said he preferred to see what happened before considering a continued though temporary occupation of the Soviet Zone in Germany by the Western Allies. As for the Yugoslavs Mr. Truman declared that we should wait reports about our messages to Belgrade before deciding what forces to use if our troops were attacked. Unless Tito did attack it was impossible to involve the United States in another war. Two days later he declared he was unable and unwilling to involve his country in a war with the Yugoslavs unless they attacked us, in which case we would be justified in using Allied troops to throw them back far enough to stop any further aggression.

Meanwhile the local situation around Trieste sharpened. Yugoslav posts and sentries were restricting our movements. This behaviour, both in Austria and and Venezia Giulia, made a bad impression on the Allied troops, both United States and Britain. Our men were obliged to look on without power to intervene at actions which offended their sense of justice, and felt that they were condoning wrongdoing.

On May 18 I replied to the President.

PRIME MINISTER TO PRESIDENT TRUMAN

19 May 45

I hope you will not mind my putting to you, with great respect, the need for some further consideration of the words "a war with the Yugoslavs," and secondly "attack us." I do not envisage a war with the Yugoslavs, and, short of war, I do not consider Ambassadors should be withdrawn. It is at critical junctures that Ambassadors should be on the spot. Meanwhile Tito's answer has arrived, and is completely negative. We clearly cannot leave matters in this state, and immediate action will now be necessary. Otherwise we shall merely appear to have been bluffing, and will in fact be bluffed out.

I think we should prevent the rough handling of our front-line troops, or inflitrations ostensibly peaceful but contrary to the directions of the Allied commanders and on a scale to endanger the position of our forces where they now stand. For instance, supposing they take up positions all round a British or American unit until they have it at their mercy, are we to wait till they open fire before asking them to move back beyond the line you have indicated as desirable? I am sure this is not what you mean, but it is just the sort of incident which I think may arise.

* * *

In these conditions I should not consider action by Alexander to ensure the proper functioning of his Military Government as constituting "a war with the Yugoslavs." But I certainly think that pressure should be put upon them to quit Trieste and Pola and return to the lines marked out, and that this pressure should be regarded as in the nature of frontier incidents rather than as principal diplomatic decisions. I cannot allow our own troops to be knocked about and mishandled inside the zone which we both consider they are entitled to occupy, on the basis that they are in no circumstances to open fire.

* * *

On May 21 Mr. Truman said he agreed we could not have matters as they were. We should reject Tito's answer and reinforce our troops at once so that the Yugoslavs should have no doubts about our intentions. He proposed that Eisenhower and Alexander should make a show of force by land and air, and time it to coincide with our rejection of Tito's demands. The President thought that a heavy demonstration might bring Tito to his senses, but if hostilities began he doubted if they could be treated as frontier incidents.

He accordingly sent me the text of appropriate instructions for Alexander and Eisenhower, but he ended his telegram with a revealing sentence "I must not have any avoidable interference with the redeployment of American forces to the Pacific."

General Morgan, Alexander's Chief of Staff, eventually agreed with the Yugoslavs upon a line of demarcation around Trieste.

✧ ✧ ✧

It was not until a month had passed of increasing friction with the Soviets and with Tito that Stalin himself addressed me on the Yugoslav problem.

MARSHAL STALIN TO PRIME MINISTER

21 June 45

Notwithstanding the fact that the Yugoslav Government accepted the proposal of the American and British Governments with regard to the Istrian-Trieste region, the conversations in Trieste seem to have reached a deadlock. This is principally to be explained by the fact that the representatives of the Allied Command in the Mediterranean are unwilling to take account even of the minimum wishes of the Yugoslavs. Yet the Yugoslavs earned the merit of liberating this territory from the German invaders, and in that territory moreover the Yugoslav population is in a majority. This position cannot be regarded as satisfactory from the point of view of the Allies.

In my desire not to make matters worse, I have hitherto not drawn attention in our correspondence to the behaviour of Field-Marshal Alexander; but now it is time to emphasize that I cannot accept the supercilious tone with regard to the Yugoslavs which Field-Marshal Alexander has occasionally adopted in these conversations. It is absolutely unacceptable that Field-Marshal Alexander in an official and public message allowed himself to compare Marshal Tito with Hitler and Mussolini. Such a comparison is unjustified and offensive to Yugoslavia.

The Soviet Government also found unexpected the tone of ultimatum in the declaration which the Anglo-American representatives presented to the Yugoslav Government on June 2. How is it possble with such methods to secured solid and positive results?

✧ ✧ ✧

I replied:

PRIME MINISTER TO MARSHAL STALIN

23 June 45.

I thank you for your message of June 21. Our joint idea at the Kremlin in October was that the Yugoslav business should work out around 50-50 Russian and British influence. In fact it is at present more like 90-10, and even in that poor 10 we have been subjected to violent pressure by Marshal Tito. So violent was this pressure that the United States and His Majesty's Government had to put in motion many hundreds of thousands of troops in order to prevent themselves from being attacked by Marshal Tito.

Great cruelties have been inflicted by the Yugoslavs on the Italians in this part of the world, particularly in Trieste and Fiume, and generally they have shown a disposition to grasp all the territory into which their light forces have penetrated. The movement of these light forces could have been made unless you for your part had made immense and welcome advances from the east and in the north, and unless Field-Marshal Alexander had held twenty-seven enemy divisions on his front in Italy and finally reduced them to surrender. I do not consider that it can be said that Marshal Tito had conquered all this territory. It has been conquered by the movements of far greater forces both in the west and in the east which compelled the strategic retreat of the Germans from the Balkans.

At any rate, we have reached an agreement which it is proposed to enforce. We think that any permanent territorial changes should be settled at the peace table, and Marshal Tito is in no way prejudicially accepting the present line which we demand until that meeting takes place. In the interval we can talk all these matters over together at Berlin.

The actual wording of Field-Marshal Alexander's telegram has been largely taken from the President' draft. We do not see why we should be pushed about everywhere, especially by people we have helped, and helped before you were able to make any contact with them. Therefore I do not see any reason to make excuses for Field-Marshal Alexander, although I was not aware that he was going to draft his telegram exactly in this way.

It seems to me that a Russianised frontier running from Lubeck through Eisenach to Trieste and down to Albania is a matter which requires a very great deal of argument conducted between good friends.

These are just the things we have to talk over together at our meeting, which is not long now.

Here for the time being in these pages we may leave the problem of Tito and Trieste.

✧ ✧ ✧

A smaller though not less vexatious dispute arose between de Gaulle and President Truman.

In the closing days of the fighting troops of the First French Army in the Alpine region crossed the frontier and moved forward into North-Western Italy, in the province of Cuneo. Orders were presently issued by General French units concerned under the These orders were ignored by the French unots concerned under the authority of their Government.

On May 30 General Doyen, commanding the French Army in the Alps, sent a letter to General Crittenberger, commander of the United States IVth Corps in North-Western Italy, referring to an attempt to establish Allied military government in the province of Cuneo. The letter ended with the following paragraph: "France cannot consent that a modification against her will be made in the existing state of affairs in the Alpes Maritimes. This would be contrary to her honour and her security. I have been ordered by the Provisional Government of the French Republic to occupy and administer this territory. This mission being incompatible with the installation of an Allied military agency in the same region, I find myself obliged to oppose it. Any insistence in this direction would assume a clearly unfriendly character, even a hostile character, and could have grave consequences." (Author's italics.)

On June 2 General Crittenberger received another letter from General Doyen:

> General de Gaulle has instructed me to make as clear as possible to the Allied Command that I have received the order to prevent the setting up of Allied military government in territories occupied by our troops and administered by us by all necessary means without exception.
>
> This was astonishing language to use in all the circumstances. "Is it not rather disagreeable," I wrote to the President, when Alexander reported the facts, "for us to be addressed in these terms by General de Gaulle, whom we have reinstated in liberated France at some expense of American and British blood and treasure? Our policy with France is one of friendship."
>
> Mr. Truman was indignant. He wrote to de Gaulle, pointing out that the messages contained the almost unbelievable threat that French troops bearing American arms would fight American and Allied soldiers, whose efforts and sacrifices had so recently and successfully helped to liberate France. The President said that as long as this threat remained no more equipment or ammunition would be issued to the French forces.
>
> This produced immediate results. De Gaulle wrote through his Foreign Minister:
>
> Obviously there has never been an intention either in the orders of the French Government or in those of General Doyen, who commands the Army detachment of the Alps, to oppose by force the presence of American troops in the small areas which French troops occupy at present to the east of the 1939 frontier between France and Italy. Besides, American troops are now in these areas side by side with French troops, and here as elsewhere good comradeship prevails. * * * Tomorrow morning General Juin will proceed to Field-Marshal Alexander's headquarters to deal with this order that a solution may be found.
>
> Thus the matter ended, if not pleasantly, at least without another quarrel.

IN MAY, 1945, ALEXANDER, who had liberated Trieste, reported to Churchill: "Tito . . . now finds himself in a much stronger military position than he foresaw when I was in Belgrade, and wants to cash in on it . . . We must bear in mind that since our meeting he has been to Moscow." Photo shows that visit of Tito's to his then political bosses.

Build Hospital As Memorial

ALMONTE (CP)—A $400,000 hospital is to be erected here as a memorial to Dr. James Naismith, the Almonte native who invented basketball 62 years ago.

The 30-bed hospital, normally an impossible undertaking for a town this size, will be financed mainly by the Naismith Memorial Fund, a United States organization which finances research into diseases caused by athletic exertion. Almonte has a population of 2,672.

The fund learned that Dr. Naismith's birthplace needed a hospital about two months ago and agreed to put up most of the money if it would be erected as a memorial to him.

Dr. Naismith, who died about 10 years ago, is credited with inventing basketball while he was athletic director at the YMCA College in Springfield, Mass., in 1891

44 Skaters Will Appear In Canadian Ice Fantasy

Canadian Ice Fantasy which will appear at the Civic Arena Saturday afternoon and night, will include among its stars, Stephen Cavanagh, a native of Peterborough. He will be ranked with such stars as the Flying Wendts, trapeze artists in the movie "The Greatest Show on Earth", and Yvonne Broders, one of America's top ice performers.

Cavanagh was born in Peterborough in November of 1934 and moved to Brockville at the age of one. At the age of 16, after attending college in the U.S. for two years, he returned to Brockville and began taking lessons in figure skating. This was shortly after the Brockville Memorial Centre was opened. He studied from January until April and when the Lake Placid school opened in June, he went there for further training.

In December of last year, Cavanagh and a friend visited the west coast. When Roy Lisogar's Canadian Ice Fantasy played at Nelson, B.C., the two boys joined the show. Cavanagh stayed with the show until it closed in April of last year and then returned to Lake Placid for further instruction. This fall he re-joined the show at Pembroke, where it was organized for its second annual tour.

Cavanagh has many friends and relatives in Peterborough including Mrs. Floyd Curtis and T. J. Cavanagh. Prior to spending his summers at Lake Placid, he spent most of his vacation here in Peterborough and consequently has many friends.

The show has 44 skaters in its cast, as well as the trapeze performers. There will be eight costumed production numbers and twenty separate acts. Another feature of the show will be an Australian commedien, Neville Murray.

Two Horses Share Honors In Race

TORONTO (CP)—Peter Brooke 3rd, owned by A. Toutant of Watton, Que., and Thomas Hat, owned by Alex Parsons of London, Ont., shared honors in the featured fifth race, a conditioned trot, at Dufferin Park Thursday. Each won a heat.

Edna F. Scott, owned by Fawm Bros. of Mitchell and Glendale Doctor, owned by Louis Slater of Rochester, N.Y., divided the fourth and secondary feature, each winning a heat.

Frozen Sleep Treatment Aids Patients

CHICAGO — (AP) — A team of surgeons described today how a "frozen sleep" treatment enabled them to drain and slice open the hearts of human patients so they could see and repair defects inside.

They said the "freezing" technique, which drops body temperatures 20 to 38 degrees greatly lowering normal body functions and requirements, gave them a safe period of up to eight minutes to work inside a dry heart with their view unimpeded.

The surgeons used the treatment on 15 patients. One died during the operation. The heart defect could not be corrected in another. But they said clinical results were excellent in the remaining 13 patients.

COOLED TO 70.7

The doctors said the technique holds promise of general advantages over the "blind" operation, whereby a surgeon is guided only by the feel of his probing finger in the blood-filled chambers inside the reat.

The patients, ranging in age from three months to 28 years, were given an anaesthesia and then immersed in a tub full of ice water. They remained there until their temperatures dropped from a normal 98.6 degrees to between 70.7 and 78.8 degrees.

Fire Extinquished

KEENE (ENS). — A minor fire in a shed at the rear of Gall's store is believed to have been caused by two small boys playing with matches on the cement floor when some packing boxes were ignited, filling the interior of the building with smoke and flames. The fire was quickly extinguished by passers-by and neighbors before any damage was done to the walls.

FLASHING BLADES AND ICE are the trade marks of Stephen Cavanagh, a Peterborough native now a star performer with the Canadian Ice Fantasy show which will be featured at the Civic Arena Saturday afternoon and evening. Cavanagh now makes his home in Brockville, where he first donned the figure skates. Since then, he has studied at Lake Placid, N.Y., and two seasons ago he joined the ranks of the Canadian Ice Fantasy ensemble. This year he will be one of the feature attractions which include the trapeze artists who appeared in the movie, "The Greatest Show On Earth."

Girls' Cage League Opens Play Tonight

The Girls' City Basketball League opens its schedule tonight in the YWCA gym at 7.30, president Mabel Gillen announces. The first game of the double-header has Collis' team playing the CGE girls, and this one is followed an hour later by Black's against the Nurses. The fifth team in the circuit, Lindsay, draws a bye this week.

Shortly after that date, the playoffs will commence. No playoff arrangements have been made as yet in this classy cage league for lasses. Their games are always on Friday evenings in twin bills at the YWCA.

Alberta Wins Steer Award At Winter Fair

By CRAIG SWAYZE

TORONTO (CP)—Alberta won the grand championship steer award of the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair Thursday when Killearn Conquest was chosen over 23 other 1953 class winners for the premier cattle prize.

The 18 - month - old shorthorn brought Ed Noad of Claresholm, Alta., his second royal grand title and Alberta its fourth. Stomore Knockout, a shorthorn cross-bred owned by T. J. Stow of Graysville, Man., was reserve winner.

Ross Graham, a 17-year-old 4-H Club member from Palmerston won the Queen's guineas with his aberdeen angus steer, Ike. Donald Vancise, 16, of Stayner was reserve winner with his hereford, Crusty.

There were 127 competitors in this year's guineas, a class restricted to Ontario 4-H calf club members. Exhibitors must be between 14 and 21 years old and their steer must have won at least 75 per cent of local judging and have gained 1.75 pounds a day from May to October of the judging year.

WINS ANGUS CLASS

Graham won the angus class in preliminary judging for the guineas final. Vancise took the hereford honors and Murray Gaunt of Lucknow was shorthorn titlist.

The guineas, $250 in Canadian funds, was presented to Graham by Lieutenant-Governor Louis Breithaupt of Ontario.

Ronnie Muth of the United States won the horse show's international individual fault-and-out stakes.

Riding Matador, he toured the 10-jump course cleanly in 34.6 seconds to edge William Hanson and Pat Smythe of Britain who also came up with faultless performances. Mr. Hanson, on the Monarch, made it in 34.8 seconds and Miss Smythe went 36.8 on Prince Pal.

Mr. Mutch picked up a fourth for the U. S. when he came out for a second time in place of Mrs. Carol Durand on Briar Lad. He toured cleanly again in 43.2 while Lt.-Col. Charles Baker of Canada finished fifth cleanly in 46.4 on Starclift.

COUNT 4 FAULTS

Shirley Thomas and Bob Ballard of Canada each counted four faults along with Capti. Colm O'Shea of Ireland and Arthur McCashin of the U. S.

Seveven, a tall bay gelding owned by Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Shinkle of St. Louis, Mo., won the $1,500 Perry Open Stakes for hunters and Royal Coquette of the Sifton tables, Toronto, took the Lieutenant-Governor's cup.

Canadian and United States buyers spent a total of $39,325 at the sale of 49 aberdeen angus. Top price was $3,000 paid by Meadow Lane Farms of North Salem, N. Y. for Westlane VIII. Consignee was the Colbeck brothers farm of Grand Valley.

Don Head Farms of Richmond Hill won the Alec G. Hall challenge Trophy for top beef carcass shown at the fair, an aberdeen angus.

Charles Boynton of Gormley swept the tamworth swine judging when his Gormley Reggie won the boar grand championship, and his Gormley Marion topped the sow class for championship ribbons.

"AW C'MON, LEAVE SOME FOR ME" —If the hangdog expression of the Mastiff is anything to go by, he is about to forget that he is a gentleman and just help himself to the kitten's milk. The Mastiff and kitten are owned by R. Thompson, of Denbigh, and they actually get along with each other quite well.—(Federal Newsphotos).

Salaries Up Over Number Employed

Income Boosted 45% As Jobholders Increase Only 10%

According to statistics, Peterborough's wages and salaries are growing much faster than its number employed.

The Peterborough Chamber of Commerce reports that from 1949 to 1952, the number employed in industry and services has increased by 904, or approximately 10 per cent.

Salaries and wages, however, are up $10,244,488 or about 45 per cent. Since 1945, the city's salaries and wages have jumped from $14,254,180 to $33,831,000 in 1952. For the same period of time, the number of employed has jumped from 8,625 to 10,495.

The production, too, has almost doubled since 1945. In that year the total output was valued at $69,960,755 and in 1952 the output was up to $129,788,500. Production has not kept pace with the wage-salary increase from 1949 to 1952. Whereas production has risen by about 17 per cent, salary-wage has increased by 45 per cent.

Community Fund Reports On Year's Work

A group of about 60 citizens attended the annual meeting of the Peterborough Red Cross and Community Fund, held in city hall, Thursday evening.

The financial report as submitted by fund auditor, Edward Humpage, indicated a $15,880.48 balance on October 31, 1953. Still owing the various agencies on the 1953 allocation $18,400. Unpaid pledges are estimated realize $14,500.

The Red Cross and Community Fund was established in 1941 to avoid waste of time and money involved in a multiplicity of appeals by various agencies.

The 1941 campaign raised $120,639. The amount realized in 1953 was $90,605.

ELECT DIRECTORS

A group of 15 directors, are elected each year and they join with representatives from each agency participating in the community fund, to govern the amount the agencies receive. At the present time there are 11 agencies benefitting from the fund's resources.

Under the constitution, any agency desiring to become a member, which entitles it to an annual grant commensurate to its needs, must make formal application to the board of directors. The matter is then referred to a committee for special study and an agency may be admitted upon a two-thirds vote of the board of directors. The St. John Ambulance Corps was admitted in 1952.

Directors elected for the year 1954 were: James Fraser, James Heffernan, J. R. Corkery, Sam Whitehouse, Max Swanston, Judge John deN. Kennedy, Mrs. J. E. Waters, Mrs. J. P. Watts, Mrs. Maurice Holt, Ross L. Dobbin, Ford Warren, Lionel Brown, James Girven, Clare Sullivan and J. Blake Bell.

Ed Humpage was re-elected auditor.

T. A. Mackay, retiring secretary of the Peterborough Red Cross and Community Fund, was presented with an alarm clock, by Mayor Hugh Waddell. The gift was in token of the many years' service he has given the fund.

"When you think of community chest, you think of Mr. Mackay," said Mayor Waddell as he handed him the gift.

Adjudicator Sees Festival First Night A Good Start

Peterborough's fourth annual Drama Festival of one-act plays, in the opinion of Professor Arnold Edinborough of Queen's University, got off to a good start Thursday evening.

In the three plays presented by St. John's, All Saints' and Knox theatre groups, you could "hear every word" and the "make-up was skillfully applied."

The first two plays were "extended jokes", and the adjudicator felt that "some cutting of the play would have helped". "Mr. Sampson", directed by Archdeacon Robertson, was "a pleasant, jolly play, well done" though "a little slow in the climactic scenes". Professor Edinborough praised the way the relationship between the two sisters (acted by Mrs. Ralph Weekes and Mrs. R. W. Sutton) was established, and felt that the character portraits of them were well done. The man, Mr. Sampson, played by Harold Treen, was "kept in character" but was "a little stiff, not entirely through stage arthritis".

PRAISES CHARACTORS

All Saints' entry "The Purple Door Knob", directed by W. A. Brown, had "a tender, convincing end". The housekeeper, played by Edith Abraham, was "very good... a nice cameo". The part of the visitor, done by Florence Townsend, was "just a little bit refined, not enough abandon for comedy". The adjudicator remarked that the invalid, played by Grace Webb, was "in character". He felt that the play did not have enough gusto and that the staging was too open.

The set of "The Flattering Word", the entry of Knox Theatre Group directed by Peter McCombe, came in for special praise, as did the directing and "the good planning of grouping". Roger Davie (Eugene Tish) and Sylvia Cherney (Mrs. Rigley) "had these two characters just where they wanted them" and showed fine skill and stage ease in their roles. Mrs. Zooker (Ada Huffman) was "a lovely busybody". The Rev. Rigley's recitation—done by Don Endicott—was praised and Betty Blair as Lena Zooker "did a very good job". The adjudicator said that the play itself was "curious" and the transition from foolery to morality and preaching was not good dramatic writing. So the play flagged at the end when it thus changed its direction.

A good house greeted the opening night performances. Tonight, also on the Queen Mary stage, the plays to be presented are "The Two Minute Egg", an original play written by John G. Campbell and directed by him; "The Bathroom Door" which takes place in a hotel corridor, and "Five To Five-Thirty", a domestic comedy. A new drama group, the Peterborough Community Theatre makes its bow this evening, in Mr. Campbell's play.

Professor Edinborough's public adjudication was warmly applauded by the audience.

GIRL HIT BY CAR

Four-year-old Margaret Cockerill of 459 Chamberlain St., is undergoing treatment in St. Joseph's Hospital for burns and possible neck injuries she sustained when struck by a car at Park and Stewart Sts. Thursday. The girl ran out from the curb into the path of a vehicle driven by Donald Nicholson, 19, of Maple Lake.

Ennismore Man Gets 6 Months For Calf Theft

Charles Harrington, 53, of Ennismore township, who pleaded guilty to shooting and stealing a neighbor's heifer calf, was today sentenced to six months definite and six months indefinite in reformatory.

Sentence was passed by Judge John de N. Kennedy, presiding at the general sessions of the peace.

Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw, QC, pointed out that the maximum sentence for this crime is 14 years. He suggested something less than a penitentiary term—18 months definite and six months indefinite. He also said he thought the minimum sentence should be a year.

Harrington pleaded guilty to shooting a heifer calf, owned by John Sullivan of Ennismore, as the calf was grazing on some ranchland with other cattle, half a mile from Harrington's home.

CHANGED PLEA

After shooting the calf with a .22 calibre rifle, he slit its throat, cleaned it, cut it up and carried it back to his home. Two companions were alleged to have been with him at the time—Harvey Finley of Smith township and Finley's 14-year-old nephew, Kenneth Orgill.

Finley and Orgill were two surprise witnesses produced by Crown Attorney Bradshaw at the trial. After hearing their evidence (both said that Harrington had wanted the "beef" and the boy heard him mention something about "revenge" as well) Harrington changed his plea from "not guilty" to "guilty."

Young Orgill said he saw the accused man do the shooting and butchering.

Harrington's only other criminal record was a drunk driving conviction.

SNAKES STILL AROUND

The unusually warm weather is keeping more than flowers and birds flourishing in the area. Thomas Haywood, 616 Centre St., reports seeing a large garter snake, about three feet long, in a wood lot five miles north of Havelock on Thursday. The snake was anything but torpid and vanished immediately into the bush.

Forced To Sell $3,300 Car To Pay $50 Fine

Edward Bradley of Toronto will have to sell his car under police supervision today, but he expects to pay a $52.50 fine for driving while impaired and leave the city a free man.

All Bradley had to his name when he appeared in court this morning to plead guilty to the charge was his $3,300 1953 model car. And in order to pay his fine, he had to sell it.

OPP Constable John Gray said he followed Bradley's car on Highway 28 for a mile and in that distance the vehicle drove on the shoulder several times and swerved across the white line twice.

When he was stopped, Bradley "smelled of alcohol, was unsteady on his feet" and "looked like he was just getting over a real drunk."

German Immigration 60,000 In 1954

MONTREAL (CP) — Dr. A. Reisserchеidt, consul general for the West German republic in Montreal, predicted Thursday in an interview that German emigration to Canada may reach 60,000 in 1954. This figure is twice the 1951 and 1952 average of 30,000.

The increase would result from relaxation of certain Canadian immigration restrictions.

ANOTHER FULL MOON

Tonight the moon is full again, and if the sky is unclouded the countryside will be lightly veiled in a luminous mist, as it was last night looking across the Pigeon water south of Omemee in a long silvery vista at midnight. Five weeks from today is Christmas, but this Indian Summer, if such it is, seems to be set in October instead of the last week of autumn.

$40,000 Loot Found

No arrests have been made, but $40,000 in jewelry was recovered intact in the Toronto area Thursday. It is the loot from jewelry salesman Clifford Phillip's car, stolen here November 2. Inspector of Detectives William E. Clarke says investigations into the theft are continuing.

Hospital Shows $2,968 Deficit For Past Month

Civic Hospital showed an operating deficit of $2,968 for the month of October, Treasurer T. T. Rodger announced Thursday night at the November meeting of the board of governors.

Revenue was not as high as expected, Mr. Rodger explained, but there was no particular significance in this. There was heavier buying in some items that would be used throughout the remaining months of the year.

Mr. Rodger pointed out that over the 10-month period of this year there was a credit on the hospital's operations of $22,016.

An indication of heavier buying, and generally greater expenditures in October than the average month: $3,664 on medical and surgical suplies on a yearly budget of $29,032; professional care of patients $4,557 on a yearly budget of $42,958; general service department, particularly dietary, $11,447 on a yearly budget of $101,167.

Accounts totalling $92,883 were passed by the board of governors. The biggest single item was the payroll of $50,285. The meat bill alone was $4,413.

CRASH DAMAGE $125

A car and truck collision on Aylmer St. resulted in damage estimated at $125 to the two vehicles. Drivers involved were William MacSwain, 36, of 349 Euclid Ave., and Henrich Matt, 26, of 77½ Parkhill Rd., who was driving an express truck. MacSwain was driving south and Matt, turning left off Aylmer after coming north, when their vehicles crashed.

Fine Peconi $20, Costs On One Count

Magistrate Convicts Under Different Health Act Section

Nick Peconi, Smith township slaughter house operator, was fined $20 and $36.50 costs by Magistrate R. I. Moore today on a Public Health Act charge of operating an offensive trade.

In registering the conviction, however, Magistrate Moore made it under a separate section from the original charge which had been 92 (N), of the PHA.

Instead of 92 (N) he used section nine, bylaw B of section 131, PHA, contending a third section, 128, gave him the right to convict under a different section than that under which the charge was laid.

Defence counsel A. L. Elliott, QC, interpreted the latter section to mean, however, that a conviction could be made under either section but not both.

CLEARLY RESPONSIBLE

In giving his decision, Magistrate Moore said it was "quite clear Nick Peconi is the man who was responsible for the condition of the slaughter house" such as was described by several prosecution witnesses in evidence over the past month.

Additional charges against the accused were adjourned until Wednesday, December 2.

Dr. H. G. Carleton, Smith township MOH, called the slaughter house and surrounding ground a "very filthy, stinking mess" emitting "a very putrid odor." He was commenting on the animal heads, legs and hides he found around the building, located near Nassau.

County Farm Notes

By HARRY THEOBALD

Central Ontario Spring Show Annual Meeting Here Tuesday . . . Federation Directors Decide to Hold Annual Meeting For First Time At Norwood . . . Lindsay Anderson Honored At Northumberland Holstein Breeders' Dinner.

When the Central Ontario Spring Show, replacing the rotary Quinte District Seed Fair, decided two years ago to settle down in Peterborough, the local committee was hoping then that some immediate progress would be accomplished as a facility in building the proposed Community Centre at Morrow Park.

So far there has been no development, but the Show has made the most of the facilities at the Exhibition Park, and has two successful years to their credit:

The annual meeting will be Tuesday, November 24, beginning at 10:30 a.m. at the office of Frank C. Paterson, agricultural representative.

Robert Armstrong of Cavan is president and A. O. Dalrymple, Stirling, agricultural representative in Hastings county, is secretary. Mr. Dalrymple mentions in his notice of the meeting that assistant agricultural representatives and grain club leaders prepared during the summer a 4-H Club seed grain section of the prize list.

Farmers who are interested in promoting the Spring Show are invited to the morning and afternoon sessions Tuesday. Election of officers is prominent on the program, and there will be a general discussion of plans for the 1954 Show which will probably be again held in March.

Creditable Judging

The Durham team was odds on favorites to take the inter-county livestock judging competition at the Royal. The three young men selected and coached by Ed Summers, Bowmanville, agricultural representative, repeated for their county the first place award of last year.

The Peterborough team, Archie Davidson, Norm Blodgett and Neil Cameron, was 11th in the company of 29 county entries, and in the individual scoring Mr. Davidson was in the 11th place. That is a creditable accomplishment. The story has already been told in the daily news from the Royal, but here at home it should be said that the young men gave a good account of themselves. Some of the district teams were down in the twenties brackets.

✦ ✦ ✦

First Norwood Meeting

Twenty directors of the Peterborough Federation of Agriculture decided Thursday night to hold their annual meeting at Norwood. The date could not be set immediately, and may be around December 11. President Harry Sharp was chairman.

This will be the first time the county Federation has moved over into the neighborhood of Asphodel, Belmont and South Dummer. The decision on the motion of Clarence Johnston and Ken Moncrief fixes more definitely than ever the county scope of the federation, and should strengthen its place in East Peterborough.

Intimations of legislation to licence farm tractors prompted a motion by Fred Crowe requesting the provincial executive to enquire into the report with concern for the interest of farmers.

"Don't wait until the bill is put through; let us know beforehand what is coming," was the attitude of Mr. Crowe.

A LABOR BRIEF

The directors sat until 11.50 p.m. dsicussing a brief from the United Automobile Workers of Toronto, Brantford and Woodstock, and the Steel Union of Hamilton and Smiths Falls, submtiting proposals in aid of unemployed workers in the farm implement industry.

This statement reviewed causes of the decline in the income and buying power of farmers, with consequent decline in farmers' buying of agricultural machinery. The main features of the brief were directed toward government intervention.

The suggestion that the sales tax be abolished was not endorsed. One of the directors said the federal government needed ample revenue for the national scurity program including the maintenance of unemployment insurance for urban workers.

They also wrote an emphatic "no" after a clause recommending "advance guarantees of farm prices so that farmers can plan production, etc. . . ." Directors balked at the prospect of ultimate introduction of crop quotas, acreage limitation and so on, declaring that this was a major problem in the present United States economy.

Approval was expressed of proposed expansion of co-operatives and marketing organizations, to give farmers greater control over the marketing of their products. Stricter action against combines and monopolies also received an endorsing tick.

Policy to get rid of food surpluses, that the government buy such stocks and give them away, if necessary, to undernourished countries, was turned down as a thorny problem affected by the necessity of finding shipping space.

Lower interest on farm loans was considered in the interest of farmers, and as a means to helping the purchase of equipment. It was followed by a negative vote on a clause urging that the government accept "soft currencies" in the development of world markets.

Directors voted for a closer check on the farm implement industry, investigating business practices, looking into prices, price-spreads, profits, monopoly practices, etc.

They also supported "steps to meet immediate unemployment problems, placing defence contracts where lay-offs are serious, a selective program of public works in localities where unemployment might occur."

Expressions of the directors were intended to serve as a gudie to the Ontario Federation executive in the consideration of the labor brief.

"60 Bushel" New Name

It should be noted that the title of Peterborough's 50 Bushel Winter Wheat Club has been changed to "60 Bushel."

The tested yield of Robert Armstrong's provincial winning field of Dawbul was 68.8 bus. to the acre. The Department's announcement this week says: "Mr. Armstrong's win was over the best field crops in the 15 most important winter wheat growing counties in the province. Yields in the ten prize winning entries ranged from 69.6 to a low of 54.4."

"Increased yield, the result of the use of good seed and sound cultural practices, has influenced the committee in charge to revise the name of the competition to the "60 Bushel Wheat Club" for 1954.

Forum Summaries

Of the 500 Ontario Farm Forums reporting their discussions on the subject of the "Ag. Rep. and the Farmer", Pleasant Valley group in Grey county sent in the most detailed list of the agricultural representative's activities in the course of his duty, as they observed it.

"He sends away our gas bills, shows film, tests soil, sends away sick chickens, tells what to do about mineral deficiencies in cattle, gives advice when purchasing a farm, advises on proper fertilizer to sow for different crops, treated alfalfa seed, purchased registered oats, sent well water to be tested, laid tile for a drain, helps with calf clubs and junior farmers, judges at fairs. He is the farmer's best friend, but there is not enough of him to do all that is expected."

Scugog Head Forum made this suggestion: "Farmers should take their problems to him, rather than expect him to find them."

On the Nov. 16 subject of "Partners All", dealing with woman's place in the farm home, 498 Forums reported. Fifty per cent of them thought co-operation should include legal partnership in the farm; 25 per cent agreed that a legal will was very important to the farm family. There was broad opinion that co-operation might include a bank account for the wife, joint accounts and extra income for the wife from a fixed source.

Zorra Brain Trust, Oxford said: "Large expenditures should be talked over and planned together. The farmer and his wife should plan so both have things necessary to do their work in the convenient way. There is nothing like a happy home, where everyone co-operatees and plans and works togethehr. We agreed the wife should help outside when necessary, if she is able and willing, but not at the cost of neglecting family or home. There should be a legal partnership and everyone should have a will.

Adolphustown Forum, Lennox-Addington, said farm wives should try to keep informed on both farming techniques and marketing, as a means of understanding farm problems and management necessary to enable them to give the co-operation needed. "Such interest on her part is of great moral support to her husband, and the knowledge and experience she gets would be invaluable should she lose her partner and be left alone to run a farm and raise a family."

Guernsey Producers

The October report of the Canadian Guernsey Breeders' Association mentions in the 365-day division, mature cows, N. W. McConkey's "Mountain Way Buttercup's Sally", as high cow producing 11,849 lbs. milk and 607 lbs. fat, on twice a day milking.

On three times a day milking, Ethelmere Ada's Snowball of Kingfield Farms, King, Ont., won 1st place in the honor roll by producing 22,104 lbs. milk and 1,053 lbs. fat, which gives her highest record to date of any Guernsey cow in Canada.

✦ ✦ ✦

Holstein Club Dinner

At their annual dinner at Wooler, November 11, the Holstein breeders of Northumberland county had as their special guest Lindsay Anderson, formerly of Seymour township, and now manager of the Massey-Harris herd at Millikan.

President John Goodfellow was chairman and the directors in charge of the banquet and program were: Howard Evans, Jack Rannie, Mel Merrill, Henry Oliver, Ross Sirett and Gordon Macklin.

Walter Honey read an address from the Club to Mr. Anderson, and its gifts were presented by Douglas Turney to Mr. and Mrs. Anderson and daughter, Linda.

Rev. W. G. Fletcher of Wooler United church, where the dinner was held, extended a welcome to the Holstein men, and also led in community singing. James T. Brown of Newcastle and George McLaughlin of Oshawa, directors of the Canadian Holstein-Friesian Association, and Gerald Nelson, fieldman, spoke briefly.

Chis Erb of Middletown, Pa., widely known throughout the district as a buyer of Holsteins, was introduced by John Tamblyn of Orono. He said the farmers of his section of Pennsylvania knew Ontario Black and White cattle from fairly long experience and had always been well satisfied with their quality. Mr. Erb said he expected a continuing demand from that State at the current prices, whatever they might be.

Eric Merrill and Charles Honey presented awards for the high cows on R.O.P. during the year to Gordon Macklin, Alex Merrill and Sons, Lorne Evans and Son, Lindsay Anderson, Craig Nelson, Walter Honey and Chas. Honey.

Guest speaker was John E. Powell of the Holstein Association office, Brantford, who related some of his experiences on a trip to Mexico. He said the country was a land of rich and poor with comparatively few people of intermediate economic class. Progress has been rapid in improvement of the country in recent years, but a great deal remains to be done.

The bigger estates have up to 5,000 cattle, with irrigation and stable feeding featured. The goat is the poor man's milker, and Mr. Powell said most of the Holstein calves were "raised on goats." Coming back home, he stressed the fact that Holstein cattle transfers showed an increase of 50% over last year. Registrations were down only 2%.

Farmers of the Campbellford section of the country have long appreciated the fine community spirit of Lindsay Anderson, not only in his interest in the Holstein Club, but also in his work as one of the country's devoted 4-H Club leaders.

APPOINTMENTS TO BE CHECKED—The Senate Internal Security sub-committee is studying the appointments of Harold Glasser (right) and Frank Coe (left), two former officials of the International Monetary Fund. Senator Jenner has "invited" former Treasury Secretary John W. Snyder to testify on Glasser and Coe who were appointed although named in FBI reports as alleged spies.

Cheese Outlook Improves Rush Shipment To Britain

The recent sale of ten million pounds of 1953 cheese to Great Britain was the most important event of this year, says the news letter of the Ontario Cheese Producers' Marketing Board. It mentions these developments:

(1) Already the demand for 1952 cheese has been greatly accelerated; so much so that prospects indicate that all of it will be absorbed by early 1954.

(2) The top price paid on the exchanges of the week ending Sept. 10 was 28½c for colored cheese. Since the announcement of Sept. 15 of the probability of a sale to Great Britain, prices have advanced, and since the sale has been confirmed, 32⅝c was paid last week on a cheese exchange.

(3) Since the British government has at this time made dollars available to buy Ontario cheddar cheese and a sale has been made, it seems reasonable to expect that sales will continue, and it is important that we have an export outlet for our surplus. Leaders in the cheese industry deem it most important that we produce sufficient to have a surplus each year, as otherwise we may not produce enough to ensure the home market being amply supplied. If the home demand should exceed our production, then we provide an opportunity for the trade to import cheese or to introduce synthetic substitutes.

The 2c a pound license fee, approved by the Ontario Farm Products Marketing Board, will apply on all cheese made in southern Ontario factories after Nov. 1.

This fee will be collected on all cheddar type cheese from factories, whether sold locally or through an authorized cheese exchange, and will take the place of the 5c per 100 pounds licence fee previously in effect.

The trade and producers have agreed on a 30c a lb. minimum price, f.o.b. the factory, for first grade cheese made after Oct. 16, 1953.

The first letter from Belleville concludes: "At Nov. 7th, 50 per cent of the cheese had been prepared for export shipment, and it is expected that it will all be ready for shipment before the close of navigation at Montreal Dec. 1.

"The export sale was not definitely confirmed until Oct. 20, so the speed required to get the entire contract out at Montreal has been a challenge which we believe has no precedent. It appears that the Association is going to be able to save the producers several thousand dollars by rising to the occasion so that cheese will all go forth from Montreal, thus avoiding the expensive rates to maritime ports."

Farmers will note the brighter tone in that first news letter issued by the association's marketing board. One point is the improved price to 32⅝c on a cheese exchange.

(Reference to the second ten million pound sale to Britain is reported under a separate heading.)

Cheese-Honey May Be Scarce

Cheese and honey are likely to be rather scarce food staples before the grass is green again and flowers with their nectar are attracting bees.

That was a surprising announcement Wednesday that Britain was buying a second 10,000,000 pound lot of cheese, the second order for that amount in recent weeks. It would be interesting to know just what stock of cheese the Ontario Marketing Board of the cheese producers has on hand to make up this second order for the Old Country.

Incidentally, circumstances in the industry have set up a dual price system, 25½c a pound for export and 33 cents on the cheese exchange. This higher price was paid on the Belleville exchange Tuesday by buyers for the domestic trade.

That is for the late autumn make, which generally lacks the fine quality of the June product. It may be that the producers will have a scant supply of cheese in their storage to meet the domestic demand, a factor which they have been cultivating in the adverse situation of slim export business.

The industry's publicity campaigns have been making headway with an increased home consumption to some six pounds per capita. To maintain that trade, it is recognized as essential that stocks should be adequate to supply the demand.

LIGHT HONEY CROP

Tom Shield, of Toronto, general manager of the Ontario Honey Prdoucers' Co-operative, said at the Beekeepers' dinner at the YMCA Tuesday night that the home cupboard might be bare of honey by next May as Old Mother Hubbard's.

Cheese and honey are two of the best food commodities in the average diet.

Mr. Shield said there has been an upsurge of demand in all grades, and the Co-op. has a backlog of 2,000 cases on which they are trying to catch up on delivery. Demand for the darker shades of honey have been substantially increased by the influx of people from Europe. Hollanders who have come to Canada in the last few years prefer those grades, because they have been used to them in their homeland. This new business has been a stimulus to the honey market.

Less Fat, More Red Meat, Advice For Beef Cattle

"The price of beef tallow and pork fat are today a nightmare to the packers. They make up a relatively small percentage of the total value of the carcass compared to a decade ago."

That is a quotation from an article in The Polled Hereford World under this sub-head: "Bigger cattle that make good use of roughage and produce more red meat and less fat are the cattle of the future."

There is a big backlog of fats and oils on hand now, so "why fatten cattle and hogs to a degree where these surplus fats become a burden on the market. It is expensive to both producers and consumers. The only answer the writer (J. C. Miller) can see is more emphasis on red meat, and the revision of our breding, feeding and management program designed to produce more red meat at a lower cost. The final measure of a beef steer is in the evaluation of his carcass."

"About 2,000 young breeding animals have ben tested by the Texas Agriculture Experiment Station over a 140-150 day feeding period since 1942. Almost without exception, the higher gaining animals have been those with larger frames, more feed capacity and more growthy in general. Some young bulls have gained as much as three pounds daily on rations of 65 to 70 per cent roughage. Others have gained barely half that amount on the same ration."

"There has been a surprising lack of relationship betwen so-called good beef conformation and satisfactory rate and economy of gain. Does this mean our ideas of good beef type are all wrong? Do we need to adjust our sights or revise our standard of perfection? Should we place beauty and symetry of form above performance? Or, is it possible to combine form and performance? A certain percentage of our cattle have it now. Our trouble lies in the fact we have over-emphasized form at the expense of performance. Any such program is unsound and doomed to failure sooner or later."

Production records (and a set of farm scales) and the courage to use them as a guide to selection are the first requirements of a successful beef cattle enterprise."

The entire article is rather long, but these quotations reflect the writer's trend of thinking and suggestion.

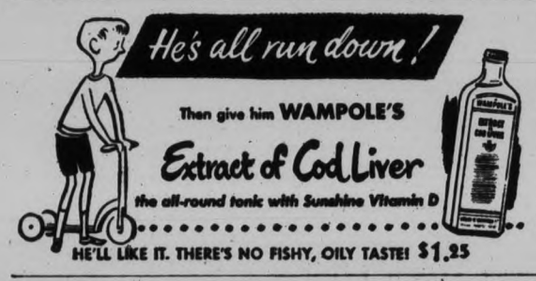
Winter Wheat Club Lists 15 Members For 1953-4

Fifteen farmers across the county from Cavan to Asphodel have signed up in the Peterborough 60 bushel winter wheat club. Several others were interested, but circumstances kept them out of this activity which began with the fall seeding.

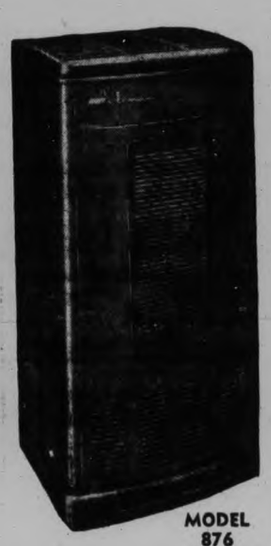
The members have planted three varieties, Cornell, Dawbul and Genesee, all registered seed. Dawson's Golden Chaff is nowhere in this new year's cereal picture. The varieties are indicated by initials, with the following membership:



Allan Eason (D), Otonabee; John Page, (D), Norwood; W. W. Dawson, (G), Otonabee.

Arnold Stevenson (D), Asphodel; Jay Whittington (C), South Monaghan; Stewart Dawson (C), Otonabee; Jack Matchett (D), Otonabee.

Gordon Hunt (C), Harvey township; W. Clarence Mann (G), Smith; Clarence Coons, (C), Douro; Neal Whitfield (D), North Monaghan.



Ralph E. Drummond (C), Otonbee; Henry A. Sharp (D), Smith; Harry L. Jackson (G), Emily township; Robert Armstrong (D), Cavan township.

This is one of the older agricultural clubs of the county and neighbouring townships of Cavan and Emily. Frank C. Paterson, agricultural representative, was hoping for at least twelve members, sowing registered fall wheat. Fifteen have responded, and there might have been more. Incidental factors of type of grain and land condition kept two farmers out of the 1953-54 club.

ACCUSED AND VICTIM—John Houghton (left), 26, has been charged with the murder of Sadie Davidson (right), 32, formerly of Dartmouth, N.S., whose body was found beaten and slashed in a mid-Toronto cleaning shop. Police said Houghton and the woman had been living together.

PORTRAIT OF A MAN over 65 after indulging for years in favorite pastime. Doctors warn older folk they can't have their cake and live to a ripe old age, too. Rich foods for many cause obesity, shorten life spans.

Lay That Eclaire Down, Paw, Can't Eat Cake And Grow Old

By RICHARD KLEINER
NEA Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK (NEA)—Lay that eclaire down, grandpa, if you know what's good for you. And, also, give the cold shoulder to candied yams, Hollandaise sauce and such goodies.

In short, ladies and gentlemen over 65, keep a stiff upper appetite and don't succumb to obesity. Don't get fat as you get old.

According to leading geriatrists —doctors for the aged—the one biggest health problem for older people is overweight. They've calculated a definite and frightening relationship between excess poundage and early graves.

There is, for example, a 75 per cent increase in the mortality rate for people who are more than 25 per cent overweight. The more overweight you are, the poorer your chances of living to a ripe old age.

10 REASONS

Doctors list 10 reasons why too much weight can kill you as you grow older:

Curtails life; impairs vigor; increases fatiguability; breaks down the liver; increases surgical risks; hastens onset of complications; increases likelihood of diabetes; associated with hypertension (high blood pressure); associated with arteriosclerosis (hardening of the arteries); associated with heart disease.

If that doesn't scare you away from the pastry tray, maybe this will: Despite the high state of medical care in the U.S., deaths over 45 years of age occur at a rate 25 per cent higher here than in Western Europe. And the difference is attributed to nothing more than a galloping appetite.

The problem of old age obesity has nothing to do with financial condition, either. Rich and poor alike can become too fat—too many boiled potatoes are just as fattening as too many crepes suzettes.

According to a report by the New York State Joint Legislative Committee on Problems of the Aging, the overweight aged are a definite "public health menace." The report, called "Enriching the Years," suggests that obesity stems from an emotional disturbance.

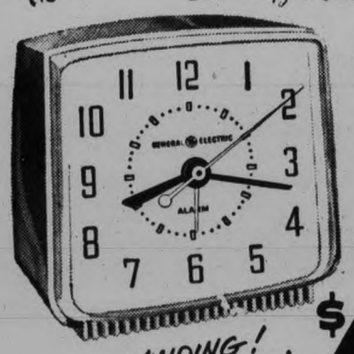
HEALTH MENACE

It quotes Dr. Edward H. Rynearson, of the Mayo Clinic, as saying, "An overweight person is nearly always a compulsive eater who turns to his refrigerator like a compulsive drinker turns to the bottle."

Complicating the problem for many old people are poor food habits. The ones who live alone, for example, often have no incentive to eat sensible meals, and eat fattening rather than wholesome foods. Others have no knowledge of nutrition. In some sections of the country, and in some nationalities, obesity is a sign of distinction, with a large paunch becoming a mark of social position.

POUNDS OF FLESH

But science knows better. "Pounds of extra flesh must be paid for by fewer years on this earth," says Dr. Clie M. McCay of Cornell University. To avoid those excess pounds, McCay has the following suggestions for good nutrition in the years after 40:



1. Drink plenty of water.
2. Centre your diet on milk, fruits, vegetables, bread and whole grain cereals with modest amounts of eggs and meat.
3. Limit your use of sugar, alcohol and excess fat. Use brown sugar and molasses.
4. Use fruits such as apples for desserts. Insist that meals afford both milk and coffee, not milk or coffee.
5. Intead of synthetic vitamins, use dry brewer's yeast and wheat germ.
6. Use whole wheat, dark rye or soya-enriched breads instead of white bread.
7. If you cannot afford whole or evaporated milk, use dry skim milk.

But the main thing is—keep that appetite under control.

CROSLEY

21" DELUXE TABLE MODEL

MODEL FC-21TOLW
Cabinet in hand-rubbed walnut, mahogany or limed oak veneer, with matching tapered legs.

Picture Sentry wipes out roll-over... streaks and flutter ... automatically gives you true-to-life pictures

In the Studio—cameras pick up perfect image. Diagram represents the television wave pattern as it appears on an engineer's oscilloscope.

But man-made interference—a passing truck, a neighbour's vacuum cleaner—can distort TV waves. Such interference scrambles the wave pattern like this.

Scrambled TV waves ruin reception. Image becomes streaked, distorted, or starts to roll over. Crosley tackled this problem—developed Picture-Sentry.

Crosley Picture-Sentry (an electronic circuit using a transitor-like germanium diode) guards against scrambling. Image stays clear, sharp—as in the studio.

This popular new Crosley set combines smart, modern cabinet design with a superlative big-screen picture at reasonable cost. Other features in addition to Picture-Sentry include:

Permanent pin-point focus keeps picture photo-sharp from top to bottom, side to side, corner to corner. Super picture power pulls in distant stations, blocks out interference from adjacent channels. Local-suburban-distance switch lets you adjust signal strength to suit location. No-glare picture window keeps reflected light OFF screen, is removable for easy cleaning.

See "YOUR HIT PARADE"; presented by Crosley; on the CBC Television Network. Check local listings for time.

Historic Papers Turned Over To Norwegians

OTTAWA (CP)—A small bundle of historic papers was returned to Norwegian hands Thursday—34 years after it had been cached in the frozen Canadian Arctic.

The papers, comprising personal letters, maps and documents, were never delivered to the man for whom they had been intended—Norwegian explorer Raold Amundsen. He died in Norway in 1928, without ever visiting the cairn on Ellesmere island.

In a simple ceremony Resources Minister Lesage turned the papers over to E. S. Bent, Norwegian minister to Canada. They had been wrapped in the colors of Norway.

ATTENDS CEREMONY

Attending the ceremony — was Geoffrey Haddersley-Smith, one of the two Canadians who recovered the papers last summer while on an expedition for the defence research board. His companion during the trip, Robert Blackadar of the geological survey of Canada, is studying at Queen's University, Kingston.

The papers were left for Amundsen at Cape Aldrich, Ellesmere island, in 1919, by Capt. Godfred Hansen of the Danish Navy. Hansen was Amundsen's friend and a fellow explorer.

Five Million In Subsidies Asked To Aid Merchant Fleet

OTTAWA (CP)—A Liberal member from the Maritimes Thursday suggested the government provide $5,000,000 a year in subsidies to help maintain a Canadian merchant fleet of at least 50 vessels.

S. R. Balcom, member for Halifax, said in the Commons that Canada should have the nucleus of a merchant marine in case of emergency. A merchant fleet was the backbone of seapower. Its loss would reduce Canada to the status of a second-rate, dependent power with no means of supplying its forces overseas in case of war.

Speaking in the throne speech debate, he said there were 215 ships under the Canadian flag in 1947. But June 30 this year, the number had been reduced to 39.

CAN'T COMPETE

Mr. Balcom said the high cost of operating Canadian ships made it impossible for them to compete with the foreign vessels. It cost $100,000 more a year to run a Canadian merchantman than a similar British vessel, the major factor being crews' wages.

On this basis, the government could help maintain a fleet of 50 ships by providing $5,000,000 a year in subsidies.

(A week ago, Transport Minister Chevrier announced government rejection of a request for operating subsidies made by the Canadian Shipowners' Association.)

Miss Johnston demonstrated various ways of wrapping gift parcels also a novel way to make a table centre for Christmas.

Mrs. Elmer Milburn expressed thanks to Miss Johnston.

Reserve Army Men Fail To Find Gun

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Reserve army men from Sarnia who used mine detectors in an unsuccessful search Wednesday night for a gun believed used in a shooting here, will continue the hunt Saturday, police said.

They said Willard LeBlanc, arrested in Scarboro township on another charge, confessed to the Sept. 27 shooting here of service station attendant Ray Brown, 52. Brown has recovered from a serious stomach wound. The gunman escaped with $200.

Police said LeBlanc told Scarboro police that he broke the gun into three pieces and buried them in a field near the home in which he was living here.

Low Recalls Warning About White In 1948

OTTAWA (CP)—Solon Low, Social Credit leader, said in an interview Thursday he gave warnings in 1948 that Harry Dexter White was under suspicion as a Communist.

He said, however, he is not the "highly-placed" Canadian source mentioned by FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover as having warned the FBI about White in 1946.

A U.S. Senate sub-committee is questioning the appointment of White in 1946 to the executive committee of the International Monetary Fund. White resigned a short time later and died in 1948 following questioning before the U.S. House of Representatives un-American committee.

Hear Clubs, Hotel Show Discrimination

TORONTO (CP) — The Toronto District Labor Council (AFL-TLC) Thursday night decided to seek a meeting with Premier Frost over complaints that a club and several hotels have discriminated against Negroes.

S. G. Grizzel of the Sleeping Car Porters' Union said three members of his organization told him three hotels in Sudbury refused to serve Negroes.

Senate Names Chairmen Of Committees

OTTAWA (CP) — The Senate Thursday elected chairmen of its various committees which handle a major share of the work of the upper chamber.

The new chairmen include three changes from the final session of the last Parliament.

Senator W. Rupert Davies (L—Ontario) will head the committee on debates and reporting, succeeding the late Senator Gustave Lacasse. Senator Charles Bishop (L—Ontario) succeeds the late Senator William Duff as chairman of the committee on standing orders.

Senator A. W. Roebuck (L—Ontario) previously was named chairman of the divorce committee succeeding Senator W. M. Aseltine (PC—Saskatchewan) who served a record of 19 years as a committee member and as chairman for the last 10 years.

Blames Gov't For Wheat Crisis

OTTAWA (CP)—A Prairie wheat farmer Thursday charged that the government fathered a major crisis in wheat storage.

Senator W. M. Aseltine, acting Opposition leader in the Senate, said during the throne speech debate in the upper chamber that the government should take these steps to relieve the crisis:

1. Pay farmers for storing wheat on farms.
2. Permit farmers to write off between 25 and 50 per cent of the cost of building farm storage facilities when they pay their income taxes.
3. Advance farmers a minimum of $1 a bushel on half the wheat they have stored in government-approved granaries.

Senator Aseltine, a lawyer and wheat farmer from Rosetown, Sask., recalled that farmers have harvested big crops in the last three years. Lack of storage space was a major crisis for which the government must take most of the responsibility.

Anglo-French Bilingualism To Be Studied By Committee

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON (CP)—A small group of idealists have moved another step along a heartbreakingly uphill road.

In Paris, the French government decided to set up a committee to investigate the possibilities of Anglo-French bilingualism, a project designed to strengthen the free world by a permanent "marriage" between its two major languages.

The French cabinet's decision is the first concerted government action since the twin-tongued idea first was mooted after the Second World War. Resolutions have been passed by the Council of Europe at Strasbourg and bilingual "pilot" towns have been created in England and France, but opposition has recently become vocal in Germany.

PROVINCIAL AFFAIR

Sponsors of bilingualism tried to interest Canada in acting on their behalf, but Prime Minister St. Laurent wrote regretfully last January that "education in our country comes within the jurisdiction, not of the central government, but of the 10 provincial governments who are very jealous of their exclusive jurisdiction."

Briefly, the aim of the bilingualists is to make French a compulsory second language in English-speaking countries, and vice versa in French-speaking countries. Other countries would decide whether English or French should be their second tongue.

Car-Truck Collision Injures Two People

BARRIE (CP). — Two persons were injured Thursday following a car-truck collision on No. 27 highway four miles north of here.

In hospital are George D. Coutts, 62, of Midhurst, with facial lacerations and shock, and his 17-year-old daughter, Lois, with fractured jaw and multiple face cuts.

Police said Coutts crashed into the rear of a slow-moving loaded gravel truck driven by Garfield Coulson, 33, of Barrie.

Coutts has been charged with careless driving.

Highest Accident Toll During October

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario had more persons killed in traffic accidents during October than any other month in its history, the highways department said Thursday.

A preliminary survey showed 149 persons killed last month, compared with the previous record of 132 set in October, 1952.

Collisions between moving vehicles accounted for 53 deaths and 47 pedestrians were also killed.

The university plans to create eventually an institute of Canadian affairs and become a centre for information on all aspects of Canada and its people.

Alberta Now Known As Richest Province

TORONTO (CP)—Premier Frost of Ontario said Thursday the province is no longer known as the richest in Canada.

That honor, he told Premier Flemming of New Brunswick, now belongs to Alberta, with its oil development.

Mr. Flemming met with Mr. Frost informally while in Toronto attending the Royal Winter Fair.

PRETORIA (CP)—Huge flocks of birds threaten heavy damage to crops in South Africa and other regions of Africa. A team of three South African scientists was organized to seek means of controlling the birds, a species similar to small finches.

Accident Leads To Theft Charge

LINDSAY —(ENS)—A Lindsay man will appear in police court here on Friday to answer charges of theft of a car and theft from cars following his arrest Wednesday night.

According to local police, an Oakwood man, Sidney Suggitt reported his car had been stolen from a lot near the main street early Wednesday evening. Some time later, after an alert had been broadcast over the OPP radio system, Lindsay OPP Officer Morris Baker was called to an accident scene on Highway 35, north of the town.

On arrival he found that one of the cars involved was Suggitt's. The driver was James McGuire of Lindsay and in the car were found some articles reported stolen from other cars in the town during the last week.

McGuire was lodged in the county jail to await trial. PC Percy Mark of the Lindsay police, is investigating.

"I've discovered why Monarch Flour always gives me such wonderful results. You see, Monarch is specially milled from soft Ontario wheat, so it's an extra fine flour. This means it's perfectly suited to get the very best out of non-yeast recipes. That's why Monarch is different from ordinary flour—and why it assures baking success.

"I find you can get tender, more delicious cakes and the flakiest pastries every time—thanks to Monarch!"

The hostess pictured above (at right) is MRS. DON YOUNG *of Sudbury. Mrs. Young uses Monarch Flour in all her recipes for cakes and pastries. Readers' Friday Column Conducted By Mary Moore

QUESTION: I enjoy reading your recipes as they are so explicit and leave nothing to guess. I wonder if you have a recipe for Orange Loaf. I have had lovely fine-textured ones served to me but my recipes never seem to turn out like that, also a nice date loaf. Betty G.

ANSWER: Recipe for Orange Bread appeared here November 3rd. I hope you saw it. I'll send along a copy to be sure.

DATE LOAF

Into a mixing bowl measure 1 cup chopped dates, ¾ cup brown sugar, 1 teaspoon salt and ½ cup boiling water. Stir and let stand until cool. Then beat 1 egg well and add it and 1 teaspoon vanilla. Sift all-purpose flour and measure 1½ cups and sift it with 1 teaspoon baking powder and 1 teaspoon baking soda. Add them and stir quickly. Add ½ cup chopped nuts and ¼ cup melted shortening. Stir just enough to blend. Pour into loaf pan about 9 x 5 x 3 which has been greased and lined with buttered brown paper. Bake at 325 deg. Fahr. for 1 hour. This cuts better when 24 hours old.

Letter: Take this opportunity of expressing appreciation of your column - I believe people are happier when they eat what is good for them. That is where you do a good job in your glamorizing of every day health foods—just discovered lately from a Chinese lady that bean sprouts should be parboiled before adding them to a concoction—before this I wondered how anyone could stand their bitter taste—here is yet another way to get rid of our cheese surplus: Split shredded wheat biscuits spread with butter or margarine and top with generous slices of mild Canadian cheddar. Boil in the oven until cheese is bubbly and biscuits toasted. A good candy for children is made from melted amber honey, peanut butter and enough powdered skim milk to produce a fulge-like consistency. Yours for better food. Victoria Z.

ANSWER: Thanks for your encouragement and new ideas. Let me help you sometime.

QUESTION: I never fail to read your column—long may you and it last. Tonight I see a worried little note from a reader attempting to make yeast buns. I too had so many failures when I first started but like her I said to myself "yeast buns—or else." I found my chief trouble was getting the sponge to warm while rising. I now make either hot buns or bread on an average of twice a week, and friend husband thinks them "tops." I am enclosing my simplest recipe. One that is ready for the table in about 2 hours and 20 minutes from the time they are mixed. I hope you will publish it for the benefit of the stymied Mrs. M. H. or any others.

JIFFY BUNS

(Contributed by C. V. S.)

(No kNeading—makes 3 doz. medium-sized buns.)

Dissolve 1 package granulated yeast in 3 tablespoons warm water in which has been dissolved 1 level teaspoon sugar. Let stand for 10 minutes without stiring. Mix ¼ cup sugar—less than the 1 teaspoon used with yeast, 3 tablespoons soft shortening (I part margarine or butter may be used if desired), 1 cup warm water, 1 beaten egg. Stir yeast mixture well and add to other ingredients. Add abput 4 cups all-purpose flour (sift flour after measuring), mix well and let rise in a warm place (around 80 to 85 deg. Fahr.). It should be double in bulk in about 1 hour. When well-risen spoon into greased muffin tins until only half full. Let rise again (1 more hour) or so until they have risen to top of tine. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 20 minutes.

These never fail. Sometimes I use 2 packages yeast, increasing the water dissolving it to 5 or 6 tablespoons. The double yeast makes a quicker-rising and lighter bun. C. V. S.

ANSWER: Thanks a million C. V. S.

QUESTION: (from a reader who did not give her name and asks me not to publish her letter but wants to know what to do to keep fruit from sinking in recipe she sent me.)

ANSWER: Try increasing the sugar in your recipe to 2 cups, increase the eggs to 4 eggs, and increase the flour to 2 cups sifted flour plus the 2 tablespoons used to flour fruit. If this does not work write again, and include name and stamped envelope.

New Designs Of Dinnerware Bring Sparkle To Mealtimes

By KAY SHERWOOD
NEA Staff Writer

If your dishes are chipped from continuous use, fumble-fingered washers and general old age, this is the season for a look-see at what's new in dinnerware.

More entertaining of more people can show up cupboard deficiencies quicker than anything I know. The crack in the cup that slides by family scrutiny expands to look like the Grand Canyon when company comes.

New ideas in design have added usefulness and attractiveness to modern dinnerware.

Unnecessary handles and knobs have been eliminated. Handles often become a part of the shape. This makes for less chipping, easier stacking. Covered pitchers and basket-shaped gravy boats have come out of kilns so graceful they invite flower arrangements between table service.

Lids that fit on more than one piece of a set and covered soup dishes that flip their lids to make service plates are more designs in the right space-conserving direction. So are flat casserole servers.

Casserole suppers set out buffet style with a come-and-get-it informality are my idea of easy entertaining. I especially favor the dinnerware that can be used for cooking, serving, eating and storing of food.

And casseroles that are big enough to serve covered, as chowder tureens, or uncovered, as salad or fruit bowls, are welcome assistants to the hostess.

If you invite the crowd in often, take another look at the heavy, handsome, textured pottery plates with built-in rims to hold cups. Eliminates a lot of post-party dishwashing. Then there are salt-and-pepper shakers securely lodged in their own pottrey tray and small coffeepots that stack one atop the other.

Dinner ware and glassware in matching patterns set a pretty table for the gal who likes to coordinate. Golden wheat shafts, for example, decorate an egg-shell china and show up again on the water goblets. This is a natural, it seems to me, to pair with the centrepiece of winter grasses, leaves and wheat.

If you like to mix your table settings, some of the new dinnerware is meant for you. Basic shapes of plates, cups saucers and so on are the same, but patterns and colors differ so you can mix to your creative heart's content without sacrificing a well-planned look.

Speaking of shapes, the coupe or shoulderless shape is gaining in popularity, probably because plates can be stacked more easily in less space.

But you will also see oval and square plates that look interesting. All three have a contemporary style but seen to combine as handsomely with traditional patterns of flatware as they do with the leanest, cleanest, modern, stainless-steel flatware.

The exception is that the heavier chunky pottery usually looks better with flatware of modern design.

WITH HOLIDAY PARTIES approaching, this homemaker has replaced her cupboard with colorful, inexpensive dinnerware. Pattern is a green and brown plaid on a white ground.

Decorating At St. John's Tea Foretaste Of Christmas Joys

The Great Day, December 25th, seemed even less than five weeks away in the midst of holly wreaths, bells and gay Christmas trappings decorating St. John's parish hall on Thursday.

The occasion was the annual Christmas bazaar and tea in which all women's organizations of the church take part, and there was a tremendous crowd.

Tables in the upstair hall offered delicious candy, home baking, sewn and knitted articles galore of the practical and gift type, Christmas table and window decorations, and even a collection of "white elephants." Each was in charge of a group, and these included the CWA, afternoon and evening branches of the WA, the GA, the Mothers' Club and Anglican Women's Club.

A large part in the proceedings was played by the Girls' Auxiliary under the leadership of Mrs. W. C. Boate. They had their own booth of Christmas table decorations, supplied baby sitters for the service operated by the Mothers' Club, and servers for the tea room, and in addition had planned the decorating of both the bazaar and tea rooms, though this work had to be done by Mrs. Boate alone because of circumstances.

The two tea tables in the downstair parlors, also done by Mrs. Boate, were very lovely with centrepieces of evergreens and delicately designed angel figures and were lighted with red candles. The decor in these rooms was most attractive, especially the ceiling high festooning of evergreens over the fireplace, highlighted with silver and red.

Decorated Christmas trees and a huge wreath hanging over the stage were the principal features of the bazaar room setting, with evergreens also festooning all the windows.

The tea room convener was Mrs. L. R. Groombridge, Miss Mary Medd was general convener.

Assisting Mrs. Groombridge in the tea room were Mrs. R. R. Faryon, Mrs. G. Falkner, Mrs. H. Wilson, Mrs. F. Stewart, Mrs. A. Thompson, Mrs. J. Perks, Mrs F. G. Mann, Mrs. L. Welsh, Mrs. R. Ward, Mrs. J. Nornabell, Miss Hayes, Mrs. E. Boyer, Mrs. B. D. Hall, Mrs. Claud Rogers, Miss F. Gladman, Miss M. Rush, Mrs. J. Weir, Mrs. H. Hutchinson, Mrs. L. Yeotes, Miss S. Simmers, Mrs. A. Mason, Mrs. O. Simmers and Mrs A. Sayers.

Mrs. E. Graham, Mrs. G. Groombridge, and Mrs. A. Thompson filled the tea pots and the plates were replenished by Mrs R. Ford, Mrs. E. Nicholls, Mrs. C. Barton, Mrs. C. Pickering, Mrs. A. Lemming, Mrs. M. Long, and Mrs. P. A. Martyn.

The tea pourers were Mrs. W. P. Robertson, Mrs. C. W. Balfour, Mrs T. H. Floyd, Mrs. F. E. Hooper, Miss Margaret English, Mrs. Alex Gibson, Mrs. Harold Howell and Mrs. M. Montgomery.

The GA girls who served, looking very smart in their navy skirts and middies, were Lorraine Gunn, Beverley Farrance, Carol Calhoun, Barbara Sullivan, Carolyn Ball, Mary Sutton, Lois Bidlle, Eleanor Biddle and Josie Hendren. Those who assisted with the baby sitting service were Patricia Gunn, Rosemary Deyell, June Valois, Dianne McNamee, Sherry Hope, Alma Boate, Mabel McLarnon and Shirley Holmes.

Receiving at the main door were the warden's wives, Mrs. Vernon Morphet and Mrs. Eldon Ray. Mrs. H. A. Craig was in charge of the treasurer's table.

St. Alban's Aux. Gives Banquet Brownies, Guides

St. Alban's Mother's Auxiliary entertained 150 Guides, Brownies and mothers at their first mother and daughter banquet Wednesday night.

The tables were beautifully decorated with blue and bronze 'mums and centred with miniature Brownie and Guide figures.

Capt. W. Woods introduced the special guests of the evening, Mr. Cyril Barnes, chairman of the group committee; Mrs. J. H. Shields, Guide badge secretary; Mrs. B. Maskell, Brown Owl of St. Alban's; the Rev. and Mrs. N. Peasgood; Mrs. Walter Perry, past president of local association; Mrs. R. Whalon, Brownie badge secretary.

Mrs. W. Merrett introduced Mrs. James McLeod, Brown Owl of St. Andrew's Brownies, guest speaker for the evening. Mrs. McLeod took her theme, "The Uniformity of Guiding," from our gracious Queen to a girl from the most humble of homes, and remarked how the uniform gives all girls the feeling of equality.

Quoting a judge who recently said, "If every boy and girl went to church and knew God and attended a Scout or Guide meeting we would have no juvenile delinquency in our world." Mrs. McLeod stressed the importance of church attendance and asked mothers to let daughters participate fully in Guide activities, which she deemed the best training available for womanhood, as neither wealth nor social position has any place on the trail of guiding.

Entertaining for the evening were Brownie Jo-Anne Bennett, singing "Danny Boy," and Brownie Patsy Barker with an accordion solo. "End of a Girl Guide Day" was sung by Guide Ilene Hall, accompanied on the piano by Guide Sadie Hatton.

The guest speaker was thanked by Lieut. G. Foster and Mothers' Auxiliary by Guide Mary Debatista for the banquet. A special vote of thanks to Jack Gray, Robert Miller, Reg. Stephenson, Harry Hewie, Max Hill and Harold Bowler for serving dinner was tendered by Capt. Woods.

Highlight of the evening was the "flying-up" ceremony of Brownie Carol Thibedeau, who received her Brownie wings from Mrs. Whalon, acting commissioner, under the light of an artificial moon. Received into the Guide company by Patrol Leader Sylvia Darby, Carol was warmly welcomed by Capt. Woods, and presented with a small gift by auxiliary president Mrs. J. Gray.

The evening closed with the Guide vesper.

Kiwanis 32nd Anniversary Marked At Dinner Dance

The 32nd anniversary of the Kiwanis Club of Peterborough was celebrated at the annual charter night dinner and dance held Thursday evening at the Kawartha Golf and Country Club. Chairman for the very pleasurable program was Walter H. Howell, immediate past president of the Peterborough Club and Lieutenant Governor-elect of this district, which duties he will assume the first of the year.

An effort was made to have all living charter members present with their wives. However, only three accepted the invitation, Senator J. J. Duffus and Mrs. Duffus who returned early from Ottawa for the occasion, Dr. and Mrs. G. Raymore Scott, and Mr. and Mrs. J. A. McKone. A list of the 50 men who formed this club in November, 1921, was at each place.

To Mr. McKone was given the honor of proposing a toast to the very charming wives of Kiwanians and guests. A reply to his remarks was made for the ladies by Mrs. Louis Zacks who had composed a clever little ditty to end her speech.

Musical entertainment was provided by John Moore of Reaboro, a successful contestant in several local Kiwanis Music Festivals. He gave two groups of songs and was accompanied by Mrs. A. E. DeNure.

The speaker was the Rev. W. J. Jonhston of Toronto, who has been minister of the Eglinton United Church for the past 24 years. He is a Kiwanian of long standing, having been lieutenant governor of this district in 1930, and is in demand as a speaker. He addressed this club on its 25th anniversary also, past president D. J. Fitzgerald reminded members in his introduction.

Mr. Johnston made an opening remark which seemed most fitting to this occasion: "I think we will be better wives and better husbands because of such a gathering as this." He said he wanted his listeners to go to the "boneyard" of their dreams and ideals, dig them up and "Make the dead bones live."

He took four bones in particular and dwelt on their significance in making life more worthwhile and happier.

First was the funnybone. "It is tremendously important to have a sense of humor and to make it count for something," Mr. Johnston said. He defined "a sense of humor" as "having a sane and sensible attitude toward life," or "being able to laugh at yourself and with other people."

He contended that people do not laugh enough, and if they did laugh more they would be healthier. "Be broad and tolerant, and try to understand people to make this bone live," he advised.

Second bone was the wishbone, and he stated "I don't believe there is a wish that can't be made come true." But he cautioned that wishful thinking is not enough—"you've got to put something into it to make it live."

The jawbone was the third bone and the minister said "there is none quite so potent in shaping public opinion." His fourth bone was the backbone, and he urged "Have the courage of your convictions—do nice things to make it live."

A "thank you" for this inspiring message was tendered by past president Gordon Hancock. enough to win prizes of hose and

Some of the guests were lucky socks during the dinner program and the dancing later.

Gifts of roses were presented to four ladies present by past president Vince McCabe. They were Mrs. Bob Stroud, Mrs. W. J. Johnston, Mrs. Bert Coulter and Mrs. Walter Howell.

Lieutenant governor Bob Stroud and past governor Bert Coulter each spoke briefly, both offering congratulations to the Peterborough club on the appointment of Walter Howell as district lieutenant governor for 1954.

Out-of-town Kiwanians were specially welcomed and a member from Portland, Oregon, extended the greetings of his club.

Guests were received by immediate past president and lieutenant governor elect Walter Howll and Mrs. Howell, and president Wilson Gemmell and Mrs. Gemmell.

Seated with them at the head table were the present lieutenant governor Bob Stroud and Mrs. Stroud of Dunbarton and past governor Bert Coulter and Mrs. Coulter of Oshawa; three charter members of the Peterborough club and their wives, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. McKone, Dr. and Mrs. G. R. Scott and Senator and Mrs. J. J. Duffus; the incoming president Bob Bastable and Mrs. Bastable; past presidents Al Plaskett and Mrs. Plaskett, Vince McCabe, Gordon Hancock and Mrs. Hancock, Jack Lewis and Mrs. Lewis, Dennis Fitzgerald and Mrs. Fitzgerald; guests Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Browne and Mrs. E. H. McKone; and the guest speaker, the Rev. W. J. Johnston and Mrs. Johnston of Toronto.

Visiting Kiwanians and their wives present were Mr. M. K. Thomson of Barrie; Mr. and Mrs. Joe Holton, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Hanson, Mr. and Mrs. Al Garden, Mr. and Mrs. K. M. Bailey, Mr. and Mrs. Lou Walker, all of Lindsay; Mr. and Mrs. Ken Nicol, Mr. and Mrs. C. K. Funnell, Mr. and Mrs. Russ Honey, Mr. and Mrs. Al Pivy, all of Port Hope; and Mr. Ralph H. Fulbright of Portland, Oregon.

Other Peterborough Kiwanians and their wives attending were: Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Paterson, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Standish, Mr. and Mrs. George Cheatle, Mr. and Mrs. John Wells, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. DeNure, Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Rehill, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Huffman, Mr and Mrs. Mort Knox, Mr. and Mrs. Ernie McWilliam, Mr. and Mrs. James S. Craig, Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Howes, Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Guests of local Kiwanians for this occasion were Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Kingan, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Dougherty, Mr. and Mrs. Melville McIntyre, Mr. and Mrs. Karl Duffus, Mr. and Mrs. Reg. Pearson, Mrs. Sally Armstrong, Mr. Roger Amstrong.

Council Urges Aid For Ineducable Will Go To Gov.

TORONTO—Convener of welfare for the Provincial Council of Women Muriel H. Milligan stated at the semi-annual meeting in Toronto this week that "More housing for those in lower income brackets would do a great deal to keep families together and avert social evils."

"All social workers today are about ready to throw up their hands in despair when asked to find housing for families with little children," she said. "It is a most frustrating feeling and the only answer is more low-cost housing all over the province."

No one can afford to be complacent about the indecent literature which is still flooding the Canadian market in spite of all efforts to eradicate it, said Mrs. Robert Haddow, Windsor, librarian at Assumption University, whose report was read by Mrs. William Weller.

The high cost of books in Canada was also noted by council's film and printed matter convener. This year saw removal of the 8 per cent sales tax, but even so, increased production costs and the 10 per cent customs duty from the United States make prices high in Canada. It is hoped that the committte of book interests currently working for a reclassification of books from first to second-class freight, and equality with magazines and newspapers in postal rates would do something in bringing down prices, she said.

Plea for the ineducable children was made by education convener Trustee J. Isabel Ross. As a result a resolution was passed by the meeting urging that a joint committee of health, education and welfare of provincial council approach the government departments urging larger yearly grants for operation costs for the care of all children of the province with IQ below 50.

On motion of convener of arts and letters Edna Breithaupt, the meeting also passed resolutions urging that the Ontario government appoint an arts and letters council or board for the greater development of this field in Ontario; also that a chairman be appointed to the Canadian Arts Board now in process of formation.

Pointing to the need of maintaining a high standard for teachers, the meeting asked also continuation of the final year of the emergency training program (consisting of two annual six weeks' summer courses, following two years' teaching experience).

To Add Books To Library At St. Jos. Hospital

Tribute was paid to a much loved neighbor, the late Mrs. Gordon C. Miller, by Mrs. F. W. K. Harris and Mrs. A. J. Macklin, when they attended the Thursday evening meeting of St. Joseph's Hospital Auxiliary and presented for the Nursery Department two books which had been contributed by neighbors in remembrance of Mrs. Miller.

The Patient's Library at the Hospital will be further enlarged by the purchase of a quantity of books and the addition of several magazines, as arranged by the Auxiliary at this meeting. The library is in charge of Mrs. Wm. J. Hickey and Miss Beatrice Malane.

Substantial payments were made on the year's two large projects, the recovery room and the bookkeeping machine, from proceeds of the Auxiliary's booth at Peterborough Exhibition and the Tuck Shop at the hospital.

A friendship evening is to be held Wednesday, November 25, at the nurses' residence to entertain auxiliary workers and friends.

Vice-President Mrs. M. Armitage told the meeting about the October convention of the Ontario Women's Hospital Auxiliaries Association, to which she was a delegate, and President Mrs. B. Monaghan, also a delegate, described features which had impressed her. Mrs. Monaghan referred particularly to Dr. Routley's address entitled "The Golden Gimmick" in which he stressed that word of mouth assistance is a valuable or golden contribution to an auxiliary by its members.

At the conclusion of the meeting student nurses served refreshments from the tea table at which Mrs. J. V. Gallivan presided.

Newlyweds Honored By North Smith W.I.

Wesley Orange Hall, North Smith, was filled to capacity on Tuesday evening when the church, the community and the Women's Institute honored Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Branscombe (the former Mary Nichols) who were recently married.

Mr. Kenneth Stewart acted as chairman. The program was prepared by Mrs. Ralph Garbutt, Mrs. Rufus Bullock and their committee.

Mrs. Elizabeth Telford of Bridgenorth opened the program with a round of community singing and later entertained with a piano selection. Orchestra numbers were played by Mrs. Robert Armstrong, Mrs. J. A. Northey, Mrs. Ralph Garbutt and Mrs. James Fawcett. The program also included a reading by Mrs. Bruce Hall, duets by Pat and Norma Belsey, Nancy Milligan and Lillian Traynor, a short play by Gary Sage and Roger Jopling, a violin and piano selection by Jim Sloan and Melba Pavey, vocal solo by Sandra Moore, piano numbers by Emil York, guitar selection by Doug Taylor and contests by Harry Wannamaker.

Robert Armstrong a prize winner in the recent oratorical contest, gave an address.

At the conclusion of the program Mr. and Mrs. Branscombe were asked to take seats of honor on the platform, William Pavey read an address of congratulations and good wishes. Erie Pearson made the presentation of a decorated tree, the branches of which were budding with five-dollar bills, amounting to more than $100.

Mrs. Sam Wood, representing the Women's Institute presented a set of pillow cases which had won first prize at the Women's Institute annual convention. Mr. and Mrs. Branscombe both replied. Refreshments were served.

For a festive cup of coffee, add a fluff of sweetened whipped cream, made extra-good with a few drops of Shirriff's fragrant rum flavouring. Shirriff's Extract gives that master touch!

Lemon-lovely apple rings to garnish the Christmas bird, or to eat like candy. Simmer till tender in 1 cup water, 2 cups sugar, 2 teaspoons Shirriff's True Lemon Extract. They're swell!

Another garnish, with glitter supplied by Shirriff's tingly Mint Jelly. Gently roll the jelly out of the jar, cut stars with cookie cutter, and place on pineapple slices. Shirriff's True Fruit Jelly is a treat with any dish.

All your food will look prettier, taste more exciting if you just add a little Shirriff's Flavouring Extract, pure Food Colour, or a shimmering garnish of Shirriff's True Fruit Jelly. It's worth it!

DOROTHY DIX

Expectant Mother Worries Because Husband Divorced

DEAR MISS DIX: Six months ago I married a divorced man. I had nothing to do with breaking up his home, since he had been divorced for some time before we met. He had no children. Now we are expecting a baby, and everything should be very joyous for us. He's a wonderful husband, devoted and considerate. My difficulty is that I feel guilty being married to a divorced man. I keep thinking that if I hadn't come into the picture he and his wife might have been reconciled. I don't know whether or not to give him up now. He insists I'm being foolish, that there never was a real love between his wife and him, that his love for me is the real thing, etc. But I just can't be convinced. Incidentally, they had been married three years.

CONDITIONS FRAUGHT WITH MISGIVINGS

ANSWER: Your emotional stress probably all revolves around your pregnancy. It is a time when many women experience doubts and uncertainties even when there's no ground for them. Then, you have the added aggravation of being a second wife, which is another condition always fraught with misgivings. To top it all off with a guilt complex is putting a tremendous strain on your morale. Since you had nothing to do with breaking up your husband's first marriage, you have done nothing to cause you to feel guilty. The possibility that he might have returned to his first wife is so highly problematical that it's foolish for you to waste time dwelling on it. Turn your thoughts, instead, to the baby you are soon to have; plan for the future instead of focusing your thoughts on the past. You are establishing a family, an undertaking that will exact the very best of your physical, spiritual and psychological capacities. Don't waste your energy in futile concern over the past. Spend your time reading books to help you look into the future. Your librarian will gladly recommend some to you.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Is it unusual for a husband to be so satisfied with his wife's company that he never wants to go out or entertain? We've been married 25 years and I'm getting a bit fed up with his nightly routine of staying home.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: It's a mightly fine compliment to a wife when her husband is thoroughly content to be with her in his spare time. Of course, it's likely to get a bit boring for the wife, but a bit of boredom is much better than a heartful of worry. And a pattern is difficult to disturb after 25 years. So setttle down for your evenings together, and have your own social life during the day.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I've been going steady for some time with a boy who has been called into the service. His sister is my best friend. Lately she seems to resent the fact that I won't make a date with her unless I know Fred will be busy.

S. S.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Naturally, you want to see your young man as often as possible until he leaves. Your girl friend could be a bit more understanding since she will have a monopoly on your company later. If her jealously shows, ignore it.

THE EXPERTS SAY:

Use Yogurt As Cooking Ingredient

By JOAN BARBERIS

We hear that New York business men have been doing some "furious refuelling" on yogurt and that it can be found at many quick lunch counters in the big city.

It was Gayelord Hauser who popularized yogurt in the United States as well as blackstrap molasses. However, blackstrap dropped from favor because it has no classification under the Food and Drugs Act and some of the claims made for it were refuted.

There are two schools of thought regarding yogurt. Its supporters say it is delicious and that you'll live to be 104 if you eat it. On the other side are those who can't stand it at any price.

A well-known Montreal restaurant serves yogurt as a specialty with maple syrup. During the years in which it has been on the menu it has remained popular.

TURKISH RECIPES

Most Canadians who eat yogurt don't usually use it as a cooking ingredient as they do in Europe, but here are two recipes from the Turkish information office in which it is an ingredient.

Yogurt beef soup: 3 cups yogurt, one teaspoon salt, 2 quarts beef stock, 6 tablespoons butter, ¾ cup flour, one tablespoon dried mint leaves (optional).

Put yogurt and salt in mixing bowl and add stock slowly, stirring to smooth consistency. Melt butter in saucepan, add flour slowly, stirring constantly over low flame. Then add yogurt and stock mixture gradually, stirring constantly until it boils. Pour into soup bowls and top with dried mint leaves.

Yogurt dessert: 3 eggs, one cup sugar, one cup yogurt, one cup flour, one teaspoon baking powder, one teaspoon grated lemon or orange rind, whipped cream.

Syrup for dessert: 2½ cups sugar 3 cups water and one teaspoon lemon juice.

Mix together 2½ cups of sugar and three cups of water and boil to syrup stage. Set aside to cool. Beat eggs with one cup of sugar until sugar dissolves. Add yogurt, flour sifted with baking powder, and the fruit rind to the egg mixture and beat until smooth.

Pour into greased baking pan and bake in 400 degree oven for ½ hour. Remove pastry from oven and cut into desired shapes while still in pan. Immediately pour syrup over hot pastry. Cover pan and set aside until all syrup has been absorbed. Transfer to dish and chill. Serve with whipped cream.

Kitchener Bows To Hamilton 4-3

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

So far this season, the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series has been pretty good to its netminders.

The goalies have only employed the disdainful task of turning, stooping and fishing the puck out of the net on the average of about four times in each game.

Bill Harrington of the second-place Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen, who lost a home-ice decision 4-3 to Hamilton Tigers in the only game Thursday night, holds the best record—an average of 2.6 goals a game. This is the first season for Harrington in Senior A company. Last year he starred with Barrie Flyers of the OHA Junior A loop.

OTHERS IN CIRCUIT

Other netminders in the OHA Senior A circuit hold averages that range right down to 5.5.

In the NOHA Senior A, Sault Ste. Marie (Ont.) Greyhounds defeated Sault Ste. Marie (Mich.) Indians 2-1 in the Ontario city and the league-leading Sudbury Wolves were downed 5-2 by the Trappers in North Bay.

Hamilton's victory in the OHA hoisted the Tigers into a three-way tie for second place, along with the Dutchmen and Windsor Bulldogs. Winger Eddie Busch of the Tigers drew a match-misconduct penalty for making threatening gestures at referee Lou Maschio with his fist and stick.

Bud Kemp, Ab Conick, Harvey Jacklin and Lloyd Ferguson scored for Hamilton. Ken Laufman connected twice for the Dutchies with the other goal going to Sam Kennedy.

TIES IT UP

Johnny Ubriaco fired the winner for the Greyhounds in the second period. Tom McCracken of the Indians scored the first goal in the first stanza before Tommy Smelle tied it up a minute later.

Don Hogan notched three counters for the Trappers against Sudbury, George Gosselin and Ab Demarco, his linemates, bagged the others.

Frank King and Nick Tomiuk were the Sudbury marksmen.

A full schedule tonight has Windsor at the league-leading Chatham Maroons, Sarnia at Niagara Falls, Owen Sound at Stratford and Kitchener at Hamilton.

In the NOHA the Hounds go to Sudbury.

Ti-Cats Feel In Peak Form For Second Game In Montreal

By WILF GRUSON

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton Tiger-Cats, on the threshold of their first crack at the Grey Cup in 18 years, leave tonight for Montreal and the second game of the Big Four final, eager and confident that they appear to have reached their peak form at the right time.

They have reached that stage after starting the season in exasperating fashion with coach Carl Voyles going through five quarterbacks.

The season was well under way before Voyles decided Ed Songin was the man who could do the best job. With the pivot men coming and going, the Tiger-Cats were written off by nearly everyone who dared try to pick the Big Four champion.

SURPRISED EVERYONE

But Bengals surprised everyone and kept right in the thick of the schedule. They ended up in a tie for first place with Montreal Alouettes and today, on the heels of a shattering 37-12 in Wednesday over the Als in the opening game of the series for the league title and the eastern crown, they appeare headed to represent the east in the Grey Cup classic.

The injury-riddled Alouettes will have to come through with a tremendous reversal of form to prevent it, starting with the second game Sunday in Delorimer Stadium and again in the third game there should they force a deciding encounter.

LAST PLAYED IN 1935

Tiger-Cats, beaten in Big Four playoffs the three previous seasons, last played in the east-west final in 1935, the year Fritz Hanson won the hearts of the west by running 70 yards for a third-quarter touchdown that broke up the game and gave Winnipeg Blue Bombers an 18-12 victory.

Hamilton faces one disconcerting feature: They haven't won in Montreal since Oct. 18, 1952.

The Tiger-Cats showing in the last quarter of the regular schedule and the opening playoff game indicates they are at about their peak form and the Als' advantage of the home crowd and field may not count for much.

WIN PRO TENNIS TITLE

LONDON (AP)—Don Budge of New York and Frank Sedgman of Australia Thursday night defeated Dick Gonzales of Los Angeles and Pancho Segura of Ecuador 6-3, 6-3, 6-2, to win the international professional indoor tennis championship.

How to KEEP FIT after 50

In the old days fifty seemed the signal to slow down—take things easy—watch your diet—get more rest. It's still good advice. But these days you can face fifty with many interesting and active years ahead,—active, that is, if you can avoid backache and the "tired-out" feeling, due to kidney and bladder disorders, that often develop around that age. For more than 60 years Dodd's Kidney Pills have been helping men and women of all ages to keep kidneys and bladder in good order,—helping them to feel better, to work better, and get more fun out of life. If you are approaching fifty, or past it, Dodd's Kidney Pills may help you, too. You can depend on Dodd's. 54

Seven Americans Chosen For CP All-Star Team

By JIM PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Seven Americans were chosen today for the 1953 Canadian Press Ontario Rugby Football Union all-star team, the greatest representation of import talent in the union since the poll was inaugurated 21 years ago.

The sweep pointed up the trend to U. S.-born players in the country's oldest football union which year after year stuck to the theory of Canadian football for Canadians. In recent seasons, the ORFU gradually added Americans to the rosters. This season each club was limited to four.

Sarnia Imperials, one-time power in the senior game, who have put emphasis on home-brew talent, bore the brunt of the American invasion. They placed six men on the mythical squad—five Canadians and one American, compared with nine men in 1952.

BEACHES PLACE FOUR

Toronto Balmy Beach, farm club of Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four, had four men selected, every one an American and one a repeater. Beaches became ORFU champions after ousting Sarnia and Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen in a playoff series. The three teams had finished in a tie for first place.

The all-star roster was filled out by two Americans from Kitchener, farm club of Ottawa Rough Riders of the Big Four.

Brantford Redskins, winless in 12 starts, failed to place a man on the team chosen for CP by the football writers, sportscasters and coaches.

Balloting is weighted to give equal voting power to each of the four cities—Toronto, Sarnia, Brantford and Kitchener-Waterloo.

THE TEAM

Flying Wing — Johnny Chorostecki, Sarnia.

Halves—Dick Gregory, Toronto; Jack Mancos, Kitchener; John (Corky) Duchene, Sarnia.

Quarter — Bob Schneidenbach, Toronto.

Centre — Bruce Mattingley, Sarnia.

Guards—Jay Fry, Kitchener; Dutch Davey, Sarnia.

Tackles — Oattem Fisher, Toronto; Maurice Dorocke, Sarnia.

Ends — Harvey Singleton, Toronto; Keith Fisher, Sarnia.

40 OUT OF 50 POINTS

Halves Dick Gregory and Jack Mancos, both imports, were singled out by selectors for highest personal honors, each polling 40 of a possible 50 points. Gregory joined Beaches after the season started, coming by way of Chicago Bears and Saskatchewan Roughriders, and won the league scoring title with 95 points in only eight games. Mancos, from Kent State, handled the Kitchener punting chores and doubled as halfback-quarter.

Tackles Fisher of Toronto and Dorocke of Sarnia were the American holdovers from the 1952 all-stars. Fisher, a six-foot three-inch lineman from Salisbury, N. C., has been with Beaches four years. He was voted the outstanding player in the league this year by players of the four clubs.

Dorocke, in 1952 the first American to break into the Canadian-dominated Sarnia roster, won all-star selection for the second year. He went to the Imps from the University of Idaho.

CANUCKS REPEAT

Guard Dutch Davey, selected last year as an all-star tackle, centre Bruce Mattingley and half Corky Duchene, all of Sarnia, are the other repeaters. All are Canadians. Davey has been with Imperials eight years, Mattingley seven and Duchene three.

End Harvey Singleton and quarter Bob Schneidenbach, both of Toronto, and guard Jay Fry of Kitchener, complete the American all-star list. Singleton, from Kentucky State, joined Beaches after failing to catch a berth with the parent Argonauts. Schneidenbach came from the University of Miami, Fla., the alma mater of Beach coach Chuck Klein. Fry joined Dutchmen from the University of Miami, Ohio.

Flying wing Johnny Chorostecki and end Keith Fisher, the other all-stars, are veteran Imperials. Fisher is a seven-year player and Chorostecki is in his fourth season.

Here And There In Sports

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

CAMPY MVP AGAIN

NEW YORK (AP)—Roy Campanella, Brooklyn's chunky, veteran catcher, has been voted most valuable player in the National League for the second time in three years.

When reporters tracked down Campanella—celebrating his 32nd birthday—at his Harlem liquor store, he grinned and said, "It makes a man feel pretty good. I can't ask for too much more in life, I guess."

The vote by a 24-man committee of the Baseball Writers Association of America was decisive. Campanella drew 17 firsts and piled up 297 points, highest point total since Stan Musial of St. Louis won with 303 in 1948.

Campanella became the fourth man to be named most valuable in the National more than once. He had won in 1951. Musial is the only three-time winner with awards in 1943, 1946 and 1948. Carl Hubbell and Rogers Hornsby were each picked twice.

Eddie Matthews, the home-run-hitting third baseman of Milwaukee Braves, finished second, 81 points back at 216.

Duke Snider, Brooklyn's slugging centre fielder, nosed out St. Louis' Red Schoendienst for third place, 157 to 155.

PIE KING TOPS

LONDON (AP) — American-owned The Pie King, winner of the York Gimcrack Stakes, is rated England's top two-year-old thoroughbred for 1953.

Geoffrey Freer, handicapper to the English Jockey Club, put The Pie King top-weighted for the seven-furlong free handicap race for three-year-olds at Newmarket next spring.

The Pie King, owned by Ray Bell and Ellwood Johnston of Los Angeles, is down to carry 133 pounds. Two pounds below him is Sir Malcolm McAlpine's Infatuation, winner of three races this year.

Landau, Queen Elizabeth's Juvenile racing hope, is weighted at 130 pounds.

NAME CURTIS CUP TEAM

LONDON (AP) — Britain has named three women golfers to the Curtis Cup team which will defend the trophy in the United States next year at Philadelphia, Sept. 2-3.

All three were on the British team which won the cup at Muirfield, Scotland, in 1952 for the first time since the series started in 1932.

They are Jeanne Bisgood, English women's champion, Philomena Garvey, Irish champion and runner-up in the British women's open tournament, and Mrs. George Valentine, Scottish champion.

The team will be completed after the British women's tournament in June.

TI-CATS BEAT MONTREAL—In this remarkable action shot Bernie Custis (left), of Hamilton Tiger-Cats, smashes through the Montreal Alouettes' line for a gain in the first of the best-of-three final playoff series for the eastern Canada football championship. Hamilton rolled over the Alouettes 37-12. Custis gets fine blocking help from Buster Brown running ahead of him. Vince Mazza (75) and Art Darch (52) are sprawled on the ground after clearing a hole in the line for Custis.

16,000 Fans Expected At Bomber-Beaches Game

WINNIPEG (CP)—Billed only as a "warm-up" for the Winnipeg Blue Bombers, Saturday's Grey Cup semi-final between the western Beach is drawing plenty of spectator interest.

About 16,000 fans are expected for the game which gives the winner the right to advance into the Grey Cup final at Toronto a week later against either Hamilton Tiger-Cats or Montreal Alouettes.

The powerful Bombers will go into the contest against the Ontario Rugby Football Union champions, first time staged in western Canada, as odds-on-favorites. Latest reports indicate there is little or no betting.

Bomber coach George Trafton predicted during the western semi-finals that his club was "going all the way," and he sees no reason to change his mind now. However, he still respects the light-but-speedy Beaches.

When a couple of the boys stepped out of line at Thursday night's practice, Trafton bellowed:

"Let's not get smart. You move like that Saturday, and that club will run around you like a hoop around a barrel."

Trafton's barbed tongue and a cold north wind during the close to 20-degree temperature soon had the club running at full steam again.

NO PREDICTIONS

Coach Chuck Klein isn't making any predictions. He had his team working out on Bombers' grounds Wednesday, but shifted to Osborne Stadium, former home of the Winnipeg club, for Thursday's practice.

The former Florida coach apparently was pleased at the second workout.

"It was a good session, much better than Wednesday's. The boys were pretty sharp," he said.

Beaches were back at full strength Thursday night, with the return of halfback Ross McKelvey and import quarterback Dick Schneidenback. McKelvey remained behind an extra day by his school-teaching duties in Toronto. Schneidenback had been called home to Lagrange, Ill., due to the sickness of his wife.

BIG ADVANTAGE

Bombers will have a big advantage in weight. Their two first-string tackles Dick Huffman and Buddy Tinsley each weigh 250 pounds. The rest of the line, even the relief men, generally outweigh the Beaches' front wall, headed by 210-pound tackle Oattem Fisher from North Carolina State and the ORFU's most valuable player this year.

Winnipeg also will have a weight advantage in the backfield, but from all reports may take a backseat in speed.

The weather man predicted: "Temperatures in the high 30s; south winds between 10 and 15 miles an hour."

He added that there is no sign of snow.

HAY HARVESTERS

DO YOU INTEND to Own a McKEE HARVESTER? If you are going to purchase, we wish to advise that the November Discount is 7% of the Purchase Price. You will save almost $100.00 and be assured of getting your Machine.

Please Note: We cannot guarantee spring delivery without your order.

A McKEE (One Man) HARVESTER takes the hard labor out of Haying. The McKee Harvesting System is the most efficient method available to gather and store your crop.

A McKee Representative must see your Farm before we can take your order. Each Harvester MUST be supplied with the proper belt ratio for your Tractor. Please give us a chance to get this work done before spring.

Write for details, or call at the plant. No obligation.

Correction

It was reported incorrectly Thursday that the Junior Chamber of Commerce was giving away reflecting tape to city motorists. Jaycee officials said today they are selling the tape at a price only slightly above cost. Profits from the sale go toward the Jaycees' traffic safety campaign, in which, among other things, they sponsor the junior drivers' roadeo.

Asks Emergency Committee For Lakefield

LAKEFIELD (ENS). — Fire Chief Allan H. Clark addressed the Red Cross Society regarding the formation of a community emergency committee, and was assured, after a period of discussion, that the Red Cross is willing to co-operate in any way possible.

Mrs. Albert O'Donnell, president, was in the chair and the meeting opened with prayer.

The treasurer's report showed a donation of $500 from the Home and School Association, and one of $50 from the family of the late Mrs. Arthur Kidd. The Home and School donation is to be used for the vitamin tablets for the children of the public school. There is a balance on hand of $265.

Mrs. Wallace Hendren, school nurse, reported 92 inoculations and 34 vaccinations had been given. She also suggested that, as there were 344 pupils on the roll, an additional 2,000 tablets should be purchased another year.

BLOOD DONORS

Blood donor chairman Mrs. Stanley Goodall reported that 153 donors had gone from the village and district from January 1 until October 19.

The Well Babies Clinic report, submitted by Mrs. Robert McCracken, nurse in charge, showed that the clinic had reopened for the fall and winter season on October 7 and six clinics have been held since then. Twenty-five new babies have registered. A total of 25 first doses of combined serum, 17 second doses, and six booster doses have been given, as well as seven vaccinations.

Mrs. McCracken reminded the mothers that the clinic was for well babies only, as sick children had been brought on several occasions.

Mrs. Clarence Foster, work convener, presented a new quota of work which was left over until the new year.

Mrs. W. W. Leonard, loan cupboard convener, asked that two layettes be sent to Miss Rachael Young for the Children's Aid Society. The request will be granted.

Plans for the annual meeting of the branch were discussed, and it was decided to ask Mr. Glynn Griffith of Toronto to be guest speaker.

Two books, donated to Red Cross by Reader's Digest, will be given to the local library. A St. John Ambulance class will be organized early in the new year.

Stirling Wins Championship

STIRLING — (ENS) — Stirling High School captutred the football championship of the Centre Hastings area in a home game when they defeated Marmora in the second game of a home-and-home series by a score of 6-0. Marmora won the first game 1-0.

Stirling took the lead in the first quarter when Hermiston took a punt and after drawing the Marmora tacklers, lateralled to Hadley, who went over for a touchdown. The convert was missed and the first half ended 5-0.

In the final quarter, Hermiston added a single point on a kick over the dead line. Marmora kicked to the deadline but were offside and the point was nullified.

School Principals Discuss New Course

BANCROFT (ENS) — The experiment in secondary school education being carried on by North Hastings High School was the main topic of discussion of the educational group which met in Bancroft.

The visit of Inspectors George Gray and G. E. Johnston to North Hastings High School afforded an opportunity to meet with A. W. Smith, inspector of public schools for North Hastings, along with the following public school principals of the district: Harvey A. Fentie, Maynooth; Gordon H. Fresque, Bancroft; Paul Fretz, Fort Stewart; Laurie Hook, Bird's Creek; Duncan McPherson, Paudash; Mrs. Gladys Thompson, Gilmour; and Mrs. Gertrude J. Vader, L'Amable; and also Gordon Wragg, principal, and Harold E. Petch, of the North Hastnigs High School staff.

The new non-university course for those who do not desire to continue with advanced high school and university academic work is designed to help those who want only a couple of years of high school training in work of a more practical nature.

Other problems of common concern to teachers were discussed and a further meeting arranged for next January.

Civil Servant Salary Raise Approved

OTTAWA (CP) — Salary increases affecting about 75 per cent of the classified civil servants in Canada have been approved and will become effective Dec. 1.

The civil service commission announced that schedules setting out the complicated increases will be released later today.

At the same time, it was understood new pay schedules for the three armed services also will be released today.

85,000 GET BOOSTS

The commission announcement said the civil service increases, first since Dec. 1, 1951, cover 600 classes of workers and involve about 85,000 employees. Some general classes will involve civil servants in practically all federal government departments in all parts of the country.

The order includes nearly all professional classes as well as most of the employees in the larger departments.

Salaries of the remaining 25 per cent of civil servants—not covered in today's announcements—are "receiving immediate consideration," the announcement said.

Heaviest Rainfall

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The heaviest November rainfall in New Orleans' history — nearly eight inches—flooded the city Thursday night. More rain was forecast for today. The torrents created traffice jams, stalled lines, flooded many stores, and knocked out lines.

MISS ELIZABETH D. LONG advisor on women's interests for the CBC, and one of the high ranking radio women in Canada, will be in the city Tuesday to speak at the conference being held by the Local Council of Women at the YWCA. Miss Long does considerable public speaking in Canada and other countries and is regarded as an authority in the field of radio education of women. Before coming to radio she had a distinguished career as a journalist on the Winnipeg Free Press, and was also a regular contributor of articles and fiction to various other publications in Canada, United States and the United Kingdom. She will be heard during the afternoon session of the all-day conference.

Re-Assessment Takes Into Account Cost Of Replacement, Other Economic Factors

By PHIL CALDER

How much is a building worth?

One of the easiest ways to arrive at an answer to that question is to ask another: How much would it cost to replace it?

But when a person is constructing or buying a building as an investment, he has to take several other factors into account.

Apart from the size and quality of a building, the return on the money invested in it will vary according to its location and what it is used for, in terms of both its sale and rental value.

(Note: This is the second of a series of articles on the city's re-assessment, written by Mr. Calder, who is The Examiner's city hall reporter.)

A house is more valuable if its located in a quiet residential section than if it's stuck beside a boiler factory and a dairy can operate more profitably in a building constructed specifically for that purpose than in a steel mill.

Accordingly, when the Ontario Assessment Act was amended in 1946, it required that property was to be assessed at its actual value, taking these economic factors into consideration, as well as any other circumstances affecting the value.

It was chiefly in order to comply with this law that city council last year, encouraged by the province, ordered the re-assessment of all property in the city.

SITUATION DIFFICULT

The problem of keeping assessments up to date has always been aggravated by the fluctuations of property values that accompany the ups and downs of a community's economic condition. But the situation has grown particularly difficult with the post-war industrial boom.

In Peterborough, even before the re-assessment, the twin gains in population and prosperity had pushed the city's total assessment up more than 40 per cent since 1945.

But from the assessor's point of view, the story has been more complicated than just the growth in the total of property values. Commercial areas have expanded into residential districts and new shopping centres have been created where none existed before. Vacant land has been built on and new residential sections have been annexed from adjacent municipalities.

CAUSES HEADACHES

This has caused headaches for many people other than the assessor. But we're not concerned here with the city's master plan or zoning regulations. The headaches in the assessment department have been just as severe as those of the planners and for much the same reason.

For example, a commercial development in a residential district—say the construction of a corner lunch counter or service station—could conceivably lower the value of nearby residential property. But there might be a rush to purchase an adjoining house in order to tear it down and put up a neighborhood drug store or grocery store, increasing its value as a potential commercial site far more than it would continue to be worth as a place of residence.

On the other hand, the construction of a new store or service station might be the limit of an area's commercial development. The chances are that the value of neighboring houses would simply drop, in terms of sales value and rent return.

On top of all this is the fact of the enormous number of houses built since the war and the expansion of older commercial sections, particularly in the central business district, by the construction of new stores and offices.

As a result, the assessor's experience was something like that of a plant manager trying to take an inventory at the height of the Christmas shopping season while the sales manager kept changing the price tags.

A few years ago, Max Sloan was faced with this situation when he was assessment commissioner of Peterborough and it undoubtedly created an impression which remained with him when he was appointed head of the department of municipal affairs newly-created assessment branch in 1947.

FIRST TASK

The first task of the assessment branch was to prepare a manual of assessment values. A set of values was compiled covering all types of properties that the average assessor has to deal with. These basic rates were then checked against actual properties in various parts of the province.

In 1949 a committee was set up to study the rates. It was composed of two construction engineers, a building contractor, two assessors and the tax agent for the department of lands and forests. Their suggestions were incorporated into the schedule of rates which were again checked in the field.

In 1950 the Manual of Assessment Values was issued. After it had been tested in a few municipalities, it was amended in 1951. There will be some further amendments when the greater Toronto area has been completely re-assessed, as this area includes practically every type of construction. However, these amendments will not affect the rates now in the manual because it wil apply only to those types of construction not included at present.

Of the municipalities which have adopted the manual, Niagara Falls, Fort William and Chatham, among the cities, were the first to be re-assessed in accordance with its principles. Woodstock, North Bay, St. Thomas, Sudbury, Ottawa and Peterborough have used the manual as a basis of re-assessment this year.

Pair Seated Side By Side For December 18 Execution

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Carl Austin Hall and Mrs. Bonnie Brown Heady will be seated side by side in death when they are executed Dec. 18 for the kidnap-killing of Bobby Greenlease.

"There have been double executions before and we plan to do it in this case," a prison official says.

The gas chamber at the Missouri state prison has two metal chairs about three feet apart. Under the chairs are stone crocks containing sulphuric acid. When the prisoners are strapped into place, a lever is tripped causing cyanide pellets to drop into the acid. The resulting deadly gas rises. Death comes when the prisoners inhale it.

"The gas renders them unconscious within a matter of seconds," the official said.

WATCH AT WINDOWS

The execution tank itself has about 18 square feet of floor space. There are windows through which witnesses may watch the executions.

Mrs. Heady will be the first woman to die in the Missouri gas chamber. The 30 men who have been executed there have been stripped to hteir shorts to lessen the possibility of gas clinging to their clothing and endangering those who removed the bodies later.

Arrangements have been made for Mrs. Heady to be clad in long-style black shorts and a black halter. She will be blindfolded, as will Hall.

COUNCIL

The Home and School Council meeting held Wednesday evening at the YWCA was opened with devotions led by Mrs. Ivan Morgan. President Mrs. V. Reynolds presided.

Correspondence, read by Mrs. J. Dunkerley in absence of the secretary, included a letter from Dr. T. E. Currier thanking the council for help given in the field of mental health.

Conveners' reports were heard as follows: Mrs. C. G. Collins, radio; Mrs. G. Lathangue, citizenship; Mrs. F. Gray, urban leadership—announcing a forthcoming meeting of presidents and vice-presidents; Mrs. L. Raper, parent education; Mrs. C. Coons, finance convener, presenting a budget; Mrs. S. Whitfield, transportation convener, asking for volunteers to drive the retarded children to school. A short report on the regional conference was given by Mrs. A. Gariepy.

Mrs. Lathangue introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Vera Fanning, who spoke about the Study Group on Civic Affairs of Peterborough. She said, "Women are 50 per cent of the voters and should accept 50 per cent of the responsibility. Ignorance of civic affairs is the main reason for some people not voting".

Mrs. Fanning advised that the present project of the group is beautification of Jackson Park creek and the Otonabee river.

She was thanked for coming by Mrs. W. Amos.

Coronation School Association served the refreshments.

Fined $10, Costs On Traffic Count

Convicted of driving without due consideration, William Brooks, 22, 635 Oxford St., was fined $10 and $17 costs Thursday.

Brooks was charged after an accident at Lock and Lansdowne Sts., October 17, in which four people suffered minor injuries. Brooks, defended by Robert Carley, pleaded not guilty.

Walter Woodhouse, 17, of 218 Braidwood Ave., the other driver involved, told court he had been driving north on Lock St., stopped at Lansdowne, and made sure the road was clear before starting out.

He saw an eastbound car near George St. After starting from Lock St., he swung slightly to the right to avoid a pedestrian who was walking west on Lansdowne, and suddenly turned to walk diagonally across the road.

When he was roughly halfway across the intersection, his car was hit on the left rear by Brooks' auto.

An independent witness, James Haggart, 191 Lock St., said he did not see the pedestrian, but did see the accident.

Brooks testified he didn't see Woodhouse until the latter started across Lansdowne. At that time, Brooks was "four or five car-lengths" away. The accused agreed with Woodhouse's testimony that the northbound car was moving slowly.

Mr. Carley argued it was a matter for the civil courts. He suggested Woodhouse has been keeping a "mighty poor lookout" or else he would have seen Brooks' car. He felt that Brooks, having the right of way, would have a slower reaction time to an emergency of such a nature.

Magistrate W. R. Philp reviewed the evidence briefly, then commented that he couldn't understand why Brooks, seeing the Woodhouse car four or five car-lengths away, couldn't have come to a complete stop in that distance.

Actress Agrees To Pay $15,000 On Loan

NEW YORK (AP)—Actress Ann Sheridan has agreed to pay $15,000 to clear up a $40,000 loan from her long-time friend, the late publicist Steve Hannagan, and in turn gain title to two scenarios.

A settlement in the dispute between Miss Sheridan and estate executors for Hannagan was approved by a court Thursday.

J Hannagan's safe deposit box after his death were found three promissory notes totalling $40,000 signed by Miss Sheridan. But a Hannagan letter accompanying them said: "In case of death destroy in the presence of party notes held in box."

Paul Snell, one of five Hannagan associates inheriting his publicity business, said he carried out the request.

Miss Sheridan said she put up $7,000 against Hannagan's $40,000, with the money owed to be repaid only out of the sale or use of the two scenarios entitled 'Second Lady" and "It Must Be Love."

This also was agreed to by the executors, who said the $15,000 was "the most we can hope to obtain by way of settlement."

Strike Paralyzes Montreal

MONTREAL (CP)—A wildcat strike today brought Montreal's public-owned transportation system to a standstill. The strike started suddenly and without advance notice. At first only a few buses and street cars were affected, but the walkout soon snowballed into a complete halt of the services. The walkout may cause thousands of children to miss the Santa Claus parade scheduled for Montreal today. The parade usually attracts upwards of 500,000 people. The walkout was started by an estimated 800 of the MTC's tram conductors, motormen and bus drivers who atended a stormy union meeting Friday night. The meeting overruled union chiefs and decided to pull MTC vehicles off the streets in support of demands for better pay and improved working conditions.

Union officials had notified the meeting that negotiations in the wage dispute had broken down. But the officials asked the men not to strike and to proceed by "legal" means.

But the men at the meeting disregarded the plea and left the hall to order buses and street cars to the barns.

Services are at a standstill," a company spokesman said.

The full effects of the walkout were not immediately felt. Most offices were closed for the weekend when the strike started. Large stores, railways and others used delivery trucks to pick up employees at tram and bus stops.

Taxis did a land-office business.

While the walk-out spread, union leaders hurriedly went back into conference with the Montreal Transportation commission. They were to report to the men tonight at a mass meeting.

Police said they had no reports of violence on the picketlines.

STRIKE PARALYZES (Continued on Page 2)

Farm Council Urges Gov't Speed Trade Concessions

OTTAWA (CP)—The Interprovincial Farm Union Council today urged the government to accelerate trade concessions and lower tariffs. In a brief to Trade Minister Howe, the council — representing the Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta farmers' unions—said Canada faces a major problem in regaining lost markets and retaining and expanding existing ones.

The brief noted that the government recently eased some tariffs and made some trade concessions, and further extension of this program."

OTHER STEPS URGED

Among its other recommendations, the council urged:

1. Government study of barter trade and acceptance of sterling in payment for agricultural produce. The farmers' unions "look forward to Canada taking a lead in negotiating for the convertibility of sterling and easing of currency restrictions."

2. A system of cash advances, preferably administered by the Canadian wheat board, on farm-stored grains. The present tie-up of grain on farms and in country elevators left farmers without enough cash to meet operating expenses, store accounts and to pay their day-to-day living expenses.

Cash advances should be $1.00 a bushel for wheat up to a maximum of 15 bushels a seeded acre, 60 cents a bushel for barley to a acre, and 40 cents a bushel for oats up to 25 bushels a seeded acre.

3. A "substantial" gift through the United Nations of Canadian farm produce, particularly grain, to needy areas not financialy able to purchase foodstuffs.

4. A parliamentary inquiry 'into the exhorbitant spread between the price paid to livestock producers and the prices charged consumers." The brief said an increasing number of farmers favor establishment of a producer marketing board for livestock.

Fines Union $50,000 For Intimidation

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A judge, who said two union officials had tried to intimidate him, Friday night fined Local 927, United Auto Workers (CIO), $50,000 for strike violence at the North American Aviation plant here.

Judge Joseph K. Harter suspended half the fine on condition of "good behavior" and provided the union makes restitution for damages.

The judge found the union in contempt of his order limiting picketing and banning interference with workers entering the plant.

In a statement from the bench, the judge said one union leader had threatened to "take care of this judge" in next year's election, and that Elmder Adkins, president of Local 927, had said "if I ruled against the union there would undoubtedly be a lot of union votes cast against me."

PoW Who Changed Mind Warmly Welcomed Home

By HERB ALTSCHULL

WASHINGTON (AP)—Cpl. Edward Dickenson, the prisoner-of-war who changed his mind, came home early today to a fervent reunion with his mother and father.

Dickenson's mother, Bessie, raised both hands into the air and shouted: "My son, my son, bless the Lord!"

It was the first time Dickenson had seen his mother in more than three years, and for a moment a score of reporters and photographers stood mutely by.

Then photo bulbs snapped and questions flew but the Dickenson, mother, father, son and sister, kept on embracing and weeping.

"I thought he was dead," cried Mrs. Dickenson. "But the Lord has given me back my son."

Ed's father, 73-year-old Van Buren Dickenson, kissed the 23-year-old soldier on the cheek.

"God bless you," said the elderly farmer from Cracker's Neck, Va.

The family had about 10 minutes together at Andrews air force base. Then Ed was placed in a bus and sent off to the army's Walter Reed medical centre for a physical check-up—"just like any other PoW," said an army officer.

"It feels wonderful to be home," Ed said.

Then, in response to a question: "Yes, I'm definitely going to re-enlist. I haven't spent any time in the army. I've been in prison practically the whole time."

"Oh, I hope he doesn't go back in," said his mother. "All we want is to have him back with us on the farm."

Dickenson was one of 23 U.S. soldiers who refused repatriation after the Korean truce was signed. He later changed his mind and asked neutral Indian guards to turn him back to the United Nations side.

West Gambling With Safety

LONDON (Reuters)—The Western Allies "are gambling with their safety" by failing to include development of atomic weapons in the forthcoming Anglo - American-Canadian exchange of atomic information, The Times says today.

"The spectacle of United States and Britain each going forward with the development of atomic weapons in sealed and separate compartments is nonsensical in terms of common defence," an editorial said.

The United States atomic commission announced Friday that "trading of information" will not extend to weapons, although Britain and Canada will be filled in on their effects. The Times said the alliance "ties one hand behind its back."

The United States' refusal to pool all its knowledge about "new and prodigious" weapons "means that Western progress will be gravely slowed down for lack of the cross-fertilization of ideas and practice which is essential, and right, in science," The Times said.

"In American eyes, it will still, apparently, be as perilous to give the fundamental facts about atomic bombs or atomic weapons to the Western allies as to give them to Russia. . . .

Ex-Russian Says Not Misquoted

Sorry That Canada Ignored Advice Given Years Ago

TORONTO (CP)—A Toronto paper today prints a deposition from Igor Gouzenko, the former Russian embassy clerk, now the centre of controversy regarding his giving evidence to United States congressional committees.

A photostat of the final paragraph of the statement, signed by Gouzenko and a notary public, is printed at the top of the newspaper's front page. The statement follows:

I read in the official report of the House of Commons debates of Nov. 17 of the Hon. L. B. Pearson regarding my interview to Mr. Griffin of the Chicago Tribue.

I read, too, the original story of r. Griffin in the Chicago Tribune. I must say that Mr. Griffin did not misquote me.

GLAD TO HELP

It is clear from the interview that if Sen. McCarthy or Sen. Jenner thought that I might help them, I would be glad to see either of them and that I thought a talk with them would be worthwhile. I still think so.

I also stressed that such a meeting should take place in Canada for security reasons. That was also accurately reported by Mr. Griffin. On no occasion did I ever say that I had new information which I did not already give to the Canadian government, and Mr. Griffin did not say that I had.

I believe a meeting would be useful since I can give advice which, if properly put into effect, would have good chances of bringing exposure of present Soviet spy rings in the United States in comparatively short time.

HELP CANADA TOO

That of course, would be of great help to Canada, too. That advice I gave already to the Canadian government, during my first days under protection of the Canadian government, but I am sorry to say that it was ignored.

Serious and energetic adoption of this advice many years ago might have had important results by now. However, it is never too late.

I can add that I cannot see the reasons why United States officials could not come here and interview me. Anything that might be of help to a friendly nation to clean up the common enemy conspiracy must never be obstructed.

It appears that Mr. Pearson was ill-advised and acted in such haste that he even neglected to read the original interview upon which he based his not correct statement in Parliament.

Italy Welcomes Trieste Talks

ROME (AP) — Italy advised the Big Three Western powers today that she takes a "positive and constructive attitude" toward a five-power conference aimed at settling the Trieste question.

The foreign ministry announced this in a communique shortly after Prime Minister Giuseppe Pella presented the Italian position to the ambassadors of the United States, Britain and France.

"The talks concerned the soundings presently in course in the Trieste question," the communique said. "They also gave an opportunity to communicate the positive and constructive attitude of Italy regarding an Allied suggestion of Nov. 13 for a five-power conference for the definitive settlement of hte entire Trieste free territory problem."

Twice Speed Of Sound

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Research pilot Scott Crossfield Friday flew the Douglas Skyrocket twice the speed of sound, it was announced today. Crossfield attained a speed of more than 1,320 miles an hour which the national advisory committee for aeronautics said was actually 2.01 times the speed of sound. This is the fastest man has ever flown.

Queen, Duke To Leave On World Tour

LONDON (AP)—The Queen will leave the fogs of Britain Monday night for sunny southern islands and a trip around the world.

The Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh will be away six months on a trip designed to give thousands of her subjects a glimpse of their 27-year-old monarch. It will be the first time a British sovereign has made an around-the-world tour.

Inevitably parts of the trip will take on all the pageantry of Royal occasions. There will be receptions, investitures, loyal addresses, civic welcomes, state banquets. But the Royal couple, who love to travel will also have time for sightseeing.

They leave London Monday night in the stratocruiser Canopus, piloted by Capt. Anthony Loraine. They will fly through the night via Gander, Nfld., to Bermuda, where they are due at 10 a. m. Tuesday. The next day they fly on to Jamaica. There the Queen will open a road cut through swamps to connect Kingston and Montego bay.

At Kingston the Royal couple will board the 15,902-ton passenger liner Gothic, converted for royal use.

After Jamaica comes a 17-day sail via the Panama canal to the Island of Fiji. There the party will receive ancient ceremonies of welcome from the bushy-haired islanders and be presented with whales' teeth, the most prized articles of ceremonial usage.

VISIT QUEEN SALOTE

Their next call will be at the Tonga islands. Here they will be greeted by Queen Salote, the only other reigning queen in the Empire.

From Tonga they will sail to Auckland, northernmost city of New Zealand, where they will spend Christmas. On Christmas Day the Queen will make the sovereign's traditional broadcast.

The couple will spend a month in New Zealand, touring North and South islands by road, rail and air, visiting the dairy and sheep farms, the towns and Maori settlements. The most formal occasion will be Jan. 12, when the Queen drives to a state opening of Parliament.

The Queen and the duke arrive in Australia Feb. 3 to spend two months. They will travel 10,000 miles, mostly by air. Every minute has been planned, in some places even the length of time it will take the Queen to walk down the steps from the plane. Here again the most ceremonial occasion will be the state opening of Parliament Feb. 15.

The duke will spend a day at the Woomera rocket range where atomic experiments are carried out.

The party leaves Australia in the Coral islands of the Cocos in the Indian ocean and 11 days among the tea and rubber plantations of Ceylon. After a six-day sail to the protectorate of Aden, they will fly south on a quick trip to Uganda in Africa. They will take off April 30 to Tobruk in North Africa, site of the heroic stand in the Second World War.

There the Royal Yacht, Britannia, will be waiting for the closing days of the journey through the Mediterranean. The final calls will be at Malta, where the Queen stayed several times when her husband was a serving naval officer, and Gibraltar.

"What's A Million Dollars Between Friends" Football Fever Burns Hole In Wealthy Pocket

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—A school whose chief benefactor apologetically explained that his gifts had amounted to only $25,000,000 — not $210,000,000 — has $2,225,000 more from him for a football victory.

The school is the burgeioning University of Houston and the oil man-philanthropst with football fever is Hugh Roy Cullen.

Cullen, pleased with the school's football win over Baylor last week, announced his latest gift Friday at a campus pep rally for today's game with Texas Tech.

"The great spirit and determination shown by the Cougars last Saturday in defeating Baylor fills me with enthusiasm and prompts me to do something for our great university," Cullen said. Nobody doubted his enthusiasm when he said a few minutes later:

'I have decided to give the university $2,225,000 in oil payments."

Cullen, chairman of the university's board of regents, last June issued a formal statement in which he said he was embarrassed by published reports he had given the university from $130,000,000 to $210,000,000. This was not true, he said, because the gifts amount to only $25,000,000.

Won't Tell Terms Of Request

U.S. Already Given All Information; Gouzenko Risks Life

OTTAWA —(CP)—External Affairs Minister Pearson today told a press conference he and his colleagues will discuss the second United States request for a congressional committee interview with Igor Gouzenko and make a reply early next week.

He declined to disclose the terms of the second request or to indicate whether it contained further information which might change the government's decision in turning down the first request of the committee for an opportunity to talk to the former Russian embassy cipher clerk.

Mr. Pearson stressed that every particle of information the former Communist embassy clerk gave the Canadian authorities when he bared the espionage ring in Canada in 1945 and 1946 was given the United States authorities at the time.

That included all information used by Canada and published in the royal commission report, and other information not concerned with the Canadian prosecutions.

DISCUSSES INTERVIEW

The minister also discussed the report of Friday's interview given by Gouzenko to the Canadian correspondent of the Chicago Tribune.

In that interview Gouzenko was quoted as stating he was not misquoted in the original Tribune story of Oct. 25 which launched the current exchanges between Ottawa and Washington.

In the House of Commons Mr. Pearson and Prime Minister St. Laurent have said that Gouzenko had indicated he had been misquoted about his claims to have additional information useful to the U. S. congressional committee.

Mr. Pearson said that was information obtained directly from Gouzenko through the RCMP which maintains a constant guard over the Russian and his family in an Ontario town where they live under an assumed name.

WHAT GOUZENKO SAID

He said the RCMP interviewed Gouzenko on Oct. 27 and made a report to Justice Minister Garson. From that report Mr. Pearson read four statements:

"1. He stated he had nothing more to offer than had already been reported in the royal commission report on Soviet espionage.

"2. He also stated that he had been grossly misquoted by the Chicago Tribune.

"3. He denies criticizing the handling of the case or the use that was made of the informa-

Royal Pair Dance At Party Till 3 a.m.

LONDON (AP) — The Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh danced until 3 a.m. today in a final fling before their departure Monday night for a trip around the world.

With some 40 close friends, they celebrated their sixth wedding anniversary at a secretly - planned dance in the ballroom of Clarence House, their former home now the residence of Queen Mother Elizabeth and Princess Margaret.

Between dances, the party laughed at cabaret acts by stage stars Noel Coward and Peter Ustinov.

Then the Royal couple went off to Windsor for a last visit with their children.

Charge PoWs Held

PANMUNJOM (AP)— The Allies today accused the Communists of holding back some prisoners-of-war and told the Reds to turn over to Indian custody immediately "all those PoWs you still retain." Maj.-Gen. J. K. Lacey told Communist members of the Military Armistice Commission that three Korean soldiers who sought refuge at an American sentry box Thursday were South Korean war captives who had been forced into the Red army. The Communists asked for a recess to study Lacey's statement.

Heavy Smog Covers New York-Virginia No Fatalities Yet

NEW YORK (AP)—Sunshine trickled down onto the New York area today, trying hard to burn off a five-day curtain of smaze and smog. The smog—fog added to smoke—was a new development in the eastern seaboard's unseasonal warm weather. For four days it was just smaze—smoke and smaze—but Friday night fog crept into the picture. The effect was the same, visibility almost nil in many places and a damp, stifling feeling on respiratory organs.

The weather bureau in New York expected the fog to be gone by noon, but with the smoke and haze still around, the difference would be one of degree.

Busy Idlewild and LaGuardia airports were at a standstill all night and through the morning hours.

ROAD TRAFFIC SNARLED

In Connecticut, road traffic was snarled and more than 20 accidents were reported on one stretch of the Merritt parkway.

Traffic on the northern section of the New Jersey turnpike was slowed to 35 miles an hour.

Health department authorities in the New York metropolitan area and New Jersey were keeping a close watch on death reports to see if th twilight-grey "smaze" would add to fatalities. Hundreds of persons have complained of scratchy throats and irritated eyes and noses, with cronic asthma sufferers being the worst hit.

(Coining of the word "smaze" a variation of the commonly used "smog," was an attempt to identify the smoke-haze blanket.)

Manhattan's famed skyscrapers often appeared blotted out in the gloom.

The unseasonably warm weather, Friday's high was 69.9, has caused this unusual situation: A layer of warm air has formed a celing over colder air at ground level, with the upper air acting as a lid to keep fumes and smoke from dispersing. The weather bureau terms this an "inversion" of the usual process.

POSSIBLE RELIEF

The only relief in sight was a forecast of "some rain beginning tonight or Sunday." A cold wave moving east from Chicago could break up the condition, but that might take several days.

Airliners experienced only minor delays during daylight. However, by midnight Friday night all incoming and outgoing flights at La Guardia and Idlewild airports were cancelled.

Many observers have started comparing the fume and smoke haze with the "great fog" in Britain last year which killed 12,000 persons.

Dr. Morris B. Jacobs, director of the New York City air pollution control laboratory, said that in addition to soot, "the haze includes particles of such things as fly ash, dust, earth, tars, asphalt, grit, loose paint from buildings and windows, rubber rubbed off tires by friction, and anything loose and likely to blow upward."

Brother's Prank Kills Baby 2

TORONTO (CP) — Two-year-old Ronald Wilson died early today in a fire believed started in a cupboard by his brother Bobby, 4 at their suburban Scarboro home.

Mrs. James Wilson, 25, said later: "I spanked Bobby every day this week for playing with matches." She saved her daughter, Linda, 6, and Bobby from the blazing unfinished clapboard bungalow but was unable to reach Ronald.

3 Candidates For CCF Leadership

TORONTO (CP)—Three candidates remained in the running today for the leadership of the Ontario CCF party.

Five persons whose names were placed before a provincial leadership convention withdrew this morning.

The remainng candidates to be voted on by majority ballot by the more than 350 delegates this afternoon are Andrew Brewin, Toronto lawyer, Donald C. MacDonald of Ottawa, national organizer and treasurer of the CCF, and Fred Young of Toronto, political action representative of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL).

The provincial leadership was made vacant by the resignation last Aug. 15 of E. B. Jolliffe, the party's first official leader who resigned to devote his time to his Toronto law practice.

SEVERAL WITHDRAW

Withdrawing from the race were William G. Grummett, party leader in the legislature, and member of Parliament and one-time member of the legislature, Charles H. Millard, national director of the steel union; Eamon Park, political action representative of the steel union; and Toronto alderman William Dennison.

In accepting his nomination Mr. Brewin said in 'this so-called prosperity there is something wrong at the core . . . it is found in politics whcih has bred apathy and decay. ". . . We need the right sort of politics represented by democratic socialism. . . ."

Mr. MacDonald said 'The future of the CCF today rests with the Ontario CCF party."

The position now carries an annual salary of $6,000 and expenses.

Transport Crash Kills 2 Men

MONTREAL (CP) — Two men died early today when a heavily-loaded transport truck crushed two cars which had already been involved in a minor accident on the fog-shrouded highway between St. Martin and St. Dorothee near here.

The accident brought to five the number of fatalities in the Montreal district within the last 24 hours.

Killed in the truck smash were Alice Hanault, 37, and Krisopher Hanson, 45, both of Montreal.

The tractor-trailer, carrying 18 tons, climbed over the top of the death car and smashed into the second in line. Witnesses said another five cars were stalled, brought to a halt by heavy fog and smoke from a nearby ground fire.

Five other persons were taken to hospital with assorted injuries, none believed dangerous.

Gallant Masquerade Ended

Let On He Had A Job For Year, Now Feared Dead

NEW YORK (AP) — Harry Simon's galant masquerade is over, and so, perhaps, is his life.

A suicide note was found Thursday by his wife, Alice, after a year in which he kept up a false front as a successful advertising man—although he had no job.

Simon's wife was reported in a state of shock, as their three-year-old son, Eric, plagued her with the continual demand:

"Where's Daddy? When's my Daddy coming home?"

Police said the 31-year-old Simon was laid off by an advertising firm a year ago. He never let on to his wife.

Each day he left the house at his regular time as though going to work. He was home at his regular time each evening.

Simon brought home his weekly pay—dipping into his $2,900 savings account. He even gave himself a $10 increase on one occasion.

During his hours away from home, he looked for work and picked up an occasional odd job.

Thursday, he phoned his wife and told her to look in the pocket of a jacket at home.

She found a note which revealed the whole story, and ended with Simon's announced decision to kill himself.

Ironically, the job which eluded him so long now is available. Two business men vied to hire him at $100 a week, when they learned the story.

But nobody knows whether the gallant masquerader is still alive.

Gouzenko Anxious Talk In U.S.

Chicago Newspaper Claims Previous Articles Upheld

CHICAGO (CP)—The Chicago Tribune says today in a copyrighted story that Igor Gouzenko, the former Russian embassy clerk who figured in Canada's 1946 spy trials, has reaffirmed his request that the Canadian government let him be questioned by a United States Senate investigating sub-committee.

The dispatch, by Eugene Griffin, the Tribune's Ottawa correspondent, and carried by The Associated Press, quoted Gouzenko as saying: "I cannot see the reason why United States officials could not come here and interview me. . . . I believe I can give advice which, if properly put into effect, would have good chances of bringing the exposure of present Soviet spy rings in the United States in comparatively short time."

The dispatch was datelined from "a Canadian town." Gouzenko has been living in secret under the protection of the Canadian government since he gained asylum after his break with communism and his testimony in the spy cases.

UPHOLDS VERACITY

The Tribune dispatch said Gouzenko "completely upheld" the veracity of stories which Griffin had written earlier after an interview with Gouzenko Oct. 25. External Affairs Minister Pearson had criticized these stories as "misquoting" Gouzenko.

The dispatch was the latest development concerning Canada in the current U. S. controversy about spies in the U. S. government. Only Thursday the state department in Washington sent a second formal note to Ottawa requesting that Gouzenko be made available for questioning by the Senate subcommittee on internal security headed by Senator William E. Jenner (Rep. Ind.)

The first note was turned down by the Canadian government, and it has been indicated in Ottawa that the second will suffer the same fate. The Tribune said the second request will be answered next week.

ILL-ADVISED

Griffin's dispatch quoted Gouzenko as saying in reference to Pearson's criticism of the earlier stories:

"It appears that Mr. Pearson was ill-advised and acted in such haste that he even neglected to read the original interview upon which he based his not correct statement in Parliament."

Knox Drama Group Wins Praise Of Adjudicator

"Five to Five-Thirty," a one-act play by Philip Johnson, was the highlight of the Friday night session of Peterborough's fourth annual drama festival. Professor Arnold Edinborough of Queen's University, who is adjudicating the plays, termed the enactment "very good."

Rita Mitchell, who played Mrs. Boxer in the Knox theatre group entry, directed by Peter McCombe, was "just wonderful." The play was well cast and well directed. Professor Edinborough's criticism of this play was confined to technical points. When an imaginary prop is necessary and is supposed to be on the audience side of the stage, it is the director's responsibility to preestablish the exact position of the object in the minds of all the actors.

ALL GOOD

Although Mrs. Boxer was acclaimed "wonderful," the other actors in the play were "just about as good." Edith played by Dorothy Falconer was "very good in the part." The movement of each character, although somewhat similar, was noted for its contrast. "Mrs. Boxer should have cried a little more....let herself go a little more....but nevertheless a good performance." Mrs. Treetops, played by Susan Summer, had the handicap of entering after "a tremendous buildup," but came through with a "very controlled performance."

Dorothy Grainger as Gertie and Betty Massey-Cooke as Alice "did their parts well....their individual movement was different and added contrast."

The "Two Minute Egg," by John Campbell, and presented by the Peterborough Community theatre, was criticized by the adjudicator more for its writing and plot, than its portrayal. "The theme was vague....too much jammed into one play. It was not sufficiently developed. A good theme, but too much put in."

Prof. Edinborough compared the play to an overpacked pipe—"it didn't quite draw." The costuming was exceptional and the characterization, "what there was of it," was good. If the dialogue was sharpened, a greater character distinction added, and the theme simplified, the play might develop into a good one-act play.

ALL SAINTS'

"The Bathorom Door," by Gertrude Jennings, and presented by the All Saints' drama club is "a winner to begin with." "It is an extended joke," and in this portrayal, "kept itself going for most of the time." The opening was good "with the tawdry set adding to the atmosphere." In the middle the play did lag, however, but with the entrance of Boots, played by Frank Booth, the play was revitalized. His performance was a "magnificent winding up job."

The prima donna, played by Eleanor Carroll, might have been more effective, if "her costume had been more outrageous." "There was not enough abandon," a quality which the adjudicator finds to be generally lacking in all the plays where it is required. The young man, played by Don Ketchibaw, "did not have enough punch." For an actor to portray a witty or comic character, he must "wait for the moment—then flick it in."

The rest of the cast was "adequate."

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG (CP)—Trade was moderately active Friday on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange but prices moved narrowly except in flax, where fair gains were noted.

Exporters made purchases in flax. Trade reports said France had taken 240,000 bushels, and Belgium a smaller amount. Outside buying of barley was attributed to U.S. malting interests. Prices for the top grades of Class 2, IWA and domestic wheat were unchanged.

French Seize Big Rebel Base

By LARRY ALLEN

HANOI, Indo-China (AP)—Thousands of French and Viet Namese paratroopers have jumped deep into mountain territory of the Communist-led Vietminh to grab a major base for new raids on their guerrilla foes.

The French high command announced that its forces, supported by United States-supplied fighter-bombers, seized the big rebel war base of Dien Bien Phu, 180 miles west of Hanoi Friday.

Gen. Rene Cogny, French commander in north Indo-China, said the capture:

1. Provides a centre of the rallying and training of partisan fighters from the pro-French Thai tribes, and for raids by them and the French forces on the Vietminh.

2. Removes a major threat to the Thai tribal capital of Lai Chau, 50 miles to the north. The Vietminh failed to capture Lai Chau in their sweeping offensive last winter which seized large areas of the Thai country.

3. Takes from the rebels a po-

3. Seizes a "highly important" Vietminh base in the centre of a rice-growing area and at the crossroads of supply routes to the northeast and to the south.

Must Be Ready Halt Aggression

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—External Affairs Minister Pearson says Canada must be prepared at all times to join the United States to resist aggression in the Far East or anywhere else.

"Asia is on the march and there is nothing that we can do to stop it," he said in an address to the Canadian Club Friday night.

He said he favors a policy of consultation among allies, aimed at reaching common ground before a crisis develops. Every effort must be made to strengthen the western coalition and each of its members, including Canada, had to be ready to deliberate and sometimes perhaps to yield a little ground.

Mr. Pearson said he changed his week-end plans as a result of a second United States note concerning Igor Gouzenko.

Instead of going to New York to attend the United Nations meeting as he had planned, he returned to Ottawa.

Funeral services for Mrs. Catherine Redmond, RR 8, Peterborough, were held this morning from Our Lady of the Assumption church. The requiem mass was said by the Rev. W. C. McCarney at 10:00 a.m. Father McCarney also said the graveside prayers.

Shaw Selected As Speaker For Farmers

OTTAWA (CP) — Silver-haired Alex M. Shaw, one of Canada's greatest agricultural authorities, has been selected for his 15th term as speaker of the farmer's "Parliament."

The 68-year-old soft-spoken farm expert will preside Monday at the annual federal-provincial agricultural conference.

Mr. Shaw rose from a Woodburn, Ont., farm boy to dean of the faculty of agriculture in the University of Saskatchewan and chairman of the federal agricultural prices-support board.

He will direct debate as provincial agriculture ministers examine policies affecting the lives and production of Canada's rural folk. At his side will be Agriculture Minister Gardiner and an army of economists and statisticians.

NOT WORRIED

There have been suggestions that a storm may brew at the three-day session, but Mr. Shaw doesn't agree. He says:

"The year has been pretty good for Canadian agriculture. I believe 1954 will als be good. There have been problems, to be sure, but they are mostly external problems—something over which we have little control. It will take time, but we will gradually work them out."

Along with his support board duties, Mr. Shaw is chairman of the royal commission investigating agricultural possibilities in Newfoundland.

Starting his agricultural career as an agent for the Great Northern Railway, he later turned to the University of Saskatchewan where he became professor of animal husbandry, superintendent of the university farm and, a quarter-century later, dean of the agriculture faculty.

BECAME COMMISSIONER

In 1935, after four years as dean, he became commissioner of the newly - created Canadian Wheat Board. In that year the Canadian Society of Technical Agriculturalists, now the Agricultural Institute of Canada, made him its president—an honor in recognition of his leadership and distinction in farm work.

Two years later he took over the development of a national marketing program for the federal agriculture department, becoming director of marketing at Ottawa. He became chairman of the prices-support board three years ago.

Want Teeth In Resolution

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The Arab bloc today worked over plans to get more teeth into a proposed Big Three resolution in the United Nations censuring Israel for the recent killing of 53 Jordan border villagers.

Backed by Lebanon and Pakistan in the Security Council, Jordan spokesmen expressed complete dissatisfaction with the Western resolution. They assailed it as too weak, and because it did not demand Israeli compensation for the loss of Arab life and property in the Oct. 14-15 raid on Kibya village.

Leicester's Win Breaks Soccer Deadlock

LONDON (Reuters)—Centre forward Derek Hines today rammed home five goals to lead Leicester to a 9-2 win over Lincoln City and leadership of English League soccer's second division.

The win broke a deadlock for first place with Doncaster Rovers, held to a 2-2 tie at Nottingham Forest today. The Forest, unbeaten at home this season, was two up at half-time, but the visitors fought back to save the single point.

In the first division, first-place West Bromwich Albion and runners-up Wolverhampton Wanderer today drew further ahead of the opposition.

West Bromwich, a goal down in six minutes to Cardiff, rallied to win going away, 6-1. Wolves blanked Charlton Athletic 2-0 to stay a point behind.

SPURS WIN

Third-place Huddersfield lost 1-0 at Tottenham Hotspur. Burnley beat Aston Villa 3-2 at home to creep within a point of Huddersfield.

Third division teams were playing in the first round of the Football Association Cup today. Ipswich, the southern section leader, downed Reading 4-1 at home, while the northern leader, Port Vale, defeated Darlington, 3-1.

Three non-league clubs beat league opponents in the F. A. draw.

Walthamstow Avenue, amateur team which reached the fourth round last year, downed Gillingham 1-0. Great Yarmouth defeated Crystal Palace by the same score, and Nuneaton Borough blanked Watford 3-0.

Queen of the South lost 2-1 to Clyde at home, but still has a three-point lead over Hearts and Dundee in Scottish League division A. Hearts downed Hamilton 5-1 and Dundee beat Stirling 2-1.

Motherwell retained its one-point lead in Scottish division B with a 2-1 win over Third Lanark. Dunfermline stayed in second place with a 3-1 victory over Queens Park.

The negotiating committee representing 5,000 members of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees and other Transport Workers (CCL) met with MTC officials in a night-long session.

NEGOTIATIONS COLLAPSE

The flare-up started when Euchre Corbell union business agent told some 800 transport employees post-arbitration negotiations had broken down.

Union officials urged the men to stay at work, but were shouted down. Attempts to end the meeting failed.

Workers originally demanded a 10-per-cent wage increase and reduction in the work-week from 48-50 hours to 40 hours.

The union later presented 10 new demand to the company, including payment of $150 a year for good conduct, an improved pension plan and increased training pay.

Mrs. H. Campbell

Funeral services for Mrs. Herbert Campbell, formerly Irene Lynch, of Sudbury, were held at Our Lady of Mount Carmel church, Hastings, today.

The funeral was semi-military, as Mrs. Campbell had been a corporal with the CWACs during the Second World War. Father Garvey said the graveside prayers also.

Pallbearers were: Albert Crowley, Jack Lynch, Jack Lamey, James Grady, Wilfred Lynch and Joseph McTaggart. Burial was in Mount Carmel cemetery.

tion, documents etc., which he handed over.

"4. He informed his interviewer that under no circumstances would he proceed to the United States."

MATTER OF SECURITY

Mr. Pearson said his purpose today was to show that, "We acted on the basis of an RCMP report" when the first U. S. request for Gouzenko was rejected.

"In this case we have to go farther in the matter of security than perhaps we would want to." The minister did not elaborate and would not on that point.

The simple fact, Mr. Pearson said, was that it would serve no useful purpose to the United States or any other authority to interview Gouzenko.

HAS RIGHTS

However he was a Canadian citizen with all the rights of a citizen and could talk to whomever he liked and go wherever he desired.

"It would, however, prejudice the special arrangements made for his protection if he came out in the open or went to the United States," Mr. Pearson added. "It is entirely his responsibility what he does."

Mr. Pearson said he hardly thought the Senate committee would take advantage of such a situation to visit Gounzeko without the co-operation of the government whose ward Gouzenko is.

OTTAWA (CP)—A diplomatic request for the name of the "high-placed" Canadian referred to in testimony on the late Harry Dexter White case in Washington last Tuesday, has not been answered, External Affairs Minister Pearson said today.

The "Canadian official" had advised against the appointment of Mr. White to a high position on either the international bank or monetary fund, FBI director J. Edgar Hoover had disclosed.

Mr. Pearson said he had tried to "short-cut" the investigation by having the Canadian ambassador in Washington get the name of this "high-placed" Canadian for him. So far there had been no reply.

"Do you consider that unfriendly?" the minister was asked.

"Oh, no. We may get a reply. We will get the name eventually, somehow," he replied.

A new twist was given the case when speculation in a U.S. newspaper quoted the late Prime Minister Mackenzie King as the "highly-placed" Canadian who questioned White's reliability.

Mr. King's name was brought into the case Friday by Isaac Don Levine in an article written for the Scripps-Howard newspapers. He wrote:

"Was President Truman informed by Canada's Prime Minister Mackenzie King almost six weeks before J. Edgar Hoover's first letter to the White House of the crucial fact that a Soviet spy ring with which Harry Dexter White was identified was operating in the inner councils of the United States government?

"This question may well provide the next sensational development in the White controversy."

The story also said: "It is for Mr. Hoover to disclose whether his Canadian source was Mr. Mackenzie King. All the signs point to that fact. . . ."

OLD COIN UNEARTHED

An 1844 ha'penny was discovered by C. L. Armstrong of 281 Reid St., while digging in his garden. The coin was issued by the Bank of Montreal for the "Province of Canada". On one side is a picture of the bank and on the other, a beaver.

Fruit, Flowers Aplenty At City Market

Grey skies and the threat of rain, didn't entirely dampen sales at the market, today. Prospective customers found a wide display of foodstuffs present despite the lateness of the season. Bunches of mums were still to be seen selling at 25 cents a bunch.

Apples remain the big commodity with at least half of the sands displaying various forms of the fruit for sale. Greening apples were selling at 50 cents a basket, Courtlands, 60 cents, Spy's 70 cents and Talman Sweets, 65 cents a basket. Bushels of apples ranged in price from $3 to 3.75.

Eggs were up in price slightly with grade 'A' large selling at 60 cents, large at 55 cents, and 45 for pullets eggs. Chickens were averaging 50 cents a pound, with one stand selling milk fed capon at 48 cents a pound.

VEGETABLES

Baskets of carrots, parsnips, onions and beets were selling at 40 cents. One stand displayed some giant parsnips selling at 10 cents each. Carrots by the bushel were $1.50, while potatoes were $1.40 a bag.

Heads of cabbage and turnips were selling at 10 cents apiece. Smaller turnips were five cents. Pumpkins, squash and citrons were 20 cents each. Potatoes by the basket were 35 cents.

One stand was displaying horse radish selling in jars of 25, 35 and 50 cents. Spanish onions were 60 cents a bag.

At many of the apple stands, cider was also on display. It was selling in jugs at 55 and 75 cents each.

Mr. Jolliffe, elected leader in 1942, served without remuneration.

NEEDED MORE TIME

Mr. Jolliffe resigned to devote his time to his Toronto law practice. As the first official Ontario leader he guided the party through four provincial elections. His most successful was his first—in 1943—when the CCF captured 34 seats in the 90-member House and received 32 per cent of the vote. In 1945 the party won only eight seats on 22 per cent of the vote, in 1948 21 seats on 27 per cent of the vote.

The delegates gave their loudest Applause to Miss Macphail. The CCF national leader, M. J. Coldwell, said she "deserved much better of the Canadian people than she got."

In the major address of the convention, which ends tonight, Mr. Coldwell said the report that a highly-placed source in the Canadian government sent the United States information in connection with the Harry Dexter White case was "an interesting phenomenon."

"TERRIBLE THING"

He termed it "a very interesting and terrible thing" when U.S. politicians betray confidences of another country.

On domestic issues, Mr. Coldwell called for two-per-cent interest rates on housing loans, 10-per-cent down payments and 31-year amortization periods.

"We need a low-rental — and that means subsidized — housing plan on a wide scale," he said.

Today, the delegates are to consider resolutions submitted by the provincial council and calling for continued rental controls in the province, a publicly-owned Canadian gas pipeline, and a solution to the strike of northern Ontario and Quebec miners.

Artificial Ice Installed In Dr. Crawford Arena

MARMORA (ENS) — Close to 2,200 people filled the Dr. Hamilton Crawford arena Friday night to take part in the official ceremonies marking the installation of an artificial ice plant.

There was an elaborate program, including music by the R CAF Central Training Command band under F/O C. O. Hunt, who were welcomed by W . A. Shannon.

Reeve Ritchie Wells welcomed those present and George S. White, MP, brought greetings. Warden Jack Kincaid of Hastings county tendered congratulations and Alex Fraser, treasurer of the artificial ice fund gave a financial report.

ALL PAID FOR

The receipts to date were $27,995.28. Disbursements had been on a pay-as-you-go basis. Everything installed had been paid for, he declared, amid cheers. The two big items were $20,452 for the ice plant and $2,136.46 for lumber.

With total disbursements of $27,003.10, the amount of $992.18 is left on hand. This will go towards the hard surface next spring which will cost between $3,500 and 4,000, he said.

Mr. Shannon, who was chairman for the evening, read messages from well-wishers who were unable to be present. Mr. Shannon also tendered thanks to all contributing to the success of the undertaking.

The official opening ribbon was cut by Albert Maynes, energetic member of the artificial ice committee. Assisting were Judy Fraser and Donna Osborne who wore matching costumes and skates.

Mr. Shannon then introduced the skating trio from Toronto.

First to appear was Barbara Jean Jacques of the Toronto Skating Club, who is entered in the Canadian championship meet to be held in Calgary. She first gave her competitive routine.

Next came Norris Bowden and Frances Dafoe, who finished second in the world championship at Davos, Switzerland, in the 1953 Olympic games. Their first apeparance was described as a dance exhibition.

Miss Jacques re-appeared in her own interpretive dancing number to the tune of "Because" and the dancing duo, returned in "Swedish Rhapsody," introduced by them last summer.

Jack Dickens of Belleville went through the antics of a clown.

The lady skaters were presented with two bouquets of chrysanthemums by Judy Fraser and Donna Osborne. With Norris Bowden they also received a travelling clock from the committee.

An exhibition hockey game was played between augmented teams from Campbellford and Marmora. The Marmora team won an exciting game 3-0. Three 15-minute periods were played. Young replaced Killian in the Marmora nets in the third.

S. African Sets New Record

LONDON (Reuters) — A 45-year-old South African has cracked every known record for long-distance endurance running by covering more than 159 miles in 24 gruelling hours.

After circling the Motspur park cinder track without rest from beginning to end of his long ordeal, Wally Hayward, a Johannesburg building inspector, collapsed in exhaustion this morning.

His steady running throughout the night and previous day gave him an unofficial world record of 159 miles, 562 yards—more than seven miles better than the previous 24-hour mark set by Canadian Arthur Newton in Hamilton, Ont., in 1931.

Hayward's only comment was: "Never again, it was awful."

Newton, the previous record-holder who now is 70, was one of Hayward's attendants.

1,300 Children Keep Fair Officials Busy

TORONTO (CP) — Officials of the Royal Winter Fair won't soon forget Friday, seventh day of the eight-day show which winds up tonight.

Some 1,300 school children from Listowel in the Stratford district descended on the fair by special train. Armed with notebooks, they covered virtually every inch of the fair and plied officials with questions aimed at gathering information for an essay contest which carries a $3 prize for the winner.

The youngsters had their innings during the day. At night, Canada's international jumping team came to the fore by carrying off first and second places in the individual jumping stakes.

BREAKS TIE

Lt.-Col. Charles Baker guided his dapple grey gelding, Starclift, over the 11-jump course cleanly to break a five-way tie for first place. Miss Shirley Thomas placed second when her Revlon's White Sable ticked one jump for four faults in the tie jump-off.

Ron Mutch of the United States, riding Matador, also counted four faults on the five-way jump-off, but Miss Thomas' 45-second time was 1.6 seconds faster than the American's.

Silent Saint, owned by D. R. Motch of Greenwich, Conn., won the $1,500 McKee Stake for working hunters. The $1,500 Phillips saddle pony stakes was won by Ebony Tide from the Whitney Stables of Muncie, Ind.

Raid Red Offices

TOKYO (AP) — Police today raided 20 homes and offices throughout Japan and seized letters and documents they said were written by Communists. They found none.

He was ordered to rest for 48 hours. His doctor said he was suffering from intense overwork.

His colleagues assured reporters that Bidault would be back in the assembly Tuesday when the crucial debate on the European Defence Community resumes. The debate was adjourned until Tuesday after Bidault fell ill.

Mr. Marsden referred to the approval of the Dale to Baltimore development road and said the department was calling for tenders for crushing and stockpiling 12,000 tons of gravel, to pave the road.

Reeve Charles Burrison thanked Mr. Marsden and council agreed to supply gravel from the township pit.

Judge Considers Evidence Abduction Case

By 4 p.m. Friday all the evidence had been heard in the trial at the general sessions of the peace of Fred Blaby, 23, of 554 Romaine St.

Blaby is charged with indecent assault and the abduction of a 10-year-old Peterborough girl last June 13. He pleaded "not guilty" to both charges. Judge John de N. Kennedy heard the arguments of Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw, QC, and Defence Counsel W. J. Arthur Fair, QC, and reserved judgment till 10.30 a.m., Nov. 27.

It is alleged Blaby picked the girl up when she was returning from a music lesson about 7 p.m. on June 13, 1953. After asking the direction of a couple of streets he is said to have asked her to get into the car and show him where Park St. was.

Then he drove out past the old city dump in North Monaghan township to a deserted concession road, four miles southwest of the city, and his car got stuck in the mud there when he tried to turn around. Crown Attorney Bradshaw, QC, said that Blaby abducted the girl (she testified that she repeatedly asked to be taken home) and then he indecently assaulted her.

The girl said that the accused man touched her on the thigh and she insisted under cross-examination that "he did do something dirty."

NIGHT IN CAR

They spent the night in the car and next morning walked the four miles back to the city along the CNR railway tracks—Blaby carrying a large bagful of bottled beer.

Sergeant of Detectives John Stevenson, along with Detective Douglas Farthing and the girl's father, were directed shortly after the girl arrived home Sunday morning to where the car was still hopelessly mired in a fence gap, a couple of yards off the concession road. On the floor of the car they found a page from a piano exercise book, identified as belonging to the girl.

She gave this account of Blaby leaving her after she arrived back in the city, still a couple of blocks from her home: "He said he'd leave me there so if the police caught him they wouldn't catch me with him. I sat down and waited a couple of minutes . . . I saw him going down Romaine St."

Neither the father nor the mother when they gave evidence said that when they first questioned her, the girl reported being indecently assaulted. No medical evidence was brought forward by the crown.

W. J. Arthur Fair, QC, defence counsel, said that the whole incident was undoubtedly regrettable but there was no corroboration of the 10-year-old girl's story that she had been assaulted. He also said that the abduction charge didn't apply because Blaby had no intention of depriving the parents of their child; in a drunken mood he took the girl for a car ride; he became stuck in the mud and was unable to get her home that night.

Mr. Fair asked for a dismissal of the two charges because of lack of evidence. When Judge Kennedy refused to do so Mr. Fair said that the defence would call no witnesses.

Youth Group Banned

GRAZ, Austria (AP) — Police Friday night banned a right-wing youth group on the ground that it had Nazi leanings. The action followed the recent arrest of nine members of the Bund Heimattreuer Jugend-federation of patriotic youth. Police believe the nine belonged to an illegal underground group which has been flooding Vienna with pro-Nazi literature.

MRS. GUY FERRILL, of Campbellford, who recently spent six months visiting her home in Holland, kneels beside the grave of Pte. C. D. Bertrand, of Campbellford, who was killed in action in Germany in March, 1945.

Canadian Soldiers' Graves Adopted By Dutch Families

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS) — Families of Canadian servicemen who died in Europe during World War II are finding some solace in the fact that the graves of their kin are being perpetually looked after, not only by the War Graves Commission, but also through voluntary services of Dutch citizens, many of whom have "adopted" the grave of a Canadian serviceman.

2,325 GRAVES IN CEMETERY

There are three military cemeteries in Holland, but the largest, containing some 2,325 graves, is located just outside the city of Nijmegan. The people of this city in particular learned to know and respect Canadians during the war and following. Many of them have selected a grave with the intention of looking after it.

One of these volunteers was Tiny Wants, 21, who selected as her charge the grave of Charles Douglas Bertrand, son of Mrs. E. Abernethy, of Campbellford. Bertrand died during the battle of the Holtzwold Forrest on March 9, 1945. He was first buried at Zaxter, Germany, but later, in the fall of 1945, his body was removed from the temporary cemetery at Zaxter, and taken to its final resting place in the Nijmegan cemetery. Bertrand was with the Algonquin Regiment.

ADOPTED GRAVE

A few years ago, the War Graves Commission notified Mrs. Abernethy that Tiny Wants had selected the grave of her son as the one she was undertaking to look after. Mrs. Abernethy immediately got in touch with the girl, and the two correspond regularly.

The graves of the Canadians are decorated during a Memorial Day service each year, held by the Dutch on the anniversary of the day Holland was liberated from the Germans.

Mrs. Guy Ferrill, who was a Dutch war bride, and lives now in Campbellford, returned to her homeland recently and visited the cemetery at Nijmegan, in order that she might give a first hand report to the families of a few of the boys of this district who are buried there. She returned recently after a visit of about six months, during which time she took a number of photographs of the cemetery at Nijmegan.

Complain Terrible Smells Ruin House Paint Jobs

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Mystery cloaks Kensall Park. Who — or what—besmirched the paint on a group of houses surrounding Springbank drive?

Residents in the area complained Thursday night about "terrible smells" penetrating their homes and Friday morning, home owners found their paint jobs ruined.

White houses are spotted with yellow and grey patches from ground level to the roof; dark houses are spotted with brown patches. Some houses are not affected.

All residents know is that Thursday night a grey pall hung low over their homes. It looked like fog, and smelled like lots of things.

Suggestions range from a chemical fog to a cloud of cosmic dust ejected from a flying saucer's exhaust.

Some of the stains wash off—some of them refuse to budge.

Psychiatrists Can't Agree About Accused

QUEBEC (CP) — A controversy between two psychiatrists as to the mental status of accused ax-slayer Georges Hebert was expected to continue at today's session of the 46-year-old laborer's trial for the murder of his son, Rene, 9.

Dr. Charles Martin of St. Michel-Archange mental hospital here was to be cross-examined by defence council Gerard Levesque amid indications a verdict may be reached today.

Dr. Martin testified Friday night he could find "nothing abnormal" in Hebert's condition. His testimony was in sharp contrast to that of defence witness Dr. Roger Moffatt who said the accused "should be treated in a hospital by virtue of the idea of suitide which rules him."

When Dr. Martin has concluded his testimony, the Crown was believed ready to call on another witness for medical testimony. The summations were expected to follow.

It was considered likely the jury would be some time in considering the many aspects of the case.

Making Adultery A Crime

The news reports of the discussion of reform institutions for women in the Legislature committee make interesting reading, and we are somewhat startled by the tone which some of the MPPs took. The suggestion that a woman who has had two illegitimate children should be sterilized is, we think, inhumane and cynical; it suggests that the woman is beyond reclamation, which is a sweeping assumption to make about anybody. It is also a law which will apply to the poor and not to the rich, and such laws are always evil in effect. The State could only sterilize those women whom it could catch, and it could only catch those who needed public assistance and thus were forced to make their condition known. A woman of private means could have a dozen illegitimate children without the slightest risk. Laws which work in that way are undesirable.

* * *

The legislators who spoke on this subject did not seem to be clear as to the meaning of the word 'adultery' which they appeared to use to describe any sort of sexual congress out of wedlock. Adultery means sexual congress by a married person with someone other than the married partner. We think that the CCF house leader, Mr. Grummett, should get this straight in his head before advocating that adultery be made a crime in Ontario.

* * *

It is impossible to make adultery a crime in itself. It is an offence against morality, as we conceive of morality, but unless somebody complains of it, and shows that they have suffered injury from it, the law is powerless to interfere, at present. Does Mr. Grummett suggest that snoopers be appointed, to act like game wardens, and spy on the conduct of married people? Such state action would be infinitely more vile and disruptive to the public peace than the ordinary amount of adultery.

* * *

We feel that the committee showed a lack of charity in its discussion of illegitimacy and adultery, and we suggest that if the matter is discussed again somebody should read from the Gospel of St. John the story of Christ and the woman taken in adultery. Admitting that a provincial committee cannot act in precisely Christ's way in dealing with these matters, we think that Christ's example should guide them more than, seemingly, it does. People cannot be legislated into good conduct and married fidelity; these things come from sources which law cannot create and punishment cannot touch. We are shocked by the Legislature's discussion, which seems to us to exhibit a curious mixture of lack of charity and lack of worldly wisdom. For, contrary to some belief, charity and worldly wisdom are often found together.

Sudbury, Limited

Our desultory Saturday review of various economic areas of Ontario during the last year now brings us to Sudbury. Since this is not the kindliest time of year to be thinking about Sudbury, nickel mining and other cold enterprises of that region, we shall dally little longer than the train does on its way back from the West to our own more salubrious part of southern Ontario.

Mention of the railway is apposite; except for isolated outposts like the one operated by the Hudson's Bay Company at Whitefish, that area of northern Ontario was almost unknown before the C.P.R. was built. Sudbury itself was started as a railway construction camp early in 1883. The city still has something of the nature of a camp, but now of a mining camp. Back in the eighties the rock formations interested several of the railway engineers but there was too much worthless metal—nickel—to make the Sudbury area an attractive prospect. The copper known to be there was also of little value then, because there was no technique for separating it from the nickel.

Opinions of what is valuable change, and techniques are discovered. When the C.P.R. was being built, tests indicated that nickel-steel armour plate was much tougher than ordinary steel. By 1889, 830,000 pounds of nickel were produced in the Sudbury region; in 1914, 45½ million pounds—nearly all for armaments. Production of nickel rose to 92½ million pounds in 1918.

Then came the slump—Sudbury has been subject to them ever since the first railway boom. There was little civilian use for nickel. International Nickel closed its mine for twelve months during 1921-22. Then civilian industry learned how to use the metal, especially in cars and heavy machinery. By 1934, in the very heart of the Depression, production reached a new peak of 128,500,000 pounds. The last war increased the demand, because now nickel is valued by peacetime as well as wartime industry. As everybody knows, Canada supplies the world with most of its nickel, and that nickel comes from the Sudbury region.

The Ontario Bureau of Statistics tells us that:

The great bulk of the production is contributed by the International Nickel Company which has several mines in the Sudbury area (there is no mining within the city limits). These are the well-known Creighton, Frood-Stobie, Garson, Levack, Murray and Crean Hill mines. The Frood-Stobie began as an open-pit operation but is now largely underground. This group of mines with more than 6,000 employees is believed to be the world's largest underground operation. In addition, more than 8,000 work in the smelters, refinery and concentrator at Copper Cliff and Coniston, the offices, and the Company's standard gauge electric railway (which has 67 miles of track). There is also a large nickel refinery at Port Colborne on Lake Erie. The Company has large works abroad where most of the demand for nickel lies. The United States which uses about two-thirds of the world's nickel (excluding the U.S.S.R.) has a rolling mill at Huntingdon, West Virginia, and a foundry at Bayonne, New Jersey. There are refineries at Acton, England (near London), Clydach, Wales, and rolling mills at Birmingham and Glasgow.

Approximately 90% of the Region's nickel (275,756,308 pounds worth $151,189,982 in 1951) and copper (257,279,486 pounds worth $70,768,351) were produced by the International Company. Most of the remainder was mined by Falconbridge Nickel Mines Limited, which began operations in 1928. This firm has about 2,400 employees in the Sudbury area (mines, concentrator and smelter) and a large refinery at Kristiansand, Norway.

Now it is nearly time for our train to go. Before we whistle off home by way of Toronto, we should mention that even from the train window one can see that Sudbury has smoke stacks that do not belong to mines or locomotives, and quite a few people. In 1901 the place had a population of only 2,027; the last (1951) census, showed it to be 42,410. Despite labour troubles and unemployment in the mines of the north, many Sudbury people continue to like the place and seem determined to stick to it. But as your train runs through the country, you can guess that they will never make a living off the land.

In the eleven and a half million acres in the Sudbury District only 2.5 per cent. is farm area—and that is chiefly in the boat-shaped Sudbury Basin, running down to Georgian Bay. However, the district has trees. The fine red and white pine stands have gone. The scrub you see from the train contains both hardwood and softwood—the conifers are used for pulp. We hear rumours that the jack pine is being over-cut by about twenty per cent. This does not argue well for a permanent livelihood for Sudburians engaged in forestry.

We need not mention the climate. You can see it from your train window.

The Parliamentary Indignation Of Mr. White

Our readers will have read of the outburst in Parliament of Mr. George Stanley White, Member of Parliament for Hastings-Frontenac, this week. Mr. White, speaking with the freedom which is permitted to MPs, sought to bring the Chrysler Corporation into disrepute; it had, he said, sold a 'lemon' of a car to a client of his, and had refused to honour its guarantee. The Chrysler people have given Mr. White the lie. They say that the car of which he complained was his own, that it was guaranteed for ninety days or 4,000 miles, and that they offered to make adjustments or repairs, locally, as needed, or to take the car into their plant for investigation. But Mr. White would have none of it. He wanted a new car. The company would not give him a new car and so he sought to asperse the company's reputation in the Commons. Canadians in general will approve the censure of a fellow MP who said that he abhorred 'the use of this forum to try to get a new car . . . It is a form of legal blackmail'.

When a Member of Parliament uses the House of Commons to air a purely personal grievance, and abuses the immunity of Parliament to make peevish charges against a firm of manufacturers, we strongly question his fitness to sit in Parliament. We also wonder if his constituents consider this conduct to be representative of themselves?

NOTES AND COMMENT

There are, we learn, more than 100 different kinds of nails, all of which may bend in the middle, if hit sharply on the head by the wrong man.

The Mona Lisa is now supposed to be quite another woman who smiled that way in order to conceal her bad teeth. None of this information detracts one jot of beauty from one of the world's great pictures.

Russia's reaction to Churchill's announced intention to visit the Kremlin was highly unfavourable. Indications are that if he does so, instead of rolling out the red carpet for him, the Kremlin may jerk the rug out from under him.

McCarthyism: Its U.S. Meaning

By DOUGLAS HYDE

(Douglas Hyde was for twenty years a member of the British Communist Party, and was for five years news editor of the "Daily Worker," the C.P. daily newspaper published in London. He resigned in 1948. He is the author of the autobiographical "I Believed," which has sold more than four hundred thousand copies in Britain and has been translated into many languages.)

I HAVE JUST returned to Britain from a month's tour of the United States, where I worked on a schedule which included some forty lectures in almost as many places. I answered on an average something over twenty questions at the end of each lecture, making a total of nearly one thousand in all. After each public session I normally answered as many again in the course of private discussion.

* * *

THAT MAY NOT be the best way of seeing the sights. But it proved in practice to be an excellent way of discovering what is on the minds of a large number of Americans. For gradually the questions came to take on some sort of a pattern; and the most striking thing was that there was at least one question which never failed to appear.

"What do you think of Senator McCarthy?" "What do you think of McCarthy?" "What do you think of Senator Joe?"—the question come with a monotony, and an inevitability, which built up into the most revealing feature of my trip. I am certain that no American coming to Britain would be asked so many questions about Aneurin Bevan, one of our own much-discussed politicians. McCarthy, it seems, is very much on the mind of the United States.

* * *

I WAS ASKED the question in New York Washington, Chicago, Toledo, Philadelphia, and other great cities. It came just as inevitably in the multiracial mining areas like Mount Carmel and Uniontown in Pennsylvania. I heard it in small towns in the Mid-West corn belt like Cedar Falls, Iowa. It was asked in universities, girls' colleges, seminaries—it was even asked by nuns in convents.

And in the course of discussion which often lasted for hours, I heard for the first time at first-hand the case of McCarthyism, and learned too that it is one which can be argued by restrained and intelligent people.

* * *

THE fact that this surprised me is probably as revealing to Americans as were the Americans' question to me. It serves to emphasise the width of the gulf which at this moment separates the thoughts of the two nations, Britain and the United States, on whose unity of purpose so much depends.

To understand how intelligent and Christian men can defend McCarthyism—which is quite inexplicable to many Europeans—one must first grasp the entirely different background to most current political thought in America. Perhaps it can best be put like this: we live, and have lived since the end of the Second World War, in a situation which is neither peace nor war. To most Europeans it approximates more closely to peace than war. But to many Americans—probably to the Government, and certainly to the supporters of McCarthyism—it seems more like war than peace. And the enemy is, quite unambiguously, Russia, Communist China, and, therefore, world Communism generally.

* * *

IN THOSE CIRCUMSTANCES, Senator McCarthy's aim of rooting out the Communists from public life, and in particular from positions where they are "security risks," seems reasonable enough. It is certainly one which is widely accepted as being necessary.

Once you accept the premise that world Communism is virtually at war with the West, that aim is seen in a different light; for at such times civil liberties tend to take second place to security. "Isn't it true," I was asked on one occasion, "that the British Government suppressed the "Daily Worker" and drove the Communist Party almost underground when it thought the threat a sufficiently serious one?" The answer was 'Yes' and the implication clear.

* * *

THE NEED to root out the Communist is seen too, against the background of the case of Alger Hiss, the Communist who reached a position where he could help to shape international policies which played into the hands of Russia. Europeans generally, I would say, fail to realise just how deeply a large section of the American public has been shocked and influenced by that discovery. Indeed, that shock, and the fear which springs from it, underlies a great many of the things which are criticised by people on this side of the Atlantic. For if Hiss was a Communist, who may not be?

* * *

THE SENATOR'S methods are excused in the words of one university professor to whom I talked: "He is just a two-fisted Irish fighter from the Middle-West, and doesn't pretend to be anything more." To which someone else added a reminder that in Britain we do not dismiss such trades union leaders as Arthur Deakin (general secretary of the Transport and General Workers' Union) and Sir William Lawther (president of the National Union of Mineworkers) as hoodlums just because their words and methods against the Communists are rough. We understand them as the products of their environment—and approve their aims.

* * *

I HAVE REPORTED the McCarthyite case, as put to me, at some length because it is so rarely heard outside North America, and because, as we revealed by many of the questions, there are thinking people in the United States who believe that distortion of American news and views is one of the main causes of present misunderstandings. And this, they argue, in turn aids Russia in one of its main aims, which is "to drive wedges between the British and American imperialists."

* * *

THERE IS, of course, a strong section of the American public which is opposed to McCarthyism. I do not recall a single group discussion where this position was not championed by someone. The general view was that the number of people with anti-McCarthy views is growing. The basis of their opposition followed the lines most familiar to Europeans: McCarthy's methods undermine people's faith in democracy; you cannot defeat Communism by using its own methods, by making martyrs of the Communists you help their cause in Europe and elsewhere.

The middle course was expressed to me by Whittaker Chambers, who as the man responsible for forcing the Hiss case into the courts is probably more responsible than any other single person for the American public's present mood.

"What have you been telling people in your lectures", he asked me when I visited him on his farm in Maryland. I said I had been stressing that while it is the duty of the State to protect itself against those who seek to destroy it from within, it is necessary also to remember that Communism is much more than just a security problem and that it has still to be tackled at its spiritual roots.

Chambers has been a sick man for some time (because of this he has had to part with his herd of cattle and much of his farmland). His clothes hung on him and he looked tired and worn. But his eyes lit up. "Of course I agree," he said. "That is what I am trying to tell them, too."

An American Opinion: G-G-GHOST STORY

No Postage On This Letter

(CALGARY HERALD)

MEMBERS of Parliament, and honourable Senators, are entitled to send their mail out from Ottawa unstamped. We do not object to this; although some members may use the franking privilege for questionable purposes, we thing it may be assumed that the bulk of letters they send out are concerned, in one way or another, with Her Majesty's business.

On the other hand, it is of course important that abuse of the privilege should be kept to a minimum.

On November 10 there arrived at this office a brown envelope addressed to "The Editor, Personal". The envelope bore the House of Commons frank and was postmarked November 5. The flap was imprinted with the words "House of Commons, Canada", and with the armorial bearing of this Dominion.

Inside the envelope were the following: a pamphlet advertising a book published in Texas, the main object of which appears to be to show that both Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Truman were subject to Communist influence in their policies; two other pamphlets advertising another book, also American, purporting to demonstrate that Communists have controlled American policy in Asia for years, this book apparently being distributed in Canada by the proprietors of the most virulent anti-Semitic publication in this country; and a copy of an American pocket magazine which lavishes unqualified praise on Senator Joseph McCarthy.

These pieces of literature were accompanied by a note from a Miss Doris A. Moore, who gives her address as Woodroffe Post Office, Ottawa.

Now Miss Moore does not appear to be a member of the House of Commons or of the Senate. The regulations governing the franking privilege restrict it to members of the two Houses and to certain other specified persons. The question therefore arises, how has Miss Moore contrived to have material sent out under a House of Commons frank, especially when the material in question is not immediately identifiable as being concerned with the proceedings of the Parliament of Canada?

It must be remembered that the franking privilege costs the Canadian Post Office a great deal of money—taxpayers' money—each year; the sum runs into the hundreds of thousands of dollars. We can see no reason why any part of that money should be used for the purpose of enabling persons, who on the face of it have no right to the franking privilege, to disseminate propaganda defaming former presidents of a friendly nation and alleging that one of the two major parties in that nation has been activated by treasonable motives.

We suggest that this is something which might properly be subjected to a thorough investigation by the postal authorities.

From Quick Brown Fox To Six Gunboats

(OTTAWA JOURNAL)

IT USED to be that the student-typist was invited to acquire facility with the keyboard by constant practice of that sterling sentiment. Now is the time for all good men to come to aid of their party. That was alright as far as it went, but this commendable political sentiment failed to use all the letters available and the student proceeded by degrees to the short story of animal life having to do with the quick brown fox jumped over the lazy dog.

Between the party that needed aid and the lazy dog of unspecified species and pedigree which let itself be jumped over by a fox presumably engaged in its morning constitutional the young typist acquired, in theory at least, such remarkable speed with the machine as to win medals and championships.

But now, and we have it on the authority of one of those winners of speed records, the old sentiments are being abandoned. The good men and the athletic fox are too tame for this generation, too deeply rooted in a day that is gone. This is a more rugged age, a time of wars and rumors of wars, and so it is that some ingenious person has devised another and more ringing sentence for practice and including all the letters of the alphabet A quick movement of the enemy would jeopardize six gunboats."

It is a sign of the times. The student typist has been yanked out of his (or more often her) placid routine of good men and brown foxes and tossed into the school of naval manoeuvres. Thus progress marches on.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

But God commendeth his love toward us, in that, while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us. Much more then, being now justified by his blood, we shall be saved from wrath through him. For if, when we were enemies, we were reconciled to God by the death of his Son, much more, being reconciled, we shall be saved by his life. And not only so, but we also joy in God through our Lord Jesus Christ, by whom we have now received the atonement. (Rom. 5: 8-11.)

And God blessed the seventh day, and sanctified it: because that in it he had rested from all his work which God created and made . . . But there went up a mist from the earth, and watered the whole face of the ground. And the Lord God formed man of the dust of the ground, and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life; and man became a living soul. (Gen. 2:3,6,7.)

And Jesus went about all the cities and villages, teaching in their synagogues, and preaching the gospel of the kingdom, and healing every sickness and every disease among the people. (Matt. 9:35.)

The Lord knoweth the days of the upright: and their inheritance shall be for ever. (Ps. 37:18.)

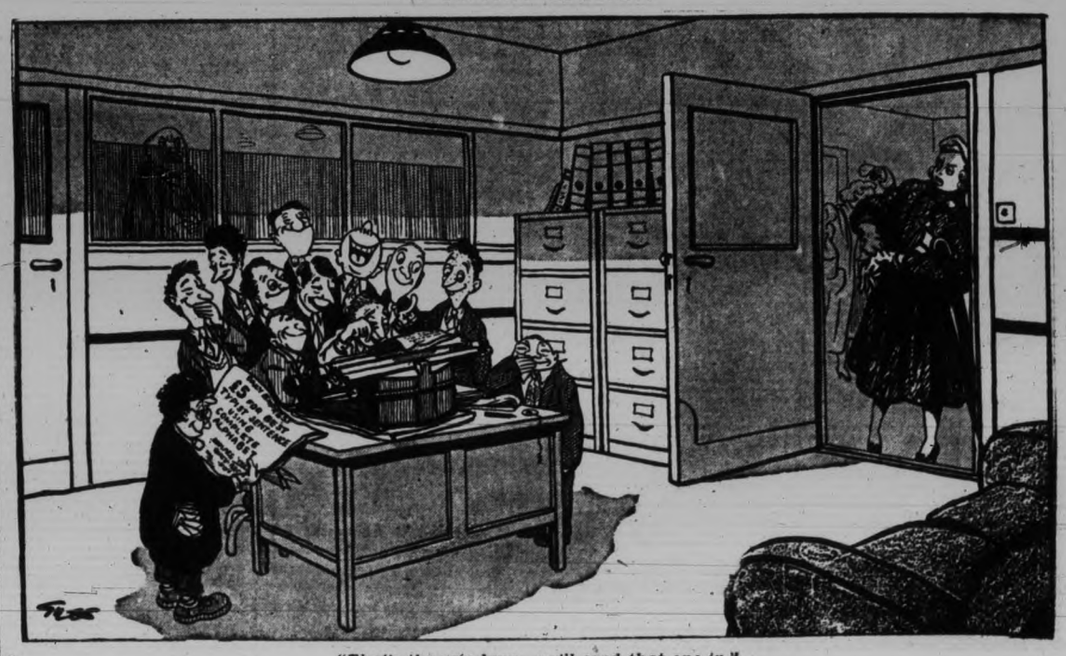
Letter To The Editor

LIFE IN NEWFOUNDLAND

SIR: The picture article in the Weekend about Newfoundland's out ports is well and timely written, but it is unfortunate that the writer was not given a bit more space to tell the other things that those people lack.

It said they lacked roads, hospitals and schools but failed to say that they were not familiar with traffic accidents, high taxes, power shortage and all the other headaches that are part of our way of living. With no schools the children must learn at home the things we consider the teacher's responsibility. The development of Newfoundland is something we all should be interested in. But it is wise to make haste slowly ere we destroy more than we create.

Yours sincerely,
LUCILLE ALLEN.



No Longer the "Forsaken North"

(Kingston Whig-Standard)

For many years past, Canadians have become accustomed to hearing about the "forgotten northland" or the "forsaken north." The descriptive phrases now seem to be on the way out. This area of about a million and a quarter square miles is receiving increasing world interest. This is due chiefly to two reasons—military and economic. North is becoming increasingly important as the range of bombing planes increases, and the shortest aerial route from Europe and Asia to North America thus comes across the North Polar regions.

Economically, the answer is mining. A decade ago, fur was the prime product of the Far North. More recently, gold and silver to the value of $8,000,000 yearly has been mined in the Northwest Territories. But now uranium ore is mined in the area, although no figures are available on the output of the government-owned properties at Port Radium, on Great Bear Lake. Also, other uranium discoveries have been made in the Far North, though mines there are not yet in production. And, in addition, strategic materials such as lead, zinc, oil and natural gas are being produced in areas along the Mackenzie River and in the Great Slave Lake area in Canada's Western Arctic.

A BRITISH OPINION

"That's the one, boys—we'll send that one in."

Peterborough's Four Motels In The Latest Fashion To Suit This Motoring Age

Of Ontario's 411 motels that have mushroomed along provincial highways and byways within the last two years four of them are in, or near, Peterborough. Some of them are almost three years old and all enjoy good patronage.

Are they hurting the existing hotel business in the city? No, operators say. There is a very amicable arrangement between the two types of establishment. In talking to owners it was learned that there are probably more one-night travellers frequenting Peterborough motels that citizens realize. Definite figures of actual numbers who stay at motels are not available but if all the present 65 units in the district were three-quarters filled throughout the year their number would be considerable.

Why do people stay at motels (a word invented from "motor hotel")?

CONVENIENT

Motorists can drive their cars to the doors of their rooms. There is no stair-climbing. Rooms, no more than three years old, are modern and comfortable, fire and soundproof. There is no tipping and no car-parking problem.

Travellers in all walks of life appreciate these inducements from senators to cabinet ministers, brigadier generals and diplomats. And, of course, the seasoned travelling salesmen appreciate their advantages more than any other type; all this can be determined from a look at guest registers. They show also that guests in most of the district motels come from 48 States and ten provinces with a sprinkling from overseas and South America.

Motels are not fly-by-night establishments. In the first place it costs from $3,000 to $7,500 a room-unit to build which includes the cost of land, taxes, and the apartment for owners.

Most modest motels have at least 12 units which run the building figures from $60,000 to $100,000. They have to meet the requirements of municipal and departmental laws and those of the Ontario Tourist Courts Association and the American Automobile Association.

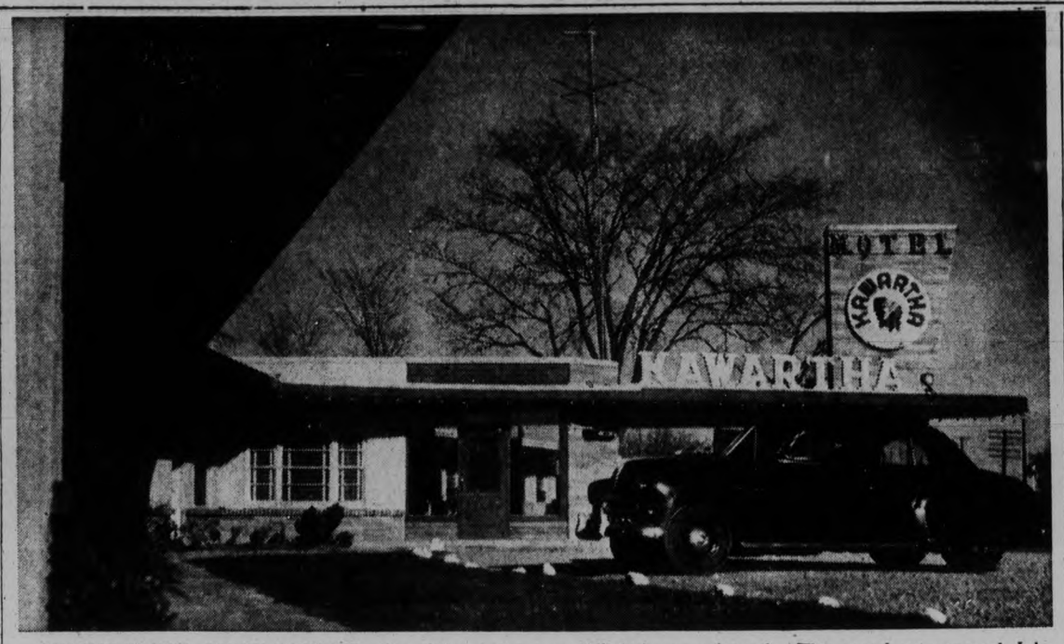
Owners do not pretend to be in the "hotel" business in that they do not want to run resturants in connection with their motels. One, the Rockhaven on Watertrough hill, Highway 28, south, has a small coffee shop; owners find that travellers like to eat breakfast before starting away in the mornings. The others in the district, Northcourt on the Lindsay Highway, Kawartha Motels Limited and Winona Camp Motel, Lakefield Highway, direct guests to various city restraunts.

Individuals rooms in local roadside hostelries are neat, modern and clean. They consist of rooms with single beds, twin beds and double beds and a bathroom and shower. Some places have interroom phones to switchboards in the main office.

LOW MAINTENANCE

Maintenance help is at a minimum; cleaning women work parttime each day. Some places send all their laundry to be cleaned in city plants, others have laundry rooms.

Before local owners built their motels they took long trips through the United States to study various types and determine what their needs would be in the Kawartha district. The four now established here are comparable to motels anywhere, according to a study of various trade magazines devoted to this new business.



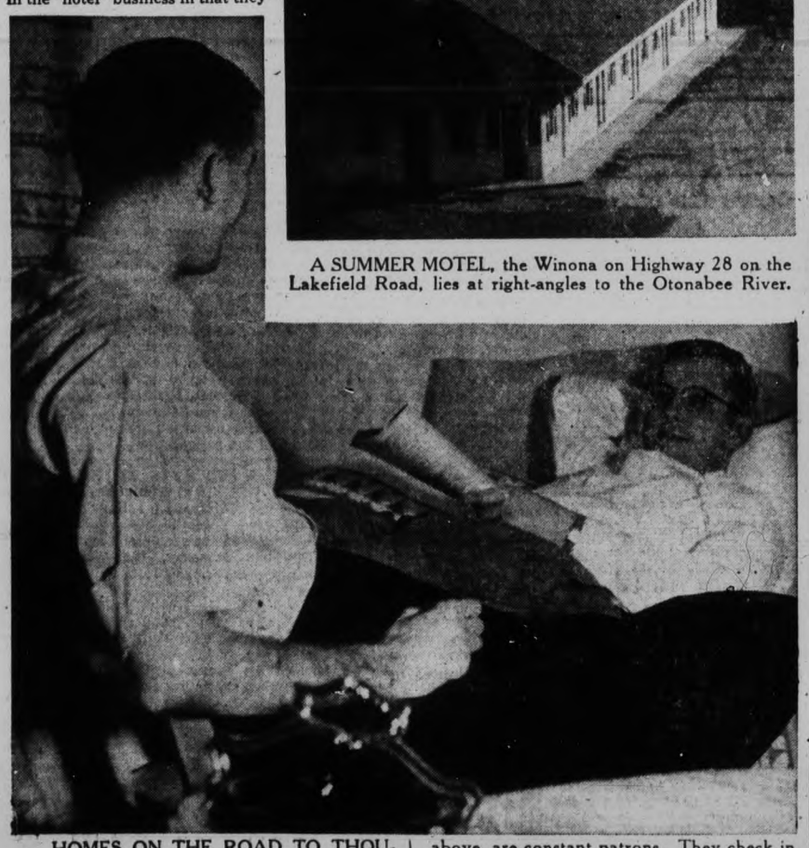
Owners have found guests to be exceedingly honest. Many of them are forgetfull. There isn't a place that hasn't a large stock of clothing and personal items put away by guests who, notified of their location, advise operators "to hold"; they will pick the items up later.

Guests have their complaints, too. They do not like to wait long for hot water for showers, cramped quarters in bathrooms, bare floors or lack of bed coverings. They want usable ashtrays, lamps and bedlights in the right places, bed springs that don't squeak. And they want a standard room rate the year 'round.

RATES

Peterborough motel rates are generally as follows: one person per bed, $5; two persons, $7; in twin double-bed rooms, three persons are charged $10 and four, $12. And there are no seasonal rates. A survey by the Canadian Press in Toronto found that motel operators were charging what the traffic would bear, according to the types of cars their guests drove up in. That situation does not exist in Peterborough, owners say.

Motels are here to stay in the Kawartha district. Establishments are busy for almost 12 months of the year. Guests like district motels and the owners. And owners are making a comfortable living from them. This seems like an ideal situation in any business.



SECOND MOTEL TO BE BUILT, the Kawartha, is the only one within city limits, on Lansdowne St. W. Its 12 units are filled the year 'round. This motel was opened July, 1951.

NEWEST DISTRICT MOTEL, the Rockhaven on Watertrough Hill, Highway 28 south, is also the largest with 30 units. Opened for use November, 1951.

A SUMMER MOTEL, the Winona on Highway 28 on the Lakefield Road, lies at right-angles to the Otonabee River.

HOMES ON THE ROAD TO THOUSANDS are Peterborough's four motels. Commercial travellers, like the two men above, are constant patrons. They check in late, leave early. Motels need less hired help than hotels do.

ON THE CHEMONG ROAD, three miles north of Peterborough, is the oldest district motel, the Northcourt. Opened for business September, 1950.

Your Garden:

Moles Tunnel And Mice Do The Damage

By HENRY PREE (NEA)

Ground moles are enemies of gardeners, not because they eat bulbs and plant roots, but because they unwittingly aid rodents that do. R. K. Davis, extension wildlife conservationist at Ohio State University, recently asserted that the mole's bad reputation comes from cutting through obstructions in his tunneling and because his tunnels, once established, are used by a lot of bad company.

Field mice and other rodents that actually do the gnawing use mole tunnels as highways for their burglary operations. Moles do not eat plant roots and bulbs, said the specialist. They are insectivorous, feasting upon ants, millipedes, centipedes, sow bugs, earthworms and snails, to name a few. They may even feed upon some of man's insect pests, but are not as efficient as insecticides, said Davis.

Although trapping is most effective to get rid of moles, it requires patience, according to Davis. Research has not discovered good repellents as yet. There is more hope for poisons than repellents. A number of poisons have been tested at the university, of which thallium-treated peanuts were most effective.

PLANT WINTER BEAUTY

With autumn planting on the schedule for many home owners the old gardener suggests serious consideration of an old rule, "plant for the winter, summer will take care of itself."

Sam Hemming, writing in the American Nurseryman, says: "Planting for winter effects need not preclude color and other tpyes of arrangements, nor does it mean that the planting must be evergreen. One should think in terms of winter appearance to make the best of his planting."

Broadleaf evergreens like the mountain laurel, hybrid rhododendron and Japanese hollies can be used to provide a background of winter green, while the many yews, leucothoe, pieris and the junipers are needed to provide a variety of shades in green and bronze to add interest to the composition.

The best sources of color in winter are winter-colored foliage, interesting seed pods and showy berries. In this group the home gardener will find the fruit, berries and twig growth of Oregon Holly grape (mahonia aquifolium), the cotoneasters, winterberry (ilex verticillata), the many viburnums, bayberry (myrica carolinensis), the flowering dogwood, hawthorn and crabapples most attractive.

Get rid of destructive moles before they ruin your good-looking garden.

Gardening Questions

Q—When and how should grapevines be pruned?

A—Pruning may be done from November to March—at any time the wood is not frozen. Since vines differ in their habit of growth, no particular rule can be given. However, it is safe to say that if all the very light wood is cut away, and the side shoots, to the thickness of a lead pencil or over, are cut back to the eye above where it started from last spring, you are okay.

Q—Should tulip, narcissus, daffodil and other spring-blooming bulbs be watered after planting?

A—No—and care must be taken that no bulbs are placed where water will stand about it during the winter. While soil moisture is essential, bulbs rot quickly if drainage is poor.

Q—What do you recommend for winter window-box fillers?

A—The trimmings of evergreen trees or shrubs about the yard will supply greens for winter. Soak the soil well and push in the branches, packing the soil about them, or purchase small balled and burlapped arborvitae and other low-cost evergreens.

Father Piquet On The Trent In 1761

By MRS. GERALD MARRYAT

Exactly 338 years ago, on September 8, 1615, Champlain and his Huron allies set out on their descent of the Trent Waterway to make war against the Iroquois.

Ever since then all sorts and conditions of men have been travelling up and down this inland water highway on various missions, some of which are worth recalling.

With Champlain were his chaplain, Father Le Caron, and three other Recollet missionaries, and Le Caron is supposed to have returned to the Bay of Quinte district. Others followed. Fathers Trouve and Fenelon were known explorers and the Sulpicians from their mission house on Lake Ontario cried out in amazement when, after they had surmounted the height of land, they gazed upon Rice Lake, lying gleaming in the sun, its blue waters dotted with islands flaming with the crimson of the maples in their autumn dress.

MOUNDS EXCAVATED

Thanks to James and Max Humphries who allowed the party from the Royal Ontario Museum to excavate the Indian Mounds on their property at the foot of Rice Lake and to Mr. Russell Harper and his assistants, those of us who live in this district have learned of the Indian population in the several villages along the shores of Rice Lake. Hidden away up such small streams as the Ouse are evidences of large communities. As many as 8,000 Indians may have lived around Rice Lake, and therefore it becomes evident that to them missionaries would be sent.

Ultimately, a Mission, known as Kentsio, was established where the Hiawatha Reserve is now, and in June, 1751, Father Francis Picquet, Doctor of the Sorbonne, King's Missionary, Prefect Apostolic to Canada, and founder of the French Mission of La Presentation, near Oswegatchie (Oswego), an experienced traveller, set out upon a voyage to Fort Frontenac, and up the Bay of Quinte to the Don River, thence to Fort Toronto, and by way of Lac le Clie (Simcoe) to Rice Lake where he inspected the "antient mission."

He made the journey in a King's canoe, with an escort of one bark canoe with five trusty savages, and, according to Dr. William Canniff, in his "The Settlement of Upper Canada," page 253, his memoir of this journey is both "curious and edifying." He does not say where he saw this document, but a search for it or a copy might add to our local historical background.

IROQUOIS APOSTLE

Father Picquet distinguished himself in all the principal engagements of the war at the end of the French regime, and by his presence animated the Indian converts to battle for the French King, who had sent him on the trip to the Indian tribes to offer them protection if they would acknowledge his supremacy.

When all was lost to France, on May 8, 1761, Father Picquet retired. Ascending the River Trent and passing to Michilimacinac, he travelled to the Mississippi and stayed at New Orleans for two years. He died July 15, 1781, and was long styled "the Apostle of the Iroquois."

In fact, he preferred them to the local Mississagas, upon whom he cast rather uncharitable aspersions, for they had acquired a taste for brandy. But this did not indicate an unwillingness on their part to become Christians, according to Dr. Canniff, who also points out that since then, missionaries, notably the Methodists, have succeeded in raising the Mississagas, not alone from paganism, but from a degrading love of spirits—to a distinguished place among the converted Indians.

Four years after Father Picquet's death, in 1785, the Indians signed a treaty handing over much of the land along the north shore of Lake Ontario, and a map of that year shows Rice Lake (in English) as one of the main routes from the lake. Little was known of distances, and the Trent river is a short inch line, un-named.

But by 10 March, 1792, for Governor Simcoe, a new map had been made and the Trent—still called Saggettaweddaw—had evidently been surveyed.

The Trent had more than a passing interest for Simcoe. Before leaving London to take up his appointment as the first Lieutenant-Governor of the newly created Province of Upper Canada, he set forth his ideas regarding the settlement of the district north of the Lower Great Lakes, and in his words—

"On the navigable heads of all those rivers (falling into the Lower Lakes) it is proposed to erect saw mills, flour mills and Inns, as the first steps to form different settlements and to let them from time to time for the benefit of Governmen and occasionally to station part of the Troops on such communications. . ."

Thus, at the head of the Trent, a mill-site was established, on paper at least as one of Governor Simcoe's first decrees. And so, the need for an up-to-date map becomes apparent.

SALT DISCOVERY

Simcoe had served through the Revolutionary War. He feared the rebel element in the States might make piratical raids on the defenceless shore of Lake Ontario. His idea was to establish settlements back from the front—just as the Indians sought the shelter of the Ouse and other small streams in stead of the dangers of the Rice Lake Trent River waterway.

It seems strange to read of a letter to Henry Dundas, H.M. Minister in London from Simcoe about such a simple thing as salt. But in Montreal on Dec. 7, 1791, Simcoe, in a letter marked "Secret and Confidential" told of the discovery of a salt spring up the Trent . . . "It has given me singular pleasure to learn from Mr. Collins (John Collins, Deputy Surveyor-General of Lower Canada) that he has been at and tasted of a salt spring which falls into the Trent above the Bay of Quinty, that according to the account of the inhabitants yields a Gallon of Salt to every Three Gallons of Water. This spring is not situated at a greater distance than Twenty Miles from Lake Ontario and has been reserved for the Crown."

Later on Simcoe hoped to go and see the spring. Later still he had to write that it was all a mistake. The spring was in Cold Creek, that empties into the Trent below the present village of Frankford, but it was not what Surveyor Collins had claimed for it. There is another salt creek, also named Cold Creek that flows through Percy township into the Trent.

Salt was so scarce that smugglers ran it into Upper Canada from well known salt licks in the States.

Five volumes of Simcoe's letters collected and edited by Brigadier-General E. A. Cruikshank, LLD, FRSC for the Ontario Historical Society, and published by the society in 1923 are to be found in the Peterborough Public Library. Although there is not much more about this district the story of Upper Canada's early days is graphically told.

A·F·I·E·L·D with NICK NICKELS

To remind you that Christmas is just around the corner, we learn that the big Christmas tree operators in around Pontypool-Orono area are through cutting and baling and most of the stock has started rolling to American markets.

Some will say the business is a big racket but it is not. The buying of marginal lands, and tree seedlings from departmental nurseries, the cutting and marketing is just as legitimate as grain farming. It is a million dollar business in Ontario.

The racketeers and spoilers in this business are those who cut trees ruthlessly without any definite sales in sight which result in immense spoilage and those who top mature trees for the best "shapes".

In the Scotch pine class, the most popular seller, there is more revenue from them in Christmas tree sizes than waiting for them to reach maturity in the pulpwood stage, one expert told me.

Floyd Curtis tells me it is cheaper to buy a Christmas tree than it is to gather one in the country in the family-old tradition.

Last year, he said, be bought a new axe for $2 and drove 20 miles into Dummer before finding the right tree. At the first whack of the axe he missed the trunk, hit a rock and lost the axe head in the snow. Floyd came back home after driving 40 round-trip miles (and getting stuck), without axe and without tree. All he had left at that point was a violent temper; a week later he bought a tree on the corner for $2.

On The Hit Parade

According to a magazine of the entertainment world the top current Western tune on radio and juke boxes for the past three weeks is the "Dear John Letter". It's all about a girl friend who writes a lonely veteran in Korea that she has found another; it fairly tears the heartstrings out by the roots.

Who gets more "Dear John Letters" than the Hon. Harold Scott, MPP? We presume the tear jerkers go something like this:

'Dear Harold:

The department's boys snaffled my deer because I didn't have a licence attached. I just forgot, Harold. Honest. You know what a straight guy I am . . . Just imagine how poor Mom will feel when I appear in court with my name in the papers, 'n' everything. Can't you do something?'

The editor of the Peterborough Examiner gets letters, too.

'Your picture of our two boys with game warden Windsor (it was Buie), was not only misleading, but an entire LIE. You were asked NOT to publish that picture and what happened? If that error is not corrected it will suffice to show just how much the two boys in the picture fought for while overseas. They fought for JUSTICE. Give them justice.'

'. . . If it is impossible to use common sense and good judgment when at the press, then I'd say use a little CHRISTIAN spirit—help those who fought for our country.' You might publish this letter if you are anxious to make right the error.'

(So, we are liars, unchristian, unjust and unpatriotic. Yes, and conservation-minded, too.)

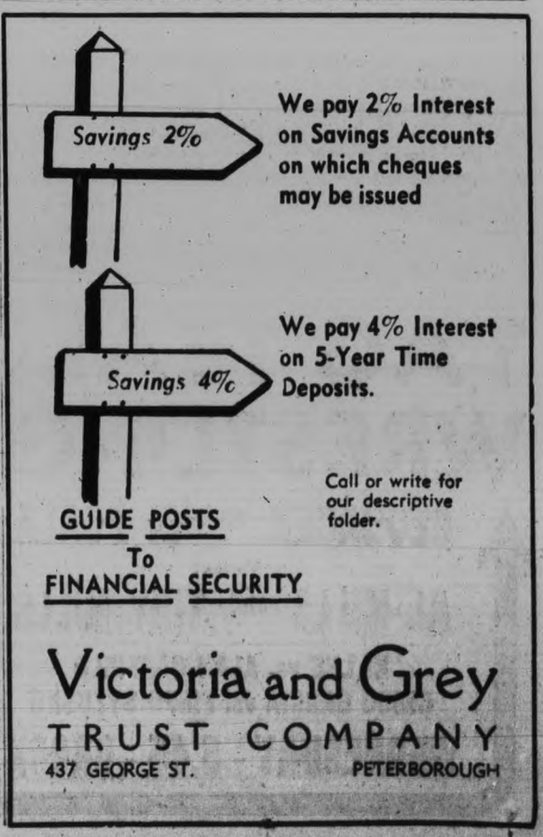
Deerstalkers' Tales

Now that hunters have returned to good home cooking, clean laundry and baths they wander about telling of their luck, or the lack of it, in the woods. Some odd happenings:

In the Max-Jim Humphries crowd an American from Wooster, O., Gerald Sheets, was standing his watch on two consecutive days when game approached him almost within spitting distance. He yelled "whoa" each time, startled the deer into perfect shooting positions and brought them down. To top these unorthodox doings he was told of a fat porcupine on a ridge and went up to investigate. After hearing three shots his companions ribbed him about his marksmanship but drew in their horns later when they found he had plugged a 200-pound bear instead.

In another camp Jack Black whiled away his time rolling and smoking "makings". A curious fawn sidled up to him on one occasion just as he put the fag to lips to give the paper a licking. The story has it that Jack almost put his hand on the little critter, but was too unnerved to shoot it.



What a great many seasoned deer hunters want in the way of changes the next season seem to be these:

Ban dogs for three years.

Gamble on the weather and start the season a week later.

Re-instate the buck law.

Some evidence of sportsmanship in the woods.

Oshawa Truckers Victors Over The TPT Petes In 10-5 Senior Puck Fray

Oshawa Truckmen dumped the TPT Petes with a 10-5 thud here last night before a sizeable crowd to take a firmer hold of the top rung in the OHA senior "B" group race over the third-place Petes. The visitors only had a 3-2 edge in the first frame, but exploded for four unanswered markers in the second stanza, and held their own in a 3-3 windup chukker of a clean, fast fray. Two accidental casualties occurred. Centre Jerry Scott suffered a broken nose for Oshawa in the pre-game warmup when hit by a team-mate's stick, and he saw no action during the tilt. Early in the third period, Referee Harry Heffering of Whitby, in trying to dodge a player's rush, twisted and fractured his ankle. He was carried off, and Referee Jim Crombie of Bowmanville handled the rest of the game alone.

REALLY SPEEDY

Play was very fast over most of the distance, but often quite scrambly, particularly on the Petes' part. They held their own in the first period and battled hard for an even break in the third, but looked loose defensively and disorganized on the attack in the third when the Truckmen struck hard and smoothly to rack up the count. The winners scored twice with Petes a man short, and the homesters tallied once with a Truckman in the sin bin. Apart from a few roughing penalties and a misconduct to Fred Etcher in the first heat, it was quite a clean contest.

Goalie Les Colvin turned in a solid chore in the victors' net, whereas Goalie Donlevy of the Petes didn't get the protection he deserved. Both sides were fairly flying at times, with the Oshawa outfit showing better combination most of the way and checking well, besides cashing in on opportunities. The Petes pressed hard in every frame, even when outscored 4-0 in the second, but they missed many good scoring chances for lack of finish.

LED OSHAWA

Frank Hooper and George Samolenko each tallied twice for Truckers with one goal apiece notched by Paul Jago, Bill Berwick, Harry Sinden, Maxie Yourth, Doug Williams and Don McBeth. The latter retired with a cut mouth late in the game. Hooper was high on assists with three, two each going to McBeth, Yourth, Williams and Sinden. One apiece were marked to Jago, Samolenko, Jed Wilson, Berwick, Ernie Dickens and Etcher.

For the Petes, Bert Hill lit the lamp twice, and Gus Leonard, Doc Prentice and Chum Fryia once each. Coach Eddie Redmond aided on two, as single assists went to Denny Peterson, Roy Armstrong, Ted Collins, Fryia and Toodie Greenlaw.

Oshawa: Goal, Colvin; defence, Sinden and McBeth; centre, Etcher; wings, Samolenko and Wilson; alternates, Williams, Yourth, Jago, Berwick, Hooper, Holden Dickens and Peters.

Petes: Goal, Donlevy; defence, Montgomery and Redmond; centre, Hill; wings, Collins and Crowley; alternates, Leonard, Fryia, Greenlaw, Prentice, Belisle, Peterson, McMaster Armstrong and Floyd.

Referees: J. Crombie and L. Heffering.

Collis, Blacks Record Wins To Open Season

Collis' and Black's recorded decisive victories Friday night when the Girls' City League basketball season opened at the YWCA. Collis' in the first game romped to a 45-21 victory the much-improved CGE quintette while Black's outplayed the Nurses for a 38-26 win.

Three baskets by Joan Dunk and another by Pauline Stewart gave Collis' a slim 6-5 lead in the first quarter. M. Jones, D. Jackson and K. Calladine kept the CGE lasses close. But Dunk, joined by other teammates, kept hitting the basket regularly in the second, giving Collis' a good lead 20-11 at the half.

Bestard, Stewart, Dunk and DeWarga overpowered the CGE attack in the third quarter, scoring enough points to assure a win, leading 33-14 at three-quarters. Coasting in the fourth Collis' relied mostly on Stewart for points.

Dunk easily led the game, scoring with 17 points, while Stewart had 12.

Black's, with J. Kearns and R. Butcher leading the attack, took an early lead in the first quarter of the second game. Kearns with three baskets and Butcher with two helped give Black's a 13-5 lead over the Nurses. The hospital girls rallied in the second to outscore Black's 9-7, thanks to a series of successful foul shots, but they were still down 20-14 at the half.

In a low-scoring third quarter, the Nurses stemmed the Blacks' offence, allowing a seven-all tie for that period. But foul shots by Kearns and Middleton and baskets by R. Butcher widened the gap separating the teams in the fourth.

Alouette Coach Not Deeply Pessimistic

By W. R. WHEATLEY

MONTREAL (CP) — Douglas (Peahead) Walker, a man not given to loquacity but capable of forthright facing of facts, thinks his Montreal Alouettes "are lucky to come as far as we did."

The silver-haired coach isn't deeply pessimistic over Sunday's second meeting of Alouettes and Hamilton Tiger-Cats. His team took a 37-12 trouncing in Hamilton Wednesday and another loss for the Als in this best-of-three series means Ti-Cats will enter the Grey Cup final.

Walker said Alouette injuries are not phonies. The club has gone along with super-human work or team spirit, "but that can't last forever." The situation is "getting beyond a question of physical ability."

Als were hit early in the season with the loss of tackle Jim Staton. Then, Oct. 18, Walker's second ace tackle, Tex Coulter, suffered a broken ankle. That was the start of the injury cycle.

COULTER MAY PLAY

It is possible Coulter, working out carefully the last few days, may get into Sunday's battle. But he won't be in top shape. Neither will guard Ray Cicia nor end Jim Miller.

Walker must also decide whether to use players who are "50 per cent perfect or go with reserves who are okay."

The Ti-Cats, too, have injured but playable talent. Walker didn't think either the Als or Ti-Cats could be in good shape for the Grey Cup game. He suggested, also, that the Big Four league's playoffs are "too late and too long."

The playoff schedule, if it goes the limit, calls for Wednesday-Sunday-Wednesday games. The Western elague finished playoffs last Saturday.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Sportswriter Elmer Ferguson recently wrote a piece on lacrosse in which he expressed surprise at the rather skimpy Canadian coverage given the Mann Cup and the Minto Cup final playoffs in the fall. He said: "Since these trophies represent the senior and junior championships of Canada, the general lack of interest displayed therein by the press of the Dominion is unfortunate, the more so since lacrosse is officially and legally Canada's national game." That is true, it became Canada's national sport by an actof legislation in 1867, the organized game—after earlier Indian play—dating back to the 1830s. Yet there isn't too much publicity in the country's press on lacrosse, apart from the centres in which it is played.

Local senior lacrossers are wondering when that civic sports' championship dinner is to be held. The dinner is to cover Ontario or better sports' champs of Peterborough for the years 1952 and '53. The Petes' lacrossers won the Canadian senior title both years. Grid Orfuns won Eastern Canada intermediate honors last year and the provincial crown this year. Also in '52, we had an Ontario juvenile lacrosse championship, and the UEW intermediate soccer title, besides Mrs. Maurice Charlton and Verna Rose winning the Ontario Ladies' badminton doubles. Last spring saw the Shamrocks take the Ontario bantam hockey laurels. Then, too, the local girl swimmers won the ornamental team championship of the States. Quite a list now, eh? Mayhap the Kearns Trophy could be presented at this dinner, also.

Stepping Up to Senior?

Quite a bit of discussion pro and con recently over the suggestion here that our football Orfuns step up to senior ORFU play next year. It will require a lot of thought and checking within the next few months as senior football is expensive. On the other hand, it is much better competition and would draw a lot more fans to home games. Orfuns could bring in players of the calibre of Jimmy Loreno of Oshawa, the pick of Cobourg Ghosts—if that club doesn't operate—several from Toronto, and three or four USA imports. Presently, Orfuns are monarchs of all they survey in ORFU intermediate "A" ranks, as they were back in 1937 when they stepped up to senior.

Following the wrestling riot at the Brock Arena last week, promoters have lined up another tag team bout as the main event for next Wednesday eve here. They're brining back the mean Mills' brothers, Al and Tiny, as one team—with more police protection indicated—but this time Timothy Geohagen will have as his partner big Ilio DePoablo, the Italian grabbler who got into the melee last start. Just a week ago in Toronto Maple Leaf Gardens, the Mills' duo helped draw 16,000 fans in their team bout 'gainst Watson and Robert. Alan Garfield meets Hi Lee in the semi-final of the card, while newcomer Chico Garcia tackles Firpo Szbsko in the prelim.

Puck Boom for District

A large community and district crowd helped open the new artificial ice arena in Marmora last evening, a fine show being staged. Wasting no time, arena officials are starting play on Monday with a pre-season TVL setup using the ice there. Point Anne plays Frankford, followed by Wellington vs. Marmora. Other Loop teams are Hastings, Madoc, Campbellford and Bancroft. Artificial ice there will be a boon to a big district this season. Also they have an OMHA minor setup lined up down that way with bantam, midget and juvenile squads entered from Stirling, Marmora, Tweed, Havelock, Coe Hill and maybe one or two other spots. Nice Work.

Oshawa Truckmen erupted in the second period here last eve to toss in four goals without a return and that was that. Wound up in a 10-5 senior "B" puck win for the loop leaders, leaving the locals back in the third slot of this hot group race. They'll have to really roll and trim Kingston here Monday or Truckers and K's will be pulling well ahead of 'em. Jerry Scott had his nose busted before the game in a warmup by the Oshawa outfit, and Ref Larry Heffering twisted and broke his ankle in the third heat. No other serious damage as the duel was quite clean and really fast. But it was scrambly at times, too. The Petes made it a real game in the first and third periods, but sort of fell apart in the middle chukker and that was all the smooth Truckmen needed. They cash in quickly on all opportunities.

Bomber Coach Job Grows More Uncertain

TORONTO (CP)—The Telegram said Friday in a dispatch from Winnipeg written by staff writer George Dulmage that "even if Winnipeg Blue Bombers win the Grey Cup, George Trafton looks like a dead duck as a coach in this football-mad city."

Dulmage added:

"The talk of Trafton and his future is almost as incessant among the fans as the talk of the chances of the Bombers to win the Canadian classic at (Toronto) Varsity Stadium Nov. 28.

"Some say that if Trafton's team wins the Grey Cup, it will save his job for 1954. There are just as many others who insist that, Grey Cup honors or not, Trafton is definitely out.

READY FOR ANYTHING

"And what is more if he should 'blow his top' against the Bomber executive before the Grey Cup, the said executive has plans to drop him at once. Plans, in fact, have been made to take care of just such a case.

"Bert Warwick, long-time Bomber associate, booster and Reg Threlfall's assistant coach in happier football days in Winnipeg, will be called in to take over if Trafton overplays his hand. . . ."

Dulmage said Trafton was ordered by Ralph Misener, former Bomber president, to put Indian Jack Jacobs in at quarter in place of Joe Zaleski after half-time in the last game of the western conference final at Edmonton last Saturday night "and this was done. . . ."

MUCH FEUDING

"Trafton said he had feuded for most of his time out here with executive members who thought they could run the football club better than he could. He also has feuded with newspaper men and broadcasters. . . ."

At Winnipeg, Bomber President Karl Slocomb said only:

"Trafton will be in charge of the club here Saturday and if Bombers win, he'll be in charge of the club at the Grey Cup."

Brother Act Helps Teepees To Bounce Biltmores 9-3

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A top-notch brother act, paired on the same forward line, is helping St. Catharines TeePees one step ahead of the rest of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A pack.

Veteran Brian Cullen, leading scorer for the TeePees, and his rookie brother Barry, who isn't far behind, each fired three goals in Guelph last night as St. Catharines bounced the Biltmores 9-3 to retain its three-point, first-place margin in the standings.

Galt Black Hawks, who are in second place, kept hot on the trail by defeating Barrie Flyers, last year's Memoiral Cup champions, 5-2 in Barrie.

Kitchener - Waterloo Greenshirts moved up one notch over Guelph into seventh place by downing Hamilton Tigers 5-2 in Kitchener.

GETS 8 POINTS

Besides hitting the net three times Brian Cullen chalked up five assists. Brother Barry helped on two goals. Hank Ciesla added a pair of goals for the TeePees and Hugh Barlow fired the remaining single. Bob Attersley, the loop's leading scorer when the last official figures were revealed Tuesday, notched two goals for the Biltmores but he may have lost his leadership to Barry Cullen. Chick Chalmers rounded out the scoring for the Biltmores.

The Hawks came from behind for their victory over the Flyers. Ron Halstead who fired two goals was the sparkplug for the Hawks. Pete Kowalchuk, Hec Lalonde and Eddie Switzer added singles.

Jim Robertson and Ross Hudson shared the Barrie output.

GAINS 2 GOALS

Buddy Horne slapped in two goals for Kitchener, one into an empty net, in the dying minutes of the game against Hamilton. Bruce Jones, Beryl Klinck and Grieg Hicks scored the others. Val Mitchell and Cummy Burton did the scoring for Hamilton.

Hamilton plays host to the Greenshirts tonight while Toronto Marlboros are at Galt. Barrie at St. Catharines and Toronto St. Michael's College Majors at Quebec Citadelles round out the night's activity.

Sunday games will have Guelph playing Marlboros and Hamilton meeting St. Michael's in a Toronto doubleheader.

HOWIE MEEKER BACK

TORONTO (CP)—Veteran right winger Howie Meeker has been called up to lend a hand to the injury-riddled Toronto Maple Leafs in National Hockey League action this week-end.

Assistant Manager Clarence (Hap) Day said Meeker will play against New York Rangers at Toronto tonight and against the Black Hawks at Chicago Sunday night.

Meeker is coaching Stratford Indians of the Ontario Hockey Association senior A series with the understanding he is available when the Leafs need him. The call came because of injuries to two right wingers—Bob Bailey in a game at Montreal Thursday night and George Armstrong in a practice Wednesday.

Day said Bob Solinger would stay with the Leafs for the week-end. Previously he was slated to go to Pittsburgh Hornets of the American Hockey League as a replacement for Earl Balfour, called up to the parent Leafs. Instead, Bob Sabourin of Ottawa Senators of the Quebec Hockey League will go to Pittsburgh.

IT'S NOT GAMBLING

TORONTO (CP)—Judge Robert Forsyth ruled Friday that the Toronto Maple Leaf Baseball Club didn't break any laws by giving prizes to attendance-guessers.

He dismissed three lottery charges against the club and said:

"In my opinion this type of contest or scheme doesn't come under the section of the code under which the club has been charged."

Charles Dubin, counsel for the club, said nobody paid to enter the attendance contests. Each fan bought a ticket to see the International League game and got the guessing contest ballot free.

SEDGMAN WINS

LONDON (AP)—Frank Sedgman of Australia, who turned professional less than a year ago, played almost perfect tennis Friday night to overwhelm Pancho Gonzales of Los Angeles 6-1, 6-2, 6-2 in the final of the international professional indoor tournament. Sedgman, who played far better than he did in winning the 1952 Wimbledon title, received £500 for his victory.

MARTINEZ BEATS VEJAR

NEW YORK (AP)—Flashy Vince Martinez used a stabbing jab and punishing left-right combinations to whip Chico Vejar, a swarming soldier boy from Fort Benning, Ga., and Stamford, Conn., Friday night in a rousing 10-round bout at Madison Square Garden. Martinez weighed 149½, Vejar 150½.

Martinez, the 1952 rookie of the year from Paterson, N.J., dropped Vejar for an automatic eight-count in the second round.

IT PAYS TO WIN

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — When the University of Houston's Cougars upset highly-ranked Baylor 37-7 in their annual football clash last Saturday, the victory was worth $2,250,000 to the old alma mater.

Bruins Hand Out 2-0 Defeat To Chicago Hawks

By ED SIMON, Canadian Press Staff Writer

The miseries have returned to Max Bentley's back. New York Rangers' sleek-haired stick-handling master from Delisle, Sask., enjoying a fine comeback after the aching back sent him into premature retirement last spring when he was with Toronto Maple Leafs, suffered twinges of the old complaint Friday. Although x-rays indicated no severe damage, coach Frank Boucher decided to give his 33-year-old spark-plug centre the night off for the Rangers' Saturday fixture against the Maple Leafs in Toronto, hoping to have him back in peak form against Detroit Red Wings in New York Sunday night.

In his place, Boucher will play Billy McCreary, a high-scoring 18-year-old from Guelph Biltmores of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A league.

WILL BE REUNITED

Up for a one-game trial, he will be reunited with two former teammates from the Rangers' Guelph farm club, 21-year-old Andy Bathgate and 20-year-old Ron Murphy. The three will form one of the youngest lines in the annals of the National Hockey League.

Injuries will force Boucher into further experimentation with his fifth-place Rangers. Aldo Guidolin a fine defensive forward, may make his first appearance as a defenceman.

The six-foot, 180-pounder may fill in for Bob Chrystal, out with a bruised kidney. Rookie centre Camille Henry, nursing a bruised heel, is another doubtful starter.

HABS MEET DETROIT

In another Saturday-night tilt, the leading Montreal Canadiens face Detroit Red Wings in an effort to protect their two-point lead over the second-placers.

The Leafs, another two points back of Detroit, had their lead over fourth-place Boston cut to a similar margin Friday night when the Bruins whipped Chicago Black Hawks 2-0.

In Sunday activity, the Leafs tackle the last-place Hawks at Chicago while the Canadiens visit Boston and the Rangers meet Detroit.

Boston's victory over the Hawks gave goalie Sugar Jim Henry a chance to shine as his mother watched him perform for the first time since he broke into the NHL 12 years ago. Leo Labine and rookie Doug Mohns fired the Bruin goals in the second period.

Mrs. Essie Henry made the trip from Winnipeg to Chicago and saw her son rack up his third shutout of the campaign.

Sixth Death Recorded In Car Race

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Italian Lancias and American Lincolns swept the honors again Friday as a sixth death was recorded in the hazardous Pan - American road race.

Antonio Stagnoli, one of the youngest and most promising Italian drivers, died in hospital from injuries suffered in the crash of his Ferrari Thursday.

His co-pilot, Giuseppe Scotuzzi, was killed after the Ferrari blew a tire and overturned.

Phil Hill of Santa Monica, Cal., and his co-driver escaped injury when their Ferrari turned over on the second lap Friday, about 31 miles from Mexico City.

4 SPECTATORS KILLED

Four spectators also were killed Thursday when they were hit by a car coming out of a turn.

The Lancia team, led by Italy's Piero Taruffi and Felice Bonetto, finished one-two in record-breaking fashion in both laps Friday while the Lincoln Capri team, paced by Chuck Stevenson of Milwaukee and Johnny Mantz of Los Angeles, captured the first four positions in each lap just as it did Thursday on the opening lap.

The Lancias are entered in the big sports car class while the Lincolns are in the big stock car division.

Man Who Had Compassion

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

The man with compassion was the one whom we call "the Good Samaritan," the man whom the parable of Jesus, in Luke 10:25-37, has made famous, and the outstanding type of all who have devoted themselves to human need and the service of their fellowmen.

That a Samaritan, despised in his time as belonging to a people of a corrupted religious belief (See John 4:22), should become that type is in itself a striking thing.

But the Parable is also in every way striking for its contrasts and its plain insistence that religion in its outward form and profession is of little account or significance, if the reality of genuine goodness, humanity and mercy be lacking.

That a priest and a Levite, official representatives of the religion in which Jesus Himself had grown up, a religion deeply instilled with the precepts of humanity and mercy, should have been so unfaithful to al lthat was best in their profession as to pass by with callous indifference a fellow mortal, stricken and in deep need, while a man of supposedly inferior race and religious ideas displayed all the reality of what was best in the religion that the priest and Levite professed—this is the contrast and the very heart of the Parable's teaching.

That a Samaritan with goodness in his heart and with compassionate care for a fellowman in need was better than the Jew, who would have no dealings with him but who lacked both his goodness and any faithfulness to all that was best in the religion of Judaism, is plain; but the Parable does not in any way suggest that a Samaritan was better than a Jew.

In the Parable of the Pharisee and the Publican the point was not in any sense that Publicans were better than Pharisees, but that a Publican, humbly confessing his need and seeking God's mercy, was incomparably better than a proud, self-righteous Pharisee thanking God for what he was, instead of seeking God's mercy for his faults and God's guidance in becoming a better man.

As a matter of fact, the Pharisees had been the intensely sincere believers and defenders of the purity of the Jewish faith, suffering dire and terrible persecutions when they had opposed the effort of Greek conquerors to corrupt the worship of the temple with pagan elements. I have read how in that persecution 800 were crucified in one day.

It often happens that some non-churchmember displays qualities of character and goodness in action that puts to shame many church-members and professing Christians. But that is not the general rule.

There is no particular evidence that there were many good Samaritans, and there is plenty of evidence that there were many Jews whose lives were marked with the qualities of that particular Samaritan. It was a Jew, Jesus Himself, who told the Parable.

But the standard of Christian good living is set in such character and conduct as the Good Samaritan displayed. One cannot be a good Christian without being a good neighbor; and there is no such thing as faith in God, and love of God, that is not associated and reflected in love toward on's fellowmen.

"If a man love not his brother whom he hath seen, how can he love God whom he hath not seen?"

"Dead" Husband Turns Up Wife Has Married Again

Ann Peacock, 45-year-old mother of eight children and grandmother of seven, has suddenly found herself the central figure in a matrimonial drama that has all the legal intricacies and headaches of a first class fiction plot.

Thrice-married Mrs. Peacock, who lives at 922 Hurley street, has been confronted with the fact that she is married to two men, both of them very much alive.

NOTICE OF DEATH

Her first husband Joseph Murphy, whom she married in 1924 died in Peterborough in April 1941 and in January 1943 she married Trevor Gratto. They resided in Peterborough for some years and then went to Nova Scotia to live. Finally they separated and a Peterborough relative sent the then Mrs. Gratto the January 23, 1950 issue of the Examiner which contained notice of Gratto's death.

The notice carried among the death notices on the classified page read: "Grotto, Trevor Scott—At Oxtongue Lake, Trevor Scott Grotto, in his 29th year, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bamford Grotto of Truro, N.S. and dear husband of Ann Grotto. Funeral took place in Truro N.S. with Rev. Thompson officiating."

On the strength of this she says, and by producing her two marriage certificates, Mrs. Peacock was able to draw a widow's allowance and sustinence for young members of her family. This allowance ceased in February 1951 when she exchanged vows with Lloyd Peacock of Peterborough. They separated some four months later.

Providence saw fit to re-unite Mrs. Peacock and her two husbands in Peterborough some weeks ago, and the circumstances were made known to the police. Mrs. Peacock says it came as a real shock to her to find Gratto still alive. She had heard rumors that he had been seen recently in Toronto, but had discounted the stories.

"I just could not believe my eyes when he walked up to me on the street," she said.

Interviewed by the "Examiner" Mrs. Peacock had no knowledge of how Gratto's death notice came to be published. She says Gratto told her he did not know anything about it either. As far as he was concerned he was still married to her.

At the moment Mrs. Peacock is adamant that two husbands is at least one too many and feels that there might be something after all in the one-time song hit "Oh, I Wish I Were Single Again."

Traces Of Old Life

Under the spreading chestnut tree, the village smithy stands. That was years ago before the invention of cars and planes. Now both chestnut trees and the smithies are disappearing. But the few that remain still attract a group who just like to sit and talk while the blacksmith hammers at his trade. Jack Galloway's smithy on Simcoe St. is of the old and new. The former orchestra leader (he played a mean sax) has been blacksmith for 20 years, starting near Bethany. He's made thousands of horseshoes, forging (top photo), hammering (right photo) and then doing the actual horseshoing (lower photo). This work has dwindled but he still makes hundreds a year for harness racing stables. His work also includes some woodworking and making fancy iron work.

Two New Candidates Assure Board Of Education Election

Clarence Corbett, 177 Morrow St., and Ernest McWilliams, 408 Monaghan Rd., have announced their intention of running for the Board of Education. With the addition of these two candidates, the possibility of acclamation has been cancelled. At present there are five vacancies on the board. Four of the previous members, Mrs. Ann Rowell, Arthur Pitchford, Charles Huffman, and G. Wilson Craw, will seek re-election. The fifth member, and this year's chairman, Stanley R. Adamson, will not seek re-election.

Mr. Corbett, 47, recently received a promotion to personnel manager at Brinton-Peterborough Carpet. He is vice-president of the Industrial Accident Prevention Association for Central Ontario and superintendent of the Park St. Baptist Church.

When asked his reason for entering as a candidate, he replied: "I am vitally interested in the education of youth. As citizens in the community, we should take an active interest....in the field of education, everyone is concerned."

Mr. Corbett and his wife, the former Edith Tilling, have two sons, John 18 is attending McMaster University, and James 11 is a student at King Edward school.

Mr. Corbett and family are members of Park St. Baptist church.

Business Syndicate Buys Cataracts Team

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—A group of Niagara Falls business men took over ownership of the Niagara Falls Cataracts Friday night, it was announced today.

The group named arena manager Norm Tustin acting coach until an organization to manage the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A team is set up.

The team was taken over from a Kitchener business man and playing-coach Pat Wilson after the Cataracts defeated Sarnia Sailors. The new owners said Wilson has been dismissed.

Ice, Snow Make Roads Dangerous In Denver

DENVER (AP) — Calm, cold weather returned to most of Colorado early today.

While highways were reported still dangerous with ice or snow, there was no repetition of the blizzards which had blocked roads and closed some schools 24 hours earlier.

Two cross-country buses proceeded safely after being stranded Friday 126 miles east of here.

The End?

The honeymoon is over. The mercury is expected to descend from its unseasonal heights Sunday and return to more normal November weather. Merchants have been waiting for the inevitable approach of winter to begin to sell their winter stock and gardeners are fearful that their fall planted bulbs might sprout if the mild weather continued. But Sunday may herald the return of normalcy.

Gordon Powell Candidate For City Council

Gordon Powell, 544 Water St., announced he would be a candidate in last year's election, running cember 7 election.

He was an unsuccessful candidate last year's election, running seventh in a field of 12, following R. E. Knox, who obtained 2,718 votes to Mr. Powell's 2,486. Mr. Knox has since been appointed to city council to succeed ex-Ald. Norman Graham, who resigned.

NINE CANDIDATES

Mr. Powell is the ninth person to announce his intention to seek one of the five aldermanic seats at stake in this year's election. Other candidates are: Ald. Syd Black, Ald. Pat Anglesey, George W. Carphin, Fred T. Tuggey, Jack C. Smith, William Triggs, Glenn Price and Stanley A. McBride. Official nominations will be made in the city hall November 27.

Manager of Lowe Bros. paint and wallpaper store on George St. for the past eight years, Mr.

GORDON POWELL

Powell believes civic government should be conducted "much in the manner of a well-conducted business—economically, with an eye to future expansion, but guarding against over-expenditure.

"In business today it becomes second nature with one to work to these ends," Mr. Powell told the Examiner, "and I believe I have something to offer in this respect."

He was born in Peterborough and received his education in city schools and at Peterborough Business College. He has been a lifelong resident of the city with the exception of four years following the Second World War when he resided in Millbrook.

Mr. Powell is 1st vice-president of the Peterborough Lions club and a past president of the Millbrook Lions club. He is an active member of the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce and, as chairman of the paint and hardware division of the retail section, he has played a leading role in the development of Peterborough's shopping services.

Mr. Powell is also a member of the Founders' club of the Credit Union National Association, a member of the board of directors and a past president of the Peterborough Economic Educational Association credit union and an active supporter of the Civic Hospital Auxiliary's annual penny sale.

He is married to the former Helen Russell of Peterborough, a graduate of the Civic Hospital school of nursing.

New Section Of City To Get Lights

Stewart St. North, Subdivision To Have Lights Up

The city is going to provide street lighting in the section recently annexed from Smith township.

City council recently requested the utilities commission to make a survey of street lighting needs in the section. The commission's recommendations for lamps on the northern stretches of Water St. and the Chemong Rd. and in the Queen Elizabeth sub-division were approved by the fire, water and light committee Friday.

There will be 36 300-watt lamps erected in the Queen Elizabeth sub-division and 25 each on Stewart and Water Sts. (Stewart St. is the Chemong Rd.)

City Clerk E. A. Outram recommended that the lights be installed before winter. He thought the lights would help to cut down speeding on the two streets which form the highway connecting links. This had been the result of erecting lights on Clonsilla St., he said.

The stretch of Stewart St. to be lighted extends for about a mile and a half and of Water St. about a mile.

OTHER LIGHTS

Other lights recommended by the utilities commission and approved by the committee are: Chamberlain St., between High St. and Western Ave., three 300-watt lamps; Ford St., between Frank and Chamberlain Sts., three 100-watt and four 300-watt lamps; Parkhill Rd., from Snelgrove Rd. easterly to the canal, five 300-watt lamps; Aylmer St., between Lake and Westcott Sts., one 300-watt lamp; opposite 635 Erskine Ave., one 300-watt lamp; Erskine and Gillespie Aves., one 300-watt lamp; London St., between Water and George Sts., one 300-watt lamp.

Canadian-U.S. Participation In St. Lawrence Seaway Been Debated Since 1895

(Work on the St. Lawrence seaway and power project may begin in 1954. Despite Canadian anxiety to go ahead, United States opposition has delayed the job for more than 20 years. This story, last of a series, describes the long negotiations which now seem near fruition.)

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

The proposed St. Lawrence deep seaway is not only an improved water route to the heart of Canada but to the heart of the United States.

Every Canadian government since 1928 and every United States President since Wilson—President Eisenhower in Ottawa only last Saturday—has supported it. The American state department favors it. The Canada-United States joint permanent board on defence urges it.

To quote one American advocate, Senator Hubert Humphrey (Dem.-Minn.):

"The good Lord did not lay steel rails across this continent He left that for man to do. But God Almighty did provide a great waterway into the heart of this country and all man has to do is call in the help of a few engineers."

GOVERNOR'S COMMENT

And G. Mennen Williams, Democratic Governor of Michigan, said:

"The Heartland around the Great Lakes is a pioneer economy, dynamic, not mature, and not satiated. This great area is a workshop and a breadbasket. Michigan and the states of inland America know full well that the St. Lawrence waterway will add terrific impetus to their economy."

Why, if so much opinion is behind the project, has it not been carried out before? Because rail, coal, seaboard port and some local interests in the United States believe it will take business from them and have been successful in presenting their views to Congress.

One irritated Canadian commented: "So few people among the 160,000,000 in the United States know anything about the seaway that a strong lobby is able to stall it."

ARGUMENTS LOSE FORCE

The opposing American interests present many arguments, some of which seem to have lost force now that Canada proposes to do the navigation work alone:

The costs have been under-estimated; the project would not pay for itself; American money might better be spent in expanding other transportation facilities; the 27-foot canals would still shut out a large proportion of American shipping.

Joint Canadian - United States participation in a deep seaway has been debated since 1895.

In 1932 Canada and the United States planned for it under the St. Lawrence Deep Waterway Treaty but, although it got a slim majority in the United States Senate, the treaty failed to get the two-thirds majority required.

In 1941 another attempt was made to get the project going. Canada and the United States signed the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Basin agreement. This, too, failed to get congressional approval.

POWER A FACTOR

Meantime, the power needs of Ontario and New York were adding urgency to the project and Canadian opinion was swinging behind an all-Canadian navigation job.

The power cannot be developed without consent of the United States, because it involves international waters and flooding of American land. If the water level is raised through the power development, however, Canada can proceed with the navigation work without affecting American territory.

In September, 1951, President Truman told Prime Minister St. Laurent that if an early start was not possible as a joint undertaking, he would support independent Canadian action as a "second best."

In June, 1952, both the United States and Canada filed applications with the International Joint Commission, a Canadian-American body with wide powers in border matters arising between the two countries. These applications asked for permission to proceed with the power development. The Commission gave its approval.

ONTARIO-NEW YORK JOB

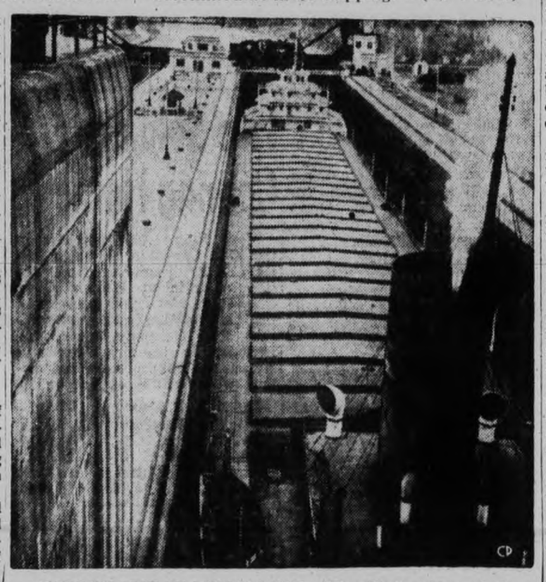
In 1951, Ontario had been designated by the Canadian government to carry out the Canadian part of the power work. Last July the Commission gave the New York state power authority a licence to begin construction.

Now President Eisenhower has carried this through to the federal executive stage by naming the New York power authority to do the U.S. work. James C. Hagerty, presidential press secretary, said this order completed the executive action needed to go ahead.

However, court proceedings still cause delay. Objections to New York participation in the power phase have been filed in petitions to the United States Court of Appeals by the Pennsylvania Coal Producers Association, the Public Power and Water Corporation, Trenton, N.J., and the Lake Ontario Land Development and Beach Protective Association, made up largely of shoreline owners in the vicinity of Rochester, N.Y. These proceedings may find their way to the Supreme Court of the United States.

Attorney - General Herbert Brownell of the United States, in a motion filed with the Court of Appeals Nov. 6, asked that these cases be advanced for hearing not later than mid-December. He expressed hope the lawsuits can be cleared up by next June. His motion was accompanied by a letter from Secretary of State Dulles relaying Canada's wishes to get ahead with the work.

In the light of the American government's attitude, Canada, Ontario and New York hope a start can be made on the work about mid-year, thus bringing to an end more than 20 years' delay since Canada and the United States first decided on the job in 1932.



Although the present intention is that Ontario and New York do the power phase and Canada the seaway phase, supporters of American participation in the seaway plan to introduce legislation at the next session of Congress, opening Jan. 6, to bring the United States back into the seaway picture.

In his address to the Canadian Parliament at Ottawa President Eisenhower said he hoped U.S. co-operation would be authorized by Congress at its coming session.

Joint development and use of the waterway is inevitable, the President said. "With you, I consider this measure a vital addition to our economic and national security."

TO OPEN BOTTLENECK—On the present Great Lakes inland water route freighters such as these moored for the night on the Cornwall canal often find themselves bottlenecked due to the inadequate capacity of the canal system. Under the St. Lawrence seaway and power project, which may begin next year, larger and deeper canals will accommodate more shipping.—(CP Photo)

IMPORTANT SEAWAY LINK—The Welland canal, between Lake Ontario and Lake Erie, is one of the most important links in the inland water route linking cities of mid-western Canada and the United States with eastern ports. It will assume even greater importance in the $700,000,000 St. Lawrence seaway and power project which may begin next year.—(CP from National Film Board.)

Stairway Winders Opposed In Building Standards

QUESTION: We plan to build next spring and have in mind a plan which uses winders in the stairway. It seems to me that very few of totady's house plans use winders and we are wondering if they are considered too much of an undesirable feature. Would you give us your ideas on their use?

ANSWER: From a safety angle, of course, winders are certainly not desirable but do allow compact stairway arrangement in certain plans. While not entirely disallowed in National Housing Act built homes, their use is frowned upon. The following is taken from "Building Standards" for N.H.A. built homes: "Winders should not be employed on any stairways. Where winders cannot be avoided, their use will be permitted on one ninety degree turn on a stair connecting two floors and shall consist of two angled rises with three winding treads. Handrails shall be provided on both sides of stair wells where winders occur. Minimum distance between handrails 2'10".

INTERIOR PAINTING

QUESTION: We recently moved into a house in a newly opened up subdivision of N.H.A. built homes. The only thing we don't like is the quality of the interior painting—which we think is downright terrible! Much of the trim appears to have received only a very thickly applied prime coat. Just what is required is this connection in an NHA-built home?

ANSWER: . There's no reason why interior painting shouldn't be entirely satisfactory—by all means get after your builder about it. Only an extremely few builders overlook the value of a good reputation—and we feel sure you'll get satisfaction if you approach him without too much of a chip on your shoulder. Remember, he, in turn, may have his own problems with painting sub contractors.

Here are the requirements for interior painting as outlined in "Building Standards" for NHA built homes:

(a) Wood panelling, trim, sash and doors including tops and bottoms shall be finished.

(b) Nail holes, cracks and similar defects shall be puttied after prime coating.

(c) If painted: minimum acceptable, one prime coat and two finish coats; if open grain wood, apply one coat filler before painting.

(d) If stained: stain and one coat of varnish; or stain and one coat of wax. If smooth finish is desired on open grain wood use filler after staining.

(e) If natural wood finish: two coats varnish; or two coats wax; or one coat varnish and one coat wax; or other approved finish applied in accordance with the manufacturer's directions.

SEPTIC TANKS

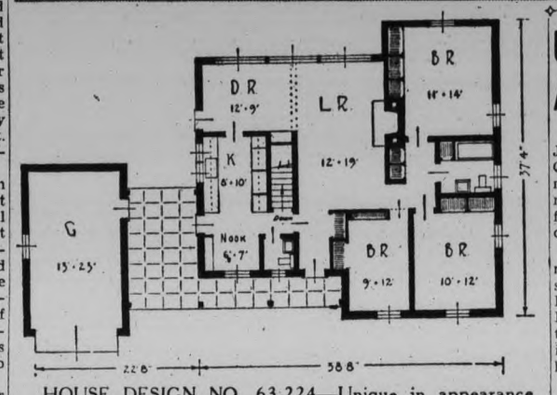
QUESTION: We have been considering building in an area without sanitary sewers—but have been held back by the thought of having to use a septic tank. Now, however, we find that this district is expected to have sanitary sewers within the next six to eight years. What I should like to know—if we built now and installed a septic tank—is it likely that the tank would need cleaning out before say six years? This is one job that I'd hate to ever have to have done.

ANSWER: Frequency of cleaning depends on the size of the tank, the flow of sewage to it, and the method and conditions of disposal of the tank overflow.

A one-chamber tanks need more frequent cleaning than a two-chamber tank. A two-chamber tank of adequate size should not need cleaning more frequently than once in 10 or 12 years.

GYPROC WALLBOARD

QUESTION: Gyproc wallboard was used for the interior walls of several of the houses on our street and almost without exception the results have been very satisfactory. However, in our own case the contractor definitely left something to be desired in that jointing and nail-hole depressions are still quite evident. We are planning to re-paint the interior of the house soon and wonder if it would be possible to reduce the degree to which the above effects are evident by perhaps sanding high spots and filling depressions with joint filler before painting.



ANSWER: Just so long as the paint over the joints and nail heads is clean, it is quite feasible to apply further coats of Gyproc joint filler. It may be advisable to go over the surface with fine sandpaper first.

REGISTERS FOR FORCED AIR

QUESTION: We are planning to replace our gravity type heating system with forced air. Our present registers were obviously designed twenty years or more ago—will it be necessary to have these replaced?

ANSWER: To answer this, we'll quote from a recent bulletin of the Warm Air Heating Association —"If the existing gravity warm air supply openings are to be used as forced air supplies, the open-face gravity register should be replaced with bar type registers in order to deflect and diffuse the forced air. The face bars of the register should be set for downward deflection of the air unless the register is located under a window in which case the air should be delivered upward. This is particularly true in any room where a person is likely to be sitting near a supply opening."

HOUSE DESIGN NO. 63-224—Unique in appearance with an impressive overhanging roof shielding the front porch this is an exceedingly well planned and attractive home. Entering the living room through the vestibule you will experience a real "lift"—because of the unusual and pleasantly arranged interior. The huge living-dining area looks out into the back yard through a wall of windows. Seldom found in a medium sized home is the third bedroom or den and the extra lavatory. Consider the handy breakfast nook opposite the streamlined kitchen and the two built-in china cabinets. Plans include a full basement. Contains 1,304 square feet—plus 203 square feet for the garage. House in York Mills, Ont. Blueprints and material lists available at reasonable charge from Home Building in Canada, 2842 Bloor St. W., Toronto.

Repair Village Clock WI Urges Council

MARMORA (ENS)—The Women's Institute met at the home of the president, Mrs. M. Kowie, who was in the chair.

A paper on agriculture and Canadian industries was read by Mrs. Percy Gray. A paper on "the book of remembrance" was read by Mrs. Ralph Neal.

The secretary was asked to write the village council requesting that the clock at the memorial hall be made to function again. It was decided also to approach the Marmora Agricultural Society with regard to the type of material they wish their proposed new banner to be made of.

Mrs. L. R. Green gave the report of the recent area convention in Belleville. Mrs. R. E. Neal gave a humorous reading prepared by the president.

Springbrook Women's Institute are to be invited to a special meeting in the Masonic hall on the afternoon of January 18, when a speaker from the department is to speak on "What to wear."

The meeting closed with the national anthem. Refreshments were served.

The December meeting will be at the home of Mrs. F. R. Wells.

Urges Police Fight Any Nationalization

KINGSTON (CP) — Professor J. A. Corry, vice-principal of Queen's University said Thursday night police chiefs must take some responsibility in fighting any efforts at nationalization of Canada's police forces.

In an address to the second annual convention of the Chief Constables Association of ontario, Professor Corry said "nothing in Europe can lead us to believe that the system of central jurisdiction is half as good as what we now have."

W. M. Nickle, Progressive Conservative member of the legislature for Kingston, said he was "gravely disturbed" at the increase in crime in the province and in the country.

"Incarceration is not the remedy," he said. "Maybe probation or a better system of parole could halt this serious . . . situation."

Using Liquids In Aerosol Dispensers

BY MR. FIX (NEA)

To some observers the Push-Button Age and the Gadget Era are synonymous. But as the "do-it-yourself" enthusiasts see it, most push-button aids recently developed for their use are not only pretty generally worthwhile, they are also far from being mere "gadgets."

Among them are the hand-held pressurized containers that are best known in the role of spray-paint dispensers. Now, however, practically every liquid this side of water has been marketed in these small spray-coaters. Who knows? Packaged shower baths may be next.

Called aerosol produced, their contents range from protective coatings to lubricants and insect sprays. We'll skip paints for the moment and mention a few other aerosol products.

One is a plastic compound which deposits a thin, tough film of waterproof plastic on almost any type of surface. It is suggested for use on paintings, small areas of wallpaper and other surfaces where transparent, dirt-resistant coverings are desirable.

Water repellents in aerosol containers are recommended for re-waterproofing "tired" old raincoats. They are extra protection for work shoes, too.

Pentrating oils or graphite compounds are also packaged in the push-button containers for lubricating machinery and tools. They are ideal for lubricating in spots where oil-can spouts won't reach, as well as for depositing thin coatings of lubricant over large areas.

Aerosol rust-preventing sprays are an aid in keeping tools like new.

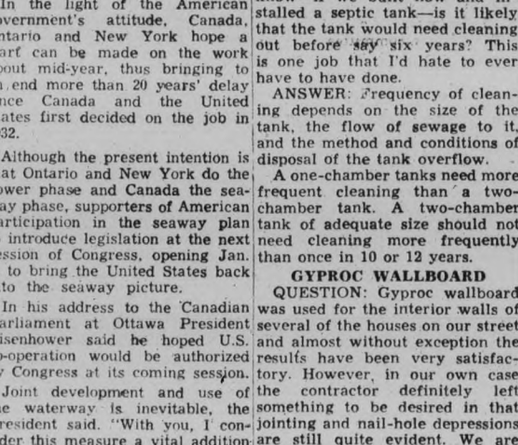
Aerosol ignition sprays overcome effects of dampness on electrical equipment, their manufacturers claim. They cover wire splices, spark plugs, and other electrical connections with a coating of moisture-resistant, insulating plastic at the flick of a finger.

Belt dressings for power tools are now aerosol-dispensed. These prevent belt slippage, and add life to leather or fabric belts, it as said.

There is also an impressive array of aerosol products for glass cleaning, dry cleaning, moth-proofing, room deodorizing and waxing. There are others for use as hand cleaners and dust-mop sprays.

To get back to painting with aerosol sprays, there are at least a score of manufacturers who offer a wide range of colors in aerosol paints and enamels. But the manufacturers themselves are the first to caution that these are not the perfect solution to ALL paint problems.

Aeroosls are fine for spray-painting such things as wicker furniture and radiators, which have areas hard to reach with a brush. But they are neither economical nor practical for large, unbroken expanses.



There is one more thing to caution against. During use of the containers tiny particles of paint float in the air and are carried by drafts to places where they aren't wanted, even to another room where they may settle on furniture. So it is best to work with them in a basement, well-ventilated room or outdoors.

Q.—How should leather automobile seats be cleaned?

A.—Use a damp, not wet, cloth and mild soap. Rub surface of leather briskly. Follow with a moist cloth, without soap. Rub dry with a clean, soft cloth.

CITY OF THE FUTURE?—When the iron-mining township of Atikokan, in northwestern Ontario, looks into the future, it sees itself as a city. In the 10 years since the huge development began at nearby Steep Rock iron mines, the population has risen from 300 to more than 4,500. An annual payroll of $4,500,000 at the mine still is growing and the community is keeping pace. This is an aerial view showing the railway line and the original buildings in the foreground. Annual Payroll $4,500,000 At Steep Rock Iron Mine

By DAVE STOCKAND
Canadian Press Staff Writer

ATIKOKAN, Ont. (CP)—When the iron-mining township of Atikokan looks into the future, which is often, it sees itself as a city.

In the 10 years since the iron slapped this northwestern Ontario community from its slumber as a railway hamlet the population has spiralled from 300 to more than 4,500, and Atikokan says this is just a start.

Streets are unpaved and all the plumbing hasn't been brought indoors yet; but the iron ore they're digging from the bottom of Steep Rock lake, four miles away, means an annual payroll of $4,500,000.

At least that is what the earnings in wages total under present production, with 1,250,000 tons of ore shipped this season by Steep Rock Iron Mines Ltd.

BIG WORKING FORCE

Mining that much iron ore took more than 1,000 workers. Under plans mapped by Steep Rock and Caland Ore Co. Ltd., Canadian subsidiary of Inland Steel of Chicago, the need for men will shoot upward.

By 1958 Steep Rock plans to boost its annual haul to 5,500,000 tons, and says the need will be for 2,500 workers. The Caland mine, expected to take out its first ore in 1960, will produce 3,000,000 tons a year when fully developed.

Atikokan's business picture for the last year is described by Neil Edmonstone, Steep Rock secretary treasurer, as fairly static.

"But," he says, "with the Inland arrival I think there will be another upsurge in the mercantile development of the town."

Figures aside, say the people of Atikokan, it's a good place to live.

TOP BIRTH RATE

As for the needs of Atikokan—pavement is just one of many—they multiply as the population increases. And townsfolk boast that Atikokan had Canada's highest birth rate last year and talk of a population of 16,000 in the early 1960s.

Atikokan is turning miners into merchants. Gordon Edwards, a Steep Rock man and president of the Atikokan Chamber of Commerce, says "it wouldn't be exaggerating" to put at approximately 15 the number of men who have gone into business for themselves after starting out at the mine.

He tells of one man who came here with a packsack full of costume jewelry. Not long after that he threw up a shack, first business establishment, and today owns a prosperous hardware store.

Of Atikokan Mr. Edwards says: "Sure, it's a shoddy looking place, but it won't be a few years from now. There isn't a thing you've got in the city that we aren't going to need here."

There are tarpaper-covered shanties in Atikokan. There are also modern bungalows. Built by Steep Rock in conjunction with Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, they rent to mine workers at a top of $62.50 a month. A new sub-division carries the posh name of "Dunbar Heights."

DIVISIONAL POINT

Atikokan got its first boost when it became a Canadian Northern Railway terminal point away back in 1900. It became a township after nine years under the wing of the Ontario overnment as an improvement district.

While so classed the community was governed by a board of trustees appointed by the lieutenant-governor-in-council.

Nov. 30, however, self government begins with the township's first election day. A reeve and four councillors will be chosen.

Just about that time citizens will mark the official opening of the first road link with Fort William and Port Arthur. Next, Atikokan will press for a road westward to the pulp and paper town of Fort Frances.

Atikokan is becoming a township instead of a town for financial reasons: If it became a town, the mine would be outside the taxation district and Atikokan wouldn't be eligible for a share of the mining tax collected by the Ontario government.

Rout Terrorists In Running Battle

NAIROBI, Kenya (Reuters) — British security forces today killed 23 Mau Mau terrorists and captured 35 in a 10-hour battle with two heavily-armed gangs southwest of Nyeri, capital of the colony's central province.

Gen. Sir George Erskine's headquarters here reported the running battle developed soon after dawn between the anti-white Mau Mau gangs and a combined security force of about 300.

The battle raged over a wide area of the country to the west and south of Nyeri. The security force consisted of British soldiers, Kenya police, police reservists and African home guards.

Church Paper Supports Duke's Speech

LONDON (Reuters)—A church newspaper has supported the right of the Duke of Edinburgh to express his views on controversial topics and said it finds no reason why he should have to act like "a Royal moron."

British Weekly, a 67-year-old liberal religious journal, was replying to criticism of a speech made by the duke two weeks ago. Several Socialist papers said his praise of military service as a "character-building experience" violated the traditional neutrality of the Royal Family on political issues.

MAN WITH OPINIONS

British Weekly said "We look forward to Prince Philip's next venture in public speaking." Its editorial, headed "Philip the Silent?" added: "We have a prince who has opinions, the intelligence to justify them and the ability to express them.

"He is not a Royal moron, and there is no reason in the world why he should be expected to behave like one.

"Prince Philip would have been a major asset in the House of Commons, where we really have some inarticulate nonentities whose inarticulateness is not constitutionally enforced."

A ROMAN HOLIDAY ATMOSPHERE is created by a ring of press photographers and members of the United States Senate Internal Security Subcommittee as they meet in Washington, D.C., for a public inquiry into the Harry Dexter White case. U.S. Attorney-General Herbert Brownell, seated at the head of the table, left, made public a letter written by J. Edgar Hoover, Director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, which claimed that a "high placed" Canadian Government source discussed White's loyalty to the U.S. Government. Answering the letter in the House of Commons, Prime Minister St. Luarent said that inquiries to date have disclosed no trace of any such communication by a Canadian official.

Penniless German Baroness Charges U.S. Mistreatment

VANCOUVER (CP) —An almost penniless German baroness, freed by immigration authorities in Los Angeles, arrived here by plane Thursday charging she had been mistreated by United States immigration authorities.

Baroness Magdalena von Redwitz, 45, and her 22-year-old son, Eckenbert, said in an interview they had only $1.50 between them.

The baroness, member of one of Germany's most famous prewar families, likened the U. S. immigration detention station at San Pedro, Calif., to a Nazi concentration camp. She had been held by U. S. immigration authorities since Nov. 9 on a charge of illegal entry.

She was freed Wednesday and given 10 days to leave the country.

The baroness entered the U. S. from Mexico. She said she was on her way to visit her son in Hollywood.

LIVED IN ONTARIO

The baroness said her family owned a 100-room castle near Dresden, Germany and lost about everything in the war. She emigrated to Canada in 1951.

A legal resident of Canada, she lived in Toronto and Kitchener.

She obtained a travel permit in October to visit friends in Mexico. On her return she was taken off a bus and held by immigration authorities at San Pedro. She had failed to obtain a permit for the return trip.

The baroness said she married Baron von Redwitz in 1930 and divorced him in Dresden in 1932.

Whitelock, medical health officer, said precautions have been taken to prevent the spread of the disease.

"The difficulty is in running down the source," he said.

Await Arrival In Texas Of Three Whooping Cranes

By WILF CHISLETT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

REGINA (CP)—Wildlife officials here await word of the arrival in Texas of three whooping cranes seen early in November in Saskatchewan while migrating from northern breeding grounds.

If they arrive safely, the three laggards of the little colony's fall migration will bring the known whooping crane population to 24, three more than a year ago.

Late in October, from somewhere in the vast northern marshlands, most of the birds in the flock started to wing their way south to the National Wildlife Refuge at Aransas, Texas. Twenty-one birds, including three young were counted at the sanctuary in November.

ENCOURAGING SIGN

Arrival of the slow starters would mean the first increase in the number of the birds which has declined rapidly during the present century. Four years ago there were 34.

Once they were said to have darkened the skies in their migrations and as late as 1865 were reported in great numbers between the open plains from the Red river to the Rockies.

Six of the cranes—daddy long-legs of North American birds—were sighted in Saskatchewan this fall, the last three Nov. 5 at Herbert, 125 miles west of Regina.

Fred Bard, director of the Saskatchewan Museum of Natural History, and two field workers caught up with the birds before they left the area and took photographs. Bard said getting the pictures was "a one-in-a-million chance."

Bard said the cranes apparently were resting on their trip south, about two weeks late. He said one of them appeared to have some ailment and the other two were acting as escorts.

The museum in the last 14 years has joined with United States ornithologists in trying to find some way of stopping the whoopers' annual decrease.

HUNTERS WARNED

Literature has been sent throughout the province asking information on the birds in their 1,500-mile flight south. Warnings are issued repeatedly to hunters not to fire on the cranes.

Few nimrods, believed the main cause of the high mortality rate, can resist the temptation of lining their sights against a bird that is four feet tall and has a wingspread of more than seven feet.

The whooper flock invariably is reduced on its trips north and south. Nine were lost in 1950, 11 the next year and six in 1952.

Bard said it probably will depend on the hunter just when the crane will become extinct. The 57 young which returned from Canadian breeding grounds since 1939 indicate the birds will increase if left unmolested.

ABANDON SEARCH

He said no new searches are planned for the whooper's nesting place, believed somewhere in a broad expanse stretching from east-central Alberta to west-central Manitoba and probably extending far into the northwest territories. Searches in recent years have been unsuccessful.

Lahrman of the Saskatchewan Museum of Natural History, shows one of the only 24 known alive, in the Herbert district 125 miles west of Regina. Barfoot To Lay Cornerstone For Building

TORONTO (CP) — The cornerstone of a new $225,000 building for the General Synod of the Church of England in Canada will be laid here next Wednesday by Archbishop W. F. Barfoot of Edmonton, Primate of All Canada.

Church officials from many parts of Canada will attend ceremonies at the site on Jarvis street near Bloor street, in midtown Toronto.

The three-storey, red brick building to be constructed is scheduled for occupancy next spring. It will be built beside the present Canadian headquarters of the church, used for that purpose since 1922.

Among those attending ceremonies will be bishops G. P. Gower of New Westminster, G. N. Luxton of London, Ont., K. E. Evans of Kingston, R. Jefferson of Ottawa, John Dixon of Montreal, and Archbishop P. Carrington of Quebec.

Alibi Fails Found Guilty Of Robbery

COBOURG (ENS) — George Hutching of Toronto, age 23, was found guilty in police court Friday on a charge of robbery with violence.

He was charged with assaulting 52 year old Frank Eberts of Cobourg on November 7, following a drinking party, and stealing $15.

Eberts said that he went to where Hutching was rooming on an invitation to get a drink and there was hit over the head with a coal oil lamp, threatened with a knife and robbed.

Hutching last week explained that the money found on him when arrested, did not belong to Eberts but had been set to him by Walter Van Luven of Toronto, and received in the mail on the morning of November 7.

Following last week's adjournment, the crown produced Van Luven in court Friday. Van Luven said that he had seen the accused in Toronto late on the night of November 7 but had not been talking to him and had not loaned him any money.

"That disposes of his alibi," commented Crown Attorney Harry Deyman. "I think that a conviction should be registered in this case," he added.

Hutching's record showed convictions for theft at Port Arthur and Montreal in 1948, car theft at Hull in 1949 and robbery at Toronto in 1950.

"It is quite obvious that your attempt to establish an alibi has failed and you have tried to deceive the court. I am finding you guilty and remanding you until Monday for sentence," said Magistrate R. B. Baxter.

Decide 1940 'Normal' Year For Basis Of Assessment

In an editorial published November 12, the Toronto Globe and Mail commented on the controversy over the variations in assessment between Toronto and its suburban municipalities — a controversy which has grown in intensity as the assessment notices have been delivered to property-owners.

"Some of the controversy is ill-founded," the Globe and Mail stated, "as no average property owner has the technical knowledge to compare the very complex group of factors taken into account in making an assessment."

If this were strictly true, the property owner might well argue that they had no way of judging the fairness of his assessment. So let's examine the assessment methods suggested by the manual of assessment values issued by the province in 1950.

NORMAL VALUE?

The first problem posed by the 1946 amendment to the Assessment Act is the meaning of "normal value." Are today's rents and prices to be taken as the standard? Obviously not. Even a minor depression is apt to cause a drop in real estate values.

The assessment manual takes normal values to be those prevailing in "the average year chosen from a period of the so-called good years and bad years." With no remarkable drop in prices since the end of the Second World War, it's pretty difficult to select a recent "bad" year. Consequently, the year generally chosen has been 1940, and this was the case in the re-assessment of Peterborough.

(Note: This is the third of a series of articles on the city's re-assessment by Mr. Calder, who is The Examiner's city hall reporter.)

There are arguments in favor of using more up-to-date values for assessment purposes. In some communities, sales values have risen as much as 300 per cent and building costs generally have risen about 200 per cent at a conservative estimate over 1940 values. But it would take a major economic depression to drive values below the 1940 level. So the use of 1940 values at least ensures that the actual value of property is unlikely to fall below the amount of its assessment.

What really matters is that all property should be assessed according to the same scale of values in order that there will be an equitable distribution of the burden of municipal taxes.

What about "the very complex group of factors taken into account in making an assessment," however?

As explained in the second article of this series, the Assessment Act requires that, in assessing property, consideration is to be given to its present use, location, cost of replacement, normal rental value, normal sale value and any other circumstances affecting its value.

Now, when the assessment branch of the Department of Municipal Affairs issued its handbook of assessment values, it stated: "This manual is based on the principle . . . that the rent of any property will be governed by such considerations as the present use and location."

EARNING CAPACITY

In other words, the earning capacity of property, regardless of whether it is rented or not, depends on those factors which the Assessment Act requires should be considered in setting the assessment.

Consequently, when assessing a property, the assessor, besides determining the cost of replacing it, determines its rental value, according to 1940 standards.

In order to apply this evaluation to his ultimate assessment figure, the assessor "capitalizes" it. When a real estate investor buys a property to rent it to someone else, if its rental value is not such that he will get his original investment back within a certain time, the investment is not worth it. According to the assessment manual, the period within which this return should be realized is 10 years for residential property and seven years for farm property.

Accordingly, the amount of the annual rental value is multiplied 10 times in the case of residential property, 12 times in the case of commercial property and seven times in the case of farm property. The result is said to be the economic value of the property.

This gives the assessor two values. By adding the value of the land to the replacement cost of the building, he is able to ascertain the basic cost of the property. This sum is added to the capitalized rent and the result is divided by two. This figure is the assessed value of the property.

There are some exceptions to this general rule. These, and the method of arriving at the replacement cost, will be discussed subsequently.

Mountain Troops Rescue 15 Workmen

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)— Lebanese army sources said today that mountain troops have rescued 15 workmen reported missing after a heavy snowstorm in the Hermal mountains. The men, repairing roads through the heights, had taken refuge in a cave.

Seventeen goatherds and shepherd girls, also reported missing during the storm, were located Friday. They were found huddled in a cave with snow six feet deep outside.

Snow continued to fall today over the mountain roads, blocking traffic.

Snow in November is unprecedented in this area.

"World-Beater" Claim By Russians

LONDON (AP) — The Russians laid claim today to being first in the field with a whole range of modern war weapons, including rockets, quick-firing cannon and mine-throwers.

Moscow radio also quoted Col.-Gen. Fomin, identified as a Soviet artillery commander, as saying that the Russians also invented rifled gun barrels 200 years before anyone else and were the first to use breech-loading cannon.

By the beginning of the Second World War, he added, Soviet artillery was "superior in fighting and technical qualities to artillery of any other country in the world."

Moscow radio claimed Friday that Russia helped Britain beat the Spanish Armada in 1588 by contributing "quality rigging to the Royal Navy at low cost."

120 Bottles Of Wine Bought In 7 Weeks

LINDSAY (ENS) — Stanley Herron, Emily township, was fined $100 and costs of $11 in police court here Friday when he was convicted of having liquor illegally, after a charge of keeping for sale, was dismissed by magistrate E. A. Gee.

According to corporal A. A. Gaudry of Peterborough, in charge of the investigation, the accused and his wife, had purchased 120 bottles of wine in seven weeks between May 22 and August 22.

On August 22, their home was raided and a full case of wine was found by the officers. The charge on which Herron was convicted was that he had liquor "bought otherwise than on his own permit." The case of wine an exhibit in the case was confiscated. Forfeit for the fine was set at 30 days in jail. Herron was defended by Gordon Farquharson of Peterborough.

Ex-Prime Minister Tells Tale Of Woe

NEW DELHI (AP)—Cheddi Jagan, deposed leftist prime minister of British Guiana, laid his dispute with Britain before Prime Minister Nehru today in a 45-minute interview.

Accompanied by his former education minister, L. F. S. Burnham, Jagan called at Nehru's office in the foreign ministry. Although there was no immediate reaction from the Indian prime minister, he previously had said India was 'in no position to give practical aid."

Jagan, who is of Indian descent, and Burnham arrived in New Delhi Friday night with the announced intention of asking the Indian government to take their case to the United Nations. The attitude of Nehru's administration toward the former British Guiana officials has been cool, and no officials were on hand to greet them.

Two Injured At Mine

MARMORA (ENS)—Two minor accidents occurred at the Bethlehem mine on Friday afternoon.

Both were treated at the office of Dr. H. G. Parkin and were not admitted to hospital.

Mark St. Congregation Men Meet To Form Association

Initial steps toward the formation of a Mark Street United Church men's association were taken Friday night in the form of an organizational dinner in the church hall.

Special speaker at the meeting was Ralph Young, secretary of the National Committee of United Church Men.

In his address to a group of approximately 55 men, Mr. Young outlined the work of other church men's groups in Canada and described the growing men's movement as "something very real, vital and strong . . ."

The speaker gave five aims of the 533 local church men's group: "To grow in our knowledge and love of Christ in our devotion to His way for us; to increase our understanding of, and loyalty to, the church and its work; to develop an effective program of Christian service; to give encouragement and assistance to work among the youth of the church and community; and to be increasingly aware of our responsibility for Christian witness and church extension."

A nominating committee was selected following Mr. Young's address which will submit a slate of officers for approval at the next meeting. Organizer Ernest Lillico acted as chairman.

Biggest Talkie Upset In 25 Years

By HUBBARD KEAVY

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — In a nutshell, here's what's happening in Hollywood today: mediocrity is getting the boot.

It is tragic news to many of the people who make movies. But in the end the movie fan will benefit.

The revolution that has struck Hollywood makes the talkie upset of 25 years ago seem like a picnic.

The main causes of Hollywood's new look are:

1. Too many poor pictures that broke the movie-going habit.
2. Competition from television, night sports, better cars.
3. Misleading film advertising.

NOT WASHED UP

Does this mean Hollywood is washed upu Definitely not, say thoughtful veterans as Sam Goldwyn, Jean Hersholt, Walt Disney and Hal Roach. It is the end of wonderful era, but movieland's future—now that it is approaching maturity—is greater than ever.

Hollywood figured if one movie made one million, 50 would make 50 million. And, by golly, it was right. The big studios ground out a picture a week. Some of these made many millions.

Not so long ago, Hollywood felt the vein of gold would never play out. Today a lot of folks are wondering what hit them.

A more discerning public, with other forms of entertainment to take their time and money, gave Hollywood the answer. It said, by staying away from B pictures, that it didn't want any more such tripe. Misleading advertising, which called too many films the greatest ever produced, contributed to the debacle.

Movies turned out on a production line like automobiles are only a grim memory now. Each major studio will make only about a dozen films this year, and perhaps fewer in succeeding years.

Peterborough Men Charged In Cobourg

COBOURG (ENS)—Adjournment was granted Friday in the case of Thomas Tripp of Peterborough, charged with driving while impaired at Cavan township on November 13. He was also charged with having liquor in an illegal place and pleaded guilty. Disposition of this charge was also laid over.

His companion, Leo Buck of Peterborough, pleaded guilty to having liquor in an illegal place and paid a fine of $10 and costs.

Policewomen Trap 2 Vice Racketeers

NEW YORK (AP)—Five policewomen teamed up to trap two men accused of posing as television executives as a springboard for luring girls into vice.

Police said numerous complaints had come from young women about two men who envisioned big TV careers for them, with jobs paying up to $600 weekly, if only they would "co-operate" concerning improper proposals. The girls would not file formal charges because they feared the publicity.

A team of five policewomen were assigned to the case with the leader, policewoman Dorothy McLeod, posing as a girl seeking a TV career.

Jacob L. Shlimowitz, 34, and Joseph Brafman, 31, were arrested and charged with procuring for purposes of prostitution.

East Germans Hunt For Spies

BERLIN (AP) — East German secret police have extended their spy hunt to the Russian-operated uranium mines in Saxony, source of raw material for Soviet atomic bomb production, the Communist press disclosed today.

Neues Deutschland, official newspaper of the ruling Socialist Unity (Communist) party, reported that secret police chief Ernst Wollweber announced the arrest of several of "Western agents" at a workers meeting in Aue, centre of the uranium region.

Wollweber said the supervisor of a storehouse at Johanngeorgenstadt, named Schnapp, gathered information on production, installations and police guard units at the uranium mines for a Western espionage service. He added that others had been caught doing the same thing.

Mossadegh Finds Humour In Treason Trial

By DON SCHWIND

TEHRAN (AP)—Ex - premier Mohammed Mossadegh, facing an army court-martial on treason charges, laughed aside a prosecution suggestion today that he confess alleged past misdeeds.

The suggestion was made by chief prosecutor Brig. Hossein Azemodeh at the opening of the 12th session in the trial of the former dictator. He is accused of attempting to overthrow Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi, defying royal decrees and illegally dissolving the lower house of Parliament.

"I hope this man one day will rise and confess," Azemodeh told the court. The 73-year-old Mossadegh laughed scornfully and replied: "Oh, yes."

MOSSADEGH SARCASTIC

"If you stand up and confess to your past deeds, the first person to stand up and sacrifice himself for you will be me," the prosecutor declared.

Mossadegh's reply was an ironic "God help you."

The interchange came as Azemodeh continued to read the indictment against the former premier. Court sources said he plans to take another three or four days in reading the charges and expanding on them.

Azemodeh previously had asked the five-man military tribunal to send Mossadegh to the gallows.

Reliable Iranian sources believe that if Mossadegh is condemned to death, the shah will commute the sentence and exile him to some remote village.

Cross Placed In Cathedral

GLOUCESTER, Eng. (Reuters) A cross of Korean grey stone, carved in captivity by Lt.-Col. James Carne VC, commanding officer of the "Glorious Gloucesters" during the Imjin river battle, was placed in the cathedral here today.

It was given a permanent resting place in the cathedral during a thanksgiving service which began a day of celebration in the city to celebrate the battalion's return home.

More than 300 men of the battalion paraded through crowded streets before the service. Many of them had spent two years of captivity in prisoner-of-war camps in North Korea. Almost 600 Gloucesters were casualties after their epic three-day stand in April, 1951, when they blunted a fierce Communist attack and held open the escape route for the United Nations 1st Corps.

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The Lebanese court of justice today sentenced Mohammed el Sheikh, 23 - year - old confessed killer of former finance minister Mohammed Abboud, to be hanged.

Abboyd's rival in last summer's parliamentary elections, Soleiman Elali, was sentenced to 10 years in prison, and his brother, Malek Elali, received a 20-year sentence.

The Efali brothers were accused of inciting El Sheikh to the murder. El Shiekh's girl friend, Leila Hussein, was sentenced to 18 months detention for failure to report to the police her lover's plans.

El Sheikh shot Abboud last July in front of the residence of the president of the republic in Beirut. He denied that the Elali brothers incited him.

French Communist Leader Said Ill

NICE (AP) — Unconfirmed rumors circulated on the Riviere today that Maurice Thorez, head of the French Communist party, had suffered a second paralytic stroke. Thorez has been vacationing at a closely-guarded villa near Cannes.

Communist party officials refused to make any kind of statement on the rumors. Reporters who went to the villa could see no signs of any unusual activity.

Thorez was stricken in October, 1950, and later went to Moscow for treatment which lasted two years. He has lost the use of one arm.

Sultana The Circus Heroine Saves Tamer Only To Die At Claw Of Revengeful Roger

ACQUI, Italy (Reuters) — Sultana, a circus lioness who four days ago saved an Italian tamer from being mauled by a tiger, was killed by the tiger Friday night after a furious fight in their cage.

Last Monday, lion tamer Leonida Casagelli was putting three lionesses and three tigers through their paces when he slipped and fell.

Roger, a two-year-old tiger, flew at him with bared fangs and claws —and found Sultana astride the tamer's body, shielding him from attack. As Roger hesitated, Sultana pounced and hurled the tiger to the ground.

The tamer jumped to his feet and whipped the rebellious Roger back to its stand.

Friday night, the circus was awakened by growls from the animal cage. Men and women hurried to it and found Sultana feebly defending herself with her last breath from the vicious attacks of the tiger.

By the time the lion tamer had subdued Roger, Sultana was dead.

Socialist Stages Filibuster In U.K. House

LONDON (Reuters) — Socialist Harold Lever staged a filibuster in the House of Commons Friday, forcing adjournment of a debate on a government bill.

He spoke for two hours, 17 minutes—the longest speech by a back bencher in living memory and the first serious filibuster attempted in the Commons since the lively days of the Irish Home Rule bill a half-century ago.

Lawyer Lever was speaking against a bill providing for a government loan to the British motion picture industry.

TALKS OUT DEBATE

He "talked out" the debate on the bill's second reading by talking to the scheduled end of the debate. The entire debate on the second reading now will have to be repeated at a later date.

Lever got some opposition from fellow Labor members who wanted to speak, and from the Speaker, who reminded him about a parliamentary rule against "tedious repetition."

But he carried on gamely.

At one point, he spent three minutes apologizing for the amount of time he was taking.

DUDE RANCHERS as seen this afternoon at the Canadian Ice Fantasy of 1954 presented at the civic arena. This pair of clowns David Pencosky and Bob Clossin stole the show. The show consisting of eight production numbers and 20 acts will be repeated again this evening.

Stars Annoyed At Tempest Over Free Show

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The city fathers of Los Angeles aroused a teapot tempest over their claims that the show for the king and queen of Greece was in bad taste. It was the last straw for many performers who have donated their services for nothing.

Many of these stars have long given their talents to entertain visiting royalty, film executives, sales conventions, beauty contests and other such events. When they work for free and then get criticized, the performers naturally are peeved.

"Everyone else who works those affairs gets paid," argued one top performer. "the doormen, waiters, bus boys and musicians get their money. The entertainers get nothing but abuse. It ain't right."

It's going to be increasingly hard to obtain stars for any free shows but the most legitimate of charities.

Actually both sides were in the wrong in the Greek controversy. The politicos were ungrateful for all that free talent. And some of the performers failed to remember that the best entertainment is clean entertainment.

THE BIG SHOW

The fan mag photographers tossed a dandy ball for which dozens of stars gladly paid $30 a couple. The players realize that these boys can be their best friends or worst enemies.

Such get-ups you have ever seen. Jeffrey Hunter and Barbara Rush came as a couple of ghouls from a Charles Addams cartoon. Vera-ellen, in an obvious plug for "White Christmas," was attired in a white bathing suit bedecked with dozens of christmas balls. She even had Christmas tree bulbs and was all lit up. Humphrey Bogart arrived late, disguised as Humphrey Bogart.

Joan Crawford wore a costume from her latest picture, natch, and Robert Cummings was scarcely recognizable as a leopard, whiskers and all. Marie Wilson, who cannot be disguised, was wearing a low-cut gown. Tony Curtis and Janet Leigh, who perhaps are angling for the forthcoming picture, came as Paris and Helen of Troy.

Lots of pictures were taken, making everyone very happy.

REPORT CHIANG'S ENTIRE CABINET RESIGNS—High official sources say that the entire cabinet of Chiang Kai-shek have submitted their resignations as a result of an internal dispute over foreign policy. Foreign Minister George Yeh (left) and Premier Chen Cheng (centre) have denied the reports. Chiang is reported to have accepted the resignation of his secretary and trusted adviser, Dr. Wang Chi-chien (right), who had withheld the news of the mass resignations from him.

Veteran U.K. Politician Amery 80 Years

LONDON (CP) — Leopold S. Amery, "fiery particle" of British politics for some 50 years, celebrates his 80th birthday Sunday, still plugging the same theme of Commonwealth solidarity.

Amery, a short, lively man, has had an imperial chip on his shoulder through a career roughly parallel in time with that of an old schoolmate—Sir Winston Churchill.

He has held five government portfolios, including State Secretary for India and Burma, and has rivalled Canadian - born Lord Beaverbrook in passionate pleading of Empire causes.

Today Amery, who has developed many links with Canada during eight trips across the Atlantic, feels that the Dominion should "insulate" itself from the United States by accepting sterling for Canadian products.

"I have always felt," he said in an interview, "that Canada should develop east-west rather than continental trade."

WRITING MEMOIRS

Amery's birthday this week-end coincides with publication of the second volume of his memoirs, "My Political Life." Now busy with the third volume in the large library of his old Eton Square home, he recalls with relish his first brush with Churchill when both were students at Harrow.

Amery was pushed into the school pool by the younger pupil, then a 15-year-old "red - haired, freckle - faced boy." Amery promptly climbed out of the water and tossed the future prime minister in.

"I taught Winston respect for authority," he said. "He later apologized."

DEVELOPED FRIENDSHIPS

Amery first visited Canada in 1905. During successive visits he developed friendships with almost every Canadian statesman from Sir Wilfrid Laurier to William Lyon Mackenzie King. In 1910 he married Florence Greenwood of Whitby, Ont., then living in London. When their son, Julian, now a Conservative member of Parliament, was born, the godfather was Sir Robert Borden.

The late Harold Laski, noted British economist, once wrote of Amery: "He would die at the stake for imperial preference." He never eased his attack on the advocates of 19th-century liberalism and free trade, among them Churchill.

The two once crossed the ocean together and Amery recalls: "I got up to go and Winston to undress, ending in his putting on a long silk nightshirt and woolly tummy belt over it. Winston asked why I was smiling; I replied: 'Free trade, mid-Victorian statesmanship and the old - fashioned nightshirt. How appropriate.'"

Acclamations In Handful Of Ont. Centres

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The trend ran to acclamations Friday in a handful of Ontario municipalities which held nominations for their annual municipal elections, scheduled in most larger cities for Monday, Dec. 7.

The Georgian Bay towns of Collingwood and Penetanguishene elected full council slates without a vote. So did Whitchurch township northeast of Toronto.

Welland gave its mayor, Armour McCrae, 36, his second consecutive acclamation. In the northern Ontario town of Blind River, Louis Berthelot, 56, was unopposed in his eighth consecutive bid for office.

ELECTION BATTLE

However, an election battle shaped up at Hamilton which will vote Dec. 2, earlier than other centres. Mayor Lloyd Jackson is opposed by Hugh McIntyre, former controller. In Cornwall township, an urban area adjacent to the city of Cornwall, four were nominated for the office of reeve—a township's equivalent for a city's mayor.

A woman got into the race for mayor at Dundas, near Hamilton. Mrs. Annie O'Neil, 38, was one of three nominated to run for the mayoralty when John Don, who has held the office for four years, stepped down to the deputy reeve's post which he won by acclamation.

The heavy run of municipal nominations in Ontario is due Friday, Nov. 27, and Monday Nov. 30.

Must Enforce Laws–Garson

KINGSTON (CP)—Justice Minister Garson told a meeting of policemen Friday night that Canada's laws are no good unless they are enforced.

In an address to the annual meeting of the Ontario Chief Constables Association, he said:

"As a lawmaker, I know quite well that laws are not merely useless, they are sometimes worse than useless, unless they are consistently, speedily, firmly and fairly enforced."

The minister gave over practically all of his speech to telling the policemen how Canada's legislation—criminal law and otherwise—is initiated and goes through Parliament.

He commended Canada's police for the way in which they have maintained democratic standards for fair dealing.

J. A. Edmison, assistant to the principal of Queen's University and an official of the John Howard Society for prisoner rehabilitation, answered criticism that some penitentiaries "coddle" prisoners.

He said such prison projects as newspapers published by prisoners here help to create interests which later help men find their way back to normal living.

The convention approved a motion urging that, wherever possible, police commissions replace police committees of municipal councils. It said such action would take administration of police affairs out of municipal politics.

Will Consider Trade Expansion

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain is giving "active consideration" to the expansion of trade in non-strategic goods with Communist China, Trade Minister Peter Thorneycroft said today.

He was replying to a barrage of questions from Labor members in the House of Commons on reasons for restricting trade in such items as antibiotic drugs.

Labor member Barnett Stross complained Thursday that Chinese orders for pharmaceuticals and other non-strategic goods were going to other countries, while Britain was doing little about it.

Thorneycroft said today: "With reference to orders going to other countries, we are acting together with out allies in Western Europe on this matter. . . .

"I am not out of sympathy with what you have in mind, which is the desire to expand trade in non-strategic goods, and that is under active consideration at present."

MP To Stand Trial On Sedition Charge

OMAGH, Northern Ireland (Reuters)—William Kelly, member of Parliament, today was committed for trial here on a sedition charge.

Police alleged Kelly, a Republican, told a political meeting in Carrickmore during last month's general election campaign that he did not believe in the use of constitutional methods.

"I believe in using force," he was alleged to have said.

He was released on £500 bail.

Kelly opposes the present partition of Northern Ireland from the rest of the country.

180 Attend Farmer Club Annual Banquet

OMEMEE (ENS) — Omemee Farmers' Club held their third annual banquet Wednesday evening with more than 180 present.

President E. Mahood was master of ceremonies and guest speaker was Victoria County Agricultural Representative LeRoy Brown. Other guests were Gordon Marshall of Peterborough and Mrs. Marshall and Mr. and Mrs. Wallace of Omemee.

The singing of grace was followed by a toast to the Queen and the national anthem. The president's remarks included a welcome to the guests, some notations on club activities through the years and price comparisons.

The Omemee Farmer's Club, which at the start specialized in co-operative buying, began shipping livestock in 1918. The late John McNevin was first appointed to take charge of the shipping. After him was the late Wilbert Fee and then William O'Neil. Following Mr. O'Neill, S. D. Vaughin shipped from 1922 till 1944, and was succeeded by W. D. Weir and the present shipper, Mr. Marwood McCarrell, in the spring of 1952. Their secretaries were the late F. G. Sandy, the late David Weir, the late William Robinson and the present secretary, S. D. Vaughin.

AMALGAMATE

Realboro and Downeyville, who had organized separate clubs, disbanded in 1929 to join the Omemee club. In 1945, the club established a cold storage locker plant, which has been operated since under the management of S. D. Vaughin.

Mr. Mahood stated that 1919 was the high year for number of hogs shipped and 1942 the lowest. The lowest price on record was in 1932 when the average price per hog was $9.08, and the price per pound one week dropped to 3¼ cents live weight. Rail grading began in 135. In 1951 the average price per hog was $51.50.

The peak year for total value of cattle shipped by the club was 1952, but the highest price per pound was in 1951, when one club member shipped cattle for which he received $36.10 per hundred pounds. In sharp contrast to this, in one of the depression years, it took choice cattle to bring $4.00 per hundred.

The club membership this year has reached an all-time high of 112. Three members who died during the year were silently remembered. They were C. R. Hart, Alex Lang and T. J. Morrissey. Only one charter member of the original club was present. He was W. C. Veals.

A toast to the ladies was proposed by Albert Clancy, and Mrs. V. Lang made the reply. Guest soloists, Miss Dorothy Connell and John Moore, each sang several numbers. Group singing was conducted by W. D. Weir with Mrs. L. Casey accompanying.

Fee, Mr. and Mrs. E. Skuce, Mr. and Mrs. Esmond Storey, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Miles and Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Morden.

A film was shown by Mr. Brown in which agriculture was traced from primitive methods, through the machine age to present scientific farming, involving chemical tests and the last word in labor-saving devices.

MR. AND MRS. JERRY SZYMANOUSKI of Toronto, the bride the former Miss Rose Marie Creally, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Creally of Peterborough.

Szymanouski-Creally

Of wide interest was the marriage at St. Stanislaus Roman Catholic church, Toronto, last Saturday, of Rose Marie, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Creally of Peterborough to Jerry Szymanouski, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Szymanouski of Toronto.

Mr. Creally gave his daughter in marriage. She wore a becoming suit of two tone grey wool gabardine with matching shoes and bag and white accessories and had a corsage of American Beauty rosebuds. Miss Betty O'Hallorhan, formerly of Peterborough, was her only attendant, chose a dress of pale blue wool jersey with black accessories and corsage of pink carnations.

Mr. Adam Tluczkiewicz of Windsor attended the groom.

A reception at Holiday Inn followed the ceremony. The bride's mother received the guests in a dress of wine crepe and nylon lace with black accessories and corsage of yellow roses. The groom's mother, assisted and she chose a dress of cinnamon shade wool with brown accessories and a corsage of red roses. Guests were present from Peterborough, Windsor and Detroit.

Mr. and Mrs. Szymanouski will live at 191 O'Connor Ave., Toronto, on return from their honeymoon.

Liturgical Artist Philip Aziz Art Association Speaker

Studio lecturer to the Women's Art Association on Friday afternoon was liturgical artist Philip Aziz, MFA, whose subject was "The development of the Christ image."

This unusually clever young man seems to have almost a fanatic interest in religious art and a burning desire to see the modern artist develop it to the standard achieved by early pagan artists and sculptors. He remarked that the art had been overlooked for several centuries and stagnated completely in the 19th century.

He feels that with sufficient interest of the clergy, and they are co-operating splendidly, he added, modern artists will work to achieve a worthwhile representation. What they are fighting is the earthly in religious pictures, Mr. Aziz stated.

"The most important thing about it is that we as Christians have the opportunity of painting the face of Christ. In the Jewish and Mohammedan religions this is not allowed," he explained. "There is no such thing as Judiac or Mohammedan religious art."

"Advantage of the visual arts is that all people of all levels and backgrounds can look at it and understand it, and what is more they will remember it, while the written or spoken word will be forgotten or distorted. Most of us can conjure up a visual image of something we have seen," he added.

Pictures of the Christ and the Madonna from the earliest works, preceded by pictures of early Roman statuary and architecture, were shown, the pictures of the Christ being distinguishable by centuries.

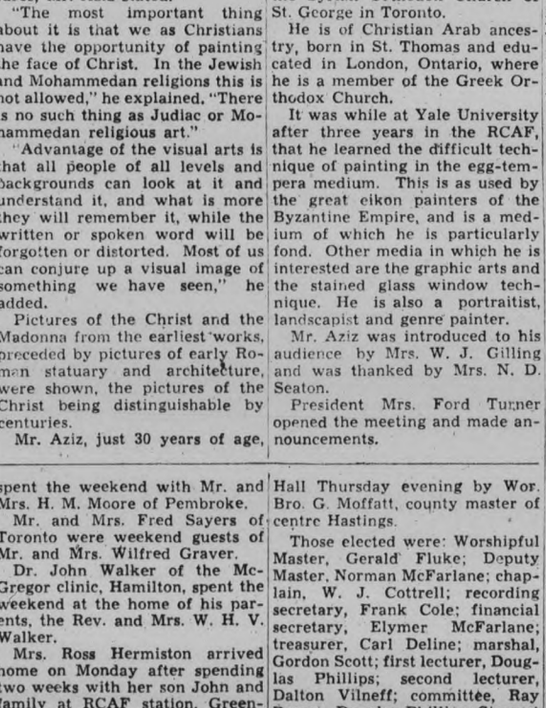
Mr. Aziz, just 30 years of age, has had his own art brought to the attetnion of important critics, both on this continent and in Europe, and has had his work reproduced in Canadian, American, European, middle eastern and Latin American journals.

His first great altar piece, "The Crucifixion," was executed in 1950 in the venerable egg-tempera medium. It was an experiment to see in what proportion the general public, clergy and critics would react to modern religious art and it was a great success. His second great work, "The Pieta Altar Piece," was done for the Trinitarian Fathers of Montreal in 1951. Last year he executed three great altar pieces, "The Nativity," "The Tree of Jesse," and "The Tree of Life," for the Sisters of St. Joseph in Hamilton. He also installed 19 of his paintings in the Syrian Orthodox Church of St. George in Toronto.

He is of Christian Arab ancestry, born in St. Thomas and educated in London, Ontario, where he is a member of the Greek Orthodox Church.

It was while at Yale University after three years in the RCAF, that he learned the difficult technique of painting in the egg-tempera medium. This is as used by the great eikon painters of the Byzantine Empire, and is a medium of which he is particularly fond. Other media in which he is interested are the graphic arts and the stained glass window technique. He is also a portraitist, landscapist and genre painter.

Mr. Aziz was introduced to his audience by Mrs. W. J. Gilling and was thanked by Mrs. N. D. Seaton.



President Mrs. Ford Turner opened the meeting and made announcements.

DOROTHY DIX

Early Romance Stumbling Over Difference In Religion

DEAR MISS DIX: Last month I was invited to a school play by a boy of another religion than mine. We had a very pleasant time together, my parents liked him, and I have met his family and was treated most graciously by them. Now, I have learned through other friends that the boy's family doesn't approve of him dating girls outside his faith. I had planned on inviting him to my prom, which will be next month, but under the circumstances am doubtful if this would be the right thing to do. Mona J.

✧ ✧ ✧

INVITE THE LAD

ANSWER: Invite the boy, as you really owe him a return invitation. Since you heard of his parents' feelings through a third person, it would not be fair to accept it as final judgment. They didn't object to their son dating you once. I'm sure they won't disapprove of the second date. What happens after that is between the boy and his parents.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: This summer I met a boy at the skating rink and fell in love at first sight. When school opened I didn't see him at all (he goes to another school), but I got his address from a friend and wrote, hinting at how I felt about him. He didn't answer, so I wrote again, telling him exactly how much I like him. Still I haven't heard from him. What should I do now? Lola R.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Study spelling! If the boy wasn't scared off by your frank and completely out-of-order declaration of affection, he certainly would have been by your spelling and writing. Do spend more time on your schoolwork, then put some extra-curricular effort into learning social amenities and you'll find your future boy friend more responsive. Your public library, or your school library, should have books on teen-age know-how. If they don't, I'll send you a list of inexpensive ones, for a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Recently, I moved to this town where I met a very charming miss of 17, a year older than I. Because of illness and several operations, I never attended school regularly, and finally quit in first year high. I told her I left in second year. Should I tell her the truth? I am now working and she, of course, is in school. T. D.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Don't permit your friendship to begin under the cloud of a foolish untruth. Your past record isn't nearly as important as your present conduct and your ideas for the future. I hope you plan to further your education in some field, either during the day or at night. Coming, as you do, from a city that is especially noted for its schools, you'll have no difficulty in finding one that will fit your requirements. If the young lady is as understanding as she is charming, you'll have no difficulty with your admission of telling her a falsehood.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: For several years my husband and I palled around with a very nice couple. Now the girl has become so fat that we are ashamed to go out with her, and we know she is embarrassing her husband. He won't her feelings by suggesing that she reduce. Do you think I should tell her how awful she looks? J. L.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: My goodness, can't you be more tactful than that? There are lots of ways in which you could bring the subject of appearance to your friend's attention. She probably has faced the fact of her obesity, herself, but just can't get going on a reducing regime. Draw her attention to one of the reducing programs currently appearing in national women's magazines. Comment tactfully on the marvelous difference between the "before" and "after" pictures. I bet she'll break down and confess that she's like to try it, too.

FOR PARENTS ONLY:

Neat And Orderly Habits Asset To Young People

By NANCY CLEAVER

"Will Tommy ever learn to keep himself clean and neat?" Mrs. Smith asks with despair in her voice. "When he gets into his teens he'll surprise you!" Grandma Smith replies. "He'll spend all kinds of time brushing his hair. He is a good youngster even now about being punctual. That should comfort you. His cousin Jean is often late for school." "I suppose I should remember his good points and not nag him about tidiness," Tommy's mother agreed.

Maybe girls are naturally tidier than boys, while boys are more aware of time than girls. Perhaps it is a matter of temperament. But certainly neat and orderly habits are an asset to a young person starting on his own!

Teachers expect their scholars to arrive at school on time. Children are encouraged to preset not only a clean but tidy appearance.

Small boys may seem to be indifferent to standards of clothing or cleanliness; but even they don't want to be different from the rest of "the gang." Most children hate to be conspicuous. They don't wish to attract adverse criticism from an adult in authority by being untidy or tardy.

A woman who has not struggled with bringing up a little child, particularly a small boy, may have little conception how hard it is to intsall these so called "minor" virtues. It is true that there are exceptions. There are occasional youngsters who seem to be naturally neat and punctual by the time they have reached school age. But children are not born with good habits. They must be acquired. The profcess is often a slow one demanding a lot of patience.

A little child needs both help and encouragement in learning to be tidy.

'You pick up your blocks and I'll help you," or "While you put your shoes in their place, I'll hang up your dress."

Praise is a great help. Mothers scarcely pass a day when they must remind a son or daughter of a "Neat Job." At the same time a school age child should be taking increasing responsibility for his own room and being on time for his appointments.

While children have little sense of time, clocks fascinate them. They are eager to learn to tell time. Junior is proud if a visitor asks him "What time is it?" and he can figure out himself "Three minutes to three o'clock."

"Dinner is nearly ready. I'll be calling you in before long," helps to prepare a child to leave his play and come in to his meals on time. 'Hurry" is a word which is frequently heard in many households. But if used too often it loses its effectiveness.

The child who day dreams and just won't take responsibility for getting himself off to school in good time may have to learn "the hard way." One or two unpleasant experiences in being late will teach him to be punctual much faster than a mother's nagging! When a scholar is old enough to care for a watch, it is a good gift for him.

There are a few people who have made a fine contribution to the world who have been neither neat nor punctual. But there are some houses which are kept so extremely tidy by a diligent wife and mother that neither husband nor children find it much fun to be at home! Some charming men and women seem to have been born with no "time or clothes" sense. Parents do know that this is all true. Yet by example and training, for the sake of the child's efficiency and happiness in the adult world, they do want him to achieve as great a degree of neatness and punctuality as is possible for his temperament.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Readers' Saturday Column

QUESTION: I would appreciate your help in regards to refreshments for a Christmas party of which I was made convener with two others on the committee. Sandwiches are always welcome especially when men are present. Last year we had pork barbecues and cake and ice cream, but maybe you would have some other suggestions, especially for the first course. Could you give recipes in a variety of sandwiches if we should decide on them? . . . Mrs. M.C.

ANSWER: Have you considered buying assorted cold cuts, arranging them attractively on platters, providing sliced assorted breads and relishes and letting the guests make up their own sandwiches? Men particularly enjoy this.

To enlarge on it I would buy both the well-known and popular cold meats such as ham and Polish sausage and would include the highly flavored meats to be bought at high-class delicatessens. These are thinly sliced but go a long way even if they are expensive. Have dills, and olives and sweet pickles and celery hearts too. OR you might like to have less meat and provide 3 or 4 varieties of fancy cheeses. Something which is always popular are loaves of French bread which have been sliced into 1-inch slices BUT NOT right through the loaf. Leave the loaf in its original shape. And spread between the slices with ¼ lb. melted butter, using a pastry brush to spread the butter. You have to pry the slices apart to do this brushing. Then you wrap the loaf in parchment paper and put it in the oven at 375 deg. Fahr. for about 15 or 20 minutes to heat through. Every scrap of this will be gone. What would you think of serving rich cherry ice cream and thick shortbread for dessert? You still have time to write to me again if I have suggested something you want in more detail.

QUESTION: I have used lots of your recipes successfully . . . I accidentally destroyed the one for crushed pineapple pie that appeared a short time ago. Would you please send it to me? The Honey Dream Bars sound good and as I am having a tea party in 2 weeks would like to serve them, but I think the amount of honey has been omitted . . . I am interested in cookies that travel well at Christmas time. If you could send me a couple I would appreciate it. Ruth L.

ANSWER: The amount of honey in the HONEY DREAM BARS is ½ cup. Thank you for bringing this omission to my attention. I have mailed you the recipe for Crushed Pineapple Pie.

MINCEMEAT COOKIES

(Good travellers)

One cup mincemeat that is not too moist (the texture of canned mincemeat is just right), 3½ cups sifted all-purpose flour, 1 teaspoon baking soda, 1 teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon powdered instant coffee, 1 cup soft shortening (room temperature), 2 well-packed cups brown sugar, 2 eggs. Sift together sifted flour, baking soda, salt and instant coffee. Mix the shortening with the sugar until creamy. Beat the eggs into them, then the mincemeat, then the flour mixture. Drop by teaspoons 2 inches apart on greased cookie sheet. Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. for about 12 minutes or until delicately browned. These are perfect for lunch boxes. If you are going to pack them for mailing wrap each cookie in a small square of wax paper.

SWEDISH NUT BARS

These are unusual because they contain no flour, actually more of a confection than a cookie, but they keep well.

Beat the yolks of 6 eggs until they are tripled in volume—about 8 to 10 minutes if rotary egg beater. Add 1¼ cups sugar very slowly while beating—about another 8 or 10 minutes. Slowly fold in 3½ cups walnut meat that have been ground in fine blade of food chopper, and 3 teaspoons almond extract. Beat 6 egg whites until stiff but not dry. Fold into yolk mixture. Pour into greased and paper-lined pan 9 x 9 x 2 inches. Bake at 325 deg. Fahr. 1 hour. Cool 10 minutes, then turn out, remove paper. Cool. Cut.

CHINA Highlights by TOM O'CONNOR

ENGLISH BONE CHINA!

Yes, there is Bone, Ox Bone in English Bone China! Many inquiries come our way on this subject. The meat is eaten first, and then the bone calined.

Before the war, most of the Bone came from the Argentine. The cattle are big boned animals and the Bone is natural for this purpose.

A fellow down there by the name of Peron got big ideas just after the war and told the English "If you dont pay us in American dollars for our beef, we will starve both your countrymen and your China industry."

Any time a South American can put one over an Englishman there will be a pink moon behind the cowshed.

Odds Favor Bomber Win

WINNIPEG (CP)—A berth in the Grey Cup final goes on the line at Winnipeg Stadium today.

The issue rests between Winnipeg Blue Bombers, Western Canada champions, and the under-dog Toronto Beaches, champions of the Ontario Rugby Football Union. The winner plays the eastern Big Four champions in Toronto next Saturday in the East-West football classic.

The Bombers are odds-on favorites to eliminate the winners of the ORFU, whose champions in recent years have been easy pickings for Big Four teams in eastern playoffs.

This year marks the first time the ORFU has travelled West to play in a semi-final against the western champions.

Sleet started falling Friday night and the weatherman predicted snow for today, with north winds at 30 miles an hour and a high of 35 degrees.

Intermediate Title Decided In Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — The Dominion intermediate football championship will be decided today when Fort William Redskins and Lakeshore Flyers meet in a sudden-death final at Molson stadium.

The Flyers are out to bring Montreal its first championship in 25 years, while the Redskins aim to keep the Percy Robinson memorial trophy in the west and take it home to Fort William after a four years' absence.

Both coaches report their teams ready for the first official East-West final, but a stew involving sweater colors is still boiling.

Flyers and Redskins wore red jerseys all season and neither is anxious to change. The Canadian Rugby Football Union ruled earlier the Fort William squad should change. The ruling hasn't stopped the rhubarb.

91st Birthday Cake For Connie Mack

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—For the 91st time a birthday cake was admired and then eaten in honor of Connie Mack, the fabulous figure of baseball. But Connie, who sampled a piece of the cake himself, made the biggest fuss over a birthday congratulatory note from another famous sportsman—President Eisenhower.

Connie, once manager of Philadelphia Athletics and now president of the club, will observe his 91st anniversary on the actual birthday—Dec. 23.

But members of the Reciprocity Club here decided that Connie should have an old-fashioned Philadelphia observance of the big day and since Connie will be in California or Florida next month they decided on Thursday night.

Owen Sound Drops 10-1 Game To Indians

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Owen Sound Mercurys, who finished on top of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A league last year with only 11 losses seem to be heading for a much poorer fate this year.

The Mercurys lost their sixth game last night—a 10-1 trouncing by the Indians in Stratford. It was their worst defeat since Owen Sound joined the Senior A loop.

In other games Friday night Chatham Maroons were shoved out of first place in the standings by dropping a 5-3, home-ice decision to Windsor Bulldogs. The victory vaulted the Bulldogs into a two-way tie for the top rung. Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen, who edged the Tigers 4-2 in Hamilton, own the other half of the first berth.

In Niagara Falls, the last-place Cataracts made a successful start under a new coach and defeated Sarnia Sailors 3-1. The victory moved the Cataracts to within two points of the seventh-place Sailors.

The league-leading Sudbury Wolves squeezed out a 2-1 victory over Sault Ste. Marie (Ont.) Greyhounds in the only action of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series. The game was played in Sudbury.

Jerry Theberge, Jack McKenzie, Don Rope and Ken Laufman shared the scoring for the Dutchmen against Hamilton. Hub Anslow and Jack Taylor were the marksmen for the Tigers.

Ted Pletsch had a field day while Stratford was bouncing Owen Sound. He fired three goals. Other scorers for the Indians were Don Oberholtzer and Bob Mader, who each clicked twice, Keith Tolton, Herve Dejordy and Gerry Price. Gerry Reid saved the Mercurys from a shutout.

Gord Haidy bagged two goals and assisted on another pair to help Windsor send Chatham down to a two-way tie for third place with Stratford Indians. Wally Kullman, Bob Hayes and Alex Birukow notched the other goals for the Bulldogs. Joe Carveth, Frank Bonello and Bill Lee countered for the Maroons.

WIN THIRD VICTORY

Playing under the command of acting-coach Norm Tustin, Niagara Falls won their third victory in their 15 games this season. Ted Fauteaux opened the scoring for Niagara Fals. Nick Dubick won it in the third and Sandy Air salted it away when he scored from a prone position on the ice.

Don Savage bagged the sole counter for the sunken Sailors.

Andy Milne's third-period marker gave Sudbury its victory over the Greyhounds. Yogi Kraiger tied it for Sault Ste. Marie after Jim Johnston had sent the Wolves into a 1-0 first-period lead.

Hamilton is at Sarnia, Windsor at Owen Sound and Niagara Falls at Kitchener in the OHA circuit tonight.

North Bay Trappers go to Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds and the Wolves to Pembroke Lumber Kings in the NOHA Saturday. The Trappers play the Indians in Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., in the only Sunday game.

Kidnap-Killers Await Death In Missouri Penitentiary

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) Carl Austin Hall and Mrs. Bonnie Heady were held today in death row behind the grey, forbidding walls of the Missouri State penitentiary.

The condemned kidnap-killers of little Bobby Greenlease were brought here late Friday from Kansas City, where they were sentenced to death Thursday. The 150-mile trip was made by automobile. The prisoners, in separate cars, were chained and under heavy guard.

They will die together in the gas chamber Dec. 18.

Immediately following their arrival at the prison they were "dressed in." The progress, which required almost an hour, including the recording of weight, height and identifying marks. Photographs and fingerprints were taken. Each was given the usual disinfectant bath.

While they were being fingerprinted, officials said Mrs. Heady remarked to Hall, "This is almost like old homecoming."

Hall, who was released from the prison last April after serving a year and three months for robery, did not answer.

Officers said he remarked: "Lots of people are in here because of liquor. They usually learn too late."

The pair was issued regulation prison clothing and placed in cells in death row. Officials said they will not be allowed outside their cells, except for baths, until their execution.

Hall and Mrs. Heady had been quoted as saying they wished to be married before their execution. The federal justice department said Friday, however, that such a marriage would not be permitted.

Mrs. Heady was placed in cell No. 18 in death row. Hall was put in cell No. 35. A 75-watt bulb provides light. It is never turned off.

A 24-hour guard will be maintained outside their cells. They will be permitted to have reading material but will not be given radios.

They will be fed from the prison officers' mess to prevent the possibility of poisoning by other prisoners.

One Quarter Negligent Awarded $561

A jury decided Thursday night that a truck driver, Cecil Cameron, 26, of White lake, was three-quarters responsible for a car-truck accident on the 9th line of Dummer township, Sept. 17, 1951.

The plaintiff, Ross Irwin of Norwood, was judged to be one-quarter negligent. His damages were assessed at $750; so he will get three-quarters of that amount, or $561.50.

The two defendants, G. A. Cameron who owned the stake-body truck, and his brother, Cecil, who was driving, had their damages assessed at $78. Because they were judged three-quarters negligent they will get only $19.50 in their counterclaim.

The accident occurred at the peak of a hill on the 9th line of Dummer township. Irwin was driving his car south and Cameron with two other hydro employees, was driving north in his brother's truck.

Irwin said that he didn't see the oncoming truck until it was about two car lengths away, coming over the hill, the left wheels west of the centre of the road. He pulled his car as far over as he could on the 12-foot road, then swerved left to avoid a three-foot rock, continued on and struck the left rear wheel of the Cameron truck.

IN MIDDLE OF ROAD

Cameron said he didn't see Irwin until it was about three car lengths away. He claimed it was in the middle of the road and was travelling between 40 and 50 miles an hour.

The jury found Cameron negligent in that he didn't give Irwin half the road and didn't turn quickly enough to use the available road space on the east side. They also thought that Irwin was partly negligent because he was going too fast on a hill.

Judge John de N. Kennedy was the presiding judge. Trevor Clarke was counsel for Irwin, and Gordon H. T. Farquharson was counsel for the Camerons.

Three women were on the petit jury and nine men: Hugh Allen of Harvey township; Mrs. Margaret Armstrong of Douro township, Melville Anderson of Smith township, Charles Bolton of Douro, Wilfred J. Connors of 1046 Western Ave., George L. Cunningham of 680 Frank St., Donald Davis of Dummer township, Charles Mather of Otonabee township, Mrs. Evelyn Mather of Otonabee, Harry McIntyre of Otonabee, Donald McIntyre of Otonabee, and Mrs. Lillie McIntyre of Otonabee.

Montgomery, national Sunday school director, will dedicate the building.—(Examiner Staff Photo).

Pentecostal Church Opens South End Sunday School

Calvary Sunday school, a new branch of the Pentecostal church, will be dedicated Sunday at 3 p.m. Location of the new building is at Arndon Ave. and Monaghan Rd.

The building is of rug brick, in ranch-type design. There are no partitions in the house, and the basement has been prepared for classes. There are eight classrooms with a seating capacity of 200. The one large room above will be used for church social events for the time being.

It is the eventual intention of the pastor, the Rev. Fred H. Parlee, to build a church on the same lot, when the congregation has grown to a sufficient number. When this is done, the Sunday school will be moved to the basement of the church and the present building will be converted into a parsonage.

The building was erected almost entirely by volunteer labor of the men of the congregation in their spare hours.

The Rev. J. Montgomery, national Sunday school director of Pentecostal assemblies in Canada, will dedicate the building at the service. Trained teachers will welcome children of all ages in their respective classes.

London Box Offices Boom No Sign Of Slump In Sight

By GLENNE CURRIE

LONDON (Reuters)—Business is booming for London's theatre box offices. A continued upswing in receipts since the Second World War shows little signs of easing off.

Many theatres are leery of talking about money but a reliable guide is the business done by ticket agencies.

Col. Campbell Williams, managing director of the city's biggest agency (Keith Prowse and Co.) says: "In 28 years of the trade, I've never seen anything like it."

He says his agency expects to gross £1,000,000 this year for the first time.

Williams says several things have contributed to the continued improvement.

STANDARD IS HIGH

1. "The standard of plays in London is high, largely because audiences are becoming more discriminatory."

2. "Theatre-going is comparatively cheap here. Seat prices have increased only slightly over prewar, whereas nearly everything else is about 2½ times as expensive." (There are few seats in London costing more than $3.)

3. A wide new audience has appeared since the war, when many theatres were forced to close, and is eager for escapist entertainment.

4. The early curtain times in force since the war, 7:30 p.m. in many theatres, have proved popular among commuters and suburbanites, who make up a large part of the "new audience."

STIMULATES INTEREST

Television drama here doubtless has stimulated interest in the theatre. Half-hour televised excerpts from London plays almost always mean increased crowds for those plays. And television is a boon to dramatists, with some television plays becoming hits when transferred to the theatres.

In London there are about 20 established hits—shows which have run at least a year or certainly will run 12 months. Seven of them are originally from Broadway. Four of these American offerings are musicals and three comedies.

Park Street Mission Largely Attended

The members and friends of the Park Street Baptist church have been delighted with the fine quality of preaching and music at the preaching Mission conducted this week by the Rev. Frank Patch of the Kingsway Baptist Church, Toronto. Many of those attending were so attracted to the high inspirational value of the meetings that they continued to attend night after night, foregoing other less important engagements that they might take advantage of the opportunity provided to increase the quality of spiritual experience. On Tuesday evening more than 45 young people sat down to a banquet, following which Mr. Patch spoke.

The Rev. J. K. Holland, noted Baptist preacher and evangelist will conclude meetings of the Mission on Sunday.

TORONTO (CP)—A Polish princess won every scholarship at suburban Scarboro high school last year. Says St. John Needs Business

OTTAWA (CP)—Thomas M. Bell (PC—St. John-Albert) says Saint John harbor is crumbling in ruin "because Maritime rights have been sold for a mess of promises."

Speaking Friday in the Throne Speech debate, Mr. Bell said that if Saint John does not get more ships to handle this winter "the whole economy of the area will break down."

He said one-sixth of Saint John's population depended for its livelihood on the port. With trade falling off, many persons had to accept a lower standard of living. Average pay for longshoremen last season was around $90 a week, this season about $45.

Tenor Apologizes For Opera Walkout

CHICAGO (AP)—A tenor who walked off the stage during an operatic performance—leaving the heroine to die a natural death instead of being stabbed in the usual way—apologized Friday.

Then the management announced it will consider Poleri's future, if any, with the troupe after he takes a "good rest."

Food Costs Average $6.78 Each Week

OTTAWA (CP)—Family food expenditures in the metropolitan areas of five Canadian cities in the first six months of this year averaged $6.78 a person a week, the Bureau of Statistics reported Friday.

The report was the second release of a continuing sample survey of urban food expenditures in Halifax, Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver.

The first release, issued Sept. 11, covered results for the last four months of 1952 and showed an average of $7.52 a person for that period.

Gov't Refusal Of Licence Angers PC

OTTAWA (CP) — Discussion ranged from airlines and wheat to German rearmament and salmon as the Commons completed a week of Throne Speech debate Friday.

The debate was making such speedy progress, in fact, that the House adjourned at 6 p.m. until Monday, passing up its usual Friday night sitting.

Citizenship Minister Harris, house leader, said: "While I am not in any way suggesting that I expect this debate to end up on Monday, we would be most grateful if it did."

Once it was finished, the government would take up bills dealing with the Elections Act, pipe lines and appointment of auditors for the Canadian National Railways.

CRITICIZES REFUSAL

J. M. Macdonnell (PC—Toronto Greenwood) led off Friday by renewing Progressive Conservative criticism of the government's refusal to grant Canadian Pacific Airlines an air cargo licence.

He said public opinion was running against the government's policy of protecting state monopolies. If it became strong enough, public opinion would force the government to give more than "lip service" to private enterprise.

Pierre Gauthier (L—Portneuf), speaking in French, said some Commons members from Western Canada criticize the fact that eastern farmers pay low income taxes. But Quebec, Ontario and the Maritimes had no "wheat factories" as the West did.

H. A. Bryson (CCF—Humboldt-Melfort) urged a government investigation into the fertilizer industry under the Combines Investigation Act. Fertilizer prices had increased from $19 a ton after the war to $112 a ton this year. He also suggested shipment of surplus Canadian wheat to hungry Asian countries.

APPLIED TOO LATE

George McLeod (SC—Okanagan-Revelstone) said seasonal tariffs are applied too late in the season against American fruit to prevent it undercutting prices of Canadian fruit.

Tom Goode (L—Burnaby-Richmond) said he hopes Fisheries Minister Sinclair and a delegation from the British Columbia salmon industry have been able to negotiate more canned salmon sales to Britain.

WARY OF GERMANY

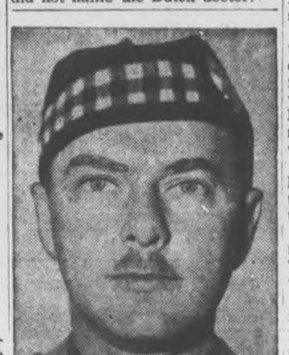
Colin Cameron (CCF—Nanaimo) said Western Germany's rearmament under its present government is dangerous. A number of former Nazi officials were free and one of them was living on a pension supplied by the Bonn government.

Lucien Cardin (L—Richelieu-Vercheres) said Premier Duplessis of Quebec has declined to sign a tax agreement with Ottawa for political reasons. He denied that federal subsidies would mean any loss of autonomy for Quebec.

Communists Spark More Trieste Riots

TRIESTE (AP)—Jobless Triestini besieged their city hall and raided a civil mess hall Friday in the second day of demonstrations reported sparked by Communists.

Ostensibly they were agitating against rising unemployment in this disputed city, where more than 1,000 civilian employees of the Allied Military Government have lost their jobs since Britain and the United States decided Oct. 8 to turn over the free territory's zone A to Italy.



The demonstrations were aimed, however, at the city's Italian civil administration as well as the military government.

Doctor Not Permitted Operate On Foreigners

COPENHAGEN (Reuters)—Prof. Christian Hamburger, the hormone specialist who turned a former American soldier into blonde Christine Jorgensen, says he cannot repeat the process for any other foreigner.

He told the newspaper Berlinsker Aftenavis Friday that the Danish justice ministry has told him to restrict the operation to Danes.

Hamburger said he has had to refer several foreigners, who sold all their possessions to visit him here, to a Dutch colleague who can give similar treatment. He did not name the Dutch doctor.

AT CENTRAL COMMAND — Lt.-Col. H. H. A. Parker, 38, of Toronto, has been appointed assistant quartermaster general at Central Command headquarters in Oakville, Ont. Formerly commander of the 1st Battalion of the Black Watch (Royal Highland Regiment) he returns with his unit this month after a year in Germany.

GIANT PEAR—Almost as big as her head is this giant two-pound, one ounce pear held by Else May Gregory, of Vancouver. The pear was grown by Vancouverite Frank Drew in his backyard.

Won't Cut Prices On Cotton Exports

MONTREAL (CP)—British Cotton manufacturers do not intend cutting prices on export goods to meet Canadian competition, says Sir Raymond Streat, chairman of the Manchester Cotton Board.

Sir Raymond, passing through Montreal after attending a meeting of the International Cotton Advisory Commission in Washington, said in an interview Friday Canadian imports of British cotton goods have not yet reached hoped-for quantities but they have been increasing following a bad post-war slump. Exporters now were looking for a general hardening of the market.

Commons Briefs

OTTAWA (CP)—A plea for public support of the United Nations' peace efforts was made in the Commons Friday by J. M. Macdonnell (PC—Toronto Greenwood).

"It is better to talk than to fight," Mr. Macdonnell said.

OTTAWA (CP) — The youngest member of the 22nd Parliament is 27 and the oldest will be 81 next Feb. 14.

The Commons' youngest member is Jean Boucher, bachelor notary from LaPrairie, Que., elected in the Quebec riding of Chateauguay Huntingdon LaPrairie. The oldest member is Rev. Dan McIvor, Liberal member for Fort William since 1935.

OTTAWA (CP)—Colin Cameron (CCF—Nanaimo) said in the Commons Friday that rearmament of Western Germany under its present government is "fraught with danger."

"There are some rather fragrant flowers to be plucked from the Bonn regime," Mr. Cameron said.

In an apparent reference to the arms industry which had backed Hitler, the member said the Krupp properties had been returned to the "unspeakable" Alfred Krupp.

To Launch New Ship

PORT ARTHUR (CP)—The new flag ship of the Paterson's Line's 32 lake vessels is to be launched today by the wife of Senator M. Paterson, head of the company. The 574-ton S. S. Paterson is the first Canadian-built bulk freighter constructed for the shipping line. Its other carriers were purchased from American owners.

To Be Tried For Murder

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Mrs. Evelena Embury testified Friday that a jealous quarrel led to the fatal stabbing Oct. 21 of Mrs. Florence Ricker, 34. Mrs. Embury was a witness at the preliminary hearing of a murder charge against Harry Reece, 48, with whom police said Mrs. Ricker had been living. Reece was committed for trial.

Frown On Slacks

STOCKHOLM (Reuters) — Four Russians, members of a "cultural" delegation now visiting Sweden, said Friday the thing they like least about the western world is the wearing of slacks by women. They noted many women in slacks in Sweden and Germany but in France "women have more taste." Russian women do not generally wear slacks.

Turned Down Offer As Control Limited

MONTREAL (CP) — A spokesman for the Canadian Pacific Railway company says an offer to become an "equal" partner in a project to provide a country-wide air service was turned down in 1937 because the CPR would have had to provide one-half the capital required while having the right to nominate only three of nine directors.

He was commenting Friday on a report from Sudbury that quoted G. R. McGregor, president of Trans-Canada Air Lines, as saying the CPR "turned down the suggestion and has regretted it to this day."

No Plans To Sell Polymer Privately

OTTAWA (CP)—Trade Minister Howe says there are no "present" plans for disposing of Polymer Corporation, the government's synthetic rubber monopoly, to private interests.

He answered in the Commons Friday a question from Stanley Knowles (CCF — Winnipeg North Centre), who asked if there was any truth to reports of plans to sell the crown company.

Polymer's main plant, established during the last war, is at Sarnia. It produces synthetic rubber from Petroleum.

More Arms To Europe

OTTAWA (CP) — Another shipment of Canadian arms, ammunition and military equipment will leave late this month for the North Atlantic Treaty armies of Western Europe. The army said Friday the latest shipment, third in two months, includes ammunition for the Portuguese army; anti-tank guns for the Danish army; spare parts for vehicles of the Belgian army; army trucks and spare parts for the Netherlands army and electrical apparatus for the United Kingdom.

RCMP To Get Boost

OTTAWA (CP)—Salary increases for the Royal Canadian Mounted Police are expected to be announced shortly, it is reported. The treasury board is expected to consider proposed RCMP increases within the next week or two.

Stock Market Groups Show Decline On Week's Activity

By BOB JOHNSTONE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

This week's stock market trading saw most price groups most slightly lower in quiet trading.

Industrials and western oils had the biggest losses on the exchange's Friday-to-Friday indexes, followed by golds. Base metals were a little higher. Uraniums and Bathurst, N.B., area base metals, not represented by index figures, were lower.

Brazilian Traction reached new lows for the year twice early in the week, but strengthened toward the week's end.

In refining oils, Trans Mountain moved lower, down almost $1.50 Thursday for another new low for the year.

Strong senior issues led base metals advance. Noranda, down in trading for almost a month, showed strength in mid-week.

The commodity market for copper and lead showed signs of future strength on indications of increasing demands from Europe.

Gold losses were not as great as in previous weeks. Trading followed an irregular pattern, with two gaining sessions and three losing.

GOLDS RISE

Thursday, within an hour of the market close, golds showed a wide list of moderate rises. This coincided with reports that Premier Frost of Ontario might intervene in the Porcupine gold strike. By Friday, the trend halted.

Western oils were lower in mixed trading as oilmen, investors and traders waited for news from Edmonton or Ottawa on a decision regarding the eastern gas pipeline to Ontario and the export question.

In New York, The Associated Press average of 60 stocks showed a 10-cent decline at $107.50.

The Montreal market showed banks up .18 at 35.27, utilities unchanged at 49.30, industrials down 1.60 at 179.20, combined down 1.10 at 150.90, papers up 6.72 at 764.69 and golds down 1.22 at 50.12.

The Toronto stock exchange's Friday-to-Friday closing indexes showed industrials down 1.23 at 308.56, golds down .73 at 68.19, base metals up .42 at 146.66 and western oils down 1.11 at 88.84.

Say 85,000 Civil Servants Get Pay Raise On Dec. 1

OTTAWA (CP)—Pay boosts, estimated at about $57,000,000 a year, are being granted to Canada's civil servants and armed forces personnel effective Dec. 1.

The civil service commission today announced increases to 85,000 federal employees—about 75 per cent of all classified civil servants under government employment.

Involving almost 600 classes of workers in practically all federal government departments across the country, the increases were estimated to average about nine per cent and will amount, roughly to about $30,000,000 a year.

The boosts will bring the government's annual pay bill for civilian and service personnel to about $687,000,000 a year. This bill may be increased still further later.

The increases mark the first civil service salary revision and the first basic defence forces pay boost since Dec. 1, 1951.

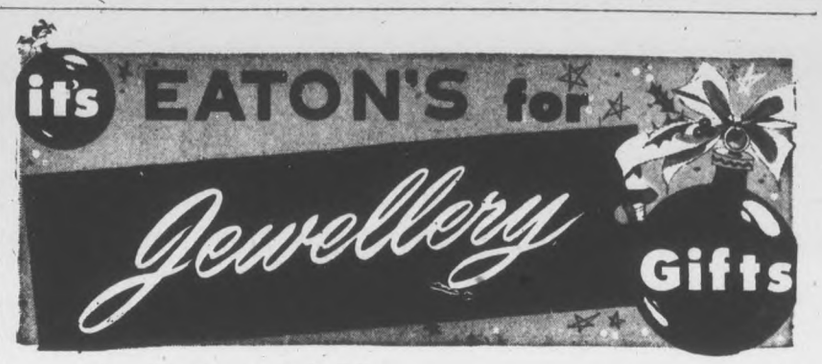
SAMPLE CIVIL RAISES

Here are some sample increases:

Letter carriers: The existing salary range of $2,220-$2,850 depending on length of service is boosted to $2,400-$3,060. Carriers also have uniforms and boots provided.

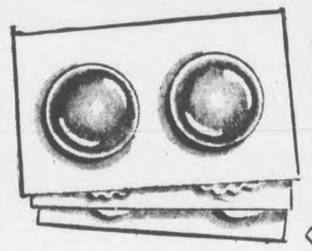
Postmasters: The ranges will be increased to $4,050 - $4,440 and $5,640-$6,120.

Stenographer (Grade 1): Increased from $1,380-$1,780 to $1,500-$1,920.



Top-graded economists and statisticians: Increased from $5,580-$6,220 to $6,120-$6,840. The same increase range allies to the top category of medical officers.

An accompanying statement from Finance Minister Abbott said the salary increases are aimed at bringing civil service pay into balance with that in private employment, which had "increased noticeably" since the last big revision of government salaries two years ago.



The increases, Mr. Abbott said, vary according to the circumstances affecting each civil service classification.

Soda Burns 18 Passengers As Street Car Hits Truck

FORTUNATELY HITTING A TREE may sound rather paradoxical, but nevertheless, that's Edward Ramsay's conclusion. Sunday morning he parked his panel delivery truck on a slope at the corner of Rubidge and Murray St. The emergency brake gave way, while Edward was visiting a friend, and the truck coasted across the road and down the steep bank heading for Jackson's Park creek. A tree stopped it before it reached the creek, and damage to the rear end was not severe. The biggest difficulty was hoisting the truck back onto the road, seen here.

'Blackmail' Tactics Used On Canada

Say U.S. Committee Will Involve Pearson With Spies

TORONTO (CP)—The Star says in a newspage story from Ottawa that the Canadian government meets today to decide whether Igor Gouzenko should be questioned by the U.S. Senate internal security committee "in the full knowledge that it (the government) is being blackmailed."

The story says:

"It is recognized here that within a matter of days or weeks the Canadian secretary of state for external affairs, Hon. Lester B. Pearson, may be named by the U. S. committee as one of three Canadians accused of supplying information to a Communist spy ring during the latter part of the war.

CAN ONLY GUESS

"The government can only guess whether the committee intends to use this accusation, made at a secret session of the committee in August, 1951, regardless of how it answers the committee's renewed requests for permission to question Gouzenko. . . .

"All evidence points to the conclusion, however, that the committee . . . is using the Gouzenko affair as a build-up to a fantastic and sordid smear of Mr. Pearson."

THE LASKY STORY

In New York Nov. 18 Victor Lasky, former newspaper man described as "a leading authority on communism" asserted that Elizabeth Bentley, confessed courier for a wartime Soviet spy ring in Washington, had testified that Mr. Pearson "had once been an excellent source of information while minister-counsellor in the Canadian embassy in Washington during the war.

Lasky and Miss Bentley testified that information had come from Mr. Pearson through "a young man, a wealthy Canadian Communist, a member of her ring." Lasky added: "Perhaps Mr. Pearson did not know he was being 'used'." Lasky was speak-

Poet's Prayer For Queen

LONDON (Reuters)—John Masefield, British poet laureate, today published "a prayer" on the eve of the Queen's Commonwealth tour.

Headed "On Our Queen's Going to Her Peoples," it reads:

Love is no burden, brotherhood no chain;
A living league of nations is most blest.
O Power Eternal touching mortal brain,
Grant to this sovereign lady as she goes,
Light, from Thyself, to kindle and remain
A fire of joy, bracing in all test,
A gladness in all days and in all woes.
Guard her, and bless, and bring her home again.

City Plans Royal Send-Off For Queen, Duke; Coronation Fever Returns

LONDON (CP)—A touch of Coronation excitement returned to London today as the city prepared a royal send-off for the Queen when she leaves tonight on her world-circling Commonwealth tour. The largest crowds since the June Coronation are expected along the route through the city to the airport. By noon today many were gathering in the cold mist along the route, vying for vantage points from which to wave God speed. And throngs of well-wishers are expected at the airport when the Queen and her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, leave for Bermuda at 8:45 p.m. (3:45 p.m. EST) in the British Overseas Airways strato-cruiser Canopus, especially fitted for the flight.

For the Queen and the Duke, today was spent as much as possible with their children, Prince Charles and Princess Anne, whom they will not see again until May 15, 1954.

Royal maids and footmen this morning scurried through the corridors of Buckingham Palace in a last-minute flurry of packing.

In the airport kitchen, chefs prepared the dinner the royal couple will eat on their way across. Main course will be roase pheasant.

It will be the first transatlantic flight in history for a reigning British sovereign although Elizabeth, before succeeding to the throne, made the aerial crossing with her husband in 1951 for their tour of Canada.

PUT FINISHING TOUCHES

Workmen put finishing touches on platforms for television cameras to carry the departure to an audience estimated by the BBC at 12,000,000.

The farewell was planned as a full state occasion, with members of the Royal Family, Prime Minister Churchill and the Commonwealth high commissioners in London to see the Royal couple off.

Light southeasterly winds and visibility to about a mile were forecast. Heavy clouds were predicted at about 1,000 feet but the stratocruiser crew planned to fly above them.

Among those accompanying the Queen and the Duke on the Canopus are Lady Alice Egerton, a lady in waiting; Maj. Sir Michael Adeane, the Queen's acting private secretary; and Lt.-Cmdr. Michael Parker, the Duke's private secretary.

TAKE PRECAUTIONS

The Canopus will be piloted by Capt. A. C. Loraine, 43, who will be assisted by a crew of 12.

The plane is due at Gander at 3:45 a.m. Newfoundland time Tuesday (2:15 a.m. EST). It is due there at 10 a.m. Bermuda time (9 a.m. EST) Tuesday.

Extraordinary precautions were taken to safeguard the flight. Eight destroyers of the British and Canadian navies were spaced out across the North Atlantic for a radio watch of the 2,400-mile flight to Gander.

Mine, Union Officials Plan Top-Level Meet

TORONTO (CP) — Union and mine officials planned today for a top-level meeting called for Tuesday by the Ontario government in an effort to settle one northern Ontario gold mine strike.

Chief conciliation officer Louis Fine said today the meeting will be made up of Charles H. Millard, Canadian director of United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL); Jules Timmins, president of Hollinger Consolidated Gold Mines Ltd.; Labor Minister Daley and Mr. Fine.

Some 5,000 workers are on strike against seven mines in the Timmins area, seeking wage increases and checkoff of union dues.

THIS ONE FIRST

Mr. Fine was asked today if a settlement at Hollinger might lead to a general settlement. He said: "If we get through with this one, we'll think of something else."

The call to a meeting at Queen's park was issued after Mr. Daley held separate conferences last week with Mr. Timmins and Mr. Millard. Hollinger and the union local met the previous week without agreement.

Mr. Daley said: "I have great hopes of a settlement coming out of these sessions. I think this thing has come to a climax, but there's got to be a reasonable approach taken by both sides."

Some mines in the area have been on strike for about four months.

Taxis, Private Cars Become Ambulances For Injured People

TORONTO (CP)— Eighteen passengers in a crowded street car were burned today when the tram crashed into a truck loaded with loose caustic soda. The truck driver was also burned.

Taxis, private cars and police cruisers took the injured to hospital. No one was reported in serious condition.

Charles East, 31, was learning to drive the Toronto Transportation Commission street car at the time of the crash, police said.

MANY CAN'T SEE

Many passengers were temporarily blinded as the loose soda poured through the shattered street car windows and burned their bodies and clothes.

Witnesses said truck driver J. D. Battista, 28, rushed back to advise passengers to wash off the soda with cold water. He suffered burns and possible internal injuries.

Two fire trucks were called to wash away the soda on the street. It boiled furiously when the water hit it.

Police said the street car was going south on Church street when it ran into a truck about to turn at Dundas street.

Pearson, Cabinet Put Finishing Touches To Reply

OTTAWA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Pearson left shortly afternoon today by air for New York where he is scheduled to address the English-Speaking Union tonight. Before leaving Mr. Pearson and some of his colleagues put the finishing touches on a reply to the second request for the appearance of Igor Gouzenko before investigators of the United States Senate subcommittee on internal security.

It was not immediately known when the reply would be made public but it was not expected until after reaching the state department in Washington, probably later today.

Some statement on the situation is expected when the House of Commons meets this afternoon.

This is how the case arose:

Mr. Gouzenko, former cipher clerk in the Russian embassy here, supplied the tip-off which uncovered a Soviet spy ring in Canada in 1946. He now lives under RCMP protection in an undisclosed Ontario town with his wife and two children.

Oct. 25, the Chicago Tribune published an account of an interview by its Canadian correspondent with Mr. Gouzenko. This report quoted Mr. Gouzenko as saying he would be willing to be interviewed in Canada by the sub-committee, headed by Senator William Jenner (Rep-Ind.). It also said Mr. Gouzenko had expressed an opinion that Russian spies are still operating in Canada and the U. S. and that he might be of assistance.

Jenner asked State Secretary Dulles to seek permission from the Canadian government to question Gouzenko. The state secretary passed on this request to Ottawa.

REFUSE REQUEST

Canada turned down the request. Mr. Pearson said in the Commons Nov. 17 the request to interview Mr. Gouzenko had arisen from a statement Mr. Gouzenko was reported to have made to the Chicago Tribune that he had some new information.

Mr. Pearson said the RCMP had interviewed Mr. Gouzenko Oct. 27 and that he had told them he had no new information and that he had been misquoted by the Tribune.

At Jenner's request, Dulmes asked the Canadian government to reconsider its decision.

War Official G. K. Shiels Dies At Weekend

TORONTO (CP)—George Kingsley Sheils, 59, general manager of the Canadian Manufacturers Association and Second World War deputy minister of munitions and supply, died Sunday night.

The man who rose from private to captain during the First World War was probably best known to Canadians for his work as one of the key directors of the civilian war effort during the Second World War.

The department he handled under Munitions Minister (now Trade Minister) Howe was described as "the biggest business in the world," buying not only for the Canadian war machine but handling the orders of Allies as well.

GEORGE W. SHEILS

NEW BRUNSWICK NATIVE

Born in Gagetown, N. B., he left school at 14 to start work as a bookkeeper. After the First World War, he worked in the Maritimes for several years, then went to Regina where he was assistant general manager of Robert Simpson Western Limited. He moved to Toronto in 1931 as assistant general manager of General Steel Wares Limited, a job he held until he went to Ottawa for his wartime position.

Must Watch U.S. Policy Despite Long Friendship

TORONTO (CP)—Canada must not let old friendship and common ideals prevent her from being watchful of American policy, I. Norman Smith said today. Mr. Smith, associate editor of the Ottawa Journal, said in an address prepared for delivery to the Canadian Club that there are real reasons for arguing against the American policy of excluding India from the Korean peace conference.

The Canadian government voted against the United States resolution on India at the United Nations "but there is room for the Canadian people to be more outspoken."

There is real evidence that it would be good to have India a member of the peace conference, Mr. Smith said. Repatriation proceedings already have opened India's eyes to Communist truculence and if India were to be a member of the peace conference itself she would have further proof of Communist obstinacy.

INDIA MOST INFLUENTIAL

"India, the most influential nation in Asia, might be able to lessen that obstinacy, to attain peace. But if the conference failed, India would be a party to the failure, so to speak, and would reveal to all Asians that the Communists did not in fact want peace."

Urging Canadian watchfulness of American policy, Mr. Smith said a nation can become a satellite by not speaking up against another country "because of old friendship and common ideas."

Try To End Oil Dispute

LONDON (AP) — Britain and Iran were reported today moving closer to diplomatic reconciliation and a new effort to settle their oil dispute.

Informants said Britain has formally advised the Tehran government she is ready to resume the diplomatic relations which former prime minister Mohammed Mossadegh ended 13 months ago.

Resumption of relations, Britain advised Iran, would clear the way for direct negotiations on the question of the huge British-owned oil installations which Iran nationalized in 1951.

The British move took the form of a personal message sent by Foreign Secretary Eden to Premier Fazollah Zahedi.

COMPENSATION PROBLEM

Britain already has recognized Iran's nationalization of the $1,000,000,000 Anglo-Iranian Oil Company's works in Iran. But the two countries still are divided over the manner in which British claims for compensation are to be met.

In a broadcast to the Iranian people Sunday, Zahedi traced what he said were the mistakes of the Mossadegh regime in its quarrel with Britain and said his country's difficulties will be "removed soon."

Claims Deadline Set Dec. 31

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadians taken prisoner during the Second World War must give notice by Dec. 31 if they intend to file claims for financial compensation, an official of the war claims commission said today.

Notice to the commission should include name, address and unit with which the prisoner served and brief details of his claim. About 9,000 Canadian service personnel and merchant seamen were taken prisoner by the Germans and Italians during the war.

About 1,400 former prisoners of the Japanese already have been awarded compensation.

Must Be Flexible At Peace Conference

NEW YORK (AP)—Dag Hammarskjold, secretary-general of the United Nations, says nothing should be permitted to weaken the efforts of UN negotiators at the Korean peace talks toward the goal of "peace, nothing but peace."

He warns against "inflexibility" in the forthcoming peace conference.

"We must be prepared for a testing time. This might last for years or it might be of shorter duration. In either case, we should be clear and remain clear about our primary purpose in Korea and persevering in all we do toward effectuating that purpose."

Speaking Sunday night at the 12th anniversary dinner of Freedom House, Hammarskjold pleaded against pessimism regarding the outcome of the peace conference.

LaGuardia Crash Takes 5 Lives

NEW YORK (AP)—Five persons were found dead today aboard a small private passenger plane that crashed in the fog during the night at LaGuardia Field.

The crash occurred near the northwest corner of the big field and the wreckage was not discovered until about 9 a. m. EST.

The dead were two men, a woman and her two small children. Police said the plane was believed to be a Piper Pacer that was reported missing late Sunday on a short flight between East Hampton, about 100 miles from here, and Babylon, 40 miles away.

Airport authorities listed the dead as:

Alfred Laborde, pilot, of New York City.

Mrs. William Nissim, her year-old daughter Corina and three-year old son, William Jr., of Wantagh, N. Y.

William Beckett, of New York City.

Siege Of Smog Ends In New York

NEW YORK (AP)—A six-day siege of smog and fog was at an end today in the New York City metropolitan area with the weather bureau predicting clear skies after early morning rains.

However, a smoke haze continued to hang low over the New England coast.

The weather bureau said a cold front from the west was bringing relief to the northeastern United States.

Woman Shot At Killaloe

KILLALOE, Ont. (CP) — Mrs. Beatrice Buckwald, 43, was shot and critically wounded Sunday by bullets fired through the second-storey window of her home.

Police started a search near this village 100 miles north of Belleville for the suspect. Police said the suspect was a former suitor of Mrs. Buckwald's 15-year-old daughter.

A bullet from a high-powered rifle passed through Mrs. Buckwald's arm and entered her right side.

Possibility of Fog

GANDER, Nfld. (CP)—The possibility of fog at Queen Elizabeth's landing time here Tuesday morning was forecast at this international airport today.

The plane carrying the Queen and her husband on the first leg of their Commonwealth tour is due here at 4:45 a.m. AST.

Commonwealth Takes Note

Canada's Booming Trade Sets Pace During 1952

LONDON (CP) — Canada's expanded export trade and her maintenance of imports were selected as "most striking" features of Commonwealth trade in a 1952 survey published today by the Commonwealth Economic Committee.

The committee, formed in 1925 to advise on marketing and other economic problems of the Commonwealth, said Canadian trade activity in 1952 contrasted with "contraction" in most other Commonwealth countries.

The committee's report noted, however, from data supplied by the countries concerned, that the "very marked" improvement in the Canadian balance of trade in 1952 had deteriorated to some extent in the first six months of 1953.

POSITIVE BALANCE

Canada was the only Commonwealth country to show a positive balance of trade in the first half of 1952—that is, she exported more than she imported. In the same period this year, her world trade deficit was $202,000,000, while New Zealand, Australia and Pakistan showed trade credits.

Other members of the Commonwealth, on the basis of trade restrictions, showed decreased deficits. The United Kingdom was one of the exceptions, with a trade deficit of £383,000,000 or some £50,000,000 higher than for the last six months of 1952.

Canada maintained her world trading position behind the United States and the United Kingdom, with a total trade of about £3,000,000,000 ($8,400,000,000) for last year.

IMPORTS FROM U.K.

Canada took $360,000,000 worth of imports from the United Kingdom last year which was less than the Dominions, Australia or South Africa took.

She exported to the U. K. about $746,00,000, exceeded only by the colonies and higher than United States exports by a small margin.

Her expanded trade last year as attributed to sales of grains —wheat and coarse—and increased shipments of non-ferrous metals. Forest products declined.

Police Arrest 1000 'Teen-Agers

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Nearly 1,000 'teen-agers were arrested here during the weekend as police cracked down on youthful gangs which have been terrorizing the city in recent weeks.

Commissioner Thomas J. Gibbons said he ordered the drive after numerous complaints of beatings, holdups and robberies by gangs of adolescent terrorists. Even as special squads of police struck at poolrooms, taprooms, street corners and all-night restaurants where the gangs congregate, a 45-year-old woman was reported held prisoner by four youths. Police said she was criminally assaulted.

The 90 policemen confiscated a quantity of guns and switchblade knives, recently made illegal by a city ordnance.

Most of the youngsters were released in custody of their parents, who were warned to keep them from assembling in gangs.

Italy Accepts 5 Power Talks On Trieste

ROME (AP)—The Italian foreign ministry said today Italy has agreed unconditionally to the Big Three proposal for a five-power conference on the future of Trieste.

Previously foreign diplomatic sources had indicated Italy's assent to the conference proposal had been conditioned, but a foreign ministry spokesman said today:

"Italy's position has been taken into consideration by the Allies and the Allies' suggestion for a five-power conference was accepted."

In Belgrade, the official Yugoslav news agency Tanjug said Sunday the conditional acceptance attributed earlier to Italy appeared to be along lines laid down previously by Rome. Tanjug said any proposal for a conference taking for granted that part of the territory would be turned over to Italy was "completely unacceptable" to President Tito's government.

Forgiveness Asked In Slaying

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Carl Austin Hall has written millionaire Robert C. Greenlease asking forgiveness for the kidnap-slaying of Greenlease's six$-$year-old son, Bobby.

Greenlease's six-year-old son, the letter today, said:

"He begged forgiveness for his terrible crime, if such a thing as forgiveness is possible."

Hall also assured Greenlease in the letter that he does not know the whereabouts of $300,000 in missing ransom money but reiterated that most of it was in his hotel room when he was arrested in St. Louis. He said in a confession read at his trial last Tuesday he had made an inventory of the money just before the arresting officers arrived.

'Sea Monster' Seen On Lake Simcoe

PORT BOLSTER (CP)—Benjamin Dicker said Saturday he chased a "sea monster" for two miles on Lake Simcoe.

He said the six-foot, black, thick-bodied monster with a head like a dog was also seen by four other Port Bolster residents last week.

Larry Tuck, 16, said he was out fishing Thursday with two Toronto men when the "monster" rolled out of the water about 50 yards away.

"He had large eyes and I saw what looked like legs when he rolled over," said Tuck. "I got one shot at him and then he dived."

90% Of Voters Support Tito

BELGRADE (Reuters) — Results in Yugoslavia's single-party election today indicated about 90-per-cent support for Marshal Tito's regime.

About 10 per cent of the voters in Sunday's polling registered disapproval of the regime by spoiling their ballots. There was no opposition to vote for.

At stake was a new federal parliament and eight regional assemblies.

Tito scored a personal victory in a Belgrade constituency which returned him to the federal assembly with a poll of 34,768 votes of the 35,575 electorate. The rest of the votes were invalid. He was the only candidate.

"Piltdown" Man a Fake!

Scientists Victims Of Gigantic Hoax

LONDON (CP)—Scientists were staggered Saturday to learn that for the last 40 years they have been victims of a gigantic hoax—the "Piltdown man" is a fake.

Someone had put over the most outrageous hoax in paleontological annals.

The jawbone and teeth of the famed Piltdown man belong to a 20th century ape, and not to a man who lived 100,000 years ago.

A scientific report published Saturday by the British Museum said chemical analysis proved the jawbone and teeth were "deliberate fakes" of the supposedly fossilized skull.

This startling disclosure solves a riddle of human ancestry which has baffled scientists since the relics were found. Hundreds of books and essays have been written on the subject.

APELIKE JAW

For the skull of the Piltdown man, with its essentially human cranium (brain-case) and typically apelike jawbone and teeth did not fit in with accepted theories of human evolution.

Bewildered anthropologists were forced to the conclusion that the Piltdown man was a strange ape-man throwback and an inexplicable offshoot from the main line of man's development.

Charles Dawson, lawyer and amateur antiquary, dug the Piltdown relics out of a Sussex gravel pit between 1911 and 1913. After a few initial doubts, many anthropologists hailed them as a historic pointer to man's early history.

Lower Prices For Cattle During '54

Predict Canada Will Have Prosperous Year

OTTAWA (CP)— A special committee of federal experts today forecast lower grain and livestock prices for 1954, but predicted Canada will have another prosperous year.

The committee, reporting to the annual federal-provincial agricultural conference, estimated that consumer incomes in Canada will rise moderately next year, further swelling the domestic demand for foodstuffs.

And assuming that western farmers will be able to move a big portion of their near-record grain stockpile to market early next year, the committee forecast a heavy movement of cash into the farmers' pockets.

INCOME DROP SEEN

But it anticipated that next year's crops won't match 1953 production—second highest in history—and that net farm income for the year may undergo another decline, the third consecutive annual drop from the peak of $2,800,000,000 in 1951.

"Total farm expenses may be somewhat lower in 1954, but this reduction will likely be far from sufficient to offset the smaller value of year-end inventory changes," the committee said.

It anticipated that "lower grain prices should result in lower feed prices," but that farm grain income should be maintained and increased next year through heavier marketings.

And "although somewhat lower final grain prices for the 1953-54 crops may be reflected in smaller participation payments for oats and barley, the delaying of the final 1952-53 wheat payments until early 1954 may maintain the total payments for this crop in 1954 above the 1953 level."

MORE LIVESTOCK

Livestock production next year may rise and prices drop, but on the whole "income from the sale of livestock in 1954 may not differ greatly from that realized in 1953."

The committee conceded that some farmers have been caught between rising production costs and declining prices of farm products.

"As agriculture becomes more commercialized and increases its reliance on sources outside of agriculture for goods and services used in production, it becomes more vulnerable to declines in the prices for which farm products are sold.

"Any reduction in net income to agriculture in contrast to a continuation of high level activity in the remainder of the economy tends to place the farmer in a difficult position.

"Another factor which has adversely affected the position of agriculture is the rather severe downward adjustment in cattle prices over the last couple of years and their consequent effect on inventory values. . . ."

ASK PRICE SUPPORT

(Spokesmen for organized farmers have suggested the government should grant price support for cattle which, they said, has dropped to the 1949 price level.)

The committee is made up of economists and other officials of government departments concerned with trade and agriculture, preparing forecasts for the three-day meeting of federal and provincial agriculture ministers and heads of farm bodies.

Generally, the Canadian economy is strong, it said, and "there appears to be little indication of any serious interruption to these generally prosperous condition" in 1954.

Proof Red China Sending Heroin Into U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The chief of the federal narcotics bureau told investigating senators today the government has "very definite proof" Red China is trying to flood the United States with illegal heroin.

Commissioner Harry J. Anslinger made the statement to the Senate sub-committee looking into juvenile delinquency, and coupled with it a plea for still stiffer sentences for narcotic peddlers.

ADDICTION DECLINING

He said the average prison sentence for suppliers was 18 months when addiction among teen-agers was on the rise; that sentences now average 42 months and addiction among young people is declining.

Anslinger said that Chinese drug rings are producing huge quantities of illegal heroin to supply U. S. dope peddlers.

He said there is "no concerted effort" by Red China's government to interfere and "they probably hope for the worst" as a result of the traffic.

arrived, Mr. Pearson said Canada was unlikely to change its decision unless the request disclosed new factors. Later, he told reporters every scrap of information divulged by Mr. Gouzenko concerning activities of the spy ring had been passed on to the U. S. government in 1946. This was a reiteration of statements made by Canadian officials several times since 1946.

Saturday, The Tribune and other newspapers published accounts of a second statement by Mr. Gouzenko.

Mr. Gouzenko said he had not been misquoted by The Tribune and that he would still be willing to talk to a security sub-committee representative in Canada.

Mr. Pearson, at a press conference Saturday, declined to say whether any new factors appeared in the second U. S. request which might alter the government's decision.

DIRECT FROM GOUZENKO

In reference to Mr. Gouzenko's statement that he had not been misquoted by The Tribune, Mr. Pearson said his statement in the Commons that Mr. Gouzenko had been misquoted came directly from Mr. Gouzenko through the RCMP, who "know more about Gouzenko than anybody else."

Mr. Pearson said it would serve no useful purpose to the U. S. or any other authority to question Mr. Gouzenko. However, he was free to talk to whomever he liked or go wherever he wanted. But Mr. Pearson said he thought it hardly likely the security sub-committee would take advantage of this situation to visit Mr. Gouzenko without Canadian government co-operation.

Sunday, Jenner made a third request to Dulles that his committee be permitted to question Gouzenko. In support of his third request, he sent to Dulles a copy of Mr. Gouzenko's statement published Saturday.

All Price Groups Light In Toronto Trading

TORONTO (CP) — All price groups showed lower on today's stock exchange in light early afternoon trading.

Industrials had the biggest index drop, followed by western oils and base metals.

Steels, foods, manufactures, banks, refining oils and retail changes were both gains, Canadian Industries, a manufacture, up $1, and Stedman's, a retail store, up more than $1.

Junior golds were strong with a majority of small gains. Holding companies slipped and seniors were lower.

Uraniums and New Brunswick base metals, quiet in the morning, slipped in heavier trading. Gunnar, countering the trend with a 15-cent rise, was the only big change.

Base metal seniors dropped with International Nickel and Steep Rock lower.

Western oils losses were small ranging to Western Leaseholds' 20 cents.

Orillia Fires Managerial Utilities Staff

ORILLIA (CP)—Orillia's public electrical utility board Saturday night dismissed its managerial staff.

Its move left the Orillia water, light and power commission without a general manager or engineer.

The board dismissed general manager Stuart Walkinshaw and gave 62-year-old engineer Len McNeice his retirement notice, effective the end of November, but decided to retain him as consultant engineer.

TOOK THEIR PART

Finance chairman Arthur Truman said Mr. Walkinshaw had "taken the part" of supervisors and office staff in wage discussions.

Saturday night's meeting, originally called to follow up previous discussion on wage adjustments for supervisory and office staff employees, was opened by Chairman Keyes, who reported that the commission's solicitor, W. Griffith Bingham, had telephoned him with a request from Commissioner Cavana, Truman and Mayor Cramp demanding the dismissal of Mr. Walkinshaw.

The lawyer's request was termed a "secret underhanded method," by Mr. Keyes, whose view was supported by Com. Harry Thiess.

After reading the motions, Chairman Keyes said it was "a piece of rotten work. We are five men voted in by the residents of Orillia to run their business and to have it run this way is "effronter."

Street Car Strike Cancelled

5,000 Workers Heed Union Advice To Return To Jobs

MONTREAL (CP)—A short-lived tramways strike that paralyzed public transportation in Canada's largest city Saturday ended abruptly Sunday morning as some 5,000 workers heeded union advice to return to work.

Montrealers, the majority caught off balance by the work-stoppage, awoke equally surprised to find buses and street-cars in circulation Sunday.

The Montreal Transportation Commission ordered cars out of the barns at 3:30 a. m., three hours after a mass union rally ended the 24-hour tie-up, but was not able to restore full services immediately. It promised normal service today.

The walk-out ended when some 2,500 members of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees and Other Transport Workers (CCL) capitulated after union officers warned the strike was illegal and might harm the union.

NOISY MEETING

Before agreeing to go back and to authorize union officials to try to get a special city council meeting called to hear their case, the men howled down speaker after speaker for four hours.

The brotherhood's Quebec director, W. J. Smith, called the strike illegal, and told workers "if the law and its penalties are imposed upon you and the organization the responsibility is yours and not that of your officers."

The men staged the walk-out after another stormy meeting late Friday night at which the rank-and-file bucked union leaders and pulled their cars off the streets in protest at the MTC's failure to grant their demands.

MTS REJECTS DEMANDS

The company stood pat on a provincial arbitration award which rejected demands for a 10-per-cent pay increase and a 40-hour week, and said it would not bargain until the men returned to work.

The strike meant a land-office business for taxis. It also created traffic snarl-ups along St. Catherine street and in down-town shopping districts.

Bevan Takes Dim View Of Big 3 Meeting

EBBW VALE, Wales (AP)—Aneurin Bevan took a dim view Sunday of the forthcoming meeting of Prime Minister Churchill, President Eisenhower and French Premier Laniel in Bermuda.

"We do not want Sir Winston in his fragile state of health to go along to Bermuda to meet President Eisenhower in his present harassed condition of mind to discuss these very grave matters with the French representative who may not know at any moment whether he is going to be called home," said Bevan, leader of the Labor party's left wing.

In a speech to about 300 political supporters here he said the Labor party should insist on a debate in the House of Commons on important foreign issues before the Bermuda meeting.

Houses Increase In Value Cannot Claim Depreciation

By PHIL CALDER
(Examiner City Hall Reporter)

A delegation of reeves from the suburbs of the greater Toronto area recently submitted a brief to Premier Frost of Ontario, asking that a uniform basis be established for assessment in the metropolitan municipalities with allowances for depreciation on dwellings.

NOTE: This is the fourth in a series of articles on the city's re-assessment by Mr. Calder who is The Examiner's City Hall reporter.

Because depreciation was not taken into consideration by the greater Toronto assessment board, who assessed the suburban municipalities, it was claimed in the brief that a substantial injustice was being done to owners of suburban homes built before 1940. Depreciation allowance is of considerable importance in the suburbs, it was claimed, because in such municipalities as York township, Mimico and Swansea, there was a preponderance of old dwellings.

Re-assessment in the suburbs was carried out recently by the greater Toronto assessment board, with Max Sloan as chairman. The Toronto re-assessment was completed in 1947-48 by Assessor A. J. B. Gray, who is now metropolitan assessor.

The dates between the two assessments are important because it was in 1950 that the assessment branch of the Department of Municipal Affairs issued its manual of assessment values.

VALUE WILL INCREASE

In the past, assessors were accustomed to use a depreciation table for older properties. But the attitude taken by the assessment branch and the principle applied in the re-assessment of Peterborough is that the fact a property is aging does not necessarily mean that it is losing any value.

On the contrary, if a building is erected in a good location and is maintained in good repair, its value will actually increase well over its original cost during a period of rising prices.

If its physical condition is allowed to deteriorate, it is assumed that its rental value will also depreciate. Therefore, this is taken into account in reckoning the revenue capitalization factor, described in a previous article, and no depreciation table is used.

In some cases, however, as with the huge high-ceilinged houses built in another era, it is realized that contemporary ideas of the use of living space do not apply. Consequently, allowance is made for obsolescence in cases of what a modern builder would regard as "waste space."

Moreover, if a property has been allowed to deteriorate to the point where it could not produce a return of three per cent annually if it were rented, the income capitalization method is not used.

Instead, the assessment on the buildings will be 30 per cent of the replacement cost. The assessed value of the land will then be added to this sum to establish the total assessment of the property.

EXCEPTION TO RULE

Industrial property is another example of an exception to the general rule. As was pointed out previously, the construction and layout of an industrial building determines its suitability for the type of manufacturing being carried on.

The introduction of new, more efficient machinery, in many cases taking up less space, would usually make an industrial building obsolescent, but not sufficiently to justify erecting another type of building. Determining the rental value of an industrial building, on the other hand, is almost an impossible proposition. Consequently, obsolescence and depreciation are taken into account in assessing industrial property.

As will be seen, there is one factor common to the assessment of all types of buildings—the cost of replacing them.

HOW CALCULATED

In the case of residential buildings, the replacement cost is calculated on a square-foot basis. The assessor first obtains the dimensions of a house by measuring them. Having calculated the number of square feet covered by a house, he determines how much it would cost to replace it, according to a scale of nine different types of construction—whether it is a brick-veneer bungalow, a two-storey frame house, a 1½-storey house with gables, and so on.

The rates for the cost of replacement include the cost of the wiring, plumbing and heating. All other factors, such as the location of a house, its proximity to railway tracks, everything, in fact, that would affect its rental or sale value, is included in the revenue capitalization.

In the case of commercial properties, location is by far the most important factor in determining the income capitalization and varies as much as half-a-cent to six cents for every square foot of floor space, depending on whether a store is located where it is apt to attract a maximum number of shoppers.

India May Seek UN Assistance In Stalemate

By A. I. GOLDBERG

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—A diplomatic informant in the United Nations disclosed today that Lt.-Gen. K. S. Thimayya is preparing to ask the UN General Assembly to step into the Korean prisoner repatriation stalemate.

The source said that the Indian chief of the neutral nations repatriation commission in Korea has completed a report giving all sides of the repatriation deadlock. The report is expected here late this week.

One copy is going to Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold who will circulate it to all UN members, opening up the question for another heated debate.

The informant said it is understood Thimayya's report will make no judgment on the deadlock, which in its latest phase has halted prisoner explanations for a week. But he said it would put the whole question in the hands of the assembly for decision.

The Communists failed to convince 97 per cent of the Chinese and North Korean prisoners they have interviewed that they should return to Red territory. They halted the explanations on a technicality.

About 20,000 of the 22,000 prisoners captured by UN forces and still held remain to be questioned.

Thimayya's report, it was said, will carry statements by the Polish and Czechoslovak representatives on the repatriation commission, who support the Communists; by the Swiss and Swedish delegates; and a review by Thimayya himself.

MacDonald New CCF Leader

TORONTO (CP)—Donald C. MacDonald of Ottawa, newly-elected leader of the CCF party in Ontario, said Saturday night the CCF movement in Canada "with all its weaknesses is a giant among the group of socialist pygmies in the new world." The 372 delegates chose Mr. MacDonald, national organizer and treasurer of the CCF party, over two other candidates—Fred Young, political action representative of the United Steelworkers (CIO-CCL), and Andrew Brewin, Toronto lawyer—for the $6,000-a-year post late Saturday. In his maiden address as successor to E. B. Jolliffe, provincial leader since 1942 who retired in August, Mr. MacDonald said at a leadership convention banquet that the Canadian CCF party is "the official voice of democratic social councils of the world."

He said the CCF movement "has come very far but the job has only begun."

"The new society is hardly yet an embryo. . . . We will be able to get into the movement a new . . . force and when we get that we can provide the Frost government with a fighting opposition or an alternative."

PLANS TOUR

Mr. MacDonald said in his victory speech that during the forthcoming months he intends to visit every riding in the province in an effort to rejuvenate the party which elected only two members in the 1951 election.

Appointment of a new national organizer will be discussed at a meeting of the national executive in Ottawa at the end of the year, CCF Leader M. J. Coldwell said.

Born in British Columbia 39 years ago, Mr. MacDonald taught school, worked on the Montreal Gazette and served overseas with the Canadian Navy in the Second World War before becoming a full-time CCF worker in 1946.

Mr. Jolliffe, appointed the provincial party's first official leader in 1942, retired last August to devote his time to his law practice.

Saturday, delegates passed resolutions calling for an all-Canadian pipeline from Alberta and Saskatchewan to Ontario, operated as a public enterprise; a reduction in interest rates on housing loans to not more than 3¾ per cent, and the continuation of rent controls by the provincial government.

Canadian Sales Hampered By Restrictions

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada offers a minimum of barriers to other countries wishing to sell here but is faced with hampering restrictions when she trys to sell elsewhere, J. D. Ferguson, of Rock Island, Que., president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, said today.

In a speech prepared for delivery to the Ottawa Rotary Club, Mr. Ferguson said:

"There are fewer obstacles in the path of imports into Canada than into any other major trading nation.

"Not only are Canadian tariff rates among the lowest in the world, especially on manufactured goods, but our rates are not buttressed by any form of exchange restrictions, import restrictions or quotas. Nor do the valuation clauses of the Canadian Customs Act conceal hidden traps to frustrate the importer as does the customs act of the United States.

PRIME TARGET

"The result is that the Canadian market is the prime target for distress selling, under-valued goods, and the domestically unsaleable surpluses of all countries exporting manufactured goods."

The most valuable contribution which Parliament could make to the stability of employment in Canadian factories, said Mr. Ferguson, "is to put back in the customs act the former value-for-duty provisions which, in conjunction with the dumping duty section, provided adequate safeguards against dumping of foreign merchandise. "He also urged safeguards in any trade agreement with Japan.

"The CMA believes the United States must take the lead in opening up her markets to imported manufactures and that such action, in turn, will allow other conntries to remove their quota and exchange restrictions on imports."

Rush Three Major Building Projects In Cobourg

COBOURG — (ENS) — Three major building projects are underway at the present time in Cobourg and work is being rushed in order to get as much done as possible by the time cold weather sets in.

Delayed for a couple of weeks due to delivery of steel being held up, work on the $100,000 Separate School wing (top photo) has been resumed. When finished it will provide four more classrooms and a recreation room as well as much-needed basement facilities.

Destroyed by fire last August, the recreational centre is rising from the ruins. Only the front part, and badly gutted at that, and the refrigeration plant were left intact after the fire that roared swiftly through the massive structure. As it was covered by a special hard-surface floor, the system of artificial ice pipe was unharmed by the fire. Special prefabricated roof supports are now being installed and the building (middle photo) is again taking shape.

The barrack area and married quarters for ordnance depot personnel are now under construction east of the new ordnance depot. When completed they will form practically a self-contained community. With houses partially finished, one of the streets is shown in the bottom photo.

Work really has just started. When completed there will be, in addition to dwellings, a recreation building, sergeants' and officers' messes, sergeants' and officers' quarters, football field, park, several barracks, chapel, parade ground and canteen.

Ottawa Fair Gets 40% Of Midway Take

It may be of interest to the Exhibition directors to know that Ottawa gets 40% of the gross take from midway shows and rides, plus stipulated amounts for concession monopoly.

Their midway people are known as the World of Mirth, and for exclusive concession rights they pay $19,000 next year, increasing to $22,000 in 1957 and 1958. The Conklin proposal to Peterborough demanded the concession privilege in the midway package without any extra cut for that advantage.

Hear Evidence On White's Co-Workers

By JOHN CHADWICK

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate investigators looked to the justice department today for answers on how much information the Truman administration had linking Harry Dexter White's co-workers with Red espionage.

The Senate internal security subcommittee called a public hearing (2 p.m. EST) to put into the record documentary evidence requested from Attorney - General Herbert Brownell.

Brownell rekindled the Communists- in -government controversy. Brownell charged in a speech Nov. 6 that, despite FBI reports pointing to White as a spy, former president Truman promoted White in 1946 from assistant secretary of the treasury-to U.S. director of the International Monetary Fund.

Truman, in a country-wide radio-TV reply, accused Brownell of "cheap political trickery" and said he permitted the promotion of White, now dead, to keep him and others accused as spies under surveillance.

But FBI chief J. Edgar Hoover, testifying before the Senate subcommittee, said he did not agree in advance to such an arrangement and that it hampered the FBI's watch on White.

TRACE SUBVERSION

Sub-committee counsel Robert Morris said Sunday the committee is looking into alleged Communist infiltration of years ago because it wants to trace a pattern of government subversion which Communists may still be following.

He said the sub-committee has "several things" to ask Igor Gouzenko, onetime Russian embassy code clerk at Ottawa who in 1945 exposed a Red spy ring operating in Canada with contacts in the United States.

The sub-committee has asked the Canadian government again, after being turned down once, for permission to question Gouzenko. External Affairs Minister Pearson is working on a reply, expected to be ready today on Tuesday.

TO FORWARD COPY

Sunday sub-committee chairman William Jenner (Rep. Ind.) disclosed he has asked State Secretary Dulles to forward to Canada an "authenticated copy of a signed statement" by Gouzenko in support of the renewed request.

The Canadian government's position has been that Gouzenko has nothing more to tell. But in the statement Gouzenko, living in Canada under police protection, said he might be able to give useful advice to Jenner's group.

At today's hearing the sub-committee planned to record data about V. Frank Coe, Harold Glasser, Victor Perlo, Solomon Adler and possibly others.

Coe, Glasser, Perlo and Adler are former employees of the treasury department's monetary research division, once headed by White. Coe and Glasser later succeeded White as director of the division.

The Imposture Of George Dupre

During the past week Canada has become thoroughly acquainted with the imposture of George Dupre, the Calgary man who, since 1946, has been building up a false account of his adventures as a British Intelligence officer during the war. His story was the principal feature of Reader's Digest in its current issue, told there in the treacly prose of Quentin Reynolds; it was also published in book form as The Man Who Wouldn't Talk, described as 'The heroic true story of "the gentle spy"' and also by Reynolds. The Calgary Herald put a clever reporter on the job, who broke down Dupre's story and won from him a confession that the whole thing was a lie.

* * *

We may feel some pity for Dupre, though we should be beware of feeling too much. He appears to be a man to whom the esteem of his fellow-men is so dear that he is prepared to seek it by dangerous and dishonest means; nevertheless, it does not take great imagination to see how many men might be trapped by the success of a small lie into a net of lying from which there could be no honourable escape.

* * *

We may fittingly feel strong indignation against the Reader's Digest, a wealthy and powerful magazine with a circulation of seventeen and a half millions. Surely it could have done as much investigating as the Calgary Herald, before it published this sensational and untrue story? We may feel indignation against Quentin Reynolds, a writer with a great reputation among uncritical readers, who is apparently prepared to put his talents at the service of any story, and make it sound good. And whatever pity we may feel for Dupre's weakness, we may be indignant against him for his exploitation of religion in his story as he tells it to Reynolds. Dupre insisted that it was his religion, his faith in God, which carried him through his imaginary experiences. "Neither an individual nor a nation can get far without believing in God", he is quoted as saying. And does not a belief in God involve some respect for the truth, we may ask? Sentimental hogwash like this serves only to bring religion into discredit.

* * *

We salute the Calgary Herald for its honesty and its journalistic acumen in tracking down the truth in this wretched, gassy imposture. It is not long since another Canadian writer sought to give herself importance by laying claim to an acquaintance with Dr. Malan of South Africa, which has been sharply questioned, and which she has not supported by any further evidence. It is the job of newspapers and persons dealing in public information to keep a very sharp eye on stories of all sorts, not in the hope of exposing fraud, but in order that their readers may not become habituated to untruth. For when once we reach the point where we will swallow any story that suits our prejudices or our romantic fancies, without regard for its authenticity, our national integrity has gone, and we may never recover it.

Little Red Robin Hood

Periodically, nowadays, the fierce searchlight of security reveals the truth about people about whom we thought differently all along. That is now the case with the bad lads of Sherwood Forest, whom we had always thought a jovial band of scoundrels, perhaps a little rough on the rich, but benevolent toward the poor. The merry men have now been unmasked, however—Friar Tuck, Little John and Robin himself—and shown as Marxists hiding under green uniforms.

That's what a member of the Indiana Textbook Commission says. She declares that Robin and his band were following Communist lines when they robbed the rich and gave the proceeds to the poor. The pleasing and amusing legend that has been read with delight by many generations thus becomes "just a smearing of law and order." and is therefore subversive stuff for young Americans.

We learn, however, that this exposure is not credited in England. In fact, the reaction there appears to have been hearty laughter. The High Sheriff of Nottingham, one of whose predecessors always seemed to be chasing Robin Hood through the forest, remarked genially that while hundreds of Americans visit the haunts of the outlaws, "we don't get any Russians". The general impression apparently is that the opinion of the Indiana lady will not seriously affect the popularity of the legend.

We have noted before that some strange mental quirk occasionally assails persons concerned about the reading matter of others, and this is not confined to any one country. In Canada we have warm advocates of censorship, who periodically bewail the manner in which the morals of youth are threatened by certain books. In England a year or so ago, certain Mother Goose rhymes were condemned as likely to have a devastating effect upon childish minds. And now the Indiana commissioner has tried to identify the outlaw of Sherwood Forest as Little Red Robin Hood, commissar of the greenwood, which should set some sort of record for silliness over security, if not for silliness over books.

Canada's Great Dissenter

We are glad that a good life of the late J. S. Woodsworth has been written by his daughter, Grace MacInnis, for Mr. Woodsworth was a great figure in our politics, and a very much greater figure as a lone political thinker, reformer and dissenter. He founded the CCF party, and while that party has never achieved any great degree of political success it has acted as the prick of conscience in our political life. As a man of known integrity and sweetness of character, Mr. Woodsworth gave the CCF a moral prestige which its own rather mild socialism could not have won for it.

In their comments on Mrs. MacInnis' book some Canadian papers have written so fulsomely about Mr. Woodsworth that they might be thought to reflect the guilty conscience of the nation toward him. He was, by his life and his beliefs, a rebuke to men whose political outlook was less exalted than his own. When, at the outbreak of war, he stood against all of Parliament, including his own party, and opposed Canada's entry into that conflict, he was wholly unrealistic, but he was undoubtedly fine. He stood for an ideal of pacifism; the other parliamentarians stood for political reality. There was no black and white in this opposition of beliefs; many of the men who voted for war would have given much to vote with Woodsworth, but common sense told them what had to be done; we may be sure that Woodsworth, in his turn, knew why the rest of Parliament voted as it did, but chose to assert an ideal which he cherished. We may doubt if Mr. Woodsworth, had his party been in power, would have voted to keep Canada out of war.

In one sense the history of Mr. Woodsworth's political career is a tale of failure, for he could not lead his party into power and the recovery of Canada from the years of Depression cut the foundation from under the CCF brand of socialism. Yet in another sense his career was one of triumph, for if he and his party had been forced to shoulder the burdens of power, Mr. Woodsworth would have suffered from that blunting of ideals and that knowledge of expediency and compromise, which political power always brings in a democratic country. As matters now stand, we remember him with gratitude as a Great Dissenter, who kept his ideals untarnished and who won admiration as a man from thousands who did not admire his politics. And his influence in our history, as a Great Dissenter, may well be powerful, for faithfulness to an ideal is frequently more inspiring than a climb to power in which ideals are sacrificed.

Bermuda Conference

Russia, the United States, Britain and France are not going to confer together "for an easement in our relations"—Churchill's phrase of last May when he hoped a Big Four meeting could be held. Instead, a Big Three conference will take place in Bermuda, at the first of next month. This is less than Churchill hoped for; it is probably as much as can be expected, having regard for the realities of international politics and the Soviet Government's unchanged policies, notwithstanding Stalin's death. This is not to say that the U.S.S.R. will not be discussed in Bermuda.

The agenda for that meeting is vague, insofar as the public is aware. Germany will undoubtedly be central to the discussion, for the German problems have to be dealt with, even if the U.S.S.R. is not party to the conference. The German Federal Republic cannot be left waiting indefinitely to be freed from Allied control and to secure its acceptance as an equal and sovereign partner in the European security system. It is very likely that Germany will become a member of NATO, when this is constitutionally possible. The ties that bind Germany now are those which were knotted at the end of the war by the Big Four—then all comrades-in-arms. Theoretically, the Soviet Union has to agree to any changes.

Other matters which upset the world and may well be discussed at Bermuda are the Korean political conference, the war in Indo China, the tension between Italy and Yugoslavia and between Israel and Jordan. These two latter problems have nothing to do with the problem of communism and East-West relations; they are quarrels within the western camp.

As well as political matters, there are economic stresses, closely related to them. These, as well as the other items mentioned above are of common concern to the three nations meeting in Bermuda; they have to be considered, and if possible, dealt with.

Musical Notes

By PETER PIPER

THE CURTAINS part on a spectacle of breath-taking beauty. There is a noticeable stir of excitement from the spectators—an evening of ballet has begun. What is the spell that this art exerts on its devotees? Why has it attracted so much attention in recent years.

The answer to these questions is not easy and pat, for it involves a study of economic, social and religious conditions throughout the ages. The ballet is at the same time the most artificial and the most elemental of all the arts. The expression of feeling in movement is a commonplace to anyone who has eyes to see. Love, hatred, fear, disdain, all have their characteristic concomitant bodily gestures. The urge to dance is latent in all children and savages, and even in us urbanized and inhibited adults, though we may feel a certain false shame in concealing it. Music often sets the foot stirring or the hand tapping in the otherwise sober-sided citizen who pays his bills and goes to the office every morning like some clockwork mechanism.

From the earliest times dancing has been associated with religious ceremonies. Particularly is this true with fertility rites and war dances. The modern savage, who is as old on the earth as ourselves but whose society may be considered to be in a state of arrested development until the two-edged onslaught of Bible and whiskey-bottle, preserves these ritual dances for us, sometimes in highly complicated and sophisticated forms. It was an error of Rousseau to talk of the "noble savage," for modern research has shown that savage society is a very complicated structure indeed, with countless local forms.

Considerable mention is made of dancing in the Old Testament. It is recorded that David himself danced before the Ark, thus incurring the disdain of his wife. From the beginning of Christianity, however, the church looked askance at the dance, partly from its associations with heathen worship, partly because of the frankly orgiastic character of many of the dances of the time. The Early Fathers thundered against its lasciviousness, but even this could not entirely root out so deeply rooted an urge. Eventually a modus vivendi was established. The people had their dances, very often on religious holidays, but they usually took place outside the church. To every rule there is an exception and the annual dance of the boys in front of the High Altar of Seville Cathedral is, to the best of my knowledge, still kept up.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE ART OF the ballet as we know it is derived from the stately functions of royal courts in the Renaissance period. The revival of interest in the glories of ancient Greece and Rome had its effect in all departments of life. These early ballets were formal affairs. The dancers wore magnificent clothes and masks which were appropriate enough for stately movements. The most famous of ballets was the ballet de cour of the French court. Louis XIV., "le roi soleil," was very partial to ballet, and even took part in one himself at the age of thirteen: under his benevolent eye the art flourished exceedingly, and the high point was reached when Moliere and Lully collaborated. After the inevitable split between these two men occurred Lully introduced more ballet into French opera, and to this very day Franch opera has always been distinguished for the amount of space given to the choreographic art.

✧ ✧ ✧

AFTER these great days the art of ballet as a whole declined, in spite of many highly gifted individual dancers. The dancing became more and more an arid display of technique, and the musical accompaniment was on the whole distinguished by its triviality.

The regeneration of ballet came from an unexpected quarter. Peter the Great had introduced a ballet school in Russia as part of his scheme for "westernizing" the country. Under wise leadership and continued imperial patronage the Imperial School maintained a high standard of excellence, but this was not widely known in Western Europe owing to the isolated position of St. Petersburg.

Shortly before the first World War Serge Diaghilev gathered around him a selection of the finest Russian talent and startled Western Europe into recognition of Russian excellence. Diaghilev was a good showman, but he also had what many showmen lack, an uncanny gift for smelling out new talent. Of particular interest to musicians is the fact that Diaghilev, while not a professional musician himself, had a good knowledge of the art and recognized the paramount importance of good music in the ballet. Unfortunately his successors have not always shared his awareness. It is a melancholy fact that when something has to be skimped for lack of funds it is almost invariably the music, with disastrous results. Diaghilev was never under such illusions. Moreover his amazing flair followed him when he was in search of new scores, and for the first and last time in its history the ballet was the occasion of some of the most significant music of the era. It was Diaghilev who gave Stravinsky his first big chance, and his earlier masterpieces were all originally ballet music. The first performance of the Rite of Spring, which caused such a hubbub in the theatre, was a musical event of first-rate importance. Other composers commissioned by Diaghilev include de Falla, Satie, Prokofief, Debussy and Constant Lambert.

Towards the end of Diaghilev's life his desire to be in the van of the latest Parisian artistic fads of the twenties sometimes got the better of his judgment, and his name became associated with some ephemeral productions whose only virtue was their novelty, but on the whole his influence has been the most fruitful that the ballet has ever known. It was due to him that the ballet became a union of the arts in a different way from that of Wagner's dreams, but in its own way more effective.

Since Diaghilev the ballet has spread to many other countries. In Germany the influence of Isadora Duncan, the American dancer, has been more noticeable, but elsewhere Russian influence has been stronger. The emergence of Sadlers Wells to its present leading position in a few years is portent of the great interest in this art, even in countries where ballet had little native tradition to guide it.

In Canada the National Ballet Company has made a valiant beginning, but I can see a danger in going on tour with inadequate musical resources. Two pianos are not the ideal vehicle for covering up the sounds of the dancers' footsteps (for even dancers are subject to the law of gravity), and they are certainly inadequate for proper presentation of the orchestral scores of Tchaikovsky and others. Past experience has shown that great ballet has flourished only when wedded to great music. Let us hope that the National Ballet will raise their sights.

An American Opinion: PERMANENT BEAT

The Idle Fishermen

By HENRI SCHOUP

SOME two thousand five hundred Dutch fishermen living in the towns and villages around the Ysel-Lake (the former Zuider Zee) are facing a sailors' nightmare: the fish are in danger of disappearing.

When on May 29, 1932, the last bucket dredger dropped its last load of sand into the enclosing dyke that turned the Zuider Zee into a giant inland lake, sirens sounded to mark the successful completion of the enterprise; but the flags were flown at half-mast in all the Zuider Zee towns, where the people knew, or thought they knew, that their means of livelihood would soon disappear.

The Government had passed a bill enabling help to be given to a fishing population, the victim of an otherwise welcome increase of land. But everything went contrary to expectations Reclamation work inside the Ysel-lake, here three big polders (stretches of reclaimed land) had been planned, was slowed by economic circumstances. As the salt water was gradually becoming fresh, a new variety of fish was introduced; the breeding of "snoekbaars," a perchlike fish, and of eel, had surprisingly good results. Special precautions were made to allow eel-fry through the sluices of the enclosing dyke into the Ysel-lake, and soon the results of what looked like half-hearted attempts to prolong the life of the Zuider-Zee fishing trade became obvious.

During the twenty years that followed the sealing-off, catches were as big as ever, and some fishermen who had dejectedly turned to industry went back to their old profession.

Things remained like this until recently it began to be obvious that years of unlimited fishing in a gradually shrinking Ysel-lake—for reclamation work was vigorously resumed in the 'forties'—had had disastrous effects. After years of unlimited "warfare," fish have become practically extinct; and now the fishing harbours on the coast of the Ysel-lake offer a sad spectacle of idle boats and idle fishermen. What everyone expected to happen in 1932 is happening now.

The problem is the common North Sea one of overfishing, but repeated on a much more alarming scale. The dragnet, formerly used when the Zuider Zee was rich in shrimps, has constantly killed a large amount of small fry, and consequently future generation of fish. Abolition of this equipment would have been the answer; but few fishermen had the means to buy wider-meshed nets.

ANOTHER WAY of stopping the annihilation of Ysel-lake fish might have been—and still might be—diversion of some hundreds of fishermen to other occupations; but the stubbornness of these individualists, firmly rooted in their traditions, and in danger of being ostracised by their own communities if they become labourers on the land, is making that solution next to impossible.

The authorities know that at the most, the Ysel-lake will have fish for a fleet of only 450 ships, half the size of the present fleet. And even so it would be necessary to stop fishing altogether for at least a year.

The gradual extinction of fishing in the lake entails the inevitable disappearance of important aspects of Dutch culture. People who live around the Ysel-lake have distinguished themselves by retaining their folk costumes, practically extinct in the rest of the country; by their way of life, which is based on fiercely independent enterprise; and in some places, like Volendam, by traditions which even forbid them to start fishing in other regions than the Ysel-lake, where a man is always sure to be back home when his day's work is done. And it would indeed be tragic if fishing harbours like Volendam and Marken survived as mere tourist attractions.

No Chewing Gum for Quebec

(Montreal Matin)

While we in Canada always speak of "les Etats Unis," or "gomme a macher" and of the "fin de semaine," the French newspapers always mention the "U.S.A.," "'chewing gum" and the "weekend." We certainly have no intention of teaching anyone a lesson. And above all we would not go so far as to maintain that our translations should be accepted in France. But it must be understood that these English expressions in the French newspapers hurt us a little, at least astonish us. In French Canada we make it a daily duty to fight against Anglicanisms and Americanisms. Success is only relative, but the fact remains that we do not find in our dailies that multitude of English expressions which the French press displays in its general news and sports pages. Strangers do not habitually feel any difference about telling us that out syntax and spelling often leave much to desire. We even pay to hear them say so. But all the factors that contribute to that weakness are forgotten. It should be recognized, however, that we exert almost superhuman efforts to conserve our language, to preserve it against English and American invasions. To read certain articles and to hear some people talk we are often tempted to believe that if they were in our place they would long ago have lost their language.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Study to shew thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth. But shun profane and vain babblings: for they will increase unto more ungodliness . . . Nevertheless the foundation of God standeth sure, having this seal. The Lord knoweth them that are his. And, Let every one that nameth the name of Christ depart from iniquity. (II Tim. 2: 15, 16, 19.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Finally, my brethren, be strong in the Lord, and in the power of his might. Put on the whole armour of God, that ye may be able to stand against the wiles of the devil. For we wrestle not against flesh and blood, but against principalities, against powers, against the rulers of the darkness of this world, against spiritual wickedness in high places. Wherefore take unto you the whole armour of God, that ye may be able to withstand in the evil day, and having done all, to stand. (Eph. 6: 10-13.)

Standard Metre

(Foire de Paris)

The international standard metre is kept in a vault beside the observatory of Meudon, close to Paris. Several countries have one of the sets of keys for opening the doors that leads to this vault, and it cannot be opened unless the representatives of all the countries employing the metric system are present at the same time.

An inaccuracy crept in when the first metre was made. It was intended the metre should measure the ten-thousandth's part of the quarter of the earth's meridian; and it is two tenths of a milli-metre short.

But it will no longer be necessary to keep the standard metre with such care. At a recent congress, wave-lengths were studied which could be used to give the measure of a metre with greatest possible accuracy. The spectroscope revealed that vibratory phenomenon of spectral lines was of extraordinary regularity, and it is on that basis the calculation of the metre will be made. The red cadmium band has a wave-length of 0.6438-4696, and a metre would be equal to this length multiplied by 1,553,164.12. It's all very simple. Thus the metre can be reproduced anywhere in the world and be absolutely accurate. As it was pointed out at the congress, the essential qualities of a standard are not only precision and permanence but also the facility of reproduction.

Keep Them At Home

(Winnipeg Tribune)

Magistrate M. H. Garton told two soldiers that "they were a disgrace to the Queen's uniform and should be jailed for six months."

Then Magistrate Garton gave them a chance to catch the boat train for Germany. This was the second time in a week the magistrate had so acted.

It seems to us that if these men were really a disgrace to the Queen's uniform, then they should not have been allowed to go overseas—particularly in view of all the criticism that has been levelled at the 27th Brigade in recent months.

The men who are sent overseas are almost as much Canadian ambassadors as they are Canadian soldiers.

THE WAR MEMOIRS OF WINSTON CHURCHILL

THE CHASM OPENS

The Soviet Menace—The "Iron Curtain" telegram to President Truman

Apprehension for the future and many perplexities had filled my mind as I moved about among the cheering crowds of Londoners in their hour of well-won rejoicing after all they had gone through. The Hitler peril, with its ordeals and privations, seemed to most of them to have vanished in a blaze of glory. The tremendous foe they had fought for more than five years had surrendered unconditionally. All that remained for the three victorious Powers was to make a just and durable peace, guarded by a World Instrument, to bring the soldiers home to their longing loved ones, and to enter upon a Golden Age of prosperity and progress No more, and surely, thought their peoples, no less.

However, there was another side to the picture. Japan was still unconquered. The atomic bomb was still unborn. The world was in confusion. The main bond of common danger which had united the Great Allies had vanished overnight. The Soviet menace, to my eyes, had already replaced the Nazi foe. But no comradeship against it existed. At home the foundations of national unity, upon which the war-time Government had stood so firmly, were also gone. Our strength, which had overcome so many storms, would no longer continue in the sunshine. How then could we reach that final settlement which alone could reward the toils and sufferings of the struggle? I could not rid my mind of the fear that the victorious armies of democracy would soon disperse, and that the real and hardest test still lay before us. I had seen it all before. I remembered that other joy-day narly thirty years before, when I had driven with my wife from the Ministry of Munitions through similar muititudes convulsed with enthusiasm to Downing Street to congratulate the Prime Minister. Then, as at this time, I understood the world situation as a whole. But then there was no mighty army that we need fear.

✧ ✧ ✧

My prime thought was a meeting of the three great Powers and I hoped that President Truman would come through London on the way. As will be seen very different ideas were being pressed upon the new President from influential quarters in Washington. The sort of mood and outlook which had been noticed at Yalta had been strengthened. The United States, it was argued, must be careful not to let herself be drawn into any antagonism with Soviet Russia. This, it was thought, would stimulate British ambition and would make a new gulf in Europe. The right policy should, on the other hand, be for the United States to stand between Britain and Russia as a friendly mediator, or even arbiter, trying to reduce their differences about Poland or Austria and make things settle down into a quiet and happy peace, enabling American forces to be concentrated against Japan. These pressures must have been very strong upon Truman. His natural instinct, as his historic actions have shown, may well have been different. I could not of course measure the forces at work in the brain centre of our closest Ally, though I was soon conscious of them. I could only feel the vast manifestation of Soviet and Russian imperialism rolling forward over helpless lands.

Obviously the first aim must be a conference with Stalin. Within three days of the German surrender I cabled the President:

Prime Minister to President Truman

11 May, '45.

I think we should offer an invitation jointly or severally at the same moment to Stalin to meet us at some agreed unshattered town in Germany for a Tripartite meeting in July. We should not rendezvous at any place within the present Russian military zone. Twice running we have come to meet him. They are concerned about us on account of our civilization and various instrumentalities. But this will be greatly diminished when our armies are dispersed.

* * * If you will entertain the idea of coming over here in the early days of July, His Majesty will send you the most cordial invitation and you will have a great reception from the British nation. * * * I urge your coming here in the earliest days of July and that we leave together to meet U.J. at wherever is the best point outside Russian-occupied territory to which he can be induced to come. Meanwhile I earnestly hope that the American front will not recede from the now agreed tactical lines.

I doubt very much whether any enticements will get a proposal for a Tripartite meeting out of Stalin. But I think he would respond to an invitation. If not, what are we to do?

I rejoice that your present intention is to adhere to our rightful interpretation of the Yalta Agreements and to stand firmly on our present announced attitude towards all questions at issue. Mr. President, in these next two months the gravest matters in the world will be decided. May I add that I have derived a great feeling of confidence from the correspondence we have interchanged.

* * *

He replied at once that he would rather have Stalin propose the meeting and he hoped our ambassadors would induce him to suggest it. Mr. Truman then declared that he and I ought to go to the meeting separately so as to avoid any suspicion of "ganging up." When the Conference ended, he hoped to visit England if his duties in America permitted.

I did not fail to notice the difference of view which this telegram conveyed, but I accepted the procedure the President proposed.

In these same days I also sent what may be called the "Iron Curtain" telegram to President Truman. Of all the public documents I have written on this issue I would rather be judged by this.

PRIME MINISTER TO PRESIDENT TRUMAN

12 May, '45.

I am profoundly concerned about the European situation. I learn that half the American Air Force in Europe has already begun to move to the Pacific theatre. The newspapers are full of the great movements of the American armies out of Europe. Our armies also are, under previous arrangements, likely to undergo a marked reduction. The Canadian Army will certainly leave. The French are weak and difficult to deal with. Anyone can see that in a very short space of time our armed power on the Continent will have vanished, except for moderate forces to hold down Germany.

Meanwhile what is to happen about Russia? I have always worked for friendship with Russia, but, like you, I feel deep anxiety because of their misinterpretation of the Yalta decisions, their attitude towards Poland, their overwhelming influence in the Balkans, excepting Greece, the difficulties they make about Vienna, the combination of Russian power and the territories under their control or occupied, coupled with the Communist technique in so many other countries, and above all their power to maintain very large armies in the field for a long time. What will be the position in a year or two, when the British and American Armies have melted and the French has not yet been formed on any major scale, when we may have a handful of divisions, mostly French, and when Russia may choose to keep two or three hundred on active service?

An iron curtain is drawn down upon their front. We do not know what is going on behind. There seems little doubt that the whole of the regions east of the line Lubeck-Trieste-Corfu will soon be completely in their hands. To this must be added the further enormous area conquered by the American armies between Eisenach and the Elbe which will, I suppose, in a few weeks be occupied, when the Americans retreat, by the Russian power. All kinds of arrangements will have to be made by General Eisenhower to prevent another immense flight of the German population westward as this enormous Muscovite advance into the centre of Europe takes place. And then the curtain will descend again to a very large extent, if not entirely. Thus a broad band of many hundreds of miles of Russian-occupied territory will isolate us from Poland.

Meanwhile the attention of our peoples will be occupied in inflicting severities upon Germany, which is ruined and prostrate, and it would be open to the Russians in a very short time to advance if they chose to the waters of the North Sea and the Atlantic.

Surely it is vital now to come to an understanding with Russia, or see where we are with her, before we weaken our armies mortally or retire to the zones of occupation. This can only be done by a personal meeting. I should be most grateful for your opinion and advice. Of course, we may take the view that Russia will behave impeccably, and no doubt that offers the most convenient solution. To sum it up, this issue of a settlement with Russia before our strength has gone seems to me to dwarf all others.

* * * *

In Washington at my desire Mr. Eden on the 14th asked General Marshall and Mr. Stimson about the withdrawal of American troops from Europe. The General was on the whole reassuring. Actual figures of withdrawals for the next few months would not reach fifty thousand a month out of a total of three million. Eden then turned to the question of the withdrawal of Anglo - American forces within their previous agreed zones. Marshall, who had seen my telegram to the President, seemed sympathetic to what I had in any circumstances to what seemed to be an affront, however unintentional, to our country after its faithful service in the cause of freedom from the first day of the war. I objected to the implicit idea that the new disputes now opening with the Soviets lay between Britain and Russia. The United States was as fully concerned and committed as ourselves. I made this quite clear to Mr. Davies in our conversation, which also ranged over the whole field of Eastern and Southern European affairs.

In order that there should be no misconception I drafted a formal minute which I gave to Mr. Davies, after cordial agreement with the Foreign Secretary, who had now returned to London.

Note by the Prime Minister on Mr. Davies' message 27 May 45

* * * The Prime Minister received with some surprise the suggestion conveyed by Mr. Davies that a meeting between President Truman and Premier Stalin should take place at some agreed point, and that the representatives of His Majesty's Government should be invited to join a few days later. It must be understood that the representatives of His Majesty's Government would not be able to attend any meeting except as equal partners from its opening. This would be undoubtedly regrettable. The Prime Minister does not see that there is any need to raise an issue so wounding to Britain, to the British Empire and Commonwealth of Nations. (Author's subsequent note) * * *

The Prime Minister realises that President Truman would no doubt like to make the acquaintance of Premier Stalin, the pleasure of which he has not previously enjoyed. None of the Allies at these meetings has sought to put the slightest restraint upon the most free intercourse between the heads of Governments or between their Foreign Secretaries. The Prime Minister has himself been looking forward to making the personal acquaintance for the first time of President Truman, and he has indulged the hope that he might have some private talks with the President before the general sittings commence. However, at such meetings everything is prefectly free and the principals meet together how they like, when they like, and for as long as they like, and discuss any questions that they may consider desirable. This does not of course prevent certain lunches and dinners at which the strong bonds of unity which have hitherto united the three major Powers are vivified by agreeable intercourse and often form the subject of congenial toasts. The Prime Minister's experience has been that these matters work out quite easily on the spot.

It must be remembered that Britain and the United States are united at this time upon the same ideologies, namely, freedom, and the principles set out it the American Constitution and humbly reproduced with modern variations in the Atlantic Charter. The Soviet Government have a different philosophy, namely, Communism, and use to the full the methods of police government, which they are applying in every State which has fallen a victim to their liberating arms. The Prime Minister cannot readily bring himself to accept the idea that the position of the United States is that Britain and Soviet Russia are just two foreign Powers, six of one and half a dozen of the other, with whom the troubles of the late war have to be adjusted. Except in so far as force is concerned, there is no equality between right and wrong. The great causes and principles for which Britain and the United States have suffered and triumphed are not mere matters of the balance of power. They in fact involve the salvation of the world. * * *

The President received this note in a kindly and understanding spirit.

I was very glad to learn that all was well and that the justice of our view was not unrecognized by our cherished friends.

On May 27 Stalin suggested "the Three" should meet in Berlin in "the very near future." I replied that I should be very glad to meet him and the President in what was left of the city, and that I hoped this meeting would take place about the middle of June.

About the same time as President Truman sent Mr. Davies to see me he had asked Harry Hopkins to go as his special envoy to Moscow to make another attempt to reach a working agreement on the Polish question. Although far from well, Hopkins, taking his bride with him, set out gallantly for Moscow. His friendship for Russia was well known, and he received a most friendly welcome. Certainly for the first time some progress was made. Stalin agreed to invite Mikolajczyk and two of his colleagues to Moscow from London for consultation, in conformity with our interpretation of the Yalta agreement. He also agreed to invite some important non-Lublin Poles from inside Poland.

"I feel," said the President, "that this represents a very encouraging, positive step in the long-drawn-out Polish negotiations, and I hope that you will approve the list as agreed to in order that we may get on with this business as soon as possible.

"In regard to the arrested Polish leaders, most of whom are apparently charged only with operating illegal radio transmitters, Hopkins is pressing Stalin to grant amnesty to these men in order that consultations may be conducted in the most favourable atmosphere possible.

"I hope you will use your influence with Mikolajczyk and urge him to accept. I have asked Hopkins to remain in Moscow at least until I hear from you regarding this matter."

We of course concurred in these proposals for what they were worth.

Prime Minister to President Truman 4 June 45

* * * I agree with you that Hopkins' devoted efforts have produced a breaking of the deadlock. * * * I will therefore join with you, either jointly or separately, in a message to Stalin accepting the best that Hopkins can get, provided of course that our Ambassadors are not debarred from pressing for further improvements in the invitations once conversations have begun again.

While it is prudent and right to act in this way at this moment, I am sure you will agree with me that these proposals are no advance on Yalta. They are an advance upon the deadlock, but we ought by now, according to Yalta and its spirit, to have had a representative Polish Government formed. All we have got is a certain number of concessions for outside Poles to take part in preliminary discussions, out of which some improvements in the Lublin Government may be made. I cannot feel therefore that we can regard this is more than a milestone in a long hill we ought never to have been asked to climb. I think we ought to guard against any newspaper assumptions that the Polish problem has been solved or that the difficulties between the Western democracies and the Soviet Government on this matter have been more than relieved. Renewed hope and not rejoicing is all we can indulge in at the moment. * * *

✧ ✧ ✧

I sent Hopkins my congratulations. He replied:

* * * The business here came off reasonably well, and both Averell and I are very hopeful that at least some of these (Polish) prisoners are going to be sprung.

I want you to know I have not the vaguest notion what the word "amnesty" means, and I hope British Cabinet did not spend too much time debating this one. The only thing I ever said to Stalin was to let these poor Poles out of jug. If you should find out what technical definition of "amnesty" is won't you please let me know.

I persuaded Mikolajczyk to go to Moscow and in the upshot a new Polish Provincial Government was set up. At Truman's request this was recognized by both Britain and the United States on July 5.

It is difficult to see what more we could have done. For five months the Soviets had fought every inch of the road. They had gained their object by delay. During all this time the Lublin Administration, under Bierut, sustained by the might of the Russian armies, had given them a complete control of Poland, enforced by the usual deportations and liquidations. They had denied us all the access for our observers which they had promised. All the Polish parties, except their own Communist people, were in a hopeless minority in the new recnised Polish Provincial Government. We were as far as ever from any real and fair attempt to obtain the will of the Polish nation by free elections. There was still a hope—and it was the only hope—that the meeting of "the Three", now impeding, would enable a genuine and honourable settlement to be achieved. So far only dust and ashes had been gathered, and these are all that remain to us today of Polish national freedom.

GRANT'S SPORT CORNER

By DON GRANT

The Orfuns' announcement that they might go ORFU senior next season tickled us. In fact for a minute we thought someone was tickling us with a feather. We laughed.

The move seemed ridiculous after the past season. Admittedly they were the strongest in their class in Ontario, but they certainly couldn't make football pay. They went $3,000 into the red. Imagine the result after a season in the expensive senior league.

But at a second glance we see the Orfuns are on the spot and the shift to senior seems the only out if football is to stay alive in Peterborough.

Dr. Don Aitken, club president, admits quite frankly that the Orfuns can't carry on with the type of grouping that they had this year. About all this year amounted to was six games with Cobourg; there was no opposition from Oshawa or Toronto.

DROPPING OUT

Besides Cobourg's apparently deeply in the red and quite likely won't be back for next fall. Oshawa Red Raiders' future is just as questionable and Toronto is definitely out. That leaves only the Orfuns in this district.

Therefore for opposition the Orfuns must look to the western intermediate group which wasn't strong this past season. Inferior opposition, meaning poor home gates, and long road trips, would mean going further into the red.

It boils down to a decision between senior football or quit. They're willing to try senior.

It's rather hard to believe but the Orfuns this season spent in the neighborhood of $8,000 in their drive for Dominion intermediate title. But they feel that with another $4,000, the Orfuns can go into major league football. That also seems had to believe.

Where will the $12,000 to $15,000 come from? The Orfuns hope to attract more fans by bringing in major teams such as Balmy Beach, Sarnia and Kitchener. But most of it will come from an arrangement with a Big Four club.

In what direction are the Orfuns looking for support? Through the football grapevine Ottawa Roughriders and Montreal Alouettes are reported looking for a good centre for a farm team.

Apparently Ottawa's contract with Kitchener is through and if Brantford Redskins drop out of the ORFU, Montreal will have no farm connections. A good working arrangement with either of these clubs could mean several thousand dollars for the Orfuns.

WOULD HAVE RIGHTS

For this financial backing the Big Four clubs want players developed and would hold rights to all Orfuns' players.

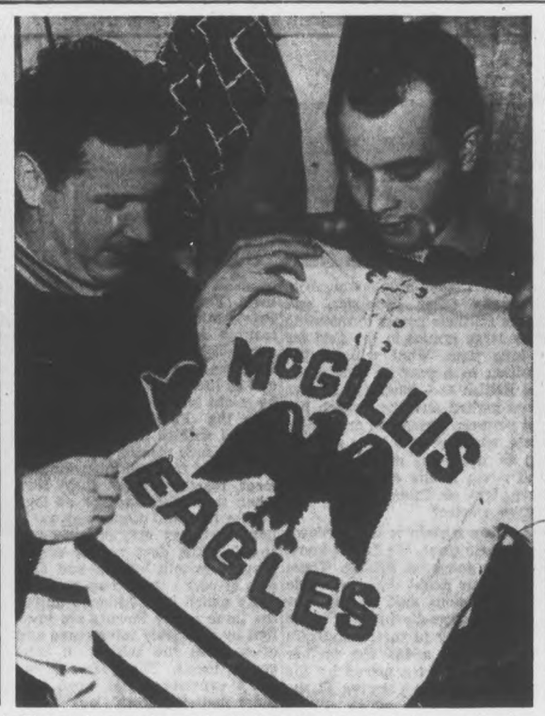
We think the Orfuns will find it will take a great deal more than $15,000 to even make opposition for the Beach and the Imperials.

The other big problem facing senior clubs is gathering senior-calibre players. They'll only need about 40 to see them through.

But again the Orfuns have looked into that. The executive plans to use the full quota of American imports, four, like most clubs have to do in the senior group. One of these imports would be a quarterback, specializing in passing. He could be this year's coach, Tony Kotowski. Others would be ends and possibly another backfielder.

COBOURG AND OSHAWA

Other players, believe it or not, will be drawn from Cobourg's Galloping Ghosts and Oshawa Red Raiders. In fact, the Orfuns have already been promised "certain" players if they jump to senior. Most of the players off those teams have seen some senior play.



It's unlikely that Kotowski will be coach. Apparently he'd rather play than mastermind. Therefore the Orfuns are looking again even to the point where two coaches, both Americans and living presently in Ontario have been contacted. Dr. Aitken refused to mention names, but added both are interested in the Orfuns.

Dr. Aitken said the Orfuns plan to apply for a senior franchise early this week. Whether they are accepted or not depends largely upon Brantford's decision to stay in and whether the ORFU senior executive wants a five-team league if Brantford stays in.

Much as we'd like to see Peterborough in the senior ORFU, we feel (1) that Peterborough people haven't been exposed to football enough to back a senior team, and (2) that $15,000 is only a drop in the bucket for a senior team's budget.

Realizing their hopes to keep football alive, we wish the Orfuns best-of-luck in their project.

WIN FIRST ONE—The Junior Petes, coached by Red Creighton, assisted by Lloyd (Moon) Wootton, picked up their first victory Saturday night, defeating the Flyers 3-2 in Port Perry. Creighton grouped the juniors together to form the new club this year when the Oddfellows dropped out.

Peterborough Takes Win To Open Port Perry Arena

Port Perry Memorial Gardens officially opened its hockey doors Saturday night to Red Creighton's powerful Peterborough juniors. Following appropriate opening ceremonies, the speedy Liftlock boys gave the home Flyers a smarting 5-3 defeat, for Petes' first win of the young season, and Flyers' initial loss.

Peterborough showed superior form and team-play to a man, while the Port Perry lads gave a rugged display in defeat, with a last-period rally that held their rivals reasonably close, after a stiff battle.

Colonel the Honorable George Arthur Welsh, Provincial Secretary, attended as guest of honor, and he, with Les Virtue, Gardens' president; Reeve W. H. Peel and other officials, paid tribute to all who had contributed to the success of the Gardens' enterprise.

Displaying form and depth that bids fair to eclipse anything seen locally in junior ranks for years, the "Moon" Wootton — "Red" Creighton lads racked up a 4-0 margin in two frames of lightning play; made it 5-0 on Coyle's great solo rush, early in the third, before Flyers came through to finish in fighting form with three late tallies. Early penalties hurt Flyers cause as they adversely affected Petes in the final nine minutes of play, when Heffernan, Frizzelle, Twist and Byrne did penance in turn, to watch three biscuits hit the twine.

Outstanding in victory was the staunch form of Joe O'Brien in Peterborough's net; he gave an amazing display throughout to completely rob Flyers for 51 minutes of play. The actual rival tallies gave him little chance. In the opposing net, Ross Howe also performed excellently, with many fine saves.

Up front, the winners worked hard and effectively both ways against rugged opponents, and both teams felt they would show even greater form on Wednesday night when they are scheduled to renew their struggles at Civic Arena.

"We can go better yet," averred the fiery Creighton, after the fray. "Some of my boys need a little more work."

On the opposing side, Flyers officials claimed their team to be short on condition, through lack of ice. "We'll be 'in there,' fighting," remarked Gardens' president, Les Virtue, "and when these boys get in shape, they'll be heard from."

Play opened fast, and a great two-way dual for 18 minutes was finally broken when the young line of Bob Gardner, Bud McDougall and Paul Doris swarmed in on Howe; and the wily Doris potted the disc from close range on a pretty play; Al Myles was serving his first of four miscues at the time. That was it, after a hectic opener.

The Creighton band made it two, early in the second when Murray Byrne rushed into the attacking zone, passed deep to McDougall, who fed Jerry Frizzelle back near the blueline; the latter back handed a doozy to the upper right corner of the mesh as the crowd moaned. Myles was absent for crosschecking.

Kevin Heffernan tallied five minutes later, on a beautiful five-man passing attack involving Bill Twist, Gord Coyle, Byrne, Frizzelle and Heffernan, with a bullet drive from deep left wing to beat Howe all the way. Lanky Bill Twist, on a neat solo effort, blasted an 18-footer to wind up the scoring in the frame, at the seven-minute mark.

Dame Fortune smiled on Flyers after Coyle's breakaway in the rugged final chapter, when the penalty plague hit the visitors a dangerous blow. Bill Gibson whistled a sizzler past O'Brien close in, from Don Masters at 11:45, with Frizzelle away. Two minutes later, Dunc Brodie scored an identical marker with Twist off for alleged hooking. Petes fought hard while short-handed however, as had Flyers; but Copeland hit the twine with less than two minutes to go from Brodie, after Byrne drew the final penalty, to wind up with a respectable score, in a great battle. There were 18 miscues in all, the Flyers drawing eight.

In addition to many of last years' stars, coach Creighton and manager Wootton have added three fine boys in Jim Hook of Barrie, Blake Uren of Orillia and Jim Routan of Havelock.

CAHA Involved In Quebec Squabble Again

MONTREAL (CP)—The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association is back into the squabble over goalie Jacques Marcotte of Quebec and will give a once-and-for-all decision Dec. 7.

This was the net result of a Sunday meeting of representatives of the CAHA, the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association, the Quebec Junior Amateur Hockey Association and the two teams at loggerheads over the 18-year-old goalie—Quebec Frontenacs and Quebec Citadelles.

All court proceedings will be dropped, and it is up to the Frontenac club whether it will continue to use Marcotte until the Dec. 7 meeting.

Subject to approval of the CAHA executive, CAHA officers will hear evidence at the scheduled meeting and, by the agreement of all parties, decisions then reached will be final and binding.

The young goalie is claimed by Citadelles, his former owners. Early this season, his application to become a free agent was granted by the QAHA—provincial governing branch of the CAHA—and his signing with Frontenacs was approved.

Citadelles appealed to the CAHA, which awarded the player to that team. The QAHA continued to maintain it had acted constitutionally and was the sole authority to deal with an intra-branch matter of player release.

Flyers Crush Redskins 23-8 Capture Trophy

MONTREAL (CP) — Lakeshore Flyers Saturday became the first Montreal team in 25 years to win the Percy Robinson Memorial Trophy, symbolic of the Canadian intermediate football championship, as they walloped Fort William Redskins 23-8 in a sudden-death game.

The Flyers unveiled a powerful ground attack and an almost air-tight pass defence as they held the Redskins to one point until the third quarter while racking up 22 themselves.

Wilf O'Hagan, a small and speedy halfback, ran behind some excellent blocking to get two touchdowns for Lakeshore while Joe Stracina, Charlie Baillie, and Kevin O'Neill came through with the other points.

Fort William earned two points on rouges and Ed Harris scored their only major, Harold (Snowball) Harri converting.

Before the game, the teams squabbled about the colors of their jerseys as both clubs wear red. Lakeshore insisted the Redskins change their jerseys and offered to supply yellow ones belonging to another local intermediate team.

The Redskins agreed to make the switch but when the yellow shirts arrived—fresh from the dry-cleaners—they were too shrunken to be worn by even the smallest members of the Fort William club.

As a result, both squads showed up in red jerseys.

Flyers took the kick-off and marched 85 yards down-field on ground plays, capping the march when Baillie scored a major on a five-yard line plunge. O'Neill converted to give Lakeshore another point. Fort William then got into the scoring column when Flyers' Harry Shugrue was rouged on Bob McKee's 46-yard punt.

George Bossy recovered a second-quarter Fort William fumble that set the stage for O'Hagan's two-yard touchdown plunge, the convert failing.

Flyers then took possession on the Fort William 35-yard line and went to the 21 on end sweeps and off-tackle smashes. Stracina took the ball and scooted around the end to put Lakeshore ahead 16-1 and O'Neill's toe added the extra point.

O'Hagan went five yards off-tackle for an unconverted major in the third quarter. The Redskins recovered a Lakeshore fumble on the Flyers' 26, and sent Ed Harris through centre from the one-yard line for a touchdown, Harri converting. McKee later kicked 47 yards into the Lakeshore end zone and his teammates rouged Kenny Dixon to make the score 22-8 for Lakeshore.

Stracina punted from the 55-yard stripe in the last frame, the ball going over Fort William's deadline for a single.

Lakefield Climbs To First With 3-2 Win Over Lindsay

LINDSAY (ENS)—Breaking a two-all tie with only 24 seconds to play, Cam Wasson's Lakefield intermediates defeated Lindsay 3-2 for the second time in four days Saturday in Lindsay. McCracken grabbed Wasson's clearing pass in the last-minute and broke into the clear to score the winning goal. Lakefield with the victory jumped to the top of the Lakeshore League along with Port Hope.

The importance of the game, the league leadership with Port Hope, and the closeness of the play made tempers rosy warm from the beginning. Referee Doug Calhoun handed out seven penalties for roughing, charging, cross-checking, tripping and holding in the first period, just to begin with.

Then midway through the second the tempers broke and the season's worst hockey brawl developed, engulfing players from both teams, spectators and police.

Lindsay's Corley struck the brawl's first blow when he slashed Lakefield's McCracken. Instead of heading towards the penalty box as directed, Corley started towards the Lindsay bench. He didn't reach his destination.

Lakefield goalie, Ray Harding, skated out of his net and went straight towards Corley. They began to mix it.

EVERYONE JOIN IN

Lindsay and Lakefield players on the ice promptly started pushing each other and then more blows fell as the general free-for-all started. Players then poured through the gates and over the boards from both players' benches to join in.

Spectators around the playing benches, first with words, then with fists, joined the brawl with the team managers.

Finally when order was restored, the result was: the lone policeman, Sgt. Gord Ebberts, had ejected several spectators; at least four players were stripped to the waist, their sweaters tore off; Referee Calhoun handed out major fighting penalties to Lakefield's Cam and Neilson Wasson, to Lindsay's Al Burns and Grant Green, a slashing penalty to Corley and a leaving the crease infraction to Harding.

Lindsay's Lewis opened the scoring in the first period when he trapped a pass at the side of the Lakefield goal on a ganging attack. With Harding down on the opposite side, Lewis flicked the puck into the open net.

Don Floyd replied minutes later for Lakefield. Working his way in alone, Floyd caught the corner of the net with a 15-foot shot.

After a scoreless second period, Reid batted in a loose puck in the third as Lakefield pressed. Poole stopped two shots by Hunter and Caravaggie from close in, but the second rebound slipped away, Reid grabbing it to score.

Lakefield were two short when Corley tied the game at two-all when he tapped in Kelly's pass eight minutes later.

Then with 24 seconds left to play and Lindsay pressing Lakefield well inside the blueline, Cam Wasson shot the puck down the ice to clear, McCracken took the puck near centre and was in the clear, catching the Lindsay defence well up. Poole didn't have a chance to stop McCracken from scoring.

Hilltops Take First Title In 25 Years

SASKATOON (CP) — The Canadian junior football title was brought to the West for the first time in 25 years Saturday when Saskatoon hilltops overpowered favored Windsor AKO 34-6 in a sudden-death game for the title.

More than 7,000 fans, largest crowd ever to watch a football game here, saw Ron Adam, 19-year-old quarterback, let loose with a steady aerial attack and a solid ground offensive against the defending champions.

Although calling the lighter team Adam's smooth work paved the way for the West's second junior title since 1928 when Regina Pats won it. Described as the best junior signal-caller and passer, Adam scored one of Saskatoon's six touchdowns, threw passes for two others and kicked three converts.

HELD LEAD

Hilltops held the lead throughout, being ahead 12-0 at the half-mark. The new champs held a 24-6 lead at the third quarter and added two unconverted touchdowns in the final frame.

The loss was Windsor's first in two years. They won the eastern crown with a 26-11 victory over Verdun, Que., Shamcats.

CONGRATULATE COACH

Bedlam broke out in crowded Griffiths' Stadium at the end of the game as spectators crashed barricades to congratulate Saskatoon coach Bob Arn and his Toppers.

Saskatoon majors, in addition to Adam's, were scored by Bill Trout, Johnny Sands, Johnny Jasper, Ole Olstad and Chic Jacobi. A single point was added by Andy Voykin when his attempted field-goal went wide.

Half Bob Fletcher, an outstanding player for Windsor, scored Windsor's only major in the third quarter. It came after Mike Robert intercepted a forward pass by Adam on Saskatoon's 35-yard line. A fake third-down kick put the ball on the 11 where Zeno Karcz took a pitch out from quarter Don McEwan and threw to Fletcher behind the goal line.

Saskatoon gained 201 yards rushing against 108 for Windsor and 317 yards passing against 91 for the visitors. The Dominion titlists completed 12 of 20 attempted passes compared with six of 14 for Windsor.

Winnipeg Has New Plan For Grey Cup Tickets

WINNIPEG (CP)—The scramble for Grey Cup tickets again is on, but Winnipeg Blue Bombers who will represent the West in the classic at Toronto next Saturday, believe they have come up with a near-foolproof set-up.

Distribution will be made on a "one-ticket - for - one - transportation" plan, with preference given first to those who are both season ticket holders and club members, and secondly to just season ticket holders.

Officials announced that they had received applications for about 4,500 tickets—1,200 more than Winnipeg's allotment of 3,300. All applications were numbered on receipt, and tickets will be given out in numerical order until all are gone—with "proof of transportation."

SATURDAY DEADLINE

Purchasers will receive a receipt for their tickets at Winnipeg, then produce the receipt and match the signature to get their tickets at Bombers headquarters in Toronto. All tickets not claimed by the 10 a.m. Saturday deadline will be sold.

There will be no refund on tickets paid for at Winnipeg. As an added guard against persons purchasing railway or air transportation with a view to obtaining refund on it after receiving the ticket, the Winnipeg club will put its stamp on the transportation ticket —with permission of the railways and airways. The club will be notified if any refunds are made on transportation.

Kitchener Upsets Niagara Cataracts 6-3

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The top six teams in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series are in a race for positional standings which can, and usually do, change from night to night by single victory.

No teams, except Sarnia Sailors and Niagara Falls Cataracts have really had a chance to acquaint themselves with any one position. The Sailors and Cataracts occupy the bottom two slots but even they have recently shown signs of life.

The Cataracts just couldn't cope with the power of the first-place Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen Saturday as they dropped a 5-3 decision to the defending Allan Cup Champions in Kitchener.

Owen Sound upset the second-place Windsor Bulldogs 5-1 in Owen Sound and Hamilton kept up to the Bulldogs by edging the Sailors 4-3 in Sarnia.

In the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series Saturday Sault Ste. Marie (Ont.) Greyhounds took a 6-2, home-ice victory over North Bay Trappers and Pembroke Lumber Kings defeated Sudbury Wolves 5-1 in Pembroke and nearly caused a riot.

TRAPPERS DROP TWO

The Trappers lost their second week-end game when they were defeated 5-3 by the Indians in Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Sunday.

Jack McKenzie, Ken Laufman, Gerry Theberge, Art Hurst and Harry Psutka shared the scoring for the Dutchmen against Niagara Falls. Nick Dubick, Red Olsen and Ted Fateaux countered for the Cataracts.

Lloyd Ferguson paced the Tigers to their victory over the Sailors. He fired two goals. Jack Taylor and Eddie Busch made up the total. Harry O'Connor, Clarence Jaster and Clark Horner were the Sarnia marksmen.

Jerry Reid scored three times and Bill McComb twice to break the four-game losing streak of the Mercurys. Gord Haidy notched the sole Windsor tally in the second period.

Eddie Mulligan notched two for the Greyhounds against the Trappers Saturday. Jimmy Johnston, and Jim Bumbacco added singles. Eddie Martineau and Ron Rowe counted for North Bay.

The clash between Pembroke and Sudbury Saturday night was shortened by the midnight curfew. A mixup around the Sudbury box caused a broken hand to Miller Murdock of Sudbury, an assault charge against Frank Waito of Pembroke and a disorderly conduct charge Raymond Waito, also of Pembroke.

Owen Sound goes to Niagara Falls and Windsor plays host to Stratford Indians in the OHA loop Tuesday. The Greyhounds are at Pembroke in NOHA action.

Mills Bros. After Italian Mat Ace And Geohagen

Timothy Geohagen has a new partner for next Wednesday's feature wrestling match at the Brock Arena. Ilio DiPoalo, the rugged Italian grappler, will team up with Tim against the famous Mills brothers, Al and Tiny. And what do the western badmen think of this combination? A pushover, says Al.

Their last bout ended in a near riot when Referee Gollob awarded the Mills a questionable victory. Pandemonium broke loose after the announcement and the fans and wrestlers battled it out long after the bell.

Both Tiny and Al Mills can handle themselves in any kind of going and their tremendous drawing power was shown recently when they broke the attendance record at Maple Leaf Gardens, Toronto, drawing over 16,000 people.

Geohagen has carried most of the burden in his last two bouts against the Mills duo. He is just about the strongest wrestler in the game and the way he tosses his opponents around is a treat to watch. DiPoalo seems to be the answer for a victory. The big Italian is fast and rugged and likes the rough going.

Alan Garfield, a favorite here, tangles with Hi Lee in the semi-final. Television viewers watched Lee score a victory recently in his bout at Chicago, and were impressed the way the big fellow went about it.

Chico Garcia, a newcomer and highly regarded, takes on Polish Firpo Szybsko in the opener.

Leafs Upset Chicago 5-1 In Weekend Tilt, Blank New York Rangers

By WALTER GRAY, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Bernie Geoffrion, Montreal Canadiens' one-goal wonder, had an upset stomach Sunday night, so coach Dick Irvin let him sit out the third period in Boston. His work last week was deserving of a rest. Thursday, Boom Boom scored the only goal of the game to give the National Hockey League leaders a 1-0 victory over Toronto Maple Leafs. Saturday night, the 22-year-old right winger did it again; he scored the goal that gave the Habs a 1-0 win over Detroit Red Wings.

Despite the loss of the ailing Bernie, the Habs broke a year-old jinx Sunday night. They squeezed out a 2-2 deadlock with the Bruins, the first game the Canadian's haven't lost on Boston ice since Dec. 21, 1952. The week-end win and tie gave them a three-point lead in the league. Boston, with only one week-end game, remained in fourth place, six points behind Detroit Red Wings and Toronto Maple Leafs who share second spot.

The Leafs, beaten only once in 11 games, came up with a pair of wins during the week-end—a 1-0 effort over the fifth-place New York Rangers Saturday night and a 5-1 victory over the cellar-dwelling Chicago Black Hawks Sunday night.

The Rangers suffered their second loss in as many nights, a 3-2 defeat from the Wings.

NINTH GOAL

Geoffrion's goal Saturday night was his ninth of the season and 14,491 fans gave the Habs' star an ovation. The applause was also shared by Gerry McNeil, who registered his second straight shutout and his fourth of the season.

Sunday night, Flemming Mackell slapped in a goal at 11:04 of the first period, ending a string of 155 minutes and 36 seconds of scoreless hockey for McNeil. Twenty seconds before, Ken Mosdell had sent the Habs ahead. Ed Sandford gave the Bruins the lead in the second period but midway in the third Calum Mackay slammed home the tying goal.

Defenceman Jim Morrison Saturday night scored the winning goal for the Leafs. The 22-year-old sophomore drilled a sizzler past Johnny Bower late in the third period of a dull game.

LEAF HERO

Two goals within 9 seconds made Sid Smith the hero of the night as the Leafs got out of a jam to defeat the Hawks in Chicago Sunday. Smith's victim was 28-year-old rookie Jean Marois, brought up from Quebec Aces to replace Al Rollins, laid low with chicken pox and the after-effects of extraction of three teeth.

Howie Meeker, summoned from his coaching duties with Stratford Indians of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series to fill a gap in the Leaf line, scored one as did Tod Sloan and Rugy Migay. Bill Gadsby scored for the Hawks.

Detroit's victory over the Rangers Sunday was credited to Bill Dineen, who broke a 2-2 deadlock in the third period. The Rangers were leading 2-0 on goals by Paul Ronty and rookie Camille Henry before Johnny Wilson went into action. The left-winger scored once in the second and again early in the third, both when Ranger players were in the penalty box.

The league is idle until Wednesday when Boston meets New York.

CALGARY (CP) — The Alberta Fish and Game Association celebrates its 25th anniversary at the annual convention here Feb. 5 and 6. The group now has a record membership of 12,522 in 77 branches, which officials believe may be the largest of any similar association in Canada.

Approves Referees' New NHL Crackdown

TORONTO (CP) — Frank Boucher, manager-coach of New York Rangers, says he is happy about the way National Hockey League referees are cracking down on rule infractions.

"If we can stamp out hooking and holding, it will open up the game, provide the fans with a better spectacle and produce more goals," he said Saturday.

"I think Carl Voss, referee-in-chief, and his officials are showing good sense in the way they're making the cleanup. But there's still too much hooking and holding."

Voss said his referees have averaged a little more than nine penalties a game. He expected the list to grow.

Youthful Thieves Robbed Of Loot

OTTAWA (CP) — Eleven boys, aged 11 to 13 years, have learned beyond a doubt that there just isn't any truth to the myth that there's honor among thieves.

For their trouble, they were dismissed in juvenile court Friday with a stern lecture to behave in future.

The three youngest boys stole some of the stock left in an unlocked and abandoned produce market in Ottawa's west end. But as they made for their hideout with the loot, four older boys intercepted and robbed them.

The four boys then went to the market themselves, and — sure enough—four older and bigger boys than they met them and demanded the loot.

This last foursome got the loot and decided to go after more. It was then the police nabbed them and learned the full story of the high-jacked high-jackers.

Barbershop Quartets Present Festival Of Music

A festival of Barbershop harmony was presented in St. Peter's auditorium Saturday night when six amateur groups provided a feast of music. Sponsored by the Peterborough Chapter it was the first all Canadian recital to be held in Ontario and was definitely worthy of greater public support.

Hitherto it has been the practice to invite American quartets to participate as a boost to programs, buton Saturday night the Ontario singers proved that they could adequately fill the bill without any assistance.

EAST YORK CHORUS

The opening numbers were provided by the 50-voice East York chorus from Toronto, under the baton of Al Shields. Although it has only been making public appearances for 18 months, the chorus recently gained third place in the international competition at Detroit and in its presentation of a medley of Old Songs paved the way for an enjoyable evening's entertainment.

"Poody Poo" and "After Dark" were worthy of special mention in the first bracket. On occasions, however, the chorus was inclined to use its great reserves of volume with a little too much gusto.

The first of five quarets to appear were the Notewits from Peterborough, a new group which showed signs of nervousness in its first bracket, but definitely came out to please in the second half of the program with "Mr. Moon" and "Coney Island Babe."

BELLEVILLE SINGERS

Visitors from Belleville, the Quintones, had something to offer with a polished rendition of "Carolina." This quartet has been together for four years and in the second bracket earned spontaneous applause with well modulated harmony in the ever popular "Moonlight Bay."

The Four Canaries from Orillia made a pleasing impression with their first number, "Here's To You Old Timer," earning two recalls in which they featured "Plantation Medley" and "Roguish Eyes."

On an acclamation basis the bouquets for the evening went to the sparkling performance of the Dulcitones from Oshawa. This quartet worked as a well balanced and modulated team and there was real personality in its items. In true Barbership tradition were the humorous "Where Did Robinson Crusoe Go With Friday On Saturday Night" and "Where the Heck Do You Find Pork in a Can of Pork and Beans."

Ontario champions, the Rhythamaires from Toronto brought the recital to end, and with a difficult arrangement of "Mammy" revived the real spirit of Barbershop. "Anytime" also earned enthusiastic applause.

The Barbershop quartets will not appear again in Peterborough until next April, but music lovers who have a special yearning for the good old music of yesteryear would do well to make it a date.

Master of ceremonies was Alex Sinclair. J. O.

Veep Warns World

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Former United States vice-president Alvin Barkley said Sunday night the problems of Israel are not only Jewish but affect the whole of the free world. "There would be no greater tragedy for the free world than for Israel to fail," he said at an Israeli bond drive. "This is a new experiment in the age in which we live—building a new nation from the ruins of antiquity."

Picture Of Whooping Cranes Widely Published In America

NEW YORK (CP)—A photograph of three rare whooping cranes flying south in Saskatchewan has been published widely in the United States. The Associated Press called it "the most exceptional picture of the week."

The photograph, distributed by The Canadian Press picture service, was taken by F. W. Lahrman, a field worker with the Saskatchewan Museum of Natural History, who described his luck in getting it as a "one-in-a-million chance."

Mr. Lahrman and museum director Fred Bard found the cranes —three of 24 known extant—near Francis lake, 125 miles southwest of Regina. They took movies of the birds feeding from a distance of a quarter-mile.

The naturalists were lying in a ditch trying to work out a plan to approach them when the cranes took to the air and flew overhead at a height of 150 feet.

Mr. Lahrman, using an Exakta camera with a 300 mm. telephoto lens, snapped the birds at 1-500 of a second at f6.3 without filter. His photo showed the birds in full flight, one leading a pair flying side by side.

Naturalists are awaiting arrival of the four-foot-tall birds at the national wildlife refuge at Aransas, Tex. Twenty-one whoopers, including three young, were counted at the sanctuary early in November and the three laggards would bring the known total to 24, three more than a year ago and compared to thousands early in the century.

Report Royal Best Fair In Its History

TORONTO (CP) — The Royal Agricultural Winter fair is over and officials say it was probably the best in its history.

A colorful ceremony climaxing the horse show Saturday night officially ended the eight-day fair which drew livestock and farm product exhibits from many parts of the country, attracted international competitors to its horse show, and provided city and rural dwellers with a show window on Canada's agricultural progress.

Agricultural Minister Gardiner, speaking during the brief closing ceremony, said Canadians owe much of their ability as producers of top farm products to skills brought from other countries. Even the folk dancing at the centre of the show ring had been brought from the countries in which Canadians had their roots.

A butter statue of Mr. Gardiner was displayed by Ontario's 100,000 milk and cream producers as one of the attractions.

CADETS TAKE PART

Air Cadets carrying the flags of countries participating in the international jumping events marched into the show ring for the close-down ceremony. In the centre of the ring, on a special platform, winning square dance teams whirled to a lively tune. Lined up were the horses of the international jumping teams, prize winners in the various horse competitions and the troop of RCMP that performed their musical ride.

England won the international team trophy at the horse show for the first time since establishment of the competition in 1925. Team members were Lt.-Col. Harry Llewellyn, captain; Miss Pat Smythe and Bill Hanson.

The English team, with eight faults, had an eight-point edge over the United States. Tied in third place were Canada and Ireland with 27 faults.

BEEF PRICES UP

When top steers of the fair were auctioned Saturday, the Queen's Guineas winner, an aberdeen angus named Ike and owned by 17-year-old Ross Graham of Palmerston, brought $2.25 a pound. That was 25 cents more than last year.

The grand champion steer of the show, Ed F. Noad's shorthorn, Killearn Conquest, brought $2.50 a pound, also an increase of 25 cents. Noad is from Claresholm, Alta.

Crystal Lady, a high-stepping harness pony, swept up the $1,500 prize in her class for the seventh year in a row, but it was the Lady's swan song.

One of the greatest hackney ponies of all time the 14-year-old is going to pasture.

Her owner, Mrs. Elgin Armstrong of ABC Farms, Brampton, said she's turned down a bid of $50,000 for Crystal Lady. The horse has cleaned up close to $850,000 in prize money.

French Survival Assured–P.M.

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent said Saturday there is no longer any question of assimilation of French- and English-speaking groups in Canada.

For years, he told the St. Jean Baptiste Society, Canadians of French descent had formed organizations devoted to assuring French survival. Now survival was no longer endangered and activities of these organizations could be devoted to fostering French-Canadian culture.

The prime minister urged greater mutual respect and esteem between Canada's two official language groups.

He said he was deeply impressed by the attitude of representatives from other Canadian universities earlier this year at centenary celebrations of Laval University, Quebec City. They had voiced the hope that Canada's oldest French university would continue through its culture to enrich the nation's life.

"Dud" Bomb Did It! 19-Year-Old Injured

BRANTFORD (CP)—A "dud" fireworks bomb exploded Saturday sending 19-year-old G. Malcolm Campbell to hospital and causing estimated $1,100 damage at Brant County Motors where he works.

Campbell picked up the "dud" Friday at a fireworks display at a new supermarket. He brought it to work and someone lighted it.

The explosion blew out all the windows, demolished two desks and severely injured Campbell's left ankle.

Drama Festival Receives Praise Of Adjudicator

Belleville Theatre Guild and Peterborough Little Theatre will represent Peterborough and district as one-act play competitors in the finals of the Eastern Ontario Drama Festival.

The two groups were chosen Saturday night by Prof Arnold Edinborough, adjudicator of the three-night festival in Queen Mary auditorium. Both companies performed on the final night of the festival, the Belleville players in Noel Coward's "Fumed Oak" and Peterborough in Robertson Davies' "Eros at Breakfast."

A THIRD CHOICE

Prof. Edinborough, who added an "especially warm recommendation" for the Friday evening production of Philip Johnson's "Five to Five-thirty" by one of the two Knox theatre groups entered in the festival, told the near-capacity audience that his decision between it and the two winning plays had been a very close one.

Of the festival as a whole, the adjudicator said that, when he had performed a similar function four years before at the first such event, he was surprised that Peterborough had enough active drama groups to put on nine plays in a festival.

"What is even more commendable is that you have been able to keep the festival going," the Queen's University professor said. "Judging from the size of the audiences, you have a festival which people want to see. The people of Peterborough are fortunate in having so many active theatrical groups."

R. J. Bolton, president of the festival association, said that the size of the audience was sufficient that he thought the theatre was in a position to stand on its own feet financially and didn't have to worry about production costs and attendance figures in the future.

The president brought the producers of the two winning plays to the stage and introduced them to the audience. They were John D. Ryan of Belleville and John Londerville and Jean Leach of Peterborough.

EXCELLENT CHOICE

Prof. Edinborough described Belleville's selection of "Fumed Oak" as an excellent choice for presentation at the festival. It was written by an "excellent playwright who knows exactly what he wants to say and how to say it. There's lots to get your teeth into and Belleville certainly had their teeth sharpened.

"It was good, polished and, what's more, zestful performance," he concluded. "Part of this was due to the play but most of all to the Beleville players."

The transition from the "wedded bliss" of Coward's unpleasant family to the young love of "Eros at Breakfast" was "quite a step" the adjudicator said, commenting on the Peterborough Little Theatre production.

He was especially pleased with the stage setting, which was "simply, but well done" and the costumes "fitted very nicely into the spirit of the play."

He described it as a talky play, requiring the performers to pick up their cues quickly to prevent the action from falling apart. He felt the pace had dragged about mid-way until, towards the end, thanks to the directors' techniques of production, the play began to go again.

"But for a lack in the middle, it was a thoroughly enjoyable performance of a thoroughly good play," he concluded.

PLAYERS COULD BE HEARD

Of the festival as a whole, he commented that, where the plays had been well chosen, they had been well put on. Everybody had been audible and well made up and costumes and technical details were good.

"But the pointing of lines has to be improved," he advocated. "The intended emphasis has to be apparent in the way you speak them. You have to get beneath what is written and bring out what is there."

His final warning was that "nothing happens on the stage but what is planned—at least we hope so. Great pains and attention to detail pay off in the end."

Other plays in the three-night festival were "Mr. Sampson" by St. John's Parish Players, "The Purple Door Knob" by All Saints' Drama Club, "The Flattering Word" by Knox Theatre Group, "The Two Minute Egg" by Peterborough Community Theatre and "The Bathroom Door" by All Saints' Drama Club.

Knights Of Columbus Dinner Marks 50th Anniversary

About 300 Knights of Columbus and their wives attended a state dinner at the Empress hotel on Saturday, in honor of the 50th anniversary of the origin of the Peterborough council. The Rt. Rev. W. J. Smith, Bishop of Pembroke and Ontario State Chaplain was the guest speaker at the dinner and in his address he stressed the fact that "there is too much compromise on fundamentals in the world of today." Mayor Waddell, although unable to attend the dinner, officially welcomed members of the state board during a reception at city hall in the afternoon. Ald. Pat Anglesy represented the mayor at the dinner.

Bishop Smith pointed out that the Knights of Columbus have grown in their 71 years of existence "into a tremendous organization . . . the greatest of its kind in the world today."

He described it as an inspired movement originated by the Rev. J. J. McGivney and nine men chosen from his parish, in 1882 which has grown into one of the tremendous organizations in the world today"

Wide Appeal

The organization appeals to everyone—the clergy—and laymen of every phase of life. It is composed of members who want to do something for their church and their country. And with the state of the world today, every member is welcome and important.

"The world of today is engaged in a war of bigotry, hatred and ignorance. It is the worst battle that the church has ever had to meet. This is true not only of our church, but of all those who firmly believe in their religion. They, too, belong to the church of God."

"With hidden malice and open propaganda, the enemy seeks the downfall of the church of God."

The bishop pointed out that we have much to be thankful for, but there is much to regret. "In many countries of the world today, our God-given rights are not recognized. Thousands are fighting and dying for their religion.

"We can thank Almighty God for that great bounty of love which He has seen fit to shower upon our country."

"The peace that we have in the world today is not the secure peace that our Saviour intended. It is an uneasy and insufficient peace. Peace can only come when all the people of the earth can live as neighbors. Justice, Charity, Honesty and human brotherhood are the foundation stones of a real peace, and we, the Knights of Columbus must lead others in prayer and good example. Faith without works is dead."

CHANCE IN FUTURE

Bishop Smith closed his address by telling the assembly that although some of them may have failed to live up to the standards of a good knight, but that the future afforded them a chance to make up for past failures.

"Do not compromise on fundamentals. Always keep it God's country by prayers and good example."

The bishop was introduced by the state deputy of Ontario, Tobias Kelly and thanked by state warden, E. J. Wolff.

Mr. Woff said that the bishop had offered a challenge to his audience. "We must always hold to one idea— the salvation of our souls and the walfare of our fellow man."

Present at the head table were: Senator J. J. Duffus, Hugo F. Shaw, Joseph Delanty, Martin McPherson, state advocate, Ernie Welsh Joseph Paquette, Rev. J. McGuire, C. J. McLelland, M. Belanger, chairman of Columbian Squires, Leo Levoie, state treasurer, W. J. Sheedy; Ald. P. Anglesey, J. Goffney, state secretary, Tobias Kelly; state deputy, Rt. Rev. W. J. Smith; state chaplain, E. J. Wolff; state warden, and W. P. Kinlin, general chairman.

Officer's Child Murdered At Army Camp

SAGAMIHARA, Japan (AP) — Army investigators said today they were stumped in the vicious slaying of the nine-year-old daughter of an American colonel.

However, they suggested the killer may have been someone she knew and trusted.

The killing left a haze of fear over this huge U. S. army housing area, which usually rang with the shouts and laughter of playing children.

FOUND BY FATHER

Funeral services will be held Tuesday for pretty, red-haired Susan Rothschild, whose gagged body was found in a drainage ditch shortly after dark Saturday by her father, Col. Jacquard H. Rothschild.

Her face and neck had numerous bruises and scratches, army doctors reported after an autopsy, but "there was no evidence of rape or attempted rape."

One army source pointed out that "crimes such as this against children are very rare in Japan." It was a veiled indication that investigators may be searching for an American.

Robber Jailed 2 Years To Get Five Lashes

COBOURG (ENS) — George Hutcheon, 23-year-old Toronto man was sentenced to two years less a day plus 5 strokes of the lash by Magistrate R. B. Baxter today for robbery with violence.

Following a drinking party on November 7, Hutcheon slugged 52-year-old Frank Eberts of Cobourg with a coal oil lamp and threatened him with a knife.

To Discuss Industrial Assessment

Company Official To Outline Methods To Industrial Heads

A representative of the Charles Warnock Company of Hamilton will meet with a group of heads of Peterborough industries to explain the recent re-assessment of industrial property in the city.

City council entered into a contract with the Warnock Company last year to undertake the re-assessment of industrial property. The company also made sample assessments of commercial property and some of the larger apartment houses.

Assessment Commissioner J. E. Davis said today he had spoken to officials of the firm and they had promised to send someone to meet with representatives of local industry. No-one is available at present but a definite date for the meeting will be set by November 30, Mr. Davis was assured.

For owners of commercial and residential property, the staff of the assessment department will be at city hall each evening during the week of November 30 to December 4. All taxpayers have been invited to attend and check their new assessments for accuracy and equity.

The following dates have been arranged for the various wards. East Ward—November 30; Claraday Ward—December 1; North Ward—December 2; West and Centre Wards — December 3; South Ward—December 4.

District Cattle Sent To U.S. Breeders

A truckload of Holstein cattle started off from Peterborough this morning at 6.30 o'clock for Lancaster, Pennsylvania. Some of them were bought in this county, and others further east.

Two were from the Crowley Brothers herd in Otonabee, and two more from Bert Fife. There were several others from this district. The sales of Black and White cattle for export demand has been a sustaining factor to breeders throughout most of the year. The outlet recently was emphasized at the sale of "stars" at the Royal Winter Fair. The top prices, up to $8,000, were paid by South Americans and Mexicans.

India No Champion For Leftist Guiana

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—Prime Minister Nehru indicated today that India will not champion the deposed, leftist regime of British Guiana in the United Nations.

Asked whether the Indian delegation at the UN will raise the British Guiana issue, he told the lower house of Parliament that "India does not propose to take up any question in the General Assembly unless it is more or less forced to by circumstances."

Nehru also reported that Dr. Cheddi Jagan, ousted premier of British Guiana, has been informed that he cannot address Parliament. But he said Jagan can meet legislators informally if he wishes to.

Trapped

At least one police officer now knows how it feels to be locked up. Shaking hands with doorknobs Saturday night on George St., PC Robert Muldoon found the door of a drygoods store open. His suspicions aroused, he went inside, closed the door, and looked around. He couldn't find anything amiss, and decided everything was all right. He went to the phone though and called the manager down for a look-see. The manager arrived, stuck his head in the door, didn't see anybody, and left, locking the door behind him. And leaving the officer locked inside. PC Muldoon had to wait till the manager got home and back to the store again before he was freed.

Bar Association Threatens Action Against Council

COBOURG (CP)—The Bar Association of Northumberland and Durham counties has decided to take legal action against the counties' council if it does not soon improve court facilities at the town hall here.

Erdman Friesman of Port Hope, association vice-president, said the group has protested for many years but that it appeared "complaints are being ignored."

He termed courtrooms "disgraceful." A proper rest room for lady jurors and suitable lawyers' rooms had not been provided.

The ground floor of the Empress hotel took on an aspect half-way between a big city hotel on a football weekend and New Orleans at Mardi Gras Saturday evening as grease-painted performers of the Canadian Ice Fantasy mingled with guests at the 50th anniversary banquet of Peterborough council, Knights of Columbus, and entrants in the concert presented by the Society for the Preservation of Barbershop Quartet Singing, sounding their pitch-pipes and testing their vocal chords.

J. P. Henderson Bethany Minister Dies Suddenly

BETHANY (ENS)—A former minister of the Bethany United church charge who returned to live in retirement in Bethany, the Rev. James P. Henderson, died suddenly Saturday of a heart attack in his 66th year.

Born in Halton county, he was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Henderson. He was educated in Georgetown high school, Milton Model school and received his MA degree before taking his theological training at Knox College.

Before studying for the ministry, Mr. Henderson served overseas with the Canadian Expeditionary Force.

He was ordained at a charge in South Alberta and then served in succession at Gervin, Sask., Dawson Creek, B.C., Berwyn and Lavoie, Alberta, Renfrew, Ont. and then Bethany.

While in Bethany from 1944 to 1948 he showed his particular interest in young people and their problems. He was mainly responsible for organizing and building the community rink and even helped himself in the labor involved including digging post holes.

ILL HEALTH

After leaving Bethany he moved to Rednersville, Ont., and then Westmeath before ill health forced his retirement this summer. It was said of him that he not only preached his Christianity but lived it.

He is survived by his wife, five children, Mrs. Ray Robinson (Ernestine) and Mrs. Ralph Malcolm (Ruth) both of Yelverton; Gordon of Toronto, John of Buckingham, Quebec, Murray at home and four grandchildren, Judith and Clare Robinson and Cynthia and Karen Malcolm; a brother George Henderson of Dawson Creek and three sisters, Miss Annie Henderson, Mrs. W. R. Lamb and Miss Christina Henderson of Acton.

The funeral service will be held Tuesday at 2 p.m. at Bethany United Church. The service arranged by the Renfrew and Peterborough Presbyteries will be conducted by a college friend of Mr. Henderson's, the Rev. Armstrong of Port Perry. Burial will be in Yelverton.

Pressure Lifts Roof Off Small Oil Tank

SARNIA (CP)—Pressure of vapours lifted the roof off a small tank at the Sun Oil Company plant today. A small amount of heavy oil spilled out of the tank but manager G. R. Henderson said there was no fire.

Sarnia firemen were called to the scene, leading to speculation that a blaze might have followed the roof-lifting, described in first reports as an explosion.

Fog Blamed For 1 Crash Inside City

Driver's Vision Obscured, Rammed Into Car Turning

Only one accident in Peterborough over the weekend could be directly attributed to fog that blanketed the city Saturday night.

That one crash resulted in damage of only $150 as a car driven by Keith Mahood, 34, of Smith, smashed into a second driven by Orville Thomas, 25, of R.R. 2, Blackwater, at the intersection of Highway 28 and the centre road of Smith.

The accident occurred early Sunday morning and Mahood told police fog obscured his vision of the Thomas car which was turning left off the highway at the time.

HIT TREE

Another accident occurred at the intersection of Wolsley St. and Barnardo Ave. Sunday night as a Toronto youth smashed his car against a tree. Ross Severin, 18, had been driving east but skidded on the wet pavement.

His vehicle was damaged to the extent of $600 while he and a passenger, Glen Andrews, 18, of Bancroft, were treated for minor injuries at St. Joseph's Hospital.

The fog swelled into the city in the early evening but toward midnight had all but disappeared. In the interval, cars crept cautiously about the city as their occupants drove to many entertainments which increased the usually heavy Saturday night traffic.

Car Stolen, Man Caught In Madoc

Richard Waito, 25, of Napanee, was arrested in Madoc on Saturday in connection with a car theft. The car, a 1948 model, was found parked on the main street in Madoc about 4:00 p.m., Saturday.

It is believed that the car was stolen from a Napanee resident on November 17, but official identification has not been made as yet. Waito and his wife have been travelling about in the stolen car since that date. The wife was not implicated by police. OPP Constable Bob Devy made the arrest.

Hamilton Ti-Cats Make Grey Cup Final; Smother Alouettes 22-11

By W. R. WHEATLEY

MONTREAL (CP)—Explosive power behind a punishing line swept Hamilton Tiger-Cats to a 22-11 victory over Montreal Alouettes Sunday, and into the Grey Cup final. It was a bitter, bruising struggle in which Ti-Cats struck for touchdowns late in the fourth quarter against a grim but fast-weakening Montreal defence. Hamilton's power had to overcome a 9-0 lead the Als set up early in the second quarter through Chuck Hunsinger's converted touchdown and Ray Poole's field goal. The Als counted only a safety touch after that. Tip Logan accounted for 12 of Hamilton's points, a touchdown, a field goal, two converts and credit for a safety touch. Ed Songin and Lou Kesserow scored Hamilton's fourth-quarter touchdowns.

The Cats went into the lead for the first time after 57 minutes of play when Songin rammed over the line. It was the fifth successive crash the Cats had hurled into the Montreal line from 12 yards out.

In the last three minutes excitement and emotions of crowd and players almost blew the game to utter confusion.

Alouettes' last desperate offensive stalled and they were forced to kick. Ray Truant gathered in the ball and was downed on the Montreal 38. On the next play Bernie Custis streaked around left end and headed full-tilt for the goal line.

PETE KARPUK PLAY

Suddenly John O'Quinn, the red-headed southerner who had just left the game from his end position, leaped from the Montreal bench without his helmet, sprinted over the sideline and nailed Custis.

There was bedlam after Custis went down, six yards from the line. Fans milled about with players and officials in a general scuffle.

When things were straightened out, referee Hap Shouldice penalized Alouettes half the distance to their goal line.

In interpreting the interference rules, Shouldice decided an eligible Montreal player might possibly have caught Custis before he got over the line. Instead of awarding a touchdown, Shouldice invoked the half-the-distance penalty and placed the ball three yards out.

As it turned out, the decision made little difference. Kusserow plowed over on second down and Hamilton was in the Grey Cup final for the first time since 1935. That year they lost to Winnipeg Blue Bombers. Next Saturday in Toronto they take on the 1953 Bombers.

TAKES EARLY LEAD

Alouettes made a great bid for the victory they needed to prolong the playoff to three games. They moved in front early, a reversal of their play in Hamilton Wednesday, when they took a 37-12 lacing.

They had Tex Coulter, their all-star tackle, back in the lineup for the first time since he suffered a broken ankle Oct. 18. The big fellow did the hoofing and was a tower of strength when he went into the line on defence, but neither he nor his mates could hold out 60 minutes against the relentless Hamilton pounding.

The Cats blocked better, and quarterback Ed Songin seldom was rushed as he spied out his pass receivers—Kusserow, Custis, Logan and Vito Ragazzo. The Als Sam Etcheverry had neither the freedom nor the time Songin had.

Dressing Rooms Very Quiet After Bomber Win Over Beaches

WINNIPEG (CP)—It was quieter than usual in the Winnipeg Blue Bomber dressing room Saturday after the western champions defeated Toronto Balmy Beach 24-4 in the sudden-death Grey Cup semi-final.

The figure who usually dominates the scene was missing. Coach George Trafton caught an early plane to Montreal to scout the second playoff game between Hamilton Tigers and Montreal Alouettes.

Although the game featured the valiant effort of the lighter Balmy Beach club, some Bombers saw action for the first time this season.

The favorite gag was to offer congratulations to stars who saw little or no action. Dean Bandiera sat on the bench throughout the game. Tackle Dick Huffman saw little action and defensive end Normie Hill sat in the upstairs spotter's box.

Huffman approached Hill in the dressing room and said:

"Congratulations Doc. You finally got through a game without making a mistake." Hill is a senior intern at Winnipeg General hospital.

Bombers came out with hardly a scratch. Gerry James suffered a cut on the face during a run-back for about the worst wound of the game.

In the Beaches' dressing room, coach Chuck Klein told his players that they needn't be ashamed.

"If we'd had more weight, the score would have been different."

Beach president Sam Shefsky predicted a number of Beach players—including import tackle Oattem Fisher, a Canadian next year, and end Ken Foster—would have a good chance to make Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four next year. Beaches are an Argonaut farm team.

Curling News

Playing in the mixed rink bonspiel down at Kingston, last weekend, Dr. R. Morgan's rink lost out in the semi-finals of the main event by one shot. Thos. Doughty's rink did not fare as well.

The men's bonspiel on Saturday afternoon had a capacity entry. The idea of the skips bringing in a rink of their choice seemed to go very over big. It was a new idea and was worth a trial.

V. Brown and R. Collins supervised the spell. The winning skips were A. Jarvis, V. Brown, R. Williams and B. Switzer.

The winning skips Saturday night were: D. Charlton and A. Ingram.

With the playing of the Grey Cup finals next Saturday afternoon we doubt if many of our curlers will want to curl. More than likely the boys will be upstairs watching the game from out TV set.

Men's Scores

R. Whalan 8 — 4 H. Rutherford; B. Grant 12 — 9 G. Gable; E. Biekell 12 — 11 B. Switzer; A. Jones 9 — D. Kerr; H. Bradburn 7 — 13 W. Davidson; F. Hallowell 11 — 6 W. Morrhead.

PLAN FOUR-MINUTE MILE

SYDNEY (AP)—The star Finnish miler, Denis Johansson, will race against Australia's John Landy in the Australian mile championship at Sydney Feb. 11.

Under favorable conditions, one spurred by the other could break four minutes for the mile.

The Finn, who has been running in the United States for two years, clocked four minutes, four seconds for the mile this season. Landy's best time this year was 4:02.8—seven-tenths of a second slower than his best.

Bombers To Enter Grey Cup Classic

By AL VICKERY

WINNIPEG (CP)—Winnipeg Blue Bombers will enter the Grey Cup at Toronto Saturday against the Hamilton Tiger-Cats—the 13th time the Manitoba capital has had a representative in the Canadian football classic. Bombers earned the right to meet Hamilton by whipping Toronto Balmy Beach, Ontario Rugby Football Union champions, 24-4 Saturday afternoon in a sudden-death semi-final match. Bombers captured the Grey Cup in 1935, 1939 and 1941 and go into the 1953 championship with a 1-1 record against Hamilton teams.

An all-Canadian Winnipeg RCAF team lost 23-14 to Hamilton Wildcats of the ORFU in the 1943 final. But in 1935, Winnipeg upset Hamilton Tigers 18-12 for the West's first win over eastern opposition.

Back in that 1935 final, a hard-plunging back by the name of Eddie James was a member of that Winnipeg squad which downed Hamilton. Eighteen years later, his son, Gerry, now 19, will be in the Winnipeg lineup as Bombers take on another Hamilton team.

Bombers, making their first Grey Cup bid since they were blanked 13-0 by Toronto Argonauts in 1950, had little difficulty in sidelining the light Beaches.

SAVED BEST PLAYERS

Coach George Trafton used his regulars sparingly after Winnipeg assumed the lead in the first half. Two all-stars, offensive end Bud Grant and defensive guard Dean Bandiera didn't see any action although both were dressed. Hard-hitting defensive end Normie Hill watched the game from the spotters' box.

The underdog Beaches displayed their best form in the first quarter, when they took a 4-0 lead on a field goal by import half Dick Gregory and a single by George Ellis.

After failing to scrimmage the ball out of their own half of the field in the first quarter under signal-caller Joe Zaleski, Bombers roared back to take an 8-4 lead at the half as fiery Jack Jacobs took over.

Close to 26,000 fans, shivering in about 30-degree weather and a biting north wind, got their first chance to cheer when Jacobs completed an end-zone 21-yard pass to end Neill Armstrong. Bud Korchak converted, and Bombers added a safety touch before the half ended when Ellis was caught behind his own goal line after a poor snap.

FIRST MAJOR

Ron Kelly, 19-year-old rookie fullback, scored the only points of the third quarter with a touchdown from six yards out, his first major of the season. The convert was missed.

Len Meltzer plunged over from the two-yard line for another Winnipeg touchdown midway in the last session, after he had moved the ball down from the Beaches' 21 on a pass from Jacobs. The score remained at 19-4 when Korchak's convert attempt was blocked.

Youthful Geoff Crain, a McGill graduate, took over at quarter for Bombers in the last three minutes of play, and opened with a pass-and-run play to Ernie Becker which went for 47 yards and a touchdown. Korchak split the uprights to end the scoring. It also was Becker's first major in 1953.

Biltmores Bow To Marlies 6-3 As New Player Dispute Grows

To break the monotony of a season filled with just hockey games, another player dispute has arisen in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series.

Involving the seventh - place Guelph Biltmores, who could use some player strength, and Toronto Marlboros who are in a two-way tie for third, the dispute is centred around defenceman Al MacNeil, now with Toronto Marlboros.

The Biltmores say MacNeil belongs to them because of a deal the Guelph team made with the Dukes near the end of last season. The deal involved a number of Toronto junior B players who were supposed to go to the Biltmores at the start of this season in exchange for the use of Guelph forward Billy McCreary by the Marlboros in the stretch drive of last year's schedule. Marlboros loaned McCreary last year when they still had a chance to enter the Memorial Cup playoffs.

Most of the Toronto players who were promised to Guelph joined the Biltmores this year but MacNeil said he wouldn't go. Roy Mason, Guelph manager, said the player wouldn't go because he was told by Staff Smythe, Marlboros manager, to refuse to report. Mason said he couldn't get permission to talk to MacNeil.

As a result the Guelph manager appealed to Clarence Campbell, president of the National Hockey League and Campbell Sunday night announced that he will confer with officials of both clubs to clarify MacNeil's status.

Campbell told Mason the NHL did not like a player, whose options are taken up by a professional club, playing for another sponsored club. But he asked for the history of the case and called the meeting for Wednesday in Toronto.

Meanwhile, the Biltmores lost another argument to the Dukes when they dropped a 6-3 decision to the Marlboros in one game of Toronto's doubleheader Sunday.

Toronto St. Michael's College Majors edged out Hamilton Tigers 4-3 in the second game to maintain their third-place tie with the Marlboros.

Both Toronto teams lost their games Saturday night. Galt Black Hawks squeezed out a 4-3 home-ice victory over Marlboros and St. Michael's were posted 7-2 by the last-place Citadelles in Quebec.

St. Catharines TeePees decisioned Barrie Flyers 3-2 in St. Catharines and Kitchener - Waterloo Greenshirts earned a 3-2 victory over the Tigers in an extra period in Hamilton during other Saturday games.

Ross Sneddon, Billy Harris, Tom McCarthy, Jack Bionda, Dave Jackson and Wally Maxwell counted for the Marlboros to help defeat the Biltmores. Ed Shack, Bill McCreary and Bob Attersley fired singles for Guelph.

St. Michael's rode to their victory on goals by Paul Knox, Ken Linesman, Brian Anderson and Bill Colvin. Ted Reid, Ed Louttit and Lou Dietrich clicked for Hamilton.

The Greenshirts came from behind a 2-0 deficit in Hamilton Saturday for their overtime victory. Grieg Hicks won it after Graham Joyce and Bud Horne had tied it up. Real Larouche and Lou Dietrich had given the Tigers the lead. Joe Zorica, boarded by Gord Onotosky of the Greenshirts, was taken to the hospital with head injuries.

The second-place Galt Black Hawks made it eight consecutive home victories by downing Marlboros. Frank Bettiol sparked the Hawks with two goals. Rich Collin and Ed Switzer bagged the others. Wally Maxwell, Dave Sanderson and Tom McCarthy clicked for Toronto.

St. Catharines TeePees took their third consecutive win by defeating Barrie. Brian Cullen kept on his hot scoring streak for St. Catharines, netting two goals and assisting on another. Jack Armstrong notched the other for St. Catharines. Arnold Smith fired both for the Flyers.

Desperate Getty Pass Gives Mustangs Title

By JIM BASTABLE

TORONTO (CP)—University of Western Ontario Mustangs went into the records today as college football's 1953 champions because they ruined in the last 40 seconds of the season a pass defence no other team could beat all year.

The Mustangs won their ninth Senior Intercollegiate Football yard touchdown pass in the dying seconds to defeat University of Toronto Blues 12-8 in the sudden-death final.

They stunned the Blues and 10,000-odd fans at Varsity Stadium with an all-or-nothing pass from quarter Don Getty to half Murray Henderson that turned almost certain defeat into a dramatic victory.

Getty, who quarterbacked the defending-champion Mustangs to second place behind the Blues during the regular six-game schedule, fired his desperation pass when his team trailed 8-7 and was stalled near midfield by a strong Varsity line.

A split second before he was smothered by three tacklers, Getty flipped a high, wobbly ball that Henderson took on the Varsity 15-yard line and tumbled over the goal line with a tackler grabbing at his sweater.

Three plays later the Mustangs were mobbed by fans as they trotted from the field. It was coach Johnny Metras' seventh title since he took over the Mustangs in 1940.

Metras said after the game:

"Getty's pass was tremendous. I didn't think it was going to hit Henderson because he appeared to be pretty well covered. We were up against a strong team. I was mighty worried until Henderson went over."

BLUES BLUE

The Blues, called to win this one on the strength of their 12-0 victory over the Mustangs here Nov. 7, said little as they trudged to their dressing room. Coach Bob Masterson, who was going for his second league title in three years, left immediately after the game.

It was quite a finish for Metras, who was forced to build up his club after graduations left it weak along the line and in the backfield. However, five of his Mustangs who were voted to The Canadian Press all-star team this season played big roles in the victory, particularly big Gino Fracas, a 200-pound half who went for big gains and some fine runbacks.

The Mustangs, who made nine first downs compared to Varsity's 16, scored on majors by Henderson and flying wing Don Prowse. Fracas converted one touchdown. Jock Thompson kicked a single in the second quarter.

Half Phil Muntz, one of the league's best halfbacks who made big ground gains for the Blues, scored the Varsity touchdown in the first quarter. Steve Oneschuk converted that and added a single in the third quarter. All-star flying wing Al Haig kicked a fourth-quarter single that put the Blues ahead 8-7.

Sullivan Scores For Hershey Against Bisons

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Week-end action in the American Hockey League left the stampeding Buffalo Bisons well ahead of the competition.

Sunday night, the Bisons fought hard for a 4-3 victory over the second-place Hershey Bears, after drawing 5-5 with the Pittsburgh Hornets Saturday. In the only other Sunday night game Providence Reds downed the Hornets 4-2.

At Buffalo, with about three minutes left to play, Gordie Pennell scored on a breakaway. Other Buffalo scorers were Joe Lund, Don Marshall and Ken Hayden. Hershey snipers were Arnie Kullman, Dkip Teal and George Sullivan.

The improving Providence Reds moved away from a 1-1 deadlock after one period of play and outscored Pittsburgh 3-1 in the last two stanzas.

Pete Kapusta, Paul Larivee and Chuck Scherza scored for the Reds. Al Baccari and Pete Backor tallied for the losers.

2 Immigrants Killed In Plane Crash

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Two immigrants, residents of Sarnia, were killed Sunday when their light Chipmunk plane crashed into a field near here.

Dead are Henry Scholtens, 28, and Paul Helmut Petzold, 24.

Police said the engine of the craft piloted by Scholtens, who came to Canada two years ago from the Netherlands, apparently failed after the two had been flying more than hour.

Petzold, a native of Germany, died in hospital soon after he was pulled from the wreckage by ambulance attendants. Scholtens was dead when police arrived.

The pair, in company with Ingrid Malten, 23, of Sarnia, drove here in an old truck owned by Petzold.

Scholtens was licensed as a pilot in Holland and Canada and was a member of the Windsor Flying Club, owners of the craft the pair came here to rent.

Miss Malten, also a native of Germany, remained at the club while her companions went for the flight.

FORCED TO REMAIN—Cpl. Edward Dickenson, of Big Stone Gap, Va., waves as he arrives at Travis Air Force Base, Calif., after his repatriation. He told newsmen that the Reds in Korea forced him to remain behind during the PoW exchange under threats of death. Dickenson said that if the other Allied PoWs knew he desired repatriation "they would have gotten me—not necessarily the Americans but the South Korean prisoners. They were violently Communist."

Expanding Canadian Production Transforms Country's Economy

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The face of the Canadian economy is undergoing steady transformation. Helping to make that change is Canada's expanding manufacturing industry.

Once the baby of the Canadian economy, the manufacturing industry has turned into a $17,000,000,000 giant. And it is still growing.

As it grows, Canada becomes less dependent on imports and finds employment for more of her highly-trained technicians. The state of her manufacturing is the key to the relative well-being of any highly industralized modern state.

Completing an annual survey, the bureau of statistics estimates that production in Canada's manufacturing industry expanded by more than $500,000,000 in 1952, reaching a new high of $16,915,000,000.

That represents a six-fold growth in 35-years, from $2,820,000,000 in 1917. In those 35 years, the number of manufacturing plants have increased to 37,000 from 21,800.

RECORD EMPLOYMENT

With the increase came a doubling in employment. The army of workers rose to an all-time high of 1,275,000 in 1952 from 606,000 in 1917. Wages and salaries made a five-fold jump to a high of $3,600,000,000 from $497,800,000.

The giant needs food and he's a big eater. The cost of materials purchased by these plants rose to a record of $9,104,000,000, six times higher than the $1,539,000,000 purchased 5 years ago.

The fuel and light bill to run these plants has jumped to $395,000,000 from $98,388,000.

The business of producing food and drink is the biggest in Canada, though plants making wood, paper, iron and steel as well as other metal products and transportation equipment are high on the list.

Trenton Mayoralty Three-Way Choice

TRENTON — When Trenton voters go to the polls Dec. 7, they will have to choose between two brothers and a veteran town councillor for the office of chief magistrate.

Mayor R. E. Whitley, seeking his second term, is being opposed by his brother, R. J. Whitley, former councillor, and Ross Burtt, railroader, who has served on council for 15 years and now is facing his third three-way mayoralty contest.

When qualifications closed Saturday night, 12 names were listed for the vacancies on council, and seven for four seats on the Board of Education.

Those contesting the council seats are: Gerald Weaver, Ken Kenney, Laura Cummings, C. V. Graham, Norman Rickett, Jack Goldberg, James MacDonald, Don McPherson, Robert Smithrim, Charles Hilton, N. J. McNair and Reg Armstrong.

ST. MARYS (CP)—Former councillor Paul Hover, defeated in a mayoralty bid two years ago, Saturday night received an acclamation for mayor. Two others were nominated but failed to qualify.

Gleaming Liner Ready For Royal Tour

By ROBERT JONES

LIVERPOOL (AP)—The 15,902-ton S. S. Gothic is steaming westward after months of hammering and welding to make the gleaming luxury liner a ship fit for a Queen on a world tour.

And the Gothic's skipper, 61-year-old Capt. David Aitchison, has his fingers crossed, hoping everything goes off well.

For the Gothic, pride of the Australia run, will take aboard the Queen and her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, Thursday at Kingston, Jamaica, one day after the Royal couple arrives by air from Britain, for their journey to Australia and New Zealand.

The trim and graceful cargo liner which normally carries around 85 passengers in her luxurious cabins will sail through the Panama canal to the western Pacific. For five months the Queen and her husband and the host of servants and officials with them will make their home aboard the ship.

THIRD TIME CHOSEN

It's the third time the Gothic has been picked to take royalty on the Australian trip. The first time in 1949—the voyage was cancelled when King George VI had an operation on his leg. In February 1952 the Gothic was waiting with steam up at Mombasa, Kenya, for the Queen—then Princess Elizabeth—to come aboard and travel to Australia in her father's place. The trip was cancelled by the sudden death of King George.

It took three months to convert the five-year-old Gothic into a Royal ship back in 1949. Most of the Royal apartments have remained virtually untouched, locked and bolted ever since.

In 1949, workmen grafted an extra seven feet on the Gothic's funnel—just to make sure no smoke would blow in royalty's face. They tore out bulkheads and built extensions on to the promenade deck to make airy windowed cabins aft for the King and Queen, and converted two passenger suites into Royal night cabins.

ENTOURAGE OF 85

The Queen's entourage which will number around 85 will have to occupy cabins used by ordinary passengers on normal voyages. Their offices will be cubby holes built into the children's playroom. Their lounge will be the ship's plush vernada cafe.

When the Queen steps aboard the ship Thursday she will be conducted to her suite on the ship's starboard side. By an old sea custom, important passengers always are given starboard quarters.

The color scheme throughout the ship is pink and green—pink for the Royal lounge and the Queen's night cabin, green for her day cabin, looking out on the shelter deck aft.

Air conditioning will keep the Queen cool in tropical waters as she sleeps at night or works at her desk by day in a cabin decorated with wall brackets shaped as sheaves of corn.

A "sesame" to efficiency is a 12-buttoned tablet next to the telephone. All she has to do is press her finger on the right button, to summon equerries, secretaries, ladies in waiting and stewardesses.

Her day cabin, where she and the duke will relax in off-duty moments, is furnished with a couple of settees, two armchairs and an electric fire. Loudspeakers built into the ceiling provide soft music at the touch of a button.

Leading out of the cabin is a small pantry with a refrigerator to supply a snack whenever the Royal couple feel hungry.

The duke's day cabin—also with a green color scheme—is furnished like the Queen's. At work he will sit at a massive mahogany desk used by Queen Victoria on her Royal yacht 100 years ago.

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—An end to turkey raffles here has been asked by butchers and grocers in a letter to C. C. Savage, crown attorney. Retailers were being left with unsold turkeys by people who ordered them, then won turkeys and cancelled their order.

TORONTO (CP)—Ancient copper implements found in excavations near Toronto came from as far away as Saskatchewan and Iowa, Professor J. N. Emerson, assistant professor of anthropology at the University of Toronto, said Saturday night in a Royal Canadian Institute lecture. He said these discoveries by researchers indicate hte trade of the Iroquois Indians was extremely wide.

Driver Survives Crash

GALT (CP)—A freight train hit an automobile at a level crossing Saturday and dragged it 462 feet. Police chopped through the top of the wrecked car and sawed away half of the steering wheel to free the driver, A. B. Red Proposal Declined By PoW Delegates

PANMUNJOM (AP) — The Korean prisoner repatriation commission today voted down a Communist plan to get the stalled PoW explanations going again on Red terms.

The Red interview program remained at a standstill with only 25 days left to woo anti-Red PoWs home.

The Polish delegate on the commission, proposed that compounds be built to segregate Korean and Chinese prisoners summoned by the Reds but not interviewed.

The issue is the cause of the present stalemate.

NOT PRACTICAL

The custodian Indian command has termed such division impractical, and said there are not enough compounds to separate the PWs.

The Indians have told the Communists to interview entire 500-man pounds in a day, but the Reds, working slowly, have failed to do so, and have demanded the left-over PoWs after interviewing only part of a compound. The Indians have refused to call them.

The Swedish delegate on the repatriation commission said there is little hope for resuming the interviews.

The officer, Maj.-Gen. Ja Svenstrom, said all war prisoners who have not returned to their homelands should be released by Jan. 22.

He sided with the United Nations interpretation of the armistice agreement, which set a 90-day explanation period to end Dec. 23 and a 30-day period for the political conference to consider the fate of the PoWs. Those remaining were to be freed at that time.

In negotiations for the political conference, Allied delegates agreed on Russia as a member of the conference—but as a "full participant" on the Communist side rather than a neutral.

U. S. ambassador Arthur Dean again proposed that Russia attend the meeting as a belligerent after urging the Communists to explain their plan for neutrals to attend the conference.

The Allied-Red preliminary talks are in their fifth week.

Eastern Canada's Weekend Violent Deaths Total 26

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Three multiple traffic fatalities in the Montreal area, one near Chatham, Ont., and a plane crash that killed two immigrants at Windsor, Ont., helped bring the week-end toll of violent deaths in eastern Canada to 26.

A Canadian Press compilation today showed 15 fatalities listed in Ontario, 10 in Quebec and one in Nova Scotia. Traffic mishaps took 18 lives.

The smash of a truck against a Montreal viaduct pillar killed Gilles Rivest, 26, Sylvio Doyon, 24, and Gerard Martineau, 20, and injured Robert Doyon, 21.

SEPARATE ACCIDENTS

Separate accidents in Montreal district killed Alcide Hanault, 37, and Krisopher Hanson, 45, whose loaded truck crashed into two fog-shrouded cars, and Charles Vacon, 25, and Miss Gilberte Paul, whose car went out of control on a curve.

Also in the Montreal district, Elibrius Hamel, 80, was fatally injured when struck by a car.

A truck-car collision near Windsor, N. S., killed Kenneth Robertson, 16.

TWO DIE NEAR CHATHAM

Near Chatham, Ont., Leamington residents Andrew Crozier, 60, and Lorne Ives, 42, died when their car plunged into a ditch.

Victims of other Ontario traffic mishaps were Joseph Strapcsansky, 63, in a car which hit a bus near Toronto; William C. Stewart, 28, whose car rammed a Toronto street car; John Trafford, 13-year old Toronto cyclist hit by a car carrying a wedding party; Betty Elliott, 21, of Niagara-on-the-lake, occupant of a car which overturned in a ditch; Pietro d'Andrea, 24, who jumped from a moving truck to retrieve his hat; and Heikki Ylagalo whose car plunged into a ditch near Port Arthur and Don Whitney, 21, of Orillia, thrown from a car he was taking to a garage to repair.

Killed in the plane crash near Windsor were Henry Scholtens, 28 and Paul Helmut Petzold, 24, both of Sarnia. Scholtens' father lives in Rotterdam and is vice-president of the Shell Oil Company in Holland.

STUDENT BURNED IN CAR

Charles Paynter, 23, Ottawa collegiate athlete, was found burned to death in his parked car. In Toronto Ronald Wilson, 2, died in a fire believed started by his four-year-old brother who had a habit of playing with matches.

Trp. Douglas Johnson Spent 9 Mos. In Korean Front Lines

Tpr. Douglas Johnson, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Johnson, 650 Armour Rd., and one of four sons in Canada's military service, returned from active duty in Korea on Saturday.

Tpr. Johnson first enlisted when the Korean war broke out, but was soon found to be under age, and discharged. This temporary setback did not alter his plans, however, and in August of 1951 he re-enlisted with the 27th Canadian Brigade. As it turned out, this section was destined for service in Germany, so Tpr. Johnson transferred to the 27th. From here, he joined the Royal Canadian Dragoons and trained at Wainwright and Petawawa.

In October of 1952, he learned of a mixed group shipping out for Korea, volunteered to go, and joined the Lord Strathcona Horse, a tank outfit. As it turned out, the group didn't sail for Korea, but rather flew over, first class, with Canadian Pacific Airlines.

TO FRONT LINES

Shortly after his arrival in Tokyo, Johnston was ordered to the front lines where he served for six months. About three months after his arrival, two of his tank crew were wounded. The event happened on Hill 131. Johnson's tank was reloading ammunition under heavy artillery fire. An enemy shell exploded near the tank and the crew commander, Cpl. G. Gravelle, and L-Cpl. C. Clarke were struck by shrapnel. Luckily Johnson escaped unharmed, and the enemy eventually retreated.

After about six months of active duty, he returned to Tokyo for a seven-day rest and recuperation leave, and them returned to Korea for another three months.

This time he was joined by a friend, Tpr. Nick Nickerson, of Windsor. The two were posted in "Y" section and were together until almost the end of the war.

Seventeen hours before the peace was declared, Tpr. Nickerson was wounded. He was in the tank immediately preceding Johnson's and he was the last Canadian to be wounded in the war.

Johnson served guard duty in the militarized zone along the line for about two weeks after peace was declared, and was then advised that he would leave for home. Together with members of the Princess Pats, RCR's and Strathcona's, he sailed from Inchon, on the Yellow Sea, on October 31.

Heavy seas on the return journey caused a great deal of worry among some of the men. When waves broke over the deck, and the propellor broke surface, they were sure that the ship was going down, but eventually the boat docked in Vancouver harbor, and the returned men were given a civic welcome.

Last Saturday, the folks at home welcomed Tpr. Johnson with a party, including his friends and relatives. His three soldier brothers could not attend, however. After his 64 days' leave, he will return to the Lord Strathcona Horse, where he will remain for about six months. After that his plans are indefinite.

"This afternoon, I'm going downtown and getting some civvies, and that's for sure."

Ex-Premier To Speak In Own Defence

By PARVIZ RAEINS

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Ex-premier Mohammed Mossadegh said today he had changed his mind and would speak in his own defence. He added he would keep on speaking until the court-martial trying him on treason charges gags him.

In an interview the ex-dictator declared: "I will go on speaking as long as they let me. If they give me a month, then I will speak a month."

Reminded that he earlier had told the court that he would refuse to speak in his own defence, Mossadegh grinned and said:

"That's only what I said."

Mossadegh has been shifting his trial tactics in recent days. Formerly he buried his head on his folded arms as prosecutor Brig. Hossein Azemodeh read the indictment and expanded on the charges. From time to time the 73-year-old politician nodded, yawned, and even slept.

In the last two or three days, however, he has been carefully scribbling his own notes and directing his lawyer also to make notes. His attitude has been marked by alert attention instead of disinterest and boredom.

Mossadegh said he still was uncertain whether he will call any witnesses. He declared: "I don't think I really need their help yet. I am well able to take care of myself."

The aircraft's route was largely over bush and muskeg. Temperature in the area was below freezing and snow covered the ground.

India May Play New Mediation Role

PARIS (AP) — Indian Prime Minister Nehru was quoted today as saying that under certain conditions India would be willing to negotiate for an end to the war in Indo-China.

The statement was published by the newspaper France Soir in a cabled report on an interview with Nehru.

"We could only help in trying to find a solution in Indo-China when we were satisfied that our aid could be useful. At the present time, we do not have this conviction," Nehru was quoted as saying.

Admits Strangling Man To Be Arraigned

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—Robert George Werner, 41-year-old housepainter who police say admitted strangling his wife after an evening of drinking beer and watching television, faces arraignment today on a charge of first-degree murder.

The pyjama-clad body of Werner's estranged wife, Mrs. Lillian Harmon Werner, 43, was found sprawled on a sofa in her suburban home early Sunday.

Werner was taken into custody about a half hour after Miss Julia Harmon, 20, daughter of Mrs. Werner by a previous marriage, telephoned police to say she thought her mother was dead.

Lawyer Praises Ontario Police

KINGSTON (AP) — Ontario police have a reputation for honesty and integrity, G. Arthur Martin, Toronto lawyer, said here Saturday.

Mr. Martin, in an address at the Ontario Chief Constables' Association convention, said the future of Canadians is "safe in the hands of Canada's law enforcement officers."

The function of the police officer was not to secure a conviction but to produce all the evidence available, he said.

"No decision is arrived at by caprice but by measurement of evidence entered."

Robert Robert of Belleville was elected president. He succeeds C. Bagnall of Chatham. Vice-[illegible] Alexander of Toronto and J. Truaisch of Kingston.

Next year's convention will be held in St. Catharines.

Columbus' Home Port To Be U.S. Naval Base In Spain

WASHINGTON—Cadiz, Spain's Atlantic port which may soon be opened to United States warships under the recently concluded U.S.-Spanish defence pact, served as home base for Christopher Columbus when he sailed for the New World.

Announcement of the new agreement, just prior to the 461st anniversary of Columbus' arrival in the New World on October 12, grants the United States the right to use a number of Spanish air and naval bases in return for military and economic aid. The accord extends for 10 and possibly 20 years.

Seville, Madrid and Barcelona are regarded as probable airbase sites. In addition to Cadiz, other U.S. naval bases may be established at El Ferrol on the Boy of Biscay, Cartagena, Valencia and Alicante on the Mediterranean coast and Mahon in the Balearic Islands.

In the port of Palos de la Frontera on the Bay of Cadiz stands a large Columbus monument. It serves as a reminder that from there the navigator sailed on the history-making voyage that gave the world a new hemisphere.

Columbus Day is a national holiday throughout Spain. Genoa, Italy—the explorer's birthplace—the West Indies. North, Central and South America also observe the date. It is a holiday in many of the 48 states.

In the Canary Islands, off the northwest coast of Africa, the 800,000 inhabitants celebrate the "Day of the Race" on October 12. Columbus made stopovers in the Canaries on all four of his voyages. Long considered the western limit of the world by ancient geographers, the Canaries developed a new stock from the intermingling of Old and New World people pioneering Atlantic crossings.

San Salvador, an island in the Bahamas, was the first land reached by Columbus in the New World. He went ashore at several other points in the Bahamas on his initial voyage and also discovered Cuba and Hispaniola. The latter island now comprises the Dominican Republic and the Republic of Haiti.

Three galleons and 14 frigates, manned by 1,500 sailors, made up the second and largest Columbus expedition, in 1493. On this voyage he discovered the Virgin Islands, Leeward Islands, Puerto Rico and Jamaica. One thousand colonists debarked at Hispaniola to establish the first European colony in the New World.

Hoping to find more gold than his first trips had collected, Columbus sailed farther south on his third voyage in 1498. He landed at Trinidad and later, for the first time, set foot on the continent of South America. The admiral's fourth and last trip added Honduras and Panama to his list of New World discoveries.

Who Makes Milk Judge To Decide

OTTAWA (CP)—Judge A. G. McDougall must find the answer to a knotty question, one that has never been decided in Canada. The question: who manufactures milk—the dairy or the cow?

The Borden Co., Ltd., dairy brought the question before Judge McDougall in an appeal against an Ottawa court of revision decision that it is a manufacturer of milk. The dairy is seeking to have itself classified, for assessment purposes, as a retailer of milk.

If the dairy is classified as a retailer it pays a business tax of 30 per cent of its realty assessment; a manufacturer pays 60 per cent. Judge McDougall has reserved decision.

Marriage Failures Alarm U.K. Papers

LONDON (Reuters)—The pro-Labor newspaper The People said Sunday that an appalling number of the marriages between United States servicemen and British girls during and after the Second World War have failed.

"For the sake of posterity and in case a similar 'invasion' happens again, let it be put on record that marriage between British girls and foreign soldiers is a failure," the paper says.

"Even if we make all allowances for the minority of these romances that have been a fairy-tale success, the grim truth is that of the 1,800 marriages between American servicemen and foreign girls — mostly British—since the war, no fewer than 774 have failed."

Too Many Deer

NORTH BAY, Ont. (CP)—William Avery was driving on the highway near here when he was confronted by three deer. He managed to avoid two of them but struck the third, which disappeared in the bush despite leg injuries. The front of the car was badly damaged.

Eager Applications

MEDICINE HAT, Alta. (CP)—The public school board here was swamped with letters after advertising in a London newspaper and a British teachers' magazine for teachers to come here. An early count showed 30 applications for posts and 170 inquiries about opportunities.

Artist Honored

U.K. Food Mission Will Close Down

OTTAWA (CP)—The British food mission, established in 1946 to take care of the many food agreements between Canada and the United Kingdom, is closing down.

With its closing, Sir Andrew Jones, energetic director who has guided the mission since the outset, is leaving Canada to return to Britain where he plans to retire to his country home.

Sir Andrew said closing of the mission is the result of the gradual process of turning from bulk buying to a return to private trading which has been taking place during the last two years.

The change, he says, is one of method, not necessarily of quantity of purchase.

Maritime Link Open Next Year

WASHINGTON — The Canso Causeway, projected first land link bewteen Cape Breton Island and the rest of Nova Scotia, may be ready for road and rail traffic next year.

Hitherto all traffic has crossed the narrow Strait of Canso by ferry. The first of these was established in 1883. But from January to April each year, boat schedules were sometimes interrupted by ice in the Strait.

VACATION LAND

The ever-increasing importance of Cape Breton Island both as vacation land and seat of industry dictated construction of the $22,800,000 causeway.

Highlands National Park, covering 390 square miles on the northern end of the Island, may recive as many as 35,000 visitors a year. Mines in the Sydney area, some of them extending four miles out under the Atlantic Ocean, annually produce 5,000,000 tons of coal. Part is used in huge nearby iron and steel mills.

As from the very beginning, fishing is a major Cape Breton industry. Fish may have attracted Norse sea rovers who knew about the Island as early as the 10th century. Basque fishermen may have given it is name 100 years before Columbus discovered America. John Cabot claimed it in 1497 for England.

Of all the ports on the Atlantic seaboard, those of Cape Breton are nearest the shipping centers of Europe, Africa and South America. This, coupled with the Island's strategic position commanding the entrance to the St. Lawrence River, brought the French and British into prolonged battle for its possession.

Before the American Revolution erupted, England's American colonists helped her crush French power on Cape Breton. The final blow was the leveling of Fort Louisburg, France's "Impregnable" bastion.

SCOTCH SETTLERS

After that, settlers poured in from the Highlands of Scotland. Their descendants still speak Gaelic and keep alive the tradition of the Highland Games. A few Islanders descend from the Acadians, whose expulsion from the Nova Scotia mainland in 1755 gave Henry Wadsworth Longfellow the theme for his poem "Evangeline."

Ancient Cape Breton has played its part in modern scientific discovery. At its Beinn Bhreagh estate near Baddeck on the salt lakes of Bras d'Or, Alexander Graham Bell, inventor of the telephone, experimented with airplanes, fast boats and agriculture.

The first successful Atlantic cable was landed at Cape North in 1867. The first airplane flight in the British Empire was made in 1909 over the Lakes by J. A. D. McCurdy, who had worked with Dr. Bell. In 1902, a radio station on Cape Breton Island received the first wireless message transmitted from Europe.

Goulah-Halpin Wedding

St. Alphonsus Roman Catholic Church was the scene of a pretty wedding Saturday morning when Aleen Dorothy, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph B. Halpin, became the bride of John Basil Goulah, son of Mrs. Anne Goulah, and the late Mr. Charles Goulah, all of Peterborough. The Rev. J. O'Donnell performed the marriage ceremony and said the nuptial mass.

Bouquets of white and mauve 'mums and ferns decorated the altar and the altar table. The wedding music was played by Mrs. R. G. Aman and Mrs. E. Collis was soloist, singing "On This Day", "Ave Maria" and "O Sacred Heart Thy Love Divine" during the service and the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was in a beautiful gown of white Chantilly lace with the skirt in eight tiers, to the floor, and the strapless bodice topped with a matching lace styled with Peter Pan collar and tiny buttons fastening it to the waist, and with lily point sleeves. Her veil of nylon net was caught to a lace coronet and she was carrying a cascade of red roses.

Miss Margery Lucas of Toronto, a niece of the groom, was the maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Bernice Withers and Miss Marie Woodgate, both cousins of the birde. Their frocks were of nylon in mauve, blue and pink, with the skirts falling in four tiers and they wore matching nylon jackets over the strapless bodices. Each wore a floral bandeau in the color of her dress and they carried bouquets of mauve, white and yellow chrysanthemums.

Mr. Dorian Goulah of Detroit was groomsman for his brother. The ushers were Leonard Goulah of Belleville, also a brother of the groom, and Robert Woodgate, cousin of the bride.

The reception was held at the Club Aragon. Mrs. Halpin received in a dress of copper lace and was wearing a copper shirred satin hat trimmed with seed pearls and a corsage of yellow roses. The groom's mother wore a black crepe dress with red accessories and had a corsage of red roses.

When leaving later on their wedding trip to Detroit, the bride was wearing a blue wool knitted suit with matching blue hat, a topcoat in turquoise and grey check and navy accessories. Her going-away corsage was of pink carnations.

Overwhelming Success At St. Giles' Group 1st Tea

The first tea and bazaar to be held by the young women of new St. Giles' Presbyterian Church on Saturday afternoon at the YWCA, was an overwhelming success.

Five hundred tickets were sold in advance of the tea and a large number of friends paid their admissions at the door to treasurer Mrs. Gregg Wilson, who was assisted there by Mrs. Donald Byers.

The younger women of this new congregation have organized themselves as the "Friendship Group" and have about 45 members. Their president is Mrs. Wm. Clark who was receiving the guests to the tea room, assisted by the vice president Mrs. Jack Easton, and Mrs. Joe Mortimer, who was general convener of this event.

Mrs. G. Wilson Craw acted as hostess in the tea room, seeing that all guests were served as quickly as possible. At one point during the tea hours there were nearly 50 ladies waiting admittance to the Green Room and Y officials said that such a crowd had never been in waiting for a tea in their previous experience.

The tea table would have made a most charming picture for Christmas with its bright red cover and centrepiece of the glittering and decorative metallic balls, with the corners marked by saucy little round snowmen who seemed to even have expression in their pin-pointed felt eyes, heightened by the jaunty tilt of their green felt hats.

Mrs. Ed Browne who was in charge of the tea room was also responsible for the tea table arrangements and the decorations with a Christmasy flavor throughout the room.

The tea was poured by Mrs. Charles G. Boyd, Mrs. Bruce Johnston, Mrs. J. McCuaig and Mrs. Lionel Monk and the guests were served by Mrs. Roy Juby, Miss Eva Johnston, Mrs. B. Bolam, Mrs. Earl Powers, Mrs. E. C. Stevenson, Mrs. Douglas Melville, Mrs. Lloyd Endicott, Mrs. Percy Dyer and Mrs. J. Porter.

Tea table supplies were in charge of Mrs. Bert Mortlock, assisted by Mrs. Alex. McCulloch, Mrs. Walter Bristow, Mrs. A. Phillips, Mrs. Fred Johnston Mrs. Arnold Smith, Mrs. J. Rosenburg and Mrs. A. E. Parsons.

A pleasant background of music throughout the tea was provided by Mrs. Lloyd Estabrook and Miss Betty Thomson.

In the bazaar section there was a varied assortment of gift articles, and aprons, all hand-made by the members, with a table of doll's clothing which was a money-maker as well as an attraction for those "just looking."

The doll's clothes were for sale by Mrs. Alex. Thomson and Mrs. Clayton Hodson. Mrs. Harry Wood and Mrs. John Robertson were selling the knitted articles and Mrs. Ross Armstrong was in charge of the aprons, assisted by Mrs. John Law, Mrs. J. L. Young and Mrs. Harold Lunny.

The home baking table did a rushing business, as long as supplies held out, and was in charge of Mrs. Donald Penrose with Mrs. Robert Waldie and Mrs. C. G. Bell assisting with sales. Candy was sold by Mrs. Leo Herr, assisted by Mrs. D. C. Grant.

The Evening Guild Group of the church also had a bazaar table of miscellaneous articles which was convened by Mrs. F. Finnie and Mrs. Albert Parsons, assisted by Mrs. Wm. Morrison, Mrs. V. Whittington, Miss Sylvia Rutherford, Miss Fanny Rosenburg, Mrs. Stanley Mahood and Mrs. Fred Leach.

After the worship service, the Rev. Heustin of Millbrook introduced Miss Helen Bricker, guest speaker, who recently returned from Japan and India as National Work Secretary for the Presbyterian Church in Canada. Miss Bricker showed slides showing her work in the East, and presented a very interesting talk on her work in Japan and India.

Mr. Heustin thanked Miss Ruby Walker, Miss Helen Bricker, Miss Margaret Webster, Mrs. C. H. Bowan and the Rev. J. S. Clarke, who were guest speakers throughout the training institute week. All gave interesting talks on the different church organizations.

Following a dedication service conducted by the Rev. A. E. Toombs of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, Campbellford, the benediction was pronounced by Mr. Clarke. Members of the YPS served lunch at the close of the meeting.

Lady-In-Waiting Frocks Feature Red, Sand Gold

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Some 26 gowns designed by Angele Delanghe, resident couturier at a west end store controlled by Canada's Garfield Weston, (Fortnum and Mason) went into the wardrobe trunks of Lady Alice Egerton, the Queen's lady-in-waiting on her round-the-world tour.

Flame red and purple, sand gold, navy and cool floral prints were chosen by this elegant slender woman, so often seen walking behind the Queen.

"Many points must be remembered in the choice and fitting of such gowns," Miss Delanghe said in an interview. Colors and styles must always be less noticeable than those worn by the Queen. It is also important that all outfits look as well behind as they do in front and for such a long tour they must be almost uncrushable.

SIMPLE EVENING GOWN

All these points were kept in mind when Miss Delanghe designed a simple, flowing floral print organza evening gown with apple green background. It has camisole neckline and even the posies of matching flowers splayed across the skirt from waist to hem are crease-resistant. Each petal is made from the dress material and hand-stitched so that even if the flowers are crushed they still look well.

Lady Egerton picked more than one strapless gown from Miss Delanghe's fashion collection — but tradition demands that straps be added. These range from narrow cording to two-inch widths.

Her brightest ball gown is a flame red chantilly lace semi-crinoline with simple, clinging lines and wide hem. An intriguing point is the deep fringe of matching suede velvet that fringes and weights the skirt two-thirds of the way round. The centre back skirt is all lace, making a perfect train.

Lady Egerton has also packed three of her Coronation gowns, including a shaded purple crinoline made from 75 yards of fine ruched nylon tulle studded with brilliants.

INFORMALITY STRESSED

Most of her gowns, however, are simple. When the tour was planned, the Queen insisted that the accent on dress for all but the biggest state balls should be informal. Dinner jacket and evening suit will not be essential on most occasions and for royal garden parties the rule is "wear what you please."

Lady Egerton finds, however, that formality in her dress is best. She has packed only one cotton style. Most of her gowns are in the light-weight French and Swiss materials favored by the Belgian-born couturier.

An embroidered Swiss lawn in black and white has been chosen for a cocktail dress with Eton jacket. A rich brown embroidered lawn with appliqued seams and shoulder-wide "V" neckline makes a garden party number, elegant in contrast to the pastel shades the Queen favors for such occasions.

Lady Egerton has chosen much navy including a pure wool coat dress with long sleeves, slim lines and skirt fullness swinging from all-round inverted pleats that start low on the hip. Two or three wool outfits have been included.

MR. AND MRS. JOSEPH SHAUGHNESSY of Peterborough, the bride formerly Miss Josephine O'Brien, were married Saturday morning at St. Peter's Cathedral. —(Roy Studio Photo)

Josephine O'Brien Is Bride

A pretty double ring wedding ceremony took place Saturday morning at 10 o'clock, in St. Peter's Cathedral, uniting in the holy bonds of matrimony Josephine Joyce Ann O'Brien, daughter of Mrs. Mary M. O'Brien, to Mr. Joseph Omer Shaughnessy, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Shaughnessy.

The Rev. J. E. Gaughan officiated at the marriage and said the nuptial mass. The altar was decorated with pink and white 'mums and ferns, the sanctuary with standards of pink and white 'mums and palms. The bride's table was decorated with pink roses. Mrs. R. G. Aman was the organist and Mr. Robert Baldwin was soloist.

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. James W. Behan of Cobourg and she chose a white gown of Chantily lace and nylon net with bouffant skirt with lace insertions. Lace jacket et with long sleevese pointed over wrists, Peter Pan collar beautifully trimmed with rhinestones and pearls. Her satin and lace Queen Juliana cap was caught to a nylon net finger tip veil. She carried a white prayer book with two gardenias and white streamers.

Miss Paline O'Brien was maid of honor for her sister. Miss Aileen Behan of Cobourg cousin of the bride was bridesmaid. Their ballerina nylon net with satin dresses were alike of Odette and Windsor blue with feathered headdressees and gloves to match. Each carried Colonial bouquets of roses and 'mums.

Miss Marilyn Lang of Cobourg also a cousin of the bride, was flower girl, daintily dressed in lavender net, lace and taffetta, with matching headress and gloves.

She carried a bouquet of mauve and white 'mums.

Master Douglas Grieve, nephew of the bride, was ring bearer. Mr. Vernon Shaughnessy, Toronto, brother of the groom was groomsman. Ushers were Raymond O'Brien, brother of the bride, and Jack Drohan of Hamilton.

The reception was held at the Kawartha golf and country club. The bride's mother received, wearing a dress of cherry wine embossed nylon boucle, black assessories and corsage of pink roses. Mrs. Clare Wolff, aunt of the groom, also received, wearing a dress of periwinkle blue with American beauty accessories and a gardenia corsage.

Guests were present from Montreal, London, Toronto, Grimsby, Hamilton, Oshawa, Cobourg, Brighton and Omemee.

The bridal couple left on a motor trip to the United States. The bride's going-away outfit was a winter white wool boucle suit, with rust hat, gloves, purse and shoes and she wore a muskrat fur jacket.

On return they will live at their new home on Donegal Street.

DOROTHY DIX

Woman Irked By Newsless Letters

DEAR MISS DIX: As the holiday season approaches, I am beset with a problem that's been with me for several years. I have had a very dear friend, a girl I have known for 35 years. We are both married, living quite a distance from each toher, but keep in touch by mail. However, her letters are brief, and not at all the gossipy, personal letters I write her. She sends gifts at Christmas and on other special occasions, but the sending seems very impersonal. Our relationship now seems to me to be strained and I am wondering if I should return the gifts she sends at Christmas.

SALLY

MAKE MOST OF FRIENDSHIP

ANSWER: Please, please don't do anything so rash and discourteous. A taken-for-granted friend is much better than none at all; make the most of this friendship on the terms it stands. Writing letters comes much easier to some people than to others, and I think you can put your friend's failings in this department rather than personal disinterest.

DEAR MISS DIX: Can you use this in answer to some of the girls who are so anxious to marry at 16 and 17? I married when I was 17; my husband was 30. Before the wedding he took me out almost every night and we had lots of fun. Now he has settled down and wants to sit home seven nights a week. I'm 19 now, and would still like some fun occasionally. My husband is wonderful in all other respects.

LULU

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: I hope your letter will help some girls who think they're ready for marriage at 16 or 17. This later yearning for good times missed is a principal reason for advising against too-early marriages. Of course, when the warning comes from me, or my contemporaries, youngsters shrug it off as coming from an old fuddy-duddy. From one their own age, they may see that it makes sense. Thanks for your help.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Last year, when I was 16, I became engaged. My family didn't approve of the boy, so I left home and took an apartment with a girl friend. Now my fiance and I are constantly quarrelling. He keeps postponing the wedding, saying he can't afford it, etc. Should I stick to him, or give him up?

JENNIE B.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Your question is entirely superficial. The boy is apparently giving you up, so I don't see that you have much choice in the case. Why hang on to him until he tells you in no uncertain terms that he's tired of you? Now he's giving you a chance to break up gracefully. Take it and go back to your family. ou should be convinced that they were right in the first place—as families usually are.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I've been very friendly with a boy for some time. Our parents have never met. My friend's sister is being married, and I'm invited to the wedding. However, my family says I shouldn't go because they weren't invited too.

MARIA J.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: It's easy to judge from your writing, and manner of expression that you have not been very long in this country. your parents, therefore, have not had much time to assimilate the new customs that they should, in the course of time, adopt. In the Old World, weddings were expansive affairs embracing even distantly connected relatives. Here, they are on a smaller scale. Under these conditions, your parents should not expect to receive an invitation, and it's quite all right for you to attend without them.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Never Turn Down Offer Of Help From Husband

Old Nosy was sitting quietly on the train listening unabashed to the conversation in the seat ahead of her.

"I can do the everyday things, but Stewart—that's my husband—thinks of the extras."

"Doeth he make the thaladth? I alwayth make the thaladth for Ruth. The thayth the doethn't know how to make thaladth any more thinth I've taken over."

What I concluded was that a harmless little train flirtation was going on with the topics of conversation being the husband of the girl, and the wife of the lisping young man.

It took all my self-control not to stand up and lean over to get a better look. But I tried to look like a lady—so settled for eavesdropping.

I have been thinking of asking you how much you encourage—by subtle or obvious means—your husbands to help with the cooking?

In my opinion the home life of a family is only successful to the degree that all of the members share in all of the work.

If a man knows how to toss a salad (I mean toth a thalad) or broil a steak then he appreciates your salads and steaks more, for he knows the effort you put into making them perfect, and that you are hoping for a precious bit of praise from him.

Never turn down offers of help from your husband. Even if he is in your way, or takes too long or is apt to turn out a failure, encourage his every idea. Even get out of the kitchen if he likes to do his cooking without being watched.

If you never get even the tiniest nibble of an offer of help call for help when you are beating some heavy batter like the fruit cake. Your muscles are aching, you do need a strong right arm. This way their masculine strength comes into play. Next time take a little sample dish of whatever you are concocting right up to him with a spoon or fork for tasting and seriously ask him if he likes it or what you should add.

It's a cinch to rouse their interest and from there on never let it flag. If they express precious appreciation of your cooking say: "I made it because I knew you liked it."

Build up and cultivate that mutual interest in food and very soon you will have even a man who has never washed a dish hanging around the kitchen.

Such wonderful things happen in kitchens.

Sometimes I can hardly get dinner on the table because of the crowd around the oven door, where a Yorkshire Pudding or a batch of cookies are doing their best to bake in spite of constant openings and shuttings of that oven door.

My sister, Doris Clark, was asked to be a member on a Citizen's Forum panel. The topic was "Is City Living Destroying our Pioneer Virtues?"

The consensus of opinion was varied, for the debate seemed to boil down to the virtues of city living versus country life, with the tacit conclusion that city living tends to attract parents and children away from their homes.

Don't let the city advantages break up your home. You are the heart of it. Keep that heart beating warm and strong.

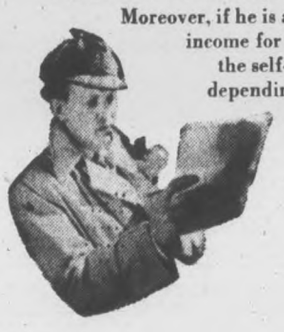
Easy-to-find clue to a man's character!



Among many a man's private papers are certain documents that can tell you things about him which you might not otherwise learn for some time.

These documents are his life insurance policies. And they indicate, for instance, that the man who owns them probably is thrifty, foresighted and realistic.

Here too is quite reliable evidence that he is a good provider — one who is genuinely concerned about his family's future welfare. And this, in turn, suggests that he is considerate of others.

Chances are he is also a dependable worker. For his ownership of life insurance demonstrates readiness to assume responsibility — an attitude that helps a man in any job.

Moreover, if he is also using life insurance to build income for his later years, you can bet he's the self-reliant type. You won't find him depending on relatives or charity to do what he can do for himself!

All in all, he's probably like most life insurance policyholders in every community — a really solid citizen!

AT YOUR SERVICE!

A trained life underwriter, representing one of the more than 50 Canadian, British and United States life insurance companies in Canada, will gladly help you plan now for your family's security and your own needs in later years. Rely on him!

German Girl Accused Of Red Espionage

GARFENWOEHR, Ger. (AP)—American counter intelligence agents said today that a pretty German blonde arrested when she tried to pay a U. S. soldier 1,000 marks ($238) for military information was a Czech secret service agent.

Margarete Pfeiffer, 24, was charged wiht espionage. The girl was arrested Sunday as she started to pay the soldier.

The soldier told authorities two weeks ago that the girl had offered to pay him for two army training instruction books.

Methodist Row Over Queen's Race Going

LONDON (Reuters) — A row over royalty and racing threatened to break out in British Methodist ranks today.

At least two Methodist ministers have opposed charges by their leader, Dr. Donald Soper, that the Queen should not attend horse races.

The Queen, meanwhile, quietly visited Sandown racetrack on Saturday and watched the meet.

Dr. Soper, president of the Methodist conference, repeated his criticism Sunday night at an open air meeting in Edinburgh. He said he regarded racing as one of the principal mediums of gambling, a waste of money and an unChristian practice.

Much of the criticism has come from the press.

TWO DEFEND QUEEN

But Sunday a Methodist minister suggested that Dr. Soper was not speaking for the majority of his church.

The Rev. Geo. Artingsall, speaking in Sheffield, called Dr. Soper's criticism "unfair, unnecessary, and at the same time harmful to our standing as a loyal body."

He said the Methodists have no complaint about the Queen, "a paragon of Christian womanhood."

The Queen's attendance at race meetings was also defended by the Rev. Anthony T. Rouse, Methodist minister at St. Christopher's church, Plymouth.

He described racing as a relaxation for the Queen, and "a clean British sport."

Sunday Hunting Plan Proposed

SUDBURY (CP)—Vacation outfitters in two conferences 625 miles apart agreed Sunday that Sunday hunting should be made legal.

The Northern Ontario Outfitters Association meeting here and in Kenora, 625 miles northwest, proposed Sunday hunting to allow the city workman to use his week-ends in the sport.

The meetings also passed a motion urging the Ontario government to require resident fishermen to buy fishing licences. Now, only non-residents of Ontario need licences, except in special areas.

The meetings suggested the extra revenue to be used for conservation.

The two gatherings discussed the resolutions by telephone.

Hiss Refused Parole From Prison

WASHINGTON (AP)—Alger Hiss today lost a second plea for parole from prison.

Dr. Paul Tappan, chairman of the U. S. parole board announced: "The board of parole today automatically reconsidered the parole application of Alger Hiss and agreed there should be no change in the previous order of denial of parole."

The application of the former state department official — now serving a prison term on conviction of lying when he swore he did not give government secrets to the Communists—was first considered and turned down just one year ago. Under board procedure, it came up automatically for a further look 12 months later.

Hiss, 48, one-time state department official, has now served two years and eight months of the five-year sentence given him on a perjury conviction in early 1950.

In the absence of favorable parole action, Hiss will leave prison in November, 1954, if he earns full credits of time off for good behavior.

PLAN FLOATS

But there will be floats, although nothing like the horses and chuckwagons Calgary Stampeder supporters took east in 1948 or the oil derrick Edmonton Eskimos sent down in 1952.

The city plans a float and there's talk that the Winnipeg pipe band may go along. City council tonight will be asked to vote the money needed for the city's parade contribution. Alderman Jack St. John, a member of a special sub-committee appointed to plan Winnipeg's participation, estimated the amount at "not more than" $2,000.

NO $ SIGN FOR OLYMPICS

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (AP)—Avery Brundage of Chicago, president of the International Olympic Committee, Saturday reaffirmed his determined stand against the admission of professionals to the Olympic Games.

'The Olympic Games are as free from dollar signs as possible," Brundage said in a press statement, "and we intend to keep them that way."

The statement, issued by the international committee's headquarters here, referred to recent press articles which claimed 'that amateurism in sport no longer exists, that amateur organizations should stop wasting their time trying to enforce the amateur rules, and that the Olympic Games should be thrown open to all."

"Such stories show an abysmal ignorance of the philosophy of sport and the Olympic movement," Brundage said.

MAGLIOLI LEADS RACE

PARRAL, Mexico (AP)—Italy's Humberto Maglioli picked up eight places in the big sports class of the Pan-America road race as he flashed across the finish line first here on the initial leg of Sunday's 437-mile run between Durango and Chihuahua.

Argentina's Juan Manuel Fangio and Italy's Piero Taruffi, both driving Lancia's, followed in that order.

Maglioli, whose Ferrari had been forced out by motor trouble Saturday, had taken over Mario Ricci's Ferrari to remain in the race.

Maglioli's unofficial time for the 251 miles is two hours and 15 minutes, nine minutes ahead of Fangio.

Ice Show Wins Approval Of Audiences

Visiting Peterborough on its second coast-to-coast tour Saturday night, Canadian Ice Fantasy of 1954 was presented before satisfied audiences in afternoon and evening performances.

As a result of inexperienced spotlight operators and inadequate arena facilities, however, the show could not be appreciated to the extent it deserved.

It was not without outstanding features however, and one of these was Dave Pencosky, billed as a "stilt perfectionist". Though perhaps his act was not as difficult as it seemed, Pencosky's antics on foot-tall extension skates rated the applause given him.

Through an ankle injury, his partner, Bob Clossin, was not able to participate in that presentation but came back later in a comedy act with Pencosky, "Dude Ranch".

The highly billed star of the show, Yvonne Broders, appeared in two solo performances but was outshone by other performers like Iris Peebles and Frank Shirley.

Charles Murphy starred with Iris Peebles as the one-time Western Canadian Pair champions appeared together while Fran Shirley soloed as Goldilocks in a Three Bears presentation that was well-received by the many children in the audience.

The afternoon program included 15 numbers and another, Dancing in the Dark, was added for the night show.

7 Companies Fined $170,000

TORONTO (CP) — Seven rubber companies and the Rubber Association of Canada were fined a total of $170,000 today on charges of operating a rubber combine.

Mr. Justice W. F. Schroeder handed down his decision today. The companies pleaded guilty to the charges last week.

The companies and the association pleaded guilty to two charges of fixing prices of rubber footwear and automobile tires, and repressing competition in both.

Five firms were convicted previously on charges of fixing prices of mechanical rubber products and fined a total of $50,000.

Special crown prosecutor T. N. Phelan said during the trial the accused companies and "co-conspirators" accounted for 85 per cent of the rubber footwear sold in Canada.

Wall Collapses

HELENA, Ark. (AP)—The wall of a building collapsed into a moving picture theatre here Sunday night, filling some 15 rows of seats with bricks and rubble. The seats were unoccupied and only a few persons were in the audience. Police said the two-storey adjoining building, housing an appliance store, was demolished. A separate roof covers the theatre. Confesses Killing 15 Women

YONEZAWA, Japan (Reuters)—Police stated today that Geno Kurita, 27, a travelling peddler, has confessed to murdering 15 women, most of them prostitutes, since 1946.

Kurita, already sentenced to death for the brutal sex murder of two women last year in Chiba, north of Tokyo, still is awaiting trial on charges of raping and murdering a 24-year-old girl, her 63-year-old mother and a 17-year-old girl, also in Chiba.

Last week he told police he had beaten a woman to death and buried the body after making love to her in a forest. He went to the scene of the crime with police, who recovered the remains.

Police said other murders he had admitted were being investigated. Twelve bodies already have been recovered.

Rhee Willing To Step Aside

SEOUL (AP)—President Syngman Rhee declared Sunday he "would not stand in the way" of free nationwide elections in a unified Korea.

Replying to questions by reporters, he also said he would step aside as president so the voting population "may choose a president freely"—as long as there is no outside interference.

Rhee said he believed there would be no opposition to him as president of the unified north and south except that of the Communists, who would want him to have nothing to do with the government.

The civilian population of the north "is hoping and praying that their brothers of the south will come and save them from death," Rhee said.

Polish Versions Of Old Crafts Taking On Canadian Motifs

AURORA, Ont. (CP)—A talented artist-craftsman team have established in Canada traditional Polish versions of ancient crafts, now fast taking on Canadian motifs.

Konrad and Krystyna Sadowski have been in the country only a few years but the Polish couple are well-known to the Canadian Handicrafts Guild for their pottery and the latter has won international awards with her wool tapestries.

The Sadowskis during the last two years lived at Indian Harbor, N.S., 30 miles from Halifax. There they worked in two studios and sold their wares in a roadside store.

They moved to this town, about 25 miles north of Toronto, a few months ago and now are teaching at the Ontario College of Art.

SCORNS MOULDS

Konrad is the potter of the Sadowski team. He scorns the use of moulds and for special pottery projects uses one of the oldest machines known to man—the kick-wheel. He also has an electrically-turned potter's wheel.

Krystyna designs the pottery and weaves exquisite tapestries. She dyes all her wool in the true tradition of the craftsman. Her designs for pottery and tapestries are a blend of mythology from Poland and South America. More recently her designs have been lively and rich with marine life and the tales of Nova Scotia fishermen.

Life has not been a haven of artistic retreat for the Sadowskis. They met in Brazil before the Second World War. Konrad was sent there by the Polish government to give physical training to Polish immigrants in isolated communities.

Krystyna went to Brazil in 1937 to teach weaving and met her husband when he delivered messages that had arrived for her from Europe.

One of the messages was that her mother was dead. The other was that she had won a French government gold medal for an exhibition in Paris.

RETURNED TO POLAND

The couple returned to Poland just before the war and after harrowing experiences escaped to North Africa. They later went to England and when the war ended, returned to Brazil.

In 1949 Krystyna held an exhibition in Rio de Janeiro which included a tapestry of reindeer and snow. She called it "Dream of Canada," although she had never visited this country. But she knew something of its climate which seemed attractive in the heat of Brazil.

A member of the Canadian embassy saw the prize-winning tapestry. Invitations to Canada followed from the governments of New Brunswick and Nova Scotia, offering better working conditions.

L. A. C. Panton, principal of the Ontario College of Art came across the Indian Harbor pottery while on holiday and offered the Sadowskis posts at the college.

They still have their place at Indian Harbor and will return there for the four-month summer vacation to work.

Eventually they hope to devote all their spare time to experiments with new glazes and designs in pottery.

Few Heirs Follow Fortunes Of American Car Industry

By DAVID J. WILKIE

DETROIT (AP)—David Buick, Louis Chevrolet, Walter Chrysler and the two Dodge brothers founded great automobile empires. But their heirs strangely declined to follow in their footsteps.

The automobile industry apparently holds little attraction, or has few places, for the families of its famous founders.

The grandchildren of the late Henry Ford are carrying on the huge empire he created on a shoestring 50 years ago. But gone from the industry are the families of the men who gave their names to Buick, Chrysler, Dodge, Nash, Hudson, Packard, Studebaker, Willys and Chevrolet.

Some are absent because their grandparents chose to sell out; some because bad luck overtook their ancestors, and some as a matter of choice. Actually the industry created fewer wealthy families than generally is believed.

DIED IN OBSCURITY

David Dunbar Buick died several years ago in a garret. Louis Chevrolet, a French auto racer who built the first car bearing his name, died in obscurity in Detroit. Walter P. Chrysler's family no longer has any part in the administration of Chrysler Corp.

The two Dodge brothers, Horace E. and John F., died in 1920 and 1921, and left huge fortunes, but none of their family chose to stay in the auto business. Charles W. Nash, who was "bound out" as a boy to a farmer for his board and keep, died wealthy.

Hudson got its name from a pioneer Detroit merchant but there are no Hudsons in the Hudson Motor Car Co. today. The Packards and the Studebakers have long since dropped out of the affairs of the companies their forebears founded.

Willys got its name from John North Willys, a one-time salesman who took over the ailing Overland Motor Car Co. and revived it, but he left no members of his family in its councils.

STRONG SURVIVED

The history of the auto industry is one of cut-throat competition and survival of the strong. Many of the more than 2,500 companies founded over the last half-century lost their identity in mergers and consolidations. Most of them, however, just folded up as expenses outran income.

As early as 1897 there were such cars as Pope-Hartford, Struss and Winton. Later came names like Bachelles, Rogers and Hanford, Schacht, Schaum, Goethmobile, Santos Dumont, Cutting, Southern Six and many others.

Each year brought a new crop. Each year also many makes discontinued. The industry did bring great wealth to some of the pioneering families, but it pauperized thousands of others.

Of all the stories associated with the auto industry's development, none is more fantastic than that of the late William C. Durant. Twice controlling stockholder and head of General Motors Corp., Durant sometimes was called a modern Midas. He won and lost several $100,000,000 fortunes, chiefly in Wall street operations. When he died six years ago he was broke and all but forgotten.

School Teacher Shot Alarm U.K. Paper

SUDBURY (CP) — Provincial police said Sunday that school teacher Peter McCarthy, 19, formerly of Guelph, whose body was found in dense woods in nearby Crerar township Saturday, shot himself in the head with a rifle taken from the farmhouse where he was boarding. They said they could suggest no reason.

McCarthy was graduated with honors from Hamilton Teachers' College last May. In September, he started his first job as a rural teacher.

He disappeared Thursday. Since then about 30 searchers, including his older brothers, Eric and Harold of Guelph, sought him in the bush country 35 miles east of here.

Born and educated in Guelph, McCarthy was a son of Mr. and Mrs. John McCarthy of Guelph.

Ontario Truck Roadeo Finals Start Today

TORONTO (CP)—Finals in the Ontario Truck Roadeo start today with drivers vying with each other in contests intended to test their skill in the safe handling of big road transports.

Ontario champions will compete with provincial champions from British Columbia, Alberta, Manitoba, Quebec and the Atlantic provinces for national honors and a total of $4,000 in cash prizes.

Bill Metler of Kitchener advanced to the finals in the straight truck division while Pete McKinnon of Ripley went on to the finals in the tandem axle trailer division.

Steel Decline Not Alarming

CLEVELAND (AP)—More than 10 per cent of U. S. steelmaking capacity is idle for lack of business, but the production decline thus far is not considered alarming, Steel magazine reported today.

"Almost everyone expected the drop," the metalworking weekly said, "and long-range predictions for the steel industry radiate an optimism."

Steel attributed much of the decline to a downward reduction in inventories and said that "It's thought in some instances, inventories have been reduced so far that their owners would scurry forth to order steel" if it appeared demand were rising.

Many economists, Steel noted, agree that industrial production in 1954 should not fall much more than five per cent below the 1953 level.

KNOCKED FROM HIS PERCH on a ladder as he was readying a truss to be lowered from the top framework of the old Stewart barn, Douglas A. Murray, 31, Oshawa, fell 30 feet to the floor of the barn and was instantly killed when his head was crushed by another falling beam.

Worker Falls, Crushed By Timbers

Falling Truss Kills Oshawa Man Demolishing Barn

A 31-year-old construction worker, Douglas A. Murray of 205 Highland Ave., Oshawa, was instantly killed about 3:30 p.m. Monday when he fell 30 feet to the floor of the former Hugh Stewart barn in the Westmount subdivision near Civic Hospital.

A native of Little Shemogue, N.B., Murray was employed by Douglas Hicks, Blackstock contractor, who started to demolish the barn two weeks ago to make way for the housing subdivision.

Two half-ton trusses, made of 6 by 10-inch cedar and hemlock timbers, had already been removed from the roof of one wing of the large brick barn. Murray was standing on a ladder fastening a rope to another truss before lowering it to the ground, when a fourth truss, behind him, suddenly toppled over, striking the truss he was working on. Both trusses crashed to the floor, carrying Murray with them.

PINNED TO FLOOR

Murray's head was pinned to the floor by one of the trusses. His skull was crushed and one arm fractured.

None of the five other men working with Murray knew what actually caused the truss behind Murray to topple. Edward Hicks, the contractor's brother, said that the truss to which Murray was fastening the rope was secured by temporary scantlings and the one which first toppled over had still been fastened to the cross-beams.

"There were two other men working on top of the wall and I was down on the floor with my back towards Murray," Hicks said. "I heard somebody yell 'look out!' and I ran out of the way. When I looked around, Murray's head was pinned to the floor and we had to lift the truss to get him clear."

Murray was born October 18, 1922, in Little Shemogue, N.B., son of Waldo A. Murray and the former Annie Hayes. He had one son, Douglas Amos.

Coroner Dr. Herbert Young said he didn't expect there would be an inquest into Murray's death.

Funeral arrangements have not yet been completed.

World Warned Solve Food Crisis Or Face Revolutionary Wrath Of Starving Millions

ROME (AP)—The world was warned today to either solve its food crisis or face the revolutionary wrath or a mostly-hungry populace increasing at the rate of 100,000,000 persons every four years.

Norris E. Dodd, one-time United States undersecretary of agriculture and now general director of the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization FAO, told the organization's seventh world conference:

"It must be frankly faced that the distribution of production between the developed and the under-developed regions remains unchanged, unbalanced and unsatisfactory . .

"Moreover, government plans and programs, even if fully achieved, do not offer prospect of significent improvement in these disparities . . .

"The millions who are short of food and other necessities of life have become, year by year, more keenly aware that a better life is possible. They are demanding action to improve their lot".

FAO estimates that 70 per cent of the world's population is ill-fed, and that this population is increasing at such a rate "that there will be over 100,000,00 more people to feed in 1956-57 than there are in 1952-53".

Singing, Cheering Crowd Gives Queen Impromptu Welcome At Gander Field

GANDER, Nfld. (CP)—Queen Elizabeth arose early today to acknowledge a singing, cheering crowd which had stayed up for her. That was one of the two surprises that turned up during the unofficial Canadian stop of the Royal tour at this big international airport. The other was that the big stratocruiser bearing the Queen and Duke of Edinburgh was 22 minutes ahead of schedule. The Queen spotted two old friends at the foot of the ramp and beckoned to them. Assistant comissioner F. E. Anthony, the RCMP chief during the 1951 Canadian Royal tour, and Cpl. Tom Hunt, also a member of the contingent, ran up the steps and got a hearty handshake.

"It's so nice to be in Canada again, even if only for a short stay," said the Queen, who was hatless but wore form-fitting blue coat, blue dress and a triple string of pearls. The Duke wore a dark blue business suit.

The two scarlet-coated Mounties gave the Queen Canada's impromptu welcome during the 94-minute refuelling stop-over before the plane took off for Bermuda and the first formal stop of the 50,000-mile tour of 14 Commonwealth countries.

SLEEPY CROWD

A section of the crowd of more than 300 which had gathered sleepily in the hope of catching a glimpse of the Royal couple subsided after chanting "we want the Queen" and singing "for she's a jolly good fellow." After it was circulated that the Queen and Duke were sleeping only one girl continued to shout: "It's time to get up." But even she gave up.

There was a long, disappointed "ah" when the servicemen who worked over the plane pulled away the ramp.

Suddenly the Queen appeared, followed by the Duke. They had heard the crowd and turned out of their beds, dressed hurriedly and

Find Airwoman Missing For 19 Months

VANCOUVER (CP)—A 28-year-old Victoria airwoman, who turned up Sunday after being missing for 19 months, is under detention at RCAF headquarters here.

Isobel Burton vanished April 15, 1952, from the RCAF station at Aylmer, Ont. She surrendered to RCAF police at Victoria during the weekend.

Mystery surrounds the activity of the airwoman during her 19-month absence from Aylmer.

ALL OVER CONTINENT

"She has been all over the North American continent," an RCAF spokesman said here, "but we have not got the details. She must first be questioned by a senior officer."

The spokesman said the RCAF had "a tip she was coming home" and RCAF police interviewed her at the home of her aunt and uncle in Victoria.

"She decided it was best to clear up the mystery of her disappearance," said the spokesman.

"I believe she came here from San Francisco but we are not sure."

The spokesman said Miss Burton would be charged with desertion and would be held in detention here pending an Ottawa decision on whether she will be tried on the charge here or be returned to Aylmer.

Dulles Lauds Pearson's Good Record

Defends Propriety Of Committee's Request To Canada

WASHINGTON Reuters — State Secretary Dulles said today that he was not aware of any attacks on Canadian External Affair Minister L. B. Pearson by any responsible person or group whatsoever.

Dulles praised highly Pearson's anti-Communist record.

Dulles specifically was asked to comment at his weekly press conference on a statement by a Canadian member of Parliament that mud was being thrown across the border and that the first target was Pearson.

Dulles at the same time defended the propriety of the action of a Senate committee in asking the Canadian government through the state department that Igor Gouzenko be made available for questioning by them. Gouzenko is a former code clerk in the Soviet embassy in Canada who deserted with evidence of Soviet espionage and is at present a ward of the Canadian government.

The Canadian government has rejected one request by the committee to this effect and has a second request under consideration.

EXPRESSES CONFIDENCE

Dulles expressed his confidence that the Canadian government would make its response as a wholly independent sovereign power. He pointed out that the Canadian government has its own rights and will defend those rights just as the United States government would.

He added that he was also confident that the Canadian government would be motivated by a sense of friendliness just as the United States government would.

He expressed sympathy with the desire of the committee to interview Gouzenko. The question was whether, in the light of new facts revealed, Gouzenko had information which would be useful in meeting the continuing menace of communism.

PRESTIGE UNHURT

Dulles was asked whether the state department had received reports that the controversy over the Harry Dexter White case was damaging United States prestige abroad.

Dulles replied that so far the summaries of foreign press reac-

UN Official Labels Writer's Charges 'Foul, Ludicrous'

MONTREAL (CP)—The recent attack on the Canadian minister of external affairs by a United States writer was described as foul and ludicrous" by a high Canadian United Nations official, Dr. Hugh L. Keenleyside, Monday. His protests were supported by David Croll, Liberal member of Parliament for Toronto Spadina, who said in the Commons throne speech debate that "vicious cats' paws of McCarthyism" are using "political blackmail" on Canada to have Gouzenko testify before the security sub-committee.

Dr. Hugh L. Keenleyside, director general of the United Nations technical assistance administration described L. B. Pearson, object of the attack, as "one of the finest men in the public life of Canada."

Dr. Keenleyside, a Canadian, was referring to statements by Victor Lasky, editor of a book called 'The American Legion Reader," that Mr. Pearson tried to block U.S. investigation of Red espionage.

CALLS IT ABSURD

Earlier, Mr. Pearson described the remark, made to a meeting of the Women's National Republican Club in New York Nov. 17, as "false to the point of absurdity."

Croll said this 'blackkmail' was being done by "smearing" External Affairs Minister Pearson. He called on President Eisenhower, who made a "courtesy visit" to Ottawa Nov. 13-14, to repudiate the attacks.

HANDS OFFICE NOTICE

"I think the time has come to serve a hands-off notice to McCarthyism," Mr. Croll said. "The time has come to bring home to them that we are not going to be pushed around."

McCarthyites were prepared to set up Mr. Pearson "as their next candidate for trial by slander" if Canada turned down the second request for Gouzenko, who now lives under an assumed name and RCMP guard in an undisclosed Ontario town.

"The McCarthyites now want Igor Gouzenko to join the circus and do some one-night stands on television. . . Gouzenko is manna from heaven for them." The fact that Gouzenko could provide no new evidence was "of no consequence" to the McCarthyites.

WRONG MAN, COUNTRY

Referring to the "smear" against Mr. Pearson, Mr. Croll said: "Well maybe the smear works south of the border, but it will not work in Canada. This time the McCarthyites have picked the wrong country and the wrong man for their smear."

Stanley Knowles, CCF member for Winnipeg North Centre, said the entire Commons agreed with Mr. Croll. If Gouzenko was inter-

Blames Schools, Homes For High Navy Rejections

VICTORIA (CP) — The Royal Canadian Navy will not reach its manpower objective of 21,000 men, set to meet North Atlantic Treaty Organization commitments in 1954, Rear Admiral H. F. Pullen said here Monday.

The navy's personnel chief blamed "a lack of something" in Canadian homes, schools and churches for the high rate of rejections of applicants seeking a navy career.

"It is a very serious situation," he said in an interview, "the answer lies in the homes, schools and churches. It is time we had a look at how these people are being brought up."

Reiterating earlier navy announcements that the senior service would not lower its entrance standards, Admiral Pullen said RCN strength at Oct. 31 was 16,231 officers and men, 4,800 short of the mid-1954 objective.

LACK REQUIREMENT

He said in one 12-month period the navy rejected 67 per cent of total applications and that another 10 to 15 per cent were released during early training.

Largest single group of rejects were applicants who failed a general learning ability test. About 2,360 applicants—27.4 per cent—did not get the required 31 out of 80 marks. Of the remainder 11 per cent lacked the grade eight education rquirement, 4.9 per cent wre physically unfit, 7.2 per cent were over age, 5.9 per cent were under age, 8.7 per cent were generally unsuitable and others lacked nationality or domicile requirements.

Admiral Pullen said he was "most concerned" by the lack of learning ability and the general unsuitability figures.

Bermuda Welcomes Royalty With Deafening Reception

HAMILTON, Bermuda (CP)—The Royal Stratocruiser carrying the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh on the first leg of their round-the-world Commonwealth tour landed here at 9:55 a.m. Bermuda time, 8:55 a.m. EST, to a deafening cheer from crowds of spectators at the airport. The plane was five minutes ahead of schedule as it made its second landing of the tour. Earlier this morning it stopped for refueling at Gander, Nfld.

The Royal couple arrived in scrubbed, beflagged Bermuda just short of 17 hours after leaving London.

The governor and local dignitaries greeted the Queen and the duke as they stepped smiling from the plane. After inspecting a guard of honor, the royal couple set out on a motor tour of the island.

DUKE IN UNIFORM

The Queen wore an aquamarine silk gown and matching blue hat. The duke was in naval uniform.

Temperature was in the low 70s. A light breeze was blowing.

Thousands of school children cheered uproariously as the Queen inspected the guard of honor. Her motor tour began 15 minutes after arrival.

Shortly after the take-off from Newfoundland, stewards served the Queen and the duke a breakfast of bacon, eggs and coffee in the plane's blue-and-dove-grey dining compartment. It was their second meal in the air. They dined on fish, roast pheasant and champagne after leaving London last night.

FAMILY KEPT ADVISED

In London, BOAC plotters charted the plane's progress, and when it landed at Gander, airport authorities telephoned the news to Clarence House, home of the Queen Mother and Princess Margaret.

Governor Sir Alexander Hood headed the party to welcome the Queen and her husband in an airport ceremony, the first event of

Trenton Planes In Lake Search

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich. (AP) — Snow and low visibility today hampered planes searching for a United States F89 air force jet fighter missing over the bleak waters of Lake Superior since Monday night.

The missing plane with two high-ranking air force officers aboard mysteriously disappeared at 7:55 p.m. after taking off an hour earlier from Kinross air force base south of here.

Kinross officials said the plane was equipped with two rubber rafts and each officer aboard wore a Mae West life jacket. The men were not identified.

Four DC3s from Trenton and Centralia RCAF bases arrived today to take part in the search. It was expected the weather would clear considerably this afternoon so that the search can get into top gear.

Queen Sad At Leaving

LONDON (Reuters)—A photograph published in a newspaper here today showed Queen Elizabeth in a rare mood. She had tears in her eyes.

The picture in The Daily Sketch was taken as she acknowledged the rousing send-off accorded her before she left on the first lap of her Commonwealth tour Monday night.

Commenting on the picture, The Daily Sketch said:

"The Queen had never been known to lose her composure, but for a moment last night—the moment of parting from her country—she did lose it. And the cameras were there to catch the tears."

The Queen's departure filled all British papers this morning. All paid her tribute and wished her luck in editorials.

Befriended Rifle Bites Protecting Hand

KIRKFIELD, Ont. (CP) — Harry Bartley, 28, put his hand over the muzzle of his .22 calibre rifle to keep out dirt while he chased a fox.

He tripped, the rifle discharged and a bullet went through his hand. No bones were broken.

The fox escaped near Kirkfield, 30 miles northwest of Peterborough.

Alston Named Dodger Manager

BROOKLYN (AP) — Walter (Wally) Alston, manager of the Montreal Royals of the International League, today was appointed manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Alston, 42, succeeds Chuck Dressen, who surprised the baseball world Oct. 14 by resigning shortly after he had piloted the Dodgers to a second National League pennant in a row. Dressen, who quit after the Brooklyn club rejected his demand for a two or three-year contract, now is manager and part owner of the Oakland Pacific League club.

The new Dodgers manager, a native of Hamilton, Ohio, played only one major league game during his career. That was at first base for St. Louis Cardinals in 1936.

Churchill 79, Monday Flies To Bermuda

LONDON (Reuters)—Sir Winston Churchill will leave by air next Tuesday night for the Western Big Three talks at Bermuda, it was announced here today.

The meeting with U. S. President Eisenhower and Premier Joseph Laniel of France is scheduled to last from Dec. 4 to Dec. 8.

An official statement is expected Wednesday on final palns, listing the officials who will accompany him.

Churchill will be 79 Monday. He has still to decide whether to celebrate the event at 10 Downing street, his official London residence, or at Chequers, the country residence in Buckinghamshire where he intends to spend the week-end.

Florida Man Finds Treasure

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—A Lakeland hotel owner whose hobby is seeking buried treasure, claimed Monday he found one worth about $625,000 near the mouth of the Suwannee river Saturday.

William F. Sneed Jr., said he made about 20 trips to the Suwannee in the last three months before electronic devices located a treasure chest under 16½ feet of water. Then, he said, after 18 hours of labor he and several workmen raised a barnacled metal chest which contained several thousand Spanish gold doubloons and silver pieces of eight dating from 1757.

He reported the current value of doubloons at $100 to $150 and the silver pieces at $50 to $90.

In addition to the coins, Sneed said, the cache included a pure silver cup and a silver scissors-like instrument.

Sneed believes a Spanish ship may have dumped the chest in the river when it was challenged by pirates.

Union, Mining Chiefs Begin Conference

TORONTO (CP) — Union and company chiefs sat down with Ontario government officials today for talks aimed at settling the walkout of 1,500 workers at the big Hollinger Consolidated gold mines, one of eight mines closed by strikes in the Porcupine camp.

The top-level talks started at 11 a. m. in the Queen's Park offices of Labor Minister Daley. At the session were Louis Fine, chief labor department conciliator, Jules Timmins, president of Hollinger, and C. H. Millard, national director of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL).

Although there was no announcement before the meeting started, government officials have expressed optimism that a settlement can be reached if there is a reasonable approach by company and union.

Won't Have Another Wildcat Strike

MONTREAL (CP)—Harry Chappell, national president of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees (CIO-CCL) said today there won't be another wildcat strike such as that which tied up Montreal's street cars and buses for 24 hours last week-end.

Mr. Chappell, in an interview, said CBRE members will heed the law which prohibits strikes by workers in public utilities.

Mr. Chappell's statement came amid rumors that the employees would walk out again next week-end unless the transportation commission meets their demands for a 10-cent hourly wage increase and a shorter work week.

Retirement Age May Be Changed

TORONTO (CP) — Health Minister Martin said Monday that a re-adjustment in the retirement age in industry may have to be considered because scientific achievements have extended the average life span in Canada to 69 years.

Mr. Martin, speaking to the central council of the Canadian Red Cross, urged a policy to change the senior citizen from a displaced person to an important member of society. He said that employment practices regarding older persons have to be revised if Canada is to prevent a waste of manpower.

The minister said Canada now has 800,000 persons more than 70 years of age. He estimated the figure would be more than 1,200,000 by 1971.

Flood Control, Railways Improvements In Red China

HONG KONG (AP)—After four years under Communist rule, China has made gains. From evidence available, these appear to be the biggest Red improvements in China:

The army. It is the best China ever had. It is also a huge one. Communist China's field armies are believed to include well over 2,000,000 men. Add the Red militia and you have a possible Red Chinese army of 10,000,000.

Flood control. The Reds claim they have set up great reclamation projects to hold back flood waters. Red China still has floods but they have been small ones in the last two years.

Railroads. The Reds are known to have rebuilt old rail lines and laid some new ones. New markets have been opened for farmers and for factory products. All in all, the Reds claim they have reconstructed 3,000 miles of rail lines.

Outside these three fields, Red claims of improvement meet with skepticism, even among neutral observers.

China has had good crops for the last three years. But this apparently came about largely because of good weather and internal peace rather than land redistribution, as the Communists claim.

Most of the Chinese industry for which the Reds claim credit was built by the Japanese. It was stripped by the Russians at the close of the Second World War. Since then the Russians have helped the Reds put much of it together again.

Flyer Plows Into Train 1 Killed, 27 Injured

PALMER, Mass. (AP) — The Paul Revere Express, a New York Central St. Louis-to-Boston 12-car train, plowed into the rear of a stalled, diesel-propelled passenger car at the Palmer railroad station during a rain storm Monday.

One man was killed and 27 persons were injured, several critically. All were passengers in the stalled car—the Boston and Albany's "Beeliner," which runs from Springfield to Boston.

The Beeliner had engine trouble and its conductor had just advised the passengers they would have to transfer to the Paul Revere when the long train came around a curve and could not be halted in time by hastily applied emergency brakes.

Pick Ti-Cats To Win

Big Dope Ring Smashed Two Canadians Arrested

NEWARK, N. J. (AP)—An international dope ring that confidently planned to sell $2,400,000 worth of narcotics a week has been smashed before it even got its first two ounces of heroin on the market.

United States attorney William F. Tompkins said Monday that six men—four from New Jersey and two Canadians—were arrested by federal narcotics agents in Jersey City as the first two ounces of pure heroin, worth $60,000, were being handed over by the Canadians.

The Americans were small-time dope pushers who wanted to get into the big money.

They had planned to bring in a kilogram of pure heroin each week until Christmas, then boost the shipment to two kilograms a week. A kilogram is enough for 800,000 single-shot capsules of dope, which retail for about $3 each.

The case was the largest involving narcotics ever handled in the States.

The four Americans were Salvatore Merola, Teddy Riviello and Angelo Mandato, all of Newark; and Joseph Falcetano, West Orange, N. J. The Canadians were Marcel Rheams, 38, and Camille Berberi, 45, both of Quebec City.

All six were arraigned in Jersey City Monday on charges of possession and transfer of narcotics. The Canadians were held in $250,000 bail each, the others in $50,000 bail each.

Tompkins credited the Royal Canadian Mounted Police with giving "splendied co-operation in the investigation."

Queen Starts Tour In American Plane

LONDON (AP)—Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express reminded its readers today that the Queen departed on the first stage of her Commonwealth tour in a Stratocruiser, an American plane built in Seattle.

The mass-circulation, Empire-minded paper said in an editorial:

"The thought may come as a shock. For the British airplane industry has lately shot out such a high-pressure stream of propaganda about the superior quality of its products that it would not be surprising if the (British) public has come to believe that Stratocruisers, and Constellations too, are made in this country. . . .

"There is not the slightest hope that the British Overseas Airways Corporation will have a British plane on the North Atlantic run before 1955.

"It is certainly a shameful situation, and one which today merits gloomy consideration."

Pearson Pleads Mutual Trust

Need For Realistic Attitude Stressed In New York Speech

NEW YORK (CP)—L. B. Pearson, Canada's external affairs minister, declared Monday night it is important for the free countries to recognize that there is more than one way to fight communism.

In an address before the English-Speaking Union of the United States Pearson said the democracies must be "alert and realistic" about communism but should "refuse to get panicky or be stampeded into the wrong way of doing things."

Pleading for mutual trust, he said:

"Surely it is possible for Allies . . . to accept each other's assurances of sincerity and good faith in dealing with . . . questions of security and subversion.

"The occasional traitor in any of our countries can do much harm to all of us. We know that from bitter experience. But I venture to say he cannot do nearly as much harm to our security as suspicion and lack of mutual trust can do to the co-operation and unity of the coalition on which our security ultimately must rest."

RELATIONS STRAINED

Pearson's speech, before an organization which seeks to unite people of the English-speaking world through their language came when relations between Canada and the United States were strained.

Canada is considering a second request for Igor Gouzenko, the code clerk at the Soviet embassy in Ottawa who broke Canada's spy case in 1946, to be permitted to talk to U.S. congressional investigators.

An initial request from the U.S. State department was rejected by Canada and Pearson said on his arrival in New York the reply to the second request would be made today or Wednesday.

Pearson's text contained no direct reference to the Gouzenko issue although he made a jocular allusion at one point when he said extemporaneously:

"We of the English-speaking Union are far above the lower levels of politics where, I hope, no one will ask 'why don't you make Gouzenko available?'"

Much of Pearson's speech appeared relevant to the current controversy, however, and some remarks seemed to be directed at the methods used by some congressional investigators.

DIFFERENCE OF APPROACH

He said that while "slackness" in dealing with communism "is bound to lead understandably to recriminations, a fundamental difference of approach. . . can also cause differences and difficulties inside nations and between nations, though they are trying to reach the same basic objectives."

Pearson said the United States, because of its dominant position in world affairs, must be aware that its friends are "intensely preoccupied and even anxious over everything that is said and done by the dominant partner."

"How could it be otherwise when these actions may determine, not only the destiny of her own citizens who have at least direct responsibility for them, but also that of friends and allies who cannot escape the consequences for good or ill of a governmental decision in Washington, or even a congressional blast."

A telegram to the English-Speaking Union from President Eisenhower said Britain, the United States and other free nations "must work together in trust and intimacy."

Mr. Robinette's written statement said:

At Ottawa, no comment was immediately available from Justice Minister Garson.

viewed by U.S. investigators, similar requests would be made for other Canadians to testify and "the first of such Canadians who refused to go would be branded as a Communist."

Mr. Knowles said Canada should stand its ground in refusing the U.S. request and ask Gouzenko, now reported to have a second book ready for publication, not to press for an opportunity to testify.

Indications are that a reply has been dispatched by Ottawa to Washington in answer to the second U.S. request. But Prime Minister St. Laurent said Monday a statement on the case will not be made in the Commons until the reply has been delivered to the U.S. State Department. This may be today or Wednesday.

Gunderson Seeks B.C. Seat In Legislature

VICTORIA (CP)—Victoria voters will decide today whether Finance Minister Einar Gunderson will hold a seat in the British Columbia legislature.

In what Premier W. A. C. Bennett described recently as the "most important" by-election in the province's history, Mr. Gunderson hopes to take over a seat vacated by Social Crediter Percy Wright.

The 55-year-old Mr. Gunderson, fighting his second by-election in a year, was defeated in the June provincial election in neighboring Oak Bay by Liberal P. A. Gibbs.

FOUR OPPONENTS

This time his opponents are:

CCFer Alfred Matthew, a 21-year-old newcomer in politics and an ardent cyclist who hopes to be on the Canadian cycling team in the British Empire Games in Vancouver next year.

Liberal George Gregory, 37-year-old Victoria lawyer and member of the Oak Bay municipal council. He also is a new candidate.

Dean Finlayson, 33, Progressive Conservative leader in B. C. He was defeated with Mr. Gunderson in Oak Bay in the provincial election and at Nanaimo in the federal election.

Mrs. Doris Blakey, Labor Progressive party candidate, unsuccessful candidate in the last provincial election.

VOTE AT 19 AND 20

The by-election gave 19-and-20-year-olds their first opportunity to vote in B. C. legislation luowering the voting age to 19 was enacted during the fall session of the legislature. Only about 500 of the 32,249 eligible voters are in that category.

The by-election also marks the return to the old "x" system of balloting in B. C. The recent session of the legislature discarded the complicated alternative vote system that allowed voters to name candidates in the order of their choice.

Premier Bennett's Social Credit administration will retain control of the legislature regardless of the outcome.

Fear U.S. Barriers On Cattle Imports

OTTAWA (CP)—The "greatest fear" of Ontario livestock men is that the United States may place barriers on livestock imports, the annual federal-provincial agricultural conference was told Monday.

W. P. Watson, Ontario's livestock commissioner, said cattle men in his province do not want government price support. What they feared is that the U.S. may grant price support to American cattle men and place barriers on imports.

Mr. Watson said there is a strong lobby operating in Washington and thus Ontario producers might be "deprived" of an outlet they will need "badly" in 1954.

The Queen looked immaculate and smart. Not a hair was out of place although she was bit sleepy-eyed. The Duke also was neatly groomed. He grinned broadly at the crowd.

Photographers hurriedly snapped pictures. The gangway was moved away again and after a final wave from the Queen the door was closed and the propellers began spluttering to a start.

DAWN TAKE OFF

The glistening silver and blue, four-engined plane with the Royal standard fluttering from a short silver mast over the cockpit lumbered along the tarmac and out to the end of the runway. There it paused for five minutes then roared off into the dawn light.

The flight plan for Bermuda called for the plane to fly at 18,000 feet.

The Canopus made the 2,400-mile flight from London in nine hours and 52 minutes, maintaining an altitude of 18,000 feet for most of the trip to keep above stormy weather.

The ocean flight was the first by a reigning British monarch.

The refueling operation was handled in little less than half an hour.

The plane completed the first leg of the flight at 3:23 a.m. NST (1:53 a.m. EST) and took off on the second leg, 1,000 miles to Bermuda, at 4:57 a.m. (3:27 a.m. EST).

LIGHTS DIMMED

The airport was a blaze of light as the plane swooped out of the gloom and taxied to the ramp. But when it swung into position all the lights were dimmed except those on the runways, which guided the escorting RCAF Lancaster to a landing.

Capt. A. C. Loraine, the plane's captain, said it was a "very good trip." He was surprised to learn from a reporter that his possessions were stolen from his home in London by burglars while he and his wife were at the airport.

He said before he left he told his wife to be sure to turn on the burglar alarm.

Eight warships, including the Royal Canadian Navy vessels, Micmac, Algonquin and Prestonian, were stationed along the plane's route during the ocean crossing. Aside from the escort aircraft, search and rescue planes stood by at Gander and Greenwood, N.S.

The Duke was in the cockpit of the plane during the flight but did not take over the controls.

Price Groups Lower In Toronto Trading

TORONTO (CP) — All price groups were lower in brisker early afternoon trading on today's stock market.

Senior golds had a few small losses and one slight gain—Lake Shore, up 10 cents. Holding companies showed three small gains and two larger losses. In juniors, losses outnumbered gains by more than a three-to-one margin, as Belleterre was down 50 cents.

Papers, refining oils and manufactures gained as utilities, retail stores, banks, liquors, steels and foods led the industrial losers.

Uraniums and Bathurst-area base metals changes were mostly in pennies. New Larder U, Brilund and Nudalama led the Bathurst-area issues lower, and New Delhi had the biggest uranium loss, 20 cents.

Base metals senior losses ranged to Falconbridge's 50 cents, as Quemont made the only gain, 25 cents.

Western oil losses outnumbered gains two-to-one as most price changes were less than 10 cents.

Ammunition Explodes 7 Dead, 150 Injured

LISBON (Reuters) — An army ammunition dump blew up here today killing seven persons and injuring about 150.

A steady stream of ambulances shuttled the injured to hospitals.

U.S. Wants Red "Peace Plan" Junked By UN

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) The United States said today the only way Russia can win American friendship is to "give up seeking the violent overthrow of the United States."

Chief U. S. delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. told the United Nations 60-nation political committee the Soviet Union "admits it is plotting our destruction." He said this naturally caused a strong reaction among the American people and press.

Lodge departed from the prepared text of a speech in which he urged the UN to junk each and every part of Russia's 1953-model peace plan to make his tough charges against the Soviet Union.

He said the reason the Russians are viewed with "something less than affection" in the United States is because of their self-admitted campaign to overthrow the American government and way of life.

Another reason, Lodge said, is Communist persecution of religion.

U.S. NOT DISCOURAGED

He added that the United States is "not discouraged. We still hope. We believe the day will come when this campaign from behind the Iron Curtain will cease. But, until it does, we can only recognize the facts."

As for the Russian peace proposals, Lodge said "the resolutions now on the books deal adequately with the subject. The only thing we still require is for the Soviet Union to quit disregarding them."

The Kremlin, through its chief delegate, Andrei Y. Vishinsky, has asked the UN to ban the atomic and hydrogen bombs unconditionally; cut the armed forces of the big powers by a flat one-third; forbid foreign bases in other countries; and condemn Western anti-Communist propaganda as warmongering.

These demands have been defeated, in one form or another, repeatedly in the assembly and its committees. The Russians have revived them each year.

WESTERN PROPOSALS

Instead, the UN has adopted Western proposals for international control of nuclear weapons under stringent safeguards as the culmination of a disarmament program which would include cuts in the armed forces of the big powers. The assembly has refused to get into the bases question and has condemned war - mongering propaganda impartially without regard to its origin.

Lodge said Russian charges that the U.S. was responsible for present world tension were "obviously written by professional Communist ax-grinders" and reminded him of the old proverb that the devil could quote scripture.

"It is well to look at the record regarding this subject," Lodge declared.

He then detailed efforts of the U.S. and its allies to reach agreement with Russia on the reunification of Germany, and said the West had finally "reluctantly concluded that the Soviet Union did not want to enter into negotiations which might have positive results." Nevertheless, Lodge said, the West still leaves the door open.

TORONTO (CP)—The Telegram says today in a frontpage story that Col. Robert McCormick of Chicago, publisher of the Chicago Tribune and Washington Times-Herald, is "manipulating the strings" in a "smear campaign" against Lester B. Pearson.

It says Col. McCormick, "long known for his Britain-baiting," is a staunch supporter of Sen. William E. Jenner, chairman of the U. S. Senate internal security subcommittee.

PRESSURE ON FBI

The Telegram says:

"It is generally felt now that the sub-committee is attempting to use Gouzenko in an attempt to get the FBI to open its files."

The paper publishes stories from James M. Minifie, its Washington correspondent, and Norman Campbell, Ottawa staff reporter, both saying Col. McCormick is behind recent U. S. criticism of Mr. Pearson.

Campbell writes from Ottawa:

"It is understood that until the time Mr. Pearson questioned the accuracy of an interview in the Chicago Tribune with Igor Gouzenko, Col. McCormick was not disposed to make an issue of the Gouzenko matter.

"The original idea of the Gouzenko story was not to attack Mr. Pearson, but to compel the FBI to open its files to the Jenner subcommittee.

"But when Mr. Pearson, in his statement to the House, depending upon Canadian press reports, attributed to The Tribune interview with Gouzenko statements which were not in it, then Col. McCormick ordered all stops pulled out in a 'get-Peason' campaign."

Social Workers

CALGARY (CP)—Forty-nine per cent of the social workers in Canada are men, it was reported here by R. E. G. Davis of Ottawa, director of the Canadian Welfare Council. Previously, he said, this field was considered mainly the responsibility of women.

Drunk In Charge Of Car, Man Jailed 15 Days

Wilfred Bolton, 52, of Nassau, was sentenced to 15 days in jail today when he was convicted on a charge of having care and control of a vehicle while intoxicated. Bolton had been convicted October 19 of having care and control of a car while impaired.

Only two crown witnesses, Sergeant Claire McGillen and Constable Louis Rodrigue, testified. Bolton had pleaded not guilty.

Sgt. McGillen had been driving along Water St. the night of November 14 when he saw Bolton staggering along the sidewalk. The officer pulled his car up to the next corner, looked back but didn't see the accused on the sidewalk anymore.

Walking back to the only automobile parked on the block, the sergeant found Bolton sitting behind the wheel, trying to put his car keyes into the ignition. In taking the accused to the station, the officer found his condition to be "very drunken."

Constable Louis Rodrigue who saw him there, also agreed Bolton smelled strongly of alcohol, was unsteady and spoke unnaturally.

The accuseds only defence was that he "wouldn't say I was as drunk as the officers said . . . although I did have a few beers."

their crowded one-day stay. The Royal couple will take off again at 6 a. m. Wednesday for Jamaica to continue the six-month tour that will take them to Australia, Ceylon, New Zealand and 10 British possessions and protectorates.

Highlights of their Bermuda program included a tour of the island, a speech of welcome and response by the Queen at a joint meeting of the House of Assembly and the Legislative Council, the governor's garden party and a state dinner at government house tonight.

The Queen and her husband took off from London after an enthusiastic farewell from other members of the Royal Family, top officials of the British government and thousands of cheering subjects.

Sped by strong tail winds, their big plane, the Canopus, raced across the Atlantic to Gander in nine hours and 52 minutes.

Extraordinary safety precautions surrounded the flight. Royal Canadian Air Force bombers which met the big Stratocruiser 750 miles east of Gander provided an escort for the hop to Bermuda.

On the transatlantic hop, a flight of Lancaster bombers accompanied the Royal plane, while eight British and Canadian warships, spaced across the ocean, kept a radio and radar watch.

Allies Prepare To Interview War Prisoners

PANMUNJOM (AP)—The Allies said today they are making final preparations for efforts to win back 22 Americans, one Briton and 328 South Koreans who have refused to come home.

The United Nations command disclosed it has been sparring for two weeks with the Korean war prisoner repatriation commission over how many Allied interviewers will be permitted to talk with the prisoners.

The Allies have requested 15, five Americans, five Britons and five South Koreans.

The commission has set a limit of five all told.

NO PROGRESS

Meanwhile, Allied and Red negotiators meeting nearby on arrangements for a Korean peace conferenoe discussed sites, but got nowhere.

The first official indication that the UN command is about ready to start interviewing the reluctant Allied PoWs came with the release of two letters to the repatriation commission and one reply.

The Alies have little time left, the 90-day interview period is scheduled to end Dec. 23.

There were unofficial indications the UN command also is working behind the scenes to smooth out all preparations before the explanations begin, presumably to avoid the hysterical scenes which greeted Communist efforts to get their former soldiers to come back.

The Allies appeared eager to avoid the snarling and bickering which the Communists have indulged in with the commission.

Knowles Ready To Jolt Gov't

OTTAWA (CP)—Stanley Knowles (CCF — Winnipeg North Centre) said Monday he intends to "jolt, jab, prod, poke and pester" the government until it introduces a country-wide health insurance program.

Mr. Knowles, speaking in the throne speech debate in the Commons, accused the Liberal party of talking about health insurance since 1919 for political purposes. He said Liberals even supported health insurance during the last election despite a statement May 8, 1953, by Health Minister Martin that the government was not prepared to sponsor the plan at this time.

Mr. Knowles said the government in 1948 introduced its health grants program "as a result of our constant poking."

However, Mr. Martin denied that any members of the opposition were responsible for the program. He said the health program was conceived by the late prime minister Mackenzie King.

Ask Palace Opened To Public For Time

LONDON (Reuters)—The Daily Mirror suggested today that Buckingham Palace be opened to the public while the Queen is touring the Commonwealth.

"What a gesture it would be—what a start to the new plan for bringing the monarchy closer to the people—to fling open the gates to all comers," the paper said.

Offer Of Free Meals Disperses Big Crowd

TRIESTE (AP)—An offer of free meals dispersed a throng of about 1,000 jobless Triestini gathered in front of an Allied military government labor office today.

The workers, who staged three demonstrations last week demanding an increase in welfare assistance and won free lunches each time, met again this morning before the labor office.

A spokesman told them that starting today more than 1,000 free meals will be served daily at a communal charity mess hall.

An estimated 17,000 persons are jobless here. More than 1,000 of these are former employees of the Allies, fired after the Oct. 8 British-American declaration that the Allied zone will be turned over to Italy.

FOR ALMOST INSTANT PAIN RELIEF

WHAT YOU CAN'T SEE, you can't prevent, and the level crossing on D'Arcy St., Cobourg, doesn't afford much visibility in any direction. A ridge of land, left and right, blocks the view of oncoming trains, whether east or west bound. Councillor Jeff Rolph says that this ridge prevents a motorist northbound on D'Arcy St. from getting a proper view of the railway tracks. The CPR has written that it considers visibility fair but will look into it further and take any measures considered necessary. As D'Arcy St. is now the main road to the new ordnance depot, it is heavily travelled.

Assessed At Real Value Owners Can Test Fairness

By PHIL CALDER
Examiner City Hall Reporter

The Citizens Research Institute of Canada recently conducted a survey of all Canadian municipalities of more than 10,000 population, in an attempt to discover the condition of assessments generally throughout the country. They sent out 136 questionnaires and received replies from 123 centres.

(This is the fifth and final article in The Examiner's series, written by Mr. Calder, city hall reporter, to explain the re-assessment of Peterborough made this year as a basis for the taxes of 1954.)

From the answers they received, they were able to deduce, as late as June of this year, that in most urban areas of Canada the assessment placed on property for tax purposes represented considerably less than fair actual values.

ASSESSED TO FULL VALUE

As we have seen, the Ontario Assessment Act was amended in 1946 to require all property to be assessed at its actual value. "But as the Citizens' Research Institute pointed out in a recent bulletin, "municipal assessing is one of the fields in which a wide disparity exists quite openly between statutory requirements and recognized practice."

It was a desire to bring an end to this situation that led to the re-assessment of Peterborough. In this process, not only has the attempt been made to bring the assessment of property in the city into conformity with provincial law, but the guidance and direction of the assessment branch of the Department of Municipal Affairs has been followed.

As the Citizens Research Institute pointed ont, "playing about with assessments IS NOT AND NEVER WAS the job of the local politician. Nor is it the council's responsibility to set the level of assessments."

The local assessment commissioner's main duties are fully laid down in the laws of the province. His first responsibility is not to serve the wishes of city council but to carry out the law.

FAILED REQUIREMENTS

There would be no point in pretending that Peterborough's old assessment figures fulfilled the requirements of the Assessment Act. They did so only insofar as the judgment of the local assessments department coincided with what the act required and as the department was able to keep up with the prodigious amount of new building that has gone on here since the end of the Second World War.

Consequently, the re-assessment of property in the city has no necessary relationship to the old assessment. In fact, the figures on the old assessment roll were disregarded for fear they might have a detrimetnal influence.

As a result, the re-assessment of the city represents a completely new system of assessment values based on the standards of valuation in the province's manual of assessment values. Furthermore, local assessments have been checked by the assessment branch of the Department of Municipal Affairs, to ensure that they bear an equitable relationship to the standards of assessment practice set for the rest of the province.

When city council decided in 1952 to re-assess property in the city, they entered into a contract with the Charles Warnock Company of Hamilton to carry out the re-assessment of industrial property. The company also made sample assessments of commercial property and some of the larger apartment houses.

Last Thursday the assessment department began delivery of the first of the 28,000 assessment notices which resulted from the reassessment. The last of the notices should be delivered this week.

COMPARE ASSESSMENTS

If you have already received your notice, or when you do receive it, the simplest way to see whether or not your home has been assessed fairly is to compare your own assessment with that of the owner of a similar house. They should be approximately the same. But remember that the assessment of your house is the amount by which it increases the value of the land on which it is situated and that the assessment of your property is the sum of the value of the land and buildings.

In addition, the assessment of your property depends on everything that affects its value, how well it is located and whatever other extra attractions might enhance it in the eyes of a prospective tenant or buyer.

SEE DEPARTMENT

If you are not satisfied that your new assessment is fair in comparison to that of similar properties, you may discuss it with a member of the assessment department in the city hall in the evening during the week of November 30 to December 4, as follows: East Ward—November 30; Claraday Ward—December 1; North Ward—December 2; West and Centre Wards—December 3; South Ward—December 4.

If you are still not satisfied, you will have until December 15 to enter an appeal to the court of revision. Appeals must be delivered in writing or personally to the assessment commissioner or to the city clerk. The court of revision hearings are quite informal and there is no charge to enter an appeal.

The court of revision will begin its hearings no sooner than 10 days after the final date of taking appeals. If you are not satisfied with their decision, you may appeal to the county judge or the Ontario municipal board. But if you, appeal directly to the municipal board, you will have lost your opportunity to appeal to the judge. But if you appeal to the judge and are not satisfied with his decision, you may then appeal to the muncipal board.

An appeal to the county judge must be entered within 10 days after you have been notified of the decision of the court of revision. There is no charge for appeals to the judge.

Four Years Old Charges Catch Up To Accused Man

Leo Grisdale was ripe for a little sentencing when he walked into magistrate's court Monday to face two first offence drunk charges, one second offence charge and one third offence charge. The first was laid as long ago as August 6, 1949, and the latest. November 20, 1953.

Then, to add insult to the court's injury, the 41-year-old RR 10, Warsaw man, pleaded not guilty and asked for a week's adjournment. This reminded court officials of February 28, 1950, when he asked for a week's adjourment, received it and cleared out for two and a half years.

He pleaded guilty, finally, to the following: A third offence charge of February 21, 1950, with previous convictions of August 6, 1949, and December 17, 1949; a second offence charge of May 17, 1953, with a previous offence of drinking rubbing alcohol alleged, and first offence charges of May 17 and November 20.

TWO DISMISSED

The latter two were dismissed but by the time convictions were registered on the remainder, Grisdale was scheduled to spend three month definite and one indefinite in the reformatory.

Lawrence Beal of Anstruther, John Sherk, 33, of Cleveland, Thomas Malcolm, 53, Toronto, and Clarence Strain, 20, of Cameron St., all pleaded guilty to recent liquor charges.

They were each fined $10 and $2.50 costs.

George Alex, 49, of 431 Chambers St., was sentenced to two one month terms, to run consecutively, also on liquor charges. He pleaded guilty to two second offence drunk charges.

Guerrillas Clash With Korean Police

SEOUL (Reuters) — Communist guerrillas clashed with South Korean national police today following a guerrilla raid in the Mount Chiri area of southwest Korea.

The battle flared up Sunday night when more than 50 guerrillas disguised as South Korean troops attacked a fortified police station at Uiryong.

The guerrillas are known to have killed the police chief and other policemen, but the fate of the remaining troopers was not immediately known. About 10 men were on duty at the time.

Latest reports told of continued fighting.

Warn Ceylon Officials Beware Foreign Liquor

COLOMBO, Ceylon (AP) — Prime Minister Sir John Kotelawela's month-old government has warned its officers not to let foreign liquor loosen their tongues. Many observers figure the new regime is worried chiefly about American cocktails.

A formal government directive warns public servants against disclosing official information "wittingly or unwittingly" to foreign representatives at social functions.

The directive is one of several recent developments indicating Kotelawela's cabinet favors no more than "lukewarm" relations with the United States.

Commerce Minister R. G. Senanayake said recently that Ceylon must look to its "traditional sources", Britain, for economic aid, and that more British investors are wanted here.

Seepage From McCarthy

When the notorious American "guilt by association" tactics reach out to Canada and Canadians in high position it is time for this country to show its hackles. Canada need not be scared by American insinuations. Mr. L. B. Pearson, Minister of External Affairs, is no more a Communist courier, wittingly or unwittingly, than Mr. Mackenzie King. And let the American detractors remember that it was Mr. King who ordered, reluctantly but thoroughly, the investigation into the Comunist spy ring which rose out of the 1946 disclosures of Igor Gouzenko, Soviet cipher clerk. It was Mr. St. Laurent, then Minister of Justice, who carried out this policy with a firmness which was then condemned by some people as harsh. Further, the Canadian Government passed on to the U. S. Government every scrap of information resulting from the information given by Mr. Gouzenko.

* * *

Mr. Gouzenko now seems anxious to go to the U. S. to testify, or to have American investigators interview him in Canada. What additional information can he have? None. He has been under the care and surveillance of the R.C.M.P. constantly since his disclosures and has had no contact whatsoever with Soviet policies or other ex-Communists which the general public does not have. Perhaps he craves limelight again. Perhaps he feels McCarthyish and considers he has a special talent for Red-hunting. Mr. Gouzenko is somewhat in the position of an Indian ward of the State. He is under the protection of the Canadian Government and dependent on its bounty. If he wants to leave this sheltered position, from whatever Ontario town he lives in, he can do so, even as an Indian can. He can probably go to the States to testify if he wishes, but only if he surrenders the protection and immunity he has for life—unless Ottawa concurs. We do not see why Ottawa should bow to the frenzied fringe of American opinion. There are reasons why it should not. Canadians can put themselves into pother enough without splashing in the seepage of American McCarthyism.

Riding Santa Claus To Death

Let us make it clear at once that we are fond of Santa Claus. We venerated him as child; we retained a strong affection for him after we found out that he was a spiritual rather than a corporeal being; we have enjoyed doing his work for him in adult life. But we confess that we can get a little too much of him. Therefore we were sympathetic with the outburst of the Brantford Expositor, which recently complained editorially about the remorseless 'Ho, ho, ho!' which seems to be all that Santa ever has to say when he appears in public. Children, the Expositor warns, are cleverer than most adults think, and they form a low opinion of a saint who laughs so much, and in such a hollow and unthinking fashion.

Our experience seems to have been wider than the Expositor's, for we have heard Santa say more than 'Ho, ho, ho!' We have heard him say:

Well, my little man, and how are you?
Have you been a good boy (girl)?
What do you want for Christmas?
Do you do everything your Mother tells you?

Nevertheless, we are not impressed by this additional dialogue. Conversation, as Dr. Johnson warned us, may not be a succession of vain interrogations. If Santa is going to be seen anywhere and everywhere, he ought to spruce up his conversational style.

Better still, he ought to appear less often, and more impressively. When we were small, we never saw Santa in the flesh, and we were all the better for it. The most splendid reality always falls short of the child's personal ideal. For us, he was infinitely mysterious, and so we never questioned his ability to travel all over the earth in a single night, to fly through the air in a magical sleigh, to transport vast quantities of toys, to guess the secrets of the child heart. If we had been confronted with a ham actor, badly padded and crudely made up, we should have rejected the impostor. We still think that Santa is better when he is neither heard nor seen.

Can it be that we are riding Santa to death, and that in another generation he will have been discarded?

Any Fault To Find?

Psychologists, as a group, come in for a good deal of criticism. It must be admitted that some of this criticism is partly justified, for a great many foolish statements are made public by people who call themselves psychologists; similarly, many statements which are made by psychologists are presented out of context, so that they do not make good sense.

In the hope of presenting psychologists in a more favourable light, we publish the following advice to young people about to be married which is the work of Mr. Cyril Clancy, the new President of the British Federation of Psychologists:

1.—Remember that happiness in marriage is dependent on your realisation of its responsibilities.
2.—From the beginning cultivate the virtue of mutual trust.
3.—In the dignity of the married state see that each has thought for the other in the smaller things in life.
4.—Remember that in courtship you have seen the better side of each other. She may look like an angel, but she is an ordinary mortal. He may have behaved as a knight of chivalry in his wooing, but in the humdrum task of the years you will discover numerous failings which true love alone can surmount.
5.—The young man should so behave before marriage that his future spouse will always remember his sense of honour as a guiding star.
6.—To the engaged girl: Permit no unworthy familiarity if you want trust and devotion after marriage as well as now.
7.—Put each other first in the affections, but beware of the in-laws.
8.—Give-and-take is needed in pleasures and your indulgence in them. For instance, if one likes dancing and the other does not, cut it out for safety's sake.
9.—In appearance and dress do not grow careless.
10.—Let both your lives be fit for the future blessing of children.

We do not imagine that anyone will find fault with this, for it is not only good psychology, but it also agrees with what most people believe.

It is when psychology goes contrary to popular belief that it is most widely condemned, for most people are convinced that their own rather haphazard and contradictory conclusions about life constitute a body of irrefutable and unchangeable wisdom. May we suggest that a psychologist is at least as likely to be right about an important matter as a layman, and that all psychological statements should be examined in the light of the qualifications of the man who makes them?

As Others See Us

The American magazine Time is neither unbiased in its opinons nor straight-seeing in all its views. Thus its reports on events and people cannot be taken as the whole and full truth, nor even as representative of American opinion. We were, however, titillated by its view of Ottawa and Canadian customs, as contained in its report of President Eisenhower's recent visit.

Here is a sentence from the report: "In Confederation Square 50,000 Canadians started a polite, gloved pitter-patter of applause, with an occasional highly proper cry of 'hey, hey' (cheering is considered improper in austere Ottawa)". Here is a description of the afternoon at Rideau Hall, the official home of the Governor General. "That afternoon, after a brief rest and luncheon preceded by a prim round of sherry, Ike and Mamie emerged from the forbidding mansion to plant two ceremonial maple trees on the frozen lawn."

Well, the "gloved pitter-patter of applause" was at least polite. We do not go about calling the President and his wife Ike and Mamie. (It must be admitted with chagrin that at the end of the visit before the Presidential train drew away from the station, some Ottawa people did shout and use the nicknames.) We have yet to hear, in Ottawa or elsewhere in Canada, the "highly proper cry of 'hey, hey'," as a substitute for a cheer. Perhaps the American magazine's ears were stopped up, and it mistook the highly proper and parliamentary hear-hears for heying. The "prim round of sherry", even in the "forbidding mansion" was probably very pleasant. Mr. Massey is an excellent host and his sherry is good. The primness may be in the envious eyes of Time which was not invited to the mansion.

Around The World In Eighty Minutes

Even Jules Verne's fertile imagination never propounded anything as fantastic as the flight of the American research pilot Scott Crossfield who last Friday flew at a speed of 1,320 miles an hour—twice the speed at which sound travels. Phileas Fogg, Verne's exciting English traveller went around the world in eighty days. Judging from Friday's flight, to go around it in eighty minutes is not a feat of improbable fantasy. For man is no longer earth-bound, or held back by gravity. The relativity of time and space is being demonstrated in fact as well as in theory, above the earth as well as in a laboratory. Man is now in communion with the stars, and coursing with them. But he always has been whirling around with his planet every day faster than even pilot Crossfield flew above it. His head continues to buzz with the petty cares of the daily round, and even the fast jet pilot has domestic problems and needs his cup of tea.

Hub Of World, These Weeks

By CYRIL DUNN

TO BE THE hub of the Western world twice in three weeks is a distinction Bermuda might be expected to support with rather more poise and confidence than would a small English town, though in terms of resident population the two are about the same size. Today, this British Colony on a rim of fragmented land far out in the Atlantic is to be the starting-point of the Queen's Empire Tour. Ten days later comes the Big Three Conference (between the leaders of the United States, France and Britain).

Bermuda makes a business of entertaining visitors, with an economically intelligible preference for Americans. It has no other occupation and is isolated from all alternative ways of life by at least 580 miles of ocean. The Bermudians should be able to cope with this rapid succession of Personages.

✧ ✧ ✧

IT WAS scarcely to be expected that they would treat the Royal Visit as something strictly outside business hours. In fact, it has been openly advertised in the States as the Great Fall Attraction. The stands on the little capital's Front Street are reserved for tourists; the Chamber of Commerce has regretted its inability to provide similar facilities for the local schoolchildren.

This does not mean that the Bermudians have prepared for the Visit with a smooth and unsentimental professional competence. There have been several reassuring tremors of quite ordinary nervousness. People have even worried about the appearance of islands usually remembered by anyone who ever saw them as objects of well-nigh flawless beauty. Rallied by the lady chairman of the Garden Club, Bermudians have faced the fact that this has been "'a terrible year for fennel and cane grass," that the island's once celebrated cedars are now all dead but not yet all burned, and that the last hurricane did more damage than was fully realized before it became known that the Queen was coming. All this has led to what one resident calls "the greatest cleanup campaign since Mosquito Control."

✧ ✧ ✧

BERMUDIANS have also felt a sudden concern about a certain shy reluctance to cheer. Experience has shown that when even a beloved Personage moved past a Bermuda crowd, people tend to stare reverently—and then clap. As this seemed inadequate for Tuesday's purposes, an appeal has gone out for cheerleaders, who, if they turn up, will no doubt model their technique on what they have seen at American sporting events.

Finally, there has been an anxiety about what to wear and how to behave, more widespread in Bermuda than it would be elsewhere. Almost anyone, or at all events almost anyone White, may expect an invitation to at least one of the Royal Functions. It is said that the only females in Bermuda to retain an unruffled calm since the Visit was announced have been the Brownies, whose dress and move-by-move deportment have been laid down in orders for weeks past.

✧ ✧ ✧

IT HAS NOT, of course been possible to prepare for these coming events without exposing Bermuda's cupboard skeleton. Two-thirds of the islands 36,000 inhabitants are coloured people, many of them descended from Negro slaves. A strictly limited franchise and a relatively mild policy of segregation (Coloured Christians have been permitted to sit only in certain pews in the Cathedral) have kept the Coloured majority subordinate. White Bermudians seek to justify this policy by saying that the whole economy of the place—one which gives the Coloured a fairly high standard of life—depends on American tourists, who would stay away if the Coloured were allowed to be too prominent. However, one of the articulate leaders of the Coloured has been able to point out that, as there is no Coloured member of the Colony's Executive Council, the Queen will probably not meet any representative of Bermuda's Coloured inhabitants at the State Dinner.

None of these considerations has disturbed Bermuda's preparations for the Big Three Conference, in which the Bermudians can have only a vicarious share. As this event has already been anticipated and postponed, nothing much had still to be done when the idea of a Bermuda Conference was revived—except to replace the rolls of barbed wire and to cancel the hotel reservations of a different clutch of American millionaires.

✧ ✧ ✧

BERMUDA is a small and crowded place. When all the islands are frugally counted together they make only twenty-one square miles of land, including the bit added on by the Americans to make a blinding white air base during the war. The Big Three, it might seem, would have difficulty in finding the privacy they need. But Bermuda is also favoured by the people who prefer exclusive holidays and by millionaires in flight from penal taxation in their native lands and from harsh sacrifices demanded of the citizenry in welfare States. Here they live en prince, and in one of their exclusive neighbourhoods the Big Three will meet. Known as the Mid-Ocean Area, it is a district where even in normal times unauthorised sightseers are discouraged by a kind of private constabulary.

Within this cordon stands the Mid-Ocean Club, where the Big Three and their immediate retinues will stay, and the enormous splendiferous Castle Harbour Hotel, where the staffs are to be housed. The three main suites in the Club, all on the same floor, have been redecorated identically, so that there may be no uneasiness about who goes where. The management, already accustomed to dealing with personages, is exhibiting the utmost complacency over its ability to provide, literally on the premises, the three things most likely to please the big three — the world's third-finest golf course for Ike, unparalleled scenery for Sir Winston to paint and an incomparable cuisine for M. Laniel.

✧ ✧ ✧

AS A SETTING for the conference Bermuda has virtues other than aesthetic ones. It is, in a sense, a meeting-place of North Atlantic cultures. The French Third might feel more at home in one of the West Indian islands, but for the English-speaking sections Bermuda is an admirable half-way house. It is one of the few places in the world which have always been British. Until we acquired it in 1609, by the accidental shipwreck of an expedition bound for Virginia, it had never been inhabited.

To-day it has become rather less British than it was. The British Army garrison has been withdrawn from Prospect Hill and the British Navy has virtually abandoned Ireland Island, leaving it to sink into a wildness under the tattered banana trees. The military tradition has been handed over to the Local Forces, and to the United States Servicemen who live enclosed and self-sufficient lives in huge modern townships built on the air and naval bases we leased to them during the war.

✧ ✧ ✧

BUT though the islands are British, their life-style, superficially American, is really a unique combination of both. In the old town of St. George, guarded by the forts of the earliest English settlers, the Union Jack flies over coral-stone houses which are an enchanting Colonial version of English Tudor. But the people who live in them read the "Saturday Evening Post," drink their liquor out of tall glasses, with ice, and are likely to describe any critical Englishman as an insufferable Limey. Yet the suntanned Bermudians in their floral shirts, speaking a softened form of the American tongue, are themselves alone; they have no wish either to be absorbed into the United States or to be too much disturbed by the progressive notions of the Government in London.

It would be agreeable to add that, as background for the Big Three and their talks on the wise settlement of world affairs, Bermuda offers an example of good government in miniature. The Bermudian Parliament is the oldest in the world, Westminster and the Icelandic Althing alone excepted. But Government policy in the islands is, by ordinary standards, almost equally archaic. A sequence of Governors have done their best to persuade the Bermuda Government to adopt rather more advanced ideas of social justice and social security but with only minor successes.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE FRANCHISE is limited to some 5,000 property owners. The country is firmly controlled, politically and socially, by wealthy hotel-keepers, store-owners and commission agents. A local song identifies them, quite cordially, as the Forty Thieves, though the latest-informed put the number at fifty-five. The aim of every ambitious Bermudian is said to be membership of the exclusive Yacht Club. In this desired haven, decisions governing the material prosperity of the islands are reached—and are later confirmed in the House of Assembly. This hierarchy now seems to be bucking stiff competition, socially and financially, from wealthy English. But these newcomers are excluded by law from local business; even their local investments are more or less restricted to houses and land. But they show signs of being displeased with a sunlit country where there is no form of direct taxation and where the costs of government are met by ad valorem tax on imports, an impost from which only certain luxuries are excluded.

None of this would matter a great deal if it were not for the limitations imposed on the self-determination of the Coloured Bermudians.

It is true that Coloured Bermudians seem to lead an unusually cheerful life. It is also true that they include well-to-do people who evidently prefer the Bermudian version of White supremacy to any possible dearth of American dollars. Although in some parishes there are more Coloured voters than White, there are still only nine Coloured M.P.s in a House of thirty-six members. Yet there are rumblings of unrest, controlled by a Coloured doctor who asserted at the last election that if he were so inclined he could start a riot at the drop of a handkerchief.

An American Opinion: "THIS THING IS BIGGER THAN BOTH OF US"

No Teeth For Dragons Or Witches

(LONDON TIMES)

"WE occasionally show witches and dragons," says Miss Lingstrom, head of the B.B.C. children's television program, rather, as it seems, in the tone of a lady in the village shop who knows she has the required article stock but is not quite sure on which shelf to find it. If, she adds, there are to be witches and dragons, they must on no account have teeth for children are terrified by teeth.

This terror may spring from hideous memories of a visit to the family dentist, but it is probably much more deep-rooted, going far back into the mists of a time when mammoths might crunch you up any day.

Witches have not as a rule many teeth; they are depicted as toothless hags with a pendulous lower lip. Still, one solitary tooth, large and black, can be uncommonly horrid. As to dragons, children have seldom read much about Cadmus who sowed the dragon's teeth. They have never heard of them as productive of armed risings or any such metaphysical grown-up nonsense. The teeth they fear are of the good old-fashioned gnashing, flashing sort, the teeth of the wolf who pretended to be Little Red Riding-hood's grandmother or the lions (in The Rose and the Ring) who said Wurra, Wurra, Wurra, and made short work of Count Hogginarmo.

Grown-ups have generally got over this fear of teeth. Indeed, as they get on in life, they often find false ones a pleasant and fertile subject for the exchange of confidences. On the whole they are much more afraid of glittering eyes that watch them out of the darkness. Glaring eyes are invariably attributed to any lurking ruffian as a sure means of identification.

Yet no one can boast of being quite proof against teeth unless he has read W. H. Hudson's account of the gaucho with the triangular teeth. He had a screeching voice like an an animal, a huge mouth which snarled even when he meant to smile, and his teeth were "all exactly alike, above and below, each tooth a gleaming white triangle, broad at the gum where it touched its companion teeth, and with a point sharp as the sharpest dagger." They were like a shark's teeth or a crocodile's. Hudson thought him a reversion to some type in an infinitely remote past, long before that of palaeolithic man. The thought of him may give brave grown-ups a moderately agreeable shiver. But Miss Lingstrom must on no account let the children see him. He would beat all the witches and dragons into a cocked hat for terror.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And the Lord said, Simon, Simon, behold, Satan hath desired to have you, that he may sift you as wheat: but I have prayed for thee, that thy faith fail not: and when thou art converted, strengthen thy brethren.

And he said unto him, Lord, I am ready to go with thee, both into prison, and to death. And he said, I tell thee, Peter, the cock shall not crow this day, before that thou shalt thrice deny that thou knowest me . . .

Then Jesus said unto the chief priests, and captains of the temple, and the elders, which were come to him, Be ye come out, as against a thief, with swords and staves? . . . Then they took him, and led him, and brought him into the high priest's house. And Peter followed afar off.

And when they had kindled a fire in the midst of the hall, and were set down together, Peter sat down among them. But a certain maid beheld him as he sat by the fire, and earnestly looked upon him, and said, This man was also with him. And he denied him, saying, Woman, I know him not.

And after a little while another saw him, and said, Thou art also of them. And Peter said, Man, I am not.

And about the space of one hour after another confidently affirmed, saying, Of a truth this fellow also was with him: for he is a Galilaean. And Peter said, Man, I know not what thou sayest. And immediately, while he yet spake, the cock crew. And the Lord turned, and looked upon Peter. And Peter remembered the word of the Lord, how he had said unto him, Before the cock crow, thou shalt deny me thrice. And Peter went out, and wept bitterly. (Luke 22: 31-34, 52, 54-62.)

Lest We Forget

(New Statesman)

(They knew the value of that for which they fought, and that the price was worth paying—The Queen, at the Cloister Memorial.)

To these unburied dead give tribute due,
Let their memorial be magnificent;
Though all too soon their light and life were spent,
Destined to die, for what they did they knew.
These into everlasting darkness flew,
But laying down their lives were well content,
Streaming like stars across the firmament,
To dive in flame down hissing gulfs of blue.
These, called to make the supreme sacrifice,
Thought they knew why; but had they lived to learn
For what indeed they so untimely died,
Would they have deemed it worthy of the price?
They died that Hilter's Generals might return,
And Krupp and Thyssen fatten side by side.

Ax-Slayer Sentenced To Hang Feb. 19

By BERTRAND THIBAULT

QUEBEC (CP)—Georges Hebert was sentenced Monday night to be hanged for the brutal ax-slaying of his nine-year-old son, Rene. He goes to the gallows Feb. 19 at Montreal's Bordeaux Jail.

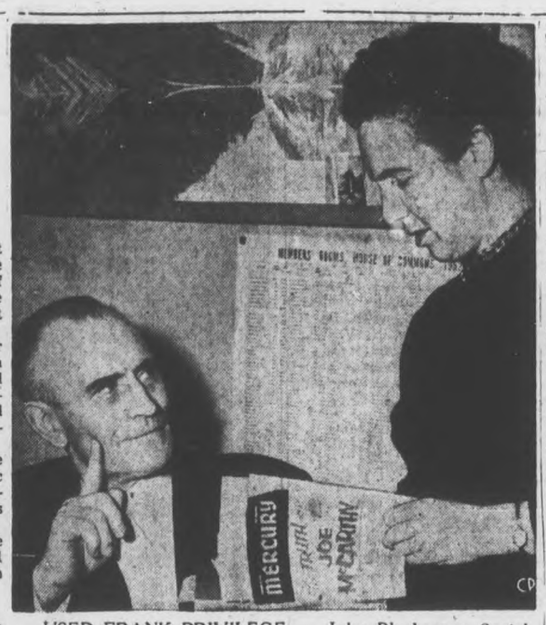
The 46-year-old cement worker showed no emotion as the foreman of the jury spoke the verdict and Mr. Justice Gerard Lacroix donned black gloves and tri-cornered hat to pronounce the death sentence.

It was the climax of one of the most sensational trials in Quebec history. The judge, jury and spectators wept as Hebert gave his tragic testimony.

Hebert's four children were slaughtered with an ax April 21 but he was tried only for the death of the eldest.

NO STATEMENT

With eyes downcast and a slight shaking of the head, Hebert replied simply "no" when asked if he had anything to say.



It was not immediately known if the defence would appeal.

The crowd listened sympathetically as Hebert testified.

The greatest factor in drawing pity for Hebert was his own testimony that on the night the children were slain, he "fell asleep crying" because "I was discouraged to find I did not have enough money to buy fuel oil."

He woke to find the ax beside his bed and "I realized that my children were all dead and that I was alone in the house."

"I got up and made the rounds of the beds and I said my beads."

USED FRANK PRIVILEGE — John Blackmore, Social Credit member of Parliament for Lethbridge, Alta., says his secretary, Doris A. Moore, used his free mailing privilege without his knowledge to mail "three anti-Communist and not anti-Semitic" documents. The matter of the mailing privilege was brought up in the Commons after the Calgary Herald in an editorial had questioned its use to mail such documents.

Wrecked Church Two Boys Make Confession

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Two young boys, 9 and 13, have confessed to vandalism which wrecked All Saints Anglican church here.

The Rev. J. T. Coneybare, rector of the church, said Monday the two boys had admitted smashing church windows with an ax.

"The destruction is simply incredible," he said. "They smashed five stained glass windows, four of them quite badly, tore pictures from the wall, ripped up the choir music and tore apart church robes."

The boys told him they were in the church three times during the last week and three weeks ago tossed 50 books through one indow.

Among the panes broken were the original amber glass windows of the tower in the 98-year-old church. He said they couldn't be replaced.

Damage to the windows alone is estimated at more than $3,000.

Back In Moscow

MOSCOW (AP)—United States ambassador Charles E. Bohlen returned to Moscow Monday from a 12-day absence in Paris and Stockholm. In Paris he attended a meeting of American diplomats and President Eisenhower's commission on foreign economic policy. In Sweden he spent a few days hunting.

Jets Leave Korea

TOKYO (AP)—The United States Air Force announced today the veteran 49th fighter-bomber wing of the 5th Air Force—about 190 pulled out of Korea. However, the fighter-bombers are at Japanese bases and will be able to strike immediately if the Korean war breaks out again, the air force said.

Dies In Refrigerator

DETROIT (AP)—John Hokula, widower father of three children, was found dead in a nine-foot refrigerator Sunday night. The coroner's office declared the death a suicide. Hokula, 32, tied a cord to the handle of the refrigerator door and crawled in, shutting the door after him, police said.

Red Party Defeated

GUATEMALA CITY (AP)—The anti-Communist party defeated Communist and pro-Communist groups in municipal elections here, tabulations announced Monday showed. The vote was 3,876 to 3,314. Balloting took place Friday, Saturday and Sunday. No disorders were reported.

Canada's Banking System Envy Of Other Nations

MONTREAL (CP) — Canada's banking system is the envy of many other nations, the Royal Bank of Canada says in its current monthly letter.

"Canadian bankers know that their banks can prosper only in so far as the people of Canada themselves prosper," it says. "Their dominant interest is in high production, stable and reasonable prices, facility of exchange of goods and services. . . high employment and the preservation of Canada's high standard of living."

Banking in its present form started in Canada 133 years ago when the Bank of New Brunswick opened. Today the 11 chartered banks hold nearly $9,000,000,000 for depositors, pay them $61,000,000 a year in interest and have a payroll totalling $125,000,000. Loans to customers were $4,307,000,000 in September, 1953.

LARGE ASSETS

Two banks have assets exceeding $2,000,000,000, while one, the Royal Bank, is the ninth largest in the world in assets.

Canada's banking system provides a clearing house for business men and has grown "in almost parallel lines" with the country.

Canadians have confidence in their banks, the letter says. Five times in recent memory they have been put to the acid test. In the 1929 crash, in Britain's departure from the gold standard in 1931, in 1933 when every bank in the United States was closed and during the changes following the outbreak of war in 1939 and the return to peace in 1945.

"During these upheavals no Canadian has had to fear for the loss of a single dollar of his bank deposit," it says.

Parliament governs the conditions under which the chartered banks operate. The Bank Act, passed in 1871, is reviewed every 10 years. It is up for consideration again in 1954.

CLOSELY EXAMINED

Charters are not renewed until Parliament makes a clause-by-clause examination of the Bank Act. "There is no other business in Canada subject to such scrutiny," the bank says.

Competition between banks is stiff and serious. "Operating under a statutory rate ceiling, every bank tends toward the same rate of interest on loans, and competition is forced into the realms of quality of service."

Moreover, the letter says, new banks may come in if the present ones don't offer adequate service. "Any group of responsible men who can get together a very modest capital, may qualify for a charter and open a bank," the letter says.

Birds, Bees Confused

BEAVERTON (CP)—The current balmy weather is confusing the birds and the bees, says Pursey Rilance. He said Monday that last week he came across three butterflies, a robin and a garter snake.

Boy Wounded

WHEATLEY (CP)—Ronald McCracken, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl McCracken, was shot through the leg while he was standing in a playground. Police were not able to establish who fired the shot, but they said it was accidental.

Labor MP Urges Protection For Home Textile Industry

OTTAWA (CP) — Arthur White (L—Waterloo South) Monday night urged the government to protect the Canadian textile industry and its workers in any trade agreement with Japan.

If the government were not mindful of the difference in the standards of living in Canada and Japan, the result might be "disastrous" for the Canadian textile industry.

Mr. White, first Liberal elected to the Commons from Waterloo South since 1896, said in the throne speech debate that condition of the textile industry already is "disturbing."

In April, 1952, the industry in Canada hired 104,000 workers. The number now was down to 85,000 and a large number of these were on short time, working two or three days a week.

IMPORTS SOARING

In 1950, Canada produced 68 per cent of Canadian textile requirements. The percentage had since dropped to less than 50 while imports of textiles were at an all-time high. Anti-dumping laws were being applied wherever possible but despite this the situation was getting progressively worse.

He said he hoped mention in the throne speech of amendments to the Customs Act would mean an attempt to alleviate the situation.

Mr. White urged that all imported fabrics be marked with labels showing country of origin so that Canadians could make sure they were buying Canadian goods produced by Canadian workers.

Referring to Japan's admittance as an associate member to the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, Mr. White said he understood Japan had been invited only on a temporary basis until 1955 and that the Canadian government had not yet undertaken a most-favored nation agreement with Japan.

Hosiery Workers Back After 8-Week Strike

HANOVER (CP) — Employees of the Grey Mist Hosiery Mills returned to work Monday following their eight-week strike for an increase of 10 cents an hour across the board and two additional statuatory holidays with pay.

On the pay increase dispute, the 19 workers will divide a flat overall $2,000 year increase and also will receive two additional statuatory holidays.

The new contract between the firm and Local 1178 of the Textile Union Workers of America will go into effect Dec. 1.

Trotskyites Attempting Infiltrate CCF—Archer

TORONTO (CP)—David Archer, president of the Toronto Labor Council (CIO-CCL) Monday night charged that Trotskyites, whose own party folded for lack of support, are attempting to infiltrate into the CCF.

"There is no basic difference between the fundamentals of communism and the Trotskyites," Archer said at a council meeting.

"Although the party has folded, none of its members has repudiated the doctrines of the Fourth International, a movement founded by Leon Trotsky after he broke with the Third International of Russian communism.

"They are attempting to peddle their wares to an unsuspecting public in the guise of Labor candidates," he said. "They are attempting to carry on in the CCF".

Appeals For Meeting

VIENNA (Reuters) — Frederic Joliot-Curie, French atom scientist opened the fifth session of the Communist-led World Peace Council here Monday with a new appeal for a five-power meeting. He told 400 delegates that "though such a meeting might not lead to concrete results it would certainly be a good basis for future negotiations on current international problems." Delegates included Dr. James Endicott of Toronto.

GRANT'S SPORT CORNER

By DON GRANT

There's a steady beat around the city and district high schools these days.

It isn't the heart flutter of young love in classrooms (apologies to Prairie professors) or the swing and sway of modern jazz.

It's the steady beat of basketballs hitting backboards as the boys and girls prepare for Central Ontario Secondary School Association play and of course Ontario playdowns.

There are many changes this year. New schools, new gyms, new coaches and new players. All these are the result of the growing interest in the sport.

Last year Dr. Eldon P. Ray's Kenner Collegiate joined the ever-increasing number of basketball-playing schools. This year basketball return to another new, yet old, school Lakefield and District High School.

It's been a long time since Lakefield High has been represented in school sports. For a while after the Second World War the school tinkered with football, but never basketball.

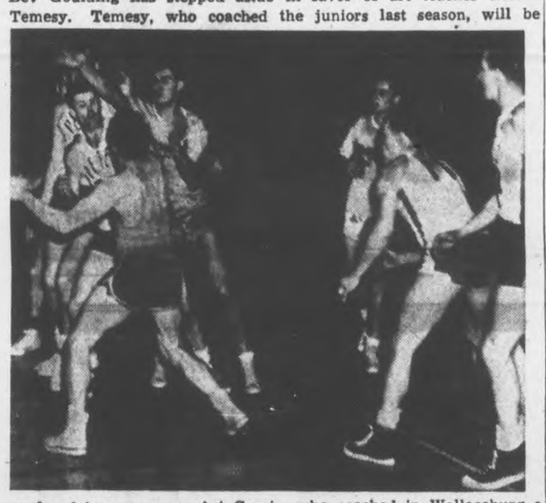
The construction of the new school last year meant the addition of a gym. That meant basketball revival for high school students.

Teachers Clare Sisson and Don Campbell hope to jump into inter-high school play this season with two lower-aged teams, junior and bantam. They feel that the senior lads haven't enough experience to compete with other schools, where basketball has been played for some time. By working with the younger lads, teaching them the game and helping them get experience they will give the students a senior team to be proud of in several years.

These Lakefield teams for this year will be entered in the "B" group (schools with 225 boys or less). They'll likely be playing St. Peter's High and Kenner.

Back to Peterborough and Kenner Collegiate where workouts have started. There Ken Wass, who this year coached the junior Rams in the collegiate's football debut, will coach basketball along with Gord Johnston.

Last year's Kenner Rams, the bantams, who went to the lakeshore district finals, have jumped almost to a man into the junior ranks. These boys formed the best young quintet developed in Peterborough in years and should carve Kenner Collegiate in the Lakeshore and COSSA trophies before next spring.



Another new face (as far as high school coaching is concerned) is seen at St. Peter's High School. There popular theatre manager, Hilly Yudin, has volunteered to take over the senior Saints.

Hilly's forgotten more basketball than many basketball coaches knew since he packed away his law books in favor of the theatre. Backed with this knowledge (he majored in basketball in the United States) and great enthusiasm, Hilly has been practising the Saints for several weeks.

With some of the city's best talent such as Doug Galvin, Ab Ryan and Dave Quinlan, Hilly's Saints should do well in the Ontario Catholic Conference and COSSA play. In conference games they'll again meet St. Michael's, St. Jerome's and De La Salle Oaklands. Their COSSA grouping is still undecided.

Coach Johnny Lynch after two football titles will concentrate on developing the younger talent in junior, bantam and midget. A few names, all quite familiar with football fans, who will be on the junior quintet are Ron Board, Dink Masterson, Paul Buckley, Ray (Ploughboy) Allen, Jim Flynn and Len Mackie.

The most notable changes in high school coaching will be at PCVS. There, after years of coaching the senior Garnet and Grey, Bev Goulding has stepped aside in favor of art teacher Zolton Temesy. Temesy, who coached the juniors last season, will be replaced by newcomer Art Currie, who coached in Wallaceburg a year ago.

These drastic changes were made to keep Zolton with the boys he's developed. Last year he and the lads were heart-broken when they lost to an inferior quintet from St. Catharines in the COSSA final. With Terry Roberts, Doug Ash and others back, Zolton hopes for revenge by winning the senior title.

Because Zolton and Art have taken over the school's "big" teams, it doesn't mean Coach Goulding is dropping out of basketbal, not by any means. Bev's coaching talents will be put to good use developing the younger lads, midgets and bantams.

For the past few years some of the younger lads at PCVS have been slow in developing. Bev's coaching experience should change this and therefore assure strong senior and junior teams in a year or so.

Meanwhile the gfads, old and new, are working out under the guidance of Doug MacPherson, coach of the Peterborough intermediates. More than 20 players have been attending the twice-weekly workouts.

The pick seems to be Ab Stewart, Hugh Dibben (being converted to a guard), Bill Edger and Gord Burns from last year's team. There's also Bob Smith, a better-than-average centre from the east coast; Don Ash and Dan Griffin, former PCVS stars, and two former players, Ed Nicholls and Joe Stewart, making a good comeback. Starry Neil Thompson and steady Nipper Payne have also been showing up well.

That's a hasty look at the young season.

UPS AND DOWNS—Every coach has his ups and downs, but Petes' playing coach Eddie Redmond (centre, above) literally went up and then down Monday night while trying to hold Kingston centre Wils Reid. Eddie flew through the air and then landed with a thump. Meanwhile, goalie John Donlevy watches the puck and Ted Collins keeps an eye on Don Bellringer. Kingston twice overcame Petes' rallies to finish strong for a 6-4 victory.—(Examiner Staff Photo).

Kingston Finishes Strong In Speedy Senior Fray To Defeat The Petes By 6-4

Petes' coach Eddie Redmond is a juggler. For the past two weeks he's been juggling his wings, centres and defencemen to come up with a winning combination, one strong enough to defeat Kingston Goodyears and Oshawa Transporters. Using his bruising defencemen to advantage and emphasizing quick breaks, Redmond nearly had his combination Monday night, but the Petes dallied twice in the final 10 minutes. That was enough for Kingston Goodyears who promptly scored twice for a 6-4 win.

The win placed the Goodyears only two full games behind Oshawa in the senior "B" group standing with five wins against three losses. At the same time the Petes failed to gain on Kingston, remaining in third place only a half-game ahead of Belleville Memos.

The Petes' policy Monday night was to let the blueline boys, Bill McMaster, Keith Montgomery, Jim Munro and Armstrong bounce the Goodyear forwards around, hoping to slow down the fast-moving, precision-like plays. For a while it appeared the stiff-body-checking might pay off, but then the heavier Goodyears followed the same pattern.

PETES TIRED

It was just a matter of who would tire first under this rough treatment. The Petes did and Goodyears rallied to take a slim one-goal lead midway through the third, adding another gift goal in the final minutes to assure a win.

Loose passing, especially around the Kingston goal, cost Petes the game. Time and time again they were in on goalie Ken Johnson but they couldn't make their close-in patterns click. Meanwhile Johnson, who wasn't too pressed, handled the long shots and several breakaways by Chum Fryia and Denny Peterson with ease.

At the other end Petes' goalie, John Donlevy, had his hands full. Playing his best game to date Donlevy kept the Petes in the game by outguessing George MacGregor, Don Murray, Ken Partis and Jack White who slipped through the Petes, who weren't playing good positional defence.

Peterson finally hit his pace with long smooth strides, to outrace the speedy Goodyears. Twice the lanky lacrosse star had rink-length breakaways, bursting in on Johnson who didn't have a chance on either. Don Murray, the league's leading scorer, gave the Petes more trouble than usual, scoring twice, while George MacGregor, one eye nearly closed, worked well with Murray, also adding a couple of his own.

GOT THE OPENER

Don Bellringer and Ken Partis set up Tommy Goodfellow for the opening goal early in the first. Goodfellow, standing to left side alone, gave Donlevy no mercy on his long shot. Then Peterson with a burst of speed broke into the clear from centre, easily beating Johnson.

With only 21 seconds left to play in the period, Chum Fryia at the Goodyear blueline passed across to Gus Leonard who relayed to Toodie Greenlaw at the goalmouth. Again Johnson had no chance and the Petes went ahead 2-1.

Kingston tied the score early in the second period when in a maze of players Don Murray tipped in Ted Nicholson's long blueline shot. Six minutes later Goodyears went ahead when MacGregor standing on the crease guided in Murray's pass from the corner.

With Ron Belisle in the penalty box and Kingston pressing, Peterson scooped in a loose puck at the Petes' blueline in the third, catching the Kingston defence too far up. Johnson was beaten on a short eight-foot shot.

AHEAD AGAIN

Just as Belisle stepped on the ice, MacGregor, Murray and Joe Catlin power-played their way through the Petes. Murray left unguarded in front of the goal put the Goodyears up again.

For a second time in the period the Petes rallied. Greenlaw shot. Johnson saved. Leonard took the rebound and shot. Johnson saved. Then Fryia took the second rebound and scored as Johnson couldn't move fast enough to cover the open corner.

Clint Tinkess and Jack Myke set Jack White into the open with only Bill McMaster back helping Donlevy. White, using McMaster as a screen, lifted a long shot past Donlevy to give the Goodyears the lead once more. MacGregor later scored the assurance goal through a maze of players in front of Donlevy.

Richmond Entry Contingent On Deal

MONTREAL (CP) — President Frank Shaughnessy of the International Baseball League said Monday the possibility of Richmond, Va., entering a triple-A circuit now appears contingent upon a deal by Harry Seibold of Richmond for the Springfield, Mass., franchise.

Shaughnessy said he knows of a proposal by Eddie Mooers, owner of the Richmond franchise in the class-B Piedmont League, to sell that franchise to Seibold.

TIMOTHY GEOHAGEN, pictured above, who will team up with Ilio DiPoalo against Al and Tiny Mills in the feature team wrestling match at the Brock Arena Wednesday. DiPoala is a rugged grappler and the Italian should prove a big help to Irish Tim. Fans who witnessed last Wednesday's bout know what to expect when the fearsome Mills boys are in action. They're a rough combination but DiPoala and Geohagen should be able to take their measure. Sky Hi Lee tackles Alan Garfield, noted English wrestler in the semi-final. Fans have been impressed with big Hi's work on TV lately. Chico Garcia, a newcomer from Mexico, and highy rated, will test Firpo Szybsko in the opener. The entire card sparkles with talent and should draw a large crowd of mat enthusiasts.

PETERBOROUGH AIRMAN IN INTERNATIONAL MEET—A member of the RCAF swimming team competing in England with service members of other nations, Flight Lieutenant Allan Marshall, of Peterborough, is seen in training at London. SEEKS HEAVY CROWN — Earl Walls, 23-year-old Canadian heavyweight boxing champion, has been mentioned as a possible contender for the world title held by Rocky Marciano. Walls, with 24 knockouts in 32 professional fights, was ranked seventh contender after knocking out Rex Layne, of Salt Lake City, Utah, twice. Formerly of Windsor, Ont., he now lives in Toronto and fights again on December 4 in Edmonton against Bernie Reynolds, of Jersey City, N.J.

SUPERTEST Power-thrust

THE Calvert SPORTS COLUMN

by Elmer Ferguson

We haven't any idea when the Hockey Hall of Fame at Kingston will become something more tangible than a vague dream of the future. We believe, though, that the game today is big enough, and its background sufficiently rich in episode, history and momento for establishment of a Hall that will rival, in a measure, the baseball shrine at Cooperstown, N.Y.

In Montreal there is a collection of hockey sticks, with which the original owners performed record feats, and which will be a fine item for the Hall. And the richest addition to this unusual assortment was made not long since when a collector of hockey trivia donated to the group the stick that the hockey-immortal Howie Morenz carried that night of January 28, 1937, when the Stratford Streak caromed off Big Earl Siebert, crashed heavily, skates-first, into the wooden border just above the ice at the south end of the Montreal Form, and broke his leg. Two months later Howie died. They said his heart had failed him. More likely his heart was broken as he realized he might never play his beloved game again.

Probably the Morenz stick is the lightest in weight, of all the sticks in the Montreal Forum collection. Naturally, it has dried out considerably in the 15 years since it fell from Howie's hands, but it was carefully shellacked as a preservative measure. Morenz always used a very light stick. Some players believe they get more control and more speed of shot with a heavyweight club, but Morenz never thought so. Howie used what is known as a No. 3 stick, so that it is carried at a distance from the body. The angle of the blade to the handle makes that difference.

There is just one autograph on the stick. Suitably enough it was inscribed by Howie's great partner over a long span of years, Aurel Joliat.

The stick goes to join a notable collection of war-clubs and they will, in the course of time, go into the Hockey Hall of Fame. We imagine the biggest club in the lot is that which belonged to Nels Stewart, when the great scorer played his final games with New York Americans. Stewart favored the heaviest stick he could get.

Another big club is that with which Cannonading Charlie Conacher scored almost the last of his 225 goals. The sticks with which Gordie Howe, Teddy Lindsay, Elmer Lach, Porky Dumart, and Milt Schmidt scored their 200th goals are there. Rocket Richard has two sticks in the display, one with which he scored goal No. 200, another with which he notched the counter that broke Nels Stewart's life-time record of 324 NHL goals.

And there's a touch of near-tragedy among the sticks. For hanging there is the club Ace Bailey carried that night of December 12, 1933, when he was crashed face-downward by Eddie Shore, fractured his skull, hovered between life and death many days and nights and finally recovered.

Low Goal Record In NHL So Far This Season; Not Even Wings Clicking

MONTREAL (CP)—The defences are stronger and the goalies more eagle-eyed or else the National Hockey League marksmen are getting slightly fuzzy ideas as to the general whereabouts of the net. So far this season there has been an average of 4.23 goals a game. At the same stage last season the average was 5.47. Every team except Boston has fallen off. The most surprising decline is that of Detroit Red Wings, from a 3.44 average to 2.37.

The cellar - dwelling Chicago Black Hawks, who were flying high this time last year, have suffered the worst reverse, from 2.96 to 1.68.

Toronto has dropped from 2.84 to 2.15, Montreal from 2.82 to 2.32 and New York Rangers from 2.12 to 2.00.

Even the increase by Boston's Bruins has been small, from 1.83 goals a game to 2.22.

Only three times this season has a team scored six goals. Last year at this time not only had a six-goal production by any one team cropped up six times, but there were two seven-goal contributions and one each of eight, nine and 10.

NETMINDERS' JOY

This trend toward fewer goals is something in which the hardy netminders revel. Harry Lumley of the Leafs, with due credit also to his teammates, has done an amazing job in cutting his goals-against average more than 50 per cent.

A year ago Harry was being scored on at the rate of 3.10 goals a game. Today he is leading all goalies with 1.45, a shade better than the 1.47 average of Terry Sawchuk of Detroit who had 2.47 at this time last year.

Meanwhile, Gordie Howe of the Red Wings continues to set the pace for the individual point-getters and last week even widened the margin a bit by collecting four points, one goal and three assists. His teammate, Ted Lindsay, counted three assists and easily held on to second place with 21 points to Howe's 24.

REIBEL POINTLESS

Rookie Earl (Dutch) Reibel of the Wings went pointless and dropped from third to fifth place. Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion of Montreal and Tod Sloan of Toront are tied for third spot with 18 points. Reibel has 17.

Geoffrion's two goals ran his string to nine and put him in a tie for goal leadership with Maurice Richard, his teammate. Richard failed to get a point and slipped from a sixth-place tie to ninth-place tie.

Sullivan Leads American League Scoring

NEW YORK (AP) — George (Red) Sullivan of Hershey Bears has replaced the Buffalo Bison forward line of Don Marshall, Ed Slowinski and Gaye Stewart as the leading scorer in the American Hockey League.

Sullivan scored eight points last week for a total of 28 points, according to official statistics released today. He leads the league in assists with 19. The three Bisons are tied for second in scoring with 26 points each.

Harry Pidhirny of Syracuse Warriors leads the goal scorers with 16.

Jacques Plante continues to set the pace for goalies with an average of 2.53 on 48 goals allowed in 19 games.

Here And There In Sports

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

LONDON (Reuters)—Cold war tension thawed out a little here Monday as England played host to a Hungarian soccer team, and the Hungarians replied with vodka.

The Iron Curtain sportsmen are here to play an English all-star soccer team in Wembley Stadium Wednesday.

They told newspapermen they hoped to break England's unbeaten record of home games.

But they said that winning is not the most important thing. What they want, they say, is to "play a sporting game to the satisfaction of everyone" and to play the kind of high-precision soccer expected of them.

At any rate, questioners were told, the team won't be put in jail if it loses.

Sunday night the Hungarians were mobbed by English fans when they arrived in London by train. They obviously enjoyed their reception.

CHOOSE CITY HOTEL

The Hungarians turned down reservations in a suburban hotel arranged by the English Football Association and chose one in the centre of London.

"We like the players to be in the midst of the life in countries they visit," explained Sandor Barcs, president of the Hungarian Football Association.

The Hungarians brought out big smiles and the vodka to tell reporters about their wonder team.

Officially, the players — amateurs—will get no pay. But it appeared likely a victory would be marked with a gift of some kind to the players. There is also some speculation that the team captain, Ferenc Puskas, would be promoted from his present army rank of major.

BUY ANOTHER IRISH FILLY

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — Purchase of the two-year-old Irish filly Sixpence by Alberta Ranches Ltd., was announced at Santa Anita track Monday. The price was reported to be $60,000.

Jockey Johnny Longden, whose son Vance is a partner in Alberta Ranches, said the filly was bought from A. L. Hawkins, Irish horseman, who earlier had sold them Thirteen of Diamonds, winner of the Irish Derby two years ago.

Both Sixpence and Thirteen of Diamonds are expected here this week.

JOEY WINS BRAWL

BROOKLYN (AP)—Joey Giardello, third-ranking middleweight contender from Philadelphia, Monday night won a unanimous 10-round decision over Tuzo (Kid) Portuguez of Costa Rica in a rough, foul-packed scrap. Giardello weighed 160, Portuguez, 161.

Each fighter was penalized a round. Referee Ruby Goldstein warned both boxers for various infractions and Jack Friday, Portuguez trainer, was suspended for climbing onto the apron of the ring in the wild fourth round. In that round the referee warned the Costa Rican for butting with his head.

Lindsay Rink Knocked Out

HAMILTON (CP) — Pete Gilbert's Chatham rink and Howard Wood's Winnipeg Granite group entered the fourth round of Hamilton Centennial bonspiel's top event Monday night.

Gilbert's crew defeated Welland's J. Muddie 14-7 in the first round, downed H. F. Rankine of Saint John, N.B., 12-3 in the second round and knocked out a Lindsay rink skipped by P. H. Skitch in the third round.

The Winnipeg curlers defeated Andy Grant's Royal Canadian rink 8-5 in the first, took G. F. Doggett's Kirkland Lake quartet 13-9 in the second and won over Ottawa Rideau, skipped by C. G. Keyes 10-5 in the third.

Twenty-two of the 76 entered rinks saw action in the first day's action. The finals will be held Friday.

Player's Injury Kept Secret

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—One of the best kept secrets of the senior intercollegiate football season involved the league's top scorer, Gino Fracas, of the University of Western Ontario Mustangs, college champions.

Gino, 200 pound, hard-driving right-half from Windsor, Ont., broke the small toe in his left foot three days before the opening game with McMaster in a drill.

An x-ray showed a complete break and Fracas was advised not to play or he would be "taking a chance."

Fracas refused to take a rest and went on to score two touchdowns against McMaster. The injury was not publicized because Fracas was afraid that some of his opponents might learn of the broken toe.

Coach Johnny Metras kept the secret so well at the start that even members of the Mustangs felt that Fracas was "loafing" in the workouts.

Planned Bogus Cup Tickets

WINNIPEG (CP) — A middle-aged man who attempted to have 300 counterfeit Grey Cup tickets printed in a Winnipeg printing shop fled Monday when a shop official refused.

"I don't know who he was," the official said. "He left in an awful rush when I told him what I thought of his scheme."

Police are on the lookout for anyone attempting to print or distribute counterfeit tickets. Similar attempts have been reported in other cities in previous years.

Demand for tickets here is high. The Winnipeg football club has received applications for 4,500 tickets; its allocation is 3,300.

Plan To Change 1954 College Rugby Schedule

TORONTO (CP) — Warren Stevens, director of athletics at the University of Toronto, says there will be some "definite" action taken before the first of the year to change the 1954 senior intercollegiate football schedule.

Next year's schedule drops the Western - at - Toronto game, Varsity's biggest drawing card and the arrangement has drawn heavy controversy. It resulted from the inclusion of McMaster who dropped all six of their games, in the league for the first time this season.

Stevens said Monday a longer schedule might be the solution. It would mean cutting exhibition games and playing a home-and-home series for an eight-game schedule.

Ivor Wynne, McMaster's athletic director, said he favors a longer schedule.

"I don't see why it couldn't be arranged. We could play the extra games on holidays such as Thanksgiving Day."

MAC NOT DISHEARTENED

Wynne said McMaster wasn't "disenchanted" about its winless season. He said the team was "a little disappointed" at not winning at least one game, but he expects to have two full teams next year.

Johnny Metras, coach of the champion Western Mustangs, said the union should have thought of the schedule difficulties and the weakness of the Marauders before they let McMaster in.

"They said then if McMaster wasn't strong enough they'd kick them out. That won't be easy now though with them in."

Witch-Hunting Does Not Combat Communism

Moulding Of Character Fails To Get Sufficient Attention In Home And School Judge Says

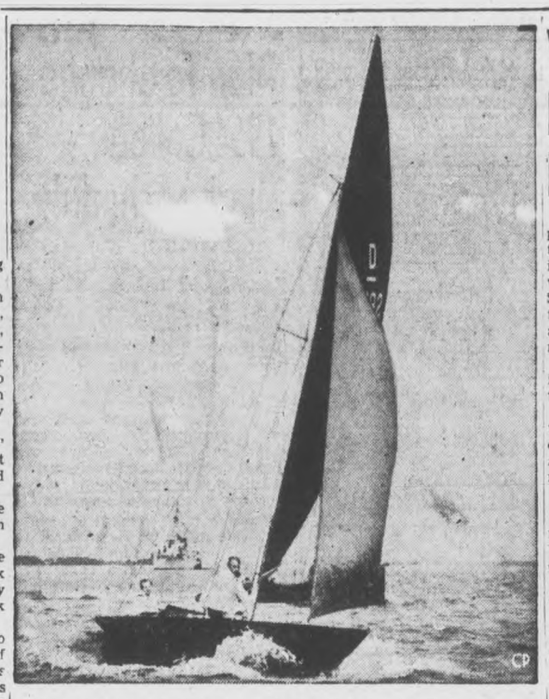
Lack of training and discipline in homes and schools may be responsible for Canada's "scandalously" large prison population, Judge John Do N. Kennedy said Monday.

The moulding of character, he pointed out, is an "important branch of education" which does not receive "nearly enough attention" in the home and school.

The teaching of honesty, good manners, discipline and kindness should come first when dealing with children, the judge said in addressing a Rotary club luncheon. He was discussing the solution to a growing penology problem which, in turn, is one of the weaknesses of Canada's democracy.

How to combat communism? "We should never go into witch-hunting," Judge Kennedy maintained. "It doesn't combat communism; it only drives it underground. Instead we must prove our system is the best there is."

One of the handicaps to this method, though, is the growing prison population.



He quoted prison population figures of 1950 comparing Canada, England and Scotland. Canada, with one-third the United Kingdom population, boasted four times as many prisoners; Ontario with about the same population as Scotland, had six times as many prisoners.

"What is the cause and remedy?" he asked. "A large portion must lie at the lack of training and discipline in home and school."

Rehabilitation problems made many prisoners repeaters which boosted the jail population.

"Employers don't realize the importance of accepting the risk of given ex-convicts a job. If they don't, they help drive him back to prison."

The judge urged Rotarians to study the subject of penology. "If we're going to prove our way is better than communism, then this problem is one we must solve," he concluded.

TO COMPETE HERE—The Queen and Duke of Edinburgh have accepted an invitation from the Canadian Yachting Association to send their yacht Bluebottle to Canada to take part in a series of races in Montreal and Toronto next summer. A dragon-class boat, the Bluebottle was given to the Queen and Duke as a wedding present by the Isle of Wight sailing club. This picture shows the Duke at the helm of the Bluebottle.

Would Make Parole Board Full-Time Job

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario parole board met with the legislature's select committee on reform institutions Monday and agreed with committee chairman W. J. Stewart (PC — Toronto Parkdale) that they could do a better job as full-time instead of part-time members.

The reforms committee promised it would look into the situation.

Parole board members said although it was promised by the department of reform institutions, a rule book on parole granting has not yet materialized.

BEEN IGNORED

"We have been ignored in this matter," Col. W. Maybin said. "There has not yet been any indication of the new mythical regulations that are supposed to come in."

W. M. Nickle (PC—Kingston) said he doubted if the board should have regulations to guide it.

"The fewer regulations you have to guide you, the better," he said. "I would like to see you have the widest scope and not be tied up with regulations."

TANGLED DEATH — Two men died when this transport truck, carrying an 18-ton load, climbed over the tops of two stalled cars in heavy fog near Montreal. Alcide Hanault, 37, and Krisopher Hanson, 45, both of Montreal, were killed in one car. Six other persons were injured.

Contracts Let For Highway

TORONTO (CP)—J. D. Millar, deputy minister of highways for Ontario, said Monday final contracts for the dual-lane Toronto to Huntsville highway have been let.

Total provincial road construction costs next year will amount to $135,000,000.

Speaking to the Automotive Transport Association of Ontario, Mr. Millar said he was doubtful if the Windsor-Quebec border highway would be completed before 1963.

He said the province was in the fourth year of a program designed to spend $500,000,000 on highway improvement.

Well Meaning Citizen Puts Drunk In Car

STRATFORD (CP) — A well-meaning St. Marys' citizen who helped a drunk get back into a car after the drunk had fallen out might have done something o avoid a court appearance.

Lloyd Cook, 20, of Motherwell Monday pleaded guilty to having care and control of a car while intoxicated and was sentenced to seven days in jail, his license suspended for six months and his car impounded for three months.

Provincial Constable Lloyd Weitzel testified that he found Cook asleep in a car, parked in the centre of the road with no lights.

Police were told later that Cook had driven through St. Marys and had fallen out of his car at a stoplight. Some well-meaning citizen helped Cook get back into the car and allowed him to drive away.

WITH THE BOY SCOUTS

By CHARLES H. SPEARIN

The scout badge is a symbol representing the promise a boy makes at his investiture to become a scout. To qualify for his investiture he must pass a series of seven tests, one of which is to understand and be able to repeat from memory the ten points of the scout law. Having passed the tenderfoot tests, he makes the following scout promise to the scoutmaster in the presence of the troop:

"On my honor . . . I promise . . . that I will do my best . . . to do duty to God . . . and the Queen . . . to help other people at all times . . . to obey the scout law."

The scout badge is designed on the pattern of a fleur de lis with a five-pointed star on both lateral fronds. The three fronds represent the three parts of the promise: "Duty to God and the Queen . . . help others . . . obey the scout law."

The two five-pointed stars are sometimes called the "eyes" of the scout. The ten points on the two stars represent the ten scout laws. The "Be Prepared" band, binding the fronds, stands for the bond of brotherhood between scouts.

CHIEF SCOUT WILL PRESENT AWARDS

At a special investiture at Government House, Ottawa, today, His Excellency the Right Honorable Vincent Massey, in his capacity as chief scout for Canada, will present gallantry and service awards to 19 recipients. Including one posthumous award, presentations will be made to one wolf cub, four scouts, one lone scout, two scouters and 11 other adults.

CANADIAN SCOUTS INVITED

Canada has been invited to send representatives to two scouting events in other countries in 1954: To the first Phillipines national jamboree, to be held near Manila from April 23 to 30; and to the first Brazilian international patrol camp at Sao Paulo, Brazil, from July 17 to August 3.

TRINITY CUB AND SCOUT MOTHERS' AUXILIARY

Mrs. Russell Cole was hostess for the November meeting of the Trinity Cub and Scout Mothers' Auxiliary.

It was announced that the auxiliary would supply the lunch for the Christmas parties of cubs and scouts.

The Rev. G. S. Maxwell gave an address on "Citizenship," urging the mothers to instil into their children a vision of the world to be and stressing the importance the role of a mother in moulding her children's character.

A pleasing feature of the evening was the lighting of candles on an anniversary cake by six past presidents of the auxiliary; Mesdames C. H. Spearin, N. Elliott, A. Phillips, R S. Hutton, G. Hancock and E. Edmondson.

Mrs. G. Hancock spoke of the efforts of the immediate past president Mrs. E. Edmondson and presented her with a past president's pin. At the conclusion of the meeting refreshments were served by the committee in charge.

2ND ST. LUKE'S PACK

Having learned the law and promise of the Wolf Cub Pack, Bill Steen was invested into the pack and the brotherhood of scouting.

In a "going-up" ceremony in which they received their Leaping Wolf badges, showing that while in the pack they had passed all first and second star tests, Gord Sanderson, Ray Baptie and Glenn Turkington joined their new comrades in the scout troop.

Don Ebbs received his sixer stripes becoming the new sixer of the Red Six and Jack Steen was made a sixer of the Yellow Six. Bob MacDonald was appointed senior sixer and David Pilley and Don Muir became seconders of the Yellow and Red Sixes. Cub reporter Glenn Walker was presented with his swimmer's badge.

The following tests were passed during the evening: Bob Kent, book balancing; Jack Steen, skipping; Randy Cumming, hopping and ball throwing; Doug Price, somersault, ball throwing, hopping and leap-frog; David White, leap-frog and hopping; Teddy Fullbrook, leap-frog, hopping and somersault; Rickey Lee, grand howl; Fred James, signs and salute; Garry McFaul and Ron James, compass; Bill Steen, hopping; Joe Moncrief, ball throwing; Don Muir, ball throwing; George Abbott, union flag; Kim Salonius, compass; Ron Perry, O Canada; Ron James, team play; David Pilley, compass.

17TH ST. ALBAN'S PACK

Having passed all first and second star tests Roger Finnamore and Paul Stephenson were presented with their second star showing that now each boy has both "eyes" open. The following efficiency badges were prested: Paul Stephenson, toymaker, artist and swimmer; Frank Millard, artist; Tom Wood, observer.

3RD ST. GEORGE'S PACK

Leslie Henwood and Ronald Henwood displayed ships sculptured in soap and Allen Pearson a tractor trailer from Meccano to pass the second star model test.

5TH PETERBOROUGH

On Thursday evening the All Saints' cub pack began their meeting under the leadership of cubmaster Harry Wooden.

A lively game, called Model "A" Ford, was played and was won by the Red six. Although the Red six won the game, it still did not give them enough points to conquer the Yellow six, which, at the end of the evening, had chalked up 180 points.

David Locke was invested into the pack by cubmaster Harry Wooden.

The biggest event of the evening came when 11 cubs were taken up into the scouts. The 11 boys were: David Fletcher, Graham Sutton, Norman Muffet, Glen Stuart, Bob Pulford, Murray Wilson, Keith Riches, Robert Kearns, Wayne Dorrington, Jackie Rogers, and Frank Howard. The parents of these boys were present to watch the proceedings.

The rest of the cubs were dismissed and scoutmaster Harry Wooden opened the meeting. Because of the going up ceremony, many changes took place in the troop. The Wolfe patrol changed its name to Seal, while the Crow patrol changed to Muskrat.

Harvey Howden was later promoted to assistant PL of the Beaver patrol.

The patrols stand as follows: Seal—PL Ron Beard, APL Ken Butler, Gord Cirvin, Bob Davies, Dale Cinnamon, David Fletcher, Murray "Stumpy" Wilson, Graham Sutton and Wayne Dorrington.

Muskrat—PL Gar White, APL Gerry Williams, Gerry Foy, Bob Pulford, Robert Kearns, Norman Moffat tand Keith Riches.

Beaver—PL Don York, APL Harvey Howden, Lawrence Julian, Paul Cinnamon, Bob Neal, Larry Barringer, Jack Rogers and Buddie Johnston.

Two More Ships For RCN Fleet

OTTAWA (CP)—A veteran frigate and the first of 20 new minesweepers will be commissioned in the Royal Canadian Navy at a ceremony Thursday at Louzon, Que.

The frigate will begin her second commission as HMCS Toronto. The minesweeper will be called HMCS Gaspe. Both will join the east coast fleet.

Mayor Allan Lamport of Toronto will be on hand when Lt. Cmdr. William D. F. Johnston, 35, of Ottawa takes over command of the frigate, a 2,000-ton veteran of North Atlantic operations during the war. The vessel has been redesigned and modern radar, radio and underwater detection apparatus installed. New anti-submarine armament also has been added.

General Time Plans Build New Plant

NEW YORK—An expansion program for General Time Corporation, which will involve the construction of a new plant at Athens, Georgia, was announced Monday by Donald J. Hawthorne, president. The new factory, a one-story structure containing initially about 100,000 square feet of floor space, when completed and equipped will represent an initial investment of approximately $2,000,000. It will manufacture Westclox electric clocks.

Land for the structure, 56 acres, has already been acquired by the company and construction will start in the near future.

In announcing the program, Mr. Hawthorne said it was another step in the company's projected expansion of facilities to meet the increasing demand for its products.

Genral Time's domestic plants are located at LaSalle, Illinois; Thomaston and Torrington, Connecticut; and Goshen, Indiana. Its foreign plants are in Peterborough, Canada, Scotland and Brazil.

ANNUAL REUNION

The annual reunion of Peterborough Lodge of Perfection Scottish Rite masons was held on Monday at the Masonic Temple. Degree work commenced at 7.30 in the morning on a class of 38 candidates and continued throughout the day and well into the evening. The special speaker at the dinner in the evening was Thomas K. Wade, of Toronto, Lt. Grand Commander of Scottish Rite masons.

Who Will Pour?

It won't be an inaugural ball exactly, but next year's city council are going to have a party the day they take their oaths of office —thanks to the 1953 council. They voted Monday night to alter the time of the first meeting of the 1954 council from 11:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. Mayor Hugh Waddell explained this was to allow for a reception to be held in the mayor's parlor after the meeting. The question of who will pour tea is apparently to be left to the voters.

Cafe Owners Seek To Close Mobile Canteen

After weeks of almost somnolent routine, the scene in the city council chamber broke into a cross between a United States Congressional sub-committee hearing and a national sales convention Monday night. But it required imported talent to do it.

When the flow of impassioned rhetoric had died away, council put off until next Monday night's meeting of the committee of the whole council consideration of a petition from 42 restaurant and lunch counter proprietors to cancel licences of mobile vending units (lunch wagons).

Appeals were made to the spirit of free competition, fair play, patriotism and service beyond the call of duty before an enthralled audience of upwards of 25 members of the Mark Street United Church congregation, who happened to be on hand with a petition of their own regarding another matter.

The drama unfolded with the presentation of a petition to council by Edward Fanjoy, legal counsel for the restaurant and lunch counter proprietors, who asked council to invoke section 12 of the licensing bylaw, permitting them to cancel licences of mobile vending units.

SUFFERED LOSSES

Claiming that the petitioners had suffered losses as a result of the operation of the units, Mr. Fanjoy claimed that since the bylaw had been passed in 1950 it had been shown not to be in the public interest.

While restaurants and lunch counters operated from early in the morning until late at night, thereby performing an essential public service, the mobile units operated only at peak periods and in the best locations, Mr. Fanjoy claimed. While the petitioners paid property and business taxes, the mobile units paid only a $150 licence fee.

"By their very nature, these units tend to be unsanitary," he argued. "They leave cartons and papers lying about the streets and they tend to impede traffic."

Mr. Fanjoy said he had written to cities comparable in size to Peterborough and found that only two other cities in Ontario allowed such units to operate on the streets but under greater restrictions than in Peterborough.

George Glover, a lunch-counter proprietor, said he had been in business 27 years and the units were getting the business from

Oil Company, Church Seek City Lot

Mark Street Church Opposes Selling Land For Gas Station

With a declaration from the pastor, Dr. N. D. Patterson, that Mark Street United church congregation were prepared to pay a sum equal to that of the Imperial Oil Co. to purchase the McGregor property on Hunter St., next to the church, for expansion of their Sunday school facilities, city council Monday night deferred action on a request from the company for a building permit to erect a service station on the site.

Only opposition to laying the matter over came from Ald. W. J. Beggs, who argued that expansion of the church property would be "much more to the benefit of humanity" than granting a service station licence. He feared that further delay in the matter would be "offering someone a real estate gold mine."

With Ald. Beggs dissenting, council moved to lay the matter over until the committee meeting of the whole council next Monday night.

GAVE REASONS

Dr. Patterson, who headed a delegation of upwards of 25 members of his congregation, gave a number of reasons for the church opposing issuance of a building permit to the Imperial Oil Co.

No other church in the city had a service station adjacent to it and Mark St. was the strongest, numerically, of the seven United church congregations in the city.

The service station would be a nuisance from the point of view of odor and noise and it would increase the difficulty of parking, already an acute problem. The area was amply provided with service stations, as there were already two within a block of the church.

Dr. Patterson said the congregation had nothing against Imperial Oil or any other oil company but they believed the company would not want to lose any good will. Nor was the delegation present to embarrass the owner of the property who, they understood, was seriously ill.

A committee appointed by the church board had deposited a cheque for $1,000 with a real estate agent for purchase of the property. A drive for funds had been begun in September for a building for Christian education but the objective had not yet been reached.

Mark St. was the only United church east of the river, he pointed out, and was serving a growing area. They were not a wealthy congregation but were trying to face the situation realistically.

PREPARED TO MEET SUM

"Is Dr. Patterson aware of the amount of money offered for the property?" Ald. Gordon Farquharson asked.

"We are ware," Dr. Patterson replied.

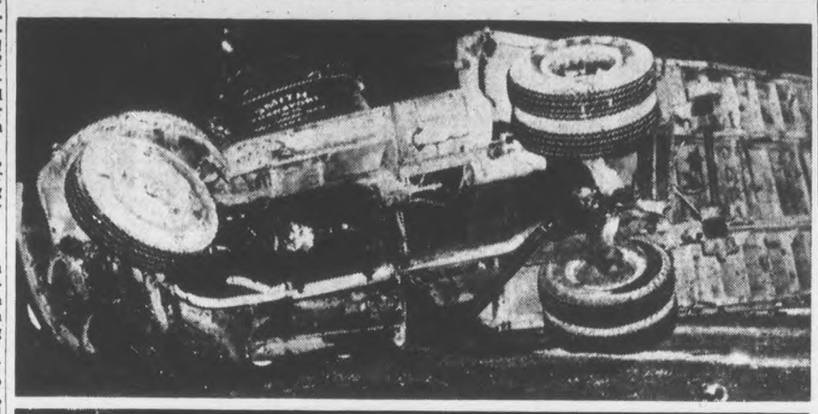
"Are you prepared to meet that sum?"

"We are prepared, if necessary."

"It's my feeling and I think it's the feeling of all the other members of city council that we are sympathetic to the expansion of the church," Ald Farquharson said. "I would like to see the matter referred to the next council meeting so that a representative of the Imperial Oil Co. can attend, as well as Mr. McGregor's solicitor and assure them that the members of the congregation are prepared to purchase this property immediately."

Ald. Beggs' opposition to the delay came after Ald. T. D. Miller moved for approval of the finance committee report, deleting the clause authorizing issuance of the building permit. The clause contained a rider "that the authorities of Mark Street United church be informed by letter by the city clerk that this recommendation will be presented at the next meeting of the city council."

Ald. Beggs disagreed with the proviso that the matter be left over until next Monday's committee meeting but the motion carried. He expressed his opposition again, however, when the question came up of dealing with the petition of Mark St. congregation.



Ald. Syd Black seconded Ald. Miller's motion that the matter be considered by the next meeting of the committee of the whole council.

RETROGRADE STEP

"I'm going to speak against the resolution for one purpose," Ald. Beggs said. "The purpose of the motion in the finance committee was to give Mark St. an oppor-

SCENE OF DEATH—John Pollitt, 35, of Richmond Hill was killed in the car shown centre when it collided with the transport shown on its side in the top photo on Highway 2 just east of Port Hope about 4 a.m. today. His passenger Lloyd Knapp of Toronto suffered head injuries. The truck that turned over strewed barrels of shortening about the highway. A second transport shown in the lower photo swerved into the ditch to avoid a pile-up. The cab jacknifed alongside the trailer, but it remained upright. —(Murray Smith Photos)

Car Driver Killed In Crash With Two Transports; Passenger Seriously Hurt

One Truck Driver Tells Of Car Swerving Into His Path On Highway 2 Second Truck Takes To Ditch To Avoid Pile-Up

COBOURG (ENS)—One man was killed and another badly injured in an accident just east of Port Hope on Highway 2, involving two large transports and a car, at 4.30 a.m. today. Dead is 35-year-old John Pollitt of 180 Richmond St. Richmond Hill, driver of the car. Seriously injured and in Port Hope Hospital is Lloyd Knapp, 1160 Bloor St. W., Toronto, who was riding in the front seat of the car. Also in Port Hope Hospital but with slight injuries is Alfred Jost of Toronto, driver of one of the transports.

This brings the death toll up to a total of 15 persons killed in traffic accidents in this district during 1953.

Eye witness was Oscar Grange of Kingston, driver of a westbound transport, with 18 tons of shortening in drums, bound for Toronto.

SAW APPROACHING CAR

"I saw this eastbound car coming towards me but anticipated nothing unusual until he suddenly swerved to the north into my traffic lane. Instantly we collided and it happened so fast that I don't remember anything else except that the transport rolled over on its side across the highway," said Grange to The Examiner.

Alfred Jost, relief driver with another load of shortening was driving behind the first transport. With him in the cab was William Schroder of Toronto who had been driving earlier on the trip towards Toronto. Schroder said he saw the lights of the car coming and then they merged with the lights of the transport driven by Grange.

"There was a crash and to avoid piling into it, Jost wheeled the outfit for the ditch after breaking it. We went off the end of the culvert into the ditch but didn't upset," related Schroder.

CONTINUED 150 FEET

After the impact with the transport, the car continued on east for about 150 feet until it came to a stop at right angles to the highway and nosing into the shoulder of the road, pointing south. The left side was torn off the car and the two occupants were thrown violently against the windshield. Most of the damage was to the left front and left side of the car.

Police were kept busy herding spectators with cigarettes away from the two transports, because gasoline had run out on the pavement. Fortunately, after the accident, neither transport caught fire as the load of shortening would have made a fierce blaze.

Provincial Constable Vic Piper of Cobourg investigated.

Written Protest About Bridge Too Late Now

The time has passed for objections being raised to the overhead bridge and causeway at Gannon's Narrows. Work on the project is already under way.

That is the gist of a reply by Warden Ernest J. Leeson to a letter written by Kenneth Jakins of Lakefield. Mr. Jakins, whose favorite hobby and recreation is sailing, wrote to the warden that the 22-foot-high overhead span would curtail sailing as yachts with masts reaching higher than 22 feet could not pass under the bridge.

In his letter of Oct. 29 he advocated a swing-span type of bridge, which was turned down by county council during the planning stage.

Mr. Jakins said, in part: "The high level bridge under construction at Young's Point only eliminates Lake Katchewanooka which is not an important sailing lake. The proposed high-level structure at Gannon's Narrows would cut in two one of the most beautiful and soul satisfying cruises that can be found anywhere."

He said that if this had been more widely known during the vacation months there would have been objections.

LAKE CHEMONG

"Surely the cost of a swing bridge would be greatly modified

3.8 Hunters Share One Deer Figures Show

Data collected from three deer-checking stations in the Lindsay Forestry district show that one deer was brought down for each 3.8 hunters, or, the hunters success was 25.6 per cent. This figure was slightly less than the 1952 season.

Department employees checked 2,860 hunters who produced 762 deer, seven bears and three elk for inspection. Four per cent, or, 125 of these hunters were Americans.

A further breakdown of the deer figures show that 36 per cent were bucks, 37 per cent does, and 27 per cent were fawns. It was also of interest to find that the sex breakdown was exactly that of 1952— 55 per cent male animals and 45 per cent females.

INTERRUPTED

In spite of bad road conditions and the sudden mid-season snowstorm that prevented an absolute road check, officers were able to examine 365 deer to determine age and weigh 142 more on roadside scales.

From statistics gather in the Kawarthas during the past six seasons it was found that the greatest hunter success was achieved with 40 per cent in 1950 and this year the smallest, 26.6.

Person's Musical Prejudices Outraged By Anna Russell

Miss Anna Russell is a lady of impressively powerful physique, vehement platform manner and extroverted personality, who sings parodies of vocal music of all kinds in a strong, useful voice; in the presence of these overwhelming qualities it is possible to miss the fact that she is also a musical critic of extraordinary perception and a musician of remarkable versatility. She probes the whole world of song, and wherever she finds a soft spot she digs her scalpel in it right up to the handle. Wherever she goes, we may imagine that she sheds a good deal of blood. By the end of her concert on Monday night, it is doubtful if there was anyone in the Concert Association audience whose musical prejudices had not been outraged, and whose sacred cow had not been given a resounding clump on the rump.

To be thoroughly personal about it, I resented Miss Russell when she did her brilliant parody of a German 'lied', called 'Schlumph'; I am very fond of lieder, and perhaps take them too seriously. But after I had heard her do the same sort of job on French 'art songs' and Spanish gypsy Flamenco songs (both of which I loathe) I was forced to change my mind. If Miss Russell is so right about these, I thought, can she be entirely wrong about lieder? Is it not a fact that many singers of lieder are as voiceless, dowdy and glum as she suggests in her parody? Are not lieder beautiful in spite of these terrible people, rather than because of them? And thus I think I arrived at the truth about Miss Russell: it is not music she is gunning for, but some of the fantastic people who attach themselves to music. She is a true parodist.

It was an evening of wonderful revelations. I particularly liked her imitation of a madrigal choir, of a French cafe 'chanteuse' and of a Gilbert and Sullivan operetta. Best of all I think I enjoyed her comments on the invariable arrangement of a singer's recital program, as dictated by that great arbiter of taste, Mr. Ward French of Columbia Concerts. But this was only one among many fine things; her lecture on the bagpipe, and her performance on what is probably the only bagpipe in the world to have sequins on its bag, was a very high moment.

It was plain that some people in the audience did not care for Miss Russell. But, some years ago, there were people who did not like Miss Susan Reid, who also behaved as though music were an enjoyable experience, and not the performance of a painful rite. But it was a refreshing evening for those who were prepared to laugh at what they love, and when Miss Russell called for a chorus to her song about the old man who had a fat sow, the response was remarkably good.

Miss Russell is a brilliant, if unorthodox, critic. We have all, at some time, been impatient with concert performers whose 'platform manner' was far in excess of their real musical ability; we have winced at the ineptitudes of singers who have retained their great names after losing their great voices; we have rebelled against the solemn hokum which collects around music, like barnacles on a boat. Having seen and heard Anna Russell, we shall never be oppressed by these things again. We shall think of her, and of the humorous insight which made her opening of the 1953-54 Community Concert season a distinguished event.—R.D.

Growing Classes

VICTORIA (CP) — Provincial government figures now show 193,000 pupils in British Columbia schools, with 7,074 teachers. Attorney-General Bonner, acting minister of education, predicted that B.C. will have 275,000 pupils by 1958.

Christmas Shopping Edition Published Every Wednesday

Every Wednesday from now until Christmas, starting November 25, a special Christmas edition to help citizens gift-shop will appear in the Peterborough Examiner. This program is in co-operation with retail rection of the Chamber of Commerce and will affect about 100 merchants.

The program presents various advantages: By shopping early citizens will find a more complete selection of gifts without getting caught up in the last-minute hustle and bustle.

Regret and disappointment in hasty last-minute gift buying will be eliminated when customers have time to compare values; in that way it is really money saving.

PRICES ARE RIGHT

Clerks in retail stores are able to give customers more attention when shopping is done early. Rather than shop out of town, which involves greater expense, city shopping is encouraged because a price survey has shown that prices are right in Peterborough.

By shopping earlier citizens will have more time to attend to the busy affairs at home, time to clean, brighten up, and decorate, and know that their shopping has been satisfactorily completed.

To make this program attractive, four TV sets are to be given away each week, starting December 2, and ending December 28. Member stores displaying Christmas jamboree banners will give a free draw coupon to all customers purchasing $1 in merchandise or more. The slips, filled out and deposited in a box in each store, will be collected and drawn for each week at the Chamber of Commerce on December 2, 9, 16 and 28.

Watch for the Peterborough Examiner display advertisments. Shop early at member stores. Fill out your free sales coupon and you may win your family a brand new TV set for Christmas.

Bethany Honors Champion Softball Team

BETHANY (ENS)—T' Bethany Athletic association entertained on Friday evening at a banquet and dance for the girls' softball team, 1953 champions of the Rice Lake league. The women's institute catered for the dinner. Floral centres, individual favors, silver candelbra holding green and white candles, the colors of the association, all combined to make the tables most attractive and a bountiful turkey dinner was served.

Following the dinner hour a brief program was enjoyed. Ross Carr, president of the association was chairman and congratulated the girls on their successful season. Henry Jakeman proposed the toast to Her Majesty, and the National Anthem was sung. Vincent Jackson proposed a toast to the team. "It is 45 years since the Athletic Association was founded in Bethany and at first only sponsored football and baseball. This is the first year we have had a champion girls' team and it is a real pleasure to entertain in their honor." Mrs. Howard Morrow replied. Mrs. Clifford Fallis proposed a toast to their manager, Roy Ferren. In his reply, Mr. Ferren commented on the good co-operation of the girls, the real team spirit displayed all season and mentioned in particular the earlier efforts of Walter Price, who had organized the first team.

Gerald E. Staples of Lakefield, guest speaker, was introduced by the president, who said Mr. Staples was well qualified to speak to the girls having been a former member of the athletic association and a valued member of the basebal team before he took up his duties on the teaching staff at Grove Preparatory School in Lakefield. In his remarkes, Mr. Staples stated that although he lived a few miles away he had always been interested in Bethany sports and had followed with interest the accounts of the girls games throughout the season. "It is encouraging to see a community backing a team the way the Bethany folks do. If you have good sports and good organizations to sponsor them, you also have a good community. Games of any kind offer relaxation needed in a busy world and organized games have a real part to play in making good citizens." In a very interesting manner, Mr. Staples told of many different kinds of games and how they originated. Mentioning "The Hall of Fame," Mr. Staples remarked that even such a little village as Bethany had athletes worthy of a place there.

Ted Spencely delighted the 130 guests with several humorous songs with his own guitar accompaniment.

Allan Beer, reeve of Manvers township, also spoke briefly congratulating the team. "You have established a record in losing but three games throughout the summer."

Miss Marie Carr, captain of the team expressed the thanks of the members to Mr. Ferren for his good leadership in the past three years and to Mrs. Ferren who had been their scorekeeper at each game and on behalf of the Club presented them with a lovely table lamp. Two of the members who had been married since the season closed were also presented with gifts, i.s. Mrs. Harry Ryley (nee Hazel White) and Mrs. William McGill (nee Shirley Bradley).

Mrs. Morgan Bigelow expressed the thanks of the girls to the Athletic Association for the evening's entertainment. Hope Rayson replied and also thanked the Women's Institute for their capable catering.

All joined in singing Auld Lang Syne and the remainder of a happy evening was spent in dancing to music furnished by Bill Langley's orchestra from Lindsay

Uniform crests for each member of the team did not arrive in time to be presented and will be forwarded to each member as soon as possible. The team for 1953 included: June Morrow, Marie Carr, Audrey Mulligan, Mary Edwards, Hazel Ryley, Shirley McGill, Yvonne Fallis, Hilda Bigelow, Christella Neals, Agnes Martichenko, Gayle Bristow, Ruby McGill, Marie Finney, Janet Bigelow and Alta McGill.

Parents Blamed For Wild Party

CHATHAM (CP) — Magistrate Ivan B. Craig Monday blamed parents rather than the town of Wallaceburg for a wild party on a farm in nearby Tupperville Oct. 3 which resulted in 31 Wallaceburg district teen-agers appearing in court to face charges.

The second batch appeared in court Monday on charges ranging from theft of gasoline to causing wilful damage.

Eight youths were placed on suspended sentence of one year in custody of Kent county's adult probation officer, Q. L. Nighswander, when they pleaded guilty to charges of contributing to juvenile delinquency.

All charges were laid following a party at Tupperville in which teen-agers caused more than $350 damage to the home of Austin Forshee.

Others will appear Dec. 3, having pleaded not guilty to charges arising from the party.

Fined For Striking Girl

TORONTO (CP)—William Garden, 44, Monday was fined $100 and costs or 20 days for hitting a 13-year-old girl with a hammer when she and her companions went to his door Hallowe'en night to ask for apples. Donna Baker said Garden came out, shook her, and banged her arm with a hammer.

CP APPOINTMENT—Douglas Amaron, 39, a war correspondent with The Canadian Press, has been appointed an executive assistant at the Toronto head office of the co-operative news-gathering agency. Born in Quebec, he worked at the CP's Montreal and London offices and in 1942 as the first Canadian newspaperman to accompany a British commando on operations, witnessing a raid near Bologne. He returned to CP this month after six years as managing editor and editorial director of the Sherbrooke Record.

Ti-Cats Developed Key Combination

HAMILTON (CP)—A defence that had no peer in the east all season and an offence that slowly developed until the combination matched perfectly was the key that opened the door to Hamilton Tiger-Cats' Grey Cup bid this year. The Tiger-Cats, Hamilton's first Big Four team to have a crack at the East-West title in 18 years, took a long time to get their offence to equal their defence this season but coach Carl Voyles worked patiently at it and the team now is at the peak of its form.

They will clash with Winnipeg Blue Bombers Saturday at Varsity Stadium in Toronto after a campaign in the Big Four that at one stage looked near hopeless. In that early part of the season it was the defence only that held the Tiger-Cats together as Voyles shuffled quarterbacks in an attempt to find one who could get their attack firing.

The Ti-Cats have used five men this season in the pivot spot. Ed Songin, former Boston College quarter who came to Hamilton after he was cut by the professional Baltimore Colts, was the fifth and he has proved that Voyles didn't err in deciding on him.

It took Songin a few weeks to work into Voyles' system and in the last quarter of the regular schedule his accurate passing and brilliant play calling was the turning point in the Tiger-Cats' drive for a playoff berth.

He got most out of a hard-hitting, speedy backfield which until he came along showed little. The offensive backfield is composed of Ralph Toohy at flying wing, Lou Kusserow and Bernie Custis at the right and left half spots and Merle Hapes at fullback.

Royal Bailley, 185-pound plunging and running half from Tulane, is used also on offence and doubles on pass protection as tertiary half.

Kusserow, 200-pound back who played college football with Columbia University, was the sparkplug of the halfline in the Big Four playoff. He also is one of Songin's main pass receivers and along with end Vito Ragazzo from William and Mary and homebrew Dick Brown is responsible for Hamilton's great defence against the long pass.

Custis, who played quarter at one time for Syracuse University and that position for the Tiger-Cats in his first season with them in 1950, does a lot of the plunging and his speed and tricky running is utilized on end sweeps.

Vince Mazza, chosen both offensive and defensive all-star tackle, has been the backbone of the line since he came to Hamilton from Buffalo Bills four years ago.

Other top defensive linemen are tackle Bob Cross, ex-Chicago Bear, guards Vince Scott and Eddie Bevan, centres Quincy Armstrong, former New York Giant, and Bill Berezowski and end Pete Neumann.

VERSATILE PLAYER

For the Big Four final against Montreal Alouettes and in the last regular schedule game against Ottawa, which the Tiger-Cats had to win to get into the playoffs, Voyles switched the 235-pound Mazza from defence to end to rush the passer. He will be used in that spot against Winnipeg.

The Tiger-Cats' leading scorer was Tip Logan, big pass-catching end and placement kicking specialist. He was fourth in the scoring list with 61 points on three touchdowns, four field goals, 32 converts and two singles.

The Tiger-Cats use a straight T and double-wing formation. Songin does a lot of passing from the double wing but he also hands off or pitches out to Kusserow or Custis from it to keep the defence off balance.

The Tiger-Cats last won the Big Four title in 1935 and then lost to Winnipeg 18-12 in the Grey Cup final.

VICTORS' DRESSING ROOM—Hamilton Tiger-Cats whoop it up in their dressing room after defeating Montreal Alouettes 21-11 in the final playoff game at Montreal for the right to play Winnipeg Blue Bombers in the Dominion football championship at Toronto November 28. Coach Carl Voyles (holding hat, centre) cheers his sweating players after winning the Big Four football title in two straight games against Montreal.

1953 Grey Cup Fun Parade May Flop

By JIM BASTABLE

TORONTO (CP)—The Grey Cup parade bubble may burst this year.

The men who organize the $250,000 pre-game show are unhappy because Wininpeg Blue Bombers have no yen for the zany.

About the only thing Bombers will carry east to meet Hamilton Tiger-Cats are a float, a few satin beanies and plenty of Winnipeg money.

"It won't be anything like the parades staged by other western clubs," a parade official said.

"The Blue Bombers are blase over it and it's too bad. Calgary Stampeders made the parade the most colorful spectacle in Canadian sport in 1948 and it was kept up by Saskatchewan Roughriders and Edmonton Eskimos. But those Blue Bombers just don't go for the high-jinks."

OPTIMISM FALLS

The Toronto Junior Board of Trade, which runs the show, figured the Blue Bombers, who last travelled east in 1950 in search of the Grey Cup, would come through this time after a disappointing pre-game show three years ago.

Parade officials were optimistic of a good show until Alderman Jack St. John, a member of Winnipeg's special sub-committee appointed to plan parade participation, said Saturday that the city probably would donate only about $2,000.

The Winnipeg council set aside $3,000 at a meeting last night to cover the cost of a float and travel expenses of a pipe band. Council was told at least four other groups will put floats in the parade, including the Chamber of Commerce.

COUNT ON CATS

G. L. Crapper, secretary of the Junior Board of Trade, said "We can at least count on a colorful show from the Tiger-Cats. They've been itching to get into something like this for many years."

The pre-game antics hit the spectacle stage five years ago when Stampeders made the trip east for the first time and defeated Ottawa Rough Riders 12-7. Hundreds of gaily-clad supporters, cowboys, cowgirls, chuck-wagons and flapjacks descended on Toronto.

That's when a Grey Cup era was born—an era of screwy tableaux and clowning that set the classic apart from any other Canadian sports event.

Escapes In Crash

DUNDEE, Scotland (Reuters)—Motorist Thomas Tait, in a collision Monday, plunged 30 feet over a parapet—right in front of an express train. He scrambled out of his battered car seconds before the express smashed into it. He was only bruised.

Winnipeg Bombers Limber Up At Aurora

WINNIPEG (CP) — Inclement weather has forced Winnipeg Blue Bombers to complete their Grey Cup tune-up in eastern Canada.

Coach George Trafton, 30-odd players and a few club executives were scheduled to leave at 8 a.m. CST today in a chartered plane which has been painted in team colors, blue and gold.

Their destination will be Aurora, Ont., 24 miles north of Toronto, where the team will bed down in motels and train at St. Andrews College grounds for the battle in Toronto Saturday against Hamilton Tiger-Cats, Big Four and eastern champions.

Originally, Bombers had planned to do all their training in Winnipeg and then leave Friday for Toronto. But the long-range forecast of continued cold and snow in Winnipeg forced them to switch their plans. There also was the threat of a possible flight delay Friday.

LIMBERING UP

Trafton, who arrived back Monday from his scouting trip at the Big Four final in Montreal Sunday, sent the entire club through 1½ hours of limbering-up exercises Monday night, their last Winnipeg workout.

Following the practice session, the team, executives and the press and radio were guests at a "send-off dinner" given by Canada Packers whose grounds, training facilities and cafeteria Bombers have used since 1950.

Coach Trafton, club president Karl Slocomb and Ralph Misener, a past president, thanked chairman Ralph Parliament for "excellent accommodations" the firm had supplied.

Trafton said in a short address: "From what I saw in Montreal, the Tiger-Cats are a rough, tough ball club. But we too have played rough, tough football—on occasions. Saturday had better be another of those occasions. I know we can take them if you guys play the ball you're capable of."

The husky coach indicated he would drill Bombers at Aurora on what he had picked up on his scouting trip in Montreal.

Bomber Coach Admits Having Very Fiery Temper

By AL VICKERY

WINNIPEG (CP)—George Trafton isn't the easiest guy in the world to get along with; some think he's the worst.

But the coach of Winnipeg Blue Bombers, the West's representatives in the 1953 Grey Cup final at Toronto this Saturday, is one of the first to admit it.

"I came up here to coach football, not to be a public relations man," says the fiery Trafton. "Sure, I get sore when somebody rubs me the wrong way. Who doesn't?"

In his three years at Winnipeg—he still has one year to go on a three-year contract—the burly former Notre Dame and Chicago star has had several brushes with club executives, newspaper and radio men, and some fans.

POPULAR JOB

"Everybody wants to be a coach. If all these people know so much about football, then what in the h— did they bring me up here for," says the 56-year-old coach, whose language at times would make a stevedore sound like a choir boy.

"Last year, I got the club into first place. We lost the playoffs, so I get panned. This year, we pace ourselves and finish third. I still get it."

Trafton says when Bombers walloped Saskatchewan Roughriders 43-5 in the first game of this season's two-game total-point semi-final "everybody climbed on the band wagon and there was no room for the driver. A week earlier, the driver had no one to talk to."

VERY CHANGEABLE

He recalls the fans "soon jumped off again" when Bombers lost the first game of the finals 25-7 in Edmonton, but "climbed back" after Winnipeg's victory in the last two games.

"This is the greatest city for rumors and criticism I've ever been in," Trafton claims. "Canadian football is a colorful game. There's lots to write and talk about without chasing rumors and worrying whether I sold my house or whether I'm going to get canned."

"It's the ball club that suffers by these rumors; nobody else."

Trafton probably is one of the hardest-working coaches in Canada. Football is his hobby and his business. He works his team hard on and off the field.

A strong advocate of the T-formation, he says:

"The (U.S.) National League teams all use it, so it's good enough for me."

EMPHASIS ON DEFENCE

Trafton also places the emphasis on defence, saying: "If you can't stop them, you can't beat them."

Trafton, who has had the club in the playoffs every year since he took over, predicted prior to this year's semi-final against Riders that the Bombers would "go all away from making that prediction the way". He's only one game a reality.

Aussie Troops Grab Equipment

CANBERRA (AP)—Supply Minister Howard Beale told the House of Representatives today that Australian troops grabbed off considerable equipment used in Britain's recent atom tests. But he assured the House the government has tracked down the stuff.

Beale said British scientists had left behind certain equipment they regarded as being of no further use. He added:

"It is said they told the troops they could have items of equipment. The troops sent it out in parcels. Our suspicions were aroused by the size and number of parcels passing through the post. We have located the equipment and appropriate action is being taken."

Assaulted Wife, Man Jailed

SMITHS FALLS (CP)—Edward McCharles of Smiths Falls used too much force on his wife Nov. 21, That was the observation made Monday by magistrate D. C. Smith as he sentenced McCharles to 30 days in jail on a charge of occasioning actual bodily harm to his wife, Betty.

Mrs. McCharles testified that she was reading a comic book in her home when her husband punched her and then jabbed her with a screwdriver, inflicting a half-inch-deep cut in her wrist. She said he was angry over a towing charge on his motor car.

McCharles said his wife had lunged against the screwdriver while he was trying to protect their child from a "ruthless beating" by Mrs. McCharles.

"High Hat" Methods No Good In Advertising

TORONTO (CP) — Harry E. Foster, Toronto advertising executive, said Monday exhibition managers shouldn't try to "high-hat" the customers or use outdated operating methods.

In an address to the Association of Exhibitions, Mr. Foster said fairs and exhibitions "will never attain greatness if they think in the era of the covered bridge. Even the most rural areas of Canada recognize thinking in terms of the busy, bustling cosmopolitan life."

He said the first advertising used by the Canadian National Exhibition was a newspaper. From then until now the newspaper has remained the most successful and effective medium used.

Say Change Pending In Als Ownership

MONTREAL (CP)—Sports editor Vern DeGeer says in the Gazette today "rumors persist" that a revamp is pending in the ownership of Montreal Alouettes of the Big Four football league.

President Roy Robertson and secretary-treasurer Fred Skelcher denied any plans to retire from the scene but vice-president M. H. Stone insists that "something is cooking," DeGeer writes.

Canadian Firm Assists N.Z. In Paper Project

AUCKLAND, N. Z. (CP) — A Canadian firm will be closely concerned in the initial development of New Zealand's newsprint industry—biggest industrial project ever launched in this dominion.

The chairman of the board of directors of the Tasman Pulp and Paper Co., Sir James Fletcher, announced today that Abitibi Power and Paper Co. of Toronto will co-operate with advice and personnel in launching the project. The Tasman company is building big pulp, newsprint and timber mills at Kawerau, on the east coast of New Zealand's North island to utilize the world's largest man-made pine forests, now nearing maturity in the centre of the island.

SOME FOR AUSTRALIA

The mills will supply a large proportion of New Zealand's newsprint needs and leave a surplus for export, chiefly to Australia.

Payment for Abitibi's services would be based on production. The agreement would terminate 12 months after the mills' production reached 50 per cent of full rated capacity.

The Canadian company would assist in selection of operating and supervisory staff and would provide training both in its mills in Canada and in New Zealand. In the first period, Abitibi would provide qualified personnel while Tasman's staff was gaining experience.

Crashes Into Bridge On Solo Flight

GREENVILLE, Miss. (AP) — A jet training plane whose pilot was on his first night solo flight crashed into the Mississippi river bridge here early today, breaking a natural-gas pipeline which exploded and shot a stream of fire at the structure.

The fire was extinguished 30 minutes after the crash.

Fate of the pilot remained unknown, but airmen organized a search party on the hope the pilot might have parachuted.

Biggest piece left of the plane was only 12 inches long.

City Carpetball

The schedule for the week of November 30 is: Orphans No. 8 vs Fire Hall No. 4; Lawn Boys No. 2 vs. Legion No. 9; Red Patch No. 13 vs. Legion No. 11; Fire Hall No. 10 vs. Glens No. 6; Legion No. 5 vs. Legion No. 3; LOL No. 12 vs. Legion No. 1; Legion No. 7 vs. Post Office No. 14.

The results of last week's play: At the Fire Hall it was a clash between both Fire Hall teams. In the first game No. 4 was leading 12-0 going into the fifth frame; then No. 10 put the pressure on and had it deadlocked at 13-all going into the final end which No. 4 managed to win by a single, making it their game 14-13. The second game's final score was 14-4 in favor of No. 4. Thus No. 4 was able in this encounter to take both games from their brother fire-fighter opponents.

At the Legion Hall, Orphans No. 8 grabbed the first game by a 21-9 score from Legion No. 3. The second game saw the No. 8 team in the lead but No. 3 gradually piled points up until they were leading 11-10 going into the final frame. Then Orphans made it a tie game by scoring an ace to make it 11-all.

Lawn Boys No. 2 swept to a 15-6 victory over Legion No. 11 in the first game of their encounter, No. 11, coming from behind, tied it at 6-all going into the ninth end, but never scored a single point from there on in that game. The second game was won going away by Legion No. 11 as they allowed their opponents only five widely scattered singles while they collected 13.

TWO CLOSE ONES

The two most closely-fought matches of the week resulted at the Orange Hall, when Glens No. 6 met LOL No. 12 and each won an 11-7 game. The first one went to the Glens by virtue of scoring two three end to take a close 11-7 victory. The second game was tied three times before the Orangemen won a three end and then two frames later added another three end and won 11-7 game also.

Legion No. 9 ran away with the first game when they met and held Post Office No. 14 to two singles, while they collected 21 points. The Posties went into the lead in the second game, but No. 9 passed them in the fifth frame; the Posties fought back, capturing the next two ends. Then in the 11th frame the blow fell when No. 9 won a six end, and the final score was 15-6 for No. 9. A tough game for No. 14 to lose.

Legion No. 5 were leading in the first game, but Red Patches No. 13 made it 9-all in the 9th frame. In the next three ends No. 5 scored a three and two, while No. 14 only scored a lonely two, and that game was No. 5 by a 14-11 tally.

The second game saw No. 5 again leading, and by a 15-1 score going into the 11th frame, but again the Patches said never die, and by capturing the two final frames with a five and a six end, put a scare into their opponents by making a 15-1 game into a 15-12 one. While No. 13 lost this game also they did not give up until the game was over.

The games between Lawn Boys No. 2 and Legion No. 3, which were played but no results turned in, saw two wins for No. 3 over No. 2 by scores of 18-7 and 17-4. In both games No. 3 scored a great big six end.

Legion No. 7 vs. Legion No. 1 game has not been reported; if it was not played it must be played this week.

Standing to November 21:

Biography of a Pontiac

A General Motors Value

The Story that Proves...

Illustrated—Laurentian 4-Door Sedan

Pontiac Economy...Dependability
Mile after Mile, Year after Year

Yes, Pontiac gives you more carefree miles of driving at lower cost than any other comparable automobile. Mile after mile, year after year it keeps telling a story of singing power, forthright dependability, lavish driver comfort, and extreme ease of operation.

In city traffic, or on the highway, it handles like a thoroughbred—quick to respond to your lightest touch on the accelerator or the slightest turn of the wheel. In fact, you must drive a Pontiac yourself to realize this famous car's amazing performance.

Take, for instance, Pontiac's feel of the road. It gives an exultant confidence on tight corners, heavy roads, or winter weather. Power Steering (optional at extra cost) adds an even greater knowledge of complete control security.

The Standard or optional Automatic Transmissions actually push you back in your seat during smooth but whip-quick get-aways, or when you need instant passing speed.

As for fuel economy, Pontiac is a wonder! You'll notice right away that a tank of gas lasts an exceptionally long time.

But fuel economy is just one chapter of Pontiac's life story. Through technological advances and pride of craftsmanship, Pontiac engineers build an unusual dependability into every one of the 29 models. You'll drive for miles and years longer with surprisingly few service bills to pay.

Either the Standard Pontiac Six or Straight Eight Engine delivers surging and efficient power—instantly when needed for fast pick-up, and unceasingly smooth for economical cruising.

But let Pontiac tell its own story of economy and dependability! Drive a Pontiac yourself today. Your Pontiac dealer will be pleased to arrange a demonstration drive for you.

Woman On Parole Board Said Below Dignity Of Whole System

TORONTO (CP) — Dr. Robert Good of Ottawa, a member of Ontario's parole board, said Monday that having a woman on the board is "below the dignity of the whole system of parole."

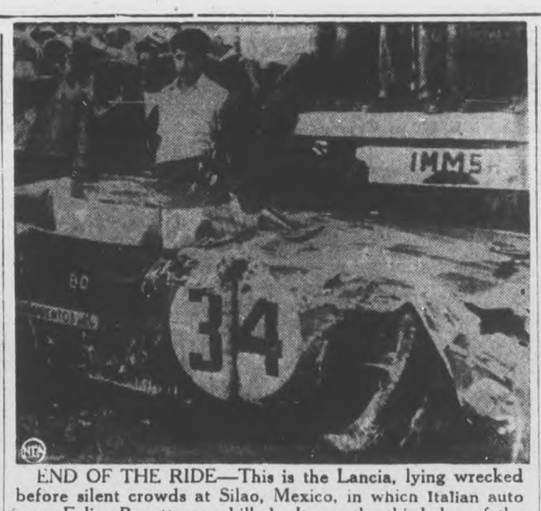
"I know I am sticking my neck out but the parole board is no place for a woman," Dr. Good said at a meeting of the board with the legislature's select committee on reform institutions and with the only woman of the board, Mrs. G. Coulter, present. Other board members disagreed.

Mrs. Coulter, appointed to the board 18 months ago, said she didn't think there is any reluctance on the part of prisoners to talk because of her presence. She said she left when sex cases were being discussed.

Mrs. Coulter said Dr. Good's views "will never make any impression on me."

Dr. Good praised Mrs. Coulter for her contribution to the board "but I wouldn't want my own wife to hear what Mrs. Coulter has heard from some prisoners."

Urge Franchise For Ont. Indians



TORONTO (CP) — The legislature's select committee on Indian affairs recommended Monday that Indians be allowed to vote in Ontario elections.

The recommendations will likely be sent to the select committee on the Election Act and to the legislature for action at the session scheduled to open in February.

The Indian population would add 23,000 names to the voters' lists.

The Indian Act excludes Indians from voting unless they sign away their exemption from taxation for income earned on the reserve.

Should Ontario Indians be granted the provincial vote none of their rights under treaties or federal statutes will be affected.

Potato Glut May Effect 1954 Sales

By HAROLD MORRISON

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's potato growers may find selling a little tougher next year with heavy supplies developing both in Canada and the United States, a committee of federal experts said today.

Thus, potato prices, which currently have dropped from 1951 and 1952 levels, likely will continue to remain low in 1954, the committee said.

Continuing its report to the annual federal-provincial agricultural conference, the committee forecast:

1. Canada's supply of fruits, particularly apples and grapes, likely will be more plentiful next year.

2. The marketing outlook appears "relatively good" for most garden crops except potatoes.

3. An "average" honey crop may be expected in 1954, but the maple syrup crop may be down.

4. Production of edible vegetable oils has reached an all-time high but Canada requires more than she produces. Consumption for shortening and margarine reached 147,000,000 pounds in the 1952-53 crop year, 105,000,000 pounds more than Canada produced.

5. Supply of cereal, flax, corn, bean, pea and soybean seeds likely will be sufficient for all domestic needs.

NEW HEADACHE

The farm conference faced new headaches today, following Monday's reports that farm production may increase next year while prices drop.

National and provincial spokesmen for Canadian agriculture Monday proposed a cut in grain production to remove the threat of another grain glut. Roy Marler, president of the Alberta Federation of Agriculture, suggested output be trimmed by 30 per cent with the extra acreage seeded to grass and legumes.

Federal experts today reported Canadian flaxseed acreage likely will be further reduced next year. Flaxseed prices had dropped to $2.57 a bushel from $3.54 last year and the outlook for price improvement was "considerably darkened" by United States action.

The U.S. Commodity Credit Corporation had exported 44,800,000 pounds of linseed oil last month at 8½ cents a pound, at a time when the U.S. domestic price was about 16 cents and the Canadian price about 12 cents.

The experts predicted, however, that soybean acreage will expand in 1954. Canadian soybean processors expect that in 10 years, Ontario production may reach 20,000,000 bushels, roughly four times current output.

And though tobacco exports may decline next year, the slack likely will be taken up by heavier domestic requirements.

Going Wrong Way Man Jailed 14 Days

LINDSAY (ENS)—A Lindsay man who was going the wrong way, according to his explanation, to arrive at home, was sent to jail for 14 days when he was convicted of vagrancy in police court here monday. According to constable Ralph Fountain, of the Lindsay police, Elmer Brooks was looking in cars parked on the main St. when he was noticed by police on Saturday last. He then went to a park at the east end of the street and lay down to rest.

Brooks told the court he was on his way home but Crown Attorney Lorne Jordan pointed out the accused lived west of the town, and that he had only recently been convicted of theft from cars.

Peter Marin, Kirkfield, who said he was bothering a Laxton township woman because her husband owed him $14 from two years ago, was fined $30 and costs or 30 days, when he appeared in police court charged with intoxication and wilful damage.

Thomas' Bequests Assist Students

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—A $6,000 fund from the W. F. Thomas estate will enable 41 University of Western Ontario students to continue their education this year, Tom Hoskin, secretary of the student loans and bursaries committee, said Monday.

The fund has been increased by $2,500 this year, according to the terms of the grant, students from St. Thomas and Elgin county are given preference over other western Ontario students seeking awards.

The late W. F. Thomas, a resident of St. Thomas and one time chairman of the board of management of Alma College, St. Thomas, left several bequests to charity when he died.

Mr. Hoskin said 25 per cent of the students receiving the awards —ranging from $75 to $200—are from Eglin county.

Thieves Frightened Off

GUELPH (CP)—A safe containing Saturday's cash at a local groceteria came close to being cracked during the weekend. A routine check by police frightened the would-be thieves. Officers found that soap and putty had been packed around the safe door. Nitroglycerine had been poured in and a fuse had been set.

Inspectors Active

TORONTO (CP)—Fruit, vegetable and honey inspectors have recently been taking checking samples of honey from store shelves to see whether they were graded according to provincial and federal regulations. About 150 samples have been checked at the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph.

Liberal Federation Holds '53 Meet At Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP)—More than 150 women are here for the National Federation of Liberal Women annual meeting.

They were welcomed Monday by Duncan K. MacTavish, president of the National Liberal Federation, and heard addresses by State Secretary Pickersgill and Defence Minister Claxton.

The delegates went by bus to Kingsmere, estate of the late prime minister Mackenzie King in the Gatineau hills north of the capital. There Mrs. C. J. Embree of Halifax, federation president, presented several plaques to Dr. R. E. Valin of the federal district commission.

The plaques are to identify stones and rubble collected by Mr. King from bombed sections of the British House of Commons during the Second World War, from the Canadian Parliament buildings when they were damaged by fire in 1916 and from old buildings demolished to make room for public buildings in Ottawa.

P.M.'s WIFE ENTERTAINS

They then made a tour of the former Liberal prime minister's country home, returning to Ottawa later for tea with Mrs. St. Laurent, wife of the prime minister, at the St. Laurents' official residence.

Mrs. Ann Shipley, the only Liberal woman member of the Commons, representing Temiskaming, spoke to the delegates on the part of women in politics.

She urged any women interested in a political career to first serve an apprenticeship in public office on the municipal level. It was important to have an appeal for the electorate and to test the field before running for election.

Mrs. Shipley herself served as reeve of Ontario's Teck township before she entered the federal field.

The two-day meeting ends tonight with a dinner for both men and women at which Prime Minister St. Laurent will be the speaker.

Use Of Perfume Makes Office Pleasanter Place

Should perfume be used in the office? "Decidedly," says Amy Vanderbilt, famous authority on etiquette. "Light, crisp fragrances are in the best of taste in an office—of course, heavy, musky odors should be avoided during office hours, as should an over-abundance of scent. A gentle, fresh fragrance, however, is not only good manners but creates a delightful atmosphere around the wearer that makes the office a pleasanter place to work in."

That's how an etiquette authority feels about fragrance in the office. How do bosses feel about it? In a recent survey 90 per cent said they had no objection to perfume being worn in the office. Two per cent were in the "don't know" classification, and 56 per cent went so far as to say that women should wear perfume "in their place of employment". Only eight per cent actually objected, and that's a very small percentage indeed.

There are two rules to observe: be sure that your fragrance is crisp, fresh scent, rather than a sultry one. Secondly, don't use it in such abundance that is has an overpowering effect. Bosses are, by and large, reluctant to request an employee to go easy in respect to too much scent. The clever girl has the sense and taste to stay within bounds. Her breeding dictates the type and quantity of fragrance she uses as it does the way she dresses and the way she conducts herself.

Six kick boards have been presented to the Y swim department by the Red Cross Society, it was reported by health education chairman Mrs. C. G. Collins. These are used extensively in the handicap group and for beginner swimmers. She also announced the nurses' "open house," the closing exercise of their course, is to be on December 18.

Christmas parties are being planned for the gym and dancing classes on December 19 and 21, and for the swim groups on the 17 and 19. The clubs are planning special celebrations, with the Friday Night Supper Club holding its annual formal dance, The Holly Hop, on the 23rd, in the gym.

A regional young adult conference planning meeting in Toronto on November 28 and 29 will be attended by Miss Annie Williams and Miss Orra Henan. No representative to the teen age conference planning meeting on December 5 and 6, also in Toronto, has been announced.

A letter from former program secretary Miss Marion Foster telling of her arrival and reception in Surinam was read.

Silver Cross Has Trip Available To Holland

Final meeting of the Silver Cross Chapter of Peterborough in 1953 was held Monday evening at the YWCA. President Mrs. A. S. Williams in her opening remarks paid tribute to the work of the late Mrs. E. Patte in compiling the honor roll now in place in the memorial chapel at the Civic Hospital.

A trip by air from Montreal to Amsterdam for those wishing to visit Holland graves has been arranged for the month of May, 1954, and Mrs. Williams is in possession of full particulars.

Flower convener Mrs. J. Coons reported flowers were placed in the chapel during November by Mr. and Mrs. A. Fitzgerald, Mr. and Mrs. S. Couper, the St. David's Welsh Society and Mrs. Emory. After Armistice Day the Silver Cross wreath was also placed in the chapel.

It was suggested, and approved by members, that a memorial Easter service be held for Silver Cross wearers.

Corresponding secretary Mrs. Fitzgerald read a letter from the national president of Silver Cross describing her experiences when she attended the Gold Star Mothers' convention in Washington, U.S.A. Mrs. Ludlow wrote that she was taken to the White House and that she placed a four foot wreath at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier in the name of the Silver Cross.

A contribution was voted to the TB Association.

The nominating committee report was read and accepted and officers will be installed at the January meeting.

A doll dressed by Mrs. T. Nice and offered as a Christmas season draw prize, was drawn for at close of the meeting. Miss Lillian Eastwood, of the Y staff, selected the winning ticket and the doll goes to Mrs. Lawrence McQuade, of Omemee.

Dainty refreshments were served by social convener Mrs. Nice and assistants, and an exchange of Christmas gifts followed, so that the meeting closed in a very festive spirit.

Fancy Sweaters Take To Tubbing With Extra Care

Sweaters bedecked with rhinestones, metallic thread, beads and pearls are topping many of the most fashionable evening skirts this season.

Fragile as they may seem, these new tops will take to tubbing as well as your afternoon sweaters, if you just give them a little extra consideration.

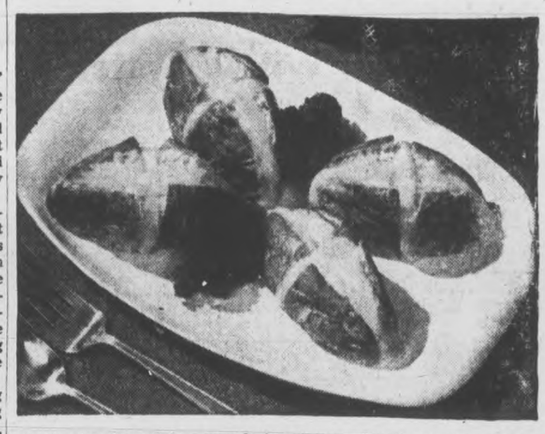
Before submerging a jeweled sweater, remove all detachable parts. If its a cardingan, button it to prevent stretching. If it has a wide neckline that is neither outlined with ribbon binding nor piping, run a basting thread along the edges to hold the shape.

FANCY FIRST

Squeeze the suds through the jeweled parts first, letting the rest of the sweater fall to the bottom of the basin. There will be no strain or stretch on the fibres if you suds the decorated parts just at the surface of the water. And if you take care not to allow heavy jeweling to rest against the fibres, you will have no snags.

The jeweled parts fully washed, lay them on the bottom while you squeeze the suds through the rest of the sweater.

WARM WATER



For woollen sweaters, use lukewarm water and rinses. Orlon will take medium hot water. After rinsing, roll the sweater in a towel to remove excess moisture. An orlon sweater needs no blocking; you need only spread it on a towel to dry.

However, if time is of the essence, put your orlon sweater on a regular woollen sweater frame and hang outdoors to dry. The frame will allow air to blow through the sweater, speeding evaporation.

TIGHTEN HINGES

Get a screw driver now and start tightening those loose door hinges. That's one way of keeping dirt from being blown into your home by the winter blasts.

Baked Potatoes And Cheese

Let's give the potato a new look on the menu. Potatoes are the most plentiful vegetable—but that's no reason to take them for granted!

Here's a treat for your table: baked potato bursting open with mealy goodness and a melted cheest topping. It's easy to fix too. Slices of cheese are inserted in crosswise slashes in the potato. A minute or two under the broiler and it's a dish that invites the touch of a fork!

For baking, you'll want big oval potatoes of uniform size. If you like to eat the skin, you'll want to rub the "spuds" with fat or oil before putting them into the oven.

Slash the baked potatoes lengthwise and crosswise and press the openings apart. Cut crosswise slices from the cheese food and cut these slices in half. Place a half-slice on the crosswise slash of potato and two half-slices on the lengthwise slash. Place the potatoes under moderate broiler heat until the cheese food melts.

Canada's Top Woman Rider Trained Horses Since 4

AYLMER, Que. (CP) — Blonde Shirley Thomas, at 18 Canada's top woman rider in jumping competition, has been training horses to do her bidding since soon after she could walk.

"And that's what counts," says the five-foot-four-inch girl, one of the star riders of four countries at the Royal Winter Fair last week. "You and your horses have to work together as a unit."

The rise to international recognition has been sudden for the girl from this Quebec town near Ottawa who until three months ago was little known as a horsewoman outside Ontario and her native province.

SPECIAL TRAINING

Early last summer she had been jumping four and five hours a day on her father's 52-acre estate near here. She coaxed her Palamino Princess Midas over jumps she had specially built in preparation for Canadian National Exhibition competition early in the fall.

There she was chosen first woman ever to ride on Canada's four-member international equestrian team.

When in New York with the team earlier this month, the 135-pound girl entered single competition and defeated 10 men and Pat Smythe, Britain's best equestrienne.

Her latest triumph came on a horse she had trained only six weeks. Riding her new grey White Sable at the Royal Winter Fair, she defeated riders of Britain, Ireland, and the United States, as well as her own teammates, to win the international individual event. Hers was the only foultless performance.

STARTED AT 4

Shirley got her first pony as a child of four. At 4½, she rode in her first show. At seven her father, Charles T. Thomas, formerly of Calgary and now owner of an Ottawa cosmetics firm, gave her a silver-trimmed saddle.

Nowadays Shirley and her mother ride side by side on the estate in daily workouts. In their home are scores of trophies Shirley has won.

Riding and other interests keep her too busy to be much concerned with boy friends, she says. She completed a general high school course at Elmwood Ladies' College near her home last June and hopes this fall to become a licensed air pilot. She has already chalked up 52 hours of flying at Ottawa airport.

NO OLYMPICS

Shirley plans to ride in other North American shows, but she's not raising her sights to the Olympics.

"It's too strenuous for women," she says. "It's a three-day event, 30 miles through the most rugged country imaginable, and both horse and rider must be in absolutely perfect shape.

"To get in trim a rider should train his horse for six months. To get his own wind in shape he should run two miles a day.

"Frankly, I wouldn't enter the big Olympic event even if women had permission."

To save space in your weekend case, use plastic envelopes for hose, handkerchiefs and scarves, instead of tissue paper between layers of outer clothes.

Tuesday is not one of my regular days for answering your letters but I'm snowed under.

QUESTION: . . . years ago I used to pickle mushrooms but can find no recipe now . . . I pickled a few mushrooms, but altho' not bad tasting they just were not spicy or tangy enough . . . Mrs. F. E. Dearborn, Mich.

ANSWER: Another country heard from. Welcome to our fold.

PICKLED MUSHROOMS

Buy 2 lbs. button-size mushrooms and wash and scrub them thoroughly under running cold water. If washed well these do not require scraping or trimming, however they should be not more than 1-day-old. Drain. Sprinkle with 1 tablespoon salt in an enamel pan and let stand over very low heat, to draw out some of the liquid. Shake the pan occasionally,—about 15 minutes in all. They really should not cook. To 1 quart vinegar add 1 oz. bruised whole ginger, ½ oz. peppercorns, 3 blades mace. Bring this to boil. Add the mushrooms and the liquor in pan, bring to boil and simmer 10 minutes. Pour into sterile jars and seal. These will keep for 2 weeks in the refrigerator even if they are unsealed.

QUESTION: . . . get a great deal of benefit from your recipes and advice. I would like a large "Ice Box Cookie" recipe. A basic one which I can change with different nuts and fruits. I want it for making up and freezing to give to my friends at Xmas for their deep freezers, for a small gift. Also a good large shortbread cookie for presents. Here are a few questions: 1) Why is it that if I enlarge an ice box recipe they always seem to be either too much flour or too much shortening? 2) I use margarine—should I use less? 3) Could I use a mixture of margarine and lard to cut down the cost? 4) What about eggs. Should I put in more or less when increasing a recipe? 5) Should I use more or less sugar when I enlarge from brown to white? Mrs. Alice W.

ANSWER: If you follow exactly instructions in the following recipe it will answer all of you questions. Do not try to change anything—this is a carefully thought out recipe, which has been tested several times.

SIX-IN-ONE COOKIES

(suitable for freezing)

One cup butter or margarine, ½ cup brown sugar, ½ cup white sugar, 1 beaten egg, ½ teaspoon vanilla, 2 cups stirred but not sifted all-purpose flour, ½ teaspoon soda, ¼ teaspoon salt, ½ square bitter chocolate melted, ¼ cup each shredded cocoanut, chopped raisins, chopped pecans, ½ teaspoon cinnamon, ¼ teaspoon nutmeg. Cream butter. Gradually cream sugars into it. Continue creaming until mixture is light and fluffy. Add egg and vanilla. Sift flour, soda and salt together and gradually add to mixture. Beat well after each addition. Divide dough into six equal parts. To one portion add chocolate; to another cocoanut; to another raisins; to another pecans, to the fifth cinnamon and nutmeg, and to the last one nothing. Shape each portion into a roll 1¾ inches in diameter. Wrap and chill. If to be frozen, freeze, and these will store satisfactorily for 6 months. TO BAKE: Remove from refrigerator or freezer. Slice frozen or hard dough ⅛ inch thick. Bake on ungreased cookie sheets at 375 deg. Fahr. for 10 or 12 minutes.

SCOTCH SHORTBREAD

Two cups butter or margarine, 1 cup unsifted icing sugar, 4 cups sifted all-purpose flour, ½ teaspoon baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt. Cream the butter until light and fluffy and gradually add the sugar while creaming. Sift dry ingredients together and stir them in until smooth. Chill dough. Roll out one-third of it at a time on lightly floured board to ¼-inch thickness (or thicker if you wish). Cut in desired shapes and bake on ungreased cookie sheets at 325 deg. Fahr. until they change to a deeper biscuit shade but do not become gold at all—about 20 minutes, or until crisp enough to be lifted from pan with spatula.

DOROTHY DIX

Man Resents His Wife Visiting Her Parents

DEAR MISS DIX: For 25 years my husband and I have raised a good-sized family. Now the children are married or about to marry and leave home. One son-in-law has made it very evident that he wants no part of us—except of course, when he needs money or wants to use the car. He resents my daughter visiting us, and heaven forbid that we should ever visit them uninvited.

This situation has made me conscious of parent's position in the lives of young couples. In current periodicals, both fiction and editorial matter stress the importance of Mom and Dad moving into the background and staying there. If children do wrong, parents are to blame; if a marriage fails, it's because of interfering in-laws. Parents are told to give or lend their children money to establish a home but must never, never give advice. What are we supposed to do?

Marion K.

CHANGED TIMES' RESULT

ANSWER: Your thesis certainly could be answered at great length, and I wish I had the space to do so. However, I do agree that your gripes are thoroughly justified. The parent-child relationship is definitely changing, and the fault is not with either side; our civilization is undergoing constant change—some of it advancement, and some of it almost retrogressive. Yet it has changed and the home is affected chiefly. Today's parent needs to be a chameleon to keep up with all the changing roles he must fill. The whole picture, however, is far from dark. There is still some force to emphasize the closeness of family relationship and some literature to reaffirm parental authority and dignity. You'll find some of it in your church and then there is the Bible (still the best seller of them all) and your prayer book. Hold firmly to these sources to regain faith and courage.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: My sister-in-law has developed a habit of bringing up all my faults and mistakes. She does this in company, and her tactics are so smooth it's difficult to pin her down to particulars. Up to a short time ago, we always got along well. I'm in the menopause and having a difficult time, anyway.

ERNA

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Why not reciprocate in kind? Surely you can think up some foolish things she's done, and pass them along in the course of conversation, just as she does. You are making entirely too much of something fairly unimportant. Your sister-in-law sees she is making you uncomfortable, and is just mean enough to enjoy it. Your fundamental difficulty, of course, is your physical condition. I hope you are receiving medical attention.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: My sister died two years ago. My brother-in-law is remarrying and he would like my brother and myself to stand up with them. Also, of course, he wants our family at the wedding. What do you think of the arrangement?

ELLEN E.

ANSWER: If the bride is willing, it's a very nice arrangement. Since a deep friendship apparently sprang up between your family and your in-laws, it should be encouraged.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am in love with Tom, who doesn't love me. Since we are part of the same school group, avoiding him would mean breaking up most of my friendships, yet for my own good I feel I should see less of him.

GRACE V.

ANSWER: It would be foolish to give up a whole group of friends for the sake of avoiding one. Practice will enable you to remain with the crowd and pay less attention to Tom.

Havelock W.A. Bazaar Successful Event

HAVELOCK (ENS)—The annual bazaar under the auspices of the Woman's Auxiliary of the church of St. John the Evangelist was held Saturday in the parish hall and, despite the inclement weather, was a success.

The room was decorated in keeping with the Christmas season. The windows presented a setting of evergreen branches, shrubs with red berries and poinsettia. The tables where tea was served were centred with small pots containing evergreen sprigs bearing small cones, sprigs with red berries and silver.

The president, Mrs. H. W. Roche received the guests at the door. Tea was served by Mrs. William Woodbeck, assisted by Mrs. Donald Kirk, Mrs. George Pollock, Mrs. Lawrence Sanderson and Miss Beverley Carleton. The arranging of the plates was looked after by Mrs. George Wright and Mrs. W. E. Anderson, assisted by Mrs. Sanford Peters and Mrs. Walter Varty. Tea was made by Mrs. Frank Watson.

The bake table, at which Mrs. W. M. Campbell, Mrs. R. Jones and Mrs. George Walker presided, and the fancy work table, in charge of Mrs. George Wiggins, Mrs. Thomas Cummins and Mrs. John Seabrook, were well laden and both were well patronized.

The white elephant table and fish pond were managed by the Girls' Auxiliary under the guidance of their leader, Mrs. L. Hannel Cooke.

Among those who attended were the Rev. H. E. Peasgood, a former rector and now at St. Alban's church, Peterborough, accompanied by Mrs. Peasgood. Also from Peterborough were Mr. and Mrs. McCarthy and Mr. and Mrs. E. J. McDonald. Mr. and Mrs. McDonald is now in charge of the Belmont-Norwood parish and is a lay reader of St. Luke's church, Peterborough.

by the saving in cost of the fill required to build up the road bed to the height necessary for even a 22-foot bridge. I believe this same consideration prompted the use of a swing bridge in the Chemong Causeway. May I take this opportunity to point out that this swing bridge serves a relatively few yachtsmen, since Chemong lake is not on the through route to Georgian Bay.

Mr. Jakins suggested that the high-level bridge be replaced by a swing-span while the project is "still in the blueprint stage."

"May we and future generations of yachtsmen sail freely and untrammelled, on what is left to us of these beautiful lakes, rather than have to make a stop, costly in time and temper, and assess that discomfort to a county council who weighed stark utility against the aesthetic and found the latter wanting."

Warden Leeson replied in less colorful prose:

"This matter was fully discussed by the council during their session in March of 1953, and publicized at that time in the Examiner rather extensively. The height of the bridge was originally suggested by the department of transport to be 22 feet, and this bridge will be 23 feet above the controlled summer water level.

"The county advertised this proposed structure under the Navigable Waters Protection Act in the Examiner, the Canada Gazette, and the Review during.... May and June. The final order was not signed..... until September 17, 1953. The warden feels that the public was given ample time to register any objections they might have during that time, and this is why these publications were made in the newspapers."

"I felt that it was now past the blueprint stage," Warden Leeson explained to county council today.

Another member remarked that some boats have collapsible masts.

With no further discussion, council passed on to the next item of business.

tunity to state their opposition. They have done so ably. Ald Miller and Ald. Black seem to be going back on what they intended. I feel we're taking a retrograde step."

"I feel certain that if this matter is brought to council again, we won't let Imperial Oil buy it before Mark St.," Ald Black said.

"We have to be fair to the people who brought this proposition before council in the first place," Ald. Rehill said. "Imperial Oil have undoubtedly gone to some trouble. As for the remarks about offering someone a gold mine, Mark St. have said they are prepared to pay a fair price and I think there will be only two purchasers."

In answer to a question as to whether the city could withold a service station licence, Ald. Rehill said he had found, as a member of the planning board, that it was impossible to restrict the number of commercial establishments. Moreover, the site was in a commercial zone and the planning board had included service stations in commercial zones.

Ald. A. B. Burrows contended the congregation would have bought the property long ago if they had been able to afford it. "It is because of a change in their fortunes and possibly their personnel that they are now ready to go ahead and discuss it," he said.

With Ald. Beggs dissenting, council endorsed Ald. Farquharson's proposal to inform the Imperial Oil Co. and the owner of the property of their decision to hold the matter over until Monday.

"Maybe by the time they come to the meeting the whole thing will be settled," he suggested.

the collegiate he should be getting.

Maurice Tolton, of the Mohan-Hunter dairy, said that since one of the units had been getting business from the collegiate, he had noticed his business with pupils picked up during bad weather but fell off on good days.

HAS NO FIGURES

In reply to a question from Ald. A. B. Burrows, Mr. Fanjoy admitted he did not have figures to show the losses suffered by restaurant and lunch counter proprietors as a result of operation of the units but he had talked to the proprietors and some lost more than others.

Ald. Syd Black said council had granted a licence to only one rolling lunch and it had been understood only potato chips had been sold. Mr. Fanjoy claimed a variety of refreshments was sold, including ice cream and cigarettes.

Ald. T. D. Miller asked if the petitioners were opposed to the size of the licence fee or if they definitely opposed the type of business carried on by the mobile units.

"The interests I represent are definitely opposed to letting these units operate on the streets," Mr. Fanjoy stated. "There are possible compromise solutions such as letting them operate on private lots."

"I guess I'm the one they're chiefly complaining about," said Percy J. Harrison, emerging from the rear of the crowded chamber. "I was advised that Mr. Tolton of the Mohan-Hunter Dairy and Mr. Coros of the Churchill restaurant were circulating a petition to have my licence suspended."

Mr. Harrison said the majority of the restaurant and lunch counter proprietors had known he applied for his licence in December, 1952, and it was issued in March, 1953, which gave them lots of time to oppose it. If he had anticipated the opposition, he would not have invested $7,200 in his equipment. His unit was kept "spotlessly clean" and there was "no unit on the continent better equipped."

INCREASED CRITICISM

Criticism had become very apparent in the past few months, he said, and "two or three operators have been out to get me." He was not permitted to park on George or Charlotte Sts. and only on other streets after 6.00 p.m.

But if he were forbidden to operate during the day he would not be able to earn his living, he claimed. During the summer he had been asked to operate in Inverlea park, where he had rendered first aid to swimmers. He had visited Nicholls Oval until a service club had opened a refreshment booth there and he had discontinued going there on weekdays. Students and teachers alike had told him they appreciated the service he gave to the collegiate.

Mr. Harrison denied having hurt the business of the Mohan-Hunter dairy, which dealt in commodities he did not stock. He claimed "the aroma of the frying chips attracted customers who would not otherwise buy and created sales which would not otherwise exist."

Mr. Harrison submitted a petition signed by restaurant operators and other business men as well as a typed list of others who supported him.

"I have been serving food for 37 years," Mr. Harrison concluded. "On the other hand you have a couple of business men coming new to town and trying to oppose me."

Ald. T. D. Miller pointed out that there was no cafeteria in the collegiate and his information was that Mr. Harrison's business was a real service to the school as well as the pupils.

QUESTION NOT ANSWERED

Mayor Hugh Waddell's question as to how many snack bars and restaurants there were in the city never was answered but Mr. Harrison divulged that he served hot dogs at ball games and potato chips, doughnuts and pop at other times.

Russel Semple, representing Foster's restaurant, managed to combine an enthusiastic sales pitch with his support of Mr. Harrison's case, saying "if he came and put an outlet opposite us, we would be the last to object.

"We feel if you have a good business, people will come to it," he said. "We feel we should stand behind him . . . We'd be only too glad to have some relief during peak hours so we could seat more customers who would order full-course meals . . . We're happy he's keeping the pupils away from us.

"Stand upon your rights as businessmen and gentlemen and stand behind the bylaw you have passed," he urged the city fatners.

"I feel this last gentleman has been seriously misinformed," Mr. Tolton countered. "I refused to get into this controversy in a personal way. That's why we have Mr. Fanjoy representing us.

"I went to see Dave Foster to have him sign our petition and he told me one of these mobile unit operators was a veteran of the First World War. I said I wouldn't petition against a war veteran but I checked with the Canadian Legion and was told he wasn't a veteran."

Council passed Ald. Black's motion to refer the matter back to next Monday's meeting of council in committee on the grounds that "this would no doubt be a long, drawn-out discussion."

THE WAR MEMOIRS OF WINSTON CHURCHILL

THE END OF THE COALITION—A FATEFUL DECISION

I had committed myself in the previous autumn (1944) to an election at the end of the German War. Looking back, it would have been prudent to claim more latitude than I did. This could easily have been obtained. I had not done so, and from the moment of the German surrender the public mind turned swiftly from national rejoicing to party strife. The choice lay between June and October.

I earnestly desired that the national comradeship and unity should be preserved till the Japanese war ended. This might well have required a year, or even eighteen months, more of Coalition. Was this too much to ask of a nation we had not served ill? It certainly seemed to be in accord with the national interest. But only a friendly agreement between the two parties would render it possible.

If there must be an election in 1945, the sooner it came the better.

No one could tell what the result would be. The Conservative organisation was far less prepared than that of Labour. On the other hand, many had confidence that the nation would be likely to take the helm out of my hands. On both sides opinion about the result was divided, and contradictory guesswork reigned. I was myself deeply distressed at the prospect of sinking from a national to a party leader. Naturally I hoped that power would be accorded to me to try to make the settlement in Europe, to end the Japanese war, and to bring the soldiers home. This was not because it seemed less pleasant to live a private life than to conduct great affairs. At this time I was very tired and physically so feeble that I had to be carried upstairs in a chair by the Marines from the Cabinet meetings under the Annexe. Still, I had the world position as a whole in my mind, and I deemed myself to possess knowledge, influence, and even authority, which might be of service. I therefore saw it as my duty to try, and at the same time as my right. I could not believe this would be denied me.

Mr. Attlee had now returned from America, and he came to see me at Downing Street. I had a long talk with him, in which I urged most strongly that in one way or anoher we should postpone an election, not merely till October, but in some way or other till the end of the Japanese war. He too was not looking at the issue from a narrow party point of view, and listened with much apparent sympathy to the appeal which I made. I certainly had the impression when he left that he would do his best to keep us together, and so reported to my colleagues. However, the tide of party feeling proved too strong.

✧ ✧ ✧

No satisfactory news arriving, I sent (a) letter to Mr. Attlee.

To this letter Mr. Attlee replied rejecting my proposal for the continuation of the Coalition.

✧ ✧ ✧

On May 23, being confronted by a definite breach between the parties, I tendered my resignation to the King. This is almost the only constitutional privilege which a British Prime Minister possesses. But since it involves the end of the Government it is a fairly solid foundation of power. His Majesty, whom I had of course kept fully informed of all that had passed, was graciously pleased to accept my resignation, and asked me if I could form another Government. As the Conservatives still possessed a majority in the House of Commons of one hundred over all parties combined, I undertook this task, and proceeded to form what I regarded as a National Administration, but which was in fact called "the Caretaker Government."

On June 15 Parliament was dissolved. Ten days were to elapse before the nominations of candidates, and ten more before polling day, July 5.

Owing to the fact that the soldiers' votes must come home to be counted, a further twenty-one days had to elapse between the polling in the United Kingdom and the counting of votes and declaration of results. This final act was fixed for July 26. In several Continental countries, when it is known that the ballot-boxes would be in charge of the British Government for three weeks, astonishment was expressed that there could be any doubt about the result. However, in our country these matters are treated exactly as if they were a cricket match, or other sporting event. Long may it so continue.

✧ ✧ ✧

On June 1 President Truman told me that Marshal Stalin was agreeable to a meeting of what he called "the Three" in Berlin about July 15. I replied at once that I would gladly go to Berlin with a British delegation, but I thought that July 15, which Truman had suggested, was much too late for the urgent questions demanding attention between us, and that we should do an injury to world hopes and unity if we allowed personal or national requirements to stand in the way of an earlier meeting. "Although," I cabled. "I am in the midst of a hotly contested election I would not consider my tasks here as comparable to a meeting between the three of us. If June 15 is not possible why not July 1, 2, or 3?" Mr. Truman replied that after full consideration July 15 was the earliest for him, and that arrangements were being made accordingly. Stalin did not wish to hasten the date.

I c ould not press the matter further.

Prime Minister to President Truman.

9 June 45

While I have agreed in principle to our triple meeting in Berlin on July 15, I hope you will agree with me that the British, American, and Russian delegations shall have entirely separate quarters assigned to them and have their own guards, and that there shall be a fourth place prepared in which we meet to confer. I could not accept, as at Yalta, the principle that we go to Berlin, over which it is agreed we are to have triple, or, with the French, quadruple parity, merely as guests of the Soviet Government and armies. We should provide everything for ourselves and be able to meet on equal terms. I should like to know how you stand about this.

Stalin agreed that the delegations should be housed as I proposed. Each would have its own closed territory, under a regime regulated at the discretion of its head. The palace of the German Crown Prince in Postdam would be used for the joint sessions. There was a good airfield hard by.

I have already mentioned how strongly I felt that every head of Government in periods of crisis should have a deputy who knows everything and can thus preserve continuity should accidents occur. During the wartime Parliament, with its large Conservative majority, I had always looked upon Mr. Eden as my successor, and had, when invited, so advised the King. But now a new Parliament had been elected and the results were as yet unknown. I therefore felt it right to invite the Leader of the Opposition, Mr. Attlee, to attend the Conference at Potsdam, so that there should be no break in his knowledge of affairs.

Mr. Attlee accepted the invitation.

The main reason why I had been anxious to hasten the date of the meeting was of course the impending retirement of the American Army from the line which it had gained in the fighting to the zone prescribed in the occupation agreement. I feared that any day a decision might be taken in Washington to yield up this enormous area—400 miles long and 120 at its greatest depth. It contained many millions of Germans and Czechs. Its abandonment would place a broader gulf of territory between us and Poland, and practically end our power to influence her fate. The changed demeanour of Russia towards us, the constant breaches of the understandings reached at Yalta, the dart for Denmark, happily frustrated by Montgomery's action, the enroachments in Austria, Marshal Tito's menacing pressure at Trieste, all seemed to me and my advisors to create an entirely different situation from that in which the zones of occupation had been prescribed two years earlier. Surely all these issues should be considered as a whole, and now was the time. Now, while the British and American Armies and Air Forces were still a mighty armed power, and before they melted away under demobilisation and the heavy claims of the Japanese war-now, at the very latest, was the time for a general settlement.

A month earlier would have been better. But it was not yet too late. On the other hand, to give up the whole centre and heart of Germany—nay, the centre and key-stone of Europe—as an isolated act seemed to me to be a grave and improvident decision. If it were done at all it could only be as part of a general and lasting settlement. We should go to Postdam with nothing to bargain with, and all the prospects of the future peace of Europe might well go by default.

How stands the scene after eight years have passed? The Russian occupation line in Europe runs from Lubeck to Linz. Czecholovakia has been engulfed. The Baltic States, Poland, Roumania, and Bulgaria have been reduced to satellite States under totalitarian Communist rule. Austria is denied all settlement. Yugoslavia has broken loose. Greece alone is saved. Our armies are gone, and it will be a long time before even sixty divisions can be once again assembled opposite Russian forces, which in armour and manpower are in overwhelming strength. This also takes no account of all that has happened in the Far East. Only the atomic bomb stretches its sinister shield before us. The danger of a third World War, under conditions at the outset of grave disadvantage except in this new terrible weapon, cast its lured shadow over the free nations of the world. This in the moment of victory was our best, and what might prove to have been our last, chance of durable world peace allowed composedly to fade away. On June 4 I cabled to the President these words, which few would now dispute:

PRIME MINISTER TO PRESIDENT TRUMAN

4 June 45

I am sure you understnad the reasno why I am anxious for an earlier date, say the 3rd or 4th (of July.) I view iwth profound misgivings retreat of the American Army to uor line of occupation in the central sector, thus bringing Soviet power into the heart of Western Europe and the rescent of an iron curtain between us and everything to the eastward. I hoped that this retreat, if it has to be made, would be accompanied by the settlement of many great things which would be the tdue foundation of world peace. Nothing really important has been settled yet, and you ad I will have ot bear great responsibility for the future. I still hope thereIfore that the date will be advanced.

I reinforced this argument by referring to the high-handed behaviour of the Russians in Vienna.

PRIME MINISTER TO PRESIDENT TRUMAN

9 June 45

Our missions to Vienna have been ordered by Marshal Tolbukin to leave by 10th or 11th June—Here is the capital of Austria, which by agreement is to be divided, like the country itself, into four zones; but no one has any power except the Russians, and not even ordinary diplomatic rights are allowed. If we give way in this matter we must regard Austria as in the Sovietised half of Europe.

On the other hand, the Russians demand the withdrawal of the American and British forces in Germany to the occupation line, fixed so long ago in circumstances so different, and Berlin of course is so far completely Sovietised.

Would it not be better to refuse to withdraw on the main European front until a settlement has been reached about Austria? Surely at the very least the whole agreement about zones should be carried out at the same time?

On June 12 the President replied to my message of June 4.

He said that the tripartite agreement about the occupation of Germany, approved by President Roosevelt after "long consideration and detailed discussion" with me made it impossible to delay the withdrawal of American troops from the Soviet Zone in order to press the settlement of other problems. The Allied Control Council could not begin to function until they left, and the Military Government exercised by the Allied Supreme Commander should be terminated without delay and divided between Eisenhower and Montgomery. He had been advised, he said, that it would harm our relations with the Soviet to postpone action until our meeting in July, and he accordingly proposed sending a message to Stalin.

This document suggested that we should at once instruct our armies to occupy their respective zones. As for Germany, he was ready to order all American troops to begin withdrawing on June 21. The military commanders should arrange for the simultaneous occupation of Berlin and for free access thereto by road, rail and air from Frankfurt and Berlin for the United States forces. In Austria arrangements could be completed more quickly and satisfactorily by making the local commanders responsible for defining the zones both there and in Vienna, only referring to their Governments such matters as they were unable to resolve themselves.

This struck a knell in my breast. But I had no choice but to submit.

PRIME MINSTER TO PRESIDENT TRUMAN

14 June 45

Obviously we are obliged to conform to your decision, and the necessary instructions will be issued.

It is not correct to state that the tripartite agreement about zones of occupation in Germany were the subject of "long consideration and detailed discussion" between me and President Roosevelt. References made to them at Quebec were brief, and concerned only the Anglo-American arrangements which the President did not wish to raise by correspondence beforehand. These were remitted to the Combined Chiefs of Staff, and were certainly acceptable to them.

As to Austria, I do not think we can make the commanders on the spot responsible for settling the outstanding questions. Marshal Stalin made it quite plain in his message of May 18 that agreement on the occupation and control of Austria must be settled by the European Advisory Commission. I do not believe that he would agree to change, and in any case our missions may already have left Vienna. I suggest for your consideration the following redraft of the penultimate paragraph of your message to Marshal Stalin:

"I consider the settlement of the Austrian problem is of equal urgency to the German matter. The redistribution of forces into occupation zones which have been agreed in principle by the European Advisory Commission, the movement of the national garrisons into Vienna, and the establishment of the Allied Commission for Austria should take place simultaneously with these developments in Germany. I therefore attach the utmost importance to settling the outstanding Austrian problems, in order that the whole arrangement of German and Austrian affairs can be put into operation simultaneously. I hope that the recent visit of American, British, and French missions to Vienna will result in the European Advisory Commission being able to take the necessary remaininng decisions to this end without delay." . . .

The President accepted textually my suggested paragraph about Austria. There was nothing more that I could do. I replied, "I am grateful to you for meeting our views about Austria. As I have already told you, we are conforming to your wishes, and I have so informed Stalin."

It must not be overlooked that President Truman had not been concerned or consulted in the origial fixing of the zones. The case as presented to him so soon after his accession to power was whether or not to depart from and in a sense repudiate the policy of the American and British Governments agreed under his illustrious predecessor. He was, I have no doubt, supported in his action by his advisers, military and civil. His responsibility at this point was limited to deciding whether circumstances had changed so fundamentally that an entirely different procedure should be adopted, with the likelihood of having to face accusations of breach of faith. Those who are only wise after the event should hold their peace.

Stalin's reply to me completed matters.

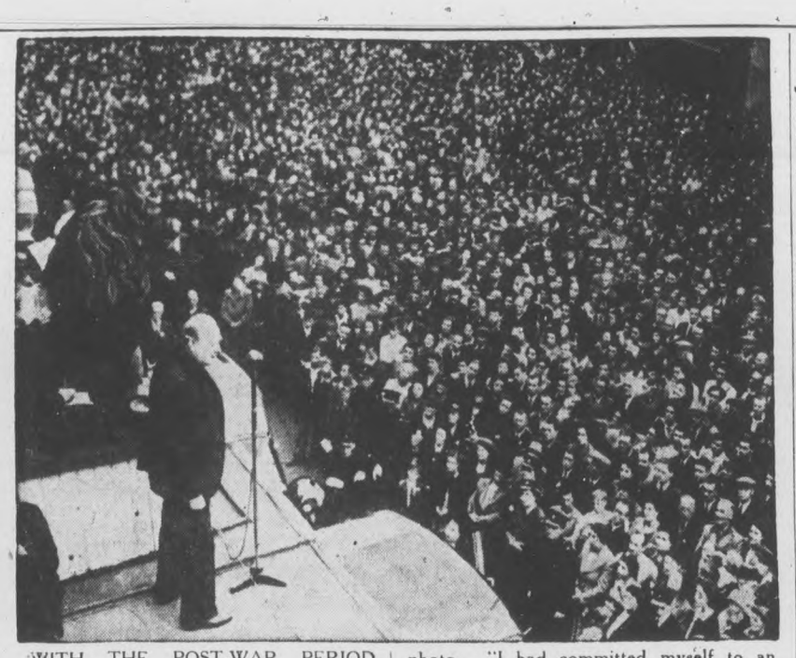
MARSHAL STALIN TO PRIME MINISTER

17 June 45

I have received your message concerning the withdrawal of the Allied troops to their respective zones in Germany and Austria.

I regret to have to tell you that there are difficulties in the way of beginning the withdrawal of the British and American troops to their zones and of introducing British and American troops into Berlin on June 21, in that from June 19 onwards Marshal Zhukov and all our other commanders in the field have been invited to Moscow for the session of the Supreme Soviet, and also to organise and participate in a parade on June 24. They will be able to return to Berlin by June 28-30. . . .

With regard to Austria, I have to repeat what I have already told you about the summons of Soviet commanders to Moscow and the date of their return to Vienna. It is also necessary that in the very near future the European Adivsory Commission should complete its work on establishing the zones of occupation in Austria and Vienna, which is still outstanding.



In view of the facts presented above, I would propose to postpone the withdrawal and replacement by the appropriate forces in the respective zones until July 1, both in Germany and Austria. . . .

On July 1 the United States and British Armies began their withdrawal to their aliotted zones, followed by masses of refugees. Soviet Russia was established in the heart of Europe. This was a fateful milestone for mankind.

✧ ✧ ✧

I was resolved to have a week of sunshine to myself between the General Election and Conference. On July 7, two days after polling day, I flew to Bordeaux with Mrs. Churchill and Mary, and found myself agreeably installed at General Brutinel's villa near the Spanish frontier at Hendaye, with lovely bathing and beautiful surroundings. I spent most of the mornings in bed reading a very good account, by an excellent French writer, of the Bordeaux armistice and its tragic sequel at Oran. It was strange to revive my own memories of five years before and to learn of many things which I had not known at the time. In the afternoons I even sallied forth with my elaborate painting outfit, and found attractive subjects on the river Nive and the Bay of St. Jean de Luz. I found a gifted companion of the brush in Mrs. Nairn, the wife of the British Consul at Bordeaux, with whom I had made friends at Marrakesh a year before. I dealt only with a few telegrams about the impending Conference, and strove to put party politics out of my head. And yet I must confess the mystery of the ballot boxes and their contents had an ugly trick of knocking on the door and peering in at the windows. When the palette was spread and I had a paint-brush in my hand it was easy to drive these intruders away.

WITH THE POST-WAR PERIOD rapidly reaching a political climax, Churchill was faced with an appeal to the electorate, which he is shown launching in the above photo. "I had committed myself to an election . . . looking back, it would have been more prudent to give myself more latitude."

Truman's 'Blast' Draws Reply From McCarthy

By G. MILTON KELLY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate investigators today ponder FBI summaries of alleged Soviet espionage in the United States while, in an offshoot to the Harry Dexter White case, Senator Joseph McCarthy (Rep. Wis.) prepared a radio-TV reply to former president Truman's blast at "McCarthyism."

New fuel was added to the case, already smoking with political charges and counter - charges, when:

1. A Canadian member of Parliament rose in the House of Commons Monday to charge that "McCarthyites" in the U. S. are trying to "blackmail" Canada into releasing Igor Gouzenko for questioning.

GOT DATA

2. The Senate internal security sub-committee disclosed that the White House sought and got FBI data on Harold E. Glasser, an alleged Soviet spy, a month before Glasser's 1946 promotion in he treasury department.

The charge of blackmail came from David Croll, Liberal member of Parliament for Toronto-Spadina who said President E' enhower should repudiate what he described as attacks on External Affairs Minister Pearson.

Croll charged, as did the Toronto Star in an article Monday, that Pearson may be named by the Senate sub-committee as one of several Canadians accused of supplying information to Communists during the Second World War.

DENIES CHARGE

Robert Morris, sub - committee counsel, quickly said, " no such thing is contemplated." Pearson, who made a speech in New York Monday night, declined comment on the charge and did not refer speech.

McCarthy, meanwhile, declined to discuss what tack he will take in his speech from New York City tonight. But an aide said the Senator plans to devote at least part of his half-hour to talking about Glasser.

CP EXECUTIVE — John Tracy, 40, formerly chief of bureau at New York, has been appointed an executive assistant at the Toronto head office of The Canadian Press, the co-operative news - gathering agency. Born in Halifax, he joined the Halifax Herald staff in 1935 and joined CP's Halifax staff in 1937. He worked in Montreal and Toronto bureaux until he joined the navy in 1942. He returned to CP after the war and worked in Halifax and Montreal before going to New York in 1950.

Soldiers Take Church Training

IN KOREA (CP) — Located on a three-acre plateau overlooking the Imjin river and just north of the 38th parallel is a small Canadian camp officially designated "religious training area."

In the camp, only a short distance from where Canadians were involved in savage fighting, Canadian Army chaplains from 25th Infantry Brigade units are conducting the first six-week course of the inter-denominational church membership school. It is attended by 18 soldiers wishing to prepare themselves for membership in the church of their choice in their Canadian home towns.

Maj. Gordon Fraser of Saint John, N.B., senior protestant chaplain of the brigade, said 40 students will attend the second course starting next month and number of names on the waiting list for courses after that has topped 40.

Threaten Music Ban

KINGSTON (CP)—The Kingston local of the American Federation of Musicians Monday said it will blacklist Queen's University if college societies persist in holding dances to the music of records. The blacklisting would keep all union orchestras off the campus.

Norway Floods

OSLO (CP)—Floods in southern Norway caused heavy damage in the Kragero district, destroying six bridges and putting many farms under water.

Won't See Tax Cut In Their Lifetime

WINNIPEG (CP) — John M. Coyne of Ottawa, representing the taxation section of the Canadian Bar Association, told some 300 Canadian accountants, lawyers and business men Monday that not in their lifetime would they see the present rate of corporate income tax reduced to its pre-Korea level.

"It is an extremely lucrative tax and politically, if not economically, harmless," he said in an address to the tax conference of the Canadian Tax Foundation.

Russia Accused By Canada

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—Canada has accused Russia of denouncing Western disarmament proposals without making any positive offer of its own.

Postmaster-General Cote, outlining the Canadian position in the UN's 60-member political committee, said Monday that if Russia is sincerely interested in relaxing international tension and making progress toward disarmament then it must agree to discuss methods of assuring that any plan is actually carried out.

"It is not enough to denounce our proposals and say virtually nothing about their own, as Mr. Vishinsky (Chief Soviet delegate) did last Thursday."

Cote expressed hope that when the UN disarmament commission meets "attempts at genuine compromise will not be contemptuously brushed aside as they have been during our present debates."

Had No License Car Confiscated

LINDSAY — (ENS) — Albert Pierce, 22 of Coboconk, was fined $25 and costs on two charges, and car confiscated in police court in Lindsay on Monday, when he pleaded guilty to both charges.

Pierce was charged with driving while his licence was under suspension, and driving with an improper license on his car.

Provincial Constable John Williams, of Fenelon Falls told the court Pierce's license had been suspended last year for drunk driving. On November 17, he saw pierce driving in Fenelon Falls, and accosted the youth after he had parked his car.

Pierce, admitted driving the car, and also that the plates belonged to a Fenelon Falls man.

Magistrate E. A. Gee was reluctant to make the order seizing the automobile, but was told by the Crown Attorney Lorne Jordan that forfeiture of the car was mandatory in cases where the owners license was under suspension. The magistrate who had first suggested Pierce sell the car to pay his fine, then gave the youth two weeks to raise the necessary money.

Private Stations CBC Reach TV Agreement

OTTAWA (CP)—Private broadcasters and the CBC Monday announced the terms of an agreement defining their respective fields of action in obtaining television programs from outside Canada.

The agreement, made at a weekend meeting of representatives of the publicly-owned corporation and the 14 privately-owned television stations, provides that:

1. The CBC will make the arrangements with outside networks in obtaining for broadcast on Canadian television networks "all programs which were being carried currently" by the outside network.

2. Private broadcasters will deal individually with outside networks in obtaining filmed commercial programs. Such programs would not be carried on the CBC network without agreement of a majority of the 14 affiliate stations.

Accuses Meat Packers Manipulating Prices

OTTAWA (CP)—Mervyn Johnson (CCF—Kindersley) Monday accused large Canadian meat packing companies of manipulating the price of meat and forcing farmers out of the livestock business.

Mr. Johnson made the charge as he urged the government during the throne speech debate to establish a livestock marketing board to regulate the sale and grading of all livestock products. He criticized the government for not accepting a recommendation by the royal commission on price spreads in 1934 for establishment of such a board.

Mr. Johnson said livestock producers were entitled to the same protection received by wheat producers through the Canadian wheat board.

Britain Plans To Step Up Bid For Jet Airliner Orders

By FRASER WIGHTON

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain is planning to step up her bid for the world's airliner business next year by speeding production of her new jet and propeller-jet transports.

Twelve months from now her production of these revolutionary aircraft should be at the rate of about 150 annually.

It was in May, 1952, that the 500-mile-an-hour Comets first went into regular service. Since then, the Comets have been supplemented by the propeller-jet Viscounts flown by British European Airways and Air France.

SET NEW STANDARDS

Between them, the Comet and Viscount, only aircraft of their kind in regular service, have created new standards. But the pioneering flets have been small. The total of Comets, including those of Air France, Union Aeromaritime, British Overseas Airways Corporation and the RCAF, is only about 20 so far, and only about a quarter of the 80 Viscounts already ordered are in service.

The production picture next year will be better.

ORDER 30 HUGE CRAFT

A giant newcomer will make its debut, the 100-seater propeller-jet "Britannia," which will fly the Atlantic non-stop at a cruising speed of 360 miles an hoor. British Overseas Airways Corporation has ordered more than 30 of these leviathians, while with Comets will operate two globe-hircling services, one by a northern route and one by a southern. Delivery will begin late in 1954.

Soon Comets will be turned out on three production lines instead of one as now, and by the end of next year the new Series 2, faster than the original, will be rolling out at the rate of about 36 annually. Production of Viscounts will by then be about 100 a year from a factory which the Vickers-Armstrong Company has opened at Hurn, Dorset.
